R E P O R T.

THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

COURT for the Trial of an Election Petition for the Borough of Bridgwater, in the County of Somerset, between Henry Westropp, Esq., and Charles William Gray, Esq., Petitioners; and Alexander William Kinglake, Esq., and Philip Vanderbyl, Esq., Respondents.

To the Right Honourable the Speaker.

Bridgwater, 26 February 1869.

Sir,

I HEREBY certify, that at the trial of the above Election Petition, I determined that Alexander William Kinglake, Esquire, and Philip Vanderbyl, Esquire, were not duly elected, and that the election was void.

And in compliance with the directions of the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, s. 11, I report,—

A. That Alexander William Kinglake, Esquire, and Philip Vanderbyl, Esquire, were by their agents guilty of bribery; and that it was not proved that such bribery was committed with the knowledge or consent of either of them.

B. That Henry Chapman Bussell was proved to have been guilty of bribery in paying 10*l.* each to James Palmer, William Crocker, and James Hayward to induce them to vote for Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl; and by offering a similar sum to William Luckes; and that William Crocker and James Hayward were guilty of bribery in accepting the sum of 10*l.* each for their votes.

C. That there is reason to believe that bribery extensively prevailed at the election.

My reasons for coming to this conclusion are, that it appeared that statements had been made that if any money was paid to any voters on behalf of Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl, the same sum should be paid to all who voted for them. The inquiry was stopped, from its being admitted that agency was established with respect to Henry Chapman Bussell, so that it was not ascertained how far those statements were made by agents for whom the Members were responsible, but it was sufficiently proved that an expectation that these promises would be fulfilled existed amongst the voters. That a large number of the voters refrained from voting till past one o'clock, about which time Henry Chapman Bussell was proved to have bribed the three persons above-named, and there was strong reason to suspect (though it was not proved) that he bribed others, and that voters were also bribed by one Andrew Allan; both Bussell and Allan having gone away, so that they could not be examined as witnesses.

That Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl, who, before the proved and suspected giving of bribes, were in a great minority, immediately began to poll many votes, and were placed in a majority; and I therefore think there is reason to believe that many of the voters for them at this time were induced either by actual money paid to them, or the expectation of a sum similar to that paid to others.

COLIN BLACKBURN,

Election Judge.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN before the Honourable Mr. Justice Blackburn, on the TRIAL of the ELECTION PETITION for the BOROUGH of BRIDGWATER, at the Town Hall, Bridgwater.

Tuesday, 23rd February 1869.

WESTROPP and GRAY	-	-	-	-	-	-	Petitioners.
KINGLAKE and VANDERBYL	-	-	-	-	-	-	Respondents.

Mr. Serjeant Parry and Mr. Collins appeared as Counsel for the Petitioners. Mr. Trevor appeared as Agent. 23 February 1869.

Mr. Henry James appeared as Counsel for the Respondent, Mr. Kinglake. Mr. Lovibond appeared as Agent.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood and Mr. Edlin appeared as Counsel for the Respondent, Mr. Vanderbyl. Messrs. Reed and Cooke appeared as Agents.

Mr. Serjeant Parry was heard to open the allegations of the Petition.

[Adjourned to To-morrow, at Ten o'clock.]

Wednesday, 24th February 1869.

Mr. Serjeant Parry put in the following Address, signed by Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl, dated 12th November 1868:— 24 February 1869.

“ TO THE ELECTORS OF THE BOROUGH OF BRIDGWATER.

“ Gentlemen,
 “ HAVING now completed our canvass, we hasten to thank you for the kind and generous support accorded to us. We gladly acknowledge the kindness and courtesy with which we have been received by opponents as well as friends.
 “ Considering the largely augmented number of the constituency, it was to be expected that we might unintentionally fail to call upon some of you ; but we trust to be able to rectify all omissions of this kind before the polling day. We trust that you will stand by us on the day of nomination, and come early to the poll on Tuesday next.

“ We are, gentlemen, your obedient servants,
 “ A. W. Kinglake.
 “ P. Vanderbyl.”

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I suppose we do not require proof of that?
 Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] No, your Lordship may take that.
 Mr. Serjeant Parry put in the following polling cards, and circulars sent therewith :—
 “ Bridgwater Election, South-street District, St. Mary’s-street Polling Booth ; Register No. 1028.—I vote for A. W. Kinglake, Esq., and Philip Vanderbyl, Esq.”
 65. A

1869.

[CIRCULAR accompanying the above Card.]

“ BRIDGWATER ELECTION.

“ Dear Sir,

“ 14 November 1868.

“ To save you trouble on the polling-day, we beg to enclose you a card containing all the information necessary to enable you to vote.

“ It is of the utmost importance that you should poll as soon as possible after eight o'clock in the morning.

“ Yours truly,

“ Heary Lovibond.”

“ Bridgwater Election. North District, High-street Polling Booth; Register No. 357.—I vote for A. W. Kinglake, Esq., and Philip Vanderbyl, Esq.”

[CIRCULAR accompanying the foregoing Polling Card.]

“ BRIDGWATER ELECTION.

“ Dear Sir,

“ Bridgwater, 14 November 1868.

“ To save you trouble on the polling day, I beg to enclose you a card containing all the information necessary to enable you to vote.

“ It is of the utmost importance that you should poll as soon as possible after eight o'clock in the morning.

“ Yours truly,

“ Eustace Barham.”

POLLING CARD.

“ Bridgwater Election. South Polling Booth, Salmon Parade; Register No. 877.—I vote for A. W. Kinglake, Esq., and P. Vanderbyl, Esq.”

[CIRCULAR accompanying the above Polling Card.]

“ BRIDGWATER ELECTION.

“ Dear Sir,

“ Bridgwater, 14 November 1868.

“ To save you trouble on the polling day, we beg to enclose you a card containing all the information necessary to enable you to vote.

“ It is of the utmost importance that you should poll as soon as possible after eight o'clock in the morning.

“ Yours truly,

“ Reed & Cook.”

Mr. Serjeant Parry also put in the following canvassing card:—

“ BRIDGWATER ELECTION.

“ The honour of your vote and interest is respectfully solicited on behalf of Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl, the Liberal candidates.”

Mr. Serjeant Parry.] In the accounts there are joint bills sent in to the Candidates, and joint payments made to them.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I suppose it can hardly be disputed that the two candidates stood jointly and canvassed jointly.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] I think we must admit that.

Mr. James.] I cannot make that admission with respect to the act of every gentleman.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] No; they stood jointly and canvassed jointly. What effect that would have upon making the agents of one the agents of the other, I will consider afterwards, when I hear all the evidence. All I say at present is, that they stood jointly and canvassed jointly.

Mr. Serjeant Parry handed in a report of an address of Mr. Kinglake, which he stated was issued by the committee, and which contained the following passage:—

“ In conclusion, let me say that our Tory friends are not satisfied with attempting to create disunion with us by publishing such placards concerning the ‘ Permissive Bill’ as that to which my honourable friend has referred, but they also wish to make it appear that my honourable friend, Mr. Kinglake, and myself are not working together.

“ I am glad that Mr. Kinglake has expressed himself so clearly on this subject, and I take this opportunity of also assuring you that we both put our shoulders to the wheel, and that we work together most cordially. There has never been one word of discord between us; and I may tell you that I feel proud to have as my colleague a man of such ability, and with an European reputation.”

Mr.

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that a Witness of the name of Langdon had been threatened by a person of the name of Honeyball. 24 February 1869.

Mr. Justice Blackburn stated that anything amounting to the appearance of tampering with or threatening a witness was very improper conduct on the part of anyone, and if such a thing were seriously done, it was a matter which he should seriously punish; but before he did so, it would require to be distinctly proved, and to be dealt with as an ordinary criminal transaction.

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that he did not propose to take that course at present.

JAMES PALMER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

1. ARE you a Carpenter?—I am.
2. And you live at Back-street, Bridgwater?—I do.

3. You are a voter for the borough of Bridgwater?—I am.

4. For which side did you vote?—For Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray.

5. The Conservatives?—Yes.

6. The polling-day was the 17th of November?—Yes.

7. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What was the day of the week?—

8. Mr. Collins.] Tuesday, the 17th of November. (To the Witness.) In the middle of the day, on Tuesday, did you go to the “Anchor” inn?—I did.

9. Where is the “Anchor” inn?—On the quay.

10. Is the landlord of the “Anchor” inn Henry Chapman Bussell?—He is.

11. What did you go to the “Anchor” inn for?—I went with a friend to have a glass of beer.

12. Who was the friend?—Francis Carver.

13. Who is Francis Carver?—Foreman to Mr. Gough’s shipyard.

14. Did you have your glass of beer with Carver?—I had a glass of beer.

15. Did you see the landlord?—I did.

16. Mr. Bussell?—I did.

17. How long after you went into the “Anchor” did you see Mr. Bussell?—Two or three minutes, I suppose.

18. What did you first see him do; where was he when you first saw him?—The first place I saw him was at the door of the room.

19. What room?—The room in which I entered to take a glass of beer.

20. What room?—The parlour or front room, whichever you term it.

21. Did he say anything to you?—Not at the time; not then.

22. When did you next see him?—He beckoned me out of the room.

23. Where did you go to?—I went into the cellar.

24. That is downstairs?—No, there is no downstairs at all.

25. On the same floor?—On the same floor.

26. Was there any other person in the cellar besides you and Bussell?—Not that I am aware of.

27. You did not see anyone?—No.

28. Tell me what Bussell said in the cellar?—He told me to vote for Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake, and here was 10 sovereigns.

29. Give us the exact words, as near as you can?—“Here is 10 sovereigns.” I said, “What is this for?” He said, “To vote for Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake.”

30. What did you say?—“All right.”

31. What did you do with the money at that time?—I put it into my pocket.

65.

32. Did you then leave the cellar?—I left the cellar, and came into the passage.

33. When you were in the passage did Mr. Bussell say anything to you?—He said, “Captain Richards will go to the poll with you.”

34. At that time did you see Captain Richards?—I was facing him.

35. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Was he in the passage, do you mean?—He was in the passage when I came from the cellar.

36. Mr. Collins.] Did you go anywhere with Captain Richards?—I walked part of the way; at least he walked part of the way to the polling booth with me; when we came near the “Clarence” I told him I was going in there, I was not going any further with him.

37. What did you say?—I said, “I am not going any further with you, I am going into the ‘Clarence.’”

38. The “Clarence” inn?—The “Clarence” hotel.

39. Was the “Clarence” hotel the head quarters of the Conservatives?—Westropp and Gray’s head quarters, I believe.

40. They were there?—They were there at the time.

41. Did you leave Richards?—He left me, I suppose; we separated.

42. And you went into the “Clarence”?—I went into the “Clarence.”

43. Who did you see at the “Clarence”?—I saw Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray, and several other gentlemen; and I delivered the money up to Messrs. Westropp and Gray, and it was sealed in my presence; I never let it go out of my hand till I gave it up.

44. Did you go upstairs in the “Clarence”?—I did.

45. And you gave the sum of 10 sovereigns to Mr. Westropp?—I gave it to Mr. Westropp; it never left my hand till it passed to Mr. Westropp’s.

46. Did he give you anything in exchange?—No, he did not give me anything in exchange.

47. You say you gave 10 sovereigns?—

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I suppose it will hardly be doubted that there was the 10 sovereigns given up at the time.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] I hardly know what to doubt yet.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Very well; go on with it.

48. Mr. Collins.] You gave the 10 sovereigns to Mr. Westropp?—Yes.

49. Did you see a man named Crocker at the “Anchor”?—I did.

50. Is he called Captain Crocker?—Yes.

51. What part of the house was Captain Crocker in?—The same room I entered myself.

52. The front room?—The parlour.

53. You say you saw it sealed; was that the seal,

J. Palmer.

J. Palmer. seal, so far as you know (handing a packet to the Witness)?—I will not swear to the seal.

24 February 1869. 54. A similar seal to that; who sealed it?—It was sealed, I believe, by Mr. Westropp, in my presence.

55. It was sealed by somebody, in your presence?—Yes.

56. Did you see Frederick Jarman and Mr. Phelps there?—I did.

57. At the time you gave up the money?—I did.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] He said he saw Mr. Westropp seal it.

Witness.] No; I believe not. I said, "I believed;" you must give me time to consider. I remember it was Mr. Phelps sealed it.

58. Was Mr. Westropp there at the time?—Yes; Mr. Phelps sealed it. Give me time to consider, gentlemen, I will be there directly.

59. Mr. Collins.] At that time, what were you; who were you employed by?—Mr. Searle, a builder, of Bridgwater.

60. You were foreman of the carpenters there?—I had the lead of the shop.

61. Since November, have you left their employment?—I have.

62. Since the election, have any offers been made to you?—None whatever.

63. Not by anybody?—No.

64. As to leaving the town?—None whatever.

65. Did you see Pearce as well as Crocker at the "Anchor"?—I did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

66. May I venture to ask if you have any political views at all; are your views Liberal or Conservative?—My views have always been Liberal up to the present question of the Church; since that I have deviated from the line of policy.

67. Since the discussion on the Church, your line of policy has been to take money for doing one thing, and going and doing another?—I merely did it to show up the dirt.

68. If the "Anchor" is such a dirty place, what happened to take you there that morning?—I went with a friend; I had been with him to the "Clarence," and I went to have a glass with him at the "Anchor."

69. You told us the "Clarence" was the Conservative head-quarters; did you know what quarters, if anything, the "Anchor" happened to be?—I knew Bussell was a Liberal.

70. Who was your friend who was with you?—Francis Carver.

71. Was he a Conservative or a Liberal?—I did not put the question to him.

72. You did not know?—I did not know.

73. Do you know which way he voted?—I believe for Kinglake and Vanderbyl; I do not know whether he did or not.

74. You think so?—I do not know.

75. You would call his views Liberal?—I have no reason to call them that; I do not know what he is.

76. You know what you are, a Conservative?—On the present occasion.

77. And have been so since what date?—You may date from the 17th of November.

78. I thought so; the change of policy happened thus; you went into the "Anchor" a Liberal, and came out of the "Anchor" a Conservative?—I never went into the "Anchor" to look for anything of the kind.

79. You went there a Liberal?—I promised to vote for Westropp and Gray previously to that.

80. When had you first promised to vote for them?—When Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray called at my house I promised to vote for them.

81. When was that?—I cannot tell exactly; some few days before the election.

82. This was on the day of the election; this was on the Tuesday; would you say the previous Saturday?—Longer than that, I have no doubt; I cannot tell to a day.

83. A week?—It may have been a week, or a fortnight; I will not state the time.

84. With such a violent change in your opinions, I should have thought you would have remembered the time; was it a week or a fortnight before the election?—Somewhere thereabouts.

85. You were wrong in saying that the 17th was the day you changed?—That I showed it; that was when I came out, you see.

86. That was when you changed your colours?—As you like.

87. Is that what you mean, that was the first time you showed your true colours?—It was the first time I had a chance to vote.

88. What had your friend Carver and you been doing at the head-quarters of the Conservatives that day?—Merely taking a glass of beer.

89. Did you take him, or did he take you?—We went in together, and we came out together.

90. You know that is not an answer to my question; did he take you, or did you take him into the "Clarence"; I think I understood you to say that before going into the "Anchor," you and your friend had been into the "Clarence"?—Yes.

91. Did he take you, or did you take him?—I paid for a glass for him, and he paid for a glass for me.

92. At the "Clarence"?—At the "Clarence."

93. Then you had two glasses?—Yes.

94. Do you not know whether you, the Conservative, proposed to him, the Liberal, to go into the "Clarence" head-quarters, or whether he proposed it to you?—I do not know whether he asked of me, or whether I asked of him.

95. You found yourself there?—Yes.

96. What time of the day was that?—It must have been a little before two, I should imagine.

97. How long did you stay?—I suppose we stopped there about a quarter of an hour.

98. Then it would be a little past two when you came out?—Yes.

99. Did you go direct to the "Anchor"?—Yes.

100. Who had you seen at the "Clarence" before starting on your mission to the "Anchor"?—There was a crowd of people round the door, but there was no person but me and Mr. Carver in the room where we were. A man of the name of Hawkins was there.

101. Did you go into the room at the "Clarence"?—I sat down to have a glass of beer as we would at any public-house.

102. The "Clarence" is not a public-house; it is the first hotel in the town?—I believe it is.

103. While the "Anchor" is a little, I will not say "low" offensively, a little low beer-shop by the side of the bridge?—That is it.

104. Having had two glasses of beer already at the "Clarence," what could induce you and your your friend to go straight to the "Anchor"?—He asked me if I would take a walk with him as far as the "Anchor."

105. Perhaps you did not quite mean what you said, when you started off on this story, when you said you took your friend there; you mean he took you there?—To the "Anchor."

106. That will remind you, perhaps, whether you took him to the "Clarence" or he took you?—I would not say whether I asked him to go in or not. We might have gone in together. It is like this; I would not say I did not ask him if I knew I really did. I might have done so. If there was a doubt, I would rather admit I asked him in. I will not be positive whether I did or not.

107. You mean to tell us when you went into the "Anchor" you were a Conservative who had pledged your vote to Mr. Gray and Mr. Westropp?—I had.

108. When Bussell beckoned you out, did you follow him into the cellar?—I did.

109. Did he say, "Come into the cellar"?—I followed him into the cellar.

110. You thought it very funny to go into the cellar?—No; I had not much time to think about it.

111. Is it a light or a dark cellar?—Light.

112. Which of you first spoke when you got into the light cellar?—Bussell told me to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl, and he would give me 10 sovereigns, and he placed it in my hands.

113. Am I to understand he held it out in his hand all ready?—He counted it like this; "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten."

114. Did he say those figures?—Yes.

115. You did not tell us all that?—I thought the short answer would be the best.

116. Having made that little speech to you, after counting the money into your hand, what did you say?—"All right."

117. Did you intend that it should be all right, or did you intend to cheat him?—When I went into the house I had no notion that I was going to get the money; I thought that I would go and see whether such a thing was working or not. I said, "Now I shall be able to see whether the thing is working or not."

118. You went down for the purpose of seeing whether the thing was working or not?—That is it.

119. Did you tell Carver that was your object in asking him to go with you to the "Anchor"?—I did not.

120. That was your object?—It was; I have a witness to prove it.

121. Had you told anyone before you went that you intended to go there and see whether the thing was working or not?—As I was coming from the "Clarence" I met a man, who said, "You are not going to vote against us?" I said, I should not vote against Mr. Westropp for 50*l.*; but the others are doing their dirty work, and I will try and get a drop, and I will see you again within 20 minutes.

122. Who did you make that little speech to?—Mr. Hook.

123. Who is he?—A provision dealer.

124. You really went down in the purity of your motives to see whether you could detect anything of this sort going on?—That was the size of it.

125. What you told me about your going by the invitation of Mr. Carver to have a glass of beer was all a mistake?—He invited me first. I should not have thought of going into the house if it had not been for him; he gave me the invitation to go, and it struck me, "I will see what is up."

126. Did Mr. Hook say anything to you when you told him what your business was?—Nothing at all.

127. Did you go back after 20 minutes?—As soon as I had had the coin I went back to the "Clarence."

128. Did you go to Mr. Hook before you went to the "Clarence"?—No; I never saw him.

129. You did not go to Mr. Hook?—No; I went to Mr. Westropp.

130. Having promised Mr. Hook to see him in 20 minutes, did you break your promise to him?—I did.

131. Having been under a pledge to Messrs. Gray and Westropp for about a fortnight, in making that pledge to them did it happen that you had broken a previous pledge that you had made to Mr. Vanderbyl?—No.

132. Nor to Mr. Kinglake?—Never to either of them; I told Mr. Vanderbyl, "If I vote in the Liberal interest, I shall vote for you and you alone;" but that Kinglake, I would not vote for him on any consideration. That gentleman cannot deny it.

133. As you were so very vehement about Mr. Kinglake, probably you gave a reason for saying why you were so strong in not voting for him?—Perhaps I laboured under a mistake.

134. What do you mean?—I heard, in fact I had been given to understand, that Mr. Kinglake had opposed Mr. Otway's motion for the retention of the lash in the army. I believe that was what I told Mr. Kinglake at the time.

135. You think you told him what?—I understood he supported the lash in the army.

136. Mr. Kinglake did?—Yes.

137. And you, disapproving of it, gave that as your reason for not voting for him?—Yes.

138. What about Mr. Vanderbyl?—I never promised him at all.

139. What about the lash in the army with him?—Mr. Vanderbyl came to me and said, "I am coming down to have a flying shot at you." I said, "Mind you do not miss your mark."

140. Was nothing said about flogging in the army?—Not then; Mr. Vanderbyl never made answer to me to what I said respecting Mr. Kinglake; and there was nothing more said about it; but the next day Mr. Kinglake sent a "Parliamentary Record" for me to look at.

141. You have told us that Mr. Searle, the builder, was the gentleman in whose employment you were at this time?—Yes.

142. Did you not, as early as the month of October or the beginning of November, promise Mr. Vanderbyl your vote?—I never did.

143. On your master's premises, on the ground that he supported the abolition of flogging, and at the same time refused to promise Mr. Kinglake because you understood he took opposite views?—I never promised either, never; and Mr. Vanderbyl said, "Well, I have not met with a man during my canvass that has spoken more straightforward than you have; give me your hand, whether you promise or not."

144. It might be straightforwardness about Mr. Kinglake; did not Mr. Kinglake tell you you were quite under a mistake as to his vote, and he would send you a book to show that he took the same view as you did?—He did.

145. And did he not send the book?—He sent the book the next day.

146. Did not you then promise to vote for them both?—Never.

147. About what time was this; was it the end of October?—I cannot tell; I should think it was about that.

148. That would be before you had promised your vote to Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray, at any rate?—In my conversation with my shopmates I had always said I should support Mr. Westropp.

149. That was before you had promised absolutely to vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray?—I cannot hardly tell; I do not know whether it was or not.

150. Do not you know whether you had become a Conservative by that time or not; you told me you were always a Liberal?—I cannot tell; I would not be positive whether it was, but it was very near the time; both parties were canvassing the town at the time, but I believe I saw Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray after.

151. Did you take much money with you when you went to Bussell's little tavern by the river side?—No, not a penny; I went in the morning and borrowed a shilling of Mr. Searle, because I had not money in my pocket to get a glass of beer.

152. Mr. Searle being your employer?—Yes.

153. I think we made out that it was about a quarter past two when you had this interview with Mr. Bussell?—Something about that.

154. At what time did you vote?—After I had given the money to Mr. Westropp I went and polled for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray; it may be half-an-hour or an hour; I never left the "Clarence" till I polled.

155. Do you remember meeting Mr. Searle about two o'clock on the polling-day?—I remember meeting him when I was going to poll.

156. Did he remind you that you had promised to go and record your vote?—Not that I am aware of; Mr. Searle held up his hand like this (shaking his fist); I do not know that he uttered a word.

157. Did you utter a word to him?—No; I never spoke a word to him on that occasion.

158. Did not you say to him, "All right, governor, I shall not poll till after I have seen you"?—No, it is not very likely; no, I did not.

159. Did he say to you, "Go and poll, James, like a man"?—I never heard the words.

160. Did you say to him, "You know my circumstances; I want money; money is more to me than politics"?—Never, I deny it, never; he has called me into the office at different times and asked me whether I would vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl, and I have said, "Wait till the day of trial comes; I will never promise you nor any man"; repeatedly he has called me and asked me, and he said I should have whatever was going in the market if I voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl.

161. Did Mr. Searle say to you, "If that is your mind, you will have no money from me"?—Nothing of the sort.

162. I am talking of the polling-day?—Nothing of the sort.

163. Did you say to him, "I shall go with the stream"?—Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl; the last time I saw Mr. Searle—

164. Did you say to him, "I shall go with the stream"?—Allow me a moment.

165. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] You are asked whether, on the polling-day, as you were going to the poll, this took place?—

166. Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] Did you say to Mr. Searle, "I shall go with the stream"?—I did, meaning Westropp and Gray. They were in the majority.

167. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] When did you say this?—I suppose about 11 o'clock on the polling-day.

168. Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] You have been asked about what happened after you had been to the "Anchor"; am I to understand that you now swear that what you said about going with the stream was before you went to the "Anchor"?—Before.

169. At 11 in the day?—I cannot tell exactly; I had no watch; I suppose about 11. I am on my oath; as near as I can speak to the time, that would be it.

170. You met Mr. Searle twice during the polling-day, and had a little conversation with him?—I was at work the early part of the day.

171. You met him twice on the polling-day?—I was at work.

172. Do you mean you were doing the carpenter's work at the booth?—Yes.

173. Was it at 11 that you were doing the carpenter's work at the booth?—No; I went to Mr. Searle to borrow a shilling about then.

174. You were not doing carpenter's work then?—No.

175. And you were not doing carpenter's work about two, when you recorded your vote?—No.

176. You met Mr. Searle twice on the polling-day; once at 11 o'clock, when you talked about going with the stream, and again in the afternoon, when he held up his hand in the manner you have described?—Yes; he stood at the booth as I was going to poll; he held his hand up like that.

177. You saw him then?—Yes.

178. Are you quite certain what time it was when you went to poll?—It was after I left Bussell's and gave the money up to Mr. Westropp that I polled. I might have stopped there half-an-hour.

179. Did anybody go with you up to poll?—Mr. Harwood, the timber merchant.

180. Mr. Harwood, the timber merchant, took you to the poll?—He walked with me.

181. Is that James Harwood?—Yes.

182. Do you know William King, the smith?—I do.

183. Did you see him on the day of the poll?—I did not.

184. Is he Liberal, or of your views?—I do not know.

185. Try and remind yourself whether, about 10 o'clock on the day of the poll, you did not meet King on the bridge?—I am positive I did not; I never saw him, not to speak to him; I might have seen him, but not to speak.

186. Do you remember meeting him near that time on the bridge?—I do not remember seeing him or meeting him at all.

187. I must refresh your memory about it; do you remember saying to Mr. King, "Can you do anything for me"?—Never; I never remember seeing him during the day; I never spoke to him if I saw him.

188. I mean that or any day just before?—

Not

Not that day, or any day; I never spoke to him on the matter on any occasion whatever.

189. What do you mean by "on the matter;" what matter?—Touching the election; I never saw him to speak to him; in fact, I do not think I have spoken to King this twelvemonths.

190. Did you say to him, "Can you do anything for me?"—I am positive I never did.

191. Did he say to you, "What do you mean?"—Never; I never had any conversation with the man.

192. Did not he say, "How is it possible for me to know what you mean? if you speak plainly, I will give you an answer?"—I never saw him or spoke to him.

193. Did you say, "The fact is, some one is pressing me for a little bill of 10 L, and I am bound to get the money to-day by some means or other?"—If that man says that, it is a fabrication and lies; I never saw him, and he is a —

194. You were going to say he is something?—He tells a falsehood.

195. Did you say if you did not get money your wife and family —?—I never spoke to him; I never saw him during the day or the days previous.

196. Did you say to him, "If I do not get the money my wife and family —"?—I have told you once for all that I never spoke to him.

197. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Listen to the question put to you, and see whether the particular words were said to you?—

198. Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] I may bring it back to your mind; did you say, "If I do not get the money, my wife and family will be turned into the streets, and my things sold, and nothing but the union before me"?—I did not; I never saw him.

199. Did you say, "I am certain to get 10 L. before I go to the poll"?—I did not; I never anticipated such a thing until, as I told you just now, between the hours of two and three; as near as I can judge, it was just after two that I went into the "Anchor;" that is the only time it entered my thoughts about money.

200. Do you know John Harwood, a master mariner?—I do.

201. Did you see him between two and three on the day of the poll, on the weighbridge close by?—Yes.

202. You did see him?—Yes, I did.

203. Did you ask him to have a glass of something?—I did.

204. What did he say?—He said he would not; not then.

205. Did he say he was a teetotaler?—I do not know whether he said that; sometimes I know he is a teetotaler. Sometimes we have taken a glass together. I asked him then, not knowing he was a teetotaler, if he was.

206. This was between two and three, you know?—I cannot tell what time it was. I saw Captain Harwood several times during the day.

207. I am speaking of between two and three; not several times?—Yes.

208. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Was it before or after you went to the "Anchor"?—I saw him before I went to the "Anchor"; before I received anything at the "Anchor."

209. When did you have this conversation with him; was it before you went to the "Anchor"?—It must have been, because I did not see him afterwards.

210. Did you ask him to go to the "Anchor"?—No. J. Palmer.

211. Or to the "Fountain"?—I asked him to go to the "Fountain," or into Mr. Merson's. I asked him whether he would take a glass of beer or anything else with me. He said he would not; not then.

212. How much of the shilling that you had borrowed early in the morning, because you had not a penny, was left at two or three o'clock?—I do not know. I cannot tell how much I had left; a shilling does not go very far after you have had two or three glasses of beer.

213. But you were going to treat him; how much of the shilling had you left?—I do not know. I had a shilling, and if I had a glass at the "Clarence," and a glass there, that would only be threepence.

214. Did you say to John Harwood, "Are there any paunches knocking about"?—I did not.

215. Or "pouches"?—I did not.

216. Nothing of the sort?—No.

217. Did he say he had nothing of the sort on their side?—I never put the question to him, and I did not hear him say anything about the matter.

218. Did you say you wanted some money for your vote, and you meant to have it before you voted?—No.

219. Nothing of the sort?—Nothing of the sort.

220. It is quite a mistake?—It is a mistake, or a falsehood.

221. How soon after the polling-day did you communicate with any of the gentlemen on the other side about giving evidence in this matter?—Not the next day. I do not think it was the next day, and not the day after, but one day passed before I went; then I went to Mr. Brice's office.

222. About the Thursday; what happened on the Thursday; who did you go to?—I went to Mr. Brice's office and made a statement.

223. What did you say?—I told him where I had the money, and when I had it—

224. Had you then told them all that at the "Clarence"?—Yes, of course I had.

225. What did you want to go and tell it all over again for?—I am sure I do not know. I did not go in for any particular purpose. I merely went in to tell them I had the money.

226. You did go?—Yes, I went to make a clear statement, to tell them where I had the money, and how I had it.

227. You had not been very clear, probably, about it on the polling-day?—Yes, as clear as I am now.

228. What did they want with a clear statement afterwards?—I did not say they wanted it. I merely went in to tell them I had the money. I was not sent for. I went in to tell them I had the money.

229. That is, on the Thursday, you went and told them all over again what you had told them on the Tuesday?—Yes.

230. How many times have you been there since?—Not once.

231. You cleared it all out and had it written down then and there?—It was taken down.

232. Perhaps they asked you to put your name to it?—They did.

233. May I venture to ask whether your expenses as a witness have been considered at all?—

Never

J. Palmer. Never a penny. I have never received any, nor a promise, neither do I anticipate it.

24 February 1869. 234. It is all done in furtherance of the good cause?—I did it, and I do not expect anything for so doing in no shape or form.

235. My learned friend has asked you twice, and you did not condescend upon an answer; I will ask you what was it that you got in exchange for the 10 sovereigns you handed over at the "Clarence"?—I took in the 10 sovereigns and put it down on a table.

236. That is not an answer to my question?—I was not going to leave the 10 sovereigns there without I had 10 pounds in the place of them, because I did not know what this affair—

237. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Then you did get 10 l. in exchange?—I had 10 l. in exchange, and I have the 10 sovereigns now.

238. There were 10 sovereigns given to Mr. Westropp, and Mr. Westropp sealed them up; did he or anybody else give you other 10 sovereigns instead of them?—Mr. Westropp had not sufficient money, I believe, in his pocket, and Mr. Hennett placed 2 l. with 8 l. of Mr. Westropp's, because I said I considered it to be my money, because I had not fulfilled the contract.

239. Mr. Serjeant Sargood (to the Witness).] You see I do not affect quite to understand your policy, as you call it; you told me you went down to the "Anchor" to discover those sort of things for the good of the cause; if that was your only object when you had trapped them into giving you the 10 sovereigns and given them to the other side, why did you want the sovereigns back in exchange?—As to the reason why I must take time to consider to answer that question. It is rather—

240. I will give you time to consider?—I had the money, and of course I placed the money on the table; and if I had placed that 10 sovereigns there, and if they had taken the 10 sovereigns up, of course I should have been nothing the better for it, and they would have had the money, and I should have been out of employment as well, because I knew I should be turned out of my situation after that.

241. Do you mean to say that you went to the "Anchor" inn to carry out this little plot with the consciousness that if you succeeded you would lose your situation?—I knew it.

242. And yet you voluntarily went and did it?—I did.

243. Are you a family man?—I am.

244. Have you any children?—Five.

245. Can you tell me what was your object in going and doing this, with the consciousness that you would lose your situation and leave your family destitute?—This was the size of it, you know: they professed to be such Puritans on the opposite side, and they had bills stuck up that there would be imprisonment, and all this sort of thing, and they were the very first party that began to "sugar" the people. Do you see that?

246. So that it was your indignation at this impurity which tempted you to sacrifice your family and yourself in the service of virtue?—It was.

247. Subject always to keeping the 10 l., if you could get it?—That is as you like to construe it.

248. How much of the 10 l. is left?—I have got it all, if you require it.

249. But I thought you said you took it because you required it for your family?—I did not say so; I did not require it for my family.

250. Then why did you take the 10 l. from them?—Suppose this affair had not been brought up, they would have had the 10 l., and I should not have been any the better for it.

251. If this affair had not been brought up, they would have got the money and not you?—That is it.

252. So that you thought, whether the affair came to light or not, you had better pocket the money?—Keep the 10 l.

253. Then, as to whether those 10 sovereigns which you handed them ever came from Bussell at all, you are the only person who are able to state, and no one else knows anything about it, as between you and Bussell?—No person but Mr. Bussell was present.

254. What have you been doing ever since you lost your situation; I suppose you have lost it?—I have.

255. What have you been doing ever since?—At work.

256. For whom are you at work?—Some part of the time, five or six weeks, I was working for Thomas Skinner.

257. Who is he?—He is a builder in the town.

258. That is your trade; there is no harm in that; have you done any other work with somebody else?—I have been doing bits of jobs on my own account.

259. Have you been in any other person's employment?—Working for Mr. Humber.

260. Whose employment are you in now?—Mr. Humber's.

261. Is he a gentleman who takes your peculiar political views, such as they are, Gray and Westropp we will call them?—I cannot tell you, I am sure; I believe he is a Conservative.

262. Do you not know that he is the gentleman who objects to vote on their behalf?—I do not know anything about objections, but I believe he is a Conservative.

263. And the other gentleman, the builder, is he also a Conservative?—No, he is a Liberal.

264. However, you have left him and gone to the Conservative builders, and here you are?—Here I am.

265. And you have the 10 l. still?—I have the 10 l. still.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

266. You say you have got this 10 l. now; have you the same 10 sovereigns, or have you got 10 l. by you?—I have got the same 10 sovereigns.

267. You have not changed them?—I have not changed them.

268. Have you them about you now?—I have not, but I can go and get them, and any person can go to the house with me and get them.

269. You have kept those 10 sovereigns actually given to you in exchange for what Bussell gave you ever since?—I have.

270. What wages do you earn upon an average?—At the time I was at Mr. Searle's I think I might have averaged about 24 s. a-week.

271. And what wages do you earn now?—About 23 s.

272. Are those your average wages?—They are.

273. And are you able upon those wages to support yourself and your family?—I am.

274. Had

274. Had you ever any thought of going to the workhouse or anything of that kind?—I had not.

275. Did you ever say anything to anybody about that?—Never in my life.

276. At that time were you under pressure for 10*l.* for any particular debt?—Never in my life was I pressed for 10*l.*, nor yet half the money.

277. Were you at that time?—Never in my life, nor yet half the money.

278. You always paid your way?—I always paid my way.

279. With regard to Mr. Searle, was he a supporter of Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—He was.

280. How many men had he in his employment at the time of the election?—Well, I suppose there were about 10 there, carpenters and joiners.

281. You say he spoke to you about your vote; do you mean that he asked you to vote for Vanderbyl and Kinglake?—He did.

282. How many times did he do that?—He has invited me at different times to come to meetings, and I told him at the time, "Wait till the day of trial comes; I will not promise."

283. He asked you half-a-dozen times?—Yes.

284. Do you know whether he canvassed any other men?—I do not think there was any other man.

285. Do you know of Mr. Sarle of your own knowledge canvassing at all for Messrs. Vanderbyl and Kinglake?—I do.

286. Have you seen him?—I have.

287. Have you seen Mr. Sarle in company with Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake?—I have.

288. Canvassing?—I have.

289. How often?—Only once.

290. Can you state where that was?—At Pooles-court.

291. Is that a court near Mr. Sarle's shop?—It is near Mr. Sarle's shop.

292. Are the people who live in Pooles-court tenants of Mr. Sarle, or anything of that kind?—No.

293. How many persons did he canvass at all?—I do not think he went but to that one court.

294. About how many voters or persons were there to canvass in that court?—I cannot tell you.

295. About how many?—About half-a-dozen, I suppose.

296. And that is the only occasion that you knew of his canvassing?—I suppose you call it canvassing if you see a person walking with the candidates; I do not know anything more; I merely saw him enter the court with them, but not to go into a house, you understand.

297. And that is all you know of his doings at the election?—Yes.

298. Have you seen him at public meetings with Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake?—No.

299. Did you go to public meetings?—I went to every Conservative meeting, but the Liberal meetings I never attended at all.

300. That is all you know, of your own knowledge, about Mr. Sarle?—It is.

301. You used an expression, that you would go with the stream, about 11 o'clock; I think the Conservatives were about 150 ahead at that time?—They were, or more, I think; the reason that I said that was this: I had been hesitating; I thought to myself, well, if I vote for them, which I felt inclined to do, I shall lose my situation, and I hesitated; but at last I said, well, I will go with the stream.

302. Were you at work that day?—A part of the day.

303. Do you know, or not, that the yards, or whatever you may call them, were closed on that day, or a good part of the day?—They were.

304. Are the Messrs. Brown brickmakers?—They are.

305. There are a great many men there who are voters, are there not?—There are.

306. Do you know whether that yard was closed on that day?—I do not know; I saw a great quantity of men on the Cornhill.

307. Did you see a great many working men whom you knew to be voters lounging about the streets on that day and not at work?—I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES PHELPS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

308. WHAT are you?—A corn merchant.

309. Living in Bridgwater?—Yes.

310. Do you remember Tuesday, the polling day?—I do.

311. On the afternoon of that day were you at the "Clarence"?—I was.

312. Do you remember the last witness, James Palmer, coming to the "Clarence"?—I do.

313. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Can you fix the hour at all?—I cannot.

314. Mr. Collins.] Can you fix about the hour?—I should think it was about three o'clock.

315. Was Mr. Westropp present, and several other gentlemen in the room?—They were.

316. You say James Palmer came into the room; did you see him give anybody anything?—I saw him give Mr. Westropp 10 sovereigns.

317. What did he say when he gave them?—He said he was paid 10 sovereigns by Bussell to vote for Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl.

318. Did he produce the 10 sovereigns?—He did produce the 10 sovereigns. J. Phelps.

319. We hear that he had 10 sovereigns given in exchange for them?—He had.

320. Did you seal up those 10 sovereigns?—I did.

321. Is that your seal (handing a packet to the Witness)?—That is the packet.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Serjeant Parry proposed to hand in the packet of sovereigns.

Mr. Justice Blackburn directed that the packet should be opened by the Registrar of the Court, and it was found to contain 10 sovereigns.

WILLIAM CROCKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

W. Crocker.
1869.

322. ARE you a master mariner?—I am an invalid now, but late a master mariner.

323. Do you know Mr. Henry Chapman Bussell?—I was into his house about half-past one.

324. Do you know him?—I know him.

325. On the day of the last election were you at his public-house, the "Anchor"?—I was in there about half-past one in the afternoon.

326. Did you see James Palmer there?—I saw him there.

327. Did you see any one with him?—Francis Carver; he was with him.

328. Did you see him or not speaking to Mr. Bussell?—I did not see him; I saw him go out of the room, but not return again.

329. What did you see or notice next?—I was in there about half-an-hour.

330. Could you tell at all how long Bussell was out of the room before he returned, if he did return?—Half-an-hour.

331. With Palmer?—He did not come in at all; Palmer did not come in at all.

332. In about half-an-hour Mr. Bussell came back?—He came back and he winked his eye, and he nodded his head to me.

333. Then what did you do?—I went out into the cellar along with him.

334. Now tell us what happened?—He axed me who I was going to vote for. I told him for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Vanderbyl; and he says, "No, no, no, no, we don't want Mr. Westropp, but you must vote for our old friend Mr. Kinglake." I says, "He is no friend of mine, but he may be of yours." He says, "I will give you 10 l. for to vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl," and he counted 10 sovereigns in my hand.

335. What else did he do or say, or what did you do?—I went over to the Salmon Parade Booth and voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl.

336. What did you do with the money when he had counted it into your hand?—I put it in my pocket, and went away over to the Salmon Parade Booth and voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl.

337. About what time in the day was that?—Two o'clock in the afternoon.

338. Did you go direct from the "Anchor" to the poll?—From the house; they drove me in a chaise to the Salmon Parade to my booth, and I voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl.

339. Do you know the name of the driver who drove you?—I do not.

340. Do you know whose fly it was that drove you?—I think it was Hodge's.

341. Hodge's, of where?—Of the "Railway" hotel.

342. You know Bussell?—I knew him over 30 years ago.

343. Has he always been an active——?—Always on the Liberal side.

344. And an active man?—A very active man.

345. Can you say of your own knowledge whether he canvassed for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I cannot; I never saw him.

346. Did you ever see him in their company?—I never did.

347. Did you see him at any time at public meetings?—I have saw him up in this here hall.

348. Was he on the platform with them, or what?—He was over just there (pointing to a part of the Court).

349. Was that on the day of the nomination, or was it at a meeting?—At several meetings.

350. Then, what I ask you is, and what I want to know is, whether you have seen him at several meetings when Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl have been present?—I have.

351. Addressing the electors?—I have.

352. Has he taken any active part in those meetings that you have noticed?—I believe he has.

353. Did he ever speak at meetings?—I never heard him speak.

354. You say you have known him for 30 years; have you seen him at all since the election, or missed him, or what?—I have not.

355. Have you seen him or not since the election?—I have not.

356. You mean to say that you have not seen him since the day of the election?—I think I saw him about a fortnight afterwards, and then I heard that he was going down to Cork.

357. You have not, however, seen him since a fortnight after the election?—I have not.

358. Have you been to his house since?—I have been there several times.

359. Have you never seen him?—I have never seen him.

360. Is his wife there now?—Oh, yes.

361. She has been there ever since?—She is there to attend to the house.

362. You say that on the day you received this 10 l. from Bussell in the cellar you saw Palmer there; did you see a man of the name of Hugh Pearce there?—I did.

363. Was that about the same time that you were there?—That was about half-past one o'clock in the afternoon.

364. Did you see a person of the name of George Bond, a shoemaker, there?—I did.

365. Pearce was a voter?—Yes.

366. Was Bond a voter?—I believe so.

367. Did you see anybody else there on that day besides those you have named?—I saw 13 or 14 people there, but I cannot recognise them now.

368. You cannot tell us the names?—No.

369. What were they doing?—Oh, they were singing out—"We shall lose it! we shall lose it! we shall lose it!"

370. Was there any drinking going on there that you saw?—None as I saw. I had a glass of beer there, but who paid for it I do not know.

371. Did you pay for it?—I did not.

372. What did you do with those 10 sovereigns?—I gave it to my wife.

373. And she is here?—She is here.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

374. You have had an attack of illness, have you not?—I have.

375. When was that?—Six years ago, the first of June.

376. But you have had none lately, have you?—No.

377. I don't want to ask you unnecessarily about that, but is your memory as good as it was?—Just as good. What for? Why?

378. For

378. For bribery. You ask me good for what. Is your memory as good as it was?—Yes, it is.

379. You had rather a painful illness, had you not?—I had; I had a stroke.

380. You are not as strong as you were?—No.

381. Have you been able to go to sea?—I have not been to sea these six years now.

382. What have you been doing for your living?—We live on my income.

383. You mean that you have saved money enough to live upon?—No, but I have money enough to keep me.

384. From what source do you get it?—I get some from the Odd Fellows society, and 3 s. a week I let my house for, and my wife takes in washing, and that is enough for to keep me, and I don't pay any house-rent.

385. I presume you have not had a vote before?—No.

386. You were not a 10 l. householder?—No.

387. This is the first time you have had a vote?—It is.

388. Probably you were silent on your political opinions, but had you not before the election promised both Vanderbyl and Kinglake?—Vanderbyl and Westropp.

389. Did you not promise Mr. Kinglake?—No, I did not; I shook my head at him. I shook my head at Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Gray, and I promised Mr. Westropp and Mr. Vanderbyl.

390. Did Mr. Kinglake canvass you?—He did.

391. Did you give him no answer?—I gave him no answer at all, but I promised Mr. Vanderbyl.

392. Had you not spoken to him when he asked you to vote for him?—Well, I believe he did.

393. Did you not tell him that you would vote for him?—Well, I believe not.

394. But you must know; I ask you in the presence of persons that canvassed; upon your oath, did you not promise to vote for Mr. Kinglake?—I believe not.

395. Do you not recollect?—No.

396. Why did you say, "I believe not"?—I promised Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Westropp.

397. That is perfectly possible, but did you also promise Mr. Kinglake, or not?—I believe not.

398. Why do you say, "I believe;" have you forgotten?—I may perhaps have promised him.

399. And also have shaken your head at him?—Yes.

400. Did you intend him to understand that you were going to vote for him, or not?—I don't know about that.

401. If you promised, as you say you may have done, did you intend him to understand that you would vote for him?—I promised Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Westropp, and that is all I know about it.

402. You do yourself an injustice. You have told me that you may have promised Mr. Kinglake; now, if you may have promised him, when you did promise him, did you intend him to believe that you were going to vote for him?—That was his own mind about it.

403. Did you expect him to rely upon what you said, that you would vote for him?—I do not know what he might rely about, I cannot say that.

404. But we wish to know how far we may rely on you. When you told Mr. Kinglake you would vote for him, did you intend to do so, or not?—Well, I believe I did.

405. Did you intend to vote for him?—It was in at the "Queen's Head."

406. Now you see your memory is better?—We had Mr. Sully and Mr. Rigg there.

407. When you gave Mr. Kinglake that promise?—Mr. James Sully gave me a pint of half-and-half.

408. That seems a pleasant memory to you, but do answer my question. At the time you promised Mr. Kinglake to vote for him, had you promised Vanderbyl and Westropp?—I had not.

409. Did you intend to vote for Mr. Kinglake when you promised him?—I did not.

410. So you gave him that promise intending to break it?—I did break it.

411. I know you did, and you intended to do so at the time you made it?—I did; I intended all throughout to vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Vanderbyl.

412. It is but justice to a gentleman in your position that you should have an opportunity of explaining why you promised Mr. Kinglake to vote for him, intending to break your promise at the time?—Oh, that is very often done.

413. By you?—No.

414. Why did you do so?—Well, I do not know.

415. Why did you promise Mr. Kinglake to vote for him, not intending to fulfil your promise?—I cannot answer that.

416. But you are quite sure that you did intend to break it at the time you made it?—Well; I know'd I was going to vote for Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Westropp, one and one, because I know'd nothing at all about Mr. Kinglake; but I always heard that Mr. Vanderbyl was a very good sort of a man, but as for Mr. Kinglake he wasn't no good here.

417. I was only repeating my question; with those very decided views, why did you tell Mr. Kinglake you would vote for him, for a man who was "no good here"?—As a matter of form, I suppose; that was all.

418. You state that a promise, which you did not intend to perform, is a matter of form?—Yes.

419. Is that your habit?—My habit? I don't know that it is a matter of habit.

420. If it is a matter of form, it would almost be a custom or habit, would it not?—I do not know what you may call it, you may call it what you like.

421. I will, by-and-bye; you have known Bussell for some time?—Thirty years.

422. Is he a man pretty well to do?—I believe he is.

423. He keeps this public-house, and he has kept it for some time?—He has kept it now for upwards of 13 or 14 years to my knowledge.

424. There has been a good deal of custom there, has there not?—I do not know what there is.

425. Have you been in the habit of going there?—Once a month, perhaps.

426. Have you seen a good many people there?—Well, pretty brisk sometimes.

427. Did you also know that he was a part owner in some ships?—I believe he was.

428. Of several?—No, never several; he had got one.

429. And more than one?—I do not believe he had.

430. Was

W. Crocker.

24 February 1869.

W. Crocker. 430. Was he part owner of more ships than one?—No; the packet and the “Elizabeth.”

1869.

Mr. Serjeant Parry objected to the reception of this evidence.

Mr. Justice Blackburn ruled that it was admissible, as showing the status in life of Bussell.

431. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] He was a man that used to talk to you about his ships?—Very seldom.

432. I gather from that, that he did sometimes; you have always known Bussell always taking a very great deal of interest in politics on the Liberal side?—I did.

433. Did you ever know of his making bets at all?—I never did.

434. All that you knew was, that for years he had been an active Liberal politician?—An active man.

435. May I ask was your visit to that place merely for the purpose of taking beer that morning?—He called me in there; the man himself.

436. Who did?—Mr. Henry Bussell called me into his house.

437. What time was that?—About half-past one o'clock.

438. Had you seen him before that morning?—I had; I was in there about half-past 11 o'clock.

439. There was nothing said about money at half-past 11 o'clock?—Not a word.

440. And then, as you tell me, it was about half-past one o'clock that he called you in?—About half-past one o'clock.

441. It was about two, when you went with him into the cellar?—Thereabouts.

442. Did you see whether he took the money from his pocket, or where he took it from?—Out of his right hand pocket. “Hold up your hand,” he says, and he counted them in one by one.

443. You held it out soon enough?—It was very handy to me too.

444. The money?—I should like to have it every day like that.

445. For your vote?—I would not care whether it was for my vote, or for anything else.

446. You kept the money and gave it to your wife?—I kept the money and gave it to my wife.

447. And, as far as you know, it has been spent on your household?—As far as I know.

448. When did your views cause you to give information about this to any one?—About a week or a fortnight after the election.

449. You can give me no nearer date than that?—I cannot.

450. To whom did you give it?—To Mr. James Palmer, here.

451. The gentleman who was examined first this morning?—Yes.

452. Did he ask you about it, or did you go to him?—I went to him.

453. What caused you to go to him, your conscience?—Perhaps it was.

454. Then if it was your conscience that took you to Mr. James Palmer to tell him you had received 10*l*., you felt that you had done wrong?—Felt that I had done wrong? I don't know that there is anything wrong in having the money.

455. Was it conscience that prompted you to go to James Palmer?—I believe it was.

456. Did you think you had done wrong?—I cannot see very much wrong about it.

457. Then, if it is not a privileged communication, what was it that your conscience told you that prompted you to go to James Palmer, was it that you had done right?—Right or wrong, I do not know, but I went there to him.

458. With what object did you go to him?—For to make a confession of it.

459. Then surely if you made confession, you confess your wrongs; you went to confess you had done wrong?—Well, I suppose I did do wrong.

460. Will you tell me what you meant by telling me just now that you should like every day to have 10*l*. for your vote?—Not for the vote at all.

461. You said you did not care whether it was for your vote or not?—For anything else.

462. But, inclusive of anything else, right or wrong, you would have taken 10*l*. for your vote, or for anything else; what a lot of confessions you would have to make, you know?—Well, a lot of confessions; it was only one confession after all.

463. But you have said you would like to have 10*l*. every day for your vote, or anything else; you would be going to Palmer every day, if that was so?—Well, on a visit, I suppose.

464. Now, as your conscience did thus trouble you, why did you go to James Palmer?—In the evening.

465. But why did you pick him out as your confessor; you could not have thought him a holy Palmer; why did you pick him out as your confessor?—I never confessed to him.

466. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Why did you go to Mr. James Palmer to tell this story, instead of telling anybody else?—Because I heard he had had 10*l*. from Mr. Bussell too.

467. Mr. Henry James.] Then you thought Palmer had done wrong, so you went to tell him you had done wrong too?—If he was into a mess, why I should be in the very same mess with him.

468. But nobody at that time, except your wife, knew that you were in a mess?—Oh, yes, they did.

469. Who did?—There was hundreds knowed I had the money.

470. How?—Because everybody that axed me I never concealed it; not from one.

471. But had people been saying that you had had money?—Yes.

472. Then why did you go and tell James Palmer, if hundreds knew it?—Palmer went up to Mr. Brice's office along with me.

473. Where did you meet him before you went to the office?—Out here, by the “Clarence Hotel.”

474. By accident, or by appointment?—By accident.

475. Then did you go and speak to him?—I did.

476. Did he ask you to go with him to Mr. Brice's office?—No, I wished to go.

477. Then it was to Mr. Brice that you wished to tell the tale?—It was.

478. Did you ask Palmer to take you?—I did.

479. Did

479. Did Palmer go with you to Mr. Brice's office?—He did.

480. And you and Palmer saw Mr. Brice together?—I did not see Mr. Brice.

481. Whom did you see?—Mr. Jones.

482. Is he a clerk or what?—A clerk.

483. Palmer was with you?—He was with me.

484. A fortnight after the election?—A week or a fortnight, or thereabouts.

485. Are you quite sure this was not the Thursday after the election?—I will not say that.

486. Did you know at that time that Palmer had given information?—I did.

487. And he was first?—So I heard.

488. You had heard that?—Yes.

489. How long have you known Palmer?—Twenty-one years.

490. You have been on pretty intimate terms with him, have you not?—Well, no.

491. Had you met him at Bussell's?—I had.

492. At the time you mentioned this circumstance to Palmer, was Bussell in the town or out of it?—I do not believe he was.

493. You think he was gone?—I think he was.

494. So long as Bussell was here, you never mentioned it to any one but your wife, did you?—I did.

495. To whom?—To several people.

496. Tell me the persons to whom you mentioned it whilst Bussell was in the town?—To Mrs. James.

497. I do not know that lady, and to whom else?—To Henry James.

498. Well, I do not know that gentleman; there shall be no doubt about the identity; he is dead, is he not?—He won't tell no tales, he won't.

499. But when did he die?—Why, three weeks ago.

500. Tell me any living person to whom you mentioned it while Bussell was in the town?—William Baker, a boot and shoemaker.

501. Was that before you went to Mr. Brice's?—Yes.

502. And you told him that you had had 10 l.?—I had 10 l. to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl.

503. That you told me before, because you thought you had done wrong I suppose?—I don't know about doing wrong or right; I cannot tell about that; I cannot see very much wrong in it.

504. You have had no money from any one for this evidence of course?—I have not.

505. Nor a promise of money?—I have not.

506. How many times have you seen Palmer about it?—Once since that.

507. When was that?—On Saturday week.

508. Did he come to you?—No.

509. Did you go to him?—I was walking down, and I met with him.

510. Did Palmer ever tell you that he had 10 l.?—He did.

511. Did he tell you that the money was counted out in his hand?—He did.

512. It so happened that the money was counted out in yours too?—It was.

513. Did Palmer tell you that the money had been counted over in his hand before you went to Mr. Brice's office or after?—In the office.

514. At the same time?—At the same time.

515. Did he tell that to you or the clerk?—To me and the clerk.

516. Who spoke about the counting out in the hand first, you or Palmer?—Palmer, I think, it was.

517. Palmer said first that he had had it counted out, and then you told this tale that it was counted out in your hand too?—Yes.

518. In the cellar, and the same sum?—Yes.

519. The meetings that you spoke of when Bussell was present were open meetings, so that anyone could come to them?—I think they were meetings for all hands; any person could come in that liked.

520. The whole constituency or the whole populace, of whatever side in politics, could come in?—Yes.

521. You told the gentleman who examined you that Bussell was very active at those meetings; what did you mean by that?—He was always in the Liberal interest.

522. But the question was put as to these Liberal meetings in this room, and you said he was very active in them; what did you mean by that?—He was always hopping about and jumping about after people.

523. It was a very full meeting was it not, so probably he could not jump about much, but what did you mean by his being very active?—Out in the street he was very active.

524. But never mind out in the street, in the meeting do you mean that he was very active in the meetings?—I do.

525. How was he active?—He was always hurrahing.

526. I suppose other people hurrahed, did they not?—I suppose so, I did not, I know.

527. You did not hurrah for Mr. Vanderbyl even, for whom you intended to vote?—No, I am not in the habit of hurrahing.

528. You know Mr. James Sully, do you not?—I do very well.

529. On the 2nd of January, or at the beginning of the year, did you meet him upon the bridge?—Not that I know of.

530. Did you meet John Sully on the bridge?—I knows him very well.

531. I ask, did you meet him on the bridge on the 2nd of January?—I cannot tell about the date.

532. Do you recollect meeting him, and talking to him about the beginning of the year?—I do not.

533. Do you recollect his saying to you, "Captain Crocker, is this true what I hear, that you took money of the Liberals"?—He has been to me about that there statement.

534. Then I gather from you that something of that kind was said to you?—Yes; he said, "I have overheard that you gave the money up." I says, "No such thing, I have not; I have got the money at home yet."

535. Did you not reply to him when he asked, "Was it true that you have taken money from the Liberals"? "I never saw the sight of it, and I never had it"?—No, I never said such a word.

536. Upon

W. Crocker.

1869.

W. Crocker.
1869.

536. Upon your oath did you not say so?—Upon my oath I never said such a word, because Mr. John Sully knewed that I had the money the very same afternoon.

537. Did you tell him the same afternoon?—I told him of it in the hall in the front room.

538. You gave me just now the name of a dead man as the only person to whom you have told it; you must have forgotten Mr. John Sully's name?—I told he of it, I know.

539. Why did you not tell me so when I asked you for the name just now?—I did not think of his name then.

540. You forgot it?—It slipped my memory.

541. If you told Mr. John Sully the same afternoon, and relieved your conscience by telling him, what could have taken you to James Palmer the same afternoon to get this off your mind?—I went for to make a regular open confession of it.

542. But you did go to Mr. John Sully, and you told me you went to Palmer to make an open confession of it?—Aye, but that was not Mr. Brice.

543. That is quite true; now let me ask about another man; do you know James Harrington?—I do; a basket maker.

544. I have given you now the names of two persons; did you not in Harrington's presence tell Mr. John Sully, "No, I never had a penny; I never saw any money"?—I never did, on my oath.

545. I have given you two witnesses?—I never did, on my oath.

546. Do you know a woman of the name of Sarah Cooze?—Yes.

547. Does she keep a beer-house at Bridgewater?—She do.

548. On Sunday, the 24th January, were you in her house, in the afternoon, about five o'clock?—I was, and had a quart of beer there.

549. When she spoke to you, did she say to you, "I shall have nothing to say to an informer"?—She did.

550. Did she not tell you that she had heard you had taken money from the Liberals, and given information to the Blues?—She did; I said—

551. I will ask you the words you said, if you please; was not this your reply, "So help me God, it is a lie; I never had a farthing more than you had, but I expect I shall be subpœnaed"?—I never said such a word, on my oath.

552. Nor anything like that?—Nor anything like that, on my solemn oath.

553. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Let us hear what you did say?—I told her I had the money, and I made an open confession over in Mr. Brice's office, and I expect I shall be subpœnaed for it.

554. Mr. Henry James.] Then your statement is, that you told her you had had the money?—I did.

555. When you gave the answer that you had not had it, did she reply to you, "I am sure that you must have had the money;" and did you not say, "No, it is because I joined the Conservative Association and then voted Liberal," referring to the fact of your being subpœnaed?—I told her that I had the money, and I made an open confession of it in Mr. Price's office, and I expected, as I belonged to the Conservative Association, I should be subpœnaed for it.

556. You did say, that because you belonged to the Conservative Association you would be subpœnaed for it?—I did.

557. Did it not occur to you that if you had been to Mr. Brice's office and told this tale truly about having the 10*l.*, you were certain to be subpœnaed whether you belonged to the Conservative Association or not?—So I should.

558. Then what was the use of telling her that you would be subpœnaed because you did belong to the Conservative Association?—I had overheard that I was going to be subpœnaed.

559. Of course you had given information for the very purpose of being subpœnaed, had you not?—The Witness hesitated.)

560. Why did you tell Mr. Cooze that you should be subpœnaed because you belonged to the Conservative Association and had voted for the Liberals, if you had been giving information to Mr. Brice for the purpose of being subpœnaed and proving this statement?—I cannot answer that question; I do not know about that.

561. Did she not also say to you, "I suppose you have done that for the money;" and did you not reply, "So help me God, Sally, I never had a penny"?—I never said such a word, upon my oath; I could not say such a word about never having had the money.

562. On the 10th of January did you meet her again opposite the "King's Arms"?—I did.

563. Did you ask her to give you a glass of beer?—I did.

564. Did she say to you, "No informer shall ever drink with me"?—She did.

565. Did you not say to her again, using this expression, "So help me God, I am not one"?—She went away.

566. Of course she went away, but before she went away did she not say, "No informer shall ever drink with me;" and did you not reply, "So help me God, I am not one"?—I never said such a word in all my life.

567. "But I was subpœnaed last night all about joining the Association, and that is all I know about the thing," using coarse language in it?—I never said such a word as "So help me God."

568. Then there is no truth in any of those conversations?—I don't believe there is.

569. You are the best person to judge, you must know?—I don't believe there is one half a word.

570. Are you prepared to swear that there is no truth in them?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

571. What do you mean by saying to my learned friend, "I am not prepared to swear that there is no truth in this;" did you understand that question?—I never said "So help me God," that I never had the money, because I had the money, and therefore I could not go from that.

572. You say you never used the words that have been put to you?—I never did.

573. What did you mean by saying, "I am not prepared to swear that those were untrue;" did did you understand the question that was put to you?—I did not.

574. Do you, or do you not, mean to swear that those conversations with Sarah Cooze are true or false?—They are very false.

575. She spoke to you about being an informer?—She did.

576. Who is Sarah Cooze; is she a married or a single lady?—She is a widow now.

577. What does she do; she keeps this beer-shop or public-house?—Yes; the “North Pole Inn,” and I went in there on Sunday afternoon.

578. When you first spoke to her, you were asked these questions, whether you did not say, “So help me God, I never touched the money,” or something of that kind; had you been to Mr. Brice’s office?—I had then.

579. Is Mr. Brice, the gentleman by my side who is one of the solicitors, acting on this petition?—This is the clerk, here (pointing to a person in Court).

580. You have seen his clerk?—Yes.

581. Mr. Brice is one of the solicitors for this petition, is he not?—I believe he is.

582. You said also, in answer to my learned friend, “I wish to make a clean breast of it”?—I did.

583. Why did you wish to make a clean breast of it?—I was not happy within myself.

584. Have you heard or seen anything about certificates, or anything of that kind, about the power of the judge to give you a certificate if you stated what was true?—I never know’d nothing; not half a word about the law.

585. But you say you were troubled in your mind, and I will leave you there; you have been asked about promising for Mr. Kinglake; do I understand you to say that you did at one time absolutely promise to vote for Mr. Kinglake?—I did, and Mr. Vanderbyl, at the “Queen’s Head.”

586. How long was it before the polling day that you promised Mr. Kinglake?—I cannot say that; a fortnight, I suppose.

587. Who was with you then?—Mr. James Sully, and Mr. Rigg, and Mr. Jones.

588. Is that Stephen Collin Jones?—That is the man.

589. Were they canvassing you at the time?—They was.

590. Who was present besides; was Mr. Vanderbyl there?—He was.

591. And Mr. Kinglake?—They was both there.

592. And Mr. Sully and Mr. Jones?—Mr. James Sully and Mr. Rigg, and Mr. Stephen Collin Jones.

593. You say they gave you a pint of half-and-half?—They gave me a pint of half-and-half; Mr. Sully did, and he had hisself a glass of beer too.

594. Who is Mr. James Sully?—That is Mr. James Sully (pointing to a person in Court).

595. But what is he?—I believe he is a ship-owner. W. Crocker.

596. Is he a large shipowner here?—A very large shipowner here. 24 February 1869.

597. And he was with Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl at this time?—He was.

598. Had you seen him at all before canvassing with Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl, or not?—I had, with Mr. Sully and Mr. Jones.

599. How often had you seen them together?—Once or twice, or two or three times perhaps.

600. Before the election?—Yes; I did not take any notice of them.

601. Were they together?—They was.

602. Were they apparently calling at the houses?—They were calling from house to house.

603. Were you at any time in the employment of Mr. Sully?—I never was; I never earned a halfpenny from him as I know of.

604. You have told my learned friend, what I was not aware of, that you were in Bussell’s house at half-past 11 o’clock before you received the money?—I was.

605. Had Bussell canvassed you for your vote at any time before that?—Not at all.

606. Did he then at half-past 11 o’clock speak to you about your vote?—He did not, but at half-past one o’clock I was, out on the quay and he called me in.

607. Had you been loitering about there from half-past 11 o’clock to half-past one o’clock?—I had.

608. Were there other voters up there?—I went into my brothers, into the “Fountain’s Inn.”

609. Is that close by?—Next door.

610. Did you see other voters about?—More than 40 of them were knocking about.

611. Outside the “Anchor”?—Outside the “Anchor,” and at the foot of the bridge too.

612. For how long had they been knocking about together, as far as you could judge?—All the morning.

613. And you were with them?—I was with them there off and on.

614. You say that Bussell took the sovereigns out of his right hand pocket?—Out of his right hand pocket, and put them into my hand.

615. Did you, or did you not, observe whether he had more sovereigns in his pocket than those which he gave to you?—I could not tell that, you know, but I heard a rattle there.

616. You say he took out and counted 10*l*?—In my hand.

617. Did he take out exactly 10*l*., or did he take out more than 10*l*?—I think there must have been over 15*l* there.

618. I ought to have asked you who John Sully is?—He is a tailor by trade.

619. He is a relation of the other Sully?—He is a relation to Mr. James Sully; he is his brother.

620. Is he his brother?—That is right.

1869.

621. ARE you the wife of the last witness?—
Yes.

622. Do you remember the day of the last election, the 17th of November?—Yes.

623. Did your husband give you any money on that day?—In the evening he gave me 10*l*.

624. Was it in notes or gold?—In gold.

625. What did you do with it?—I put it in my pocket.

626. Did you at all ask him anything about it?—I asked him where he got it.

Mr. Henry James objected to the reception of this evidence.

Mr. Justice Blachburn overruled the objection.

627. Mr. Serjeant Parry (to the Witness).] Did he, or did he not, tell you?—Yes, he did.

628. What did he say to you?—He told me Mr. Bussell gave it to him to vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

629. Did you keep the money?—I did.

630. And you spent it?—Yes.

631. Did you accompany your husband to Mr. Brice's?—No.

632. When did you give your evidence?—I have not given any evidence at all.

633. You have made a statement to some gentleman, and you have been somewhere and had your statement taken down?—I have not been nowhere out of my house.

634. Has anybody been to you?—Yes, they brought me a subpoena.

635. Has nobody else been to see you?—Yes, two gentlemen came to me.

636. Who were they?—I believe it was that gentleman there (pointing to Mr. Smith).

637. When was that?—On Monday afternoon.

638. That was the first time you had given any statement to have it taken down?—Yes.

639. You recollected at once that it was on Tuesday, the 17th, that you had the money?—It must have been; it was on the polling day.

640. You knew that your husband had been to give information with Mr. James Palmer?—I do not know.

641. When did he tell you then?—I do not know that he told me at all.

642. Did you learn from your husband that he had made a statement to some one that he had been bribed with 10*l*?—Yes, I heard that he had been.

643. Where did you hear it?—At several places.

644. Did you hear it from him?—Yes, he told me he had.

645. Did he consult you before he did it, or tell you afterwards?—He done it, and told me after.

646. When did he tell you that he had done it?—May be a day or two after.

647. Would that be about a fortnight after the election?—I cannot say.

648. When he told you that, he reminded you, I suppose, that he had given you the 10*l*?—Yes, of course he did.

649. And then you recollected that you had it?—Yes, I know I had it.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

650. But you knew that you had it all along, and it required no effort of memory?—Yes, I knew I had it.

651. Those gentlemen that came to you were from Mr. Brice's office?—I did not know them; I knew one of them.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HUGH PEARCE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

H. Pearce.

652. WHAT are you by calling?—A mariner.

653. Are you a voter?—Yes.

654. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake.

655. Do you know Mr. Henry Chapman Bussell, the landlord of the "Anchor"?—Yes.

656. Were you at his house at all on the day of the election?—Yes.

657. At what time were you there?—I was there in the morning, and I drank one glass of beer.

658. At what time in the morning?—Well, I cannot say exactly, it might be ten o'clock.

659. Do you remember seeing Palmer there?—I saw him there in the morning.

660. Do you know him?—I knows him.

661. Do you know William Crocker?—Yes.

662. Do you remember seeing them there?—No, I never saw William Carver there.

663. But you did see Palmer there?—I saw Palmer there in the morning.

664. Do I understand from you that you merely went in in the morning and had a glass of beer about ten o'clock, and that was all?—Yes, that was all.

665. Did you stay long in the bar?—I may have stayed in the bar.

666. How long were you there?—I might have been there five or ten minutes.

667. Not more?—No, I should not think I was.

668. Were you then only there for five or ten minutes, about ten minutes during the whole of the day of polling; do you swear that?—I was there in the afternoon, I just went inside the door.

669. You mean you popped your head in and popped it out again?—I went in to make water.

670. Inside the public-house?—Yes, at the watering-place.

671. Do I understand that that is all?—That is all.

672. You did nothing but the two things you have described, drinking a drop of beer and the other thing in the afternoon?—That is all.

673. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

674. Did

674. Did you see Mr. Bussell in private that day?—I saw him once in Fore-street and in his house.

675. Fore-street; where is that?—Close by the "Clarence."

676. Did you have any conversation with him then?—I did not.

677. Did you have any conversation in private with Mr. Bussell that day in his own house or elsewhere?—I did not.

678. Nothing of the kind?—Nothing of the kind.

679. You did not go into his cellar at all with him?—I did not.

680. Do you know the cellar?—No, I was never in his cellar.

681. You did not go into any room in his house with him?—I did not.

682. Did you not receive 10*l.* from him on that day to vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—I did not.

683. Nor any other day?—Nor any other day.

684. Have you been asked to make a statement about this matter, and refused to do it?—No.

685. Have you been asked to give information about this, and refused to do it?—No.

686. You swear that?—Not that I am aware of.

687. Did any one apply to you to know whether you had received money from Mr. Bussell?—No one, without it was Mr. What's-his-name asked me.

688. Who is What's-his-name?—Mr. Hayward, the shoemaker, asked me whether I had seen Mr. Bussell, or had had any money from him.

689. When was that?—When he brought me the subpoena.

690. Did you refuse to give him any information?—Not in the least.

691. What did you say to him?—I said I saw him once or twice.

692. Saw whom once or twice?—Mr. Bussell.

693. Where?—In Fore-street.

694. Not once or twice; only once?—I saw him when I was at his house.

695. Was that what you said to Mr. Hayward, that you saw him once or twice that day?—Yes.

696. Do you know William Parker, a porter, at Messrs. Poole's?—No, not to my recollection; I might know him by sight, but I do not know him by name.

William Parker was directed to stand forward.

697. Do you know him?—I do not.

698. You never saw him?—I might have seen him.

699. You never spoke to him?—Not to my recollection.

700. Will you swear you never spoke to him?—Not to my recollection; I will swear I never spoke to him, not to my recollection.

701. Do you know anybody who is a porter at Messrs. Poole's?—No.

702. Do you know Messrs. Poole's, the provision dealers?—I do not; I know Mr. Poole the bread-maker, or whatever he is.

703. You know him?—Yes.

65.

704. Do you know any of his servants or porters?—Not that I know of.

705. Will you swear you never spoke to that young man about the election?—Yes, to my recollection.

706. Will you positively swear it?—Yes, I will.

707. I ask you upon your oath did you tell William Parker that you had got 10*l.* from Mr. Bussell?—I did not; I never had it, and I do not know William Parker.

708. That young man (pointing to William Parker)?—I do not know him.

709. I understand you to swear that you never had 10*l.* from Mr. Bussell, and that you never told any one that you had it?—I did not.

710. Nor any other sum?—I did not; no sum.

711. You had no money whatever for your vote?—No, no money whatsoever.

712. And you never said that you had any money to any one?—Not to any one; I might have for a joke, when they have been chaffing me.

713. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Do you say you have said so to people who have been chaffing you about it?—No, not more than people have chaffed and wanted to say that I had had it, and I have said, "Yes, certainly;" that is all.

714. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] You said, "Yes, certainly," you had; you did not mean what you said?—No.

715. You said it in a jocular way?—Yes; there was electioneering on the bridge every night.

716. If there was electioneering on the bridge every night, when you might have said that you had 10*l.*, might you have said you had 10*l.* from Bussell?—I did not.

717. Did you say you had it?—I do think so, but I did not have it.

718. Did you say when you were electioneering on the bridge, by way of chaff or joke, that you had got 10*l.* from Mr. Bussell?—I did not.

719. What did you say; you say you said something about getting money?—They would be chaffing and going on.

720. What would they say to you?—"Then you are right enough; you have a jeivey," and the like of that. I said, "Right enough, yes, certainly."

721. That you had had it?—I did not have it.

722. Did you say you had?—I did not.

723. Not by way of a joke?—No.

724. Not when they said, "You had money as well;" did not you say, "All right, certainly"?—No, I did not.

725. You have just said you did; what do you mean to tell his Lordship; be careful?—I will tell you the truth. Do you want to see that I shall say that I did have it, whether I did or not; excuse me saying so?

726. You did say that you might, whilst electioneering on the bridge, have said by way of chaff or joke to some people that you had had this money?—I had not had it.

727. That I distinctly understand, but did you ever say by way of joke that you had?—I did not.

728. Did you not tell my Lord just now that you did?—I cannot say what I might have said in a joke.

H. Pearce.

1869.

729. What did you say in a joke?—I cannot say what I did say in a joke; I tell you the fact of the matter is you want to baffle me.

730. I think you are baffling me?—I tell you I hadn't it; I never had anything from either side.

731. You are well known in this town, and you were on the bridge electioneering at the election time; how long were you on the bridge?—I cannot say how long.

732. How long were you there on the day of the election?—I was to and fro.

733. How many hours?—I was to and fro all day.

734. To and fro on the bridge, electioneering all day like other men?—Yes.

735. Is this bridge close by the "Anchor"?—Yes.

736. And Mr. Bussell's house?—Yes, close by.

737. What time did you vote?—I cannot say exactly; three o'clock I think it was.

738. Had you promised all along to support Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—I had made no promise.

739. Had you made no promise?—No, not to no one else but my wife.

740. We tell our wives everything; had you ever promised Mr. Kinglake, or Mr. Vanderbyl, or Mr. Westropp, or Mr. Gray, to vote for them?—I did not.

741. You never did promise any one?—On my oath I do not know that I ever spoke to the gentleman only once.

742. Were you ever canvassed?—No.

743. No one asked you for your vote?—No.

744. Do you mean that no one asked you for your vote before the election?—No one asked me for my vote; they were telling me to go and vote.

745. Who was telling you to go and vote?—A great many.

746. Did Mr. Bussell tell you to go and vote?—No.

747. Had you no conversation about your vote?—He asked me which side I was going.

748. What did you tell him?—I told him I was going my own side.

749. That was what you said to Mr. Bussell?—Yes.

750. Which side was that?—The Liberal, and the cheap loaf.

751. We are now about the 17th of November 1868. When did Mr. Bussell ask you for your vote, and which side you were going; was it the day of the election?—Yes.

752. You told him what?—I said I was going my own side.

753. What time was that?—I cannot say what time.

754. What time in the day?—It might be 10 o'clock, for what I know.

755. You said you went into the house at 10 o'clock, and came out in five minutes?—He never asked me in his house. I never said five minutes; I said it might be five minutes, or 10 minutes, or 20 minutes.

756. You say that he might have asked you how you were going to vote at 10 o'clock on the day of the poll?—Yes.

757. Did not you say you never saw him, except in Fore-street in the afternoon?—No, I said I saw him in his house.

758. Did he ask you in the house for your vote?—He did not.

759. Where did he ask you, at 10 o'clock, for your vote?—I cannot say; he never asked me for the vote.

760. Which side you were going; when did he ask you, on the day of the election, which side you were going?—I cannot say what day.

761. What hour of the election day was it?—I believe it was about 10.

762. Where?—I believe it was on the Quay.

763. Have not you sworn to my Lord, that you only saw Mr. Bussell twice; at 10 o'clock in his house, and in the afternoon in Fore-street; have not you sworn that, upon your solemn oath, in the hearing of every one here; have you not sworn that you only saw him twice, when you went in for a drop of beer at 10 o'clock, and afterwards in Fore-street, when you did not speak to him?—I never said I did not speak to him.

764. You now say he asked you, on the Quay, which side you were going; is that true?—Yes.

765. Did you pay for that drop of beer yourself?—No, Captain John Harwood paid for it.

766. I understand you to say, that you kept your counsel till three o'clock in the day; you never told any one, except your wife, how you were going to vote; did you tell your wife that you were going to vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—Yes.

767. When did you tell her that?—That that was my inclination.

768. When did you tell your wife that?—I might have told her that at different times.

769. You mean to swear that you never told any one else?—No.

770. Why did not you tell people that you were going to vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—I might have told other people.

771. Have you not sworn that you never did?—No.

772. Can you look me in the face and tell me that?—I said I never told any one as I know of.

773. Did not you tell me, "I never told anybody but my wife how I was going to vote," and do not you remember my saying, "We tell our wives everything"?—Yes.

774. Have you a sister of the name of Mrs. Harwood?—I have.

775. Did you ever tell her you were going to vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray?—I did not; not to the best of my remembrance; not to the best of my knowledge, I did not.

776. Your sister is alive and well?—Yes.

777. And able to give her evidence?—Yes.

778. On your solemn oath, did not you tell your sister, Mrs. Harwood, that you would vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray?—I did not.

779. Will you swear that?—I will.

780. On the morning of the election?—I did not.

781. Will you give us any reason for keeping back your vote till three o'clock that day; any honest reason?—I will give you the reason; the reason I held back was, because I did not think our side would win. I said I should go and drown myself.

782. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Say again what it was?—I said I should not go to the poll at all.

783. You are asked why you did not go to the poll till the late hour you did go to poll?—Because

Because I did not think our side would win, and I said I would not go at all, and that if our side would not win, I intended to drown myself. A great many might have heard me say so.

784. You did not mean literally to drown yourself, did you?—I said it merely in a joke; I do not suppose I should have done such a thing.

H. Pearce.

1869.

ELIZABETH JANE LANGDON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

785. I BELIEVE you are a servant?—Yes.
786. And you live at Baker's-court, in East-over?—Yes.
787. Do you remember the 17th of November, the polling day?—Yes.
788. Do you remember on that day seeing a man named James Honeyball?—Yes.
789. What time of the day?—After three and before four.
790. Between three and four?—Yes.
791. Is James Honeyball servant to Mr. John Brown, of Bridgwater?—Yes.
792. A large brick merchant?—Yes.
793. Where did you see Honeyball?—He came out of the "Anchor Inn."
794. Mr. Bussell's?—Yes.
795. Where were you standing?—By the "Fountain."
796. Is that next door to Bussell's?—Yes.
797. At that time were there a good many men standing about round the "Anchor"?—Not that I am aware of; I did not see any.
798. Did you see Honeyball come out of the inn?—Yes.
799. How near was this man standing to Mr. Bussell's?—By the door.
800. The door of Mr. Bussell's?—Yes.
801. What did he say to the man?—He asked him who he was going to vote for.
802. Did he say "Who are you going to vote for"?—Yes.
803. What did the man say?—He had not made up his mind who he should vote for.
804. Did Mr. Honeyball say anything to him upon that?—Yes.
805. What did he say?—He would give him 5*l.* to vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl.
806. What did the man say to that?—He said he would.
807. When the man said he would, what did Honeyball do?—He gave him something wrapped in a small piece of white paper, which I believe was 5*l.*
808. When he gave the piece of white paper to this man, did he say anything at the time?—He said, "It be 5*l.*;" and told him to put it into his pocket, and go and vote.
809. Did he say anything else about being quiet?—Yes.
810. What did he say?—He says, "Keep it quiet;" and told him to say nothing about it.
811. Do you know the man's name?—No.
812. Can you give a description of the man?—A dark-complexioned man; he had a brown bowler on.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] This is the man who received the money?—

813. Mr. Collins.] Yes. (To the Witness.) What became of Honeyball?—He went back to Bussell's house.

814. And what became of the man who received the 5*l.*?—He went towards the town, I believe to poll.

815. Were you in court yesterday?—Yes.

65.

816. Did you see James Honeyball yesterday?—Yes, over there.

817. Was he in court too?—Yes.

818. Did he say anything to you yesterday?—Yes.

819. What did he say?—He says, "Mind the 5*l.*, miss."

820. Can you tell me whether that was after this gentleman had spoken (Mr. Serjeant Parry)?—Yes.

821. It was after that gentleman had spoken?—Yes, when we were going out; Mr. Harwood was behind me, and heard him say it.

822. What else did he say?—He said he would have my top-knot off.

823. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] That is the chignon?—Yes; he says top-knot.

824. Mr. Collins.] He rudely called it a top-knot?—Yes.

825. Did you see him again that same day?—Yes, outside; he said the same words again.

826. Did he say anything else to you outside?—He said something about Mr. Rooker, I believe that is the name.

827. What did he say about Mr. Rooker?—He says, "Mind;" Rooker I believe was the name.

828. Was it Oakley?—I know it began with an R.

829. How did he say this,—loud?—Yes; Mr. Harward, behind me, heard it.

830. Has Rooker something to do with the gaol?—Yes, at Taunton.

831. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Is it Oakley?—I know it began with an R.

832. Mr. Collins.] Was anything else said or done?—Not by Mr. Honeyball.

833. Has any one else threatened you, or said anything to you?—Mr. John Harwood, the captain, said I should have my ears cut off.

834. When did he say that?—He said that on Sunday morning; he said it before last week, several times.

835. Is that John Harwood, the captain?—Yes.

836. The captain of the "Fame"?—Yes.

837. What time last Sunday did he say that?—Last Sunday, about seven.

838. Where were you?—Passing over the bridge.

839. Did he call out after you?—Yes, as I was going past, that I would have my ears cut off. He says, "Here is the one coming that is going to swear against Honeyball; she shall have her ears cut off, she will have none by next Sunday."

840. Did anybody else say anything to you?—Yes.

841. Who?—Mr. Henry Jarman wanted me, last Sunday, to go into Smith's shop, to tell him what I was subpoenaed for.

After a suggestion from his Lordship,—

Mr. Serjeant Parry said that he would not pursue this further.

Cross-examined

E. J. Langdon.

*E. J.
Langdon.*

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

1869.

842. You have told us what a good many people said, but you have not told us what you said in answer to all of them?—I did not speak to them.

843. You are a quiet young lady, you do not answer when people say things to you?—I only speak when I am spoken to.

844. When they spoke to you about your ears being cut off, what did you say?—The first time I said, "Mind you do not have your head cut off;" that was the first time.

845. That would be ears, and top-knot, and everything else into the bargain; I thought you would go a little further than he did. When the gentleman spoke to you going out of court yesterday, what did you say to him?—I did not speak to him till I got out; when I got out I said if he wanted to do dirty work he should not take so many sly glasses.

846. Do you mean drinking so much?—Yes.

847. It seems you are quite able to take care of yourself, in answer, at any rate; I did not catch what occupation you said you were?—A servant.

848. Whose servant?—Nobody's servant.

849. You are your own mistress, you think?—My mother is my mistress.

850. How long have you been your own mistress?—I am not my own mistress; my mother is mistress over me.

851. Where do you live?—In Baker's-court, Eastover.

852. With your father and mother?—I have no father; I have a mother.

853. How long have you been living with your mother?—A great many months; she is not able to do anything for herself; I live with her.

854. How many months have you been so occupied?—For a great many months.

855. How many?—I have not been out, not since June last.

856. I was right in assuming that you were pretty well your own mistress; you go in and out when and where you like?—I cannot go in and out when I like.

857. You ask leave?—Yes.

858. Baker's-court is a good way off from the "Anchor Inn"?—Not so very far, not many minutes' walk.

859. A quarter of an hour's walk?—No, you can go in five minutes.

860. What time in the day was it you were standing next to the "Anchor Inn" to see this little business of the 5*l*.?—After three and before four.

861. You had asked your mother to let you out?—Yes, I was out seeing the election.

862. Were you merely standing about in the crowd like others?—I came down the town with a friend of mine.

863. Another young lady who is of no occupation?—No, she was running out; she had to go to Castle-street for her mistress.

864. You and she came down together?—Yes, she told me to stand by the "Fountain" till she returned, which I did.

865. You were waiting at the "Fountain" till she came back?—Yes; and then I saw Mr. James Honeyball come out of the "Anchor," Mr. Bus-sell's house, and meet the man.

866. Where was the dark-looking man standing before he came out?—He was walking up and down.

867. On the road?—On the pavement.

868. Were there many people about then?—No.

869. Was he coming towards you?—Yes, coming towards the bridge.

870. You were between the bridge and the "Anchor" door?—Yes, by the corner of the "Fountain."

871. The "Anchor" is beside the bridge, on the left hand side going towards the sea?—Yes.

872. You were between the "Anchor" and the bridge; and this gentleman, the dark-faced man, was coming towards the bridge?—Yes.

873. He was on the other side of the "Anchor"?—Yes.

874. Did Mr. Honeyball come out of the "Anchor" before the dark man had arrived, or did he come out after he passed, and follow him?—He came out and met him.

875. Just as the other was coming up?—Yes.

876. The other man happened to be accidentally coming up at the moment Honeyball walked out of the house?—Yes.

877. How many people were there about?—I did not take notice.

878. Somebody else has thought there were a great many people standing about this public-house?—There were not when I was there.

879. Not half-a-dozen people?—No.

880. Very likely there were not any at all, except Honeyball and the dark man?—I did not see any one.

881. When Honeyball came out, did he turn to the left to go away from the bridge, so as to meet the man?—No, he came out; the man came straight along with him.

882. They happened to run against each other?—They did not run against each other, but they nearly did.

883. He got up to the door just as Honeyball came out?—Yes.

884. Did they walk together up towards the bridge?—Yes, a few paces.

885. And then stood still?—Yes.

886. How far from the house where you were standing?—The next door, the "Fountain."

887. You were about as far off as my learned friend, Mr. Serjeant Parry, is from me?—Not quite so far.

888. The length of a house?—Yes.

889. Which of them spoke first?—Mr. James Honeyball.

890. You knew him, of course, perfectly well?—Yes.

891. How long have you known him?—A long time.

892. Have you known him in the town?—Yes.

893. The other man was a stranger?—Yes, quite strange to me.

894. And Honeyball, just alighting on this man as he passed the door, began to ask him about his vote?—Yes.

895. What did he say?—He asked him who he was going to vote for, and the man made answer and said, he had not made up his mind who he was going to vote for; and Mr. Honeyball says he would give him 5*l*. to vote for King-lake and Vanderbyl; and the dark man said, "I will."

896. And then what passed?—Honeyball handed handed him something wrapped in a small piece of white paper.

897. Already wrapped up in paper?—Yes.

898. All you saw was, he gave a piece of paper?—Which he says, “That is the 5 l.”

899. You heard him say that?—Yes; and he told him to put it into his pocket and say nothing about it, and to go and vote.

900. You thought they intended to keep it a very great secret?—Yes.

901. Do you know why he said it out so loud in the open street for you to hear it?—No.

902. Did not you think it very foolish of him, if he meant it to be secret?—Yes.

903. You got the idea that that piece of paper contained 5 l., because you heard that 5 l. had been talked about?—He mentioned it.

904. He took the trouble to say, “here is 5 l.”?—Yes.

905. Having that assurance, he did not open it to see that it was all right?—No; he put it in his pocket.

906. Where did Honeyball take it from?—He took it out of his pocket.

907. The exact sum all ready screwed up in paper?—Yes.

908. It did not take them long to make the bargain?—No.

909. Did the man with the 5 l. walk off by himself?—He went towards the town.

910. What became of Honeyball?—He went back into Bussell’s; he went in the passage; I could not say whether he went into the house.

911. However, he went into the house, and the other man went away with what you supposed to be the 5 l.?—Yes.

912. Your woman’s curiosity did not tempt you to follow him to see what he did with the 5 l.?—No.

913. You do not know whether he went to vote or not?—No.

914. Honeyball did not watch him to see whether he went to vote or not?—No.

915. You have no idea who the dark man was?—No.

916. You have never seen him since?—No, I have not seen him, that I remember.

917. Have you been anxious to look for him?—Not very anxious.

918. I thought, in case anybody doubted your story, you might have tried to look out for the man, and point him out; you have not done so?—No, I have not.

919. Where was it you told my learned friends this story that induced them to ask you to come here and tell his Lordship all about it?—They did not ask me to come and tell the Lord about it. On Wednesday there was a meeting by the “Clarence,” and I told Mr. Haywood, the gardener, first.

920. Do you mean last Wednesday?—No, Wednesday, the 18th of November, the day after the polling-day.

921. The day after the polling-day, there was a meeting where?—I do not know where it were. I believe it was a speech, or something, given in Gloucester-place, or somewhere about there.

922. Did you go to listen to it?—No, because I was not out that evening.

923. I do not understand what the meeting or the speech has got to do with your telling anybody; I want to know who you first told about this thing that you saw with Honeyball?—Haywood, he is a gardener.

924. You went and told him?—Yes.

925. Where?—By the “Clarence.”

926. In the street?—Yes.

927. You met him there by chance?—Yes.

928. The day after the poll?—Yes.

929. What did he say?—I told him I saw Honeyball give 5 l.

930. What did Haywood say?—He said I had better go and tell of it. I went into the “Clarence.”

931. Who was it you saw there?—That gentleman who is there writing (pointing to Mr. Boyle).

932. You saw him?—Yes, I did.

933. And you told him about it?—Yes.

934. Did he take it down in writing?—No, he did not. He told me to go to Mr. Trevor’s office the next morning.

935. Did you go to Mr. Trevor’s office the next morning?—Yes.

936. Did they put it down in writing?—Yes.

937. Did you sign it?—Yes.

938. What happened after?—I never heard anything more about it till I was subpoenaed.

939. How much money did you get with the subpoena?—Not any.

940. Nothing at all?—No.

941. Did you go and ask what it meant?—No.

942. What did you do with it?—I kept it in my pocket, which I should have it there now.

943. You did not go back to their office to know anything about it?—No.

944. Is that the only time you went to the office?—Yes.

945. Did they tell you to look out for the dark-faced man?—They told me to keep my eye about.

946. And have you kept your eye about?—Not particularly.

947. Why not?—Because I have not seen him since.

948. Perhaps you have not tried, or perhaps you know it is of no use to look for him?—Yes; if I had seen him I should have gone and told.

949. This is your one experience of the election; you know nothing else about it?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

950. Are you still living with your mother?—Yes.

951. You say last June you were in service?—Yes.

952. In whose service were you?—My aunt, Mrs. Quibbs, baker, Eastover.

953. How long had you been with her?—Three months; I went there till she could get another servant.

954. How long, altogether, have you been in service?—Not long; not above two years and six months altogether.

955. In whose service were you before you went to help your aunt?—Mrs. Bolswell’s; I stayed three weeks there.

956. You go out occasionally to service?—Yes, I go out to work; before that, I was 12 months at Weston-super-Mare.

957. You are only 16?—Sixteen.

[The court adjourned for the usual period.]

E. J.
Langdon.

CHARLES LONGLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

C. Longley.

1869.

958. ARE you a Master Mariner?—Yes.
 959. Do you live at Devonshire-street, Bridgewater?—Yes.
 960. Do you remember the day of the election, Tuesday?—Yes.
 961. Were you at the “Anchor,” at Bussell’s?—Yes.
 962. What time did you go there?—Between 12 and 1.
 963. In the afternoon?—In the afternoon.
 964. Do you know a man named Honeyball?—Yes.
 965. What is Honeyball?—I believe he is something under Messrs. Brown & Co.
 966. Was Honeyball at Bussell’s, when you came there?—I seen him there, while I was there.
 967. Did he say anything to Mrs. Bolswell?—He asked her for a pin; I do not know that he asked Mrs. Bolswell.
 968. Let us hear what he said?—He came in, and asked Mrs. Bolswell; asked the company if they had got a pin they could give him.
 969. Did he say what he wanted the pin for?—He said he wanted to pin his colours up, he was not ashamed of his colours.
 970. What were his colours?—I believe purple and orange colours.
 971. Did he say why he wanted a pin to stick his colours up?—No.
 972. Was anything said about going in to win, or anything of that sort?—Not that I am aware of.
 973. What did he do with the pin?—He pinned his colours up, and he went out.
 974. How many people were there when he came in?—I should say from 15 to 20.
 975. Were they in the house?—In the front parlour.
 976. Who were those 15 or 20 people?—I could not say.
 977. Did you know any of them?—I knew some of them.
 978. Let us have the names of some of them?—There were a few captains there, masters of vessels.
 979. Let us have their names?—I do not remember them.
 980. You are a Bridgewater man?—No.
 981. Do you know the Bridgewater people?—Some of them.
 982. Give my Lord a few of the names of the people who were at Bussell’s, if you remember any?—I do not remember any; I know what vessels they go in; there was the captain of the “Rosaline,” and I believe the captain of the “Queen;” I cannot call their names to my memory now.
 983. What were they doing?—They sat down.
 984. Drinking?—They were not drinking, particularly.
 985. Were they waiting?—I do not know what they were there for; they were there when I went, and when I left.
 986. Did you see Mr. Bussell?—I saw him there once or twice, coming in and out again.
 987. Did he go out with anybody each time?—Not that I am aware of.
 988. What did he do; how came he to come into this parlour?—I do not know what his business was in the parlour.
 989. How long did he stay?—I could not say how long he stopped; he came in, and looked in, and went out again.

990. What did you have to drink?—I believe it was a glass of gin-and-water.
 991. Did you pay for it?—Yes.
 992. How long did Honeyball stay in, while you were there?—He was not in many minutes, perhaps two minutes; as soon as he had a pipe he went out.
 993. Was anything said about the state of the poll by Honeyball?—Not that I am aware of.
 994. Did you hear anything?—Not that I am aware of.
 995. Do you know a man named Henry Hobbs, of Eastover?—Yes.
 996. Was he there?—No, I did not see him.
 997. When did you see Hobbs?—I went into Bussell’s between 12 and 1, and came out, and went home to dinner, about one o’clock.
 998. You saw him there?—No, I met him on the bridge.
 999. The same day?—Yes.
 1000. Did you meet Hobbs as you were coming from Bussell’s?—Yes, as I was going home to dinner.
 1001. Did you say something to Hobbs, at the time?—Yes, I remember saying something to him.
 1002. Remembering you said something to Hobbs, will you venture to say that Honeyball said nothing about the state of the poll, and what the Liberals were going to do?—Not that I can bring to mind, I did not hear him say anything of the sort.
 1003. Was this said?—
 Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] No.
 Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I think you can ask the question now.
 1004. Mr. Collins.] Was this said; did Honeyball say to Mrs. Bussell, “Come along, missus, let us have a pin to stick my colours up again, for we are going in to win”?—He might have said something of that sort, I could not say the words exactly.
 1005. You have no doubt he said something to that effect?—Yes.
 Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] Do not tell him that.
 Mr. Collins.] This is an adverse Witness; I am cross-examining him.
 Mr. Justice Blackburn.] We must hear what the Witness said, and we can get at that better without interruption.
 1006. (To the Witness.) Did he say anything of that sort?—Not that I am aware of.
 1007. Mr. Collins.] Will you say that he did not say something to that effect?—I do not know exactly what words he did say; but he came and asked for a pin, that he was not going to be ashamed of his colours.
 1008. Did he say anything about going in to win?—He might have said so.
 1009. Did he say that they were going in to win, meaning the Liberals; you say there were a good many people there waiting in the parlour; did he say, “Now every mother’s son of you can get a man”?—He said something to that effect.
 1010. He then left?—He went out; he said something to that effect.
 1011. And you went over the bridge and saw Hobbs?—Not at the same time.
 1012. A few minutes afterwards?—It might be a quarter of an hour afterwards.

JOHN VEARNCOMBE, sworn; examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

John Vearncombe.
1869.

1013. WHAT are you?—A boot and shoe maker.

1014. Are you a voter of this borough?—Yes.

1015. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl.

1016. Were you paid for it?—No.

1017. That you swear?—I swear it.

1018. Have you ever said that you were paid for it?—No.

1019. That you swear?—That I swear.

1020. Do you know Mr. Allway?—Yes.

1021. What is his Christian name?—James.

1022. Where does he live?—In the Cattle Market, close by myself.

1023. What is he?—He keeps a grocer's shop.

1024. Was he a supporter of Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake?—Yes.

1025. Did he canvas you for your vote?—No.

1026. Did you know of his canvassing any one for his vote?—No.

1027. Did you ever speak to him about your vote?—No.

1028. Nor he to you?—Nor he to me.

1029. You are well known in Bridgwater?—Yes, I was born and bred in Bridgwater.

1030. A great many people know you?—Yes.

1031. There are about 12,000 or 13,000 persons in Bridgwater?—I dare say half of them know me.

1032. In your own circle you have scores or hundreds who know you?—Yes.

1033. You never said that you had got some money from Allway?—Yes, I said I had 30 s.

1034. Was that true or false?—I give it to him first, I put it on his counter and said, "That is right, you will find."

1035. You say you have said that you got 30 s. from Allway?—I do not say I said I had it from Allway; I had 30 s. and I put it on Allway's counter, and he gave it to me again.

1036. That is not what you answered me just now; I ask you these questions, point blank; my meaning is this, were you not bribed to vote at the last election?—I was not.

1037. That you swear?—That I swear.

1038. Upon your solemn oath?—Upon my solemn oath.

1039. Did not you tell me this moment, that you had said to somebody you got 30 s. from Allway?—Yes; but I gave it to him first.

1040. Did you say to any one that you had got 30 s. from Allway?—I said I had 30 s.

1041. To whom?—To Mr. Harwood.

1042. You know William Harwood?—Yes.

1043. Where does he live?—In Friar-street.

1044. What is he?—A baker.

1045. He is a friend of yours?—Yes.

1046. You have always been on good terms?—Yes, and am now.

1047. You told him you had received 30 s. from Allway, but you now tell me that you put it on the counter first; be kind enough to explain that?—Friday week after the election I was at the "Duke of Wellington" in the bar; I went in to treat a person to a glass of beer.

1048. Was Mr. Harwood there?—Mr. Harwood came up after, and he put out very bad expressions to me.

1049. What were they?—He called me a bloody fool.

1050. I do not want to hear that?—You axed me what it was.

1051. This was your own personal friend in whom you trusted?—I had no trust of him.

1052. You were on good terms with him?—Yes, and am now.

1053. Why did he call you that epithet?—I cannot tell; he is a man about in public-houses, betting upon one thing and another; he is a betting man.

1054. You are disparaging your friend?

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] You had better learn what he did say.

1055. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] What did he say; he began with the expression you have used; what did he say?—He said I was a fool to let Allway best me out of 3 l.; I did not take any notice of it, I seen he was in drink, and he said, "So help me God, he best you out of 3 l.; he had 10 l. to give you, and he never gave you but 7 l." I said, "If I thought Allway had 3 l. to give me I would certainly fetch it." He repeated the same word again.

1056. Allway had 3 l. to give you, and he had not given it to you; now I interpose the question, had you any claim upon Allway for 3 l.?—Not at all.

1057. What made you say, if you thought Allway had 3 l. to give you, you would go and fetch it?—Because he said he had cheated me out of 3 l.

1058. But he had not; what made you say you would go and fetch it?—Just to carry on the game.

1059. It was nothing but a game?—That was all.

1060. Go on?—I went from the "Duke of Wellington" to Allway's, I lived between both; as I was going along I saw Rookley at his door, a door from me, I told him what had happened; I said, "I would go to Allway."

1061. What did you tell Rookley?—I told him the very same words I have repeated.

1062. What words?—What Allway had told me, and about cheating me; giving me 7 l., and cheating me out of 3 l.

1063. You told Rookley this?—Yes; then I went to Allway, and told Allway the same.

1064. Do not say the same, tell us the whole; what did you say to Allway?—I told him what Harwood said, that he had 10 l. to give me, and he only gave me 7 l., which I knew to be an untruth.

1065. Knowing it to be an untruth, you took the trouble to go to Allway and tell him that?—

1066. This was to carry out the game?—This was to carry out the game.

1067. How did you carry out the game with Allway?—I told Mr. Allway of it what he had said about him, and Mr. Allway said, "It was only a game, we will keep up the joke;" those were the very words. I said, "I will go into my house and get some money and go down, and we will keep up the joke." I goes into my own house, and I takes out about, it may be, three or four and thirty shillings.

1068. Was any one present when you took those

John Vearncombe. those 33 s.?—There was a person trying on a pair of boots in my house, when I went through.

1069. Have you a wife and family?—Yes.

1070. Did either your wife or any of your family see you take those 33 s. out?—My wife was in the shop with a young lady that was trying on a pair of boots.

1071. Did any one see you take out the 33 s.?—My wife can tell if she did, she can be called as a witness.

1072. Did not you tell your wife that you were acting a game with Harwood?—No.

1073. You did not say a single word about it?—Not a single word.

1074. Did she see you take out the 33 s.?—No, she did not, but I must have passed her to go in.

1075. She did not know what you went in for?—No.

1076. Your passing her to go in was of no consequence?—No, I had to pass by her.

1077. Tell us how you carried out the game; you came home and took this 33 s.; what did you do with it?—I went to the "Duke of Wellington" again; I had not been there above two minutes before Harwood said, "You have not got pluck to go up for that other 3 l., have you?" I said, "I will go if you will go with me."

1078. You had been up to Allway, and you had agreed upon the game you were to play?—Yes.

1079. Did not you say something about putting the 30 s. on the counter?—That was afterwards; we shall come to that by-and-by.

1080. Go on, then?—I went back to the "Duke of Wellington," and Harwood said I had not pluck to go up for the other 3 l.; I said, "If you will go with me, I will go up."

1081. Was this on the same day?—Not many minutes after.

1082. What day was it?—The Friday week after the election.

1083. Go on?—Harwood said, "Well, I will go up," and he rose up, and I rose up with him; Harwood came up, and I followed, and we went up as far as Rookley's, and he bided talking to Rookley; Rookley knew what was up before; he said, "You go on; I will be up in a moment."

1084. Who said that; Rookley?—No, William Harwood.

1085. You went out with him?—Yes, he stopped talking to Rookley.

1086. Was this part of the game?—Yes, he said, "You go on, I will be there directly." I goes up, and instead of putting 30 s., I do not know but what it might have been 29 s.

1087. Did you count them?—No, because I had three or four and thirty shillings, and I kept back three or four shillings; I hear since it was 29 s.; half-a-sovereign, and 19 s., and Mr. Allway took it up, and gave it me in my hands.

1088. Before Harwood?—No, Harwood did not come up; he promised to come up.

1089. Then why did you and Allway play this little game by yourselves; this was your little game and Allway's; why did you put 30 s. for Allway to take up, or 29 s., if it was a little game; you know what the sanctity of an oath is; you say you put this 29 s. or 30 s. upon the counter, and Allway took it up?—Allway took it up, and gave it to me.

1090. Was this all a sham?—Certainly.

1091. Why did you two play it together by yourselves?—Why did the other begin it?

1092. He was not there?—If he had not begun it with me, it would not have been done.

1093. Will you tell us why it was that, Harwood not being there, you took this 29 s. out of your pocket, put it on the counter, and that Allway took it up, and handed it to you?—To keep the game up after we had begun it.

1094. Then did you continue to keep the game up?—Going back to the "Duke of Wellington," I saw Harwood by Mr. Rookley's again; he said, "Have you got the money?" I said, "I have got 30 s.," and back we went to the "Duke of Wellington."

1095. Harwood never saw you at all at Allway's?—Yes, he saw me go there.

1096. Not at Allway's?—Yes.

1097. Was Harwood with you at Allway's?—No, I told you he stopped back.

1098. You told me he went with you to Allway's?—He could see me go to Allway's.

1099. He did not go with you; he never saw the 29 s. pass?—No.

1100. You transacted this with Allway, and you went back to Mr. Harwood; where did you find him?—Talking to Rookley.

1101. What did he say?—He said, "Have you got the money?" I said, "I have got 30 s.," I had above that in my pocket.

1102. Was that all; was the game finished then?—We went to the "Duke of Wellington." He asked me what I would have to drink; I said, "On this game we had better have a little gin-and-water."

1103. Out of the 30 s.?—No.

1104. Why not?—Because he paid for it.

1105. You having this little game on, and you having brought this 29 s., you said, "On this little game we had better have a little gin-and-water"?—He asked me what I would have to drink, and I said, "On this game, I suppose, you will be a glass of gin-and-water." He done so; there were a great many glasses; he treated all the company.

1106. That is not a part of the little game; that is a sort of interlude?—There is ever so much more after that; he asked me if I would go to the "Golden Ball."

1107. Has this little game finished, or are you continuing your narrative of it; when do you consider the game was played out?—I do not know; perhaps it may not be finished yet.

1108. Do you say it is or is not?—You may go on as far as you like.

1109. Is that all about the 30 s.; did anything else occur more about the 30 s.?—We went to the "Golden Ball."

1110. Is your game finished yet?—We went to the "Golden Ball." He asked me if I would go to the "Golden Ball;" I said, "Yes, or anywhere else." Mrs. Cole said, "Do not you go out."

1111. Who is Mrs. Cole?—The landlady at the "Duke of Wellington."

1112. Is Walter Cole the landlord?—Yes; it is Mr. Harwood's house.

1113. Go on about the "Golden Ball;" if the game is played out, tell me?—It is not.

1114. Go on with it, then?—Mrs. Cole said to me, "I would not go down." I said, "I will go; I will go anywhere; I know nothing, and nothing can be made of nothing."

1115. Nothing

1115. Nothing about what?—About the election.

1116. You knew something about the election; you knew Mr. Kinglake was a candidate?—I knew nothing about bribery.

1117. That is what you said to Mrs. Cole?—Yes.

1118. What made you say that?—I told Harwood the same then, and I went for a walk with Harwood the Sunday, and told him the same. They have subpoenaed people more than they had any occasion to.

1119. Have you done now; is that all that passed between you and Mr. Harwood?—Yes; we will say, let it go so.

1120. Did you go anywhere after the “Golden Ball”?—No.

1121. Did you go back to Allway’s?—No; I went home.

1122. Did any human being see you take this 33 s.?—No; my wife could not see me take it.

1123. Nobody saw you take it?—No person saw me take it.

1124. That was part of the game; that nobody should see you take it?—No.

1125. Is that all between you and Allway; does anybody else know about your taking this money out of your house, and putting it on the counter, and Allway giving it back to you; does anybody know it except you and Allway?—I do not know whether any of my youngsters saw me take it out; I have five children.

1126. Does anybody, whom you can vouch as a witness, know of this transaction, about this 29 s., but you and Allway?—No.

1127. Nor of the game?—No.

1128. Did you ever play a game of that sort before, in your life?—No.

1129. Have you ever played it since?—No.

1130. Have you ever said to anyone, besides Harwood, that you had received 7 l. for your vote?—Never in my life.

1131. Do you know James Palmer?—I have never spoken to him in my life.

1132. Do you know him?—I have seen him here.

1133. Have you seen him before?—I have seen him before; but I never spoke to him.

1134. Did you say in his presence, or anybody’s presence, that you had received 7 l. for your vote?—No; if I said so, I should tell a lie.

1135. Did you ever say so?—I never did say so.

1136. And you never received 7 l.?—No, nor yet one penny; nor yet a promise.

1137. Do you know Robert Bussell?—Yes, I do.

1138. Did you ever say, in his presence, that you had received 7 l. for your vote?—Never in my life.

1139. You never did say it to anyone; did Harwood say to you that he understood you had received 7 l. for your vote, or ask you if you had?—He told me I had done so.

1140. Did not you tell him you had?—No.

1141. Did not he tell you 10 l. was the price, and the man who had given you the 7 l. had robbed you?—Yes; but I never had received the 7 l.

1142. Did he say, “Go up and get the other 3 l.”?—I said, if he had 3 l. to give me, I should like to have it.

1143. Do you mean to represent that your saying that, if he had 3 l. to give you, you should like to have it, was the beginning of this little game?—No; how could it be the beginning.

1144. When the man told you that you had received 7 l., and you ought to have received 10 l., you said, “If I have another 3 l. to receive, I should like to have it”?—No; I said, “If I thought Allway would give me the 3 l., I would fetch it.”

1145. You went, as you have told us, and played out this little game?—Yes.

1146. Did not you say you had got 30 s., and that was all you could get?—No; I did not say that was all I could get.

1147. If you were playing a little game, why should you not have taken 3 l. out of your till, instead of 30 s.?—I had not got it in the house; I took all there was there; that was 33 s. or 34 s.

1148. Your wife did not know anything about it?—No; she knows nothing about it.

1149. Did you afterwards meet Harwood, at any time, with Allway?—Yes.

1150. Did he again challenge you about this matter?—No; I was going across to make inquiry about some work, and I saw Allway and Monsop together; he said, “If you will come along further you will see Billy Harwood.” I looked a little way down and saw him. He came back when he saw me. There was a little conversation; I could not say what it was, because I had to go about some work.

1151. Did Harwood say, when you and Allway were present, that Allway had given you 30 s., and asked him why he did not give you the other 30 s., having received 10 l. to give you?—No.

1152. Nothing of that kind?—Nothing of that kind.

1153. Did not Allway turn round to you and say, “Why, Vearncombe, you know that I gave you that for your work”; was it not for work?—That word was mentioned.

1154. How came that word to be mentioned?—He said that, and laughed to Harwood.

1155. Did not you say, “I will let you know what it is for”; and then did Allway swear at you?—No.

1156. Allway made use of no bad language?—I left in a moment; I had some business; I was not there a moment.

1157. Did not Allway say, “Damn your eyes, what do you mean”?—No.

1158. You swear he did not say anything of that kind in Harwood’s presence?—I swear he did not.

1159. Do you know Geoffrey Denman, who keeps the “White Lion Inn”?—Yes.

1160. Did you tell him that you had received 7 l., and 30 s., and could not get the 30 s. from Allway?—No; nor any other man.

1161. I am asking about him?—No.

1162. In the presence of a great many people?—No; I knew all about it.

1163. I am told I am wrong about Palmer being the man who was examined here; do you know James Palmer, the mason; do you know a person of the name of James Palmer?—Yes, if it is the one on the Quay; I knows that man; I don’t know whether his name is James or John.

1164. You know a Palmer?—Yes.

1165. Is he a mason on the Quay?—Yes.

1869.

John Vearncombe.
1869.

1166. Did you tell him that you had had 7*l.*; that you could not get the other 3*l.*?—I did not speak to the man more than once in my life.

1167. Did you say that?—No, never.

1168. When did you speak to him?—It may have been once.

1169. When?—Lately; there is a man that works with him who lives behind me; I think I met him at the door, and said "Good morning." I do not think I have spoken to the man since or before.

1170. Have you not told him that you had had 7*l.*, and could not get more than 30*s.* of the other 3*l.*?—No.

1171. Over and over again have you not complained of that?—No.

1172. You swear you never complained of that?—I swear I never complained of that.

1173. Do you know a man of the name of William Baker, a bootmaker?—Yes.

1174. Did you see him on the poll day standing upon the bridge?—No.

1175. Anywhere?—No.

1176. You never did see him?—No.

1177. Do you know him?—Yes.

1178. Did you show him a sovereign, and tell him that was part of what you got for your vote?—No; I have not spoken to him for 12 months.

1179. My question is, did you or did you not?—No.

1180. When have you seen him?—I very often pass him in the town.

1181. When did you see him last?—I cannot tell you.

1182. Did you see him on the day of the election?—No.

1183. Did you see him the day before?—No.

1184. How often have you seen him within the last 12 months?—I very often pass him in the town.

1185. And you have never spoken to him?—I have never spoken to him.

1186. Did you tell Baker this on the day after the election, "There was a great procession"?—I have not spoken to him these 12 months; we are not good friends; he is in the same line of business with me; we do not speak.

1187. Because of shoemaking?—No; I do not speak to him.

1188. Do you know the young man; do you know young Baker?—Yes.

1189. Have you spoken to him?—No.

1190. Are you equally unfriendly with him?—No, he is a lad; I do not mind talking to him.

1191. Neither to him nor his father, did you show the sovereign?—No.

1192. Nor to anyone?—Nor to anyone.

1193. You never showed a sovereign to anyone?—No.

1194. Are you sure?—Yes.

1195. You never showed a sovereign to anyone and said, "This is what I got for my vote"?—No.

1196. Did you tell Jeffrey Denman that you had had 7*l.* for your vote, and that your wife took it out of your pocket?—No; I have told Jeffrey Denman several times that I never had a farthing for my vote.

1197. How came you to tell him that?—I works for him; I very often go there with work; we were talking about the election one day.

1198. You say you told him several times that you never had a farthing?—I say I have never had a farthing.

1199. Why did you tell Jeffrey Denman that you never had a farthing?—We were talking about this little bit of a joke.

1200. Did not he believe you at first?—Yes.

1201. You never told him what I have said?—I never told him so in my life.

1202. What time did you poll?—Ten in the morning.

1203. For Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—Yes; I do not think it was two minutes after ten.

1204. Do I understand from you that you had always promised them your vote?—When Mr. Westropp called upon me, I told him I had been asked to promise Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl to vote, and would not.

1205. Did you promise them your vote?—When they came to me I promised them.

1206. When did they come?—I think it was almost the last day they was about canvassing.

1207. Who came with them?—Mr. Barham.

1208. Anybody else?—No one else.

1209. And then you promised them the last day of the canvassing?—I think it was the last day. I saw them about canvassing the last day.

1210. Had you promised anyone that you would vote for Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake before that?—Not that I know of.

1211. Had you kept it secret?—I generally was on that side.

1212. Will you swear that you voted at 10?—I think it was about 10; I think it was somewhere about 10.

1213. Was it between 12 and 1 that you voted?—No.

1214. Be careful, we have the poll-books?—I do not care about the poll-books.

1215. Is there another John Vearncombe?—Not in this town.

1216. Will you pledge your oath that you voted at 10 o'clock?—I pledge my oath it was not far from 10.

1217. Was it not between 12 and 1?—No.

1218. Will you swear it was before 11?—It was not far from 10.

1219. Do you swear it was not before 11; people saw you vote, and the time when you voted can be ascertained?—It could not be much past 10 when I voted.

1220. Was it before 11?—Yes.

1221. Are you certain it was before 11?—Yes.

1222. That you swear?—I say it was before 11 that I polled.

1223. You swear it was before 11?—I swear it was before 11.

1224. Who went with you to poll?—No one; nobody ever axed me to poll; I had my breakfast and washed.

1225. Will you swear that it was before 12; was it not between 12 and 1?—No; no such time.

1226. Did you ever say you had received 7*l.* in fun, and wanted the other 3*l.*?—I never said that I received 7*l.*, either in fun or in earnest; I said, when they said about 30*s.*, I had got 30*s.*; I never said I received it from Allway.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

1227. You are a master tradesman, having a shop in the High-street?—In the Cattle Market.

1228. And you have had one there for some few years?—Yes.

1229. Is there any pretence for anybody saying

John
Vearncombe.
1869.

saying that you received money on account of your vote?—No; none sumever.

1230. Is Harwood, with whom you had what my learned friend calls a little game, well known as a Conservative?—Yes.

1231. You say he was rather fresh that night?—He was rather drinky.

1232. Was it the first time you had overheard anyone suggest the idea of your having money?—Yes, the first time.

1233. He said this man Allway had had done out of 3 l.?—He said Allway had done me out of 3 l.

1234. That is he had 10 l., and had only given you 7 l.?—Yes, I knew it to be wrong at the time.

1235. He said that Allway had only given you 7 l.?—Yes.

1236. You never pretended that you had received 10 l. from anybody?—No.

1237. This man being rather drunk, and saying Allway had done you out of 3 l., you thought if Allway had got 3 l. to give you, you would go and fetch it?—Yes.

1238. Then, in order to carry out your joke, wanting Allway to give you some money, you took it out of your till, in order that you might truthfully say that he had given you 30 s.?—Yes.

1239. And you explained to Allway what this man had been talking to you about?—Yes.

1240. Allway handed over to you the money, and left you to carry out the joke?—Yes.

1241. When you went back the man said that you had not the pluck to go and get it, and you went and got it?—Yes.

1242. There is no pretence for saying that you had any money?—Not a halfpenny, or a glass of beer.

1243. Who was in "The Duke of Wellington" when Harwood made this observation?—Me; I went in to treat a man, and then Harwood came in.

1244. And used that foul language?—Yes.

1245. Having said what you did, you thought you would carry out the joke, and did it?—Yes.

1246. And there really is nothing more than that?—Nothing more.

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that he proposed to call William Harwood and Jeffrey Denman, to prove what this Witness said to them, submitting that the Witness was a man who he alleged had been bribed, but upon whose evidence he could not rely; and he was therefore in the same position as a Witness called by the Respondents, to prove that he was not bribed.

Mr. Justice Blackburn intimated that he thought that Mr. Serjeant Parry could not call William Harwood and Jeffrey Denman for the purpose indicated by him.

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that he proposed to call Baker to show that this Witness did show a sovereign to Baker, and accompanied it with an observation.

After some observations by Mr. Justice Blackburn, Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that he would not press it.

Witness.] I will speak to you about the sovereign, if you please; you say I showed a sovereign to Baker, after the polling day; I did show him a sovereign down by the bridge.

1247. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] I thought you said you did not?—Not on the polling day.

1248. It was after the polling day?—Yes, it was not my sovereign, but Harwood's brother's sovereign.

1249. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Tell us what you did say about it?—I had a sovereign of Harwood's brother. We were coming along in a procession, and Mr. Smith's son, I suppose it was, at the grocer's shop down by the bridge, put up half-a-sovereign and showed me it, and I took a sovereign out of my pocket, and showed it; it was not my sovereign, but Harwood's sovereign; but if it had been my own it was no reason that it should have been one I had been bribed with.

1250. Why did he show you the half-sovereign?—He held up half-a-sovereign, and he said, "That is what you have bought Brown's bricks with," he said to me; I said, "I was not bought with the like of that," I said, though I had got one and I put it up. It was not my own; but if it had been it was no difference; I was never bribed by a sovereign, and never had a halfpenny to get a glass of beer.

1251. What then?—Then I said I was not bought with the like of that; though I got one, it was not my own, but if it had been it would make no difference. I was not bribed with the sovereign, and I never had a halfpenny to get a glass of beer.

1252. How came you to have the sovereign from Harwood's brother?—I went into a public-house, and Harwood came in and he put the sovereign down on the table, and we got larking there together, and he was going to make a bet or something—

1253. Who was going to make a bet?—Not the same Harwood; a brother of his. I took up the sovereign to give it to him and he turned off affronted, and he said he would not have it without the bet was made; he said he would make a bet. We were talking about making a bet or something like that. He said, "I will not have it unless you take the bet" I took up the sovereign to give to him outside. I did not give him the sovereign; we came up together. I gave the sovereign to him afterwards, to his brother for him. It was not my sovereign that I showed, and Harwood will tell you the same. I daresay he is here in court.

[The Witness withdrew.

JAMES HAYWARD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

1254. You are a master mariner?—I am.

1255. You are a voter, are you not?—I am.

1256. Did you vote for Vanderbyl and Kinglake?—I did.

1257. Did you happen always before the last election to have voted on the Conservative side?—I never had a vote before.

65.

1258. Are you quite sure of that?—Quite sure. J. Hayward.

1259. This was your first vote?—This was my first vote.

1260. Were you a Conservative in politics (if you had any) before that?—I don't know what I was.

D 2

1261. You

J. Hayward.

1869.

1261. You are sure of that?—I am sure of it.
1262. Quite sure?—Quite sure.
1263. Would you allow me to ask you this; were you at Cardiff at the time of the election or just before?—I was not.
1264. I am ignorant of Welsh geography; was it at Swansea?—Swansea.
1265. You are certainly superior to me there; did you offer to vote for the Conservatives before the election?—No.
1266. Never?—Never.
1267. That you swear?—I swear it.
1268. Neither personally or in writing?—Not by personally.
1269. What do you mean by “by personally”?—Not by the candidates.
1270. You never promised the candidates to vote?—No.
1271. You never promised Westropp and Gray to vote for them?—Never.
1272. Did you promise anyone to vote for them?—No.
1273. Now you were going to make some distinction between a verbal and a written promise; did you promise verbally to vote for Westropp and Gray before the last election?—I never promised Mr. Westropp nor Mr. Gray personally.
1274. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] From the terms of your explanation, you seem to have promised not those gentlemen themselves, but somebody for them; was there anyone to whom you did promise or offer to vote for them?—I sent a letter.
1275. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] You did promise some one then to vote for the Conservatives?—Only by a letter.
1276. I will come to the letter presently. When did you come from Swansea to vote?—The day before the polling.
1277. That was the 16th, was it not; was that a Monday or a Tuesday?—Well, I cannot rightly say what day of the month it was.
1278. Did you arrive on the day before the polling?—On the Monday evening; I suppose it was the day before the polling. I arrived the night before the polling day were.
1279. You did not keep a copy of your letter, did you?—No.
1280. I will relieve your mind from any anxiety about it. Do you know Mr. William Humber, of King-street, Bridgwater?—I know a person named Henry Humber.
1281. This is more like a V than a W or an H, therefore I have called it a W. Is that (handing a letter to the Witness) your writing?—That is my writing.
1282. It is very like a V, is it not?—I don't mind what you may call it.
1283. Is that your writing (handing a letter to the Witness)?—That is my writing.
1284. Mr. Henry Humber is a Conservative, I think?—He may be for all I know.
1285. But did you not know it, on your oath, when you wrote this letter?—On my oath, he was working for the Conservative party.
1286. “November 15th, 1868, Swansea. Mr. H. Humber—If you like to send for me I will come home and vote for Mr. Westropp and Gray; you must telegraph as soon as you get this letter, for me to catch the train from Swansea. My wife will give you my address; you can send to me if you want me. Remain yours truly, Captain James Hayward, Pig Cross.” That is your letter?—That is mine.
1287. At that time you had made up your mind to vote for Westropp and Gray?—Yes.

1288. As a good Conservative. This is dated the 15th. It was on the Sunday that this was written?—I suppose so; I cannot tell what day of the month it was.
1289. After you had been to church I daresay?—I had not been to any church that day.
1290. You got no answer to this letter; did you want your expenses paid when you wrote this letter?—Mr. Westropp told my wife that I should be sent for—
1291. That is not really evidence. Will you answer my question; although you may say anything you like about Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray, as far as I care. Did you expect to be paid your expenses when you wrote this letter?—I did.
1292. That is a very fair answer, and that is all I ask you. When you came over here, did you see a Mr. Charles Badger?—I may see him.
1293. Do you know him?—I know him.
1294. Who is he?—I believe he is a clerk in Brown and Company's office.
1295. Brown and Company are gentlemen who are well known as very large brickmakers, I suppose, and they are carrying on other business here?—I believe so.
1296. Did you see Mr. Charles Badger on the day of the election at all?—I did.
1297. You got no answer to this letter?—No; no answer at all.
1298. Did you get a telegram or message from anyone?—No one at all.
1299. You came over of your own accord?—Of my own accord.
1300. On speculation?—Well, I came over of my own accord.
1301. What time of the day was it, that you saw Mr. Charles Badger?—I could not particularly say that.
1302. Was it about three o'clock in the afternoon?—I cannot say that.
1303. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] On what day was this?—On the polling day.
1304. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Was it in the afternoon, from two o'clock to three o'clock?—I cannot say.
1305. But you can tell us about the time, can you not?—I cannot; I had no watch.
1306. Is your mind a perfect blank upon that point?—I cannot say that.
1307. Was it before 12 o'clock, or after 12 o'clock?—I cannot say.
1308. What time did you get here?—The night before the poll.
1309. And you got up in the morning at your usual hour?—Yes; I got up in the morning.
1310. At what time?—I cannot say.
1311. I will give you from eight o'clock till four o'clock, the polling hours; can you tell me or not, upon your oath, at about what time in the day on the day of the polling, you saw this gentleman, Mr. Badger?—I cannot.
1312. Then you do not know whether it was at eight o'clock in the morning or four o'clock in the afternoon?—I cannot say what hour.
1313. Do you mean to swear that you do not know whether it was at eight o'clock in the morning, or four o'clock in the afternoon?—I will swear that it was not at eight o'clock in the morning.
1314. Was it nine o'clock?—I cannot say after that time.
1315. I do not want to go through this rigmale about eight, nine, or 10 o'clock, with a person like you; was it before four o'clock?—
1316. Mr.

1316. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Was it before or after your dinner; I suppose you dined in the middle of the day; when do you dine?—Well, I never had no dinner at all that day.

1317. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] If I tell you the time at which you polled, would that be any assistance to you; did you have any breakfast on that day?—I did.

1318. Then you had nothing till after the poll closed?—I never had no dinner that day.

1319. Had you any refreshment, that includes a little drink?—I had no dinner that day; I had a cup of cider.

1320. Where?—In a public-house.

1321. But what public-house?—I went in the "Fountain."

1322. Was that near the "Anchor"?—Close by.

1323. About when did you have that cup of cider?—It might be in the forenoon.

1324. Before 12 o'clock, do you mean?—It may be.

1325. But was it?—Well, I cannot say. I had no watch in my hand to see what time it was.

1326. You do not know at what time you saw Mr. Badger, but you do know at what time you had the cup of cider; was it after the cup of cider that you saw Mr. Badger?—I cannot say.

1327. You cannot say, and you will not say; is that so?—I cannot say.

1328. You saw Mr. Badger?—During the day.

1329. Where did you see him?—Somewhere about the bridge, I believe it was.

1330. What bridge?—At Bridgwater Bridge.

1331. There is only one bridge, is there?—That is all.

1332. That is close by the "Anchor"; is it not?—Yes.

1333. Were there a lot of voters together there?—I do not know whether they were voters or not.

1334. There were a lot of men about?—There generally is about our quays and bridge.

1335. More than usual at election times?—I never observed it.

1336. Were there a number of men, upon your oath, waiting about near the bridge, towards the "Anchor"?—I cannot say that.

1337. You were there, and you saw Badger on the bridge?—I saw Badger close to the bridge.

1338. Is Charles Badger a clerk to Brown and Company?—I believe so.

1339. You have known him before, I think?—Oh, yes.

1340. You know him very well, do you not?—Yes.

1341. Then you know that he is a clerk to Brown and Company?—Yes.

1342. It is not a matter of mere belief; did he say anything to you about your vote?—Not that I am aware of.

1343. Your maiden vote, you know; just reflect, the first vote you ever gave; did not Badger say something to you about it?—Not to my recollection.

1344. You know nothing about that, then?—Not to my recollection.

1345. Are you aware that you ought to answer these questions fully here upon your oath, and not to tamper with the oath?—A man cannot answer a question if he does not know it.

1346. And you mean to swear and tell my Lord that you do not know whether Badger spoke to you about this maiden vote of yours?—I cannot recollect that any words passed.

1347. Do you think he did?—I cannot say.

1348. What did he speak to you about?—He may not have said anything.

1349. Did he speak to you?—Not on the bridge.

1350. Where?—Nowhere.

1351. Where did he speak to you?—Nowhere.

1352. Where did he speak to you?—Nowhere.

1353. Then, do I understand you to say that you saw Badger on the bridge in the course of the day, and that he, being a friend of yours, never said a word to you?—There might not be no conversation with him.

1354. But was there?—No.

1355. That you swear?—Yes.

1356. Then you did not speak to Badger?—No.

1357. You did not speak to Badger?—I seen Badger, but not to speak to him.

1358. Have you seen Badger to-day?—I have seen him in court here.

1359. Have you spoken to him?—Not to-day.

1360. Yesterday?—No.

1361. A day or two ago?—No.

1362. Did you speak to Badger at any time about the evidence you were to give here to-day, upon your solemn oath?—No.

1363. You never did?—No.

1364. Then nobody spoke to you about your vote that day?—No one at all.

1365. Then, what time did you vote?—It may be between two and three o'clock.

1366. We have the poll-book here with the exact time at which you did vote; suppose I tell you that you voted after three o'clock?—I cannot tell; it might be after three o'clock, or between two o'clock and three o'clock; I cannot say.

1367. No one at all had spoken to you about your vote up to that time?—They had not.

1368. You voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl; and how came you, after having written this letter on the 15th, that you would vote for Westropp and Gray if you were sent for from Swansea, to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—A man can use his own mind.

1369. A man can change his mind as many times as there are minutes or hours in the day, but how came you to change your mind?—I had my own mind to use.

1370. What made you offer to vote for Westropp and Gray on the 15th?—By Mr. Westropp calling at my house, and Mr. Gray says that I should be sent for to come home and vote for them.

1371. That was the reason that you were going to vote for Westropp and Gray?—If they paid my expenses.

1372. It was to your wife, I suppose, that they said this?—Not to me.

1373. You intended to get your expenses before you voted?—Certainly.

1374. Did you get your expenses from Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—Oh, no.

1375. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Did you get your expenses from any one?—No one at all.

1376. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] What do you mean by swearing that you intended to get your expenses if you voted for Westropp and Gray, and then that you voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl without any expenses at all?—They promised to send for me.

J. Hayward.

1869.

J. Hayward.
 1869.

1377. Who promised to send for you?—Messrs. Westropp and Gray.

1378. But they did not send for you; nobody appears to have sent for you?—No one at all.

1379. Upon your oath, did you not receive your expenses?—I did not.

1380. Nor a promise of them?—Nor a promise of them.

1381. Not a penny from anyone?—Not a penny from anyone.

1382. Nobody asked you for your vote?—No one at all.

1383. You never conversed with anyone about your vote?—I never conversed with anybody about my vote.

1384. Not even with your wife; you may not call her anybody, but I ask you, did you converse with your wife about your vote?—A man does not tell all his business to his wife I should not think; I never tells all my business to my wife; many men tells their wives too much.

1385. I want to know what sort of a man you are; did you ever tell your wife that you were going to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I cannot say.

1386. Do you mean solemnly to swear that?—I cannot say.

1387. Do you solemnly swear that you do not know whether you told your wife or not that you were going to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I cannot recollect any such words.

1388. And you never told anyone?—I never told anyone.

1389. That you swear?—That I swear.

1390. Why did you not vote before three o'clock?—I believe the hours for polling are from eight to four o'clock.

1391. Why did you not vote before three o'clock; now you are doing yourself no credit here, I assure you; why did you not vote before three o'clock?—I think a man might use his mind when he does vote.

1392. How came it that you used your own mind, as you have the folly to call it, and did not vote before three o'clock?—The time is not before four o'clock.

1393. Give me your reason why you did not vote before three o'clock?—I cannot tell that.

1394. Did you see anyone on the bridge that you knew, or near the bridge?—There were several there, but I did not take particular notice of who was there.

1395. How many hours had you been waiting about: you know there is such a thing as an indictment for perjury in this country; how many hours had you been waiting about near the "Fountain"?—I may have been an hour perhaps.

1396. Were you not several hours there; were you not there loitering about three or four hours before you voted?—I was about the town.

1397. About the bridge and the neighbourhood?—My business lies about that neighbourhood.

1398. Did you do any business on that day?—Not on that day.

1399. Did you do one atom of business on that day?—No.

1400. What do you mean by telling me that your business lies about the bridge?—Because we are watermen, and we generally lie about the bridge.

1401. But you did no business upon that day; were you loitering about there for three or four hours?—I may have been about the town.

1402. Did you go into any public-houses; did you go into the "Anchor"?—I went into the "Anchor."

1403. That is Bussell's place, is it not?—I believe it is.

1404. When did you go into Bussell's?—Between breakfast and dinner.

1405. That is between breakfast time and dinner time, I suppose; are you sure you did not have any dinner that day?—I know I did not.

1406. Are you quite certain?—Quite.

1407. What is your usual dinner time?—Any time when we can catch it.

1408. What is your usual time when you are at leisure?—One o'clock.

1409. What time were you at Bussell's?—Between breakfast and dinner time.

1410. Did you see Bussell?—I seen him.

1411. Mr. Henry Chapman Bussell?—I did.

1412. Did you speak to him?—I cannot say whether I did or not.

1413. You are not dealing fairly with me; you are too bad; you will not answer me any question?—I can answer to you that I did speak to him; I cannot say.

1414. You would not like to pledge yourself?—I could not answer.

1415. Had you anything to drink there?—I had.

1416. How long were you there?—I may be there 20 minutes perhaps.

1417. Were you so uncivil as not to speak to Bussell?—If I had nothing to talk about I had nothing at all to speak to him.

1418. Had you nothing to talk about the election?—Not a word with Bussell.

1419. With whom?—With no one.

1420. You want my Lord to believe that, though you voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl, having promised to vote for Westropp and Gray, if your expenses were paid from Swansea, you never spoke to a human being about the election, not even your wife?—I never did.

1421. Then we understand each other; just allow me to ask you one or two questions further; did you go aside with Bussell at all into any private room?—No.

1422. Did you see anybody that you knew at Bussell's?—I see'd several there.

4423. Who were they?—I see'd Captain Pitman, of the "Rosavine."

1424. Whom else did you see that you knew?—Several others, but I cannot recollect their names.

1425. There were several others there when you were there, and Bussell was there?—I see'd him once.

1426. Was he coming in and going out every minute?—He was coming in from his bar into the front room.

1427. You were there about 20 minutes; it was after you were at Bussell's that you voted?—It may be.

1428. That is the way in which you answer; have you consulted anybody as to how you should answer questions here this morning?—No.

1429. Have you been told never to answer a single question, directly or honestly?—I have answered as far as I knows.

1430. Allow me to ask you this; did you pay for what you had at Bussell's?—I did.

1431. Do you remember what it was?—A pint of cider.

1432. You

1432. You had a cup at the "Fountain"?—I had a cup at the "Fountain."

1433. And a pint at Bussell's?—And a pint at Bussell's.

1434. Anything more; did you have any cider that day instead of dinner?—I had no dinner.

1435. I know you had no dinner, or at least I know you said you had none; had you any more cider at all?—Oh, yes.

1436. How much more had you?—One more pint before that.

1437. Before you voted?—Before I voted.

1438. You swear you do not know when you saw Badger, but you say you did see him on that day somewhere?—I did see him at the bridge.

1439. You say you did not talk to Badger at all about your vote?—Not to my recollection.

1440. You have sworn positively that you never talked to anybody about it; are you quite sure whether you talked to Badger about it?—Not to my recollection.

1441. May you have talked to him about it and forgotten it?—Not to my recollection.

1442. Do you think that you are answering my questions fairly?—If I cannot recollect a thing I cannot recollect it; I cannot recollect talking to Badger.

1443. Your state of mind at this moment is that you cannot recollect whether you have forgotten talking to Badger?—I cannot recollect whether I have forgotten talking to Badger.

1444. Did you say to Badger, in the course of your conversation about your expenses, "I am not going for my expenses; I can afford to pay my own"?—Not to recollect those words.

1445. Will you swear that you did not use those words?—I cannot recollect.

1446. Those are remarkable expressions; you could not have forgotten them if you used them; upon your oath, when you saw Badger on the bridge, did you not, in the course of conversation upon the bridge, say, "Damn your expenses; I don't mind your expenses; I can afford to pay my own"?—I cannot remember any such words.

1447. Have you forgotten them?—I cannot recollect that I spoke them.

1448. Can you recollect whether you have forgotten them?—I cannot recollect that I spoke them.

1449. Can you recollect whether you may have used the words and have forgotten them?—I cannot recollect that I spoke them.

1450. Was a person of the name of Henry Hobbs present upon that occasion?—I did not see him to the best of my knowledge.

1451. Was Henry Hobbs present upon that occasion?—Not to the best of my knowledge; I seen Henry Hobbs on the bridge.

1452. At the time you talked to Badger?—I was not talking to Badger about no election.

1453. Did you talk to him about anything?—About nothing at all.

1454. Do you know whether Henry Hobbs was a supporter of Westropp and Gray?—I could not say.

1455. Do you know it or not?—I believe he was a Conservative.

1456. When you said this, did you not say what I have put to you, "Damn your expenses; I am not going for my expenses; I can afford to pay my own"; did you not turn round to Henry

Hobbs and say, "Come on, Henry, I will go to poll with you"?—Not to my recollection.

1457. Will you swear that you did not?—I will swear I did not, not to my recollection.

1458. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] It is a very mistaken idea that you can avoid the consequences of a falsehood by saying not to your recollection; such a matter as that cannot be forgotten?—I cannot recollect that I did say so; I did not say that.

1459. It will come entirely to the same thing, for if there is sufficient evidence to show that you did say such a thing, and there is an indictment for perjury, no jury would for a moment accept your statement that you had forgotten it?—

1460. Mr. Serjeant Parry (to the Witness).] Will you swear that you did not say to Henry Hobbs, "Come along, Henry, I will go and vote with you"?—I cannot recollect any such words.

1461. Will you swear that you did not use them?—I cannot recollect any such words.

1462. Although my Lord tells you to answer straight yes or no, you will not do it?—I cannot recollect any such words.

1463. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Will you venture to swear that you do recollect that you did not use any words to that effect?—I believe I did not.

1464. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Will you swear positively, upon your oath, that you did not; yes or no; now answer that question?—I cannot recollect that any such words passed.

1465. Though I believe we have got quite enough, just attend to me; I have not quite done with you yet: did Henry Chapman Bussell come up about the time of this conversation?—What conversation?

1466. At the time of this conversation that you do not venture to swear did not pass, and that you say you do not recollect, did Bussell, the landlord of the "Anchor" come up?—Up where?

1467. Up to you, and Badger, and Hobbs; all three of you together?—Bussell did not.

1468. You swear that Bussell did not?—He did not.

1469. Did Bussell come to you, and call you away?—No, not there.

1470. Where?—I met Bussell coming down the town.

1471. When?—Before I went to poll.

1472. Dear me; you met Mr. Bussell coming down the town before you went to poll; that was a lucky meeting, was it not?—I cannot say about that.

1473. Did he speak to you; did he tell you to go along with him?—Yes.

1474. Did you go along with him?—I did.

1475. Do speak out; did you go into his house first?—I went to his house, 1476. Just before you polled?—Before I went to poll.

1477. Did you come out again?—I came out again.

1478. Did he come out with you?—No.

1479. You went to the poll by yourself?—By myself.

1480. About what time was this?—It might be between two and three o'clock, I cannot say exactly.

1481. What did he give you?—Nothing at all.

1482. Not even your expenses?—No.

1483. Nor promise anything?—No.

1484. And you mean to swear upon your oath

J. Hayward.

1869.

J. Hayward. that you voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl without receiving one farthing?—I did.

1869.

1485. And you expect everybody to believe that oath?—I can swear that.

1486. You expect to be believed?—I swear that; that I never had my expenses nor a promise of anything.

1487. After this election, did you say to any one that you would take good care if you were away at another election that you would never come to vote, because you had been promised your expenses and had not been paid them?—Never.

1488. You went, you say, with Bussell into his house; he saw you up the town or somewhere, and took you to his house; how long were you with him before you went out again to vote?—I may be in the house 20 minutes.

1489. You know a person of the name of Collett?—Yes.

1490. Were you with him on that day?—I was.

1491. The whole of the afternoon?—Not the whole of the afternoon.

1492. Was he with you a good many hours?—No.

1493. Was he with you for some time?—No.

1494. How long?—Long enough to treat me with a glass of port wine.

1494.* Cyder and port wine and no dinner?—No dinner.

1495. How long was he with you altogether?—I cannot say.

1496. Was he an hour or a couple of hours?—I cannot say.

1497. You will not say?—I cannot say how long it was.

1498. Did you tell him that you had made up your mind not to vote unless you got your expenses and something handsome?—I cannot say.

1499. You cannot say whether you told Collett that?—No.

1500. Is Collett a friend of yours?—Not a particular friend as I know of.

1501. Do you know him?—I know him.

1502. Did you know him before the election?—I did.

1503. How long have you known him?—Two or three years.

1504. What is he?—I cannot say what he is.

1505. Where does he live?—I cannot say.

1506. Is he a mariner?—No, he is not.

1507. What is he?—I cannot say what he is.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HENRY HUMBER, sworn.

H. Humber.

Mr. Collins stated that this Witness was not required at present, as he only produced the letter which had been already identified.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HENRY HOBBS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

H. Hobbs.

1508. WHAT are you?—A Boot and Shoemaker.

1509. Where do you reside?—In Eastover.

1510. And you are a voter?—I am.

1511. And for whom did you vote?—For Mr. Westropp and Gray.

1512. Do you know a person of the name of Charles Badger?—I do.

1513. Do you know the last witness?—I do; I knowed him from being children together.

1514. Did you see Badger and the last witness, Hayward, together on the day of the election?—I seen Hayward coming from Badger; they was all of a heap, a lot of them.

1515. How many other persons were there?—There was a heap of them there together, but I cannot mention who there were.

1516. How many?—Nearly a dozen I should think.

1517. Were they voters, to the best of your belief?—Really I cannot tell whether they were all voters or not.

1518. Did you hear Badger say anything to Haywood, or Haywood to Badger?—I did not hear Badger say anything.

1519. Did you hear Haywood say anything to Badger?—Yes, I heard—

1520. Just answer my questions, yes or no; you did hear Hayward say something to Badger?—I heard Hayward say something.

1521. Did you afterwards see a man of the name of Bussell, the landlord of the "Anchor"?—Yes.

1522. Where was that?—Over the bridge just opposite the gaol.

Mr. Justice Blackburn said that if this evidence went to show anything in the nature of a bargain, the whole or a part of which was overheard, it might be accepted, but not if it was a mere contradiction of evidence already given.

1523. Mr. Serjeant Parry (to the Witness).] I may ask you this, did you hear Hayward make use of any expression to Badger?—Yes.

Mr. Sergeant Sargood objected to evidence on this point.

Mr. Justice Blackburn ruled that anything which could prove a bargain might be taken as evidence.

1524. Mr. Serjeant Parry (to the Witness).] You did hear Hayward say something to Badger; what was it?—Would you like for me to pronounce the words that he said?

1525. Do not be too particular; tell us what he said?—He said, "Damn your expenses; I could always pay my own, could not I, Harry?" and he said, "I will go with you." He went with me over the bridge.

1526. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Did Badger make any answer when he said that?—He did not; there was some there said "Hush" when he was speaking so loud, but who they were I could not say; we went over the bridge together, as it was his place to poll at this end of the town, and I went with him over the bridge, and just as we were opposite the gaol we met Mr. Bussell and he said "Captain Hayward, I want you," and he said, said, "Oh, there is another," he says, "Harry" (that was Winsley, a voter). He said, "We have been humbugged long enough." Just as we got to the jail he says, "There is another Winsley."

1527. Who said this?—Haywood, when Bussell called him away from me; and he went away from me; and after he got away from me he went towards the "Anchor"; I did not see him after he went into the "Anchor."

[The Witness withdrew.

H. Hobbs.
1869.

SAMUEL WARREN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

1528. You live in St. John-street, Bridgwater?—I do.

1529. What are you?—A cordwinder.

1530. At the last election, had you a vote?—I had.

1531. Was that for the first time?—No.

1532. You had a vote before?—Yes.

1533. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl.

1534. At other elections, for whom had you voted generally as a rule?—I never had but one vote before.

1535. For whom did you vote at that time?—Am I bound to answer that question?

1536. I think you are: for whom did you vote?—Well, I do not know whether I am bound to answer that question.

1537. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Yes, you are?—Thank you, my Lord; well, I voted for Mr. Westropp.

1538. Mr. Collins.] At what time did you vote this time?—Well, half-past three, as I should have anticipated.

1539. That was rather late?—Yes; rather late.

1540. Had you before promised to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I had.

1541. Before the polling day?—I had.

1542. Were you at work that day?—I were.

1543. And you left off to vote?—I had a job in hand, and I was bound to finish it, or else I should have lost the job.

1544. And you voted?—I did.

1545. Do you know a man named Marrels?—I do, perfectly well.

1546. Did he ask you at any time to vote for Westropp and Gray?—He did.

1547. Did you tell Marrels that you would, if there was "anything going" or "doing"?—I did not.

1548. Will you swear that you did not?—Well, I was so excited through that day, that I do not really know what I did say.

1549. But you could not have been excited when you were at work; what day was it when Marrels spoke to you?—Upon the morning of the polling day.

1550. What were you excited with?—Why, because people kept worriting of me and I could not finish my work.

1551. And that excited you?—That excited me.

1552. You may have said that you would vote for Westropp and Gray, if there was "anything doing"?—I do not believe I did say so.

1553. Will you swear that you did not?—I would not like to swear I did or did not.

1554. Do you know Mr. William Hurman?—I know one Mr. Hurman; I do not know whether his name is William or not.

1555. The gentleman that proposed Mr. Vanderbyl?—There was ever so many proposed him.

65.

1556. I mean proposed him at the hustings?—I misunderstood you.

1557. Were you there on the nomination day?—I was not.

1558. Do you know the gentleman who proposed Mr. Vanderbyl?—I know Mr. Hurman, the draper.

1559. On the nomination day, did you see Mr. Hurman and Mr. Edwin Babbage, a draper, also?—I would not say that I did not see them, and I would not say that I did; not at that time exactly.

1560. But you saw them at some time on that day?—I saw them at some time on that day.

1561. Before you polled?—Before I polled.

1562. Did they come into your house?—They did.

1563. Do you know a man named William Dyke?—I do; a butcher, opposite.

1564. Do you remember when those two gentlemen, Hurman and Babbage, came in, that William Dyke followed them?—Well; the door was open, both to the Liberal party and to the Conservatives, whoever chose to come in.

1565. Whoever chose "to do anything"?—To come in; I did not say "do anything"; the doors were open for all comers.

1566. You were waiting there at home?—I was at work, I was not waiting for them.

1567. You were excited, and left the door open for them; when those two gentlemen came in, did Mr. Dyke follow them?—Well, I really cannot say.

1568. Did you see Mr. William Dyke on that day?—I did.

1569. Did you see Mr. William Dyke about the same time that Hurman and Babbage came in?—No, that I cannot swear.

1570. You cannot swear that you did not?—I will not swear that I did not.

1571. Mr. Dyke is a Conservative, is he not?—Well, they say so.

1572. And the other two gentlemen are Liberals?—They do say so.

1573. Did those two gentlemen, Hurman and Babbage, try to come into your back room?—My back room?

1574. Yes?—Into my back kitchen; we have a front room, and a kitchen where I work.

1575. Where were you working?—In the back kitchen.

1576. Were those two gentlemen coming into the back kitchen at first, when they came into the open door?—Well, that I cannot swear.

1577. Did some one say, when those gentlemen came in, Dyke following them, "Go upstairs"?—No, upon my honour.

1578. Upon your oath; do not trouble yourself about your honour?—Upon my oath.

1579. Did Hurman and you go upstairs?—No.

1580. Now, be careful; did you go into the back room together?—They came in where I was working.

E

1581. Did

S. Warren.

S. Warren.
1869.

1581. Did you and Hurman go into any room together?—If you come into the front room, you must go through it to get to the back room.

1582. Were you and Hurman in any front room together without Marrels and Dyke?—The door was then open.

1583. That is not the question; were you and Hurman alone together in any room in the house?—No, we was not.

1584. Where did you see Hurman?—I saw him as he went down through the street.

1585. You say he came into your house; in what part of the house did you see him?—I saw him both in the front and in the back room.

1586. When Hurman was in the front room, besides yourself, who was with you?—My wife.

1587. Anybody else?—Yes, both Liberals and Conservatives.

1588. Did you leave the front room, and go into the back room, you and Hurman?—By myself?

1589. By yourself?—No.

1590. Were you and Hurman ever, at any time during that day, together alone?—No.

1591. You swear that?—I will.

1592. Did you and Hurman leave the room together?—I would not swear I did, or I would not swear I did not.

1593. You would not swear that you and Hurman did not leave the room together, leaving the rest of the people there?—I will swear we were not in the room together by ourselves.

1594. Perhaps you were in the passage?—No, we was not.

1595. Did you and Hurman leave the room together?—That question I cannot answer you.

1596. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Were you and Hurman and your wife alone together, with no one else present?—No, certainly not; the room was full.

some time when you and Hurman were not quite alone together, but you seem to have been nearly so; was there any time, when there were people in the room, when you and Hurman went out of it, so that you and your wife and Hurman were only present?—There was not.

1598. Mr. Collins.] What did Hurman go to you for?—The same as the Conservatives did, to ask me to go to poll.

1599. Where did you go to when Hurman left the room?—The room where I worked, but we were not by ourselves.

1600. The moment you left Hurman, did you poll?—I finished my work, and went to poll.

1601. Before you polled, did you go to the "New Inn"?—I did not.

1602. Did you go there afterwards?—I did.

1603. With whom did you go there?—With my brother.

1604. And Hurman?—No.

1605. Did you have anything to drink there?—I did.

1606. At the "New Inn"?—I did.

1607. What did you have to drink?—I think it was a pint of beer I paid for.

1608. But what had you to drink?—A pint of beer.

1609. Had you nothing else?—Nothing else.

1610. Nothing else at all?—No.

1611. And you got nothing, or no promise for your vote?—I never had.

1612. No money and no promise?—No money and no promise.

1613. Then there was nothing "doing"?—I do not know what you mean by "doing."

1614. Those are your own words; you will not swear that you did not say to Marrels that you would vote for Mr. Gray if there was "anything doing"?—I will not swear, but a man may often use words that he does not remember when he is excited.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM MARRELS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

W. Marrels.

1615. You live in St. John-street?—I do.

1616. Do you know the last witness, Samuel Warren?—I do, perfectly well.

1617. Did you canvass on the part of Messrs. Westropp and Gray?—I did not.

1618. Did you ask him whether he would vote for Westropp and Gray?—Yes; I did ask him, but I was not authorised so to do.

1619. But you asked him?—I asked him.

1620. When was that?—Well, he had spoken to me several times about it before ever the election came off, that he had voted for Mr. Westropp before, and he should vote for Mr. Westropp again; on the Saturday night previous to the election, I dropped into the "Forester's Arms" with him and had a glass of beer, and he told me then that he was going to vote for Mr. Westropp, but he should not vote as he did before. The last time he voted he said he was promised, but he never had anything, and therefore he said he should not go this time without he had something before he went to the poll.

1621. Did you see him on the polling day?—I did.

1622. In the middle of the day, about two o'clock?—Between two o'clock and three o'clock.

1623. Did you see any gentlemen go into his house?—I seed ever so many going in backwards and forwards.

1624. Did you see Mr. Hurman going in there?—I did; and I was in there at the same time he came in.

1625. And Mr. Edwin Babbage?—Mr. Babbage came in, but he did not stop long.

1626. When Mr. Hurman went in, did you and Mr. Dyke follow him?—We did.

1627. Into what room did they go, or try to go, first?—Well, we went into the house first, and into the front room.

1628. Into what room did you go?—Into the front room.

1629. Was Warren there at that time?—Warren was there at the same time.

1630. Did you and Dyke come into the same room?—We did.

1631. What became of Hurman and the other man Babbage?—Mr. Babbage went away; I believe he left the house.

1632. What became of Hurman?—Mr. Hurman was there, and there were several others of the same party with him.

1633. What took place?—I do not know, for they could not have their say out in the front room, and they wanted to go in the back room.

1634. Who

1634. Who did?—Mr. Warren, Mr. Hurman and a lot that was there; there was several others besides, however, me and William Dyke.

1635. Do you know the other "lot," as you call them?—I do not; there was such confusion that I did not know who there was.

1636. You say they went out of the room, did they try to go into the back room?—They tried to go into the back room, and me and William Dyke followed them.

1637. Did they go into the back room when you followed them?—They did not.

1638. Into what room did they go?—I did not see them go anywhere, only into the front room at the bottom of the stairs. On going towards the back room, some one, when we prevented them going into the back room, said, "Go up stairs." So Warren went up stairs, and one or two others, but who they was I could not swear.

1639. Could you say whether or not Hurman went up stairs?—I could not swear whether he did or not.

1640. You left the house, and remained outside?—Me and William Dyke left the house, and remained outside.

1641. How long after that did Hurman come out?—May be five or six minutes, or may be more.

1642. Who came out with him?—He came out by himself.

1643. When did Warren come out?—Warren came out about ten minutes or so after.

1644. Did Warren come out alone?—No; he and his brother came out, and one or two others came out with him, but who they was I cannot say.

JOHN ALFRED BUTTLE, junior, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

1657. WHAT are you?—A farrier.

1658. Residing in Bridgwater?—Yes.

1659. You are a voter; for whom did you vote?—Kinglake and Vanderbyl.

1660. Have you sons who work with you, or sons in the town who are voters?—No; I have a father and two brothers.

1661. I thought you might be the senior, although you are rather young-looking, I must confess. You have a father a voter, of the same name as yourself?—I believe so.

1662. And a brother who is a voter?—I believe so.

1663. Have you a brother named Alfred Buttle, who is not a voter?—I do not know whether he is a voter.

1664. You take so little interest in your family that you cannot say whether he is a voter?—I am sure I cannot say whether he is or not.

1665. I am sure I would not if I could not. Is Edward J. Buttle a brother of yours?—He is.

1666. Is Alfred Buttle a brother of yours?—He is.

1667. And you are not sure whether all of them have votes or not?—I am not.

1668. Do you know whether any of them have?—I am not sure of it; I cannot say.

1669. Are you a new voter, or one of the old ones?—A new one.

1670. Under the new Act?—Yes.

1671. How much did you receive for your vote?—Nothing at all.

1672. Are you sure?—Quite sure.

1673. Do you know Mr. Henry Andrew Allan?—I do.

1645. Where did they go to?—They went up John-street, in the direction of going to poll.

1646. When Warren came out, did he say anything to you?—No; he made no observations to me. I said, "Oh fie, Sammy." That was all I said.

1647. And Sammy went off at that time?—He went off.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

1648. You canvassed or asked for this vote for Westropp and Gray, and you voted for those two gentlemen, did you not?—I did.

1649. And you were anxious, if you could, to get the vote of this man Warren for them?—I did.

1650. And you went there, of course, to ask for this vote, without intending to bribe the man?—Most decidedly.

1651. And other gentlemen were there, asking him to vote for the Liberal side?—Yes.

1652. And doing the same as you were doing, I suppose?—Yes, I suppose so.

1653. And they did no wrong, as you did no wrong?—I did no wrong.

1654. Did two or three people go up stairs?—There was two or three went up; Samuel Warren, and one or two else.

1655. You know there were two?—I do not know, indeed.

1656. What is your belief; how many went up?—I believe there was one or two went up besides Warren; that is all I say.

[The Witness withdrew.

1674. Is he a draper in this town?—I do not believe he is.

1675. I am mistaken, perhaps; then what is he?—I cannot tell you what he is.

1676. I am told he is not a draper; he is a Chinaman?—He may be that, and I believe he is.

1677. I have not the pleasure of knowing him, and you have; do you live next door to him?—No.

1678. Are you far from him?—Not very far.

1679. Does he keep a china shop in this town?—I believe he does.

1680. I notice you use the word "believe" in every matter?—I say, he do.

1681. Is it not much better to say, "I know he does," than "I believe he does"?—It may be better.

1682. Have you seen him lately?—No.

1683. He took an active part in the election, did he not?—I cannot say; I never seen him.

1684. You never saw him during the election?—I do not believe I did; in fact, I know I did not.

1685. You did not see him somewhere before the polling-day?—I seen him shortly before.

1686. He is a Liberal, is he not?—I cannot say.

1687. Do you not know that?—No; I do not.

1688. Is he a Conservative?—I cannot say.

1689. I suppose he cannot be anything else?—I don't know what he is.

1690. You never saw him, either before or after the election?—I saw him before the election.

1869.

1691. Did you see him taking an active part in the election?—I did not.

1692. Did you ever see him taking an active part in the election, either before or on the nomination or the polling days, on behalf of Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I never did.

1693. Have you met him at all since the election in this town?—Well, it is not very often that I see him; he used to go away for a month at a time.

1694. When did you last see him?—I cannot say.

1695. Have you seen him since Christmas?—I cannot say, I am sure; I have not noticed him.

1696. Did you notice him at all before Christmas and after the election?—Well, I am sure I do not bear such things in my mind as that; and I cannot say.

1697. I am afraid we shall not get on very well together?—Perhaps not.

1698. Did not this gentleman absolutely give you 10*l.* to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—No.

1699. Do you know whether he gave your father 10*l.*?—I cannot say.

1700. Your father never told you so?—No.

1701. You never heard of that till this morning?—No; I have heard rumours.

1702. What rumours?—That he did give us 10*l.*; but I say it is no such thing.

1703. Do you know a place called the "New Inn"?—Yes.

1704. Do you know Mr. Jeffry Denman?—Yes, I do.

1705. Did he canvass you for Westropp and Gray; did he ask you for your vote?—Yes.

1706. But you had not made up your mind?—Well, I had.

1707. You always had?—I always had.

1708. You always intended to vote?—?—Liberal; that is my principles.

1709. Did you tell Mr. Denman, with an oath or two, or some strong language which I do not want to repeat, that you were not going to poll without money or being paid for it?—No, I never told him so.

1710. Nor your brother, nor your father, in your presence?—I cannot answer for them.

1711. In your presence?—No.

1712. You can answer for it in your presence?—I did not see them in my presence.

1713. You say they never did?—I say they never did.

1714. At what time did you poll?—I cannot say to half-an-hour.

1715. Did you ever say, on the day after the poll, that you had received 10*l.* to vote?—Never.

1716. Did you say that your brother Alfred had received it, and that he had not a vote?—Never.

1717. You do not know whether he has a vote or not, I believe?—I do not.

1718. At what time did you poll?—Well, I think it was about three o'clock.

1719. That is a critical time?—Between two and three o'clock, I believe it was.

1720. No doubt; did your father poll with you?—No.

1721. Did any one poll with you?—Not that I am aware of.

1722. You polled by yourself?—I did.

1723. Who went with you?—No one.

1724. Do you remember at all being at the "New Inn," on the day of the election?—I do.

1725. Was Mr. Allan there?—No, I never seen him.

1726. On the polling day?—No.

1727. Did you see him taking down names at all outside the door of the "New Inn," or by the "New Inn"?—No, I never saw him that day.

1728. Did you see him calling on the men to vote, and saying, "We have it all right," tapping his pockets at the time?—I did not.

1729. Did you go to the "Mansion House Inn" on that day?—No.

1730. Do you know a man of the name of Calliford?—I do.

1731. Did you see him on that day?—I did.

1732. Was he at the "New Inn"?—No.

1733. Where did you see him?—I cannot say; close to his own house.

1734. You did not see him at the "New Inn," with Allan?—I did not.

1735. I am speaking of the election day, you know?—I understand.

1736. Was Robert Blackmore in your service?—Charles Blackmore is in my service, or in my brother's.

1737. Do you carry on business together?—No.

1738. Do you know whether he has been dismissed from that service?—Yes; he was an apprentice, and he is out of his time.

1739. We do not call that dismissed; did you see him at the "New Inn" at all upon that day? I did not.

1740. Did you ever show him or tell him that you had got money for your vote on that day, or your father or brother in your presence?—No, I never did.

1741. Did you give him any money?—I did not.

1742. To your knowledge, did your father or brother give him any money?—Never, as I am aware of.

1743. Did you ever promise to give him any?—Never.

1744. And you know nothing of his having received 5*s.* or 2*s.* 6*d.* from your father or brother, on the polling day?—I do not.

1745. Do you know Frederick Harden?—I do.

1746. Did you tell him that you had been paid for your vote, and that you had seen more than one man or two paid to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I did not.

1747. Did you see anyone paid to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—No; I never seen any money pass at all.

1748. Do you know Mr. Morrish?—I do.

1749. Did you ever call upon him after the election?—I have been in his house a good many times.

1750. What is Mr. Morrish?—They keep an inn, a public house.

1751. Where?—On the Quay.

1752. You are John Buttle the younger?—I am.

1753. Did you go, in company with Blackmore, about a week after the election, to Morrish's house?—I cannot say that; I cannot say whether I did or not; I have been there; I do Morrish's work.

1754. You might have gone perfectly innocently, but you did not say whether you did go?—I cannot say whether I did or not.

1755. Did you ask Morrish this question, "What sum of money will you guarantee if I tell tell you the names of persons whom I saw bribed at the "New Inn"?—I never did.

1756. Remember, this is serious; there were two persons present?—All right.

1757. Perhaps you do not understand the meaning of that?—Oh, yes; I do understand the meaning of it; the meaning or signification of it is that if I do wrong I shall be punished for it.

1758. Did you say that you knew more than anyone else, having been doorkeeper?—I never did.

1759. Were you ever doorkeeper at the "New Inn"?—Never.

1760. You never kept the door there in any way whatever?—No, I did not.

1761. That you swear?—I do.

1762. Did Morrish, in answer to this offer of yours, say that he would see next evening and let you know?—No.

1763. Did you go to him again at any time?—I did not.

1764. Not the next evening at his shop?—No.

1765. Did you tell Morrish that you knew more than 30 who were "sugar'd" by "Johnny Fortnight"?—I did not.

1766. Do you know "Johnny Fortnight"?—I do not know the meaning of it.

1767. Do you not know a man that goes by the name of "Johnny Fortnight"?—I do not.

1768. You never heard of him?—No.

1769. This is the first time that you ever heard of such a person?—It is.

1770. Do you not know that Allan goes by the name of "Johnny Fornight"?—I do not.

1771. You never heard it?—I never heard it.

1772. And you swear that in the presence of those who know you in Bridgwater?—I do.

1773. Did you say that the first person "sugar'd" was "Ted" your brother?—Never.

1774. You are quite sure you never said that?—I am quite sure of that.

1775. Did you say that you were the next person and then "the old man," meaning your father?—No.

1776. Nothing of that kind?—Nothing of that kind passed.

1777. Then I suppose you never said that Walters, the butcher, with another butcher, were "sugar'd"?—I never did.

1778. And they were not "sugar'd," or anything else, to your knowledge?—I cannot answer.

1779. To the best of your knowledge?—To my knowledge they never was.

1780. Did you say then that they got "Alf." your brother, and that he had it?—I never did.

1781. Did you say that one of your brothers had 10 l. who had no vote?—I never did.

1782. Did you not tell Morrish afterwards that the "duffer" (meaning Mr. Allan) brought in 300 l. and threw it on the bed, and paid them in hard cash?—I never did.

1783. Do you know Mr. Allan as the "duffer"?—I cannot say what he is.

1784. Now be careful. Do you know Mr. Allan as the "duffer"?—I do not know whether he is a "duffer;" what do you mean? make dough?

1785. You are too innocent for me, Buttle; but just attend to me, never mind the meaning of the word. Did you ever hear Mr. Allan called "duffer," or "the duffer"?—I never did.

1786. Did you ever speak of Mr. Allan as the "duffer"?—Never.

1787. Never in your life?—Never.

1788. And you never heard him so spoken of?—I never heard him so spoken of.

1789. Did you say to Morrish that "Ted" owed Allan some rent for potato ground that he rented, and that he wanted a receipt for that besides the "sugar"?—I never heard the words before.

1790. But that the b—— Scotchman would not do it?—No.

1791. Nothing of that kind?—No.

1792. Did you again ask him to try and get you some money to give evidence?—I never did.

1793. Do you know Golding, an assistant of Allan's?—No.

1794. You never heard of him until now?—Never.

1795. Do you know that gentleman (pointing to Golding)?—I do not.

1796. Have you never seen him before?—Not to the best of my knowledge.

1797. Does not he live next door to you?—Not that I am aware of; I never seen him before in my life that I am aware of.

1798. You point-blank answer me in so clear and emphatic a manner that I suppose it is quite useless to ask you this question: do you know Henry Hayward?—No, I do not.

1799. Do you know Mr. Hayward?—I know Hayward the shoemaker: I know that gentleman there (pointing to a person in court).

1800. Did you tell him on the morning of the poll (I am almost sure you did not, but I must ask you) that you should not vote without being paid for it?—I did not.

1801. Without the "stuff," or anything of that kind?—I did not.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN ALFRED BUTTLE, senior, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

1802. ARE you the father of the last witness?—I have not heard who was here; I was not in court.

1803. Are you a voter for the borough, and for whom did you vote at the last election?—What, before this time?

1804. No, this last election in November?—For Vanderbyl and Kinglake.

1805. At what time in the day did you vote?—Late.

1806. Do you remember with whom you went up to the poll?—I went by myself.

1807. Do you know who was with you?—I ben't aware that there was anyone.

65.

1808. I do not want to entrap you into anything; you are pretty sure there was no one?—I am pretty sure there was no one with me, not to lead me there, nor to persuade me to go there.

1809. You would not require leading, as a free and independent voter?—I mean a person to walk by my side and persuade me to go there.

1810. Was it at three o'clock that you voted?—I should think it was after that time.

1811. Did you get anything for your vote?—Get what? I am rather thick of hearing.

1812. I will try to speak loud enough, I thought I did; did you get anything for your vote?—No.

J. A. Buttle, sen.
24 February 1869.

1813. You heard that in a much lower key ; you see you do not hear quite so badly as you thought. You are quite sure that you did not get 10*l.* for your vote?—I am quite sure of that.

1814. From Mr. Andrew Allan ; do you know him?—Yes.

1815. Was he a supporter of Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—I do not know.

1816. You really do not know?—I do not.

1817. Did you see him at the time of the election?—No.

1818. Do you live next door to Allan?—I am a renter under him.

1819. Do you live next door to him?—My forge is next door to his premises.

1820. I made a blunder about him : can you tell us what Mr. Andrew Allan is, or was, if he is not now in the land of the living?—He keeps a shop with a lot of “clomb” in one, and he travels with tea or something.

1821. Do you mean by “clomb” earthenware, pie dishes, and so forth?—Yes ; his store-room is next to my forge.

1822. Did you speak to him at all about your vote at this election?—Never.

1823. Never?—I never did.

1824. Nor he to you?—He never mentioned nothing to me.

1825. Did you never speak to anyone about your vote?—No.

1826. Nor anyone to you?—Nor no person ever asked me.

1827. Not on the polling day or the election day?—Not on the election day nor not on the polling day ; neither of them.

1828. Did you at all speak to anyone upon the polling day, or just before, about your vote, or anyone to you?—No ; neither on that day, no person did.

1829. Not at any time on the polling day?—When they were canvassing, Mr. Westropp came to the door and said, “Come out here, old fellow.”

1830. Mr. Westropp is a very good-natured man, is he not?—I do not know that he is ; I do not know that he is a bad-natured man.

1831. Did Geoffrey Denman ask you for your vote?—No.

1832. For Westropp and Gray?—No.

1833. Did you tell Denman that you would not vote unless you were paid for it?—No.

1834. Nothing of that kind?—Never.

1835. In the presence of your son?—Never ; I have not been in his company.

1836. I ask you about it, and you deny it?—I do.

1837. If you will attend to me we shall get on very well ; were you at the “New Inn” on the day of the polling?—Yes.

1838. Did you see Mr. Allan there?—No.

1839. Then Mr. Allan never said to you or anybody in your presence, “Come on, it is all right” ; just slapping his pocket, which I am afraid was much fuller than mine is now?—I never heard anything of the sort, and I did not see Mr. Allan that day.

1840. You do not know whether Mr. Allan even canvassed or took a part in the election?—I did not see him.

1841. As far as you know he took no part in the election?—I do not know that he did.

1842. Will you swear that you did not see him at the “New Inn”?—I will swear that I did not.

1843. Do you remember going into the “New Inn”?—Yes.

1844. Do you remember coming out afterwards, and waving some buff ribbons that you had got there?—No, I had not got no buff ribbons.

1845. Had you not got any buff ribbons at all on that day?—No.

1846. You had no buff pocket-handkerchief, had you?—No, I got one in my pocket now.

1847. Had you anything of a buff colour?—I had no buff handkerchief or anything.

1848. What did you go to the “New Inn” for?—To see for John Poole, that owed me 4*l.* these four years. I heard he was in the town, and I knowed the house he visited, because I had been there to drink with him before.

1849. The “New Inn” is a good way from your house, is it not?—Three hundred to 400 yards ; it is a house I visit often.

1850. It is not as much as half a mile, I suppose?—No.

1851. But about a quarter of a mile?—Not a quarter of a mile.

1852. And you went over to see John Poole?—Yes ; who owed me 4*l.* 1*s.*

1853. When had you seen Poole before?—Well, I think I saw him in the town the day before.

1854. That was the day before the election? The day before the polling day.

1855. That is what I understand. Where had you seen the man before ; when had you asked him for your money before?—I put it in Paul Reid’s hands, and he did not serve him with the County Court, as he ought to do.

1856. Who is Paul Reid?—The attorney. He could not find out his address.

1857. So you heard of him on the polling day, and you went there?—Yes.

1858. Were your sons there then?—No.

1859. That you swear?—I swear that ; I swear I did not see them there.

1860. Will you solemnly swear that your sons were not with you in the “New Inn” on the polling day?—I did not see them there.

1861. Were they there in your company?—Not as I see ; I cannot say they was not in the house.

1862. In your company?—They was not with me that I saw ; I did not see them.

1863. Neither of them?—Neither of them.

1864. And they did not have any money, to your knowledge?—Not to my knowledge.

1865. Do you know Robert Charles Blackmore?—I knows Charles Blackmore.

1866. Was he an apprentice of yours?—No.

1867. Of your son’s?—Yes.

1868. Did you ever say in his presence at all that you had got 10*l.*?—No.

1869. Did you ever give him any money?—No.

1870. Did you ever give him 5*s.*?—No.

1871. Nor half-a-crown?—No.

1872. Or either of your sons, to your knowledge?—I do not know what they done.

1873. To your knowledge?—Not to my knowledge ; they never did to my knowledge.

1874. Do you know Mr. Morrish?—I do.

1875. Did you ever tell him that Allan had asked you for your vote?—No.

1876. And had asked you to be good enough to vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—Never.

1877. And you never said that Allan had come to to see you, and had said that it would be all right if you voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—No, I never mentioned a word to him, and he never asked me.

1878. Had you an execution in your house at the time of the election; I am sure you will pardon my asking you?—Who was in my house?

1879. Do you know what an execution is; your goods seized for debt, or anything; were your goods seized at the time of the election by anybody?—The bailiff might have come in there; I was not in, and I cannot say.

1880. You see I am anxious not to trouble you too much?—There have been executions in there.

1881. Was there an execution at that time, on the day of the poll?—No.

1882. Be careful, because this can be proved so easily; I have treated you with the utmost civility and respect; will you state, upon your oath, that there was not a bailiff in your house on the day of the poll?—No, there was not.

1883. Nor the day before?—Nor the day before.

1884. When was he there?—Well, I cannot tell.

1885. The day after?—No.

1886. Did you pay an execution out, or a bailiff out, about that time, just after the poll?—Well, I might in a week or a fortnight afterwards.

1887. How much did you pay?—£. 6 or 6*l.* 10*s.*; something thereabouts I believe.

1888. I suppose you earned that money?—Certainly I did; I always know where to pitch my hand upon 6*l.*

1889. But not upon 10*l.* at an election time? I did not have no 10*l.*

1890. Had you an execution just before the election, and did you not beg that it might be withdrawn because you could not pay it, and was not it withdrawn, and you simply had to pay the expenses of it; do tell me that; you say you can always lay your hand upon 6*l.*; is what you have stated true?—In how long do you say before the election?

1891. Just before the election?—But how long?

1892. A week or two?—That might have been the case.

1893. Then you could not put your hand upon 6*l.* a week or two before the election?—Yes, I could.

1894. Were any goods sold at any time out of your place because you could not pay the money?—A long time ago.

1895. I will not trouble you about that; just before the election is my question?—A good while before the election.

1896. Then, a good while before the election, you could not lay your hands upon 6*l.*?—It amounted to more than 6*l.* then.

[The Witness withdrew.]

EDWARD JAMES BUTTLE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

1897. You live in Back-lane, Bridgwater, do you not?—Yes.

1898. Are you a shoeing smith by trade?—Yes.

1899. Have you heard your father and brother examined?—No, I have not.

1900. Did you vote at the last election for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I did.

1901. Was that your first vote?—Yes.

1902. You were enfranchised under the new Act; did you get anything for your vote?—I did not.

1903. Not a farthing?—Not a farthing.

1904. Do you know Mr. Andrew Allan?—Yes, I know him very well.

1905. He left the town, did he not, about Christmas?—Well, I don't know I am sure.

1906. Did he ask you for your vote?—No.

1907. He never canvassed you?—No.

1908. Do you remember going to the "Deer Inn" on the day of the poll?—Yes.

1909. With whom did you go?—No one but myself.

1910. By yourself?—By myself.

1911. What did you go for?—I went to take a glass of beer.

1912. Do you live close by?—No, but I frequently go there.

1913. I do not doubt your word; I am only asking you questions, and you give me answers; how long was it since you were there before?—It may be some few days.

1914. What time in the afternoon was it?—I went there, as near as I can imagine, just after 12 o'clock.

1915. How long did you remain there?—I don't suppose I remained there 10 minutes.

1916. Is that the only time you were there on the polling day?—That is the only time.

65.

J. A.
Buttle, sen.

1869.

1917. And did you not see Mr. Allan there?—I did not. E. J. Buttle.

1918. You did not hear him say anything about its being "all right; we've got the stuff now," or anything of that kind?—I did not hear him say those words.

1919. At what time did you poll?—Between 3 and 4 o'clock.

1920. And you were only in the "New Inn" for 10 minutes; where did you go to?—I went to work in the day just the same as usual; I carry on business in George-street.

1921. Where were you at work?—In George-street.

1922. How far is that from the "New Inn"?—Some 300 or 400 yards.

1923. And you went off there to have a glass of beer and came back; whom did you see there?—I do not know; there was a great many people there, but I cannot say who they were.

1924. Was your brother there at the time?—Not as I am aware of.

1925. Do you know Mr. Hayward, the shoe-maker?—I know him quite well.

1926. Did you ask him the meaning of what was "going"?—I did not.

1927. You did not go the "New Inn" to see what was "going"?—No.

1928. Nothing of that kind?—No.

1929. Do you know Blackmore?—Yes; he was an apprentice of mine.

1930. When was his time up?—The latter part of January; I believe the 22nd of January?—

1931. He has left your service I think?—He has left my service.

1932. Did you dismiss him?—Yes; I didn't want him; he was out of his time.

1933. Did you give him any money at all, at

E. J. Buttle. at the time of the election, on the polling day?—
I did not.
1934. Half-a-crown or five shillings, or anything of that kind?—Not a farthing.
1935. Have you a brother Alfred?—I have.
1936. Do you know whether he is a voter?—
I believe he is not.

1937. Do you know whether he had any money to vote by accident?—I do not.

1938. You never heard of it?—No.

1939. Nothing of the kind?—Nothing of the kind.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ROBERT CHARLES BLACKMORE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

R. C. Blackmore.
1940. At present, I believe you live in Salmon-lane?—I do; I lodge with Mrs. Jones.
1941. And you were formerly an apprentice with Messrs. Buttle?—I was.
1942. Your indentures expired on the 21st of January last?—They did.
1943. And then you left their employment?—
I did; but I did not have my indentures.
1944. Do you remember the polling day?—I do; the 17th of November.
1945. The Tuesday?—Yes.
1946. Were you at the "New Inn" on that day?—I was.
1947. About what distance is the "New Inn" from Buttle's forge?—I cannot say exactly; 300 or 400, or may be 500 yards, or may be more;
it may be 1,000 yards for all I know.
1948. At what time were you at the "New Inn," on the polling day?—At three o'clock, or it may be five or ten minutes after three.
1949. Do you know a man named Andrew
Allan?—I do.
1950. And Edward Culliford?—Yes.
1951. He is an upholsterer, I believe?—Yes;
in High-street.
1952. Did you see Allan there about that time?
—I came out of the "New Inn," and saw Allan outside the door.
1953. What was Allan doing when you saw him?—He was coming down towards the "New Inn."
1954. How far was he from the "New Inn," when you saw him?—Just outside.
1955. Did he make any inquiry of you?—He did; he asked me where the Buttles was.
1956. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] There are several Buttles, for which of the Buttles did he ask?—He asked for the Buttles.
1957. Mr. Collins.] I believe, from what he said, you fetched them?—I did.
1958. Did you fetch them one by one, or altogether?—I went to see for the lot; all of them;
three of them. When I came up on the Cornhill,
I seen Edward Buttle there; I said to Edward,
"You must go to the "New Inn," you are wanted
there."
1959. Did Allan, when he said "Where are the Buttles?" do or say anything to you?—He
did.
1960. What was it?—The first thing he said was "Charley, where is the Buttles?" I said, "I left them up in town just now;" he said, "Go and get them," and tapped his pocket on the left side, like that (tapping his side pocket); and he said,
"It's all right." That is the words he said,
as near as I can speak.
1961. You say you saw Edward Buttle, and told him he was wanted at the "New Inn," and you went to look for the others?—I did.
1962. You did not find the others, and you then returned to the "New Inn"?—I did.
1963. When you got there, how many Buttles did you find there?—I saw three there; the father and two sons.

1964. The old man, and the two sons?—I did.
1965. At that time, how many people were at the "New Inn"?—I cannot exactly say.
1966. About how many?—There might have been 20 there for what I know, in and out, or more; I would rather say more.
1967. Did you know any of them?—Not in particular; I saw Mr. Culliford there, and the people outside in the yard.
1968. You say there were 20 men there; did you know whether or not any of them were voters?—Well, I didn't know whether they were voters or not.
1969. At that time, when the Buttles were there, was Culliford there?—Yes, he was out in the yard outside the "New Inn?"
1970. Was Allan there?—Yes.
1971. Were all the Buttles together?—The three Buttles were there.
1972. Were they all in this room, or yard, or place?—In the yard.
1973. What did you observe Allan doing?—
He had a piece of paper, or a book, taking down names.
1974. Allan seemed to call you Charley?—
Yes; I know him.
1975. His house was next door to the forge?
—Next door to old Mr. Buttle's forge, but where I worked was at the opposite side of the road.
1976. Since this election have you seen Allan?
—I have.
1977. When did you see him last?—Not since Christmas; before Christmas I saw him on a Saturday night.
1978. You have not seen him since Christmas?—I have not.
1979. What was he doing with the piece of paper that you say you saw him with?—Taking down names apparently to me.
1980. At that time were the Buttles there?
—Yes.
1981. How long were the Buttles in this yard, that you saw?—I stopped there two minutes, and they was there the whole of the time that I was there; I might have been there five minutes.
1982. At about what time was this?—Just after three o'clock; between three and four o'clock.
1983. Did you hear any beer ordered?—
Yes.
1984. Who ordered the beer?—I heard Mr.
Allan order the beer.
1985. How much?—I believe it was a gallon.
1986. Did he go anywhere after he ordered the beer?—I saw him go to the stairs.
1987. Did he say anything then?—He said,
"All right my boys, come with me," or something to that effect; I would not say exactly to the words, but something to that effect.
1988. Did you then leave?—I did.
1989. Where did you go to?—I went to the Mansion House; the committee-rooms.
1990. Into what room did you go at the Mansion

Mansion House?—Upstairs, over the committee-room.

1991. Was there anything on the table?—I saw some bread and cheese and beer there.

1992. How many people were there when you went up?—Five or six I believe was about the mark that was there then.

1993. Can you give me the names of any people that were at the “Mansion House Inn,” in this room, where this bread and cheese was?—I believe there was a man of the name of Pepperall, and Perratt, and Stoodley.

1994. Did you have anything to drink or to eat?—I did; I had a glass of beer there, and some bread and cheese.

1995. Did you pay for it?—I did not; I was not asked to pay for it.

1996. After that, did you go out of the “Mansion House Inn”?—I did.

1997. Did you see the Butties?—I went just over the bridge, and just below the “Globe,” and I met them there.

1998. What did you see when you got to that place?—I seen a lot of people coming (voters as I thought they were); going towards the poll.

1999. How were they walking?—They were walking in procession.

2000. Can you identify any of those gentlemen; were the Butties there?—Yes, the Butties were there.

2001. Three of them?—Three of them was there.

2002. Were Frederick Boys and Robert Walters, the two butchers, there?—I believe Mr. Boys was there.

2003. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] At what o'clock was this?—Between three and four o'clock.

2004. Before the poll had closed?—Before the poll had closed.

2005. Mr. Collins.] Were Boys and Walters at the “New Inn”?—I don't exactly remember seeing them there.

2006. They were in the procession?—They were in the procession.

2007. Did you ask John Buttle anything?—I did; he came out of the procession, and first of all he said to me, “Where is Alf?”

2008. “Who is Alf?”—That is his brother; he calls him Alf; Alfred I believe is his name.

2009. What did you say to that?—I said, “I saw him just now, but I have not seen him just lately.” He says, “Go and find him,” or some such word as that. He says, “I can get him sugar'd as well.”

2010. Did you make any inquiry of John Buttle, the younger, about “sugar”?—I did; I said, “Is it all right?” “Have you been?”

2011. Had they been what?—“Sugar'd;” he said yes.

2012. What does “sugar'd” mean?—Had the coin; being bribed I should call it.

2013. What did he say to that?—He said, “I could get him as well.”

2014. Did you go on towards the poll?—John Buttle went to find him; he said he was going, and I went for to find him.

2015. Shortly afterwards, did you see John and Alfred together?—Going through Fore-street towards the bridge.

2016. Would that be in the direction of the “New Inn”?—Yes.

2017. Did you see Alfred the same evening?—I did.

65.

2018. After he had been going towards the “New Inn”?—Yes.

2019. What did he say to you?—

Mr. Henry James objected to evidence being given as to a conversation which took place after the poll.

Mr. Collins was heard against the objection.

2020. Mr. Collins (to the Witness).] What time of the evening was this?—About six o'clock.

Mr. Justice Blackburn allowed the objection.

Mr. Collins inquired whether the Court would accept as evidence what Alfred Buttle did at that time?

Mr. Justice Blackburn ruled that this evidence was also inadmissible.

2021. Mr. Collins (to the Witness).] You say you saw Alfred on the same evening; at about what time?—At about six o'clock.

2022. Where was he then?—He was in his own house in St. Mary's-street.

2023. You must not tell us what he said; but did he say something to you?—He did.

2024. Did he take anything out of his pocket?—He asked his wife for it.

2025. He asked his wife for something?—He did.

2026. Did you see what his wife brought him?—I did.

2027. What was that?—A sovereign.

2028. What did he do with the sovereign?—

Mr. Henry James objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Blackburn overruled the objection.

2029. Mr. Collins (to the Witness).] What was done with the sovereign?—It was sent to get change.

2030. Was any money given to you?—He gave me 5 s.

2031. Who did?—Alfred Buttle.

2032. Did either of the other brothers take you to Alfred?—His oldest brother did.

2033. That is John?—That is John.

2034. Did he tell you the purpose for which he took you to Alfred's house before he got there?—

Mr. Henry James objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Blackburn overruled the objection.

2035. Mr. Collins (to the Witness).] You say John Buttle told you something?—He did.

2036. And took you to Alfred Buttle's house?—He did.

2037. And there Alfred gave you this 5 s.?—He did.

2038. What did the old man do on the next day?—

Mr. Justice Blackburn ruled that this question could not be put.

F

2040. He

R. C.

Blackmore.

2040. He took you there, and you received the 5 s.?—I did.

24 February 1869. 2041. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Why did he say that he was to give you the 5 s.; what was it for?—He did not say what it was for.

2042. Mr. Collins.] Was John the same man that you had the conversation about the “sugar” with early in the afternoon between three and four o’clock?—It was.

2043. And Alfred was the man that you tried to fetch and looked for?—Yes; he has no vote.

2044. The next day, had you a conversation with the old man?—It was not very much of a conversation.

2045. What did he do?—He gave me 2 s. 6 d.

2046. After the election, have you seen Allan?—I have.

2047. Before the election, and during the election, had you seen Allan with Messrs. Vanderbyl and Kinglake?—I did.

2048. Can you tell me who were with the two Liberal candidates besides Mr. Allan?—I believe it was Mr. Henry Lovibond.

2049. He is a solicitor, is he not?—Yes, he is.

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that Henry Lovibond was an acknowledged agent of the sitting Members.

2050. Mr. Collins (to the Witness).] What were they doing when you saw them?—They stood talking in George-street, and I stood at my master’s shop-door at the time.

2051. Did you see them go anywhere?—I did not, not together.

2052. Did you see Allan go with either of the candidates anywhere?—No.

2053. Where did you see Allan on the Saturday night after the election?—I met him in Fore-street.

2054. How long after the election?—Somewhere about a month or five weeks after the election.

2055. At that time did Allan say anything to you about your evidence?—

Mr. Justice Blackburn ruled that this question could not be put.

Mr. Serjeant Parry submitted that time was not of the essence of the question.

Mr. Justice Blackburn upheld his ruling.

2056. Mr. Collins (to the Witness).] Do you remember Allan saying anything to you at the “New Inn” before the polling had closed, when he tapped his pocket?—I do; that was outside the door.

2057. What did he say then?—He told me about going to get the Buttles.

2058. Did he say anything else there, or inside the yard; did he say anything to you?—Not then, because I went towards the town.

2059. When you came back again, and the Buttles were in the yard, and Allan was taking down names in his book, did he say anything to you?—Not to me.

2060. To the men round you?—As he was going upstairs he said something.

2061. What did he say?—He said, “Come along with me, my boys.”

2062. Did he tell you either to make it public over the town, or to keep it secret, or anything of that sort?—Nothing of that sort.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

2063. You left the Buttles, you say, on the 21st January of this year?—I did; or upon the 22nd.

2064. How long had you been apprenticed?—About five years; it may be over; I cannot say exactly.

2065. And you have served them well, I suppose, as a faithful and diligent apprentice?—I did my utmost.

2066. And you were entitled to have your indentures given up to you?—I consider I was.

2067. Have you applied for them?—I have.

2068. And they would not give them up?—They would not.

2069. You have been treated a little badly I think?—Not particular.

2070. Nothing to complain of?—No, not particular.

2071. Have you anything to complain of against the Buttles?—No, not in the way of work, or habit, or anything of that sort.

2072. But you have told us you cannot get your indentures; have you anything to complain of against him for not giving up your indentures?—The only thing I have to complain of is, that they did not make out my reckoning as they ought.

2073. What reckoning?—My wages; that was my reason for leaving them.

2074. But a man who has been an apprentice wants his indentures, does he not?—Some do, but I am not particular over them.

2075. Did you not apply for them?—I asked for them.

2076. And would they not give them to you?—They would not then.

2077. And they would not give them to you since?—I have not asked for them since.

2078. And they have them now?—Yes.

2079. That is not treating you well?—I did not take any notice of that treatment.

2080. Then you did not complain immediately?—I did not; I applied for them when I left, but I have not since.

2081. Then you do not want them?—I do not now.

2082. Do you not think it useful to have your indentures to show that you are properly qualified?—Not a bit, in our trade.

2083. Do they also allege that you owe them some money. I mean it?—I do not then.

2084. But did they not mean it?—No.

2085. First, did they not allege that you had not worked your full time as an apprentice, that you ought to work out some more time?—They said I had just a month’s over-time to work.

2086. Was that true?—No, it was not true.

2087. They asked you to work that month’s over-time, and you refused to do it?—I did.

2088. And that was not treating you very well?—I did not take any notice of that either.

2089. But you would not work at the time?—I would not.

2090. Then, in addition to that, did not they, or one of them, allege that you owed them more than 20 s. in money, for money borrowed?—I never heard of it from them.

2091. From anybody?—No.

2092. What did you mean by saying, not from them?—Not from the Buttles.

2093. You have not heard it from anyone?—I have not.

2094. The

2094. The first time you heard of it was from me?—Yes.

2095. It was so?—I believe so.

2096. Are you not sure?—I am sure.

2097. That you have never heard it from any one till you heard it from me now?—I have not.

2098. You have heard about the overtime and about the indentures?—Yes.

2099. You are on quite friendly terms with the Butties?—I was there yesterday.

2100. On good friendly terms?—Not particularly friendly altogether.

2101. Why are you not on friendly terms with them; you have been with them five years?—Because they did not give up my indentures and make out the reckoning as they ought.

2102. So there is a little unpleasantness now?—I spoke to them quite enough, and they to me yesterday.

2103. Did you tell them yesterday what you were coming here to say to-day?—I did not; they never asked me.

2104. And you never told them you were coming here as a witness against them?—No, I was subpoenaed.

2105. When did you give the statement to the gentleman who took down your evidence?—It was on Monday.

2106. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What Monday?—Last Monday.

2107. Mr. Henry James.] Was that the first time you had told it to anyone?—Yes, of any consequence.

2108. Never mind the consequence; we will judge of it. When was the first time you gave your evidence to anyone about this bribery?—A month ago.

2109. To whom?—To Mr. Vesey.

2110. That was the first gentleman you gave it to?—Yes.

2111. What caused you to go to him?—I went to him to know if I could not have my indentures, and the reckoning made up.

2112. You wanted to know if you could have your indentures from the Butties, and your reckoning made up at that time, and therefore a little unpleasantness had commenced between you and the Butties?—I cannot say that there was any unpleasantness at all.

2113. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Mr. Vesey, I presume, is a solicitor?—Yes.

2114. Mr. James.] Was it in the course of telling him that you wanted your indentures and your reckoning, that you told him that you knew all about this bribery of the Butties?—No, not all about it; I told him something.

2115. Why did not you tell him all?—Because I did not feel inclined.

2116. Why did not you feel inclined to tell Mr. Vesey all?—Because I considered what I told him was enough then; there was plenty of time before the petition came on.

2118. Why did you not tell him the whole?—I cannot tell why.

2119. Why did you give it him by degrees; part then, and part before the petition came on?—I cannot say why.

2120. Have you no reason to give why you did not tell the whole to this solicitor?—No reason whatever.

2121. What part did you tell Mr. Vesey on this occasion, and what part did you keep back from Mr. Vesey?—I told him I was at the "New Inn," and saw Mr. Allan there, and saw those men there, and such like.

2122. Was that all?—I believe that was all.

2123. You mean you told that to Mr. Vesey; you did not tell him you had been for the Butties, and that Bussell had said anything about sugar, or that Allan slapped his pocket?—I do not believe I did.

2124. When did you first mention this about the slapping of the pocket, and the sugar; this tale that you say is true?—On Monday.

2125. Then you kept it until Monday after the time you saw Mr. Vesey, and told it to no one?—No, I did not.

2126. Why did you keep it back so long?—I cannot say why.

2127. Do you wish us to understand that you have no reason to give why you kept it back?—I have no reason to give whatever.

2128. Of course, you have had no money from anyone in connection with this petition?—No, not a farthing.

2129. Not anything when your evidence was given?—No.

2130. Nor a promise of anything?—No.

2131. About a month ago, did you see Mr. Vesey at the shop of John Alfred Buttle?—No, I was not working there at that time.

2132. You left on the 21st of July; before you left at any time, did you see Mr. Vesey at your master's shop?—I did just after the election.

2133. How long after?—A fortnight or three weeks after.

2134. That would be in the month of December?—Yes.

2135. Did Mr. Vesey say to you, in your master's presence, "I know you know all about it; you will want some clothes shortly"?—He did not.

2136. I put it to you in the presence of John Alfred Buttle; and did not he say also to you, "I will give you a good suit of clothes for the winter, and a few pounds besides if you will come and swear what will do to make a case"?—He did not.

2137. Nothing of that kind?—No.

2138. In the presence of John Alfred Buttle?—No.

2139. Did Mr. Vesey speak to you?—He did not speak to me more than he did to Buttle.

2140. Never mind the comparative degree; did he speak to you at all?—He did.

2141. About the election?—Yes.

2142. What did he say to you about the election?—He asked me what I knew about it.

2143. What did you say?—I told him I was not going to tell he then.

2144. Did you tell him you knew nothing?—I did not.

2145. Did you tell him you knew something?—I did.

2146. What did he say to that?—"You may as well tell me."

2147. What did you say?—I said I shall not.

2148. Was that all that passed?—Yes, then.

2149. You went and told him a small portion of this when you went about your indentures?—I did.

2150. Do you know Joseph White?—I do.

2151. The auctioneer?—I do.

2152. Did

- R. C. Blackmore.* 2152. Did you see him on the day you were subpoenaed?—Yes.
2153. Did you talk to him?—I might have spoken to him.
- 24 February 1869. 2154. You were only subpoenaed last Monday?—Yes, I was.
2155. When were you subpoenaed?—Three weeks ago last Saturday.
2156. Have you forgotten whether you spoke to Mr. White, or not?—I might have spoken to Mr. White.
2157. Did you tell Mr. White that you were subpoenaed; but you did not know what for, for you knew nothing at all about what had taken place?—No.
2158. Will you swear that?—Yes.
2159. You know Mr. White?—Yes.
2160. You never said anything of that sort to him?—Not to the best of my knowledge.
2161. You could not have forgotten that; upon your oath, did you or not say so to him?—I did not.
2162. To the best of your knowledge?—I did not.
2163. Will you swear that?—I will swear it.
2164. Now, you are quite sure?—I am quite sure.
2165. Did you tell him you were subpoenaed?—I did; I might have told him so.
2166. Did you or not, tell him you were subpoenaed?—I cannot say whether I did or not.
2167. Have you any doubt about it?—I have rather, whether I saw Mr. White or not.
2168. Never mind about seeing him; did you tell him that you were subpoenaed?—I might have told him so; I cannot say.
2169. Do not you recollect showing him the subpoena; producing it?—I do not.
2170. Showing it?—I do not.
2171. You never had such a subpoena before?—No.
2172. Did not you show Mr. White that subpoena, and tell Mr. White that you did not know why you were subpoenaed, for you knew nothing about it?—I am not certain that I did; in fact I do not remember seeing Mr. White.
2173. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What was your last answer; will you repeat it louder?—
2174. Mr. James.] Your answer was to me, “I am not certain that I did.” What is it that you are not certain that you did?—I am not certain whether I saw Mr. White or not the day I was subpoenaed.
2175. Is that what you meant to say when you told me just now that you were not certain that you did?—I believe it was.
2176. Did you know what my question was when you answered it?—I might not have understood it.
2177. Did you know what my question was when you answered it?—I might have known it.
2178. Did not you give the answer, “I am not certain that I did,” to this question, whether you did not tell Mr. White that you had been subpoenaed, but you did not know why you were subpoenaed, for you knew nothing about it?—I never remember speaking the words to him.
2179. Did you understand that to be the question, when you said, “I am not certain that I did”?—I did not understand that exactly.
2180. Now, I understand you to say you do not recollect saying it?—I do not recollect saying it.
2181. Upon your oath, will you swear you did not?—I should not like to swear I did not.
2182. Suppose for a moment you said that which you now admit you might have said, was it true?—If I did say so, it does appear I know something.
2183. If you said that to Mr. White which you say you might have said, that you knew nothing about it, was that statement true?—I cannot say whether it was or not.
2184. What do you mean by saying you cannot say whether it was true or not, that you knew nothing about it?—I should like to know your meaning; I do not exactly understand you.
2185. You have just sworn that you might have said to Mr. White you knew nothing about it, and you have also sworn that you cannot say whether that statement was true or not, that you knew nothing about it; will you explain those two answers?—No, I cannot; I do not understand them at all.
2186. Do you adhere to your answer, that you might have said to Mr. White, showing him the subpoena, that you knew nothing about it?—I might have said so; I cannot say.
2187. If you said so, which you admit you might have done, was the statement true?—If I did so, I do not believe it was true; I do not believe I said so.
2188. Have you any doubt whether you said that which was untrue?—I have a doubt whether I mentioned the words to Mr. White; I have no doubt on the other.
2189. You admit that if you did mention the words to Mr. White, you said that which was untrue?—Yes, but I do not believe I did.
2190. Cannot you be quite certain whether you had said that which was false or not?—No, I cannot say; it was more than a month ago.
2191. If you did say that to Mr. White which was untrue, you knew it to be untrue at the time you said it?—If I did say so, I must have known it.
2192. Why will not you swear you did not?—Because I am not certain whether I did or not.
2193. You are not certain whether you said that which you knew to be untrue or not?—It was a month ago.
2194. Mr. Vesey has never promised you any clothes or any money?—No.
2195. Do you know Mr. Edwin James?—No.
2196. Do you know Stephen Jones?—Yes.
2197. A tailor, and told him that Mr. Vesey promised you clothes or money to give evidence?—No.
2198. You never told that to anyone?—No.
2199. You gave the information; why did you give the information?—I do not know why, but I did.
2200. Why did you give it?—Because Mr. Vesey asked me at the time; I went to Mr. Vesey.
2201. Because he asked you at the time you went to him?—Yes.
2202. If that was the motive for your telling him, why did you not tell him all and not part; why did you tell him only part?—Because I told him that, and I said I would think of more another time.
2203. Did you require to think of it, before you could tell it him?—Of course I did.
2204. Did you recollect it at the time you were were with him about the indentures?—Not exactly all.

2205. Did you recollect all those facts at the time you were with him, about the indentures?—Not exactly all.

2206. Had you forgotten some of them?—Just for the moment.

2207. You mean to tell us that, whilst you were there talking to him, some of those things did not occur to you?—I do.

2208. When did they occur to you?—Since.

2209. When?—I cannot tell exactly.

2210. When did these facts occur to you for the first time, which you saw on the 17th of November, and forgot when with Mr. Vesey?—I cannot say at the moment.

2211. A week, or a month, if you like?—Last Monday.

2212. When did you first think of it; when did these things come back to your memory?—They did not pass from my memory; I did not think of them at the moment.

2213. You say those things were not in your mind; will you tell me when was it that they came back to your mind?—I do not know that they have been out of my mind altogether.

2214. You say that some of these things did not occur to you; when did they come back to your mind?—I cannot tell exactly.

2215. Was it last Monday that they came back?—That was the time I gave my evidence.

2216. Before you gave your evidence, how long had those things come back to your mind?—I cannot say.

2217. Can you give us any reason why they should have gone out of your mind when you were at Mr. Vesey's?—No.

2218. George-street is a street into which one of Mr. Allan's doors opens?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

2219. When, let me distinctly understand, was it that Mr. Vesey first asked you whether you knew anything about the election?—Just after the election.

2220. About how long?—I cannot tell; it may be a week, and it may be more.

2221. Was it a week, or more?—It was a week.

2222. I understand you had gone to him about your indentures?—Yes.

2223. In reference to any claim you might have against your former master for your indentures?—Yes.

2224. Which I understand you had not pursued; you had allowed your indentures to remain in your master's hands?—Yes.

2225. Did you give him a statement then, and did you give him a statement after that?—I gave him a short statement then; I have not since.

2226. Have you given a full statement of your evidence since?—I have.

2227. Was that to Mr. Brice?—No.

2228. To some gentleman assisting us in this matter. As far as Mr. Vesey is concerned, he has nothing to do with this petition, that you know of?—Not that I know of.

1869.

Thursday, 25th February 1869.

25 February 1869. Mr. Serjeant Parry handed in a copy of the poll book, with the names of all the voters, and the candidates for whom they voted, which Mr. Serjeant Sargood admitted as being substantially correct.

Mr. Serjeant Parry also handed in a paper showing the state of the poll for each hour.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood admitted this document as being substantially correct.

The same was read, as follows:—

“HOURLY STATE OF THE POLL.

JEFFERY DENMAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

J. Denman. 2229. You are an Innkeeper?—Yes.
— 2230. You keep the “White Lion” Inn?—
Yes.

2231. Do you know the Buttles?—Yes.

2232. The old man?—Yes.

2233. And the two sons?—And the two sons.

2234. On the polling day, did you go to John Alfred Buttle, the younger?—I saw him in the street.

2235. Was Edward Buttle with him?—He was.

2236. Did you ask the two Buttles to vote for the Conservatives?—I asked them who they were going to vote for.

2237. About what time was this?—Just before eight o'clock.

2238. What did they say?—They said they would vote for Mr. Most.

2239. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Which of them said this?—John.

2240. Mr Collins.] Did Edward say anything?

—Only acquiesced; he did not speak; he did not consent.

2241. Did they say anything else?—They should like to vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray.

2242. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Who said this?—John.

2243. Mr. Collins.] Go on?—I told them I did not think there was any money going for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray; I asked them to come with me to the meeting at the “Clarence.”

2244. That was a Conservative meeting?—That was a Conservative meeting which was then about to be held.

2245. What did either of them say to that?—They would come in directly.

2246. Both of them?—No; one.

2247. Which?—John.

2248. Did they come?—I did not see them.

2249. Did they say anything else at that time?—Not at that time.

2250. When did you see either of the Buttle's?—Several —Several times in High-street, from 10 to 12 o'clock.

2251. Which one?—John and Edward.

2252. John, junior, and Edward?—Yes.

2253. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Did you say John, or John and Edward together?—Together and separately.

2254. Mr. Collins.] First, with respect to John; did he say anything to you during the morning?—He said he would not go to poll without some money.

2255. Did Edward say anything?—Yes.

2256. What did he say?—The same observation; he would not go without money.

2257. Can you tell me the last time you saw John before the poll closed?—About half-an-hour.

2258. Half-past three?—About half-past three.

2259. Where was John then?—In Back-street, in company with a person of the name of Jefferies.

2260. What did you say to John then?—I asked him to go to poll for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray.

2261. What did he say?—He refused; I asked him to come with me to the "Clarence," which he did.

2262. Did he go into the "Clarence"?—He did.

2263. Where did he go to?—I do not know after the "Clarence" where he went to, but I persuaded him then to go to poll.

2264. What did he say then?—He swore he would not go to poll without money this morning, nor he would not then.

2265. How long after he left the "Clarence" did you see him again?—I should say about 10 minutes.

2266. From which direction was he coming then?—From Eastover.

2267. Would that be from the "New Inn"?—That would be from the direction of the "New Inn."

2268. What was he doing there?—He was in company with 20 persons; he was arm-in-arm with a person of the name of Webber; John Webber, I believe, is his name.

2269. How were they walking?—Seven or eight in a row; he was on the outside waving various coloured ribbons.

2270. Which colours?—Orange was very prominent.

2271. During that day, before the poll closed, had you seen the old man?—Only once.

2272. Where was that?—In High-street; first I met the father and the two sons together.

2273. Did the father say anything?—No.

2274. On the Thursday following you saw the whole of the Buttles?—No.

2275. Which?—John and Edward; John, junior, principally.

2276. Did they make a communication to you?—They did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

2277. Are you one of the Bridgwater gentlemen who change your political views occasionally, or are you always of one way of thinking?—Always one way of thinking from the first that I had a vote to the last.

2278. When did you first have a vote?—I do not know what year.

2279. Some years ago?—Some years ago.

2280. Which has been your way of thinking? J. Denman.
—That of a Conservative.

2281. It was an early hour in the morning, you say, that one of these Buttles said he should not vote without the money?—Yes. 25 February 1869.

2282. Had you asked him for his vote before that day?—No; I had several conversations with him, and asked him who he was going to vote for.

2283. Before that day?—Yes.

2284. Yours was rather an application of curiosity than of solicitation for a vote?—We all like to hear from each other which way we are going to vote.

2285. Was it mere curiosity or asking to get the vote?—Mere curiosity; I should wish him to vote that way, as I was that way inclined.

2286. Were you trying to get his vote, or merely, out of curiosity, wishing to find out which way he wanted to vote?—Merely out of curiosity.

2287. That is what you call being a staunch Conservative?—Yes.

2288. You had no idea of getting his vote?—Not then.

2289. Neither at eight o'clock nor when you asked him the day before?—No.

2290. As you had no idea of getting his vote, and as he told you he did not mean to vote without the money, what did you take him direct into the Conservative hotel, the "Clarence," for?—This was in the after part of the day.

2291. I understand what you have been telling me was previous to the election?—Yes.

2292. I am talking about eight o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

2293. You said previous to the election, and at eight o'clock in the morning, you were asking this man out of curiosity which way he was going to vote?—Out of curiosity.

2294. When your curiosity was satisfied by his telling you that he did not mean to vote without the money, why did you ask him to come down to the Conservative quarters at the "Clarence"?—I did do so.

2295. Why; was that the place to get the money?—No, to hear what was going on at the meeting; there was a public meeting.

2296. The poll began at eight o'clock?—This was before eight.

2297. A political meeting before eight?—There was a political meeting at eight, and previous to eight I saw him.

2298. What was the political meeting at the "Clarence" about?—Nothing more than an ordinary meeting to persuade every man to go to poll early.

2300. That was not the way to get the money?—No, certainly not.

2301. As he would not vote without the money, what was the use of your getting him to the "Clarence"?—We are on very intimate terms, and I merely asked him to accompany me there.

2302. What was the use of taking him there?—I did do so.

2303. Why?—From curiosity.

2304. You asked him the question from curiosity?—Yes.

2305. Did you let him go away from curiosity?—Yes, I asked him to come.

F 4

2306. You

J. Denman.

1869.

2306. You saw him again about 10?—At various times in the morning; I dare say about 10; I might have seen him about 10.

2307. Did you try and persuade him to go and vote for your Conservative friends?—I did.

2308. You then began to think it time to look after the votes; when he told you he would not vote without the money you began to press him?—Yes.

2309. Where was he to 'get' the money?—I assured him there was no money, and told him to go to the poll early.

2310. You assured him there was no money anywhere?—Not as regards the Conservative cause, I believe.

2311. You told him that?—Yes.

2312. Your intimate and bosom friend said, "I do not mean to vote without money;" and you said, "My dear friend, I give you the assurance that the Conservatives do not mean to give you any money, so go and vote for them as quick as you can?"—That is just it.

2313. Your intimate friend was not persuaded?—No.

2314. What next happened when you spoke to him?—I could not get him to go to the poll, consequently we left each other.

2315. You had done with him?—For the present.

2316. When you next met him what did you do, or what did you say to him?—I asked him to go to the poll.

2317. About what time was that?—About 12; half-a-dozen times I persuaded him to go to poll.

2318. Was this John that you were at half-a-dozen times?—I spoke to Edward on one or two occasions during the day.

2319. And he told the same story?—I could not get them to go to the poll.

2320. What did Edward say about it?—He should not go to poll, as there was nothing flying.

2321. How many people during the day did you have these sort of interviews with; anybody besides the three Buttles?—Perhaps a dozen; I may have done so.

2322. The three Buttles in particular?—No, not three in particular; only two in particular; that is John, junior, and Edward.

2323. Had you anything to do yourself at the "Clarence" Hotel?—Nothing whatever.

2324. You only went there out of curiosity?—To see the state of the poll, and so on.

2325. The poll had not begun at eight in the morning?—No.

2326. What had you to do at the "Clarence" at eight in the morning?—To hear this meeting.

2327. What was the meeting about?—To persuade people to poll early.

2328. Who was persuading them?—Mr. Westropp persuaded them to go to the poll early.

2330. When did you get into communication with the other side about these remarkable conversations?—With gentlemen on the opposite side; I do not know any one personally that I have been in conversation with.

2331. Do you mean you do not know personally any of those gentlemen round that table?—I know a great many of them undoubtedly.

2332. Which of those gentlemen did you first talk to about the Buttles?—Mr. Chapman; I was in Messrs. Smith and Boyles' office; he is the gentleman I told about three weeks since.

2333. He was the first gentleman?—He was the first gentleman.

2334. About three weeks ago?—Yes.

2335. Did he ask you to go anywhere else?—No.

2336. Have you been anywhere else to tell this story?—No; I may have told a friend, but I have never been to any office or anywhere where evidence was taken down; I might have said so-and-so was the case.

2337. You do not remember telling any one but that gentleman, and that was three weeks ago?—Yes.

2338. From that time to the present, do you mean to say you have had no communication with anybody about it?—About that matter?

2339. About the Buttles?—I may have told persons, but nothing else but by accident.

2340. Did that gentleman in that office take it down from you in writing?—Yes.

2341. Then and there?—Yes.

2342. Whose office was it?—Messrs. Smith and Boyles.

2343. Then you had heard something about the petition?—I certainly heard there was going to be a petition presented.

2344. Had you not heard that there was one in existence when you told your story to that gentleman?—Yes.

2345. He took a piece of paper then and there, and wrote it down?—Yes.

2346. Do you mean really to tell me that you have not talked to anybody else about this petition and the evidence to be given?—I may have done so by accident.

2347. What do you mean by having done so by accident?—In the course of conversation I may have said so-and-so was the case, what happened between me and the Buttles.

2348. You have not tried to find out whether anybody else knew anything about the matter besides yourself?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

2349. Mr. Chapman is a clerk in Messrs. Smith and Boyles' office?—Yes.

2350. Those gentlemen are assisting Mr. Trevor and Mr. Brice. (To the Witness.) You say you may have had conversations with people before, but you gave him a statement for the purpose of giving evidence here to-day?—Yes.

2351. You always voted Conservative, I believe?—Yes.

2352. And did at the last election?—Yes.

Mr. HENRY HAYWARD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

2353. WHAT are you?—A Boot and Shoe-maker.

2354. In the town?—Yes.

2355. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray.

2356. You know the Buttles?—I do.

2357. Father and sons?—All three of them.

2358. Did you see them or any of them on the polling day?—I did.

2359. Which of them did you see?—All three of them.

2360. In the first instance, you saw all three of them in the morning, or when?—In the morning, about ten minutes to eight.

2361. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Were they all three together?—All three together.

2362. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] That is John Alfred, junior, and senior, and Edward; did they say anything to you, or you to them, about their vote?—I was passing through the market-place, and the first of the Buttles that was called here yesterday morning called after me.

2363. That was John Alfred, junior?—Yes; and I stepped back to him. He asked me if there was anything “going” on.

2364. What did you say?—“What do you mean?” He said, “Any stuff?” I said, “Not that I know of.”

2365. You understood then what he meant?—I understood what he meant.

2366. Go on?—I then left him.

2367. Did he at that time say anything to you about how he should vote?—Not at that time.

2368. Did you see any one of them again?—I did.

2369. When?—About 11 o'clock in High-street.

2370. Did you see them all three together, or only one?—All three of them were standing together.

2371. What passed?—The same one that spoke to me first in the morning called me again, and asked me how things were “going,” and I said, “All right,” meaning then that Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray were about 140 ahead. I asked him if he had been to poll? He said, “No.” I said, “Why do not you go?” He said, “I want the stuff.”

2372. Had he said anything to you about which way he should vote?—They told me twice that they should vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray.

2373. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Who told you this?—The one that spoke to me in the morning.

2374. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] The same man who appears to have been the spokesman?—The stoutest of them that was called yesterday told me on the nomination day that he should vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray.

2375. Is that all the interviews you had with them on the day of the polling?—Yes, and I did not seek that; they called after me.

Mr. H.
Hayward.

1869.

Mr. ROBERT BUSSELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

2376. WHAT are you?—Bailiff to the County Court.

2377. Do you know John Alfred Buttle, the elder?—I do.

2378. Did you put an execution into his house about the day of the election?—I did on the 18th, the Wednesday, the morning after the poll.

2379. Was it paid out?—Immediately.

2380. Look at that paper (handing a paper to the Witness)?—It was issued at 11 o'clock, the 18th of November 1868.

2381. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] How much?—£ 5. 19 s. 4 d., and the cost of the levy, 3 s.

2382. Mr. Collins.] It was paid out immediately?—It was paid out immediately.

2383. Who paid it out?—John Buttle the elder, the defendant.

2384. Did you put an execution into the same house just before the election?—I did.

2385. How long before?—I put in one on the 21st of October.

2386. What became of that?—It was at the suit of Messrs. Reed & Cook.

2387. The Liberal agents?—Yes.

2388. Was that paid out?—No.

2389. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] How much was that?—£. 7. 4 s. 6 d.

2390. What became of that?—It was withdrawn.

2391. Mr. Collins.] Were Messrs. Reed & Cook the solicitors who put in the execution after the election on the 18th?—It was previous to the election.

2392. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] There are two different executions spoken about; at whose suit was the execution that was paid out for 5 l. 19 s. 4 d.?—Messrs Shrimpton & Austin, ironmongers in this town.

2393. Who were the attorneys?—No one; they acted on their own behalf.

Mr.
R. Bussell.

Mr. WILLIAM LUCKESS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

2394. YOU reside in Barclay-street?—Yes.

2395. Are you a Mariner?—Yes.

2396. And a voter?—Yes.

2397. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For the Conservative side.

2398. What time did you vote, do you remember?—About ten minutes after three, as near as I can guess.

2399. Between three and four did you see Henry Chapman Bussell, the keeper of the “Anchor Inn” or beershop?—Yes, I did.

65.

2400. Where were you at that time?—On the bridge.

2401. Did he speak to you about the election?—Yes.

2402. What did he say?—He asked me if I had been to poll, I told him no, and he asked me if I would go with him to his house; he would give me 10 l. if I would vote for his side, which I took it to be for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl.

G

2403. When

Mr. W.
Luckess.

- Mr. W. Luckess.
25 February 1869.
2403. When he said that, what did you say to him?—I told him I should not go.
2404. Did he then leave you?—No; he caught me by the arm a second time and repeated the same words, that he would give me 10*l.* if I would vote for his side; I told him I should not go; he said “Why not,” and my wife was behind me, I not knowing she was on the bridge; she stepped forward and asked Bussell what he was going to do with me.
2405. Your wife did not hear the conversation that passed between you and Bussell?—No.
2406. I believe you had voted at that time?—I had voted.
2407. At the time of the election were you in the employment of Mr. John James Sully or James Wood Sully?—I was.
2408. Was James Wood Sully an active supporter of Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake?—I heard so; I was not at home at the canvassing.
2409. Two or three days after the election were you discharged from your ship?—Yes.
2410. Without notice or reason?—Without notice or reason.
2411. Was that one of Mr. Sully’s ships?—Yes.
- Cross-examined by Mr. James.
2412. You voted for Mr. Westropp alone, did not you?—Yes.
2413. You did not vote for Mr. Gray?—No, I did not.
2414. At what time did you poll?—About ten minutes after three.
2415. Had you been about the town all the day, or where had you been?—I had not been in the town all the day; I had been out of the town part of the day.
2416. Where had you been?—Not on any particular business; I was down as far as Dumball.
2417. Were you engaged in your ship?—No; I was not engaged in my ship.
2418. What was your ship at that time; what ship were you in?—The “Carry Wench.”
2419. Was Captain Turner the captain of that ship?—I believe so; he acted as captain.
2420. What were you; the mate?—Yes.
2421. Who discharged you?—I had no discharge.
2422. Who told you not to come back to the ship?—The captain.
2423. You had no communication of any kind with Mr. Sully?—No.
2424. Mr. Sully does not interfere with his ships, does he?—I think he does interfere with his own ships.
2425. He did not interfere with you?—No.
2426. It was Captain Turner who discharged you?—Yes.
2427. Mr. Sully is generally in Wales, is not he; he has collieries in Wales, has not he?—He has collieries, I think, at Sidney. Whether he was at home or away, I cannot say.
2428. Why did you wait till ten minutes past three before you voted?—I thought it was optional with my own self what time I went to the poll, and whether I would go to vote or not at all.
2429. Was it in the exercise of your option that you did not vote till ten minutes past three?—Yes.
2430. Why did not you poll earlier?—I did not think it was proper.
2431. Why did not you think it was proper?—Because I had my own mind to use. I thought my vote as good at four, as early in the morning.
2432. Why did you exercise your option by voting so late in the day?—I had no reason for it whatever.
2433. Why, if you had voted, did you tell Bussell you had not?—Because there was intimidation and bribery about, and it was my place to catch them, if I could.
2434. Why did not you take the money?—I did not want it.
2435. If you had gone with him to his house, you would have caught him quite out?—Yes.
2436. Why did not you do it?—I did not want it.
2437. You wanted to catch him out?—Yes.
2438. You would have caught him out if you had taken the money, and wrapped it in a piece of paper, and taken it to the “Clarence”?—Yes.
2439. Why did not you do so?—I did not do such a thing as that.
2440. Why not?—I have no reason for it.
2441. You had no reason for not catching him out?—No.
2442. You do not not know James Palmer, I suppose?—Yes, I do, very well.
2443. How long have you known him?—These three or four years.
2444. Have you been in the habit of being with him?—No; he belongs to the same society as I do. He goes to the same club, and I meet him there, and I meet him in the town. We are always friendly.
2445. He is an agreeable person, is he not?—I do not know anything about the man.
2446. You know him well?—Yes.
2447. Did you tell Palmer of this offer?—I believe not. If I did, it must have been some time after.
2448. Did you tell Palmer of the offer?—I told a great many of it.
2449. Did you tell Palmer of it?—I cannot say.
2450. You have seen him at the club?—Not since.
2451. You have seen him in the street?—Not many times.
2452. Have you spoken to him?—Twice.
2453. Have you never told Palmer about this affair?—Never to my knowledge.
2454. Has not he asked you about it?—I believe not.
2455. Did you go to Mr. Brice’s office to make your statement?—No.
2456. Where did you go to make your statement?—Mr. Boyle’s, I believe. I went to the “Clarence” first to make the statement.
2457. When?—Before the poll was closed.
2458. Who did you see there; did you see Mr. Westropp?—Yes.
2459. Did you know at that time that Palmer was there?—I was there when Palmer was there. Palmer came while I were there.
2460. Who told his tale first?—Me.
2461. And then Palmer produced the 10*l.*?—He did.
2462. To whom did you tell the story?—I think to Mr. Brice; I believe Mr. Brice was in at the time, and Mr. Westropp, and Mr. Gray, and other gentlemen, strangers to me.
2463. And then Palmer came in?—After me.
2464. Did

2464. Did you see Palmer produce his 10*l*.?—I did.

2465. You had not seen Palmer before, that day?—Not to speak to him; I do not believe I had seen him at all.

2466. Nobody told you to go back and get the 10*l*. from Bussell?—No.

2467. Was your statement taken down?—In the “Clarence.”

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

2468. Was your statement taken down that afternoon or evening, at the “Clarence”?—The same evening, before the poll closed.

Mr. THOMAS WILLIAMS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

2473. ARE you in the employment of the Railway Company here?—I am.

2474. What is your employment?—I am in the trimming department.

2475. Is a gentleman of the name of Captain Bridges at the head of it?—He is.

2476. Are you employed under him?—Yes.

2477. I believe also you follow a nobler occupation; you are bandmaster of the Volunteer Rifles here?—I am.

2478. How many men have you under you in the band?—It varies at times; sometimes 15, sometimes 20; but at the present time I should think about 15 or 16.

2479. Was there the same number in the band at the last election?—Near about.

2480. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Westropp and Gray.

2481. Were there many persons voters in your band?—I should think all but two or three.

2482. Were you a new voter, or an old voter?—An old voter.

2483. Do you know Mr. Henry Jarman?—Yes.

2484. What is he?—I believe he is a gentleman.

2485. Do you mean by that that he follows no occupation?—I understand not.

2486. Do you know at all, irrespective of any communication he may have made to you, whether he canvassed at all for Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl; have you seen him with them?—He canvassed for Messrs. Vanderbyl and Kinglake at my house.

2487. Do you know of his doing it anywhere else?—

Mr. James.] He does not say with the candidates.

2488. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] He canvassed at your house; at that time were either of those gentlemen, Mr. Kinglake or Mr. Vanderbyl, with him?—Both of them; I did not see them, they called when I was at my work.

2489. Who did see them?—My wife.

2490. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Did you afterwards see them yourself at all?—

2491. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did you see Mr. Henry Jarman with Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl, yourself?—No.

2492. Only alone?—Only alone.

2493. When was that?—The first time was on the Saturday fortnight previous to the election.

2494. Will you tell us what passed between Jarman and you at that time about your vote?—I went to the door and he asked me in; he said, 2469. Was it this gentleman (pointing to a young man sitting at the table)?—Yes.

2470. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] You understand the difference between having told a story and made a statement in the sense of its being written down and signed; was your statement written down and signed?—In the “Clarence.”

2471. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] You have been asked about Mr. Sully; before the polling day, or on the polling day, or any time before, had Mr. Sully asked you for your vote?—No.

2472. He had not canvassed you?—No.

“Williams, I believe,” he said, “you are a Liberal”; I said “Sir, you can easily see by looking at the voting lists,” meaning the list that has been printed after the elections; he said, “All right, I perfectly understand that, but,” he says, “Still I believe you are a Liberal”; I says, “All right sir”; he then said, “I understand you have no objection to play for the Liberal party,” I said “Certainly not, in the way of business”; he then told me he had been requested to ask me would I play, or undertake the business of playing, for the Liberal party, and at the same time would I bring a band with me; he asked me my terms; I was hesitating as to what I would consider to be my terms under the circumstances; he said, “Do not stint yourself, because he said “It is a thing that ought to be well paid for”; I said, “I will rather tell you my terms another time, sir, as I would rather have some consideration on the matter”; he said, “I want you to tell me to-night particularly, as I have to place it before a body of gentlemen, or a committee of gentlemen, this evening”; in answer to that I came to a decision as to the price; my price was 25*l*. for the two days, for 14 or 16 men in the band; he then told me he would lay it before these gentlemen; he wished me good-bye, and I left his house.

2495. He had spoken to you as you tell us about your vote, and said he believed you were a Liberal; did he say anything at that time about anybody else's votes?—Yes, he told me it was very essential that I should bring as many men from my own band as possible.

2496. To what; to play or what?—Voters.

2497. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What words did he use?—He asked me how many voters there were in my band; I told him I believed they were all voters with one or two exceptions, and that I believed they were all newly enfranchised; he said, “How many men do you think will vote for the Liberal party”; it was relative to the voters; I says, “I really cannot tell.”

2498. What part of the conversation was it in which this was said?—At Mr. Jarman's house on the Saturday fortnight before the election.

2499. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] At what part of the conversation you had with him, did this talk about the voters and how they would vote occur; was it before or after he had asked you your terms?—He pressed upon it the whole of the time.

2500. He asked you whether you thought there were Liberal voters amongst them; what did you say?—I told him I knew there were two, or three, or four, from their principle.

Mr.
W. Luckess.

25 February
1896.

Mr.
T. Williams.

Mr. T. Williams. 2501. What was the fact with reference to the number of votes; was there a majority of Conservative votes in the band, or Liberal?—A majority of Conservatives.
25 February 1869.

2502. When you say three or four, do you mean literally three or four Liberals?—Yes.

2503. This was the conversation on the Saturday in October; Mr. Jarman went away; did he return again to you at any time; did you see him again upon the same subject?—On leaving, he told me he would call at my house on the following Monday; he did not call on the following Monday, but he called some time during that week.

2504. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Did he see you?—He did.

2505. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Tell us as near as you can, what passed between him and you in reference to your vote and the votes of the band; if anything?—He asked me if I had asked the men, or if I had endeavoured to see how many men would vote for the Liberals, in order to accompany me; that is to say, to fulfil the engagement.

2506. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Tell us what he asked you, without putting anything of your own comment, but as near as you can remember what words he used?—He asked me how many men would vote, and had I asked them.

2507. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did he say how many men would vote, or did he ask you how many would vote one way or the other?—How many would vote Liberal.

2508. You are a man in rather a superior situation; I wish you would just carry your mind to the exact conversation?—I told him I did not know, as I had not asked them; I again repeated that there were three or four that I believed were Liberals, and that nothing would turn them from that principle. He told me that he had laid my price before the committee, and that they had accepted it.

2509. Had you told him the price in the first instance?—Yes, the first night. He told me that he had laid it before the committee, and they thought it was rather a high price, but he said, as far as regards himself, he thought it was not; I told him I did not consider it was a high price; but he said, they ultimately agreed to give it, but that it was very essential (repeating the same words again) that I should bring as many men from my own band to play with me who were voters.

2510. Did he say anything to you in the course of the second time about Captain Bridges?—On his first interview, and on the second interview, he did.

2511. You must call your memory back; what did he say to you about Captain Bridges?—He told me that Captain Bridges was going to vote for Mr. Vanderbyl. He stated "that the railway company would have nothing whatever to do with influencing my voting; that I should be free to do as I chose; and that Captain Bridges would not interfere with me"; I told him, "that Captain Bridges had never interfered with me." Then we went into other conversation of a kind of a political nature, relative to persons in the town, and so on; is it necessary for me to repeat that?

2512. I think not; my learned friend may cross-examine about that. Did he say anything to you in the course of either of those conversations, about your own vote, and your own influence or example?—Exactly so.

2513. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What did he say?—He told me that if I played for the Liberals, of course he should expect me to vote.

2514. When did he tell you this?—At the first interview and the second interview.

2515. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] If you played for the Liberal party, you were to vote; did he say anything else about if you did vote, or anything of that kind?—He told me that as many men as I could get to vote from my band and play with me, I could tell them that whatever was going in the shape of money, I was to tell the men that they should have, and that he would see me rewarded for my trouble.

2516. You say that he told you that he should expect you to vote if you played for the Liberal party; did he say anything to you about the example of your vote?—He said, that it would influence the other men to vote for them.

2517. I believe you have told us in substance the conversation which passed between you on both the interviews, have you not; there is nothing else that you recollect that was said about the vote?—Nothing particular at all.

2518. Did he engage you, or what did he say?—He said he would send another gentleman to engage with me, and that he would call again himself.

2519. Did you see him again?—He called again at my house, and I saw him.

2520. What did he say to you?—He repeated the same kind of conversation relative to the voters, and so on. It was a repetition of the same.

2521. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Will you speak out louder?—I will; I am suffering from a very severe cold on my chest. It was a repetition of the second interview with respect to the voters. He asked me if I had asked those men whether they would play and vote, and I told him, "No." He asked me, would I ask them; I told him, "Yes;" and he said that he would send some one to make the engagement.

2522. But that you have told us already?—But this is the third time.

2523. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did he go away then the third time, and did he ever come again?—He went away the third time, and came back no more.

2524. Nor did he send any one, I believe, to make any arrangement with you?—No.

2525. And no arrangement was made?—No.

2526. And how did you vote?—For Westropp and Gray.

2527. And the majority of your band, I believe?—Yes; those who felt disposed.

2528. Have you always voted Conservative?—Always.

2529. And you alluded to the polling books in the first interview, and Mr. Jarman would know whether you had or had not?—Exactly so.

2530. How far from your house does Mr. Jarman live?—Well, I cannot say.

2531. About a mile, or a mile and a half?—About that, I should think.

2532. At what time did those interviews with you take place; in the day or in the evening?—The first interview was at six o'clock in the evening; the second between seven and eight, or somewhere thereabouts; and the third at the same time, or a similar time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Edlin.

2533. Did you play for the Conservatives?—I did.

2534. You and your band-fellows?—Yes.

2535. What instrument do you play?—The cornet.

2536. You are the bandmaster?—I am.

2537. What did you get?—Nothing.

2538. Do you mean to say that the band played gratuitously?—Yes.

2539. Nothing at all?—Yes.

2540. For how many days?—Two days.

2541. On the day of the nomination and the day of the polling?—Yes.

2542. Then the whole band were Conservatives playing for nothing?—No, not the whole band; some of them played for the Liberals.

2543. Were the band divided, then?—Yes; they went where they liked, and played for whom they chose.

2544. The Conservative party had a band, and the Liberal party had a band?—Yes.

2545. You played for the Conservative party, and how many of your men of the Volunteer band?—Well, I cannot say exactly; but, at any rate, perhaps, 10 or 12.

2546. Of how many does the band consist?—About 15 or 16.

2547. You had proposed then that the whole band should play for the Liberal party for 25 l.?—No; Mr. Jarman had proposed that.

2548. But you had acceded, if I understand?—I had stated that that was the price that I should expect if I did do so.

2549. Did you not give Mr. Jarman to understand that the entire band would play under your direction, as master, for 25 l.?—Certainly not.

2550. What did you give him to understand then about the 25 l.?—That for 25 l. I would bring him a band.

2551. Then was it your proposal that you would bring him a band, not the band attached to the Bridgwater Volunteer Corps, but some other band?—Exactly so; he understood that at the time.

2552. Did you make him understand that?—Yes.

2553. Then the band which he was to pay 25 l. for, were to come from some other place?—Exactly so.

2554. Was it Weston?—Anywhere.

2555. Did you mention Weston?—No.

2556. Then he left you under the impression that you would bring a band of foreigners, and you were to hire them?—Yes.

2557. Pray when did you first mention to anybody what you have said here to-day, as to his telling you that whatever was going in the shape of money, he would see that the men should have it?—About a fortnight ago.

2558. Not before?—No.

2559. And then to whom?—At Mr. Boyle's office.

2560. That was the first time you mentioned it?—The very first.

2561. You never mentioned it before to any one?—Never.

2562. Did you go yourself to Mr. Boyle's office?—I did.

2563. About a fortnight ago, that is in the month of February; you know we are getting on into February now; and then you mentioned it for the first time?—I did.

2564. Then you never spoke of it to either of your performers?—I never intended to.

2565. Never mind what your intentions were, did you?—I did not.

2566. I should like to know whether Mr. Jarman sought you, or you sought him?—He sought me; he sent a man to me.

2567. You sent a message, you say?—Yes.

2568. But you went down to his house?—By the request of the messenger.

2569. In consequence of this message that you got, you went down to his house; and that on the first occasion was after your working hours, I think you told us, between six and seven o'clock?—About six o'clock.

2570. You then saw him at his house?—At his house.

2571. Was it there that the 25 l. was first mentioned?—Yes.

2572. And then did he tell you that he would communicate the price to the committee?—He did.

2573. You were rather anxious to be engaged, were you not?—No.

2574. Where did you have the second interview?—At my house.

2575. He came down to your house?—He did.

2576. Was it there that he told you that the committee demurred to giving so much as 25 l.?—It was.

2577. But that he did not think it too much?—Exactly so.

2578. And he was well aware at that time that the Volunteer band were chiefly Conservatives?—I do not know that they were all newly enfranchised.

2579. I thought you said you told him that about three or four of them were Liberals?—I told him that I knew for certain that three or four were Liberals that would go according to their principle.

2580. Did you mean to convey to him that you knew the others were not Liberals?—Certainly not; I meant him to understand—

2581. What did you suppose you would give him to understand by stating that three or four were Liberals?—I did not know whether the others were.

2582. That the others were open to conviction?—Exactly so.

2583. Did you hire any foreign band to come here?—No, I did not.

2584. When Mr. Jarman first came to you, did he say, "How many of your band can you get to play on the election day"?—He said that at the first interview at his house.

2585. I believe you are employed in what is called the Railway Carriage Department?—Yes.

2586. And the band is chiefly composed of the workpeople in employment there?—Yes.

2587. Did you then say "two or three," in answer to that question as to how many you could get?—I do not understand that.

2588. You say, if I understand you aright, that he asked you how many of the band of people you could get to play; did you in answer to that say "two or three"?—No, I did not.

2589. Did he ask you how many you intended to have in the band?—He asked me how many it was necessary to have.

2590. How many did you say?—Fourteen or 16.

2591. Not 15 or 16?—No, 14 or 16.

Mr.
T. Williams.
1869.

2592. And

Mr. T. Williams. 2592. And did you say that you would make up the remainder from Weston-super-Mare, if you got the order?—No.

5 February 1869. 2593. He made the first inquiry with reference to charge, did he not?—Yes.

2594. And you at once said 25 l.?—No; I hesitated, and requested him to let it remain open for consideration.

2595. Then are we to understand that you did not give the 25 l. as the price at the first interview?—I did, after him telling me that he wished to lay it before a committee of gentlemen.

2596. Did he not then object in these words, or to this effect, "That is a good deal of money"?—I think he did.

2597. Did he not then say to you (attend to this, if you please) "I cannot engage you; I am a voter; I dare not do such a thing; but I will speak for you, and let you know"?—I do not remember it.

2598. It is not at all likely that you should have forgotten that, if he said it. I will repeat the words, so that you may understand them. Did he say this, or anything to this effect, "I dare not do such a thing; but I will speak for you, and let you know"?—I do not remember that he did.

2599. Will you swear that he did not?—I should not like to swear that he did not; I will swear I cannot remember it.

2600. But is it at all likely that you could have forgotten such an expression as that?—We had long conversations, and I must have forgotten a great deal of it.

2601. Will you swear that he did not say it?—I will swear that I cannot recollect it.

2602. But you would not like to swear that he did not say it?—I should not like to swear that he did not.

2603. Where did you see him on the next occasion?—At my house.

2604. He came to you at your house?—Yes; you are speaking of the second interview now.

2605. At the second interview, after he came to your house in the evening, did he then ask you if you had asked Captain Bridges, of the Volunteer Corps, for his permission to play?—No, he did not ask.

2606. He never inquired of you?—No.

2607. Then you did not say, of course, that you had not asked Captain Bridge's permission, but that you would do so?—Certainly not.

2608. Did he not say to you, "You had better get Captain Bridge's permission before I can make any arrangements with you"?—No.

2609. Nothing to that effect?—Nothing at all.

2610. You appear on this second occasion not to have come to any definite terms with him; he promised to send another gentleman?—Yes.

2611. Did any other gentleman ever call upon you respecting this?—No.

2612. Then what was the understanding upon which you parted on the last occasion; that you were to play for him or not?—We had no perfect understanding, because he said he would send some one else.

2613. You expected a communication from some one else, and it never reached you?—Never 2614. In any shape or form?—In any shape or form.

2615. Did you make inquiries at Weston for bandsmen?—I did, and as I was going to Bristol—

2616. Never mind how, when, or where you did it, but you did make inquiries?—For one man.

2617. Was that one man to get others for you?—No.

2618. What instrumentalist was the man that you wrote to?—I did not write to any man.

2619. The Weston man?—I did not write to any man; I sent a message to Weston.

2620. What was the message?—To ask if he would come down to my house on the Monday morning.

2621. Is he a man that engages bands?—No.

2622. Monday, the nomination day?—Yes.

2623. And he did not come?—No.

2624. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What instrument would he play?—A cornet.

[The Witness withdrew.]

CHARLES GREEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

C. Green. 2625. WHAT are you in this borough?—A carpenter.

2626. Did you vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray at the last election?—For Westropp and Gray.

2627. I want to know whether you are the right person, and whether you are really the gentleman

I want; have you a son of the name of Edwin Green?—No.

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that this Witness had been called by mistake.

[The Witness withdrew.]

SAMUEL PHILLIPS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

S. Phillips. 2628. ARE you a labourer?—Yes.

2629. And you reside in Union-street?—Yes.

2630. And you are a voter?—Yes.

2631. At the last election, did you vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray?—Yes.

2632. I believe you are a member of the Conservative Working Men's Association?—Yes.

2633. Do you remember the day of the nomination; the Monday before the election?—Yes.

2634. Did you go to the "Bath Bridge Inn"?—Yes.

2635. At about what time?—I cannot say exactly what time now.

2636. But at about what time?—In the forenoon.

2637. Did you go again there in the evening?—Yes.

2638. Who went with you?—There were several there.

2639. Into what room did you go?—Upstairs.

2640. Do you know a man named Philip Gilbert?—Yes.

2641. What is Philip Gilbert?—He is a wheelwright, I believe.

2642. Was he there?—Yes.

2643. What

2643. What was he doing upstairs?—He was there about this election.

2644. What do you mean by that?—He said he would give the same as the opposite party.

2645. What do you mean?—He would give as much as the opposite party.

2646. Did he say so?—Yes.

2647. He said he would give as much as the opposite party?—Yes.

2648. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] When you went there, was he sitting at a table, or standing, or speaking, or was he alone, or were there many people in the room; tell us about it?—There were about 30 people, I suppose, in the room.

2649. Mr. Collins.] Were any of those men, to your knowledge, voters?—Yes.

2650. How many of those 30?—The whole of them were voters.

2651. Will you give me some of their names?—Pitman.

2652. Price?—Price.

2653. And Prescott?—Prescott.

2654. And Reynolds?—Reynolds.

2655. Baker?—Baker were there.

2656. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Were there any others that you can remember?—Baker and William Bird.

2657. Any others?—Well, Passmore.

2658. Any more that you can remember?—No, not exactly.

2659. You say there were about 30 there altogether?—Yes.

2660. Do you remember Mr. Thomas Parsons being there?—Yes, he was there too.

2661. Was there a table in this room upstairs?—Yes.

2662. What was on the table?—There was some drink on the table.

2663. What drink?—Some beer.

2664. What part of the table was Gilbert sitting at?—The further end of it.

2665. Did you have any drink there?—Yes.

2666. How much?—I cannot say how much.

2667. Did you have as much as you wanted?—Yes, I had as much as I wanted.

2668. Were the rest of the 30 men drinking?—Yes; the whole was drinking.

2669. Who gave the order for the beer to be brought up?—Mr. Gilbert.

2670. Did you pay for anything that you drank?—No, not at all.

2671. Did you see any of the rest of the men pay for anything?—No, not at all.

2672. How long did you stay there?—I stayed there as long as ever I could, and then I went home.

2673. At what time did you get home?—After one o'clock in the morning.

2674. Did you stay there till one o'clock in the morning?—I did.

2675. And were the rest of the men staying there also?—Yes; there was men there as well as me.

2676. During the whole of that time was drink supplied?—Yes.

2677. And nothing paid for?—Nothing paid for; I was not axed for no payment.

2678. Do you recollect anyone saying anything to Gilbert about paying for votes?—

2679. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What was said, if anything, about it?—No.

2680. Mr. Collins.] Was anything said about the price of a vote?—Not about the price of votes.

2681. What was said about votes at all?—He said he could afford to give as much as the opposite party, and to rest ourselves contented; we would be all right before we went to the poll.

2682. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Will you repeat that?—He said he would give us as much as the opposite party.

2683. What else did he say?—Nothing else; only he said that we would be all right before we went to poll.

2684. Mr. Collins.] Was anything said about 10 l.?—No, I never heard anything about 10 l.

2685. Did you hear any price named?—No, he did not say what price.

2686. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] How came Gilbert to say this?—We was talking amongst ourselves.

2687. You know it is impossible for us to know what happened unless you tell us. Tell us what really did happen; how came Gilbert to say this?—He says, "You will be all right if you remain as you are before you go to poll; I will see things right."

2688. But how came he to say that?—I do not know.

2689. Mr. Collins.] Did anybody ask him about any price, or was it spoken of in the room at the time?—No more than they were giving so and so; the opposite party.

2690. Let us hear what they said that the opposite party were doing?—"So much."

2691. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Who said anything about the opposite party; let us hear that?—Several said.

2692. What did they say?—That there was so much given, and he could afford the same.

2693. But how much did they say had been given?—They did not say how much.

2694. Mr. Collins.] Did they say there was money going, or anything of that sort?—No, only promised.

2695. How much did they say had been promised by the opposite party?—They said 5 l.

2696. That is the blue party, the Conservatives; upon that did Gilbert say anything?—No, no more than he says, says he, "You will be right enough if you remain as you are"; that was all.

2697. Did Gilbert say anything about the sum the blue party were giving, or whether they were giving anything?—No; I cannot say that.

2698. Was anything said about the blue party more than you have told us?—No; I never heard anything more.

2699. You say you left them at one o'clock in the morning?—Somewhere about that.

2700. Did you go back again that night?—Yes; I went back again in the morning.

2701. At what time in the morning did you get back?—At about eight or nine o'clock.

2702. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Was this upon the Tuesday that you went back?—Yes, the polling day.

2703. Mr. Collins.] Did you see any of the same men, in the morning there, that you saw overnight?—Yes, they were there in the morning as well as myself.

2704. Still drinking?—Yes.

2705. Did you have anything to drink in the morning?—Yes.

2706. And did the rest of the men?—Yes, they had some.

2707. Did you pay, or did they pay?—No, I did not pay for anything, and I did not see anyone else.

2708. When you got there in the morning, did you

G 4

S. Phillips.

1869.

- S. Phillips.* you see Philip Gilbert there?—Yes, he was standing outside.
- 25 February 1869. 2709. What did you have to drink?—I had some beer warmed, and some rum in it.
2710. Did the rest of the men have the same?—All had the same.
2711. Did you have as much as you wanted then?—Yes, I had as much as I wanted.
2712. Do you remember that morning Gilbert asking you to have anything?—Yes; he was outside, and he says, “Go inside,” says he, “and have something to drink.”
2713. When he said that, did all the men go in?—We went in.
2714. And had this rum and warm beer?—Yes.
2715. Into which room did you go when you went in?—Upstairs.
2716. The same room that you had been in overnight?—Yes.
2717. Who was there at that time?—Almost the same party as there was overnight.
2718. About how many do you think?—I cannot say exactly how many there was.
2719. About the same number, more or less?—There may be about the same number for all I know.
2720. There were a good many men there drinking this rum and beer?—Yes.
2721. How long did you stay at the “Bath Bridge Inn” at that time?—I stopped till near one o’clock.
2722. Were the same men in there most of the time?—Most of the time.
2723. Did other men come up?—I cannot say that.
2724. During the whole of that time, up to one o’clock, were you drinking as much as you liked?—Yes, I was drinking; I could if I liked to drink it.
2725. You had only to call for it?—Yes, that was all.
2726. And the rest of the men?—Yes.
2727. During the whole of that time, the night before, and the morning up till one o’clock, did you see any person pay for any beer or anything?—No, I did not.
2728. Was Philip Gilbert there the whole of that time?—He was in and out; he was not there the whole of the time.
2729. At one o’clock you say you left?—Yes.
2730. Where did you go to?—Up to the poll.
2731. And you polled for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray?—Yes.
2732. I believe you promised them before, and you voted for them; after that, did you go back to the “Bath Bridge Inn”?—Yes, I was in the house afterwards.
2733. Was Mr. Gilbert still there?—I saw him in there.
2734. What was he doing then after one o’clock?—He was still along with the men; I stopped down in the kitchen then.
2735. Who was in the kitchen?—Several men.
2736. Voters?—No, they was not voters.
2737. Were you drinking in the kitchen after that?—Yes, I paid for that drop afterwards; after I voted for the “Blues.”
2738. Did you see those same men at all; did you go upstairs at all?—Yes, I was upstairs.
2739. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Were you upstairs after you had voted?—No, I were not.
2740. Mr. Collins.] But you say you saw Gilbert in some part of the house?—Yes.
2741. In what part of the house?—Coming in through and in the bar.
2742. Do you know Mr. James Symonds, a foreman of a brick yard?—Yes.
2743. Was he there?—In the bar.
2744. Did you see Symonds and Gilbert with any of the voters going anywhere?—No.
2745. In what state were the men about one o’clock?—Well, the men were not much out of the way; no one; they were well enough.
2746. They had been drinking, I suppose, as you say?—Yes, they had been drinking.
2747. Did they show any signs of drinking; were they partly drunk, or were they sober?—I no not say that they were drunk.
2748. But were they a little drunk?—I cannot say that.
2749. You do not say that they were quite sober; you would not like to say that?—No.
2750. I believe you were not “much out of the way” yourself; you are an old soldier, are you not, and can bear a good deal?—I do not know for that.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

2751. If my learned friend is right about that, that you can bear a good deal, how much did you manage to bear that day?—I cannot say; I did not keep account.
2752. But how long were you at this public-house the day before the polling day; how many minutes did you stop there when you went?—I stopped a good while there.
2753. Tell me how long?—Till near morning.
2754. But how long were you there altogether, half an hour, or an hour, or what?—Oh yes, more than an hour.
2755. An hour and a quarter?—Yes, and more; I cannot say exactly, because I did not look at the time.
2756. At what hour was it when you went into this place?—The first thing in the morning; I cannot say how long I was there.
2757. But I am talking of the nomination day, the Monday?—I went in in the morning, but I cannot say how long I stopped there.
2758. You do not mean to say that you went in in the morning, and stopped there till one o’clock the next morning?—No, not altogether; in and out I was.
2759. Then, am I to understand that you began on the nomination day by going early in the morning, that you were in and out all day, and that you wound up by leaving there at one o’clock at night?—Yes, that was all.
2760. Having been in and out all day, did you always drink each time you went in?—No, not each time I did not; I could if I liked.
2761. You fancy you could if you liked, but you did not?—No.
2762. May I ask you what you went in for at all, because you are a good Conservative you say; what were you doing there? (The Witness hesitated.)
2763. Come, do not keep us all day; if you did not go in to drink, what did you go in for?—In course I drank when I gone in.
2764. You had something to drink each time you went in?—Not each time, I cannot say that I did; but whenever I required drink, I could drink it.
2765. How many times in the day did you go into that house, before the evening’s entertainment?—I could not say how many times.
2766. A dozen

2766. A dozen times?—I went in and out; a man would at a time like that.

2767. Did you go in and out at other houses in the town during that nomination day?—No, I walked through the town.

2768. Was this the only public-house you went into?—Yes, for to stop.

2769. To drink?—Yes.

2770. Did you not drink in any other public-house in the town, on the nomination day?—No, not on the nomination day.

2771. Then I must ask you again, as you are a good Conservative, why you went in drinking at this particular house where the Liberal people were, and nowhere else; what induced you to do it?—I went in along with them that was all.

2772. You saw people going in and out, and so you thought you would go too; is that it?—Yes, I had a vote, and I went with them.

2773. But you were not carrying your vote in your pocket; was that the only house in the town where people were going in and out?—No, they were going in many other houses too.

2774. Then why did you not go in and out of the other places?—(After some hesitation) I did not feel inclined to go in.

2775. But you did feel inclined here?—Yes.

2776. How many hours were you there in the evening, after going in and out so many times in the day?—Till towards morning.

2777. But how long were you there; a couple of hours?—Till morning; till after one o'clock.

2778. But I want to know at what time you went in?—A person does not look at the time when he goes in.

2779. But surely you can tell me whether you were there two, or three, or four hours?—I have told you.

2780. How many hours were you there?—It was morning when I came out.

2781. Were you there for two or three hours in the evening?—Yes.

2782. How much did you drink?—I cannot say how much.

2783. What sort of a thing did you have it in; a pewter mug, or a pint pot, or what?—Pint pots and glasses; you can drink out of either one of them.

2784. Did you drink out of both?—I could if I had liked.

2785. But I want to know what you did do?—I drank sometimes out of a glass and sometimes out of a mug.

2786. Sometimes out of a glass?—Yes.

2787. Sometimes out of a mug?—Yes.

2788. Sometimes out of a pint pot?—Yes.

2789. Just as it happened; what sort of stuff was it?—Some rum.

2790. Rum in the glass?—Rum in the glass.

2791. And beer in the mug?—Yes, rum and beer too, but not in the glass.

2792. The beer was in what?—In quart pots.

2793. And in pints?—Not in pints.

2794. You did not see any pints?—I see the pints.

2795. What was in the mugs?—Beer.

2796. And that went on for two, or three, or four hours you were there drinking?—Yes, I could if I had liked.

2797. How did you manage to remember the conversation after all this; can you remember anything else but what my learned friend has been asking you?—No.

2798. Did you remember it all the next morning after going away at one o'clock?—Yes.

2799. When did you first tell them about it?—In the morning.

2800. Whom did you go and tell in the morning; I do not think you understand me, or you do not mean what you say; when did you first tell the gentlemen on the other side what had been going on in this public-house; it was last week, I fancy?—No.

2801. When was it?—The next morning it was, I believe.

2802. Do you mean to say that the next morning, the day of the election, you went to those gentlemen on the other side to tell them what had been going on at the public-house; is that what you mean?—No.

2803. I thought not; let me try again, when did you first tell the gentlemen on the other side what you had seen going on at the public-house?—About a week afterwards.

2804. To whom did you go, to tell the story?—To Mr. Brice's office.

2805. Did anyone go with you?—Yes.

2806. Who was it?—Mr. Dunn.

2807. Who is Mr. Dunn?—He works down at the foundry.

2808. What, the foundry where you work?—No, down at the foundry.

2809. He is a Conservative gentleman, is he not?—Yes.

2810. I thought it sounded like it; he went with you?—Yes.

2811. Had he some tale to tell also about a public-house?—No, he had none at all.

2812. How came he to go with you then?—He came for me.

2813. To your place of business?—No.

2814. Where?—To my house.

2815. What did Dunn say to you when he called upon you?—He said he wanted me to go up to the office.

2816. Did you know what he meant?—No.

2817. Then you asked him what he meant, I suppose?—No, I did not ax him anything.

2818. Without knowing what he meant, did you go off under his care?—Yes.

2819. Do you mean to tell me that nothing more passed between you and Dunn than that he said, "I want you to go to the office," and that you went away not knowing where you were going?—Yes, I knew partly where I was going.

2820. How was it that you knew it partly if you did not know Mr. Brice's office?—Oh! I knowed where the office was well.

2820*. But how did you know that he meant Mr. Brice's office?—I knowed that that was where it was very well.

2821. But what made you fancy that he was going to take you there?—I knowed it was.

2822. Did he tell you so?—No.

2823. Then how did you know it?—It was rested in my mind that that was where it was.

2824. Was that the first time you had ever told this story about the public-house?—Yes.

2825. Whom did you tell then?—No one else, not to my knowledge.

2826. Whom did you see at Mr. Brice's office?—The clerks.

2827. How many?—One there.

2828. Do you know his name?—No.

2829. Did you tell him?—Yes.

2830. Did he ask you?—Yes.

S. Phillips.

1869.

- S. Phillips.*
25 February 1869.
2831. What did he say to you?—He axed me whether I knowed anything about the "Bath Bridge Inn," who drawed the drink there; and I told him I did.
2832. And afterwards you remembered all that had been happening while you had been drinking?—Yes, I told him who had been giving the order for the drink; he axed me whether I paid for the drink, and I said "No."
2833. Did you order any?—I did not order none.
2834. Then you took the liberty of taking somebody's mug that stood there?—No not the least.
2835. Then how did you get your mug, if you did not order it, and did not take up what was there?—I did not order it at all.
2836. Then you must have taken up some mug that was on the table; did you?—There was mugs there for anyone.
2837. So you seemed to think, and you helped yourself?—Yes.
2838. Have you been paid anything for your trouble and loss of time in this job?—No.
2839. Nothing at all?—No.
2840. Are you a journeyman?—Yes; a labourer.
2841. In whose employment are you?—In Mr. Symonds'.
2842. Who is he?—Down Castle Hill-yard.
- Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.
2843. How far do you live from the "Bath Bridge Inn"?—Not very far.
2844. Is that inn in your neighbourhood?—Yes.
- [The Witness withdrew.]

SAMUEL BOWN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

- S. Bown.*
2845. HAVE you ever been in a court of justice before?—No.
2846. What are you; are you a Labourer in this town?—Yes.
2847. Living in Union-street?—Yes.
2848. Had you a vote at the last election?—Yes.
2849. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl.
2850. Do you know the "Bath Bridge Inn"?—Yes.
2851. Is that near where you live?—Handy.
2852. Do you know a person of the name of Philip Gilbert?—Yes.
2853. He was in the Liberal interest, was he not?—Yes.
2854. Did you see him at the "Bath Bridge Inn," on two or three occasions?—He was in there one or two nights, when I was there.
2855. Did you see him at any other times taking any part, either canvassing with Mr. Kinglake or Mr. Vanderbyl?—No; I did not.
2856. How many meetings did you attend at the "Bath Bridge Inn," near the day of polling?—Only two.
2857. What two meetings were they; when was the first?—I did not go on the first.
2858. You say you attended two meetings; which was the first of the meetings you did attend; what was the day you went there?—I do not know what was the date.
2859. Was it the day before the polling day?—It was before the election.
2860. How long before the polling day; you know what the polling day means?—Yes.
2861. How long before the polling day was it that you went there?—It might be two or three days.
2862. That was the first time you went there?—Yes.
2863. When you went there, did you see Philip Gilbert there?—He was.
2864. Where was he?—Upstairs.
2865. In a room upstairs?—Yes.
2866. How many persons were there with him in the room, or about?—I did not count them; I suppose about 15 or 16.
2867. Did you know any of those men that were there?—I knew several of them.
2868. Were they voters?—Yes.
2869. Will you give us the names of one or two of the men that were there?—Pitman and different ones; I cannot mind their names.
2870. What were those persons doing with Mr. Gilbert?—They were not doing anything, only talking about the election.
2871. Was there any drink upon the table?—No.
2872. What time in the evening was this?—About eight; from eight to ten o'clock, I bided there.
2873. Was Mr. Gilbert in the chair, or what was he doing?—He was there once.
2874. That was the first time you went there?—Yes.
2875. Two or three days before the election, you say you went there at that time; was there any drinking at the time you first went there, or not?—He had some up one night.
2876. That night; I will come to the next night afterwards; on the first night, do you remember whether there was any drinking or not?—No, there was not, on the first night.
2877. You say there was some talking there; what were they talking about?—About the election.
2878. Do you remember anything they said?—No, not now, I cannot mind.
2879. You do not recollect anything that passed on the first occasion; is that so?—That is so.
2880. Was there anything said about the price of votes, or anything of that kind, on the first occasion?—Nothing at all.
2881. Did you go afterwards there on another occasion; were you there on the night of the nomination?—I was not.
2882. Were you there upon any other occasion?—No.
2883. You have told us that you were there twice?—I was there twice; I was not there on the nomination day.
2884. On either of the nights that you were there, did you see any drinking?—There was some there one night.
2885. Tell us what passed one night?—I cannot say what passed that night; they were talking about the election.
2886. There was drinking, you say, on one night night; how many people were there when there was drinking?—About 15 or 16.

2887. What were they drinking?—I do not know what it was; I suppose it was half-and-half.

2888. Beer?—Yes.

2889. You said something to me about Mr. Gilbert ordering it; did you hear Mr. Gilbert order it?—I heard him order it one night; I did not hear him order it on another night.

2890. What did he order up on the one night you heard him?—A couple of half-gallons of drink.

2891. Did you have any drink?—I did.

2892. Did you pay for it?—No.

2893. Did you see any one pay for drink?—I did not see anybody pay for any.

2894. How long were you there on the night that Mr. Gilbert ordered the drink?—Two or three hours.

2895. Till late in the evening?—No, not very late.

2896. Was there any conversation that night about votes?—No.

2897. None whatever?—No.

2898. Did you make a statement before you came here to this gentleman (a gentleman sitting at the table)?—Yes.

2899. Was that statement afterwards read over to you, and did you make your mark at the bottom of it?—Yes.

2900. Do you know your mark?—No.

2901. Can you tell at all whether that is your mark (handing a paper to the Witness)?—That is my mark.

2902. That being the case, I ask you were you not there on the nomination day?—No, I was not.

2903. Nor on the nomination night?—Nor yet the night.

2904. That you swear?—That I swear.

2905. Have you ever said that you were there?—Not that I know of.

2906. Did not you tell this gentleman that you were there in the evening?—I do not believe I did.

2907. Did not you tell this gentleman, “I was there on the evening of the nomination day, and there were a great many voters present”; did you tell him that?—I do not believe I did.

2908. Will you swear you did not?—I cannot say.

2909. Can you say whether you told that gentleman that, or not?—I cannot tell now.

2910. You surely can tell me whether you told that gentleman that; it may have been wrong at the time, but did you tell him you were there on the night of the nomination day, when Mr. Gilbert was present, and a great many voters also?—I do not know as I did.

2911. Will you swear you did not?—I cannot.

2912. Did you say Mr. Gilbert was in the chair on the night of the nomination?—He were not.

2913. How do you know?—I do not suppose he was; I do not know, I was not there.

2914. You said he was not?—I was not there on the nomination day.

2915. Since you gave this evidence to this gentleman, have you been told to say anything about Mr. Gilbert not being in the chair on the night of the nomination?—No.

2916. Have you seen Mr. Gilbert?—No.

2917. Has Mr. Gilbert been with you?—No.

65.

2918. Are you sure?—No.

2919. Nor anybody?—No.

2920. Nobody has spoken to you about it at all?—No.

2921. Do you know William Baker?—Yes.

2922. Have not you said he was keeping the door?—That was before the nomination day.

2923. What was the day that Baker was keeping the door; how many days before?—I think it was one or two days before.

2924. Did you go in?—I did.

2925. Was that the day there was drinking?—Yes, they had some drink there then.

2926. Do you mean to say you only had two half-gallons, 15 or 16 of you, in three hours?—That was all.

2927. And nothing else?—No, I did not have nothing else.

2928. Did you not say this, “I heard many remarks made that evening about the amount which would be given for votes, and many questions were put to Mr. Gilbert”; did you say that to the gentleman I have pointed out?—I do not know as I did.

2929. Will you swear you did not?—I cannot say.

Mr. James.] Do you put those words as this man’s language or the clerks?

Mr. Serjeant Parry.] What was taken down from his lips. I do not pretend to say it is put down ungrammatically.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] That of course I must reason upon myself.

2930. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did not you say that Mr. Gilbert was in the chair, and treating every one present with drink; did you say that?—There were some drink handed up there.

2931. This is on the night of the nomination; will you swear you did not tell this gentleman on the night of the nomination that Mr. Gilbert was there, and treating every one with drink?—I do not know as I did.

2932. Will you swear you did not?—I cannot say.

2933. Did you say that some one kept the door to prevent your being disturbed on the night of the nomination?—I was not there on the nomination night at all.

2934. Did you say that many questions were asked of Mr. Gilbert as to the price of the votes, that was going for the votes; did you say that to this gentleman?—I do not know as I did.

2935. Will you swear you did not?—I cannot say.

2936. Did you say that Mr. Gilbert answered, and said he did not know what the price was, but that whatever was going they should have, meaning the voters that were present; did you tell that gentleman that?—If anything was going we should have something, he said, but there was nothing going.

2937. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] When did Mr. Gilbert say that?—I think a night or two before the nomination day.

2938. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Speak out, and say what it was Mr. Gilbert did say?—If anything was going we should have something; and if there was nothing going, there was nothing for us.

2939. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Repeat that again?—“If there was anything going, we should have something.”

2940. You

S. Bown.
1869.

2940. You said something else?—If there was anything going we should have something; but if there was not, we should have to go as we were.

2941. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Was that all that was said during the three hours?—That is all I heard.

2942. During the whole three hours?—While I was there. I did not wait there till it was over. I went home.

2943. You were there two or three hours?—Yes.

2944. What time did you get home?—About 10 o'clock, I suppose.

2945. Were you there about seven?—I might be there about half-past seven.

2946. How much did you drink out of those two half-gallons?—About half-a-pint. I might have had two half-pints.

2947. The whole evening?—Yes. I did not bide the whole evening.

2948. Did you hear Mr. Gilbert say anything further than that?—No.

2949. Except what you have told us?—No.

2950. Did you on the following morning go there?—What morning?

2951. The morning of the poll?—The polling day, yes.

2952. Did you see Mr. Gilbert there that morning?—He was there.

2953. Did you see him?—Yes.

2954. What was he doing that morning?—Walking about.

2955. What else?—Nothing else.

2956. Was not he treating voters to drink?—No.

2957. Did you not tell this gentleman that you saw Philip Gilbert there the election morning, treating persons to drink?—No, I did not.

2958. Do be fair with me?—No, I did not.

2959. Did not you really?—No; not to my knowledge.

2960. Did you have any drink yourself?—I helped drink some, along with some more.

2961. What did you drink that morning, something warm?—No, not at all warm.

2962. What was it?—Beer, I think.

2963. How many were helping you to drink?—There were several there; three or four.

2964. Twenty or thirty?—No.

2965. Were you upstairs, or in the bar?—I was upstairs.

2966. How many were there; do you mean to swear there were only three or four upstairs on that morning?—Not when I was there.

2967. When were you there; about what time?—I do not know, about nine o'clock.

2968. You did not go to work that day?—No, not that day.

2969. How did you know there was anything going on at the "Bath Bridge Inn" on the polling day?—Because I had been there before.

2970. The night before?—No; not the night before.

2971. Do you know William Pollard, of Poland-street?—Yes.

2972. Did he vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—Yes.

2973. Did Philip Gilbert and William Pollard come to you that morning, and ask you about your vote?—Yes.

2974. Did they say to you there was then nothing doing?—Nothing doing then.

2975. Did they say there would be by and bye?—They says there might be; they could not say they had not heard there was.

2976. Did not they say this; that if you would vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl, you should have whatever figure was going, or whatever was going?—They said if there was anything going, we should have something.

2977. Did not they say you should have whatever was going?—We should have what was going.

2978. What did you understand by that, 5 l. or 10 l.?—I cannot say.

2979. Did you vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—I did.

2980. Why did you vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl; did you believe what was said to you, that if something was going you should have it?—I thought we should.

2981. How often was this said, once or twice, or several times?—Once or twice.

2982. And you believed it?—Yes.

2983. But you have not had anything?—No.

2984. You seem in rather a melancholy state of mind; had you previously promised to vote for Westropp and Gray?—I did not know which side was the best side to vote.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] That is not an answer to the question whether you had previously promised to vote for Westropp and Gray.

2985. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Had you told Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray you would vote for them?—Neither one of them, I had not.

2986. Did you tell this gentleman that you had?—No, I do not know that I did.

2987. You are not sure?—No.

2988. Had you not promised Messrs. Westropp and Gray?—No, I had not promised them.

2989. Or anybody for them?—No.

2990. You are not sure whether you had promised them or not?—No.

2991. Had you thought of voting for them?—No, I did not think I had.

2992. What time did you poll?—Between one and two.

2993. After that did you go to the "New Inn"?—Yes.

2994. Were there a great many Liberal voters there?—There were a good many there.

2995. How many?—I cannot say how many.

2996. Was it crowded?—Yes.

2997. Were you in a room by yourselves?—Along with a lot more.

2998. By yourselves?—Yes, by ourselves.

2999. You and a lot more?—Yes.

3000. And did you have any drink there?—Yes, I did.

3001. Did the "lot more" have drink also?—Yes, they was all drinking.

3002. What were they drinking?—Beer.

3003. Did you get nothing else but beer?—No.

3004. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

3005. Not a little rum and beer?—No, not a drop.

3006. It was half-and-half; was it beer and ale?—Yes.

3007. How many were there; about how many?—There were a good many.

3008. Thirty or 40?—I suppose there was about that, about 30.

3009. Did you pay for any drink?—No.

3010. Did any one else pay?—I did not see anybody else pay.

3011. Who

3011. Who was there; was Mr. Jarman there?—I did not see him there.

3012. Was Mr. Gilbert there?—I did not see him there.

3013. Who ordered the drink?—I do not know.

3014. Did it come up like magic?—I suppose it did.

3015. How did it get upstairs?—It was not upstairs.

3016. Well downstairs; how did it get into the room where you were?—Somebody brought it in, I do not know who it was.

3017. Did you see Mr. Andrew Allan there?—I did not.

3018. You did not see anyone of the supporters of Kinglake and Vanderbyl there?—No.

3019. You have not the slightest idea who ordered the drink or who paid for it?—That is so.

3020. And you never made any inquiry?—No.

3021. How long were you there, several hours?—No, about half-an-hour.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

3022. What is your name?—My name is Samuel Bown.

3023. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] His name, I believe, is William Bowden?—(Witness.) No.

3024. Mr. James (to the Witness).] First, as to this treating; I understand you that there were two half-gallons of beer drunk in those three hours that you were there?—Yes.

3025. That you say is all you saw drunk?—That is all that I saw while I was there.

3026. The rest of the time you were talking about the election and different things?—Yes.

3027. That was rather a dry evening, was not it?—I did not stop there long.

3028. You got tired of it pretty soon?—Yes.

3029. At that meeting did not Mr. Gilbert say, according to what you have told us to-day, that there was nothing going?—He said there was nothing, not in the morning.

3030. Did not you say here to-day that Mr. Gilbert said there was nothing going?—Yes, he said that day there was nothing going.

3031. That was in the evening of the day on which there were, as you said, these two half-gallons of beer drunk?—It was in the evening.

3032. You never have had anything?—No.

3033. You never got a farthing from any one?—No.

3034. You have told me you voted between one and two?—Yes.

3035. Up to that time you could find nothing going at all?—Nothing at all.

MR. WILLIAM MARELS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

3036. You live at St. John-street?—I do.

3037. What are you?—A Blacksmith.

3038. You work, I believe, at the Bridgewater Iron Foundry?—I do not now, I did.

3039. Do you remember on the 14th of November attending a meeting at the "Bath Bridge Inn"?—The 12th of November.

3040. What day of the week was that?—Thursday.

3041. The Thursday before the election?—The Thursday before the election.

3042. What room did you go into?—I went into the bar first.

3043. And then?—I went upstairs.

3044. Were there many people in that room?—I suppose there was 30 there.

3045. Was there a chairman?—There was.

3046. Who was the chairman?—Mr. Philip Gilbert was the chairman.

3047. Do you know whether any of the 30 were voters?—They were all voters, to the best of my knowledge.

3048. Can you give me the names of a few?—I saw John Dyer there for one; James Hunt, and two or three others of the name of Baker and Dymond and the last witness; he was just stood inside the door; I stood outside the door, and he asked me to come inside.

3049. And you went in?—I went in.

3050. Were there speeches made, and did different members of the company address those who were there?—Abraham Baldwin was the man speaking when I went in first; something about the Irish Church.

3051. Was it a Liberal meeting?—It was a Liberal meeting.

3052. Do you remember, after the speeches, anything being said about their votes?—I heard some of them saying that they should expect something or other, and if there was anything going they should like not for one to have all and the rest to go without anything; and one of them spoke up and said, "It is not right for one to have 40 l. and 50 l., and others to have none; nothing at all."

3053. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Who said that?—One of the voters.

3054. Cannot you tell us who it was?—I do not know his name personally, but I know him by sight; he is a shoemaker who said that.

3055. Mr. Collins.] What was said upon that?—One of them said, "For the stragglers to have nothing at all." Mr. Gilbert spoke up and said, "Whatever is going you shall have part, the same as the rest, if there is anything."

3056. What was said upon that?—One of them spoke up and said, "This is not the place to talk about money; not about money matters here; you ought to talk about something else."

3057. Who said that?—George Dymond said so.

3058. How long were they talking about this money?—About 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour; I was not there more than a quarter of an hour altogether, because when Dymond saw me, he says, "This is not the place to talk about money matters." As I stood behind the door I saw him talking to one and the other, and I left the room immediately, as I thought if I did not leave I should have been put out.

3059. Were you known in the town as being a supporter of Messrs. Westropp and Gray?—After I was downstairs in the bar Abraham Baldwin came in, and he says, "I presume," he says, "you are not one of our party, and you have no business in the room, and therefore, mind you do not come there again."

3060. Had you seen Baldwin upstairs?—I had.

3061. Did

Mr.
W. Marels.

Mr. W. Marels.
25 February 1869.

3061. Did any other man come down from the meeting and say anything?—Soon afterwards James Hunt came down and said it was a pity that that man should come up and make a disturbance there.

3062. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Whom did he say this to?—To the landlady. He said, “I have been tossing, and I have lost a gallon of beer, but I have got no money to pay for it.”

3063. Who said this?—Hunt.

3064. What did he say?—He said; “I have been tossing, and losed a gallon of beer.”

3065. Was it true that he had been tossing, and had lost a gallon of beer?—I was not there.

3066. It was not you he meant as “that man”?—No, it was not me as losed the beer; Hunt said he had lost a gallon of beer.

3067. Mr. Collins.] You said something about having no money. He said, “I have no money”; and the landlady said, “Never mind that; you can have it without the money.”

3068. Did you see the beer sent up?—Yes; and six bottles of ginger-beer.

3069. Did you observe whether or not anyone kept the door as door-keeper?—Not that night there was not; I did not go up afterwards.

3070. You remained in the bar some time?—Yes.

3071. What time did these gentlemen come down from the upstairs room?—About half-past 10.

3072. You say you remained in the bar the whole time; do you know what quantity of beer was sent up in this room?—About three gallons altogether that night, and six bottles of ginger-beer; they had about three gallons.

3073. Was anything said about paying for the beer?—Nothing at all.

3074. Did the landlady tell you anything about payment for the beer?—

Mr. Sergeant Sargood objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Anything done or said between the landlady and the people ordering the beer is evidence; not what she said to him.

3075. Mr. Collins.] There was no payment made in your presence?—No.

3076. On the 13th of November did you go there again?—Yes.

3077. Was there another meeting?—Yes.

3078. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] That was the Friday?—Yes.

3079. Mr. Collins.] How many voters were there then?—I should think 40 or 50.

3080. Did you see Mr. Gilbert there that night?—I did.

3081. Where did the voters go?—Some upstairs, and some in the bar.

3082. Was there a meeting held?—Yes.

3083. Where was the meeting held?—Upstairs.

3084. Did you try to go upstairs?—I went to the foot of the stairs, and I saw a man keeping the door, and I returned down again.

3085. Was any drink sent up?—There was a quantity.

3086. What drink?—Gin, beer, and ginger beer.

3087. About what quantity?—What they had there that I know of amounted to 3 l. 10 s. 10½ d.

3088. Are you a friend of the landlady?—I was at the time.

3089. Did you keep a score, or how did you know the amount; were you assisting any one?—The landlady asked me to keep the score.

3090. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] How much did you say it was?—£. 3. 10 s. 10½ d., and there had to be 1 l. deducted out of that.

3091. Mr. Collins.] To whom did you score it?—It had to be scored to Philip Gilbert.

3092. During the whole of that evening did you see any money pass?—None; I saw no money pass at all.

3093. There was something said about credit?—

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] If there was anything said by the landlady to any person ordering beer from her, that is admissible evidence, but if it is merely what she told him you must call the landlady to prove it.

3094. Mr. Collins.] Was anything said in the presence of the people, in your presence, about 1 l.?—There was only one in the kitchen where the score was reckoned up.

3095. Was he one of the men who ordered the beer?—No.

3096. Did you give credit upon this score for 1 l.?—I did.

3097. Did you see Mr. Gilbert order any beer yourself on that night?—I did.

3098. How much did Mr. Gilbert order?—He ordered for all that was had; he gave orders for it.

3099. Mr. James.] Did he hear him?

3100. Mr. Collins.] Did you hear Mr. Gilbert order the beer?—I did.

3101. Who ordered the gin?—They had it in, and it was put down in Mr. Gilbert’s name.

3102. Was it all sent upstairs?—No.

3103. Where was it sent to?—Some in the bar, and some in the kitchen, and some upstairs.

3104. I take you to the evening of the nomination day; the 16th, did you go there then?—I did.

3105. What time did you go there?—Betwixt eight and nine in the evening.

3106. Did you see Mr. Gilbert there on that night?—I did.

3107. How many voters were there there?—I should think 20 to 30; I saw, in and out, perhaps more; 40 there might have been.

3108. Did any of them go into this room upstairs?—They did.

3109. Did any one keep the door of the room on that night?—There was a man outside the door, who it was I do not know.

3110. You did not go in at all?—I did not.

3111. Were you in the bar that night?—I was, and in the kitchen; I was not much in the bar; I was in the kitchen behind, several of us drinking.

3112. Do you know what was sent up to the rooms?—No, I do not, not that night.

3113. You did not keep any score that night?—I did not.

3114. On the nomination night did you see Bown?—I did not, not to the best of my knowledge.

3115. How many should you say were there altogether; how many voters did you see in and out of the place on the nomination evening?—I should should think betwixt 30 and 40, it might be more in and out.

3116. How many went in and out?—They were in and out all the time; all night.

3117. Different voters?—Different voters.

3118. What time did you leave?—I left betwixt two and three in the morning.

3119. Were you the last person there, or did you leave any one there?—I left the house full.

3120. Did you go to the inn again on the evening of the election day?—I did.

3121. Was Mr. Gilbert there that day?—He was that evening.

3122. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] When did he go there?—About six o'clock in the evening.

3123. Mr. Collins.] About how many voters were there there then?—Several.

3124. About how many?—There might be 20 or 30 there; they continued to come in and out, and drinking; Mr. Gilbert was treating of them with drink; some would come and carry it away in cups.

3125. What was given on that evening?—Gin and brandy, beer, cigars, tobacco; anything that they liked to have.

3126. About cigars; how many cigars would a man have?—I do not know how many.

3127. What is the greatest number you saw taken by one?—Perhaps one would have one at a time; one would take one.

3128. Could a man have apparently as many as he wanted?—I cannot say about that.

3129. Did you hear anybody refused one?—Not that I saw; and I did not hear anyone refused.

3130. Did you see any money pass?—There was nothing paid for; I saw nothing paid for.

3131. Do you know what was the amount of the score?—I was told sometime afterwards.

3132. Who told you?—Mrs. Day told me.

3133. Did you see any account?—I did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

3134. Just explain to me how you kept the score that night; you say you personally kept it?—I did.

3135. How did you do it?—I chalked it down on a waiter.

3136. Do you mean a teatray?—I did it on the back of a teatray.

3137. Do you mean everything that went upstairs out of the bar you made a note of in chalk on a teatray?—I did.

3138. What is your trade?—A blacksmith.

3139. Who is the proprietor of this house?—Mrs. Cape was then, at the time.

3140. I suppose you were an intimate friend of hers?—Not very much; I used to go there the same as others did.

3141. Not the same as others, because others would not score up an account on a teatray; were you an intimate friend of hers?—I was at the time.

3142. You will not be offended perhaps if I ask if the lady was a widow?—She was a widow, I believe, at the time.

3143. You believe?—Yes, she was.

3144. Have you any doubt about it?—No; she was.

3145. Are you as good friends now with her as you used to be?—Yes.

3146. When did you visit her last?—Sunday night last.

65.

3147. Did you talk over this little matter?—I never said a word.

3148. How was that; I should have thought your heart would have been full of it; how was it?—I never said anything at all about it, nor yet her to me.

3149. Is she a widow still?—No, she is not.

3150. Did you ever keep a score for her on any other occasion?—No.

3151. Never?—Never.

3152. How came it that on this particular night you were busy with the teatray?—Because they were busy drawing the drink, and they could not keep the account of it.

3153. This was the busiest night of all nights you were there?—Yes.

3154. All other nights she was able to keep the accounts herself?—Yes.

3155. When you had to make your hieroglyphics on the teatray who gave you the information as to what you should put down?—Mrs. Cape did.

3156. Then really all you know about the contents of the teatray is what she told you to write there?—Yes.

3157. Was it done by crosses or marks; or did you write gallons of beer, or whatever it was?—I put down half-pints of gin by itself, and put gallons of beer by itself.

3158. You wrote it out as if you were making a bill?—Yes.

3159. Did you add it up to this, 3 l. 10 s. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.?—Yes.

3160. Who told you it was all to go down to Mr. Gilbert?—The landlady.

3161. Did you write his name on the tea-tray?—No, I did not.

3162. What was there on the tea-tray to indicate that it meant Mr. Gilbert?—She gave it to her niece to put down on paper.

3163. You heard that?—That is what she told me.

3164. You gather all your information from what your friend told you?—I do.

3165. When was it that you told anybody else what she had told you?—We were in the public-house talking one night, and so it came out.

3166. What public-house?—The "Cross Rifles."

3167. In this town?—Yes, in the Bath-road.

3168. Is that Conservative or Liberal?—They have no vote at all.

3169. I mean is it a place where your Conservative friends meet or where Liberals meet?—All meets there, the Conservative party or the Liberal party.

3170. You told me you were a Conservative at the beginning, I think?—No.

3171. Am I right in assuming it?—I am nothing at all.

3172. Not a voter?—Not a voter.

3173. Did you assist either party?—No, I did not.

3174. Then really your mission to this inn was, I may assume, only to see the widow, and not out of any political influences; you did not go to the political part of it?—No, I did not.

3175. Then what did you want to go upstairs for?—Just to hear what the meeting was, to hear what they were talking about.

3176. Why should they object to you coming into the meeting if you were a friend of the widow, and had no political views?—I do not know, I am sure.

H 4

3177. There

Mr.
W. Marels.
25 February
1869.

- Mr. W. Marels. — 3177. There was no quarrel about the score? —No.
 25 February 1869. 3178. Nothing that you had offended them about?—No.
 3179. You merely went up to listen?—Yes.
 3180. Where did you first tell the gentleman on the opposite side what you had heard?—It may be a month afterwards.
 3181. A few weeks ago?—About the 8th of December.
 3182. Who did you tell?—I told Mr. Jones, Mr. Brice's clerk.
 3183. Did they take down in writing what you told them?—They did.
 3184. And got you to sign it?—I did.
 3185. When were you asked to come here to tell it all over again?—I have never seen them since, not till last Saturday three weeks, when I received a subpoena.
 3186. Who brought you that?—Mr. Trevor's clerk.
 3187. You do not know Mr. Gilbert personally, I suppose?—I know him by seeing him; I never had much conversation with the man; I never had any conversation with him.
 3188. Does he live in the neighbourhood of the public-house?—Right opposite.
 3189. Is it the custom in Bridgwater for people to meet at a public-house in the evening round the table, and have drink?—I never saw Mr. Gilbert in the house while I was there, only that once.
 3190. Out of the several times you have been talking of, you only saw Mr. Gilbert there once?—Not before the election.
 3191. I thought you said you had seen him several times?—

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I understood him to say that, except at these political meetings, he never saw Mr. Gilbert.

3192. Mr. Serjeant Sargood (to the Witness).] That is what you meant, except at the political meetings you never saw Mr. Gilbert?—Yes.

3193. Had you been in the habit of going to that house frequently?—I had.

3194. These meetings were not the usual practice of the house?—No, they were not.

3195. Have you had any conversation with Mr. Gilbert about it?—I have not.

3196. You are intimate with him, are you not?—I speak to him when I see him, and he to me.

3197. In all your conversations did you tell him that you had been to Mr. Brice's office to say what you had seen and heard?—No.

3198. You did not ask him for any information upon the subject?—No, I did not, nor no one else.

3199. Do you know if there is a Liberal Association in this town?—I do not.

3200. The Working Men's Liberal Association?—I do know whether there is or not.

3201. Have you ever heard of the Working Men's Conservative Association?—I have.

3202. And you have never heard of the Liberal one?—No.

3203. Perhaps you know enough of the Conservatives to know that they meet at houses of this description in the evening to talk over their affairs?—I do not know anywhere where they have done so, no more than at Gloucester-place where they hold meetings.

3204. Did you ever know the Liberal Association to meet at your friend, Mrs. Cape's?—They had a meeting that evening, on the 12th of November.

3205. On this 12th of November that you have been talking about, was there a meeting of the Liberal Association?—I do not know whether it was the association, or what it was; it was a meeting for any voters, whoever liked to come, free for any one; I was told so at the time.

3206. Be candid with me; you began by saying that you never heard of the Liberal Association, and then you let slip that this was a meeting of theirs on this particular night?—

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I understood him to say it was a Liberal meeting.

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that the Liberal Association was only founded about three weeks before the election.

3207. Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] You do not know of the existence of such a body as was called the Liberal Association, or of their meeting at Mrs. Cape's on any occasion?—I do not.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

3208. Is your father a voter?—Yes.

3209. A supporter of the Conservative party?—He is.

3210. You, of your own knowledge, know nothing about this Liberal Association?—No, I do not.

3211. You mentioned Gloucester-place, where the Conservative Association met; is that a public-house?—It is not; it is a private room.

[The Court adjourned for the usual period.]

THOMAS HINAM, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

- T. Hinam.* — 3212. You live in Monmouth-street?—Yes.
 3213. Are you yourself a voter?—No.
 3214. What are you?—A striker at Murch & Spence's, in Eastover.
 3215. Do you remember, on the Saturday before the election, did you go into the "Bath Bridge" inn?—I did.
 3216. Did you go up into any room there; did you attend any meeting or anything of that kind?—I did not.
 3217. Did you see any voters there?—I saw some voters going in and out.
 3218. Were you with the last witness at all, Mr. William Marels?—Some part of the time.

3219. Did you see him there?—Yes.

3220. You were with him some part of the time; can you tell me were any persons upstairs who were voters?—I cannot tell you the names.

3221. I did not ask you that; did you see any persons, or know any persons upstairs who were voters?—Up and down stairs; I cannot say they were voters.

3222. Did you see a number of persons there?—I did.

3223. About how many do you think you observed in the house; never mind whether they were voters?—They were upstairs; I was not upstairs myself.

3224. You

3224. You do not answer my questions; did you observe a number of persons in the house?—In the bar.

3225. About how many did you see?—About 20.

3226. What were they doing?—Drinking.

3227. What were they drinking?—Beer.

3228. Anything else?—No.

3229. I believe you did not go upstairs on that occasion?—I did not.

3230. On that occasion did you see whether the persons who were drinking paid for what they took?—They did.

3231. In the bar?—In the bar, on the Saturday evening.

3232. Did you go again on any other night there?—I did.

3233. When?—Sunday morning, I did.

3234. I do not want to know if you only went and saw an ordinary number of people, but did you see any large number of people there on the Sunday morning?—No, not on Sunday morning.

3235. On Sunday evening did you?—Yes.

3236. How many persons were there?—There were about 10 or 12 in the bar on Sunday evening.

3237. What time did you go there on Sunday evening?—At six o'clock.

3238. What time did you remain there?—Till eight.

3239. From six to eight; did you remain there late in the evening, or not?—Not that day.

3240. On that day did you notice, or could you tell whether there were any persons upstairs?—They were going up and down stairs on Sunday evening.

3241. Did you notice about how many were going up and down stairs?—I cannot say.

3242. Was there a large number, or only three or four, or 10 or 20?—I cannot say at all.

3243. Did you notice whether any beer or spirits were sent upstairs?—No, not that night.

3244. Did you go there again at any time?—On Monday.

3245. That was the day of the nomination?—It was.

3246. When were you there on the Monday?—I arrived between 10 and 11.

3247. On the morning or in the evening?—In the morning.

3248. You arrived there, where from?—We came up the town, me and several others.

3249. Where from?—Me and two or three friends met together; we had leave to go for the show of hands.

3250. You went to the "Bath Bridge Inn"?—After we had a little conversation together, nothing about election affairs.

3251. I do not want to examine you at all if you have no real information to give me; have you been examined before as to what evidence you would give?—Yes, I gave my evidence.

3252. To whom?—To Mr. Boyle.

3253. Were you at the "Bath Bridge Inn" on the day of the nomination?—I was.

3254. Did you see any drinking or not there?—I did.

3255. How many persons were there; you say you went in the morning at 11; how many persons were there when you saw the drinking going on?—There were several in the bar and likewise a great number upstairs.

3256. Was that in the morning?—In the morning. T. Hinam.

3257. What did you see in the way of drinking?—Plenty of drink going upstairs. 25 February 1869.

3258. What kind of drink?—Both gin and beer.

3259. What we call grog?—Yes.

3260. The gin and beer went upstairs; you did not see them come down again?—

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] We may assume that.

3261. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] How long were you upstairs that morning?—About an hour.

3262. You saw drink of different kinds going upstairs; did you see drinking at the bar?—Yes.

3263. Did you upon that occasion see whether they paid for it?—No, not a farthing was paid in my presence; I had plenty of brandy and water, and likewise my friends.

3264. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Did you say you yourself had brandy and water?—Yes.

3265. And did not pay for it?—I did.

3266. Were you upstairs?—No.

3267. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] You spoke of brandy and water; what was it, six pennyworths, or three pennyworths, or what?—I suppose it was six pennyworths; we had eight or ten glasses at a time.

3268. That is, you mean handed round; not to one voter?—No; I do not mean to say they were altogether voters; I am speaking of me and my friends.

3269. How long did you remain there?—About an hour.

3270. Did you see anyone there on that day; did you see Philip Gilbert there that day at that time?—I did.

3271. Where did you see him?—He came to the bar to fetch beer and gin.

3272. Did he himself fetch beer and gin?—Yes, he did.

3273. Do you know whether he is in court now?—I do not know.

3274. Did you see that with your own eyes?—I did; and likewise cigars.

3275. This was the nomination day?—Yes.

3276. Did you see persons take beer and gin at the bar, and cigars?—I am rather before my statement; it was not in the morning at that hour that I saw this; it was after.

3277. Did you see Mr. Philip Gilbert in the morning or not?—I did not say in the morning.

3278. Did you go there afterwards?—I did.

3279. What time did you go; about what time?—Seven o'clock.

3280. Then was it you saw Mr. Philip Gilbert?—Yes, I did.

3281. And then was it you saw him do what you have told us?—Yes.

3282. Did he take it away with him or not?—He took it upstairs.

3283. He took the gin and beer upstairs?—Yes.

3284. You are quite sure of that?—Yes.

3285. You say that there was brandy-and-water that you and your friends partook of?—No; beer.

3286. Did you notice a person of the name of William Baker there or not?—Not on that day.

3287. You were there on that evening, that is, the evening of the nomination; how long did you stay there?—The whole of the night.

I

3288. Do

T. Hinam. 3288. Do you mean literally that you did not go home to bed at all?—I did not.

25 February 1869. 3289. How many of your friends stayed with you?—My friends did not stay all night, but till about one or two in the morning.

3290. You stayed all night?—I did.

3291. How many do you think stayed all night altogether?—I cannot say; but they were going up and down stairs the whole of the night.

3292. Do you mean grog and beer?—Drink was going up and down all night.

3293. Was the landlady up all night, Mrs. Cape?—I cannot say.

3294. Was there somebody up in the bar all night?—Yes; either Mrs. Cape or her niece was there.

3295. Do you know her niece?—Yes.

3296. What is her name?—Helen something.

3297. Somebody, as I understand you, was in the bar all night?—I was not in the bar all night.

3298. You saw drinking going on all night; that you are quite sure of?—Yes.

3299. You do not know the exact number of persons upstairs; could you not give a guess from seeing them go up, how many were there?—I cannot say, because those that were upstairs did not all come down and fetch the drink.

3300. During the time you remained all night, and others, did you drink at intervals, and did what you liked?—As fast as we drank brandy-and-water we had it filled up again, and gin and beer.

3301. As you drank the brandy-and-water you had your glass replenished?—Yes.

3302. That was the case with others as well as yourself?—With my friends.

3303. How many were there there of your friends; five or six?—They were not all my friends.

3304. None of them were your enemies, I hope?—Not as I am aware of.

3305. Were there any besides yourself who had brandy-and-water all night?—Six of us.

3306. You sat up all night; in the morning of the poll, about half-past seven o'clock, did Mrs. Cape give you any orders about a jar of gin?—Not at that time; not quite so early as that; I had an hour's sleep.

3307. Where?—Upstairs.

3308. In the bedroom upstairs?—In the bedroom.

3309. And then what time did you come down?—I was rather thicky in the head drinking brandy-and-water and one thing and another, and I thought it was time to have a sleep.

3310. What time did you come down in the morning?—It might have been between eight and nine.

3311. Was there anything said to you by this young lady or by Mrs. Cape about a jar of gin?—I waked up, and came down in the back kitchen, and I had a cup of tea with a drop of rum in it.

3312. I will call your attention to the niece, whom you call Helen; you did not pay for that drop of rum you had in the morning?—No.

3313. Was anything said to you, or did you do anything, or were you requested to do anything, about a jar of gin?—Yes.

3314. What was it?—The young lady, after we had done breakfast, we had a glass of brandy-and-water together.

3315. You had tea and rum and a glass of brandy-and-water for breakfast; what did the young lady tell you to do?—She came with a quart jug.

3316. What did she ask you to do?—She says to me, "Tom, here is a jar of gin back here, but it is very heavy, and I am not strong enough to lift it up for to pour it out;" I says, "I will do so for you;" and I did do so.

3317. Did you pour it into a jug?—I poured it into a jug.

3318. What became of the jug?—It went upstairs, I believe.

3319. That was for breakfast, I suppose?—I do not know whether they had any breakfast upstairs; I had some down.

3320. At that time in the morning when you came down, were these persons coming in and out of the inn; was it open to anybody who chose to come in?—It was open the whole of the night till I took sleep.

3321. While you were away it was open all night, and did persons come in and out drinking?—Certainly, up and down stairs, and nothing was paid for it that I saw.

3322. Did the same thing go on on the morning of the election?—On the polling day, yes, it continued.

3323. Was Mr. Philip Gilbert there the whole of the night, as far as you know?—I will not say that.

3324. What time did you last see him there on the night; you were there all night; what time did you last see him on that night, do you remember?—It might have been between 11 and 12; he was fetching the drink.

3325. The last time you saw Gilbert was between 11 and 12?—Yes.

3326. How often did you see Mr. Gilbert before that come down to fetch this drink; you say you saw him fetching up beer and gin; how often did you see him come from the time you were there till between 11 and 12 o'clock, more than once?—Several times.

3327. Did he spend a great part of his time upstairs?—He did; he was not in our company in the bar at all.

3328. Do you remember before you went to bed, about five o'clock that morning, one of your friends having five glasses?—Four glasses.

3329. Do you remember Mrs. Cape saying anything about not drawing any more?—Not in the morning.

3330. Not about five o'clock?—After we went to bed we had that glass for breakfast.

3331. After you had had those glasses, did Mr. Gilbert come down stairs, do you remember?—No, not at the time.

3332. Do you remember any time you were there in the morning coming down stairs and saying anything about Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl, or was it in the afternoon?—In the afternoon.

3333. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] The afternoon of what day?—The polling day.

3334. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Was that after the poll was over?—It was.

3335. Was there anything that occurred before the poll was over that you have not told us, or have you substantially told us all you noticed before the poll was over?—I have nothing particular to say before the poll was over; there was plenty of everything we liked to call for, and nothing paid for.

3336. All

3336. All the night, between the nomination day and the polling day, and all the day of the polling day, persons were coming in and out as you say all day?—Yes.

3337. Was there anything to eat; were there any provisions at all?—I do not know what there was upstairs; I had something neat for breakfast.

3338. Do you remember seeing Mr. Gilbert after the poll was over?—Yes.

3339. Do you remember him coming into the inn?—Into the parlour.

3340. Did he say anything about refreshments?—He says, “Mrs. Cape, you had better stop; mind there is no more on that game for me.”

3341. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Say that again?—“You had better stop Mrs. Cape, and not go on so fast; I cannot give an order for any more.”

3342. Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] Will you repeat what you did say, and not tell something else; my Lord asked you to repeat what you said at first?—

3343. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] What was it you did say the first time?—Mrs. Cape was in the bar; we were drinking brandy-and-water at the time, and he said, “Mrs. Cape you had better not draw any more, I will not give an order for any more.”

3344. Did he say anything else?—No, not that I am aware of; he took some drink away, and went upstairs.

3345. What drink was it?—Beer.

3346. After that did Mrs. Cape draw anything or not?—Yes, I had some brandy-and-water after that, and some gin.

3347. Do you remember his saying anything about “I cannot go any further,” or anything of that kind?—He says, “It is no use, I will not give an order for any more.”

3348. Upon that occasion did Mrs. Cape give you a slate to keep the account, or at any time?—She did on the Monday night.

3349. You had the advantage of being there all night between the nomination day and the polling day, and also on the polling day?—Some part of the polling day.

3350. Did you enter the things?—I put down for half-a-dozen cigars on the slate.

3351. Did you enter anything else?—No, I do not know as I did; one side of the slate was all marked over with pencil, and very nearly blended with the other.

3352. You have spoken of gin, brandy, and beer, and you have spoken of cigars?—I put down for half-a-dozen.

3353. Did you notice during the night and day that cigars were also supplied to parties who did not pay for them?—Yes.

3354. Was that going on all the time?—Yes.

3355. Do you remember some young men coming in on Monday night with Buff colours?—Yes.

3356. Did they call for a quart of beer?—Yes.

3357. Do you remember one putting down sixpence to pay for it?—Yes.

3358. What did Mrs. Cape say to that?—“It is no odds about the money, you are the right colour.”

3359. Did she add, “You are not like them old Blues”?—“Not like them old Blues.”

3360. Did you see any gin or beer or brandy yourself taken away from the house in bottles?—No, not myself.

65.

3361. A man of the name of William Baker made a communication to you?—Yes.

3362. You have spoken of a quart of gin being poured, at the request of this young lady, into a jug; did you see more than a quart of gin carried upstairs?—That was the only one I saw poured out.

3363. Did you see others carried upstairs?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Edlin.

3364. What are you; you call yourself a striker; what is that?—It is an assistant with a smith.

3365. What time on this Monday night did you strike to sleep?—I did not strike to sleep on Monday night.

3366. Did you go to sleep, or did sleep come to you?—I went to sleep.

3367. What o'clock was that?—I cannot say for the hour; it was some time towards Tuesday morning.

3368. Tell us, as near as you can, what time you went to sleep on the night of the nomination day?—As near as I can give it, I will do so.

3369. Take your time?—I must do that; half-past six it might be.

3370. Monday night?—In the morning.

3371. The polling day morning?—Yes.

3372. What time did you begin to drink on the Monday?—I was drinking on the Sunday night.

3373. Let me put this question first: what time did you begin to drink that Sunday night?—About between seven and eight.

3374. At other places?—At that house.

3375. Between seven and eight?—Yes.

3376. You paid for that?—Yes, I did.

3377. What did you have?—I had a drop of beer.

3378. To begin with?—Yes.

3379. What did you go on to?—I ended with a little brandy-and-water.

3380. What did you take between the brandy-and-water and the beer?—I might have had gin and beer.

3381. Did you have gin and beer?—I will not swear I had.

3382. Beer to begin with, gin and beer to follow; did gin and beer come after the beer?—It might do.

3383. What came next to the gin and beer?—Brandy-and-water.

3384. Rum next?—No.

3385. What was it next after the brandy?—No rum.

3386. What came after the brandy?—I do not know as we had anything different from that.

3387. Did you begin again with the beer?—No, we did not begin again with the beer.

3388. Was your head clear on the Monday morning?—Yes, it was.

3389. Uncommonly clear?—Yes.

3390. What time did you leave off drinking on Sunday?—It might be 12 o'clock.

3391. When did you begin on Sunday night with the beer?—Between seven and eight.

3392. You went on from between seven and eight to 12 o'clock?—Twelve and one; I did not remain there all the time.

3393. You went elsewhere?—Yes.

3394. Taking an occasional wet?—Yes.

3395. Elsewhere?—Yes.

I 2

3396. You

T. Hinam.

25 February
1869.

T. Hinam.
 25 February 1869.
 3396. You paid for all you had on Sunday night?—Yes.
 3397. Did you sleep at your house on Sunday night?—At my own home.
 3398. You got up on Monday morning; where did you go to first?—I went up towards the town, and I met with two or three friends that was with me on the Sunday night.
 3399. Friends that had been with you on Sunday night?—Yes.
 3400. Where did you go to first on Monday morning?—Not to the “Bath Bridge Inn,” we did not.
 3401. Where?—Am I bound to tell you that.
 3402. Where did you go to first?—I came up the town.
 3403. Whom did you see?—I saw a lot of people.
 3404. Where did you go to?—I went to have a glass of beer.
 3405. Where was that?—At a public-house.
 3406. What is the name of it?—Am I compelled to tell you?
 3407. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Yes, why should you not?
 3408. Mr. Edlin.] That was glass of beer No. 1?—

Witness.] Am I compelled to tell it?

3409. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Yes?—“The Golden Ball.”
 3410. Mr. Edlin.] What colours did you see there?—Blue ribbons; I had some Blue ribbons.
 3411. Did you have Blue ribbons when you went to see Mrs. Cape?—Yes.
 3412. That is why she did not charge you?—I cannot tell that.
 3413. The “Golden Ball” was the first; you had beer there; was that for breakfast?—I had breakfast at home.
 3414. What did you take for breakfast at home?—I had some breakfast.
 3415. What was it to drink; did you have anything to drink?—Tea.
 3416. And toast?—No, I did not have toast.
 3417. You had beer No. 1; after leaving the “Golden Ball” where did you go to?—I went down to the show of hands, at the Cornhill.
 3418. You were jolly at that time?—No.
 3419. You held up your hands for the Blues?—Certainly.
 3420. After you held up your hands for the Blues where did you go next?—I went down the street and followed the procession; we went round the town, and after we had tired of walking we thought we would go and sit down somewhere.
 3421. Where was that?—My friend says, “We had better go to the ‘Bath Bridge Inn’;” one friend says, “That will not do; we have got the wrong colours.”
 3422. Where did you go to?—We went there.
 3423. Where did you go to before you went there?—To the procession; we went to two or three places.
 3424. Where did you go to before you went to the “Bath Bridge Inn”?—To two or three public-houses.
 3425. Which was the first; this was after the nomination?—Yes; when the procession walked round the town.
 3426. What was the next public-house you went to?—Pinn’s, in John-street.

3427. What is the name of that house?—The “Golden Lion.”
 3428. That “Golden Lion” is a Liberal house?—No.
 3429. That is a Blue house?—Yes.
 3430. How much did you get there?—I had what I paid for.
 3431. What did you pay for?—I paid for a pint of beer.
 3432. You took that?—I drunked it; me and a friend of mine.
 3433. Are you sure you did not get something stronger?—Not then.
 3434. What was the next house?—Culverwell’s.
 3435. Was that the “Beaufort Arms”?—Yes.
 3436. Is that a Blue house?—Yes; I cannot say; it is no difference whether it is a Blue house or a Buff house; I paid for what I had.
 3437. That was the third house before you got to the “Bath Bridge Inn”; you paid for what you got at the “Beaufort Arms”?—I do not know. I went in another house, then I went to two or three. I cannot tell you.
 3438. It might be more?—It might be more, and it might be less.
 3439. At the time you got to the “Bath Bridge” you were quite sober?—I was sober; certainly I was.
 3440. Did not the people who were in the procession stop and drink freely at those houses?—I cannot tell.
 3441. Did you go in with the procession?—I went in with my friends.
 3442. Forming part of the procession?—Yes.
 3443. Did you change your colours before you got to the “Bath Bridge”?—I did not.
 3444. You still wore the Blue colours?—I did; and got in a row for it.
 3445. I do not understand Miss Helen serving persons who had got the right colours, but still serving you who had got the wrong colours; that is what she did?—Certainly.
 3446. This was the beginning, Monday; at half-past six on Monday night you were able to distinguish people?—Yes.
 3447. How much in the whole that day do you think you took altogether, including brandy, and gin, and beer?—I did not say gin; I do not drink gin.
 3448. Leaving the gin out, how much do you think you took; never mind to a gallon?—I shall not come to a gallon.
 3449. How much altogether did you have that day?—Before I went to the “Bath Bridge,” I might have taken three pints.
 3450. Before you went to sleep on the Tuesday morning at half-past six, counting from the time you got up on Monday morning, how much did you have to drink?—I had three pints before I got to the “Bath Bridge Inn,” and I will tell you afterwards, perhaps within a few drops.
 3451. Go on; how much altogether?—It might be a great many glasses of brandy-and-water; when we drank it up (there were seven or eight of us), it was filled again.
 3452. How much altogether?—I cannot tell.
 3453. Never mind to a gallon altogether, liquor mixed with water or not?—I should say 14 or 15 glasses.
 3454. Where were your wits; what did you have to eat all this time?—A bit of bread and cheese.
 3455. Taken occasionally, in between it all?—Sometimes;

Sometimes; sometimes it was gived, put out on the table.

3456. You seem to have been a friend of the family's, for you were keeping score for them?—I was not a friend, nor I was not a foe.

3457. Did not you tell us just now that Mr. Gilbert said "you had better not draw any more; I will not give an order for any more"?—That is right.

3458. Did not you also say that he said "You had better stop now; no more on that game for me"?—"I will not order."

3459. Were not your words "no more on that game for me"; did not you tell us Mr. Gilbert said that?—No; "I will not give an order for more."

3460. Did not you swear just now, in answer to my learned friend on the other side, that Mr. Gilbert said to Mrs. Cape, "You had better stop now; no more on that game for me"?—I did say the word; but I said after different.

3461. Were those words true?—Them as I said afterwards I would swear to, the second words; I would not the first.

3462. Those are what you said at first; I took you down, and so did my learned friends?

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] He says he said such words.

Mr. Edlin.] In substance; but he said "no more on that game for me."

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Now ask him questions upon it.

3463. Mr. Edlin.] Did you understand Mr. Gilbert to mean for himself?—He said "I will not give an order for any more."

3464. You were sometimes sitting in the bar, and sometimes in the back kitchen?—Yes.

3465. So that you did not see what was going on in the bar all the time?—No.

3466. What payments took place when you were in the back kitchen, you could not tell?—Certainly not.

T. Hinam.

1869.

Mr. CHARLES BOWDEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

3467. Do you live in Church-street?—Yes.

3468. Are you a clerk in the service of the Railway Company?—I am.

3469. Are you the secretary of the Bridgwater branch of the Reform League?—The honorary secretary.

3470. The honorary secretary of the Bridgwater branch of the Reform League?—Yes.

3471. Was that in existence at the time of the last election, or was the Liberal Working Men's Association founded upon that?—The Liberal Working Men's Association was founded upon it.

3472. How long before the election?—About three weeks.

3473. Did you hire any rooms at the "Globe Hotel" at the last election, for the purposes of the Liberal candidates?—I hired a room on account of the Liberal Association.

3474. Not on account of the candidates?—No.

3475. When was it that you hired them; when did you hire these rooms on account of the Liberal Association?—At various times before the Monday and Tuesday of the election.

3476. Were those rooms for holding meetings only?—For holding meetings only.

3477. Mr. Budd is the landlord of the "Globe Inn"?—Yes.

3478. Did you hire the rooms from him?—I hired the rooms from him.

3479. Did you hold meetings in those rooms?—I did.

3480. Did Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl attend those meetings?—I cannot say that they did; they did not together.

3481. Did Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl attend those meetings or not?—Mr. Vanderbyl attended the meeting on one occasion.

3482. When was that?—Well, I cannot call to memory the exact day.

3483. During the canvass?—During the time of the election.

3484. Was it shortly before the election?—About a week.

3485. How long had the canvass gone on, on the part of the Liberals, before the election; how long were they in the field, to use an ordinary expression?—Soon after the Conservative party began their canvass.

3486. Some weeks I suppose before the election?—Some two weeks; a fortnight.

3487. Were those rooms used at all on the nomination day and the polling day, that you hired?—Yes, they were.

3488. Were they used by all the parties connected with the Liberal side, for the purposes of the election?—Yes.

3489. I do not insinuate whether wrongly or not?—Yes.

3490. And I suppose the candidates and their supporters were in and out?—No, the candidates were not there.

3491. Only their supporters?—Only their supporters.

3492. Was Mr. Reed there?—He may have been there.

3493. Now you know you ought not to answer me in that absurd way; I ask you was he there?—I was not there the whole of the time.

3494. Did you see Mr. Reed there?—I think I did see him there once.

3495. Do you know you did, upon your solemn oath, as well as that I am speaking to you; did you see Mr. Henry Lovibond there?—(The Witness hesitated.)

3496. You know he will not be angry with you if you tell me the truth?—I am here to tell you the truth, if you will allow me time to answer you; Mr. Lovibond was there.

3497. Was Mr. Barham there?—I did not see him.

3498. Was Mr. Cook there?—Yes, Mr. Cook was there.

3499. Was Mr. Sealy?—I cannot say; I don't recollect the whole of the people that were there at the time.

3500. Was Mr. Collins there?—What Collins?

3501. Stephen Collin Jones; was he there?—No, he was not there.

3502. Was Henry Jarman there?—No, I don't think he was there; I don't recollect it.

3503. Was Andrew Allan there?—No.

3504. Was James Honeyball there; you know him, do you not?—No, I don't know him; at least I have seen him, but I don't know him to speak to him.

Mr.
C. Bowden.

Mr. C. Bowden. 3505. Do you not know that he took an active part in the last election, on behalf of the Liberals? —He may have done so.

25 February 1869. 3506. But do you not know it?—Well, I think he did; I have heard so.

3507. Do you not know it?—No, I have no knowledge of it.

3508. Did Honeyball speak in those rooms in your presence?—About a fortnight before the election.

3509. Honeyball is a coachman, is he not?—I do not know.

3510. Do you not know that he is coachman to Mr. Brown?—He may be.

3511. And he made a speech, do you remember that?—I can recollect his making a speech.

3512. At those rooms that you hired?—Yes, at those rooms.

3513. Do you know Mr. Allway at all?—Yes.

3514. Was he there?—No.

3515. That you can swear?—That I can swear safely.

3516. Why do you say safely?—Because he was not in the town.

3517. Do you know a Mr. George Wilton; was he there?—Yes; Mr. Wilton was there, I think.

3518. Do you know Mr. Henry Chapman Bussell?—Yes.

3519. Was he there; take time and answer safely?—Mr. Bussell might have been there, but I do not recollect seeing him.

3520. Why do you say he must have been there?—I say he might have been there.

3521. But you swear that you don't recollect seeing him?—I don't recollect seeing him.

3522. Might he have been there and you have forgotten it?—I have told you; I was not there the whole of the time.

3523. But I am asking you while you were there; I am not so foolish as to ask you what happened when you were not there?—No, I know that.

3524. Just give me credit for something short of absolute stupidity; were you there at any time when Mr. Bussell was there?—No.

3525. That you swear?—Yes.

3526. Do you know Bussell?—Yes.

3527. Did you go to the "Anchor" to see him?—No.

3528. Were you never in his public-house at all?—I have been in his public-house.

3529. But during the election?—Yes, I was in his public-house; but I have not seen him there.

3530. What did you go there for?—To have a glass of beer.

3531. As honorary secretary of the Reform League you went to have a glass of beer at this beershop; is that your style of living?—No.

3532. Did you go to see Bussell?—No.

3533. Did you inquire for him?—No.

3534. You merely took a glass of beer?—That is all.

3535. You asked no questions?—No.

3536. And you were asked none?—No.

3537. Was Mr. James Wood Sully at your committee rooms at all; those two rooms that were used on the nomination day and the polling day?—I really cannot tax my recollection so far back to say how many were there; you have asked me a great number of names.

3538. Do you know Mr. James Wood Sully?—I know Mr. James Wood Sully.

3539. Was he an active supporter of Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—I believe so.

3540. Do you not know it?—Yes.

3541. Why do you say that you believe so if you know it?—I may say that I believe so.

3542. Did you not work with him?—No, I did not work with him.

3543. Not at all?—No.

3544. Can you, or can you not say (because do not let us keep up this sort of battledore and shuttlecock talk) whether he was at this committee room?—I cannot say.

3545. You will not say?—I really do not know; I cannot say whether he was there or not; I cannot recall it to recollection.

3546. You know the importance of these questions to you?—I understand it.

3547. As to those rooms which you hired from Mr. Budd, what did you agree to pay for those rooms to Mr. Budd?—Half a guinea a night.

3548. What, for three weeks, or for two days?—For several days in the week; they were not occupied the whole of the week.

3550. How many?—Four or five occasions it may be.

3551. The Working Men's Association were not to pay for those rooms?—The Working Men's Association was to pay for these rooms.

3552. They did not?—Aye! but they will.

3553. But they have not?—They have, I think.

3554. Now just be careful. How much have they paid; you know you are the secretary; are you not?—Well I am supposed to be the secretary; there are other secretaries.

3555. Are persons supposed to be something in this town which they are not?—Yes.

3556. Upon my word, it is an amusing place to live in; that is all I can say; just attend to me; now do be careful; you ought really to answer questions fairly; you have something more at stake than some of those wretched men who have been called to prove bribery; do you mean to say that your name is not published as secretary to the Working Men's Association; honorary you know, because you are a cut above a working man?—It is not published.

3557. Are you secretary of that association or not, upon your oath?—I am the secretary.

3558. Then what do you mean by answering in such an absurd way to me, that you were believed or supposed to be secretary; you are the secretary?—I am one of the secretaries.

3559. Who is the other?—There are other secretaries.

3560. But name one; I do not want the lot?—Mr. Lovell Hurman.

3561. He was the gentleman that seconded Mr. Vanderbyl?—No.

3562. That is another, is it; is he a relation of that gentleman?—I don't know; I think he is.

3563. Is he the nephew of the Mr. Hurman who seconded the nomination of Mr. Vanderbyl?—I think he is.

3564. Do you not know it?—I do not know it; I don't know the relationships of all the persons in the town.

3565. On the cards of membership of this association association does not your name appear as secretary?—It does.

3566. And that is what you call being supposed to be secretary; are you paid for that?—I am not.

3567. It is all honorary?—It is all honorary.

3568. And all honourable?—I believe so.

3569. I hope so; have you corresponded with Mr. Kinglake, as secretary of this association?—No, I have not.

3570. Nor with Mr. Vanderbyl?—No.

3571. Nor with their committees in any way?—What do you mean by their committees?

3572. On their behalf; have you corresponded with them, either through their committees or not, in respect of this election, as secretary to the Liberal Association of Working Men, whatever that means?—In what way?

3573. Did you correspond about the election?—With whom?

3574. With Mr. Kinglake or Mr. Vanderbyl, or any of their agents?—No, I cannot say I have.

3575. Will you swear you have not?—Yes.

3576. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Have you corresponded with anybody about this election on behalf of the association?—No.

3577. Then surely you might have answered more simply what you were saying just now?

3578. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] I may have mistaken you for an educated man; do you know the meaning of “corresponding”?—I think so; yes.

3579. You are not quite sure of that; by “corresponding,” I mean, had you written letters to Mr. Kinglake or Mr. Vanderbyl, or any gentleman of their supporters, about the election, as secretary of the Working Men’s Association?—No.

3580. Now you know we have got it out; we have been nearly five minutes about it; you say you agreed to pay Mr. Budd so much; did you ever yourself pay Mr. Budd a farthing?—No, I did not.

3581. Had you ever a farthing to pay him with on the part of the Liberal Association of Working Men?—I had promises.

3582. There is an old proverb about promises; but my question is, had you any funds in your possession on behalf of the Liberal Association of Working Men to pay poor Mr. Budd, the landlord of the “Globe”?—No.

3583. How many members are there to this Liberal Association of Working Men?—From 700 to 800.

3584. What do they subscribe?—They have not subscribed anything yet.

3585. You do not expect them to subscribe anything now, do you?—They are working men, you see.

3586. But working men can subscribe 6d. or 1s.?—No, but they cannot; they cannot afford it.

3587. Then you enrolled all these 700 or 800 working men, and you have not asked for a penny subscription; could not you send a hat round for subscriptions?—No, not yet.

3588. Are you going after this Petition to do so; to pay the expenses of the Petition?—We do not know what we are going to do.

3589. You say “not yet”; have you ever asked them for a farthing subscription; I want to see whether this is a mockery or a sham; do you mean to say that you are going to ask them for subscriptions after this Petition is over to pay the expenses of Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I cannot say that I am.

3590. Then what do you mean by “not yet”?—What I mean to say is that honorary members will subscribe.

3591. Who are the honorary members, not the working men?—No.

3592. Then you mean to say that the gentlemen of property connected with the Liberal interest will subscribe for the working men being members of this association?—Certainly.

3593. That is what you mean?—That is what I mean.

3594. That is how you get up a Liberal Working Men’s Association?—Well, I believe so.

3595. Have you ever got up another one on the same terms?—Well, I should like to.

3596. Who paid for the rooms?—I cannot tell.

3597. You mean to say, upon your solemn oath, you cannot tell?—I mean to say, upon my solemn oath, that I do not know who paid for them.

3598. Do you know anything of that bill (handing a bill to the Witness)?—No; I never saw it before.

3599. But read it; it will not hurt you; just read it out, “John Budd”; there is the hieroglyphic of the inn, whatever it is?—“John H. Budd, Globe Commercial and Family Hotel, Bridgwater, November 17th; to hire of rooms for election purposes, 3l. 3s.”

3600. I believe those are your rooms?—Yes.

3601. Go on?—“For repairing windows, 7s. 6d.”

3602. Who broke them; the honorary members or the working men?—

Mr. Justice Blackburn inquired whether this was one of the vouchers for election expenses.

Mr. Serjeant Parry replied that it was, and called the attention of the court to the items in the bill, “colouring walls,” and “refreshments and wine.”

3602*. Mr. Serjeant Parry (to the Witness).] I will not trouble you any more about that bill; were you, a day or two before the election, at the “Bath Bridge Inn”?—Was I there; yes; I was there.

3603. Now do you not see that you might have said yes, without echoing my question; when was it; was it the nomination day, or the Saturday, or not, that you were at the “Bath Bridge Inn”?—The Saturday, I think.

3604. Are you sure?—I am almost sure it was.

3605. Were there some voters there at the time you were there?—It was the meeting of the association.

3606. Of the Liberal Working Men’s Association?—Yes.

3607. There were several voters amongst them, I suppose?—Oh, yes; there were voters there.

3608. Was it in the evening?—In the evening.

3609. Did you order any drink for any persons there?—Did I order? I treated some one with drink; I may have done so, but I did not order any drink.

Mr.
C. Bowden.
—
25 February
1869.

3610. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Will you explain what you mean by that?—I did not put any down to any account.

3611. I do not understand you?—What I ordered at the time I paid for out of my own pocket.

3612. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Were you up in the room where the meeting was held?—Yes, upstairs.

3613. How long were you there?—I might have been there half-an-hour, but I cannot exactly say.

3614. And were there a number of voters at this meeting, to your knowledge?—I cannot tell; there might have been, but I cannot tell the number.

3615. Were there some?—There were some.

3616. How many do you think there were?—Ten or a dozen, I should think.

3617. Did you throw down a sovereign on the table and make use of this expression, "There is something to refresh the inner man"?—No, I did not.

3618. You did not say it?—No.

3619. Did you throw a sovereign down on the table?—No.

3620. Did you throw any money down on the table?—No.

3621. How much did you spend there in treating out of your own pocket?—I spent a few shillings.

3622. But a few shillings might be 19s.?—Well, it might.

3623. Was it as much as 19s.?—Well, I cannot say.

3624. Do you mean to tell my Lord that you cannot say?—I can tell you this: you say it might have been 19s., and I say it might.

3625. I am asking you questions in a very quiet manner; do you think you did spend 19s.?—Yes.

3626. Did you spend 20s.?—Yes.

3627. Did you spend 30s.?—No.

3628. Why do you stick at the 20s.?—Because I know I had not more.

3629. You did spend a sovereign?—Yes.

3630. Only you did not throw it down on the table and say, "There is something to refresh the inner man"?—Exactly; I did not.

3631. What did you order for those Liberal working men?—I did not order anything, I tell you; I gave it to a man there—

3632. What was his name?—I do not know him more than you; I know he was officiating in the house.

3633. You know me now?—I know he was officiating in the house.

3634. And officiating as barman in the house; now, did you not give him a sovereign?—Yes, I think I did.

3635. The sovereign, the exact 20s.; now, did you not?—(The Witness hesitated.)

3636. Come, because he is here and can tell; did you or did you not?—Well, I gave him money.

3637. But a sovereign?—It might have been a sovereign.

3638. But it was a sovereign?—(The Witness hesitated.)

3639. Upon your oath, was it not a sovereign?—It was a sovereign.

3640. Well, I thought so; you see, I was better informed than yourself about this matter; now, really I am curious to know where you got that sovereign from; who gave you that sovereign?—Out of my own pocket.

3641. Now, I must ask you the question which I should have considered impertinent if you had not told me you had spent a sovereign; you are clerk to the railway?—I am.

3642. What is your salary?—Nearly a hundred a year.

3643. How much short of a hundred a year?—£99 a year; I get 90l. a year, and 10 per cent., generally speaking.

3644. This you spent out of your own pocket?—I did.

3645. Are you a voter?—No; I am sorry to say I am not.

3646. I am not sorry about it at all?—

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

3647. Perhaps you are not a married man?—No, I am not.

3648. This is a bill made out to Messrs. Vanderbyl and Kinglake for the use of the rooms, "November 17th, 3l. 3s."; and then certain repairs for damage done and refreshments for the day; perhaps it is within your knowledge that the candidates used this particular house on the day of the election for their staff of poll clerks in that district; do you know that?—Yes.

3649. And there is no pretence for saying that you paid this bill?—Oh, no.

3650. When you told us that you were engaging this room, for the purposes of your association, at half-a-guinea a night, you were alluding to some days other than the 17th of November, I suppose?—Yes, I was.

3651. Previous days?—Yes.

3652. And therefore if the nights on which you used it have not been paid for, this bill has nothing in the world to do with those nights?—Nothing in the world to do with those nights.

3653. Has Mr. Budd made any application to you, or sent you any bill for the previous use of the rooms on days when he was to charge you half-a-guinea a night?—He has sent me an account.

3654. Do you remember how much it came to?—No, I cannot say.

3655. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] When was it?—About a fortnight or three weeks after the election.

3656. Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] I do not wish to be inquisitive about your society, but "the honorary members" are, I suppose, gentlemen of position and station?—Yes.

3657. You expect they will be the people to find funds?—I believe so; I think so.

3658. I suppose you must incur some expenses for book-keeping, and travelling, and messengers, and so forth?—Yes; I am still out of pocket.

3659. Do you conscientiously believe that whatever expenses have been incurred in that, will be paid by gentlemen associated with a society who can afford to pay them?—I do.

3660. Amongst other things, the expenses of those rooms where you have met?—Yes.

3661. Had the previous engagement of the rooms anything to do with Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl, or were they for the society exclusively?—For the society exclusively.

3662. And they had no connection with Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—No.

3663. With regard to the spending of the sovereign?—That is my own.

3664. Whether

3664. Whether wise or foolish, you say it was your own money?—My own money.

3665. If foolish, it was your own folly, and if otherwise, you take the credit of it?—Yes.

Mr. Serjeant Parry proposed to hand in a card and circular signed by the Witness as honorary secretary of the Liberal Working Men's Association.

Mr. Justice Blackburn stated that the Witness had admitted that.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES DIBBLE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

3666. You live in Polden-street?—I do.

3667. And you are a turner, I believe?—Yes.

3668. And a voter for the borough?—Yes.

3669. Do you know Biffin's public-house?—I do.

3670. Is that the "Mariners' Arms"?—It is.

3671. That is at the North Gate?—It is.

3672. On the evening of the nomination day, did you go to this place?—I did towards morning.

3673. The evening of the nomination day; the morning of the polling day?—Yes.

3674. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Were you there on the Monday night or not?—No, on the polling day morning.

3675. Mr. Collins.] At what time?—Between half-past four and five o'clock.

3676. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Do you mean half-past four or five o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

3677. Mr. Collins.] Do you know a man named Andrew Allan?—I do.

3678. Did you see him there?—I did.

3679. How many people were there?—Well, I suppose there was about 20 or 25.

3680. Did you know any of those men to be voters?—Well, I did not know them; they was all strangers to me.

3681. In what room, or what part of the house, were they?—In the front parlour.

3682. Did you go in?—I did.

3683. What was Andrew Allan doing?—He sat at the end of the table a-smoking.

3684. And what were the men doing?—Sitting there drinking.

3685. Did you have something to drink?—I did.

3686. What?—Beer.

3687. And what were the rest of the men drinking?—Beer.

3688. Were they smoking?—Yes.

3689. Cigars or pipes?—Pipes.

3690. How long did you stay?—Till six o'clock.

3691. Did you pay for anything you had?—No.

3692. During the time you were there, did you see anybody pay for anything they had?—No.

3693. Did you see Allan pay anything?—Yes.

3694. Did he pay for his own drink, or for other men's drink?—He paid for all that was brought in.

3695. During the time you were in the room, how much do you think was paid for?—About three or four canfuls.

3696. Of beer?—Yes; each can holding, I suppose, about half-a-gallon.

3697. Who asked you to drink?—Mr. Allan.

3698. You say you left there about six o'clock?—Yes.

3699. Did you leave Allan and the rest of the men there?—I did.

3700. Were they still drinking?—Yes.

65.

3701. What were they talking about?—General talk of the election.

3702. Was any price of votes named, or anything of that sort?—No.

3703. Did they say anything to Allan about their votes?—No.

3704. Did Allan say anything to them, or was anything said about receiving money?—No, I did not hear that.

3705. You voted, I believe, for Westropp and Gray?—I did.

3706. You promised them, and voted for them?—Yes.

3707. Did you see a man named Collins there, a cheesemonger?—I don't know him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

3708. You have told us that you voted for Westropp and Gray?—Yes.

3709. When did you promise to vote for Westropp and Gray?—At the "Carriage" Inn.

3710. When?—When they were there canvassing.

3711. That was some weeks, I suppose, before you went to the "Mariners' Arms"?—Yes.

3712. What made you go at half-past four in the morning to the "Mariners Arms"?—To have a glass of beer.

3713. Who took you there?—No one.

3714. Did you know that it was a Liberal house?—Yes.

3715. Why did you go there?—It is a shop-mate of mine that keeps it.

3716. You know the landlord?—Yes, I do.

3717. Had you ever been there before at half-past four in the morning; what is the name of the landlord?—Biffin.

3718. Did you go there to see what was going on in order that you might report it?—No.

3719. What were you doing at half-past four in the morning?—Walking about the same as other men.

3720. Had you been walking about all night?—No.

3721. You say Mr. Andrew Allan was there?—Yes.

3722. Did you know him before?—Yes.

3723. You have lived in Bridgwater all your life?—No.

3724. How long have you been here?—Four years.

3725. Do you mean to tell me that you do not know the name of one person there except Mr. Andrew Allan?—I do not.

3726. You had never seen any of them before?—No.

3727. Were they all strangers to you?—Yes.

3728. Every one of them?—Yes.

3729. But you did know Mr. Andrew Allan?—Yes.

3730. Did you speak to him?—Yes.

K

3731. What

Mr.
C. Bowden.

25 February
1869.

J. Dibble.

J. Dibble. 3731. What did you say to him?—I spoke to him as I went in, and he asked me to drink.
 25 February 1869. 3732. What did you say to him?—I wished him good morning, and he asked me to drink, and I sat down and smoked with the rest.
 3733. Did he say anything to you about your vote?—No.
 3734. You persist in it that this was Mr. Andrew Allan?—Yes.
 3735. What sort of a man is he?—A tall man; a Scotchman.
 3736. But to look at?—A tall round faced man.
 3737. How was he dressed that night?—In a short coat.
 3738. Was there anything else you can give me?—No, I did not notice him particularly.
 3739. Have you never seen any of the men who were there since?—I have not.
 3740. You have been about Bridgwater ever since?—I have been to work.
 3741. And you have never seen any of these 30 men before or since?—Twenty-five.

3742. Did you count them?—No; there might be 20 and there might be 25.
 3743. And you have never seen any of them before or since?—Not to my knowledge.
 3744. You have seen the landlord over and over again, I suppose, since?—I have.
 3745. Did you ever speak to Allan before in your life?—Yes.
 3746. How long have you known him?—He came into the village which I belonged to.
 3747. Travelling?—Yes.
 3748. Did he speak to you by name?—Yes.
 3749. He knew you?—Yes.
 3750. And you knew him?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

3751. Does he come round to your village about once a fortnight?—He used to.
 3752. Do you know whether he is known by the name of "Johnny Fortnight"?—That is a common name for him.

[The Witness withdrew.]

GEORGE WOOLLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

G. Woolley. 3753. ARE you a Boot-maker, residing at Taunton?—Yes.
 3754. May I ask you, do you vote on the Conservative or Liberal side?—Liberal.
 3755. Were you in this borough at the last election?—Yes.
 3756. Do you remember going to the "New Inn"?—I do.
 3757. Was that on the polling day?—Yes.
 3758. Were you there several times between one o'clock and four o'clock?—I was.
 3759. What part of the town is the "New Inn" in?—Eastover.
 3760. Is that over the bridge?—Yes.
 3761. Going towards the railway, I suppose, from here?—Yes.
 3762. Do you Mr. Henry Jarman?—I do.
 3763. Had you been in the town before the polling day, or were you there only on the polling day?—I resided in the town.
 3764. At that time?—No; previous.
 3765. Perhaps you will be good enough to tell me, have you resided in the town during the election at all?—No; I resided in the town previous to the election, about two years and a-half, I think.
 3766. But you were over here on the day of the election?—I was.
 3767. Did you see Mr. Henry Jarman?—I did.
 3768. Did you see him at the "New Inn"?—I did.
 3769. Did you know him yourself at that time as a supporter of Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—Yes.
 3770. You knew him personally, I suppose?—Yes.
 3771. How long had you known him?—I think I may say about two years.
 3772. Is he a private gentleman, a man of no occupation?—I think he is now retired from business.
 3773. Did you see him do anything at the inn in reference to beer or anything of that kind?—Yes.
 3774. What did you see him do?—I saw him, and of course heard him inducing men to go to the poll.

3775. What did you see him do; I speak of treating in the first place?—I heard him advising people supposed to be voters to go immediately to the poll.

3776. Did he say for whom?—For the Liberals, Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl, of course.

3777. There is no harm in giving persons that advice; did he do anything at that time; did you see him do anything in the way of treating persons who were present?—Yes.

3778. What did he do?—I saw him order a large can of beer, I suppose it might be a gallon, or six quarts; a large can.

3779. How many persons were present?—Well, the house was very much crowded; I should say, judging from the size of the house, there might be 50 or 60, or perhaps more people there; it was greatly crowded.

3780. You were there from one o'clock to four o'clock, or several times between those hours?—Yes.

3781. Did you see Mr. Henry Jarman there whenever you were there during those hours?—I saw him several times there.

3782. Did you see him give more than one order for beer or not; an order for anything in the way of refreshments?—I do not think I saw him actually order and pay for the beer more than once; but still the beer was going in what we might term by this large can—you know it was served out with the same can—I daresay I could recognise it now if I saw it; it was going round in the usual way, and when it was empty it was filled again.

3783. I do not know what the usual way is; if you will tell us I shall be much obliged to you; when the can was empty it was filled again and then it went round?—Yes.

3784. How many times did you see that?—Well, judging from the quantity of men, I daresay it was filled, as near as I can reasonably judge, I will say 10 or a dozen times, or probably it might be more, during the afternoon.

3785. Whilst

3785. Whilst Mr. Jarman was there?—As I told you before, he was there at intervals.

3786. Did you see any of the men who drank the beer pay for anything?—No.

3787. What is the name of the landlord there?—Stone.

3788. Did you see Mr. Jarman pay the money to him?—I did.

3789. Where did he pay him?—In the passage.

3790. Did you have any beer?—Yes, I did.

3791. Did you pay for it, or not?—Well, I paid for some; of course it was what you may term an open house, and I daresay I might have drunk out of other glasses with people that I might have known.

3792. You say the house was very crowded—was it in the bar that this happened, or in a room?—Are you speaking where the can was?

3793. Yes; where was that?—Where the large can went round; that we are speaking about?

3794. Yes, the can that you could identify again if you saw it?—I never was in the house before, and that I will describe as being at the back of the premises; I would call it a club-room perhaps, or something of that sort, leading from the passage.

3795. Did you hear Mr. Jarman, while all this beer was being handed round, say anything?—Oh, yes.

3796. What did you hear him say, if you please; as nearly as you can recollect?—I heard him inducing voters, some of them which I knew personally (of course a great many I did not know; I suppose they were all voters; a great many of them in fact) to go to the poll, and I saw them under his advice and instructions go to poll, and they was marched, what you may call in a procession, from the "New Inn" right up to the polling booth, marched up like a company of soldiers, and so on.

3797. Or volunteers?—Yes.

3798. You, I understand, knew several of them to be voters of your own knowledge?—I knew some of them to be voters.

3799. Could you tell me about how many you could recognise yourself that you believe were voters?—The names?

3800. No, I will not trouble you about the names; how many voters do you believe you recognised there, at the "New Inn," that you yourself knew to be voters?—Well, I recognised a good many.

3801. About how many?—Well, we will take it probably, I will say half-a-dozen.

3802. But, however, how many do you think you saw marshalled to the poll the way in which they should go?—In a procession?

3803. In a procession?—Well, I should think I saw from 40 to 50, probably more, going from that house.

3804. Was that during the time that this drinking was going on?—Yes, that is after they had been warmed, you know.

3805. Do you remember a man of the name of Culliford being there?—Very well.

3806. Can you tell us who Culliford is?—I know him very well.

3807. What is he?—I think he is a cabinet-maker, residing close to this court.

3808. Was he in company with Jarman at the time Jarman was there?—Yes, he seemed to be acting under his instructions.

3809. Did you hear any of those voters, before they went to the poll, ask for anything besides the drink?—I heard a great many say that they should not go to poll unless they had their day's wages paid, or something of course equivalent to the loss of time; and in every case that I heard the observation made I heard different people (probably their names will be brought up in the course of my evidence) promised that they should have that.

3810. By whom were they promised?—I heard Mr. Jarman promise them.

3811. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Who else?—Culliford.

3812. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Was it in Mr. Henry Jarman's presence that Culliford promised?—Yes, in the passage.

3813. About how many times did you hear Jarman and Culliford make those promises?—A great many times.

3814. When they made those promises did he say, when they promised that they should be paid their day's wages, or an equivalent, did they promise anything besides, or make use of any other expression?—That there should be something handsome besides.

3815. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Who said that?—Jarman, and Culliford likewise.

3816. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] You said several persons promised; did other persons make any of those promises besides Jarman and Culliford?—Yes.

3817. Who?—I heard Mr. Laing, a boot-maker, residing in this borough.

3818. Anyone else?—Mr. Babbage, a draper in Eastover, in the borough.

3819–20. Anybody else that you recollect; have you the names?—No, I have not the names.

3821. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Was there anyone else that you can remember?—

3822. Mr. Serjeant Parry (to the Witness).] I don't want to press you further if you do not recollect any other names; were Laing and Babbage supporters of Kinglake and Vanderbyl to your knowledge?—I believe so, they are recognised as Liberals in the borough.

3823. Had you a vote for Bridgwater at the last election?—Yes.

3824. When did you leave Bridgwater to go to Taunton?—I think about the last day of July; I think I was just entitled. If I had left a few days before, I think I should not have been entitled; I think I just swung clear.

3825. The meaning of that is, that you had a vote for the borough?—Yes.

3826. Did you vote for Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I did.

3827. Was anything said to you by Jarman about your own vote, that you remember?—On the day of the election?

3828. Yes, at this time, was anything said about expenses of coming over from Taunton?—Yes.

3829. By Mr. Jarman?—I think I had better give the evidence myself.

3830. I think you had; I should not be allowed to give it for you?—I think, by your asking me the questions separately, like that, that it might confuse any one; I will give you the evidence if you will allow me.

3831. If you please; I do not want to confuse you, I am sure, and it would be very difficult to do so, I should think: tell my Lord in your own way, if you please?—Well, we will commence from the “New Inn,” between the hours of two and four o’clock, on the day of the election, the polling day —

3832. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] We must not have it told in that way; I think it will be much better if you attend to the questions put by the learned counsel?—Very well, my Lord.

3833. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] I am sure I will not confuse you, and I am sure I cannot, just attend to me for a moment; do you remember anything being said by Mr. Jarman or Mr. Culliford to you about your own vote, and about expenses?—Yes; now we are getting to the point —

3834. If you will not answer my questions, I will sit down, and you may go away, except for my learned friend; did Mr. Jarman say anything to you about your expenses or not?—I had something said to me by another man in the presence of Mr. Jarman.

3835. What was it?—He says, in fact, I was introduced —

3836. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Who was this other man that you were mentioning?—I was introduced by another man, knowing I was a voter; I don’t suppose I was known at the “New Inn.”

3837. Please speak shortly and to the point; who was this man of whom you spoke?—Hill, a wheelwright, introduced me to Mr. Culliford and Mr. Jarman, as being a voter for the borough of Bridgwater, not being generally known, I suppose, in the house.

3838. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Never mind that?—Not being known there —

3839. What did he say?—He says, “This man comes from Taunton, and I believe he is a Liberal;” I was then introduced to Mr. Jarman.

3840. Go on, that is all right now?—The three being present —

3841. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I do not doubt that the three were present; go on and speak to the point; you cannot be so foolish as not to be aware that you are behaving very ill at present; speak to the point and answer the questions shortly?—He says, “Will his expenses be paid him from Taunton, if he votes for the Liberal party?” Mr. Jarman made motions to Culliford, which I considered that he was acting of course under Mr. Jarman’s instructions to that effect.

3842. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] To what effect; what motions or signals did he make?—Well, so on (beckoning with his hand).

3843. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did Culliford take you aside?—He says, “What is your name?” But before I answered, and told him what my name was, Mr. Hill supplied him with my name, knowing me probably for about two years or two and a-half years, and he gave him my name as George Woolley. Well —

3844. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Go on, sir?—He says, “I will guarantee —”

3845. Who said, “I will guarantee”?—Mr. Culliford; “I will guarantee, on behalf of the Liberal party, that your expenses are paid from Taunton, and something handsome besides.”

3846. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Now kindly attend to me, and answer this one question of mine: did you see whether Mr. Jarman had any list in his hand, or was taking down the names of anybody?—Culliford was taking down names.

3847. Was it in a little book or not?—A little pocket-book.

3848. You have told us that you voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl, and I need hardly ask you have your expenses ever been paid, or has anything handsome been given to you?—Not yet.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

3849. They have done with you now; just pay attention to me for a minute, will you; what was the name of this inn that you were in and out of so many times during the day?—The “New Inn.”

3850. Have you been there to-day?—No.

3851. What other inn have you been in to-day?—Am I bound to answer that question, my Lord?

3852. If you are ashamed of it, do not; you would rather not answer?—I will rather decline to answer the question.

3853. Very well, I have no objection; supposing you keep the names a secret, how many inns have you been into altogether to-day; perhaps you would rather not tell me that; do not, if you do not like?—I am not sworn to answer that.

3854. You would rather not tell me?—(After some hesitation.) If it is a legal question I would answer the question, but otherwise I cannot.

3855. I will assure you that it is a legal question, if you will take my word for it; it is a very legal question; how many inns have you been into to-day before you got into that box?—I think one.

3856. Well, I think more; you know which of us is right?—(The Witness hesitated.)

3857. There is nothing to laugh at; you know you ought to have come here in a fit state; is it one or more than one?—I might have been in 20 probably.

3858. Very well; that will do for me; did Mr. Hill, your friend, take you to the “New Inn” on the polling day?—Take me there?

3859. Now, do not repeat my words, but answer the question?—No.

3860. How did you find your way to that particular inn?—Well, I suppose I went down straight, the same as you might do.

3861. But why did you select that particular one out of the number in this town?—Why, of course, when people are going about, of course you must expect your body to go somewhere; I might as well say that I went in there the same as if I went in anywhere elsewhere.

3862. Well, I dare say you may think this very clever, but I do not: I ask you why you went to that particular inn, rather than any other?—I cannot give you any particular reason.

3863. That is an answer; then it was quite by accident that you saw Mr. Hill?—I knew Mr. Hill previously.

3864. Was it quite by accident that you found him at that particular house?—I think I saw him in the town before that.

3865. I thought that was very likely; did he tell you that he should be down at that inn, if you liked to come?—I think we had a little conversation.

3866. And then you did go down, in consequence of that?—I shall not say in consequence of that; I went there.

3867. You do not say “in consequence;” you began by saying you were a Liberal; did you mean mean it?—I will beg your pardon; I did not say so.

3868. Are you a Conservative, then?—I am just now under a study, and I cannot answer the question.

3869. Assuming that you are in a transition state now, what were you last November, Liberal or Conservative?—Conservative.

3870. You were a Conservative last November?—I beg your pardon, a Liberal-Conservative I was.

3871. Had you come all the way from Taunton, then, in order to support the Liberal-Conservatives?—Not exactly.

3872. Had you any other business in the town that brought you here?—Oh yes.

3873. Might I ask you what it was, without giving you offence?—Oh yes.

3874. What was it?—I manufacture boots and shoes for a man in the town, and I came up on that account; for one thing, in fact.

3875. Then it was partly on trading principles you came?—Well, I came to Bridgwater.

3876. How long is it since you left Bridgwater?—At the end of July; about the end of July.

3877. Did you move away with all your family to another part of the country?—I have not any family.

3878. Did you and your wife move away?—Yes.

3879. Where to?—To Taunton.

3880. Did you and your wife go to Taunton?—Yes.

3881. Are you and she there still?—She is there, I presume; I left her there.

3882. Have you come over from Taunton to give evidence here to-day?—I was subpoenaed.

3883. No doubt you were subpoenaed; and have you come from Taunton to give evidence?—Well, I am giving evidence, am I not?

3884. You know I told you before I do not think this clever, and I do not think any one else will; did you come from Taunton to give evidence?—I did.

3885. Then why did you not say so?—If I answered a question that was not within your meaning, I did not intend to do so.

3886. Do not go on talking, but pay attention; do you mean to tell me that you left this place and took your wife with you to reside somewhere else when you left; now you know I want to know what sort of character you are, and I will ask you a plain question: did not you leave your wife behind, and go away with somebody else?—I shall most respectfully decline to answer your question.

3887. That is quite enough; I wanted to see what sort of a man I had got, that is all. You do decline to answer?—Yes; as far as my knowledge allows me, I do not think I am bound to answer the question you put to me.

3888. You think it might put you in a false position, perhaps?—Of course. I will treat you with every respect in my meaning. Of course I am not confident upon the point, but I don't think that, on the questions the gentleman put to me, I am bound to answer.

3889. You would rather not answer it, in fact?—If my Lord rules that I shall answer the question, I certainly will.

Mr. Justice Blackburn informed the Witness that he was not entitled to any privilege in this respect; but he suggested to the learned Counsel that the Witness was not in a fit state to give evidence.

Mr. Serjeant Parry explained that the Witness had been under a sunstroke in India, and that this was the explanation of the peculiarity of his manner.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood said he felt it was not right to occupy the time of the Court further with this Witness.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HARRIET PARKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

3890. ARE you the wife of John Parker?—Yes.

3891. And you live in Providence-place?—Yes.

3892. And your husband works, I believe, for Mr. Fox, on the Bristol and Exeter Railway?—Yes.

3893. Were you an acquaintance of the landlady of the "Mason's Arms"?—Yes.

3894. Her name was Mrs. Silk in November?—Yes.

3895. Do you remember going to the "Mason's Arms" on the morning of the polling day?—I do.

3896. At what time did you get there?—I think about 11 o'clock in the morning, as near as I can tell.

3897. When you got there, how many people were there?—I cannot say; there was a great many.

3898. Did you know any of them?—Yes.

3899. Do you know their names?—I know the names of some of them.

3900. Were they voters?—Yes.

3901. Were they being served with any refreshment?—They was taking up drink in the club-room.

3902. Did you go into the club-room?—I did.

3903. About what number of people were there?—About 20 or 30 perhaps; between that, I should think.

3904. And what were they all drinking?—Some were drinking spirits and water, and some beer.

3905. I believe you stayed there during the day, and assisted the landlady?—I stayed there till about half-past two o'clock.

3906. During that time were you assisting in the management of the house and carrying up refreshments?—Yes.

3907. How long did those people stay in the club-room drinking spirits and water and beer?—I cannot say; till they went to the poll, some of them.

3908. At what time did they go to the poll?—Some at one o'clock and some at two o'clock; at different times.

3909. Did you serve those people with refreshments?—I took up some of it.

3910. What did you take up?—Spirits and water.

3911. What

G. Woolley.

25 February
1869.

H. Parker.

H. Parker. 3911. What did you do with the spirits and water that you took up?—Let the men have it.
 3912. Did they pay you for it?—No.
 3913. As far as you could see, did they pay anybody for it?—No, I did not.
 3914. Did other people besides yourself take up refreshments to this room?—Yes, Mr. Silk did.
 3915. The landlord?—Yes.
 3916. From 11 o'clock till half-past two o'clock how many glasses of spirits and water did you either take up or see taken up?—I could not say.
 3917. About how many?—Half-a-dozen trays, perhaps, I should think.
 3918. How many glasses were there on each tray?—A dozen.
 3919. During the whole of that time was any money paid?—I did not see any money paid.
 3920. Was a person named Harris there?—There was.
 3921. What is Harris; a man or a woman?—A man; Mr. Harris I heard him called.
 3922. Was he also employed in taking up grog?—He was.

3923. Then there was Silk and Harris, was there anybody else; was there a Miss Silk?—Yes.
 3924. Did she take up grog?—I do not think she did.
 3925. Mrs. Silk?—Not Mrs. Silk; she was attending to the bar.
 3926. Was any score kept?—Yes.
 3927. Where was the score kept?—On the slate and on the book.
 3928. Who entered them on the slate?—Miss Silk.
 3929. Did you see any colours displayed at this house?—No, any more than what the men wore in their waistcoats.
 3930. What colours did the men wear in their waistcoats?—The buff colours.
 3931. The Liberal colours?—Yes.
 3932. Do you know a gentleman named Hurman?—I do.
 3933. Was he there?—No, not whilst I was.

[The Witness withdrew.]

FREDERICK JEWELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

F. Jewell. 3934. You are a shopman in an ironmonger's shop in this town?—Yes.
 3935. I believe that on the night of the nomination, the day before the polling, you went into the "Mason's Arms"?—Yes.
 3936. At what time?—I think it was between one o'clock and two o'clock.
 3937. At night?—At night.
 3938. Or rather in the morning?—In the morning.
 3939. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Do you mean the Monday morning or the Tuesday morning?—The Tuesday morning.
 3940. That is to say, in the course of the night that began upon Monday?—Yes, the night before the polling day.
 3941. Mr. Collins.] The early morning of the polling day, in fact?—The early morning of the polling day.
 3942. Were there many people in the "Mason's Arms" then?—I did not see many.
 3943. How many did you see?—Only about three or four.
 3944. Do you know the club-room at the "Mason's Arms"?—I know there is a club-room there.
 3945. Did you go into the club-room?—No.
 3946. Can you tell whether or not there were people in the club-room?—There were people in the club-room.
 3947. Did you see people go into the club-room at all?—I saw them coming through the passage.
 3948. That leads to the club-room?—That leads from the front door to the club-room.
 3949. How many did you see go in that way, do you think?—I saw three or four; I did not stop there long.

3950. You went into the bar, I suppose?—Yes.
 3951. Did you see spirits and beer being sent away upon trays?—I only saw beer; I saw beer drawn, not sent away in trays.
 3952. Where was it sent?—Out from the bar, I imagine, into the club-room; but I do not know where it was sent.
 3953. It was sent from the bar in the direction of the club-room?—I do not know where it was sent from the bar.
 3954. Did you see any money pass in payment for this beer?—No.
 3955. After you had been there some little time, did some people come down from the club-room?—Yes, two or three.
 3956. What did they say to you?—They made some remarks.
 3957. About what?—About the election.
 3958. What did they say?—They said it was a Conservative house, and there were parties there that did not ought to be there.
 3959. What house?—A Liberal house, and that there were parties there that did not ought to be there.
 3960. Were you a Conservative?—Yes.
 3961. Were those observations addressed to you?—They were addressed to me through the bar door, or the window, as you may call it.
 3962. I believe upon that you saw you were not wanted, and went away?—I did afterwards.
 3963. Did you see any score being kept there?—They entered it in a little book as it went out.
 3964. Who entered it?—Miss Silk.
 3965. That is the landlord's daughter, I believe?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM CHORLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

W. Chorley. 3966. I BELIEVE you live at Pig-cross, Bridgewater?—I do.
 3967. And you are a bootmaker?—I am.

3968. Is your house situated next door to the "Mason's Arms"?—Not the next.
 3969. How far off is it?—About 15 yards
 3970. Do

3970. Do you remember the morning of the polling day?—Yes.

3971. Do you know Mr. William Hurman, Mr. Vanderbyl's proposer?—I do, very well.

3972. Did you see Mr. Hurman upon that morning?—I did.

3973. At what time?—Between seven o'clock and eight o'clock. W. Chorley.

3974. Mr. Vanderbyl's proposer?—Yes.

3975. Where did he come from?—Out of the "Mason's Arms." 25 February 1869.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JANE BAKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

3976. ARE you the daughter of William Baker, who is a shoemaker in Barclay-street, here?—No; I am the wife of William Baker.

3977. Upon my honour, I beg to apologise, I am sure you will excuse me, you look so very young and I thought you were the daughter; are you the wife of William Baker, who is a shoemaker in Barclay-street here?—Yes.

3978. Do you remember the day of the poll at the last election?—Yes.

3979. Were you then in your father's house at Eastover?—Yes.

3980. Can you see from the back window of your father's house the "New Inn"?—In the "New Inn" yard.

3981. Is that a yard attached to the inn?—Yes.

3982. People who are in the inn can come into the yard, I suppose?—Yes.

3983. On the day of the election, did you see a number of men in the yard passing out and in?—Yes.

3984. How many did you see?—I cannot say how many there were.

3985. But were there a large number?—Yes, there were.

3986. Do you remember seeing Mr. Andrew Allan there?—Yes.

3987. Do you know Mr. Stephen Collin Jones?—Yes.

3988. Did you see him there?—Yes.

3989. Do you know Mr. Glanville?—Yes.

3990. Mr. George Kidner?—Yes.

3991. And Mr. Golding?—Yes.

3992. Is that gentleman in Mr. Andrew Allan's service?—I believe he is; he took off his business, I think.

3993. And Mr. John Smith; I think?—Yes.

3994. I particularly ask you as to Mr. Andrew Allan and Stephen Collin Jones; did you see persons going to the poll from that yard?—Yes.

3995. Going towards the poll; I have no right to put it further. How did they go?—In frys, and some walked.

3996. Was there any procession at all formed?—Yes; all in front of the door.

3997. Did you see persons walking from that inn towards the poll?—Yes.

3998. Also making a sort of procession?—I saw them along with Mr. Golding.

3999. That is the gentleman who is either assistant to Mr. Allan or took his business. Did you at all go after the frys to the poll or any of them?—Yes.

4000. Did you go more than once?—Yes; I went several times.

4001. Did you see the voters poll?—I saw them go into the polling-booth.

4002. Do you know a voter of the name of James Hobbs?—Yes, well.

4003. Do you know James Day?—Yes.

4004. Frederick Cooper and others?—Yes.

65.

4005. Did you see them vote?—No, I did not. J. Baker.

4006. Were they at the "New Inn"?—Yes.

4007. You know Hobbs; had you spoken to Hobbs on the day of the election about his vote?—Yes; several times.

4008. What had Hobbs told you about his vote?

Mr. Henry James objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Blackburn overruled the objection.

4009. Mr. Serjeant Parry (to the Witness).] You had some conversation with him about his vote. Did he tell you before he voted which way he was going to vote?—Yes, he did.

4010. What did he say?—For Mr. Westropp and Gray.

4011. At what time did he go from the inn to vote?—About half-past three, I should think, as near as I could remember.

4012. Did he go in a fly?—Yes.

4013. Besides telling you that he intended to vote for Westropp and Gray, did he say anything to you about money?—Yes.

4014. What did he say?—He said he should not go to the poll unless he was paid.

4015. I believe you saw him two or three times, did you not, before he voted?—Yes.

4016. Did you speak to him each of those times as to how he was going to vote?—I asked him if he had been to poll; he said no, and he said he should not go; if the blues did not make haste and have him they should not have him at all.

4017. Are you a blue?—Yes.

Mr. Henry James objected that James Hobbs's name was not stated in the list to have been bribed.

Mr. Serjeant Parry replied that the reason why this case was not mentioned in the particulars was that it had been only heard of since yesterday.

Mr. Justice Blackburn overruled the objection, but said that the cross-examination should be postponed, so as to give the learned counsel for the Respondents time to enquire into the case, if requisite.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

4018. What time in the day was it when you first saw those people at the "New Inn"?—About one o'clock.

4019. What time was it when you saw the procession that you have spoken of formed?—That was about half-past two o'clock.

4020. That was the time when you saw the first procession of persons going to the poll?—I cannot

J. Baker. cannot say; I mean the procession where the band was.
 25 February 1869. 4021. Was that the first procession, or was it the only one?—That was the first that I saw.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

4022. You have been telling us all that you saw from the window at the back of your father's house, I think?—Yes.

4023. Is there any street running between the back of your father's house and the "New Inn"?—No.

4024. Then I suppose I am right in guessing that when you look out of the window of your father's house you are looking at the back windows of the "New Inn"?—No; into the yard.

4025. And then, I suppose, at the end of the yard farthest from you the "New Inn" would be standing?—Yes.

4026. Then it has some windows at the back looking into the yard?—Yes; but we cannot see them from there.

4027. From the back of your father's house you can see the yard of the "New Inn," but you cannot see the windows that look over the yard?—No.

4028. Tell me what stands between you and the "New Inn" that should prevent your seeing the windows?—There is a back kitchen against there.

4029. You will not be offended with me if I ask how old you are, I dare say?—Twenty, on the 28th of August last.

4030. We all thought you were older; there is a kitchen built behind the "New Inn" that sticks out into the yard, I suppose?—Yes.

4031. Then when you look out of the back window you look into the yard?—Yes.

4032. The front of the house is altogether on the other side, in another street?—Yes.

4033. I suppose the people going in and out of the "New Inn" generally go in at the front door and out again into the street, do they not?—A great many went out at the back.

4034. You saw a good many come out into the back yard?—Yes.

4035. And then they went in again?—Yes.

4036. And that was the means of your seeing a great many people there?—Yes, and I heard them talking.

4037. How long did you stand at the window watching people coming out of the public-house into the back yard?—I was there from one to four o'clock in and out.

4038. In and out of what?—In and out of my father's house and back again.

4039. Well, then, you mean that between one and four o'clock you went several times to the back window and looked out into the "New Inn" yard?—Yes.

4040. Was that the means which you had of discovering who were there, and the number of people going in and out?—Yes.

4041. And is that all that you know about it beyond speaking to this gentleman, Mr. James Hobbs?—Yes, no more than the men I saw there.

4042. Did he come in to talk to you at your father's house?—No; at the end of the passage that leads into a court.

4043. Where your father's house stands?—Where the side door comes to.

4044. The side door of your father's house?—Yes.

4045. Then you met him by chance in the passage?—He lives in the court.

4046. You spoke to him because he lives close by?—Yes.

4047. Then the people that you saw coming in and out of the public-house into the back yard from time to time may have been the same people coming out over and over again, perhaps?—No; they were strangers to me some, and some I knew.

4048. But when you say there were a great many because they went in and out sometimes, the same people might go in and out two or three times?—But they stood in the yard in great numbers.

4049. They stood and talked to each other?—Yes.

4050. And that is all you know about it, is it?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

SARAH BAKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

S. Baker. 4051. ARE you the wife of William Baker, who is a shoemaker in Eastover?—Yes.

4052. And the lady who has just gone down is your son's wife, is she not?—Yes.

4053. Do you remember the day of the polling?—Yes.

4054. Was she at your house?—Yes.

4055. Can you see the yard of the "New Inn" from your house?—Yes, very well.

4056. Was your attention at all attracted to it on the polling day?—No, it was not; my daughter-in-law's was, more than me.

4057. Did you see persons there in the yard?—Well, I see different persons there, but I cannot tell any of their names.

4058. Do you know a person of the name of Stephen Collin Jones?—Yes.

4059. Did you see him there?—Yes.

4060. Do you know Mr. Allan?—Yes.

4061. Did you see him there?—Yes.

4062. Was he with the men in the yard, the men that you did not know?—Yes.

4063. And Mr. Jones?—Yes.

4064. Did you know Mr. Golding there?—Yes.

4065. Did you see Mr. Golding do anything with the men in reference to Mr. Allan?—No; they were along with him talking to him together.

4066. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What did you see then?—I did not see anything else.

4067. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Do you know the club-room at the "New Inn"?—Yes, I know it very well.

4068. Did you see any of them?—We could not see them.

4069. But did you see Golding and Allan taking men towards the club-room?—I cannot say they took them to the club-room, seeing them from the back-kitchen window.

4070. They took them from the yard, but you cannot say where?—I cannot say where.

4071. Did

4071. Did you look more than once into the yard in the course of the day?—I may look two or three times.

ing or not in the yard?—They were not drinking, not when I see them.

S. Baker.

25 February
1869.

4072. Did you see whether they were drink-

[The Witness withdrew.

EMMELINE HERBERT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

4073. ARE you the daughter of Mr. Thomas Herbert, of Binford House?—Binford-place.

They seemed to be staggering up; I should not think by their walking they were sober.

E. Herbert.

4074. On the day of the election, between three o'clock and four o'clock in the afternoon, were you in some upstairs room in your father's house?—I was.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

4075. Can you see the "New Inn" from there?—No.

4087. Your father is a voter and a Conservative, is he not?—He is.

4076. Can you see the yard of the "New Inn"?—No; you can see any one coming from Eastover.

4088. He has Blue ribbons on sometimes, has he not?—Yes, I think he does.

4077. Did you see people coming from Eastover where you were, and all the way from the polling-place also?—Yes.

4089. Was there a band with those gentlemen who were staggering?—No, not any band.

4078. Between three and four o'clock, do you remember hearing a great noise and cheering, and so on?—Yes.

4090. But you say there were more than you could count?—They were only across the river; I was one side of the river, and they were on the other; but they were more than I could count as they went along.

4079. Did you look out to see what was coming?—I was at the back, and I went to the front to see what was coming.

4091. They were all staggering?—Those that were nearest me were staggering.

4080. And did you?—Yes.

4092. Those that you did count?—I did not count any of them.

4081. What did you see?—A procession, or a lot of men arm-in-arm, with Mr. Jones walking in front of them.

4093. Do I understand you to say that this was a procession of men that you could not count, and that as far as you could see they were all intoxicated?—Yes.

4082. Was that Stephen Collin Jones?—The tailor in Eastover; I think that is his name.

4094. The river was between you?—Yes.

4083. He was walking in front of them?—Yes.

4095. And you could observe that they were all intoxicated as they went by?—Yes.

4084. And you say they were walking arm-in-arm?—Yes.

4096. But they were so many that you could not count them?—I could not count them.

4085. Could you tell how many were walking arm-in-arm?—More than I could count.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

4086. I do not know whether they were excited by the election; did you notice at all?—

4097. Did you try to count them as you saw them passing?—No, I did not; I saw them pass.

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM PARKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

4098. Do you live at Providence-place?—Yes.

4105. What part of the house did you go in?—I went into the kitchen, and I had no time to abide there; they shut me out of doors.

W. Parker.

4099. The night before the polling were you at the "Mason's Arms"?—Yes, I went there, and had a pint of half-and-half.

4100. What time did you get there?—About eight o'clock at night.

4106. What did they call you?—They says, "That is one of the wrong colour."

4101. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Was this on the Monday?—On the nomination-day; the Monday.

4107. What colour did they call you; never mind the epithets?—An "old Blue."

4102. Mr. Collins.] Were there many people there?—Yes, a housefull of people there.

4108. Did the landlord say anything to you?—Yes.

4103. Did you know any of them?—I do not know that I did; I know Mr. South, the landlord.

4109. What did he say?—He said it was better to go out quietly; I was the wrong colour, and I was——.

4104. What were those people doing?—They appeared to be tipsy, a great many of them.

4110. And you walked out?—I was shoved out of the door.

[The Witness withdrew.

CHARLES AMES, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

4111. ARE you a railway haulier?—Yes.

4116. Did you go to the "Queen's Head"?—I did.

C. Ames.

4112. And you reside in Wellington-place?—I do.

4117. Is that house kept by Dennis Heron?—Yes.

4113. Are you a voter for the borough?—I am.

4118. Is that a Liberal or a Conservative house?—A Liberal house.

4114. You voted for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray, I believe?—I did.

4119. You went there about half-past eleven in the forenoon?—I did.

4115. On the Monday, the day of the nomination, did you go to the "Mason's Arms"?—I did not.

C. Ames.
25 February
1869.

4120. How many people were there there?—I should think about 20.

4121. Give me a few names?—William Perry was one.

4122. Who else?—James Smith.

4123. Do you remember Crispin?—Henry Crispin.

4124. Codrington?—Those were all I knowed, that I took any notice of.

4125. Were all those men Liberals?—Yes.

4126. Did you recognise most of them you saw there; did you know them as voters?—Yes, the biggest part of them was.

4127. Did Smith ask you to have anything?—He did.

4128. What did he say?—He asked what I would take to drink.

4129. What did you reply?—Ginger brandy.

4130. What room were you in?—The front room.

4131. Was any ginger brandy brought in?—Yes.

4132. In what?—In a glass to me.

4133. After that did you see more ginger brandy served out?—No.

4134. What were the other men doing in the room?—Drinking, and eating, and smoking.

4135. Did anybody else have ginger brandy with yourself?—Not that I know of.

4136. What were they drinking?—Rum and shrub.

4137. Did you have any rum and shrub.—I did.

4138. How much did you have?—I cannot say to a glass or two.

4139. Had you as much as you wanted?—Yes, as much as I minded.

4140. How many glasses of rum and shrub or other spirits and water did you see while you were there?—It was brought in in jugs.

4141. What was; the rum and shrub?—Yes.

4142.—Was the rum and shrub hot or cold?—It was not very cold.

4143. Do they make it with hot water?—No.

4144. It is pure spirit?—Yes.

4145. What size jugs was it brought in?—Quarts and pints.

4146. About how many?—They kept on filling them at different times whilst I was there.

4147. When they were empty?—Yes.

4148. Was anything brought in to eat?—Yes.

4149. What?—There was cheese, and bread, and ham, on the table, and you might help yourself to it.

4150. Were there loaves there?—Yes.

4151. What else?—There was cheese and there was a ham; I should think about 16 pounds.

4152. Did the people help themselves to this bread and cheese and ham?—Yes, they did.

4153. And drink?—Yes.

4154. Was there any beer?—I did not see any beer.

4155. Were there any cigars?—Yes.

4156. How many cigars?—As many as you wanted; I had as many as I wanted.

4157. How many was that?—I should think eight or nine.

4158. Were the cigars brought in in a box?—Mrs. Heron handed me what I had.

4159. Out of the box?—Yes.

4160. An ordinary cigar box?—Yes.

4161. While you were there in this room eating and drinking, was anything said about your vote?—There was.

4162. What did they say?—They wanted me to vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl.

4163. I believe as a fact you voted for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray?—Yes, I did not promise any one else.

4164. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Who was it wanted you to vote for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—James Smith and William Perry.

4165. Mr. Collins.] How long did you stay there this time?—About half an hour.

4166. During the whole of the time you were there, did you pay anything for what you eat, drank, or smoked?—I did not.

4167. Were you ever asked to?—No.

4168. Did you see any of the other people who were there pay anything, or asked to pay anything?—No.

4169. Did you call again the same day?—I did, in the evening.

4170. About what time?—I think about half-past twelve.

4171. That would be the Tuesday morning?—Yes.

4172. Who did you then see in the house?—I should think there were about ten there.

4173. Were those men voters to your knowledge?—Yes; all of them.

4174. What were those men doing there?—Drinking and smoking.

4175. What were they drinking?—Some one thing, and some the other.

4176. Beer, and spirits and water?—Spirits and water most of them, what sort I cannot say.

4177. Were they smoking?—Yes.

4178. What were they smoking?—Some pipes and some cigars.

4179. Did you have anything?—I did.

4180. What did you have?—A glass of gin and water.

4181. How many cigars?—Three.

4182. Who supplied you with a glass of gin and water, and cigars?—The landlady.

4183. When Mrs. Heron gave you the gin and water, did she say anything to you?—She did.

4184. What did she say?—She axed me whether I was her side or not.

4185. What did you say?—I said, "If I were not I should not be there."

4186. Do you know a man named Codrington?—I do.

4187. Did you see him there?—I did.

4188. How long did you remain the second time?—I should think about half an hour.

4189. During that time did you pay for anything you had?—No.

4190. Were you asked to?—No.

4191. Did you see any of the other persons in the house pay, or asked to pay for anything?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Edlin.

4192. You told Mrs. Heron the truth then, did you?—I believe so.

4193. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray.

4194. Had they canvassed you?—No; they never came to my house, and never axed me for my vote.

4195. Had you been canvassed for them?—No; never.

4196. Had you promised your vote?—I had promised my vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray.

4197. When

4197. When had you promised your vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray?—A fortnight before the election.

4198. And you always meant to keep your promise?—Yes.

4199. When Mrs. Heron asked you if you were her side, you knew which side she referred to?—I said that she asked me if I were her side; I said, if I were not I should not be there.

4200. That was true?—That was something.

4201. Was it true?—That is what I said to her.

4202. Was it true?—I do not know that.

4203. Did you tell her the truth?—I told her that.

4204. Why did you say that which was not true?—I do not know that I did say anything that was untrue.

4205. Have not you waked up to that yet?—No.

4206. You say you promised to vote for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray a fortnight before; you always intended to keep your promise, and you went on eating and drinking in this place?—Yes.

4207. And then when she told you if you were not on her side you had no business there, and you said you should not be there if you were not; was that true?—I do not know that it was.

4208. You told her a falsehood?—I said that.

4209. Cannot you let us know whether you told her a falsehood?—I do not know as I did.

4210. Which is the more truthful, what you said then, or what you have been saying now?—I promised Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray; I did not promise Mrs. Heron.

4211. And you tasted the gin and ginger-brandy and beer?—Yes.

4212. And you cut into the cheese?—Yes.

4213. And you went about for this purpose?—No, I did not go about for this purpose; I did not go into anybody's house besides those.

4214. When did you tell anybody about this?—About a fortnight ago.

4215. When did you get your subpoena?—Last Friday.

4216. You had heard that a good many people had been subpoenaed to come here?—I had not heard of no one myself.

4217. When you received your subpoena last Friday, you had not heard of anyone else being subpoenaed?—I do not know as I had.

4218. Had you heard of anybody that was coming here upon his subpoena?—I cannot say whether I did; I cannot say then I did not know, for I did; that was a neighbour of mine.

4219. What is his name?—Burton.

4220. You had heard of him?—Yes.

4221. He told you he was coming?—Yes.

4222. Did he tell you what he was going to have?—No, he never told me nothing about it.

4223. You thought you would like to come?—No, I would rather not.

4224. That is why you told somebody?—(No answer.)

C. Ames.

FANNY BAKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

4225. Do you live in Barclay-street?—Yes.

4226. I believe you are servant to Mrs. Cooksley?—Yes.

4227. On the Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of the election week, were you assisting Mrs. Heron, the landlady of the "Queen's Head"?—Yes.

4228. The nomination day, the election day, and the day after the election day?—Yes.

4229. First, I take you to the Monday—were there many people in the house on the Monday?—There were a great many people there.

4230. About how many people were there?—I could not tell you that, there were so many; the house was very full indeed.

4231. Is there a front room there?—Yes, the parlour.

4232. Were there many people in this parlour?—Yes, it was quite full.

4233. Do you know whether they were voters or not?—I do not know.

4234. Did you hear what they were talking about?—No, I did not hear anything of their conversation.

4235. Was anything taken into the room for them to eat?—Yes; ham, and bread and cheese.

4236. Was it a large ham?—A middle-sized ham; I did not take it in.

4237. Did you see it there?—Yes, I put it away afterwards.

4238. It was not a large ham then?—No; it was nearly gone.

4239. Now about the drink; what did these gentlemen drink?—Brandy and water, and gin and water, and beer.

4240. What sort of spirits do you remember?—Brandy and water and gin and water.

4241. What sort of brandy; do you know what ginger brandy is?—This was light.

4242. Some spirit?—Yes.

4243. How were the spirits taken into the room?—On a little tray, four or five at a time.

4244. About how many did you see taken in, or did you take in?—I did not take in any myself.

4245. How many did you see taken in?—There were a great many taken in; I cannot tell you how many.

4246. A great number of glasses?—Yes.

4247. During the whole of that day, the Monday, did you see anything that was taken into the room paid for?—Not anything; I did not see any money taken; I did not take any, nor did I see any pass.

4248. Until what time in the evening did you stay?—I slept there.

4249. What time did you go to bed?—I really cannot say what time I went to bed on the Monday.

4250. Was it late or early?—It was late.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] If you propose to make anything of her evidence that she saw no money pass, you must ask what department she was in.

4251. Mr. Collins.] What part of the place were you in?—I was in the kitchen, and I was to and fro in the bar for the drink.

4252. When in the bar for drink, did you see people supplied in the bar with drink?—Yes.

4253. When you saw these people in the bar supplied with drink, did you see them pay any money?—No.

F. Baker. 4254. Did you hear the person who gave them the drink ask them for money?—No.

25 February 1869. 4255. Who supplied the drink?—Mr. Heron.

4256. The landlord?—Yes.

4257. Now I will take the Tuesday; were there many people there on the polling day?—Yes; we could scarcely pass through with the drink.

4258. Was there anything to eat and drink that day?—Yes, bread and cheese and ham.

4259. What part of the house were you in on the Tuesday?—I was just the same on the Tuesday as on the Monday.

4260. In and out of the bar?—Yes, and the kitchen.

4261. Did you see people supplied with spirits at the bar that day?—Yes.

4262. Did you see any person pay the landlord, or hear the landlord ask for the money when they asked for the spirits?—No, I did not.

4263. Do you remember, on the polling day, Mrs. Heron, the landlady, saying anything to her husband about the quantity they were drawing?—I heard her say, "Oh, Denny, why do you draw so much drink, you will not get paid for it"; and in answer to her question he said Mr. Vanderbyl—

Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] I object to this; this is not evidence.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] So far as the conversation between husband and wife goes, showing that they were giving credit for somebody, it is admissible; but it does not prove who had been ordering it.

Mr. Serjeant Parry.] I do not suggest that Mr. Vanderbyl himself told this landlord that he would pay this, but it shows that the impression on the landlord's mind was that some one would pay him connected with Mr. Vanderbyl.

4264. Mr. Collins.] About the middle of the day, on the polling day, did you hear voters say anything about the state of the poll?—No.

4265. Not at any time on the polling day?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ELIJAH PADDEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

E. Padden. 4266. Do you live in Monmouth-street in this town?—Yes.

4267. You are a striker by trade?—Yes.

4268. Do you remember going to the "Queen's Head" on the afternoon of the day of the nomination?—I do.

4269. Were there many persons there?—Yes, there were several persons there.

4270. Did you know any of the persons who were there, whether they were voters or not?—I knowed two or three of them that were there was voters.

4271. Was John Willis with you?—John Willis was there.

4272. While you were there, did other people come in also afterwards?—Yes, they kept coming in.

4273. And going out?—Yes.

4274. Were the persons present drinking?—Yes.

4275. Was this at the bar?—Yes.

4276. What were they drinking?—Rum, mostly.

4277. Were they drinking it neat or mixed?—Neat.

4278. Were there other spirits besides rum?—Yes.

4279. What else?—Brandy.

4280. And gin, I think?—Yes.

4281. Did you see how the rum was brought in; how was it brought in; was it drawn from a tap, or how was it brought in?—They had it in in a half-gallon can.

4282. Was it poured out of the half-gallon can into glasses for people to drink?—Yes.

4283. Did you hand some of it round yourself?—No, not the rum.

4284. What did you hand round?—I handed round a quart of gin, and beer.

4285. You partook of all the spirits there, did not you?—Yes.

4286. Were there cigars there while you were there?—Yes.

4287. Did you smoke a cigar?—Yes.

4288. How long were you there?—About an hour and a half or two hours.

4289. During that time did you drink freely or not?—Yes.

4290. Several times I mean?—Yes.

4291. You partook of what there was; the rum, brandy, gin, and cigars?—Yes.

4292. Did you pay for anything you had?—Nothing.

4293. Did you see anyone pay at the bar?—No.

4294. Were you asked to pay by anyone?—No.

4295. Were you a voter?—Yes.

4296. For whom did you vote?—Westropp and Gray.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. CHARLES LE FEBURE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

Mr. C. Le Febure. 4297. ARE you a clerk in the employment of the Somerset and Dorset Railway Company now?—Yes.

4298. Were you here about the election time last year?—Yes.

4299. Do you remember the election day?—Yes.

4300. Were you staying at the "Queen's Head"?—Yes.

4301. That is Mr. Heron's house?—Yes.

4302. Were you there the night before the poll?—Yes.

4303. I believe Mr. Heron asked you to help him?—If I were disengaged.

4304. Did you help him that night or the next morning?—The next morning.

4305. When did you begin to help him?—I should say about between nine and ten o'clock; I cannot tell exactly the time.

4306. How did you help him; did you draw beer beer and spirits?—I drew beer and some spirits.

4307. From nine till two or three o'clock did you continue acting in that way?—I cannot say exactly whether it was three o'clock; it was half-past two or three.

4308. Did you, during that time, draw a large quantity of beer and spirits?—Yes.

4309. Were you drawing constantly?—Very nearly.

4310. How much do you think you may have drawn of beer?—It is hard for me to judge, but I was at work as hard as I could go at the engine.

4311. Was this all at the bar?—In the bar.

4312. Was the house full or not during the whole day; people coming in and out?—People were coming in and out during all the day. The bar was pretty full from time to time.

4313. Can you tell at all from the conversation that was going on, whether anything was said about the election; not conversation merely; but was anything said about Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—Yes; they were saying they hoped that Kinglake and Vanderbyl would win, as far as I could judge; but I was so busy that I could not pay much attention to the conversation going on.

4314. You did hear that?—Yes, that was the general feeling; they hoped that they would win.

4315. Were boxes of cigars opened?—Yes.

4316. Did you open them, or see them opened?—They were opened; I did not open any of them.

4317. Did you see people taking cigars?—I saw cigars handed to them.

4318. Without their asking for them?—There was an order given by somebody, I do not know who, to give some cigars. I am a stranger in the place.

4319. These people at the bar having spirits, and beer, and cigars, did you see them pay for any?—I received some money, not very much, which I handed to Mr. Heron.

4320. How much in the whole day do you think you received?—Between two shillings and three shillings.

4321. Would that have anything like paid for the beer and spirits that you saw served out?—Oh, no.

4322. Can you give us an idea of the quantity in money of beer and spirits that was handed out?—I have not the least idea, because there are other rooms in the house besides the one I was in.

4323. Did you see persons drinking and smoking who did not pay at all?—I cannot swear whether they did or not pay; I could not swear whether they paid Mr. or Mrs. Heron.

4324. Did you see anybody pay besides the two shillings or three shillings you have mentioned?—Not to my recollection; they may have paid in the other rooms.

4325. What was the quantity of cigars handed round; how many boxes do you think?—About five, or six, or seven.

4326. What was the class of men that were there?—There were some very respectable men, generally of the working class of men; they appeared to be very respectable men.

4327. Can you tell us whether any of those respectable men who were there were intoxicated before they went away?—I cannot swear that they were intoxicated; they appeared a little fresh.

4328. Did many of them appear a little fresh, or only a few?—A good many of them.

4329. Can you tell at all from what occurred when they went away whether they went towards the poll?—I heard a good many say that they would go up town to go and see about going to the poll.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

4330. You were very busy getting beer out of the cellar?—I was not in the cellar; it was drawn by a pump from the cellar; an engine.

4331. That was more your part of the business than looking after the money?—Yes.

4332. Where you got the money, was that when you handed out something to somebody over the bar?—I handed it to Mrs. Heron, who was next to me.

4333. She would have the money?—Yes.

4334. Some people you served you got money from you say?—Yes.

4335. And you handed it to her?—Yes.

4336. You were busy pumping at this engine?—Yes.

4337. You did not take much notice of what went on?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

4338. Do you know the "New Inn"?—No; I was in there only once when I was at Bridgwater.

4339. You know where it is?—Yes.

4340. In going from the poll to the "Queen's Head," would persons have to pass the "New Inn" or not?—Yes; it depends upon what polling-booth they went to.

4341. Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] That is rather vague; there are three polling-places?—Yes.

4342. It would depend upon which they went to?—Yes; there was one between the "Queen's Head" and the "New Inn."

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that he did not propose to offer any evidence whatever respecting undue influence.

[Adjourned till To-morrow, at Ten o'clock.

Friday, 26th February 1869.

JAMES BANFIELD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

J. Banfield.
26 February
1869.

4343. WHAT are you?—A Farmer.
4344. Where do you reside?—North Petherton.
4345. Is that close by here?—The adjoining parish.
4346. Are you a voter for the borough?—No.
4347. Do you know the “Duke of Wellington” inn or public-house here?—I do.
4348. Have you been in the habit of frequenting it?—Most market days.
4349. And on other days too, have not you?—No.
4350. Never but on market days?—Never but on market days.
4351. Do you know a person of the name of Dudderidge?—No; I know one Dudderidge at Colthurst’s and Simmons’ brickyard.
4352. Do not you know a Dudderidge at Brown’s brickyard?—No.
4353. James Dudderidge?—I do not.
4354. Thomas Dudderidge?—Neither one.
4355. You do not know a Dudderidge, you say, at Brown’s brickyard?—No.
4356. Do you know Brown’s brickyard?—Yes.
4357. Do you know anyone there?—I do not know that I know anyone there.
4358. If I tell you there is no Dudderidge at Simmons’, as a foreman of the brickyard, is not the Dudderidge you know foreman at Brown’s?—Not that I am aware of.
4359. You do not know whether he is or not?—No, I do not know that he is.
4360. How long have you known him?—I do not see him once in six months.
4361. Have you seen Dudderidge this morning?—Not to my knowledge.
4362. Look at that gentleman with his arm on his face?—I do not know him by his countenance.
4363. Did you ever see Dudderidge or any other man pay any money to any persons on the polling-day at the last election?—I was not in the town of Bridgwater on the polling-day; Neither on the nomination day.
4364. Have you ever said that you did?—No.
4365. You understand the nature of an oath, and I do not suppose you would tell a story to any one that was not true?—Not for 50 l.
4366. You mean you would not for any sum?—No, I would not.
4367. Have you talked about the election, and told people what you saw by way of a joke?—Not whatever I saw or heard at the election, I never have.
4368. Do you know Robert Bussell?—I do.
4369. Do you know Shattop?—Yes.
4370. Do you know Moat?—I do.
4371. Do you know Hawkins?—Yes.
4372. Did you tell Bussell, in the presence of these three men that I have named, that you were at the “Duke of Wellington” inn on the day of polling?—I did not.

4373. Did you say that the whole of the rooms seemed full, apparently of voters?—No.

4374. And that there was drinking on all sides?—No.

4375. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] You are not now asked whether that was the fact, but whether you told that to Bussell?—I never told Robert Bussell that I was there on the day of the election.

4376. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did you say you saw Thomas Dudderidge there?—I did not.

4377. Did you say to Bussell in the presence of those men that the drink that was being served out at the “Duke of Wellington” was paid for by Thomas Dudderidge?—No.

4378. Do you know a place called Skittles’ Alley or Skittle Alley close by the “Duke of Wellington;” is there a skittle alley by the “Duke of Wellington”?—I was never in it in my life.

4379. Is there a skittle alley by the “Duke of Wellington”?—I would not swear there was one, or swear there was not one.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Are you quite certain that you have the witness whom you meant to call?

4380. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Yes, my Lord, and I feel I am not likely to make much out of him. (To the Witness.) You say you never were in the skittle alley, and do not know whether there is a skittle alley there or not?—No.

4381. Did not you say you saw 30 or 40 men in the skittle alley at the “Duke of Wellington,” and that Thomas Dudderidge was there with them?—No.

4382. Did you say to those persons—I do not ask you whether it is true or whether it is false; I simply ask you, did you say to Robert Bussell in the presence of Shattop, Moat, and Hawkins, that you saw Thomas Dudderidge give money to those men?—I did not.

4383. Did you say to them that you heard him say this was his birthday, and that you saw him give them 1 l. a piece?—I did not.

4384. Did you say after he had given them the money he said, “Now you will all remember my birthday”?—No.

4385. Did you say or not that the men were afterwards in procession marched to the poll?—No.

4386. Nothing of the sort?—Nothing of the sort; I tell you candidly I was not in the town that day.

4387. That is not the point; did you say this or not?—I did not.

4388. You say you never saw Dudderidge, and never saw anything of this kind going on; but my question to you is, did you say to those persons that you did?—I did not.

4389. Mr.

4389. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Did you see Robert Bussell in company with those people?—I did. I was there myself. There were seven of us there, my Lord.

4390. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] When was this?—The Thursday after the election, the 19th of November.

4391. You did see Bussell with those persons?—Bussell rode with me and Hawkins.

4392. Is Hawkins a friend of yours?—He is a farmer.

4393. In your neighbourhood?—No, he is in a different parish.

4394. Is Thursday market-day?—No, Wednesday.

4395. How came you to tell me you were never in the town except on market-days?—I was here the Wednesday.

4396. You have got off the balance?—You asked me whether I went to the “Duke of Wellington,” and I said, “only on market-days.”

4397. You do come to Bridgwater on other days than market-days?—Sometimes, when I have occasion.

4398. Were you at the “Duke of Wellington” with Bussell?—No; I was at Dunmer with Bussell.

4399. Have you ever said to any one that this statement was not true; have you been challenged with making this statement by any one?—By Robert Bussell.

4400. When did Bussell come and speak to you about having made this statement to him?—I think last Wednesday week.

4401. What did you tell him, that you were not in the town that day?—Not the day of the election.

4402. You said that?—Yes.

ROBERT PROLE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

4415. You are the Landlord of the “Sheep Market” inn, Bridgwater?—Yes.

4416. And a voter for the borough?—Yes.

4417. At the last election, did you vote for Westropp and Gray?—Yes.

4418. On the polling day, were you at the “Duke of Wellington” inn?—I went in about half-past 12 to a quarter to 1, and had a glass of beer.

4419. Were there many people in the inn at that time?—I stood fronting the bar, and took a glass of beer through the small opening; Mrs. Cole handed me the beer.

4420. Were there people there?—There were people sitting in the bar; who they were I could not say.

4421. While you were there, did some one come down stairs, from the direction of the stairs?—No, I did not see any one, to the best of my knowledge, come down stairs at all.

4422. Did some one inquire for the landlord?—Some one inquired for the landlord.

4423. Who was that man?—I could not tell; I do not know his name.

4424. Think a moment; do you know that man?—I do not; I could not pretend to say, not at present I could not; but I knew him from recollection at the time; but as for recollecting who he is I cannot say.

4425. Did you know his name at the time?—Yes.

4426. Who was the man; do you mean to say

4403. Were you in the town the day after the election?—I was on the Wednesday.

4404. On the Wednesday and Thursday after the election?—Yes; I passed through the town the second day after the election.

4405. Did you make any statement to Bussell on the Wednesday?—I did not.

4406. Not of any kind?—No.

4407. Nor to Mr. Trevor?—Not that day; I have since; Mr. Trevor came to my house, and made inquiries what I had heard, and whether it was correct; I told Trevor what occurred, and nothing more; I said, “Mr. Trevor, I tell you the whole truth, and what I shall speak when I come to be called.”

4408. Did you say anything to Mr. Trevor about 70 men being treated with a glass of grog?—I was told that the day after the election.

4409. Who by?—By Mrs. Coles.

Mr. James objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] It is not evidence, but it may be material for after proceedings; that is the reason why Brother Parry has a right to ask it.

4410. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did you tell Mr. Trevor anything about 70 men being treated to a glass of grog each at the “Duke of Wellington” on the day of the election?—I did; that I was told by Mrs. Coles.

4411. Who is Mrs. Coles?—The landlady.

4412. About 70 men, is that true?—I cannot say.

4413. Is it true that you were told that?—Yes.

4414. Did you tell Mr. Trevor that those electors did not vote till after 12 o'clock?—I did, from Mrs. Coles.

you do not know who he was?—No, I could not pretend to say who he was.

4427. Have you any idea who he was?—No; he came in and inquired for the landlord.

4428. Listen to me, and do not run on like that; when did you forget his name; how long after that day?—I did not take no memorandum.

4429. That is not an answer to my question; when did you forget his name?—I cannot say; I did not think anything more about him; I did not know I was going to be called, or I might mind his name.

4430. Did you know him well?—No, I could not say I did.

4431. How long had you known the man?—I might have known him by sight.

4432. How long had you known him?—I cannot say; I might know you by sight, but not think anything about you after.

4433. Who did the man speak to?—He inquired for Mr. Coles, the landlord; and he came, and they walked out arm-in-arm to the front door.

4434. Did he say anything about voters?—No, I did not hear nothing about voters.

4435. Have you not said that a man came down stairs, or from the direction of the stairs; a man whose name you knew, but that you would not tell until you got into the witness-box?—No.

4436. Nothing of the sort?—No, I have not said the words to no one; I have not been questioned by no one.

J. Banfield.

26 February
1869.

R. Prole.

R. Prole. 4437. Did the man say to Coles, the landlord, "If you do not do something, I must let my men out"?—No, he did not; Mr. Coles, the landlord, said, "You must see about moving, or doing something, it is no good keeping them penned up no longer;" what he meant I cannot say.

ROBERT BUSSELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

R. Bussell. 4439. You have been examined before?—Yes.
4440. You are the bailiff of the county court?—Yes.

4441. Do you remember being at the "Duke of Wellington" on the polling-day?—Not at the "Duke of Wellington"; outside.

4442. I meant near?—Yes.

4443. By the "Duke of Wellington" public-house?—Yes.

4444. Do you know a person of the name of Thomas Dudderidge?—I do.

4445. Who is he?—The foreman in Messrs. Brown and Co.'s employment.

4446. Those gentlemen are well known here. They are large brickmakers; they employ a great number of men?—Yes.

4447. Did you see any men in the "Duke of Wellington"?—No.

4448. You were not inside?—No.

4449. Did you see any men belonging to the brickfield whom you knew to be in the employment of Brown and Co. under Dudderidge?—I counted 42.

4450. Where?—Coming from the "Duke of Wellington" passage in couples.

4451. Did you know them to be voters?—I knew a great number of them; they were mostly of Provident-place.

4452. What time of day was this?—It was from two to half-past.

4453. You saw these men coming from the passage; may I call that passage Skittle-alley?—It is the way into the residence, and also into the skittle-alley.

4454. Was Thomas Dudderidge with the men?—He stood at the door.

4455. You say you saw these men coming out of this passage; in what direction did they go?—They went to the polling booth.

4456. Did you see them go to the polling booth; was it near enough for you to see?—It was close by; and I immediately proceeded to the "Clarence" hotel.

4457. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] You say Thomas Dudderidge stood at the door and they went to the polling booth; do you mean Dudderidge went with them, or only the men?—Only the men.

4458. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] The polling booth is really quite close to the "Duke of Wellington"?—Within 60 yards.

4459. Did you see them go to the booth?—I did; and I afterwards saw some in St. Mary's-street booth; some of the same men that lived in another division of the town.

4460. I do not know whether you took sufficient notice to say whether the men had been drinking or not?—I did not.

4461. Is Henry Chapman Bussell, the keeper of the "Anchor" inn, a relative of yours?—A brother.

4462. Have you missed him from the town for some time?—I have.

4463. When did you last see him in the town,

4438. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What did he say?—I heard the landlord, Coles, say to the man, "You must do something, or else it is no good for me to keep them here any longer; we must let them go." Some similar words to those.

as near as you can recollect?—Just previous to Christmas.

4464. Do you know whether he took an active part in the election for Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—He did.

4465. Did you at any time see him canvassing with them?—No, I did not; not at this election.

4466. At any time have you?—In previous elections; but not at this.

4467. Canvassing for the Liberal party?—Yes.

4468. You have seen him canvassing for the Liberal party at previous elections?—I have.

4469. Have you seen him at all in company with Messrs. Reed and Cook, or Mr. Barham, or Mr. Lovibond?—I have seen him with each of the gentlemen.

4470. During this election?—During this election.

4471. How often do you think?—I cannot say.

4472. Perhaps you can give an idea; more than once have you seen him?—Several times, with different gentlemen.

4473. During the election I am speaking of?—Since the addresses were issued.

4474. You mean by Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—Yes.

4475. Have you seen him canvassing with them?—No, I have not.

4476. Have you seen him attending any public meetings with Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—I have.

4477. Where?—In this hall.

4478. During the election; before the day of the nomination?—It would be before the nomination day.

4479. Have you seen him attending more than one meeting with them?—Every one.

4480. How many meetings have you seen him at with the candidates, Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—I should think it would be four or five meetings, but I cannot state the number; it was every meeting that was held in the hall in the Liberal cause.

4481. And Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl were there?—Yes, they were.

4482. Did he himself take any part, or was he a mere silent spectator?—He was not a silent spectator.

4483. What did he do at those meetings?—He took the leading of the hurrahing.

4484. How?—With his Orange colours.

4485. Was it a pocket handkerchief?—A pocket handkerchief.

4486. What used he to do?—To wave his pocket handkerchief; he would wave it and hurrah.

4487. A sort of fogleman?—Yes.

4488. Did you see him on the day of the nomination?—Yes.

4489. Where was he standing as fogleman; was he on the platform or in the body of the meeting?—Once at that corner (pointing to where his Lordship sat), but generally at that end.

4490. In

4490. In the gallery?—In the centre.

4491. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I presume the woodwork has been altered; but is there a platform here always?—It is the same, only that bench has been put across.

4492. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did you see him on the day of nomination?—I did.

4493. Where?—On the hustings.

4494. I believe the nomination took place in the Corn Market?—It did.

4495. Outside?—Outside.

4496. Was he then on the hustings with them?—He was rose above the hustings; he was on the top of the iron railings, holding on to a lamp-post.

4497. Did Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl see him as well as anyone else?—Every one could see him.

4498. What was he doing when the votes were taken; I mean the show of hands?—He ordered the people in the Liberal cause to stand back, the same as I did on the Conservative side; that is, he shouted out, "Stand back, stand back;" I did the same on the Conservative side.

4499. Had he boards in his hand with the names of Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl upon them?—Yes; "Hands up." "Hands down."

4500. Large placards that everyone could see?—Yes; with the words on them, "Hands up." "Hands down."

4501. Is the mayor the returning officer?—Yes.

4502. The returning officer asked those in favour of Mr. Kinglake to hold up their hands?—He did; Mr. Kinglake's name was then presented, "Hands up."

4503. He presented Mr. Kinglake's name upon the placard with "Hands up" upon it?—Yes.

4504. Did he do the same service for Mr. Vanderbyl?—It was done on both.

4505. Mr. James.] Did he?—He did; I did the same on the other side.

4506-7. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] You say you have seen your brother upon former elections for many years; I may take it that Henry Chapman Bussell, the landlord of the "Anchor" beershop, or whatever it is, has been an active partisan of the Liberal party?—It is not a beershop; there is not a more respectable house in the town of Bridgwater than my brother keeps, and it is not a beershop; I will not allow it to be called a beershop; it is a respectable house.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] It may be material to show the position in life of Henry Chapman Bussell.

R. Bussell.
26 February
1869.

4508. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Your brother keeps a tavern, or inn?—It is an inn; he is a licensed victualler, and he is also a shipowner.

4509. Do you know who supplied those boards with "Hands up." "Hands down"?—I believe they were supplied through the town clerk for both the Conservatives and the Liberals.

4510. Besides those boards on the day of the nomination, was your brother waiving his handkerchief occasionally?—He was the one that led, as I led on the opposite side.

4511. Led the cheers?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

4512. You and your brother have continued on very good terms, have you not?—We have not.

4513. Have you quarrelled?—It was years ago; we never speak now; we had not previously to the last committee, when Mr. Westropp was rejected in London.

4514. I only want to test your knowledge of your brother's position; from your knowledge of him before your quarrel, and since you have known him to be a very active political partisan?—Ever since Mr. Kinglake has been in the borough.

4515. That was in the year 1857?—I believe so; I acted then with my brother.

4516. As far as you know, he was a sincere and active Liberal in politics?—He was for Mr. Kinglake ever since he has been in the town.

4517. As to his means; you have said he keeps a considerable inn, and does a good business there?—He does.

4518. And also to your knowledge he is the owner of parts of several ships?—He is.

4519. Have you known him to be a person with money at command?—He had.

4520. He has some house property, I am told?—He had.

4521. In consequence of what you have told us, you have had no communication with him, I suppose?—I have not since the last petition in London.

4522. That was in the spring of 1866?—It was, I believe.

Mr. FRANCIS DUNN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

4523. ARE you a clerk?—I am.

4524. In the Telegraph Office?—I am.

4525. Which office is it; there are two, I understand?—The United Kingdom.

4526. Do you know Henry Chapman Bussell? I do.

4527. Is the United Kingdom Telegraph Office close by Bussell's?—About 20 yards.

4528. In the same street?—It is only a house apart from it.

4529. During the election at any time, neither upon the day of the nomination nor the polling day, did you see Bussell; did he come to your office?—I will not be positive that he came to the office, but I saw him.

4530. My question is confined entirely to whether you saw him at the telegraph office or not?—Not at the office, I did not see him.

4531. Did you receive messages from Bussell, or apparently from him, on the day of the election?—I do not believe we did on the day of the election.

4532. On the day before?—We did a few days before; I could not say the day before.

4533. Did Mr. Bussell come to the office a few days before the election?—Yes.

4534. With messages?—I could not say whether with messages or with a message.

4535. A few days before he came with a message?—Yes.

4536. A few days before the election, and during the election, do you know whether he came with more than one message?—I should not like to say; I cannot remember, there were so many brought in.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I presume there is a record kept of all messages delivered; that would of course enable him to speak to them; they must be produced.

M

4537. Mr.

Mr.
F. Dunn.

Mr. 4537. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Who is the tele-
F. Dunn. graph clerk?—The manager's representative is here.

26 February
 1869.

Mr. EDWARD GREGORY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

Mr. E. 4539. WHAT is your position in the United Gregory. Kingdom Telegraph Company?—I am chief clerk in the manager's department.

4540. In London?—In London.

4541-2. In answer to a subpoena, do you produce certain telegraphic messages you received on or about the time of the last election here?—My instructions are only to produce those telegraphic messages on the express order of his Lordship.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] They must be produced, only those that bear upon the election; but those that bear upon the election must be produced.

4543. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] I cannot give you any particular messages, but look from the 12th of November up to the day of the election, which was the 17th, the polling day, and see if there are any messages purporting to come from Henry Chapman Bussell to anyone, and if not, from anybody else to anyone, relating to the election. Have you an abstract book that would assist you?—We have an abstract of the names of the senders and receivers of messages, but not as to the contents.

4544. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Probably you had better see from that whether any messages came at that time to or from Henry Chapman Bussell: (The Witness handed the abstract to Mr. Collins to look through.)

4545. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Will you look from the 12th of November to the 17th of November?—Most of the messages were on the day of the election.

4546. Look on the 14th, Bussell to Smith?—
 Here is a message from Bussell (handing the same to the learned Counsel).

4547. Have you the paper from which this was written?—It was written directly by pencil.
 (The telegram was read, as follows :) "Bussell to Captain Smith, Swansea." "Burrows offers
 5s. 6d. for culm, for Cork; if he can get you
 5s. 9d., fix with him."

4548. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Have you the reply to that?—I see none.

4549. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Are you certain that up to the 14th of November, inclusive of that day, there is no other telegram you can point to or give us any information about from Bussell?—I see none.

4550. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Look at the 15th, 16th, and 17th?—We do not open on Sundays. Here is a message from Bussell to Captain Luckes, of Taunton.

Mr. Serjeant Parry read the same, as follows, dated November the 16th:—

"Bussell, Bridgwater, to Captain Luckes of Bridgwater.

"West Dock, Cardiff.

"You and any other captain that is there, or any other voter, must come home before noon to-morrow.—Mind Meaker."

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that there was 4538. Who is it that produces the telegrams?

 —I believe Mr. Gregory.

a voter of the name of Josiah Meaker, Bristol-road, who voted for Mr. Kinglake and
 Mr. Vanderbyl.

4551. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Was there any answer to that?—I do not find that there was;
 but I come upon another immediately afterwards
 (handing the same to the learned Serjeant).

Mr. Serjeant Parry read the same, as follows, dated November the 16th:—

"Bussell, Bridgwater, to Captain Jones, 'William the Fourth,' Southampton.

"If Tarr can be here by noon to-morrow, and he is right for us, let him come."

Mr. Serjeant Parry stated that Tarr was a voter, and voted for Kinglake and Vanderbyl.

4552. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Have you any others from Bussell on the 16th?—No others from Bussell on the 16th.

4553. Have you any on the 17th?—I have some here giving the results of the state of the poll, and making a few remarks.

4554. First, I wish to know whether there are any others from Bussell?—There are no others
 from Bussell on the 17th.

4555. There is one on the 18th to Jones, of Southampton?—Before I come to that, here is one from Bussell to Captain Smith, of Swansea.
 I think it is a business message, "Shall the mate bring down another man with him, as he can ship one.—Reply."

4556. Now look for one from Bussell to Jones, Southampton, November the 18th?—I do not see one.

4557-8. Just look over those telegrams relating to the election?—I have folded down some that relate to the election; there are several messages ordering people to come up, and so on.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Instead of having them read, let Mr. Collins look at those you have folded down, and he will say which of them requires further inquiry.

Mr. Serjeant Parry proposed to read a telegram from Mr. Kinglake to a relative of his at Taunton.

Mr. Justice Blackburn stated that it would be better to reserve this until Mr. Kinglake was examined.

4559. Mr. Serjeant Parry (to the Witness).] Would you have the original messages sent to London?—Yes, those are the original messages as handed in at Bridgwater. Those are the actual written messages as written by the senders.

4560. There is another telegram, I believe, to which I must call your attention, but I do not want you further, I think, at this moment.

[The Witness withdrew.]

FRANCIS DUNN, re called; further Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

4561. DID you receive messages for Mr. Bussell, which you took to the committee-rooms at the "Globe"?—No.

4562. Did you receive messages for any persons on the day of the election, or the day of the nomination, which you took to the meeting at the committee-room in the "Globe"?—Yes.

4563. You had occasion to go to the committee-room?—Yes, with messages.

4564. Was that the nomination day or the election day?—The election day.

4565. Whom did you see there?—I saw several people there.

4566. Did you see Mr. Bussell there?—I did.

4567. Henry Chapman Bussell?—Yes.

4568. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Where did you see him?—In the committee-room.

4569. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did you see him at any time on that day in the committee-room when the candidates were present?—I could not say the candidates were present.

4570. Do you know Messrs. Reed and Cooke?—Yes.

4571. Were they there?—Yes.

4572. Do you know Mr. Lovibond?—Yes.

4573. Was he there?—Yes.

4574. Do you know Mr. Barham?—I know Mr. Barham.

4575. Was he there?—I cannot say he was.

4576. Had you occasion to go more than once?—I had.

4577. How many times?—Well, I should say three or four times.

4578. How many times did you see Bussell there?—Only once.

4579. Do you know Mr. Andrew Allan?—I do.

4580. Did you see him there at any time?—I cannot say that I did.

4581. Do you know Mr. Jarman?—I do know him, but I did not see him there.

Mr. Justice Blackburn directed that the two original messages of November the 16th, should be handed to the Witness.

4582. Mr. Serjeant Parry (to the Witness).] Just look at those two documents (handing two documents to the Witness); can you see by any mark or from memory whether they passed through your hands?—I sent one of those myself, and Mr. Squires sent the other.

4583. Who is Mr. Squires?—A clerk.

4584. That you can remember?—Yes.

4585. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Do you see by some mark on it that it was sent by you?—Well, we put our initials on it.

4586. That initial of course tells you that it passed through your hands; are you able, either from the handwriting or from memory, to say who brought it?—I can tell this from memory perfectly well.

4587. Who brought that?—Mr. Bussell himself.

4588. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Is that the one to Captain Luckes?—Yes.

4589. That you say Bussell brought himself?—He did.

4590. The other one was taken by Mr. Squire?—Yes, I did not take it or send it.

4591. Is Mr. Squire here?—He is; they are both in his writing.

4592. You say you only saw Bussell once at the committee-room?—Only once.

4593. You say that Reed and Cooke and Mr. Lovibond were there?—Yes.

4594. Were they conversing together?—They were.

4595. Did you hear what they were talking about?—I did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

4596. In relation to that telegram sent by Mr. Kinglake, the time appears on the face of it; did you put the time correctly down when the message was sent?—Yes.

4597. I suppose that when you were in the committee-room there were a great many people in the committee-room?—There was.

4598. What time of the day was that?—I really could not say.

4599. I presume, as usual, there were people going in and out; whoever took an interest in the cause, and wished to go in, could go in?—I suppose so; I really could not say whether they was allowed to go in or not; but I had a message, and I thought that was my passport.

4600. You walked in?—I walked in; I was asked going upstairs where I was going; and I said I had a message.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Serjeant Parry proposed then to call Squires, a clerk in the telegraph office, to prove the sending of the other telegram.

Mr. Justice Blackburn said that he believed this point was not disputed.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood said he would admit the other telegram.

CHARLES HALLIDAY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

4601. You live at Cornhill, Bridgwater, I believe?—I do.

4602. On the day of the polling, the 17th of November, did you go to the "Globe" hotel?—I went over the bridge.

4603. Did you go to the "Globe"?—I called there.

4604. At what time of the morning was that?—That was somewhere about ten o'clock.

4605. I believe at that time you saw there were a number of people there, and you only just went in and came out again?—There were a great many about the bridge; and I called in at the "Globe," and I was there about five minutes, and I walked out.

4606. Did you go there again a little before 12 o'clock?—I did.

4607. Is there a large stable attached to the "Globe"?—A coach-house and stable.

4608. Were there any people in the stable or the coach-house?—I saw two gentlemen walk into

F. Dunn.
26 February
1869.

C. Halliday.

C. Halliday. into the coach-house from the entrance; I was then in the road.

26 February
1869.

4609. Who were those gentleman?—Mr. Mogg and Mr. Henry Nichols, and Mr. Reed, and Mr. Cooke; I believe Mr. Reed was not present, but Mr. Cooke was.

4610. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Then there were three gentlemen, and not two?—Three.

4611. Mr. Collins.] The Mr. Cooke you mean is that gentleman (pointing to a person in Court), a partner in the firm of Reed and Cooke?—Quite so.

4612. Did you afterwards see anybody else go into the coach-house?—I did not.

4613. Did you look in the coach-house?—I did not.

4614. Did you see anybody else there at all?—Afterwards?

4615. Yes. Did you see anybody go into the stable or coach-house?—No, I did not.

4616. Do you know Mr. Lovibond?—I do.

4617. Was he there on that day at the "Globe"?—I saw him walk down over the bridge with Mr. Sealy arm-in-arm.

4618. At what time?—That was somewhere about half-past 12 o'clock, I should think. They separated at the "Globe," and Mr. Lovibond went into the "Globe," and Mr. Sealy returned.

4619. After you saw that, did you return to the "Globe" again?—I did not go into the "Globe" again.

4620. Soon afterwards, did you go back to the "Globe"?—No; I went into the "Globe" and remained there about five minutes, and I came out, and I went over to Mr. Waddon's.

4621. Mr. Waddon's shop is opposite, I believe?—Mr. Waddon's is opposite.

4622. And then I believe it was that you saw Mr. Sealy and Mr. Lovibond?—Just before I saw them.

4623. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Then, if I understand you aright, you went into the "Globe" twice before you had seen Mr. Lovibond?—I had been into the "Globe" twice before I saw Mr. Lovibond.

4624. Did you go in a third time after you saw him?—No, I did not.

4625. Mr. Collins.] At any time did you try to go up the stairs to the large room?—Yes.

4626. When was that?—That was just afterwards.

4627. Just after you saw Mr. Lovibond?—Yes.

4628. Then you misunderstood my Lord's question?—

4629. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] You must have gone into the "Globe" a third time if you did that?—I think it was after I had been in the second time that I walked upstairs, and that I met Mr. Cooke.

4630. You have told us, as I understood, that you went in about 10 o'clock to the "Globe Inn," and stayed for five minutes and came out; is that right?—Yes.

4631. Then, I understand you to tell us again that you went in a little before 12 o'clock, and saw three gentlemen going into the coach-house; is that right?—That is quite right.

4632. Then, you told us that you saw Mr. Lovibond walk up and go into the "Globe" about half-past 12 o'clock. With regard to what you are now going to say about going upstairs; is that supposed to have happened at the time when you saw them going into a coach-house, or at a subsequent time?—Subsequently.

4633. Then you went into the "Globe" again after seeing Mr. Lovibond?—After seeing Mr. Lovibond.

4634. Mr. Collins.] Did you walk upstairs then?—I walked upstairs.

4635. As you were walking upstairs whom did you see?—Mr. Cooke.

4636. Who was with him?—A Dr. Kinglake, from Taunton.

4637. Dr. Kinglake is the brother of the Member, I believe?—I believe he is.

4638. What did Mr. Cooke say to you?—Mr. Cooke said, "Really Mr. Halliday, you have no business here; it is a private room; I must beg that you will go downstairs." I said, "I beg pardon Mr. Cooke," and I retired.

4639. Do you know a man named Henry Chapman Bussell?—Yes.

4640. Do you also know a man named James Honeyball?—Yes.

4641. Did you see those two men upon that day?—I did.

4642. Where did they come from?—They came out from the "Globe."

4643. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Together or separately?—One after the other.

4644. Do you mean just immediately one after the other?—Yes; Bussell came out first, and Honeyball directly after; I was then in the room opposite Waddon's.

4645. Mr. Collins.] At what time was this?—This was about a quarter past one o'clock, as near as I can recollect.

4646. From where you were standing, could you see from what part of the house those men came?—I could not.

4647. Has the large room a separate entrance?—Yes; I believe there is an entrance to the large room from the large entrance out into the yard on the left.

4648. You say you saw Bussell and Honeyball come out of the "Globe"; can you say whether or not they came from any particular part of the house?—I cannot.

4649. From what direction did they come?—Well, they came from the left.

4650. Would that be anywhere near those stairs that lead from the large room?—Yes.

4651. And do those stairs lead to any other place but the large room, as far as you know?—As far as I know, there is a room from the large room into the house.

4652. Out of the large room?—Yes; out of the large room.

4653. Do those stairs only lead to those two rooms?—I believe so.

4654. You say there are two rooms there; must you get into the large room before you can get into the small room?—Yes.

4655. There is no separate entrance?—No.

4656. Then it comes back to the original question, that the staircase only leads to this large room?—To the large room.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

4657. I may presume that you are a Conservative?—I always was.

4658. You always have been a consistent man, then?—Always, and always hope to be so.

4659. That being so, I may be wrong in assuming that it was inconsistent your intruding into the Liberal committee-room; but what were you you doing at the "Globe"?—Well, nothing particular.

4660. So it seems; but, "particular" or otherwise, do tell me why you, a consistent Conservative, were going up into the Liberal committee-room if you had not been stopped?—I should not have thought of taking the liberty of going into that committee-room.

4661. But what were you going up for?—Oh, just out of curiosity.

4662. But just let me understand the geography of this place, if I can. This is an inn, the "Globe," is it not, in the main thoroughfare, near the bridge somewhere?—I believe it is.

4663. You have seen it?—I have.

4664. And you are a townsman here, are you not?—Yes, I am.

4665. When you stand opposite the house and look at it, I suppose there is a large doorway, an entrance into the house, like all hotels have?—Yes.

4666. Is there a carriage entrance as well, leading to the stable-yard, and so forth?—Not that I am aware of; the carriage entrance is through the doorway.

4667. You do not drive a carriage in at the street door?—The large entrance you mean; you drive carriages in there.

4668. There is an entrance where you would walk in if you wanted to order your dinner, or anything of that sort?—That is at the front door.

4669. At the side of that, a little to the left, is there not a gateway leading into the stable-yard?—Yes.

4670. Into which, if you were driving, you would drive?—Yes.

4671. You have talked of a staircase leading to the large room; is that the staircase that you can see at the street door entrance, or is that a staircase under this archway going up separately into the big room?—Leading from the archway.

4672. So that you may get into this large public room or whatever it is (I have never been in it), by going into the archway and up a staircase quite unconnected with the street door and the private staircase?—Yes.

4673. Then, when you speak of seeing somebody come out from the house, apparently from the left, and as you supposed from that big room, you were speaking of that outlet by the courtyard from the big room and not from the main front of the house?—No.

4674. Then, as I understand you, you went in and were going upstairs, but were reminded that that was private; was that the staircase up to the big room, or the private part of the house?—The staircase up to the large room.

4675. At the gateway?—Yes.

4676. Then your point of curiosity seems to have culminated by seeing three gentlemen talk together near the carriage-house in the yard?—I was then opposite, at Waddon's.

4677. You were opposite and could see up the gateway?—I could see up the gateway.

4678. And I suppose there were a great many people walking about there?—I believe there were.

4679. Then all you know on the other occasion is, that you saw certain gentlemen whose names you mention, Bussell, and somebody else, come out apparently from the big room?—Yes.

4680. I need hardly suggest that you had no conversation with any of them?—Not one; I never spoke to anyone.

4681. And it was really nothing but "consistent" curiosity which led you into the committee-room of the Liberals or near it?—Just so; I had been in and had a glass of sherry at about half-past 11 o'clock.

4682. That is in at the street door?—Yes.

4683. You had had your glass of sherry at the bar, I suppose?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES LUCKES, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Purry.

4684. ARE you generally known as "Captain Luckes"?—There are several Captain Luckes's in the town.

4685. But were you at Cardiff on the 16th of November last?—I was.

4686. Just look at this message, will you (handing a telegraphic message to the Witness); do you know Mr. Henry Chapman Bussell?—I do.

4687. Did you receive a message from him?—I received a message from Bussell, not knowing whether it was Henry Chapman Bussell or any other Bussell in the town.

4688. It does not matter a fig what you know, you see; you received a message, however, from Bussell, not knowing who it was?—Yes.

4689. Do you know a person of the name of Meeker?—I do.

4690. "Mind Meeker," was that a part of the message?—It was.

4691. Did you mind Meeker; did you look after Meeker at Cardiff?—I told Meeker I had a telegram from Bussell, "You will be wanted to-morrow," and that was all.

4692. There is no harm whatever, and no imputation upon you of any kind; did you come up from Cardiff to Bridgwater yourself, or did you remain at Cardiff?—I came to Bridgwater.

4693. Did you bring Meeker with you, or did he come in your company?—Meeker came in my company.

4694. What is Meeker?—A master mariner.

4695. I suppose you both paid your own expenses?—I paid mine.

4696. Did you pay Meeker's?—No.

4697. Who paid Meeker's?—I do not know.

4698. When did you arrive at Bridgwater?—I arrived at Bridgwater at 15 to 9 o'clock on the nomination evening.

4699. Did you call upon Bussell?—No.

4700. What did you do then?—I went home and had refreshments.

4701. You did not go to Bussell's at all?—I did not.

4702. Do you know whether Mr. Meeker did?—I do not know.

4703. You never heard, I suppose, from Bussell whether he had seen Meeker or not?—I never seen Bussell that evening.

4704. Did you the next day?—I did.

4705. Did you know then from Bussell whether Meeker had been there?—He only spoke a few words to me.

4706. Did you from him at all whether Meeker had been there?—No.

4707. Did you know what Meeker was wanted for?—No.

4708. Will

C. Halliday.

26 February
1869.

J. Luckes.

J. Luckes. 4708. Will you venture to swear that?—I will.
 26 February 1869. 4709. Did you speak to Bussell about the telegram?—I never spoke to Bussell that evening.
 4710. But the next morning?—No.
 4711. Did you speak to him at any time about the telegram?—I spoke to him on the polling day.
 4712. What did you say?—Captain Bussell was going over the bridge at about 15 to 3, and he says, "Luckes, have you polled?" I said,

"Hours ago, sir." That is all I said to Bussell, and all Bussell said to me.

4713. You did not ask him, I suppose, about the telegram?—I did not know why Bussell sent me the telegram. The telegram was headed from Bussell.

4714. Do you know now what Bussell sent it to you?—I do not.

4715. You are in such a state of ignorance indeed, that I will not trouble you any further.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS WOOD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

T. Wood. 4716. ARE you the Driver of the Mail Cart to Watchet?—Yes.
 4717. Do you know Mr. Henry Chapman Bussell, of the "Anchor"?—Yes.
 4718. Before the election, did he ask you for your vote, or canvass you?—He asked me for my vote either the Thursday or Friday night before the election.
 4719. What did he say to you about it?—I told him I could not come without I had my expenses paid from Watchet.

4720. When he asked you for your vote, for whom did he ask you to vote; for Kinglake and Vanderbyl, I suppose?—Yes.

4721. What did he say when you said you could not vote without your expenses?—He said he would meet me on the platform at a quarter to 12 o'clock, and pay my expenses up from Watchet.

4722. I believe he never met you?—No, he did not; and I never seen him afterwards.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ROBERT HARDEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

R. Harden. 4723. I THINK you live at Bower, near Bridgewater?—Yes.
 4724. And are a yeoman?—Yes.
 4725. Were you in Bridgewater a few days before the last election?—I was.
 4726. How many days?—I should think five or six days; in fact I was in the town every day for 10 days, I suppose, before the election.
 4727. During the time that you were there, did you see the Members canvassing at any time?—Several times.
 4728. Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—Yes.
 4729. Whom did you see with them?—Not always the same; sometimes one and sometimes another.
 4730. At any time did you see Mr. Henry Chapman Bussell with them?—I did.
 4731. Whilst they were canvassing?—Whilst they were canvassing.
 4732. When was that, as nearly as you can recollect?—I cannot tell the date.
 4733. Perhaps you can tell within a day or two?—Well, I should think it must be five or six days.
 4734. Do you remember meeting Mr. James Morrish?—I do; I was passing up the street from the "White Hart." I put my horse in at the "White Hart," and I had business up town, and I was walking up rather fast, in fact, and I saw Mr. Morrish taking notice of those canvassers, and I said to Mr. — between 12 o'clock and 1 o'clock, or somewhere past 12 o'clock, at all events.

4737. In what quarter of the town were they at this time?—Eastover.

4738. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I do not know enough of the town to know whether Eastover is a district, or a particular street; can you give anything more to fix the part of the town where they were?—Eastover is the other side of the bridge from here; Eastover is in the parish of St. John's.

4739. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Eastover is over the bridge, is it not?—From this way it is the other side of the bridge.

4740. Does it lead up towards the railway station?—Yes.

4741. Is the whole of that long street or road called Eastover?—Oh, no.

4742. How far does Eastover extend from the bridge?—Well, we have heard a good deal about the "Queen's Head"; I think about the "Queen's Head" ends Eastover.

4743. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Am I to understand that it was near the "Queen's Head" that you saw them canvassing?—No, it was near the bridge, between where I put up in Eastover, the "White Hart," and the bridge.

4744. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Do you know Stephen Collin Jones?—I do.

4745. Did you, or did you not, see him at this time with them canvassing?—I do not know whether it was the same time; I saw them at another time, if not at the same time; I will not be sure whether it was at the same time or not.

4746. You saw Stephen Collin Jones canvassing with Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—I did, and Mr. Sully with them.

4747. Mr. J. W. Sully?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

4735. We cannot have what you said; you saw Mr. Morrish taking notice of the people canvassing; I suppose it attracted notice; as the Members were passing through the town canvassing, everybody looked?—I dare say they did, but I was more likely to take notice than the people in the town, because I did not see them so often.

4748. When you saw Mr. Bussell with Mr. Kinglake

Kinglake or Mr. Vanderbyl, was that near to Bussell's house, the "Anchor"?—No: he lives one side of the river, and this was the other.

4749. But the bridge is between?—Yes.

4750. Was it close to one end of the bridge?—Well, not very close, I think; I cannot state exactly; it was going up to the bridge; it was between my quarters, the "White Hart" and the bridge.

4751. You say you saw him with those gentlemen when they were canvassing; do you mean that you saw them going from house to house with Bussell, or that you only saw Bussell for one moment standing with them?—I did not hardly make a stop; I merely spoke to Mr. Morrish, and I said, "Here are certain parties," and men that I knew pretty well; Mr. Bussell makes himself very handy at elections.

4752. You understand what is the difference between persons going together from house to house, which probably means canvassing; did you see that, or did you only see Bussell in company with Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl standing in the street?—I believe the candidates came out of a passage that is called Austiss's-court, and I believe Mr. Bussell was a little way from them, towards somewhere about Roberts's, the coachbuilders.

4753. He was in the main street?—Yes.

4754. They came out of the passage, and then, I suppose, you passed on, so that you cannot tell me what became of Bussell, or of Mr. Kinglake, or of Mr. Vanderbyl?—I did not stop to make it my business at all; I saw him with them, and then I went on.

4755. I am sure you will state truly; did anything more that you saw take place between Bussell and Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl than would have taken place between them if Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl had met Bussell in the street by accident?—No, I do not know anything about it; I suppose it was their business altogether, and I did not ask them their business at all.

4756. Assuming that Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl had been canvassing up that passage, and that Bussell was passing along the main street when they came out, did you see anything more taking place than would be consistent with the position of those gentlemen?—I did not see anything more take place than I saw them, and I considered they were canvassing, and there was an end of it.

4757. Did you see Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl knock at one door and go into one house whilst Bussell was with them?—Oh, they had got their books, canvassing. R. Harden.

4758. But Bussell had got no book?—I did not see a book in Bussell's hand. 26 February 1869.

4759. Did you see Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl go to one house and knock at the door and go into it whilst Bussell was with them?—I saw them as they came out of one house, and they knocked at the next door.

4760. What became of Bussell whilst they did that?—I do not know; I did not stop five minutes.

4761. You cannot tell me whether Bussell, after he had said good morning to those gentlemen, passed on and went over the bridge?—I went over the bridge; he did not go the same way as I did.

4762. Had Bussell got his hat on, or was he without a hat?—I think he had a low hat; in fact, I would not swear what kind of a hat he had on at all.

4763. It is not an immaterial matter; had he got any hat on at all?—Well, I daresay he had a hat on; I would not swear that he had or had not; I know the man perfectly well, and have known him for many years.

4764. Do you recollect now whether he had his hat on or his hat off, as if he had just come out of his house and was going back again?—As I said before, I did not notice whether he had it on; I did not notice his clothes; I just saw that it was Bussell.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

4765. How long was your attention directed to the Members and Mr. Bussell and others?—A minute or two; I did not stop to take particular notice of anybody.

4766. Were you coming over the bridge in this direction?—I was coming up to my brothers.

4767. If Bussell had been going to his house at the "Anchor" he would have come over the bridge in the same direction as you were going?—Yes.

4768. He was going in the other direction?—Yes; the way they was walking canvassing.

4769. You say you saw the Members go in with their books into one house; did you see them go into more than one house while you looked on?—I did not, because they all stopped together at one house, and I went on.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES MORRISH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

4770. You are an Innkeeper, I think?—Yes.

4771. What is the name of your house?—The "Dolphin"; is the right name, but they call it the Porter Stores.

4772. Do you remember, a little before the last election, whether you saw Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl canvassing at any time?—I did.

4773. Do you remember meeting the last witness?—Yes.

4774. In what part of the town was it that you saw Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl canvassing?—I saw them at different places, but this particular place was in Eastover.

4775. That is the other side of the bridge?—Yes, leading to the station.

65.

4776. Do you know a place called Austiss's-court?—Yes. J. Morrish.

4777. How far on the other side of the bridge is Austiss's-court?—Half-way down the street from the bridge to Monmouth-street; we will say to the corner; about half the distance.

4778. How far from the bridge is Austiss's-court?—About 200 yards, I should imagine.

4779. Did you see them go into any house to canvass?—Well, I did not take particular notice where they came out, but I saw them stop at Mr. Roberts's, and there was the two Members, and there was Mr. Bussell, and Jones, the tailor, and others; they were outside, and stood under the verandah.

M 4

4780. While

*J. Morrish.*16 February
1869.

4780. While the Members went in?—Yes, they were gone in.

4781. You mean Stephen Collin Jones and Bussell, of the "Anchor"?—They were talking before they went in, and then they went in, the Members did.

4782. Did you see the Members talking to Bussell and Jones?—They were all talking together.

4783. Had the Members their canvassing books in their hands at the time?—Yes.

4784. And then they went into Roberts's, and the other two stayed outside?—Yes.

4785. Did you go on then?—When they went in I went on with Mr. Harden, and I left Mr. Harden there.

4786. Did you notice whether Mr. Reed was with them at this time?—Well, I would not swear it was Mr. Lovibond or Mr. Reed; I did not know I was coming here, or else I would have taken more notice.

4787. Have you, at any other time, seen Bussell, or only this time?—Oh, yes; I had seen him two or three times before.

4788. With the Members?—Yes.

4789. How many times, do you think?—Well, I can say twice, but I would not say further.

4790. Perhaps you could say where?—In, coming out of Castle-street, as I was going down the quay.

4791. With Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl?—Yes; I saw them together.

4792. And Mr. Bussell?—Yes, Mr. Bussell.

4793. Were any other persons with them?—Mr. Lovibond, to the best of my knowledge.

4794. In Castle-street; were they then canvassing?—Well, I did not see them canvass there; I only met them coming down.

4795. Did you see Bussell with them at any other time?—I did.

4796. Where was that?—That was at Ritson's yard, just by the counting-house, just inside the gates, as I passed.

4797. Was Bussell with them then?—He was; I will swear he was there then.

4798. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] But what was he doing then?—I think the Members were gone in the yard, or in the office; I could not see the Members; I saw them go in.

4799. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] You did not see their faces?—I did not.

4800. Is Ritson's yard a place where men are employed who are voters?—Yes; it is only a small gate to go in.

4801. The two Members went in, and Bussell went with them?—Yes.

4802. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What was Bussell doing?—Henry Chapman Bussell; he was there looking on, like the others, you know.

4803. Did he go into the office, or not?—I did not see him.

4804. As to Ritson's yard; what is Ritson's yard?—A large timber yard.

4805. Is there an office there?—Yes.

4806. Are persons employed in that timber yard who are voters?—I have no doubt.

4807. You saw the two Members go in; before they went in, could you see whether they spoke to Bussell or to Lovibond?—They were speaking together.

4808. As I understand you the Members parted, and went in at this little gate; is that so?—It is a large gate, a plough can go in, a waggon can go in; Bussell went inside.

4809. The office is a small office?—It is larger than you might imagine outside; I have been there once.

4810. Is it a very large place?—No; it is only for mere ordinary business, only to take the time of the men; there is the private office of Ritson's and another for the clerks.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

4811. About how many people were there there, where you say Bussell went in?—Five or six.

4812. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Where?—At Ritson's yard, there were about five or six gentlemen; I noticed Mr. Vanderbyl and Bussell.

THOMAS WINTER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

T. Winter.

4813. WHAT are you?—I work at the sawmills at Ritson's yard.

4814. Do you remember seeing Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake at any time come to your yard?—Yes.

4815. Were they canvassing or not?—Yes.

4816. Can you tell me whether Bussell was with them?—He was.

4817. Was there any other gentleman with them besides Bussell?—Yes; Mr. Jones, the tailor, down in Eastover, and young Mr. Lovibond.

4818. Mr. George Lovibond?—I don't know his name; young Mr. Lovibond.

4819. How did you see them, did you see them come into the yard?—I see them come to the top of the yard and stop.

4820. Were they walking together before they came to the top of the yard?—They were walking together so far as I could see them.

4821. Then they came to the top of the yard?—Yes.

4822. Did you see the canvassers go into the yard?—Yes.

4823. Ritson's yard is a considerable distance, is it not, from Bussell's house?—Yes.

4824. Is it on the same side of the river as his house, or the other side?—The other side.

4825. Eastover way?—Yes.

4826. How far off from his house do you think it is?—I should think 500 or 600 yards; you must go over the bridge to go to it.

SIMON STEPHENS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

S. Stephens.

4827. ARE you a servant now in the employ of Dr. Farmer of Bridgwater?—Yes.

4828. A medical gentleman?—Yes.

4829. Were you, at the time of the election, in the employment of Mr. Hodges, a gentleman who lets out flies, and coaches of all kinds?—Yes.

4830. Is that the "Railway Hotel"?—Yes.

4831. Was

4831. Was Mr. Kinglake staying at that hotel?—Yes.

4832. Did you receive any orders on the day of the poll, to go out with a fly to take voters?—Yes.

4833. To take up voters to the poll?—Yes.

4834. Did you take up a great many voters in the course of the day to the poll?—Yes; I never went out till one o'clock.

4835. You know Mr. Bussell?—Yes.

4836. I mean Mr. Bussell of the "Anchor"?—Yes.

4837. Did you see him at all at his place, the "Anchor"?—Yes.

4838. Did you take any voters from there?—Yes; a great many.

4839. About how many do you think you took from the "Anchor"?—I cannot say exactly how many; I went there five or six times, and I took some every time.

4840. Did you take more than one at a time, or did you take only one at a time?—Sometimes I had not but one, and sometimes I had two or three.

4841. Was this all after one o'clock?—This was all after one o'clock.

4842. Did any one help them, or come out of the "Anchor" to help them into the fly?—Yes.

4843. Who did?—Mr. Bussell came out most of the time.

4844. Did you see a man named Honeyball there at all?—Yes; once I saw him there.

4845. James Honeyball?—He is employed by Mr. Brown, I believe.

4846. What time of day did you see him there; was it after one?—Yes; it was during the afternoon.

4847. Did he or not help any voters in?—He helped one out.

4848. Were you engaged all the afternoon, up to four o'clock, taking voters?—Yes; I was very busy from the time I went out till the poll was closed.

4849. Give us an idea altogether of the number of voters you took up?—I cannot remember all; I can remember the first few.

4850. I do not want to know the names so much as how many voters altogether you took up to the different polls?—I cannot say that.

4851. About how many?—I could not say; not how many it was; I picked them up anywhere about the town.

4852. As to the voters whom you took up, did you notice anything about them; I may ask you as to their freshness?—No, they were not very fresh after two o'clock; not after half-past two.

4853. What were they?—Some of them were very tipsy; they had to be helped into the fly, some of them.

4854. Were any of the voters that Mr. Bussell helped into the fly in that state?—Yes; Mr. Crocker, that was examined yesterday morning or the morning before; the stout man.

4855. You know Mr. Andrew Allan?—Yes.

4856. Did you see him or not at the "New Inn" on that day?—Yes.

4857. Did you see him more than once, or only once?—I saw him several times; he was in my fly at times, sometimes inside; he would get in along with the voters after he had helped them in.

4858. You took up several voters from the "New Inn"?—Yes.

4859. Andrew Allan helped them in and got in with them sometimes?—Yes.

65.

4860. In what state were they?—Not very fresh; not those I took from the public-houses. S. Stephens.

4861. What do you mean by a man not being very fresh?—He had more than he could get into the fly properly by his own help. 26 February 1869.

4862. Do you know a voter of the name of Samuel Warren?—Yes.

4863. Where does he live?—In John-street, near the "Exeter Inn."

4864. Did you go to fetch him to the poll?—Yes, more than once.

4865. How often did you go, do you think?—I should think I went two or three times during the afternoon; I called for him coming back that way.

4866. Did anyone go with you to fetch him?—Not particular.

4867. When did he go in your fly to the poll?—He did not go in my fly after all to poll; he would not go.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

4868. Do I understand you that you fetched people from the "New Inn," as well as from Bussell's house?—Yes.

4869. How many places did you go to altogether to fetch people?—I cannot say how many places I went to altogether.

4870. You went to some of them at their houses?—Yes, at the first going off, three or four.

4871. Do you mean in the afternoon?—As I went out first, just after one o'clock; people who were ill, who could not walk to the poll.

4872. You started about half-past one?—About one.

4873. Then your first job was to go round to various private places to fetch persons who could not walk?—Yes.

4874. Do you know how many persons you fetched up in that way?—About three.

4875. Were they at a distance, or whereabouts?—Not very far off; one was in Union-street, another in Bath-road, and the other in Williton-street.

4876. Did you take one at a time?—I took one first to the poll, and then I took him back, and then took up another.

4877. When you drove up one to the poll, did you wait for him till he came out again?—Yes.

4878. How long did that take?—Just time enough for me to turn my fly; a minute or a minute and a-half.

4879. Your first hour was occupied in going to those different places?—No, it did not take me an hour to pick up three people and take them back again.

4880. You think three was all that you took up in that way?—Three is all I recollect; the others I took up at public-houses.

4881. Where did you go to first after you took those three to the poll?—I went to the "New Inn."

4882. You did not see Bussell at the "New Inn"?—No.

4883. How did you find your way to the "New Inn"?—I knowed my way to the "New Inn." One with me would say, "Go to the 'New Inn,' there is a lot of them there penned in." There were plenty round the polling-booth.

4884. Then you went to the "New Inn"?—
N Yes,

S. Stephens. Yes, and as soon as I went there they brought them out, and pulled them in.

26 February 1869. 4885. Into the carriage?—Yes.

4886. How long were you going backwards and forwards to the “New Inn”?—I do not know; I had to pass the “New Inn” to go to the “Anchor” over the bridge; so I called there, and if there was nobody particular to take up there I would go to the “Anchor”; I did not wait about.

4887. It depended upon who was ready?—Yes.

4888. Were the “New Inn” and the “Anchor” the only houses you were kind enough to assist?—They were not the only houses I went to, I went to other parts; I cannot say exactly where I went to.

4889. Cannot you remember others?—Those were the two most places I went to.

4890. You went to them more often than the others?—Yes.

4891. How many people do you think you took from the “New Inn” altogether?—I cannot say.

4892. Sometimes you had one in your fly, and sometimes three?—Sometimes three, and sometimes four.

4893. Did you have five at times?—No.

4894. You say they were not particularly fresh; what do you mean by that?—Partly drunk.

4895. Not drunk enough to be fresh?—They were so drunk, that they were not capable of getting into the fly, most of them, by themselves.

4896. You mean they had been drinking up to that hour in the day?—Yes.

4897. If they could not get in, which is a less difficult operation than getting out, how did they manage to get out?—There were plenty to help them out at the pooling booth; there was generally a crowd round there.

4898. There was no difficulty about it?—No.

4899. You did not see anyone in particular doing that kindness for them; the crowd were quite willing to help?—There generally used to be one on the top just to help them out and see them to the poll.

4900. One who was at leisure would go with the fly?—Yes.

4901. You did not know who they were?—Not particularly.

4902. Who did you see at the “New Inn”?—Andrew Allan.

4903. Where was he at the “New Inn”?—He was inside and outside at times.

4904. How often did you see him?—Several times when I went there after voters.

4905. Sometimes outside?—Yes.

4906. You could not see him when he was inside?—Yes, I could.

4907. How?—Through the window, and I could see him in the kitchen.

4908. He did not go with you on the fly?—At times he did.

4909. Allan went with you to the poll?—Once or twice; I cannot be sure which it was; he got in the fly besides some one he helped in.

4910. Are you in the same employment now that you were in last November?—No.

4911. Who are you with now?—Dr. Farmer.

4912. He is a true Blue?—I do not know; it makes no difference to me if he is.

4913. When did you tell Dr. Farmer this?—I did not tell him at all.

4914. Whom did you tell?—I told no one particular; they subpoenaed me through knowing that I was driving my fly about during the election.

4915. Did not they come to you to take down what you knew?—A clerk came to me to tell what I knew.

JAMES CREEDY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

J. Creedy. 4916. You are a labourer?—Yes.

4917. Did you see Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl canvassing during the last election?—I seen them coming along on the quay, direct from the “Lions” towards the bridge.

4918. Is the “Lions” on the other side of the bridge?—The “Lions” is on this side of the bridge.

4919. You saw them coming up in the way you have described: who was with them, do you know Henry Chapman Bussell?—I do.

4920. Was he with them at that time?—He was.

4921. Who else was with them?—Mr. Reed.

4922. Who else?—Jones.

4923. Colin Jones, the tailor?—Yes; and Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl.

4924. Did you see what they were doing?—No.

4925. Were they standing still or walking on?—They were walking on.

4926. Together?—They were not so very far apart; Jones and Bussell was rather behind the candidates and the attorneys.

4927. That is all you saw at that time?—Yes.

4928. Did you see them another time together?—I saw them towards the post office, on the other side of the river, in the direction towards Mr. Ritson’s yard, what they call the East Quay.

4929. Were the same persons together?—The same persons were together.

4930. You did not see them do anything then?—No, I could not see anything against Mr. Bussell, because he has business to call him each side of the river, in the shipping way.

4931. But Messrs. Kinglake and Vanderbyl had no business in the shipping way, though Bussell has business to call him each side of the river, in the shipping way?—Yes.

4932. Is he well known over that way?—Yes, by the captains of vessels.

4933. Do the captains live over there?—Their business calls them there.

4934. Mr. Jones had no business to call him there?—No.

4935. Nor Mr. Kinglake, nor Mr. Vanderbyl?—No.

JAMES FORD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Collins.

4936. You are an Innkeeper, and you live in Wembdon-road?—That is right.

4937. Do you remember some days previous to the election seeing Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl?—Yes.

4938. Where were they when you saw them?—I saw them go into Smith's shop, the other side of the bridge.

4939. Where is Smith's shop?—Over the East Quay.

4940. Who did you see with them?—Mr. Jones.

4941. Stephen Colin Jones?—Yes.

4942. Was he with them?—He was with them.

4943. Did you see whether or not Colin Jones went into the house with them?—He did.

4944. Do you know a man named Henry Chapman Bussell?—I do.

4945. On the occasion you mention, did you see Bussell?—Not along with them.

4946. Where was Bussell?—I saw him come along the quay afterwards; and went over the bridge, and went into the house.

4947. Into Smith's house?—Yes.

4948. Were the candidates and Stephen Colin Jones still in the house?—Stephen Colin Jones was outside the door at that time.

4949. Did you see Bussell go in?—Bussell went into the house.

4950. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Were Mr. Vanderbyl and Mr. Kinglake still in the house?—Still in the house then.

4951. Mr. Collins.] Some little time after that, did you see Mr. Vanderbyl and Jones come out?—I did.

4952. Did they go away together?—I saw them standing outside the door.

4953. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] You saw whom come out; who did you see come out of the house?—Mr. Vanderbyl.

4954. Who else?—Jones was outside; they stood outside the window; Jones and Mr. Vanderbyl stood outside the window.

4955. Mr. Collins.] Did you see at that time where Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Bussell were?—I saw Mr. Kinglake come out, but Bussell did not come out with them.

4956. Before Mr. Kinglake came out of the shop, did you see him speak to Bussell?—I did not.

4957. Do you know what became of Mr. Vanderbyl and Jones?—No.

4958. You left then?—Yes.

4959. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] When you left, were Mr. Vanderbyl and Jones still standing there?—They were standing just outside Smith's window, a little towards the post office.

Cross-examined by Mr. Edlin.

4960. How long before the election was this?—I cannot tell how many days it was before the election.

4961. Are you a voter?—Yes.

4962. Blue, of course?—Yes.

4963. What were you doing the morning you saw them?—I am a mariner; I get my living standing about there; we have to stand and wait for our work.

4964. Who is this Mr. Smith; he keeps a grocer's shop, does not he?—He does.

4965. It is a large window, is not it?—Yes.

4966. And you can see pretty well into the shop from the outside?—You can now, but could not then, I think; his window has been altered.

4967. He has got a fine new window?—Yes.

4968. You told us you saw Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl go into the shop; I did not understand you to say that you saw anyone go in with them?—Jones went in with them.

4969. The tailor?—Yes.

4970. After them?—He went in with them.

4971. The same time?—The same time.

4972. Then he seems to have come out without them?—He did come out without them.

4973. Did he go in to buy anything?—I do not know; he may or may not.

4974. When he came out, do you say he stood outside?—He stood outside.

4975. And then was it after that, that Bussell came up to the place and went into the shop?—Bussell came into the shop just as Jones came out; he came up the quay and went over the bridge; they were all in the shop before he went in.

4976. Could you see whether he went to that part of the shop where Mr. Kinglake and Mr. Vanderbyl were?—I cannot say, because Bussell might go in there 20 or 30 times a-day.

4977. Were there many people going about with the candidates?—I never saw anybody going about with them, no more than people of my own sex standing about the quay.

4978. It seems they came out and left Bussell in?—Bussell was in the shop; Bussell never came out with them.

4979. Did they go down the quay alone?—I did not see them go down the quay.

4980. Who went away with them when they went away from Smith's shop?—I did not see anyone at all.

4981. You did not see Jones?—No; Jones was outside. I never saw him go anywhere with them.

4982. Do you know whether Jones is a friend of Smith's?—I cannot say.

4983. When were you first asked to come here and give this evidence?—I cannot say what day it was.

4984. You got a subpoena, did not you?—Yes.

4985. How many days ago?—Last Friday or Saturday.

4986. You got your subpoena not before Friday?—Friday, I think.

4987. Is not the door of this grocer's shop kept open?—Most always open.

4988. Is it not very much frequented?—Yes.

J. Ford.

 5104. Had the Members anything in their hands?—Mr. Vanderbyl had a red book in his hands.

Mrs. HENRY SARAH HOBBS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Parry.

Mrs. H. S. Hobbs. 5114. ARE you the wife of Henry Hobbs, of Eastover?—Yes.
 5115. You know the "Globe Inn"?—Yes.
 5116. On the polling day of the last election, did you notice people coming in and going out of the "Globe Inn"?—I did.
 5117. Where is your house in reference to the "Globe Inn"?—Directly opposite.
 5118. Whom did you see going in and out?—There were so many going in and out.
 5119. There was a great deal of bustle, of course?—Yes.
 5120. Do you know Henry Chapman Bussell?—Yes.
 5121. Did you see him go in and out?—I did.
 5122. What time of day was that?—I cannot tell exactly, because I saw him so many times go in and out.
 5123. Did you know the room which was used as the committee-room of the Liberal party?—The large room, called the Assembly-room.
 5124. Did you or did you not see him go in and out of that room?—I saw him go up the stairs, and after he was in the room I could see him from my bedroom window, and also from my sitting-room window.
 5125. What time of the day of the election was this; was it the morning or afternoon?—I saw him go in before dinner more frequently than after dinner.
 5126. Did you always see him going in this room?—Yes.
 5127. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] What is your dinner-time?—Our usual dinner-time is from one to two o'clock.
 5128. Was it on this occasion?—I saw him more frequently before one or two than after.
 5129. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] You used the expression, "You saw him so many times"; give me how many times you think you did see him?—At least half-a-dozen times.
 5130. Do you know Mr. Lovibond?—I do.
 5131. Did you see him there?—Yes; I saw him go in under the archway, and I cannot see the stairs, but when they are in the room, I can see them again.
 5132. When you saw Bussell in the room, whom did you see in the room also; did you see 5105. Was Mr. Kinglake there?—I believe he was.

 5106. When Mr. Vanderbyl came out of the house, what became of him and Bussell?—I do not know.
 5107. Did they join?—I do not know whether they joined or not; I was walking along in a hurry; I was walking along fast.
 5108. How long have you known Bussell?—Three years.
 Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.
 5109. Did you speak to him?—No.
 5110. You were going along the road on business?—I was going along the road on business.
 5111. You saw him standing there; that was all?—Yes.
 5112. You went on, and did not speak?—I went on, and did not speak.
 5113. When did they catch you, to tell them all this; when did you tell the other side this wonderful news?—Last evening.

Mr. Lovibond?—I saw him once during the time Bussell was there.
 5133. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Which Mr. Lovibond?—Henry Lovibond.
 5134. The father or the son?—The father.
 5135. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did you see Mr. Reed at all there?—Yes.
 5136. Did you see Bussell in his company also?—I saw them in a group altogether; I saw Mr. Henry Bussell in the group with several other gentlemen; Mr. Henry Lovibond with them.
 5137. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] You said something about Mr. Reed also?—I saw Mr. Reed there also.
 5138. In the room?—In the room; Mr. Reed saw me.
 5139. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did you see Mr. Cook there?—I did.
 5140. Did you see Mr. Bussell also with him, or not?—Yes; at the same time.
 5141. Is that what you call the group?—Yes.
 5142. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I thought you said room?—I said in the group altogether.
 5143. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] Did Mr. James Wood Sully form one of the group?—Not at the time that I particularly noticed.
 5144. At the time you saw this group with Bussell, Lovibond, and Cook, could you tell us about what time that was?—I think it was between one and two, because of a niece that comes from school at that time, she was home.
 5145. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Explain how your niece, coming home at that time, fixes the time?—I am not sure to the precise time, I know she was home at her dinner; she is sometimes home at twelve, sometimes one, but she always stays till two.
 5146. Mr. Serjeant Parry.] It was while your niece was with you?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

5147. This room is a large room, this Assembly-room?—It is.
 5148. Is the window a large bay-window?—No; there are three windows one side of the room.

5149. Is

5149. Is that the side upon which you were looking?—Yes.

5150. You live the other side of the street?—I live directly opposite.

5151. You could see in through those windows?—I could see more distinctly from one than the other two, because there is a light directly opposite.

5152. There was no blind or concealment?—No blind whatever.

5153. So that you could see in quite openly?—Yes.

5154. There were a great many people there?—A great many; the room at one time was very much crowded.

5155. In the ordinary events as the day got on towards the close of the poll, towards four, more people came than would come in the morning?—Not so many towards the close of the poll.

5156. At the time you mention, between one and two and three, the room was very much crowded?—Very much crowded; there was a great deal of bustle and movement going on.

5157. Those people you saw in this room altogether were all talking openly in the room, so far as you saw?—What I particularly noticed in this group was a gentleman holding a small piece of paper and the others all round him.

5158. You do not know what a state of the poll is?—No; I guess what it is: I had the impression that it was the state of the poll they were looking at.

5159. Even you ventured to look at the state of the poll that day?—I did not; I heard it mentioned.

5160. Mr. Justice Blackburn.] I thought you said, when you saw Reed in the group, Reed saw you?—Not at the particular time I noticed this group, but Mr. Reed noticed me once; he was leaning at the window, and I was looking out of my window.

5161. Not at the time of the group?—No.

[The Court adjourned for a short time.

Mrs.
H. S. Hobbs.

1869.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] Since the Court adjourned, I have had an opportunity, in conjunction with my learned friend, Mr. Edlin, who is my junior, of communicating with my learned friend, Mr. James, who appears on behalf of Mr. Kinglake, and perhaps I owe your Lordship a personal apology, if, in the course of an inquiry, which certainly has been one of very deep anxiety, but somewhat tedious, one has been tempted to go out of that which is the strictly judicial atmosphere, and to say or to do occasionally a few things which seemed to lighten the burden of the day. But notwithstanding that, it has not been without very deep anxiety that my learned friends and myself have watched the course of this inquiry. Of course the opening of my learned friend, Mr. Serjeant Parry, necessarily relieved us considerably: he, with his usual candour, at once said that the sitting Members personally were in no way impeached; but of course the circumstances which he stated he hoped to be able to bring out in evidence, and unquestionably, if coupled with sufficient agency to render certain consequences inevitable, have given us the very deepest anxiety; and the course of the inquiry to-day has been such that, in consultation with my learned friend who represents the other Member, he and I have both felt that, in point of law, we could not expect to convince your Lordship that there was not sufficient connection between the parties who have been implicated in this matter, and who, my learned friend says, are absent, and the active supporters of the candidates who were successful, for your Lordship to say that the agency had not been proved; and though I very deeply regret, as no doubt many others do, that the indiscretion of absent parties may have brought about such a result, I feel that it would be inconsistent with that respect which is due to your Lordship, and to the tribunal before which we appear, to go through the simulation of contesting that which we feel we ought not any longer to contest, and therefore I feel it my duty to tell your Lordship, that in the present state of the evidence, after what we have heard to-day, I cannot feel that I should properly occupy your Lordship's time and the public time by longer contesting the course of this petition. I do so with very deep regret; but I feel it is only what is due to your Lordship, that I should frankly state the impression on my own mind upon the matter, and not attempt longer to go through the simulation or affectation of resisting that which I felt could not, and ought not, to be any longer resisted.

Mr. James.] My Lord, under ordinary circumstances I should not seek to add one word to what has been stated by my learned friend, but I am sure, my Lord, your Lordship will forgive me if, perhaps, from over anxiety at this moment, I ask leave to say one word on behalf of Mr. Kinglake. My Lord, so long as my learned friend's case was unfinished in respect to the allegation of corrupt practices that could be proved, it was the wish of Mr. Kinglake, and every one connected with him, that no step should be taken to stay this inquiry; but, my Lord, it may now be taken that every fact that can be brought forward to prove that corrupt practices prevailed within this borough has been placed before your Lordship, and, my Lord, the only one thing to deal with now is the personal honour of Mr. Kinglake. It is, therefore, I would wish to say, if your Lordship will allow me, a few sentences, and a few sentences only, on the position in which Mr. Kinglake has been placed. It is true he is a Somersetshire man by birth, but now, my Lord, he has attained an almost European reputation, and the personal honour of such a man is not to be lightly dealt with. His connection, too, with this town—now the principal town of his native county—is, of course, such a connection that the honour and reputation of others has become dear unto him; and, my Lord, it is on their behalf too, that he would wish to say one word.

My Lord, as far as Mr. Kinglake is personally concerned, he has been absolved by my learned friend, and the evidence proves that that absolution was justified. It was when he thought that the battle had been lost that he deserted the field, but only when he believed it was hopeless; and if there had been an intention to be a party to any corrupt practices he would not have deserted the field which he was in hopes to win; but it was after he had left this town that these corrupt practices took place that have been pointed at, and which we have come to the conclusion your Lordship would think have taken place, not by one supporter of any particular member, but an over-zealous friend of the cause. My Lord, Mr. Kinglake feels, acting upon our advice, that legally now, by the evidence given this morning, it is impossible for us to resist the proof placed before your Lordship, and, therefore, my Lord, I simply say he is anxious to place before you and the public that he has had no heart or part in such transactions—that he knew nothing of them. He now, my Lord, respectfully bows his head before the current that he cannot stem, and simply is anxious to express his regret that on this day there should be a parting under such circumstances with those who have gained from him something more than sympathy, almost affection, and, my Lord, to whom he will always have to express his deepest gratitude. With your Lordship's permission I will ask a few questions of Mr. Kinglake.

Mr. Serjeant Sargood.] I need hardly probably add that I intended to ask permission of your Lordship to call Mr. Vanderbyl.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] Very well.

A. W.
Kinglake,
Esq., M.P.

5162. YOU have represented this borough in Parliament since the year 1857, I believe?—Yes.

5163. As we are aware, you were a candidate at the last election, in conjunction with Mr. Vanderbyl, in the Liberal interest?—I was.

5164. From the state of the poll and other things, I believe you left the town by the mid-day train?—Yes.

5165. Had you the slightest knowledge, directly or indirectly, of any corrupt practices existing, or being about to exist, at this election?—I believed that I knew the reverse at the time of my departure.

5166. Had you taken every step, by directions to every one about you, to secure a pure election here, whatever might be the result?—I think I must do the justice to Mr. Lovibond—

5167. Just take it generally, please?—The determination to conduct the election within the strict bounds of legality originated, I must say, with Mr. Henry Lovibond, my head agent.

5168. If you will pardon me, we will take you very shortly through this. Had you any knowledge whatever, from instructions given, or from communications, that there was the probability or the possibility of Bussell or any one resorting to any corrupt practices?—None whatever.

5169. Did you strive, by direction and by personal interference in every way you could, to secure a pure election in this borough?—I did.

5170. This evidence has brought facts to your knowledge of which you were perfectly ignorant?—Entirely.

PHILIP VANDERBYL, Esq., M.P. sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Sargood.

P.
Vanderbyl,
Esq., M.P.

5171. YOU were the colleague of the last Witness, Mr. Kinglake, in the recent election?—I was.

5172. You also had the pleasure of sitting for this borough previously?—I had.

5173. Did you, as well as Mr. Kinglake, give to your agents direct instructions to avoid all such irregularities as might place the election in jeopardy, if you succeeded?—I did.

5174. Had you any personal knowledge of these matters at that time; these transactions by Bussell and other parties?—I had not.

5175. Did you give any instructions or authority to any person in the world who could have sanctioned them?—I never did.

Mr. Serjeant Parry.] My Lord, after the course that has been taken by my learned friends, and which I may say I had rather anticipated, without receiving from them any communication, I have only a very few words to add. Your Lordship observes that I have not cross-examined either Mr. Kinglake or Mr. Vanderbyl. If this inquiry were still being contested, I should, of course, have felt it my duty to put questions to those gentlemen, in order to see how far the agents that were at work for them after the middle of the day in the election, were recognised by them as agents, and if either Mr. Kinglake or Mr. Vanderbyl were at all aware of what those agents were doing.

My Lord, it is impossible to doubt the word of a gentleman like Mr. Kinglake. If even without being upon his oath he came forward and stated before your Lordship and the high tribunal you represent, upon his honour, that a fact was so and so, I believe there is no man in this country but would believe him. I have, therefore, felt it my duty to abstain from putting any questions to Mr. Kinglake or to Mr. Vanderbyl. The sole object of this Petition was to show to your Lordship that the seats of these gentlemen had been obtained by corrupt practices. If the inquiry had continued I should have had to lay before your Lordship a body of evidence which, if any natural doubt now exists, or could by possibility exist, as to what took place at the last election, would have satisfied your Lordship, and would have satisfied everybody, that the case which I originally laid before your Lordship of corrupt practices by means of bribery, and by means of extensive treating on the part of well-known agents of the sitting Members, had really prevailed, and that therefore they were not entitled to hold their seats any longer.

The course that my learned friends have taken relieves me from the necessity of placing that evidence before your Lordship; and if your Lordship is satisfied that the course that has been taken by my learned friends is the right one, I am perfectly satisfied also. That being so, I do not, and those who instruct me do not, desire in any way to prolong this inquiry. I can only say, my Lord, it is a painful position at all times for counsel to be placed in, to have to make charges of the kind that are alleged in this Petition. Though no doubt in this Petition there are charges of personal corrupt practices on the part of the sitting Members, your Lordship will bear in mind that I entirely abandone that, in the statement which I had made to you in opening this case; and having looked at the whole of the evidence that was laid before me, I could sincerely say, as I did say, and as I say now, that at that time I had not the slightest idea that there was any personal corruption against either of the gentlemen who are Members for this borough.

Having said that before, and saying it now, I presume really it is not for me hardly to make any further observation. The Petition that has been presented to your Lordship's Court has succeeded; the defence is abandoned, and the object of the Petitioners is gained. I well know that Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray cannot feel at all any gratification at the result. It is impossible that they should do so, but I believe they do feel that in what they have done they have performed a public duty. That was their sole intention, and in performing that public duty I hope they have satisfied your Lordship of this, that the seats of the two sitting Members are utterly untenable.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.] There are one or two smaller matters which, not expecting this course, I have not quite determined, but upon the important part of the inquiry I can express my determination at once.

The law requires that when an inquiry upon an election petition has been heard, the judge should in the first instance determine whether or not the two Members were duly returned and elected. As to that, the law is very clear, and it has long been clearly established, that where there is bribery or corruption, the seat obtained by the bribery or corruption cannot be supported. I believe the law to be, though I do not think it has been distinctly settled, that if the bribery or corruption was to such an extensive degree (though it was not shown to be in any way connected with the agents or persons belonging to the Members) as to show that it was not a fair and open election, but a corrupt election, or if it was shown that corrupt practices of any sort, however small, were committed by an agent of the sitting Member, the seat is vacated; and it has been established that it is not at all necessary and essential that the agent should have been acting with the knowledge or consent, or with the request, of the Member; if he abuses his authority, and commits corruption, it equally vacates the seat as if the corrupt practices had been committed by the express direction and authority of the Member. It has never yet been distinctly and precisely defined what degree of evidence is required to establish such a relation between the sitting Member and the person who had been guilty of corruption, as should constitute agency. I do not pretend to be able to define it, certainly; no one yet has been able to go further than to say, as to some cases, that enough has been established to make the seat vacant, and in some other cases, enough has not been established to make the seat vacant; this case is on the right side of the line, and that is on the wrong side of the line; but the line itself has never yet been definitely drawn, and I profess myself to be unable accurately to draw the line. But, in the present case, certainly, I believe quite sufficient prima facie evidence has been given to call for an answer; enough prima facie evidence has been given to show that those who have been shown to be guilty of corrupt practices here were agents of the Members, and no doubt counsel were perfectly well advised when they advised their clients that that prima facie case of which evidence had been given, could not be rebutted or overset, and, consequently, that the seat was lost.

But the Legislature requires me to go further. Where any charge is made on a petition that any corrupt practices have been committed at an election, the judge has to return: first, whether any corrupt practice has or has not been proved to have been committed by or with the knowledge and consent of any candidate at such election, and the nature of such corrupt practice. Now, upon that there was no evidence whatever produced before me to show that either of the sitting Members in any way had a personal knowledge of, or consented to, the corrupt practices. There was no evidence that could have justified such a finding, and as both the Members have been called to deny that there was such a thing of which there has been no evidence, I need not say that I have great pleasure in certifying that there was no corrupt practice proved to have been committed by, or with the knowledge and consent of, any candidate at such election.

Then the Legislature requires me to go further, and to state the names of all persons, if any, proved at the trial to have been guilty of corrupt practices. Before I state precisely the names of those persons, I shall require to look over my notes, and consider the evidence which has been given with respect to the cases of those persons. It is likely that with respect to some of those persons, I may be inclined to think that no case at all has been made with respect to them; and, with regard to others of them perhaps, I should rather hesitate and doubt, and say the cases were not proved, rather than that the men were innocent. But there are some with respect to whom I have no doubt at all, and particularly there can be no doubt that, upon the evidence as it stands, Henry Chapman Bussell was shown to have been guilty of bribery.

With respect to the case of the man Palmer, though he received the money, I do not think he can be properly said to have been guilty of bribery, because he never took the money with the intention to influence his vote.

With respect to Captain Crocker, who, by his own confession was guilty of bribery, I must return his name as having been guilty of corrupt practices; but, as he spoke the whole truth, he is entitled to apply for a certificate of indemnity, which will relieve him from all possible penalties. But with respect to Henry Chapman Bussell, who has not come forward and spoken the truth, I must, according to the Act of Parliament now in force, return his name to the House of Commons, in order that it may be laid before the Attorney General to consider whether the evidence is sufficient to support a prosecution. As he has chosen to leave the country, and not to come forward and obtain a certificate, he will be liable to that prosecution; and, I presume, unless he chooses to be an outlaw for life, he will be prosecuted when he does return. I mention all this, because it is very desirable that subordinate agents and others should be aware that, as the law now stands, they do not baffle justice by leaving the country and refusing to come and give their evidence; there will be clearly a case as against him.

1869.

As to Andrew Allan, I must look carefully at the evidence, in order to see whether I should report his name as having been proved to have been guilty of corrupt practices.

I think, as at present advised, that I shall report the name of James Hayward, the captain who was at Swansea, who positively swore that he was not bribed. I think, on the evidence, I should come to the conclusion, that he was; I believe he was seeking to get paid for his vote; he was chaffering for it, and offering it for sale, and having professed to be going to vote for the Tories, on his way to the poll he spoke to Bussell, and then went and voted on the other side. I will consider the evidence, but at present I am inclined to think that I must return his name as having been bribed, though in doing so, if I do come to that conclusion, I must make the direct assertion that I believe him to be not only guilty of bribery, but also guilty of perjury. There are several others with respect to whose cases I must look into the evidence before I say whether I shall report them to have been guilty of corrupt practices.

Now, I come to another very important matter. The third thing which I am called upon to report is, whether corrupt practices have, or whether there is reason to believe that corrupt practices have, extensively prevailed at the election to which the Petition relates. The object of that return is to guide the House of Commons in considering whether or no the place where the election took place is so corrupt that an inquiry should take place with a view to arriving at a conclusion whether the franchise should be continued or not; and, upon that, which is a very important subject of inquiry, we have had sufficient evidence. If there were any ground to think the case had not been complete upon that, I should not have allowed the inquiry to stop now. Upon that I am sorry to say I must come to the conclusion, that corrupt practices have extensively prevailed. The evidence has satisfied me of this, that a very considerable proportion of the voters in this borough were, during the day of the election, making inquiries in the phrases which have been used, "Whether anything was going?" "What stuff was going?" and phrases of that sort. The evidence also satisfied me that a considerable number of people, some of whom no doubt, would have been made out to be agents of the sitting Members, others of whom, probably would not, did repeatedly hold it forth, and the belief got amongst the people, that if anything was going, those who voted first should be paid as well as those who voted later, and received payment. If a single case of such a promise as that, a qualified promise, that if others get bribes you shall get one, proved against an agent of the sitting Member, would vacate the seat as much as if the bribe were actually handed over (which, however, I am not at present considering); treating such promises as corrupt practices, I believe from the evidence there certainly was reason to believe that they did extensively prevail at the last election. We find the consequence, and the result of the prevalence of this belief, in the state of the poll. Somewhere about one o'clock, Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray were in a large majority; the majority for Mr. Westropp being 148, and for Mr. Gray, 129. Immediately after that time bribes were given, which were proved to have been given by Bussell; and no doubt as soon as ever there was any payment at all, it became generally known that "money was going." And then we find, as soon as that became known, very few votes indeed were polled for Mr. Westropp and Mr. Gray. At one o'clock, the highest number of votes on the Conservative side, namely, those recorded for Mr. Westropp, was 607, and at the close of the poll he had no more than 681. From one o'clock, therefore, to the close of the poll, there were only 74 votes polled for Mr. Westropp. On the Liberal side, the highest number of votes recorded at one o'clock (namely, those for Mr. Kinglake), was 465, and at the close of the poll it reached 731; consequently, there were 270 votes polled for Mr. Kinglake between one and four. It is impossible to resist the conclusion I draw, that the previous promises and holding forth that if anything was going all should be treated alike, and the actual bribery, which probably did not extend to a very large sum in gold that was parted with, but actual bribery in making that contingent promise at once absolute and unconditional, resulted in this, that a very considerable number (perhaps not all) of those 260 voters, who polled after one o'clock, were influenced by corrupt reasons.

Taking that view of the matter, the conclusion I come to is, that I must report to the House that, in my opinion, corrupt practices have prevailed, and that there is reason to believe that corrupt practices have extensively prevailed in the borough at the last election. What the House of Commons may do upon that, it will be for the House to consider.

I need hardly say that in a case like this, where the Petitioners have succeeded, the ordinary rule is that the Petitioners have costs; and as there is no reason to depart from the ordinary rule, of course the Petitioners must have costs.

R E P O R T.

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

In the Matter of an Election Petition for the Borough of Cashel, between Henry Munster, Petitioner, and James Lyster O'Beirne, Respondent.

And of another Election Petition for the said Borough of Cashel, between the same Petitioner and the same Respondent.

I do hereby certify to the Right Honourable The Speaker, that the Election Petitions above-mentioned were tried together before me, at Cashel, upon the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th days of February, 1869; and that at the conclusion of the said trial I did, on the said 20th day of February, determine that the said James Lyster O'Beirne was not duly elected or returned to serve in Parliament as Member for said Borough of Cashel, at the election to which said Petitions relate. And further, that the said Henry Munster was not duly elected, and ought not to have been returned to serve, as aforesaid, inasmuch as the said Henry Munster was not proved to have had a majority of legal votes, and was moreover proved at the said trial to have been guilty, by his agents, of bribery at the said election. And further, that the said election was void.

And, in addition to the above certificate, I do report—

1st. That the corrupt practice of bribery was proved to have been committed by and with the knowledge and consent of the said James Lyster O'Beirne at the said election; such bribery consisting in the payment to voters of alleged claims of money against the said James Lyster O'Beirne, arising out of a previous election for the said borough, in the year 1865; and also in the paying, and agreeing to pay, large sums of money to voters for the hire of apartments in the houses of such voters, colourably for the purpose of committee or tally rooms; such payments and agreements respectively being made in order to induce such voters to vote for the said James Lyster O'Beirne at the said election. And further, that no corrupt practice was proved to have been committed by or with the knowledge or consent of the said Henry Munster at the said election.

2nd. That the several persons hereinafter named, and all of whom are mentioned and described in the evidence given at the said trial, were proved at the said trial to have been guilty of corrupt practices. That is to say, Simon Tracy, Patrick Laffan, and Patrick Cunningham, of bribery, under the 2nd section of "The Corrupt Practices Prevention Act, 1854;" and Michael Hanley, Michael Ryan, Thomas Murphy, Michael Coffey, and Edward Walshe, of bribery, under the 3rd section of the same Act; but that all said several persons, except the said Simon Tracy and Patrick Laffan, were examined before me as witnesses at the said trial, and were, in my opinion, respectively entitled to certificates under the 33rd section of "The Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868."

3rd. That, from the evidence given at the said trial, I have reason to believe that the corrupt practice of bribery did extensively prevail at the election to which the said Petitions relate.

Copies of the said Petitions, and of the evidence given at the said trial, as taken down by the deputy of the shorthand writer of the House of Commons, accompany this my Certificate and Report.

Given under my hand, at Dublin, on the Twenty-second day of February, One thousand Eight hundred and Sixty-nine.

F. A. FITZGERALD,

A Baron of the Exchequer in Ireland, and one of the Judges for the time being for the trial of Elections Petitions in Ireland, pursuant to "The Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868."

To the Right Honourable
The Speaker of the House of Commons.

IN THE COMMON PLEAS.

THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

ELECTION for the Borough of Cashel, holden on the 18th day of November 1868.

THE PETITION of Henry Munster, of 5, Paper Buildings, Temple, in the City of London, also of Sillwood Lodge, Brighton, England, now of Abbey View, Cashel, Barrister-at-Law, whose name is subscribed.

1. Your Petitioner is a person who was a candidate at the above election.
2. Your Petitioner states that said election was held on the 18th of November 1868, on which day your Petitioner and James Lyster O'Beirne, Vincent Scully, George Henry Moore, Very Reverend Archdeacon Quirk, P.P., Very Reverend Dean Cantwell, Captain Dudley Byrne, and John L. Scallan, were all duly proposed and seconded as candidates.
3. On the show of hands being taken, the High Sheriff declared the show of hands to be in favour of your Petitioner.
4. A poll was therefore demanded on behalf of the said James Lyster O'Beirne, which was granted by the High Sheriff.
5. The polling took place on the 20th November 1868, when the said James Lyster O'Beirne polled 100 votes and your Petitioner polled 84 votes; no votes were given for any of the other persons proposed.
6. The Returning Officer has returned the said James Lyster O'Beirne as being duly elected.
7. Your Petitioner states that before, and at, and during, such election the said James Lyster O'Beirne, by himself and his agents, promised money to several electors of the said borough in order to induce them to vote for the said James Lyster O'Beirne.
8. That before, and at, and during, such election the said James Lyster O'Beirne, by himself and his agents, gave money to several of the electors in order to induce them to vote for him, the said James Lyster O'Beirne.
9. That before, and at, and during, such election the said James Lyster O'Beirne, by himself and his agents, promised to procure employment for divers of the electors, and did, in fact, give and procure employment for divers others, in order to induce them to vote for the said James Lyster O'Beirne.
10. That since the said election divers sums have been corruptly paid by the said James Lyster O'Beirne, and by persons on his behalf, to divers electors of the borough on account of their having voted for the said James Lyster O'Beirne at the said election.
11. That in the said several respects, and also in other respects, the said James Lyster O'Beirne was, by himself and his agents, guilty of bribery before, and at, and since said election.
12. That before, and during, and after, the said election the said James Lyster O'Beirne, by himself and his agents, provided meat, drink, and entertainment for divers persons, in order for him, the said James Lyster O'Beirne, to be elected for the said borough, and in like manner provided meat, drink, and entertainment for divers electors of the said borough in order corruptly to influence them to vote for the said James Lyster O'Beirne, and in like manner corruptly provided meat, drink, and entertainment for divers electors on account of their having voted for the said James Lyster O'Beirne; and the said James Lyster O'Beirne, by himself and his agents, has paid the expenses of corruptly providing meat, drink, and entertainment for all the purposes aforesaid, and for the corrupt practices connected with the said election, and the corrupt influencing of persons to vote for the said James Lyster O'Beirne, and to refrain from voting for the Petitioner.
13. In these and in other respects, the said James Lyster O'Beirne has been guilty of treating.
14. The said James Lyster O'Beirne, before and during the said election, threatened to inflict violence, harm, and loss upon several of the electors, and otherwise practised intimidation upon the electors, in order to induce them to vote for him, the said James Lyster O'Beirne, or to refrain from voting for the Petitioner; by means of such practices the said James Lyster O'Beirne was incapable of being returned at the said election, or of sitting in the House of Commons, and his election and return is altogether void.

15. Your Petitioner further states that several persons voted at the said election for the said James Lyster O'Beirne, who had corruptly accepted meat, drink, and entertainment, corruptly given to them in order corruptly to influence them to give their votes for the said James Lyster O'Beirne.

16. Several other persons voted for the said James Lyster O'Beirne who had received or agreed for money, or had received or agreed for employment or other valuable consideration, or who had been promised money, employment, or other valuable consideration, for voting at said election.

17. Several other persons voted for the said James Lyster O'Beirne who, before the said election, had been retained as agent, for hire and reward, for the said James Lyster O'Beirne, and for others of the candidates at the said election.

18. The majority of votes for the said James Lyster O'Beirne was only a colorable majority, and was made up of the votes of persons who had so corruptly accepted meat, drink, and entertainment as hereinbefore stated, and who had received or agreed for money, employment, or other valuable consideration, for voting at such election, or who had been retained or employed as agents, for hire and reward, for the said James Lyster O'Beirne, or some other of the candidates, at the said election, and whose votes were null and void.

19. And your Petitioner further states, that the votes of Charles Bianconi, John Graham, and William Murphy were improperly received and recorded at said election in favour of the said James Lyster O'Beirne, the said persons, and each of them, claiming to vote and being allowed to vote as "freeholders," and no other title appearing for them on the register of voters, whereas there is no such thing as a freehold franchise in or for the Borough of Cashel, and the reception of such voters was duly objected to on behalf of your Petitioner when such votes were tendered at the poll.

20. The majority of good and lawful votes at the said election were given for your Petitioner, and your Petitioner was duly elected by a majority of such lawful votes, and ought to have been returned.

Your Petitioner therefore prays that it may be determined that the said James Lyster O'Beirne was not duly elected or returned, and that your Petitioner was duly elected and ought to have been returned, or that the election was void.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN before the Honourable Baron Fitzgerald, on the TRIAL of the ELECTION
PETITIONS for the BOROUGH of CASHEL, at the Court House, Cashel.

Monday, 15th February 1869.

HENRY MUNSTER	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	Petitioner.
JAMES LYSTER O'BEIRNE	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	Respondent.

1869.

Mr. Butt, Q. C., Mr. Heron, Q. C., and Mr. Carton appeared as Counsel for the Petitioner. Mr. Laffan and Mr. Scallan appeared as Agents for the two Petitions.

Mr. Hemphill, Q. C., and Mr. Curtis appeared as Counsel for the Respondent. Mr. Peirce Grace appeared as Agent.

Mr. Hemphill applied that the two Petitions should be tried together.

Mr. Heron opposed the application.

After some discussion,

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald decided that the two Petitions should be opened together, but that he would reserve his decision upon the future course of proceeding.

Mr. Hemphill stated that an affidavit was in process of being drawn up, upon which to apply for a judge's order to subpoena witnesses living in England. One witness was Mr. Richards, the expense agent of Mr. Munster, and the other was a lady living in Brompton-square, London.

Mr. Butt applied that all the Witnesses on both sides should leave the court.

Order accordingly.

Mr. Butt was heard to open the case on behalf of the Petitioner.

RICHARD WITHEROE, sworn ; Examined by Mr. Heron.

50. Was he there?—Yes.

51. Do you know Michael Henly, of John-street?—Yes.

52. Was he there?—Yes.

53. And Martin Ryan, of John-street?—Yes.

54. Was he there?—Yes.

55. Do you remember any other?—No.

56. Were there any other people there?—There were some more people than that, but I do not know their names.

57. Was there any other music there except yours?—No.

58. At what hour did you begin to play the violin?—About 11 o'clock at night.

59. Was it after the dinner party?—Yes, a good while.

60. Had you seen the dinner going on, and the drinking; were you present at that?—Yes.

61. And were those voters that I have named there, and dancing after dinner?—Yes; I think the drink came after dinner; I do not know how much.

62. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] You mean that they all dined together?—Yes, my Lord.

63. Mr. Heron.] After the violin began to play, had you any dancing?—Yes.

64. I believe at first there were no ladies there, were there?—I cannot remember.

65. You say you began playing the violin about 11 o'clock?—Yes.

66. In what room were you playing the violin?—In the Rock club-room.

67. At what hour did the dancing commence?—About 11.

68. Were the voters dancing with one another?—They were, I believe; I do not remember their names.

69. You saw some of these people dancing?—Yes.

70. What were they dancing; jigs?—Jigs and reels.

71. While the dancing was going on, was there some drinking also?—I did not see any.

72. Do you know Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

73. Do you remember his coming there?—I remember seeing him there.

74. At what hour did Mr. O'Beirne come there?—I cannot say.

75. How long was it after the music began; was it an hour; was it about 12 o'clock?—No; Mr. O'Beirne was there before the music came on.

76. Did he remain long?—I think he went away about 11 or half-past 11.

77. Was he there the whole time of the dinner?—Yes, I think so.

78. And he went away at half-past 11?—Yes.

79. Did you see Mr. O'Beirne with any list of names in his hand, calling out the roll?—I saw him calling the names.

80. Where was it that the names were called?—In the Rock club-room.

81. Where did Mr. O'Beirne stand when he was calling out the names?—On the middle of the floor, as far as I could remember.

82. Did he read out the names from the paper, or did he know the names himself?—He read them out of a book.

83. You say that Mr. O'Beirne left about half-past 11?—Yes, to the best of my knowledge.

84. Was there anyone in charge after he left?

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] I do not know what you mean by that.

85. Mr. Heron.] Did you see anything done about the lock of the door?—I think the door was locked.

86. When was the door locked?—

87. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you see it locked?—

88. Mr. Heron.] At what hour was the door locked?—I could not say what time it was locked.

89. At all events it was locked?—Yes.

90. Was it locked before or after Mr. O'Beirne left?—I could not say.

91. Was it kept locked after he left?—Yes, it was.

92. Do you know who had the key of it?—Some men were going out; I think Mr. Gyry had the key.

93. Is that Mr. Dennis Gyry, of Canopy-street, whom I have already named?—Yes.

94. Was the Rock club-room the room in which the dinner had taken place?—It was not.

95. Did they come into the Rock club-room after they had had dinner?—Yes.

96. Was

96. Was the Rock club-room, the room the door of which was locked?—No.

97. Which was the door that was locked?—The street door.

98. You mentioned a man of the name of John Phelan; was he a voter?—Yes.

99. Do you remember him wanting to get out at any time?—He wanted to get out in the morning for a wash.

100. Was he let out?—No, he had to wash inside.

101. Do you know Dan Dwyer, a voter; was he there?—He was.

102. Did he want to get out?—No, not to my knowledge.

103. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] You are speaking of getting out of the hotel, not out of the room?—I did not see him wanting to get out.

104. Mr. Heron.] Do you know Pat Welsh?—Yes.

105. Did he want to get out?—Not to my knowledge.

106. Did you see his wife come in there?—Not to my knowledge I did not.

107. In what room were the voters during the night?—They were up and down stairs.

108. Was drinking going on?—I did not see it.

109. Was dancing going on?—Yes.

110. How long did you keep up the dancing?—I believe till about five o'clock in the morning.

111. Were you playing the violin in the Rock club-room from half-past 11 till five?—I was; I had a rest between it.

112. During all this time were there none but men dancing; were there no ladies dancing?—I did not see any; only Miss Kate O'Dwyer came in now and then.

113. During that time did you get some refreshment, in order to put some resin to the bow?—I got a cup of coffee.

114. Are you a teetotaler?—No.

115. Besides the amusement of dancing, was there any speechifying going on?—They were speaking upstairs; I was downstairs. I do not know what it was.

116. Did you hear occasionally speeches and chatting upstairs?—I did, I think.

117. You said Mr. Gyry had the key at one time; do you remember who had the key in the morning?—I cannot say.

118. Who let the men out?—I cannot say; I went home early.

119. At what hour did you go home?—About seven o'clock. The door was open then.

120. Do you know where the men were brought to out of that; did you see any of the voters brought away?—No, I stopped at home then.

121. When you left, were all the voters left behind?—They were, to the best of my knowledge.

122. So far as you know, none of these people went to bed that night?—Not so far as I know.

123. Before seven o'clock, was there breakfast, tea and coffee?—Earlier than that.

124. What hour was the breakfast?—I could not say what hour it was exactly.

125. It was after the dancing stopped?—I saw no breakfast, but I think they got coffee some part of the night.

126. You spoke about John Farren; who stopped John Farren from getting out?—To the best of my knowledge it was Mr. O'Connor told him not to go till they would be altogether.

127. Who was Mr. O'Connor; what is his Christian name?—I do not know.

128. Were you paid for your night's work?—Not yet.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

129. You had a very pleasant evening that evening, had you not?—Yes.

130. Was not this a subscription dinner got up to entertain the candidate?—As far as I heard, it was.

131. A dinner got up by the supporters of Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes; 5 s. a man.

132. At this hotel?—Yes.

133. Do you remember whether this Mr. O'Beirne sat to the right of the chair as the guest of the evening?—I think he did.

134. You have told us already that Mr. O'Beirne left in the evening at about half-past 11?—To the best of my knowledge.

135. Do you recollect was it Mr. Farrey that was in the chair?—Yes; he was in the chair.

136. Was it Mr. I. K. Farrey?—Yes, he was in the chair.

137. You say that Mr. O'Beirne left before the music began?—I think he did.

138. Did you see him in the music-room, in the Rock club-room?—Yes.

139. Miss O'Dwyer keeps "the Hotel" in Cashel?—Yes.

140. Do you recollect when you began to play the violin, whether your sweet notes did not attract a great crowd at the door; was not there a great crowd outside listening to the music and dancing?—I believe there was.

141. Do you recollect the crowd, whenever they saw a chance, trying to get in through the hall door?—Yes; I saw one coming through the window.

142. Was not it to prevent them coming in that the door was locked?—I cannot say, but I daresay it was.

143. You saw a crowd outside, and you saw one trying to get in through the window?—He did come in through the window.

144. Was he a voter?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

THOMAS CUMMINS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

145. WHAT are you?—I am a gardener by trade.

146. Were you in Miss O'Dwyer's hotel the night before the polling?—Yes.

147. What were you doing there that night?—I was asked by Miss O'Dwyer to attend the voters' dinner.

148. What time was the dinner?—To the best of my knowledge, about eight o'clock.

121.

149. Were you there all night?—Yes.

150. Were you there when Witheroe was playing the fiddle?—I was.

151. In what room were you during the greater part of the night?—I was in every room partly, as far as I can guess.

152. You were in every room during the greater part of the night?—Yes.

T. Cummins.

T. Cummins.
1869.

153. What was going on there that night?—There was a dinner for the voters, and Mr. O'Beirne came in there to dinner; he was invited, and when he came in some one spoke to him, and said, "Mr. O'Beirne, you be at the head of the table." He said, "No, I cannot go to the head of the table, as I am a guest." Well, then, he turned to Dr. Maloney, and Dr. Maloney said he was unable to stay, that he had some business; then he sat down, and Mr. O'Beirne went to the side of the table and sat down, and took some dinner with the voters; they had meat, potatoes, and bread, and some drink.

154. Had they plenty of drink?—They had ale with their dinner.

155. Had they anything after dinner?—They had.

156. What had they after dinner?—I suppose some of them had punch, and some had not.

157. Anything they chose to call for?—Anything they chose to call for.

158. Anything they chose to call for they had?—Yes, till about eight or nine o'clock.

159. How many were dining there altogether?—I cannot say; I did not count them.

160. To the best of your recollection?—I should think, to the best of my recollection, from 35 to 40. I could not well count them, there was such a crowd.

161. Did you see Mr. O'Beirne have any book or paper that night?—No, I did not.

162. You were there during the whole night you say?—Yes, I was.

163. Was the door of the hotel locked?—It was locked; I locked the door, and I kept the key.

164. About what hour did you lock the door?—I do not think I locked the door till eight or nine o'clock.

165. Who told you to lock the door?—I came and I asked Miss O'Dwyer. At one time there was a great crowd belonging to Mr. Munster at the door; they were rushing so much about the door, that I thought it was better for them to shut the door; there was so much noise with the parties within; they were annoying the parties within at the time.

166. Was the key taken out of the door?—Yes, I took it out one time and put it back again, and then I found the door was opened and people were coming in, and then I took out the key and put it in my pocket.

167. Could not you fasten the door on the inside without taking the key?—Yes, but they went out again and left it open.

168. Was there any drinking going on there during the night?—No, except coffee and tea.

169. Do you know a man of the name of Phelan?—I do.

170. John Phelan?—Yes.

171. Did you see him there that night?—Yes.

172. Did he try to get out?—Not to my knowledge.

173. Do you know a man named Welsh?—Yes.

174. Do you recollect Welsh's wife coming to the house looking for her husband?—No; I heard she did come, and he was upstairs. I did not come down to them.

175. Did you see her there?—No, I did not.

176. Do you know a man named Dwyer?—No.

177. Do you know what time the door was opened in the morning?—The door was opened at day in the morning, just when it was clear daylight in the morning.

178. That was about eight o'clock?—No; it was earlier than eight o'clock.

179. Was it a November morning?—Yes; but it was earlier than eight.

180. Do you know whether the people that were there all night went away in a body?—They did not go in a body; Phelan, the man you spoke about, was the last man I saw there looking for grilled turkey or some more meat.

181. Did he get the grilled turkey?—No; but he seemed to be very hungry very often, and he wished to stay inside more than to go out.

182. Did all those people that were there go away all together in the morning?—No, they did not go altogether; some went in dozens and some in half-dozens. I do not know how they went out; they quitted the house, and said they were going to the Court House; that was the day of the polling, and I suppose they went and voted for whom they liked after; I did not go to the Court House at the time; they all had plenty of time to go and vote for whoever they liked; Mr. O'Beirne himself left the house about half-past 11 o'clock or earlier.

[The Witness withdrew.]

GERALD FITZGERALD, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

*G.
Fitzgerald,
Esq.*

183. You are the sub-sheriff of the county?—Yes.

184. Was any account of the expenses for the election sent into you on behalf of Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

185. Have you the appointment of expense agent?—I have.

186. Mr. Patrick Connor is the name?—Yes; I believe that is the gentleman.

Mr. Hemphill.] You are quite right.

187. Mr. Heron.] He was appointed expense agent at the last election for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

188. Was there any account of expenses sent in by Mr. Munster?—Not till about three days ago.

189. You have those?—Yes; I have them here.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. PATRICK CONNOR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

*Mr.
P. Connor.*

190. ARE you an elector of this city?—I am.

191. Did you vote at the last election?—I did, and the election before.

192. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

193. Were you appointed expense agent for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

194. When

194. When did he appoint you expense agent, do you remember; who told you of it?—Mr. Grace told me of it; I had no conversation with Mr. O'Beirne.

195. Did you get any money for the expenses of the election?—Not a farthing in my life did I receive from Mr. O'Beirne, but I received 4 l. some time after the election from Mr. Grace to pay two clerks; I paid Yoniack and another.

196. I ask you if you ever got, from any person, any money to pay the expenses of the election?—No; but I expected to get it.

197. I did not ask you what you expected; answer my question?—No.

198. You got 4 l.?—Yes; six weeks after the election I got 4 l. from Mr. Grace to pay two clerks.

199. Did you spend the 4 l.?—I paid the two clerks.

200. Who were the two clerks?—McGreehy and Yoniack; one was a check clerk, I think.

201. Do I understand you distinctly to say that you have not paid any other expenses, or have any other money but that?—Not a farthing in my lifetime did I receive from Mr. O'Beirne or from Mr. Grace before or after the election.

202. Or anybody else?—No.

203. Have you made out any account of expenses incurred at the election?—Indeed, I have not.

204. Have you received any bills?—No.

205. No person has ever sent you any bills?—Never.

206. Did you know that you were election agent for election expenses?—Mr. Grace told me so, that is all I know about it.

207. Did anybody tell you that you were bound, under the Act of Parliament, to give an account of the expenses?—No.

208. Did you know it?—I did not know it.

209. Do you swear that?—I do.

210. Do you know it now?—Yes, I do.

211. When did you first know it?—Mr. Grace told me of it.

212. When?—I think about five or six weeks ago.

213. What did Mr. Grace tell you five or six weeks ago about the election?—He told me it was necessary, under the Act of Parliament, that an agent should be appointed to pay election expenses.

214. Five or six weeks ago?—Yes; I think so.

215. How long since; was it five or six weeks ago that he told you that, under the Act of Parliament, it was necessary?—Yes, it was.

216. And not before?—I have no recollection of his having told me before.

217. For what did you think you were agent, when he appointed you?—He told me that he appointed me for paying the election expenses of Mr. O'Beirne.

218. What did you think you were appointed for?—For paying election expenses.

219. Did you know that it was necessary to appoint you under the Act of Parliament?—No, I did not.

220. Did you ever ask Mr. Grace what you were to do?—No.

221. Five or six weeks ago, when he told you it was necessary to give him an account, did he not tell you?—He did not tell me it was necessary to give him an account.

121.

222. Do you know now that it is necessary to give an account?—I do not know whether it is or not.

223. Did you tell me just a moment ago, that it is necessary?—I do not know whether it is necessary for me or not.

224. Do you swear that?—Yes, I swear it.

225. Did anybody tell you that you ought to give it in?—No, certainly not.

226. What did Mr. Grace say when he spoke to you, six weeks ago?—He told me that I was the agent appointed for paying the election expenses for Mr. O'Beirne.

227. What did you say to him?—I said, "Very well, I am satisfied."

228. That is six weeks ago, after the election?—Yes.

229. Six weeks after the election?—I cannot say that; my memory of it is, that it was after the election, at all events.

230. You were at a dinner party at Miss Kate O'Dwyer's?—I was.

231. How many people were there?—Indeed, there was a good many.

232. How many?—I did not keep an account.

233. How many do you think?—I cannot say.

234. Were you appointed agent for election expenses when you were there?—I did not know it then.

235. When did you first know it?—Four or five weeks after the election.

236. You did not know it till after the election?—I do not think so.

237. When did you first know it?—I cannot say.

238. How long after?—Five or six weeks.

239. And you did not know after the election to that time, that you were appointed election agent?—No; I did not.

240. How many people were at that dinner?—I do not know.

241. Were there 50?—I do not know.

242. Mr. Butt.] We put in this Witness's appointment, but there is no date at all to it. (To Mr. Gerald Fitzgerald.) When did you receive it, Mr. Sub-Sheriff? (The Sub-Sheriff.) On the day of the nomination; the proper day.

243. Was it given you on that day?—(The Sub-Sheriff.) It was. (The learned Counsel read the document.)

244. Mr. Butt (to the Witness).] Were there 50 people at the dinner?—I do not know; I have told you that.

245. Did you dine there?—I did not.

246. Did you see them at dinner?—I did.

247. Can you tell me on your oath whether there were 50 people or not?—I cannot, upon my oath.

248. Can you tell me whether there were 40?—I do not know how many.

249. Were there 40?—I suppose there were about 30 or 40, as well as I can recollect.

250. How long did you stay there?—Until morning, and went to bed then.

251. What time did you go to bed?—About two o'clock.

252. What were you doing until two o'clock?—I was looking about. I was not drinking or dancing; I drink no liquor whatever.

253. I did not ask you what you were not doing; I asked what you were doing?—Looking about.

254. At what?—I was looking at everything; and

Mr.
P. Connor.

and looking at parties dancing, and I would look at them again.

255. At the next election, perhaps?—And before it.

256. How many people were there when you were looking at them dancing?—I think about five or six were dancing at a time.

257. There was a piper there?—There was a sort of fiddler there.

258. Do you know him?—Yes.

259. He played?—I saw him playing.

260. And heard him?—Indeed I did.

261. Was Mr. O'Beirne there himself?—He was there some time.

262. When was Mr. O'Beirne there?—He was there at dinner.

263. Was he sitting and eating his dinner?—He was.

264. Did you see him after that?—I did some time after that.

265. Do you remember his having a list in his hand?—Oh, yes.

266. He had a list in his hand?—Yes.

267. Do you remember his reading out the names of voters from the list of the persons there?—He did.

268. Could you recollect about how many names he read out from the list?—I cannot.

269. There were a good number?—There were.

270. Was any answer made as he read out the names?—He read out the names, and the parties replied.

271. What did they reply?—That they were there.

272. It was a kind of calling the roll?—Yes.

273. When did you leave in the morning?—I left to come up here to poll.

274. At what hour?—Something like eight o'clock.

275. Did anybody come with you?—Not one. I went up to Mr. O'Beirne. I left Miss Kate O'Dwyer's about half-past seven or a little before eight o'clock. I went up to Mr. O'Beirne's place where he was, at Dunn's Hotel, and I came from that by myself up to the court-house to poll.

276. Did you leave many people in Miss Kate O'Dwyer's behind you, of the company of the previous night?—I left a reasonable share.

277. How many?—I do not recollect.

278. Had many gone before you came?—I do not recollect that.

279. Was the door locked at all that night?—It was locked now and again, not to let blackguards in from the street; and every man could go out when he liked. I went out three or four times myself, but there were a lot of blackguards, and they were afraid there would be a rush made, and we were afraid the mob might come in and beat us, and beat us they would, beyond any doubt. There is no doubt of that.

280. Therefore you kept the door locked?—At times; but every one that wished to go out could go out when they liked.

281. Did anyone but yourself go to bed there that night?—Yes; I saw John Ryan, of the Race-course, in bed also. He slept in the same bedroom, and Mr. James Farrey.

282. Did all the people that remained there go to bed?—I do not know; and when I was in bed I did not know who went to bed when I was sleeping.

283. Do you believe the people went to bed there?—I cannot say.

284. When you got up in the morning, did you see any of them?—I did.

285. Where were they when you saw them?—About the houses.

286. Did you see any of them lying in the place asleep?—I did not.

287. How many people did you see when you got up on that morning?—I cannot say the exact number.

288. Were most of the persons who were there the night before there when you got up?—No.

289. How many?—There were a good many left.

290. What were the people who were left doing when you came down in the morning?—Perhaps some were looking at one another, and perhaps some were reading the paper; it is not any one thing they were doing; some were reading the paper, and some were dancing.

291. Were they dancing in the morning?—They were not dancing in the morning.

292. Did they look as if they had gone to bed?—I do not know that, of course.

293. Could you judge whether they had been sitting up all night?—I could not.

294. Do you mean to say that you can form no opinion whether they were sitting up all night?—Well, I do not know about that, but I do not know whether they went to bed or no; they might have been in bed unknown to me; when I went to bed I fell asleep, of course.

295. Was there any breakfast?—There was.

296. Did you see any of them eating their breakfast?—Indeed I did.

297. Were they at their breakfast when you came down?—Some were.

298. Where was the breakfast laid?—In the kitchen.

299. Was there any breakfast laid upstairs?—I did not see it.

300. Can you say whether there was or not?—I cannot; I did not see it.

301. You did not dine there?—No.

302. Did you breakfast there?—I took a cup of coffee or tea.

303. Did you pay for your bed and breakfast?—I was to pay for it.

304. Did you pay for it?—I did not; she sent to me for the payment of it, and I will pay it; in the court she asked me to send down 5s., and I said I would at any time when I was passing the place, and I will pay for it.

305. When did she ask you for the payment of it?—Some time after the election.

306. How long?—I think she asked me the day Mr. O'Beirne was declared here as Member; there was a breakfast there, or a luncheon, for the high sheriff, and I was there at the luncheon, and she asked me to send 5s.

307. Did you tell me that it was some time after the election that she asked you?—And was not that after the election?

308. Was it some time after the election?—It was some short time after the election; the election was before it; and on another occasion she was here in this court, and she said I had not sent down the 5s.; I said "No," and I swear, upon my oath, I will pay it.

309. Will you swear now that she asked you for payment on the day of the declaration of the poll?—She did not ask me for payment, but she said, "You owe me 5s. for being here last night." "Very well," said I, "but, at the same time, I ate

ate nothing, but for stopping there I will pay the 5 s."

310. How did you come to owe her 5 s.?—I do not know; that was what she said; I stopped there, and went to bed there.

311. Do you owe her 5 s. for your bed?—Whatever she charged me I will pay.

312. Do you owe her 5 s. for your bed?—I do not know what she will charge me for bed and breakfast.

313. Do you owe her 5 s. for bed and breakfast?—Five shillings she said.

314. Do you owe her 5 s. for bed and breakfast; that is a very plain question?—Respecting that, if she charges me more I will pay it, and if she would take less I am willing to give her less.

315. Have you a brother called Thomas Connor?—I have.

316. Was he at Miss Kate O'Dwyer's that night?—He was.

317. Did he dine there?—I do not know; I do not think he did.

318. Did you ever speak to Mr. O'Beirne about your having been appointed his agent for election expenses?—No, never.

319. Up to this moment?—Never.

320. Did you see Mr. O'Beirne during the election?—Of course I did.

321. Did you see him often?—Indeed I did.

322. Did you have a conversation with him about the election?—Of course I had.

323. And you were doing your best to return him?—I was not his canvassing agent in any one way, but of course I had a wish that he should be elected.

324. Answer my question; were you doing your best to return him as Member for Cashel?—My best was no best.

325. Were you doing your best to return him as Member for Cashel?—I was not doing my best, because my best was nothing; I voted myself for him independently; and I swore on this table before Mr. Rolliston last June, when I was cross-examined, that I would vote for Mr. O'Beirne in preference to any member who came against him, because I think him a good member for the country, and I stuck to my oath.

326. Did you do anything to try and return him?—I did not do anything to try and return him because I had no influence.

327. You did not?—I did not ask any man to vote for him.

328. You did not?—No; on my oath.

329. What did you go to him for on the morning of the polling?—I went to tell him the electors were gone up, and I went to him for one of the registries to know how they would vote.

330. How who would vote?—How the electors would vote, both sides.

331. You went up to tell him the electors were gone up?—Yes, some of the electors.

332. What electors?—The electors that would vote for him.

333. What electors that would vote for him?—Some of his own electors.

334. Who were they?—I did not name them.

335. What electors had gone up that you went to tell him about?—That they were to go up.

336. Do you mean to say that you went to tell Mr. O'Beirne, the candidate, that some of the electors were to go up?—Yes, the electors that were at Kate O'Dwyer's I asked to go up, and I kept an account of those who would vote for him and against him.

337. You went to tell him that the electors at Kate O'Dwyer's were going up?—What I went there principally was for the registry list.

338. Did you tell me you went to tell him that the electors were going up; give a straightforward answer?—I am inclined to do so.

339. Were those the electors who were at Kate O'Dwyer's you went to tell him about?—I did not go to him to tell him particularly that the electors were going up; the principal thing I went for was the registry list.

340. Did you tell me that you went to tell him the electors were going up?—I did not tell him—

341. I did not ask you that?—The answer I gave was that I went for the registry list, and I told Mr. O'Beirne the electors were going up.

342. What electors did you tell him were going up?—The electors at Kate O'Dwyer's.

343. Were you ever at the commons before the election?—I live on the commons of Cashel.

344. Did you ever see your brother Tom out there?—Did I ever see my brother Tom there? We live in the same house.

345. Where does your brother Tom live?—He is doing business at Mr. Mat Handel's at Cashel.

346. Where did he live at the time of the election?—At Mr. Mat Handel's.

347. Did you ever see your brother at the commons of Cashel for a month before the election?—Indeed I did.

348. How often?—I do not keep an account of where my brother goes.

349. Was he in your house?—He is welcome to go anywhere.

350. How often was he at the commons the week before the election?—I cannot say; he could go there many times without my seeing him.

351. But did you see him the week before the election?—I do not remember that I saw him the next week before the election.

352. You say you never asked one of your neighbours in the commons to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—Never at this election; I did at the election before this.

353. Are you farming on the common?—Indeed I am.

354. Have you given up the law entirely?—What do you mean by "law"?

355. Were you ever engaged in the law?—I was some time a clerk to an attorney, some years ago, and then I went to a farm when my father died.

356. You are now a farmer entirely?—That is all.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

357. I think you said there was a great mob outside Kate O'Dwyer's?—There was.

358. Were they shouting against anybody?—They were shouting, "Here is Munster against O'Beirne."

359. They were in favour of Mr. Munster?—Yes, there was a rush came to the door, and they thought to break in the door; I was near the door when the rush came to it, and they thought of pushing in the door on us; we were afraid to have such a hired mob going through the town night and day.

360. Did the mob want to beat the people inside?—That was my opinion.

361. Were all the people there at the dinner voters

Mr.
P. Connbr.
15 February
1869.

Mr. voters of Mr. O'Beirne?—There were some who
P. Connor. were not voters at all.
 362. Those who were voters were supporters
 15 February of Mr. O'Beirne?—They were.
 1869. 363. Do you know what got up the dinner?—
 Yes, there were subscriptions made by the electors themselves, and some paid, and those who did not pay owed it to Miss O'Dwyer; they were determined to give Mr. O'Beirne a dinner the night before the election, and they paid it out of their own pockets; some of them paid, and I heard those who did not pay will pay.

364. It was a subscription dinner?—Yes.
 365. Did you dance yourself at all?—I am not a dancer unless I caper about.
 366. It is in that house that the Rock Club meet?—Yes.
 367. Whenever there is a public dinner it generally takes place at Miss O'Dwyer's?—Yes.
 368. There is a good room there, and there is a good cook?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MICHAEL RYAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

M. Ryan. 369. You are a voter?—Yes.
 370. And you voted at the last election for
 Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.
 371. You are Michael Ryan, of Main-street?
 —Yes.
 372. Have you any one living in the house with you who has also a vote?—Yes.
 373. What is his name?—Michael Murnan.
 374. Is he a lodger?—Yes.
 375. Were your rooms placarded for O'Beirne as committee-rooms?—Yes.
 376. From the top to the bottom of the house?
 —Yes.
 377. Who took your committee-rooms from you?—Mr. O'Beirne.
 378. Mr. O'Beirne himself did it?—Yes.
 379. How much was he to pay you for them?
 —£.60.
 380. When were they taken?—Two or three days before the election.
 381. Where was it Mr. O'Beirne took them from you?—At Mr. James Dunn's.
 382. Who were by?—I think Mr. Grace.
 383. Mr. Grace, the conducting agent?—Yes.
 384. Who else was by?—I could not say, except
 Mr. O'Connor.
 385. Is that the expense agent?—No; I think he was there; I cannot say.
 386. What hour of the day was it?—It was about 12 o'clock or 1 o'clock in the day.
 387. Were you sent for to go to this house?—
 Yes.
 388. Who came for you?—I believe Mick Ive.
 389. What is his Christian name?—Michael.
 390. Who else?—A Captain Graham.
 391. That is Captain John Graham?—Yes.
 392. Was it Captain Graham that spoke to you about your rooms first?—Mick Ive and Captain Graham.
 393. They both spoke to you?—Yes.
 394. At that time had you made up your mind; come, you know what I mean. On your oath, at that time had you made up your mind?
 —To set the rooms?
 395. Had you made up your mind to set your rooms and your vote, or does your vote go with the rooms?—No, I only set the rooms.
 396. At the time that Captain Graham came to you about your rooms, had you made up your mind which way you would vote?—No, I did not mind; I only set my rooms.
 397. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] You are asked had you promised to vote before that, or had you made up your mind how you would vote?—No,
 I was not asked before anything about it.
 398. Mr. Heron.] Were you paid the 60 l.?—
 Yes.
 399. By whom?—By Mr. O'Beirne.

400. When?—I could not say; two or three days before the election took place.
 401. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Was that at the time they were hired?—Yes, my Lord.
 402. Mr. Heron.] Was it paid in notes or by cheque?—Notes.
 403. What sort of notes?—I think they were Bank of Ireland notes.
 404. Were they 5 l. notes, or were they 20 l.
 notes, or what?—I think they were 5 l. notes.
 405. Did you give a receipt?—No.
 406. Did you put any writing under your hand at all?—No.
 407. You have said that Murnan was a lodger with you?—Yes.
 408. At the time your rooms were hired, had Murnan made up his mind which way he would vote?—No.
 409. How much did Murnan pay you for your lodgings?—He pays me 20 l. a year.
 410. For lodgings and board?—Board and lodging; in all, about that.
 411. He pays you in all about 20 l. a year for board and lodging?—Yes.
 412. That is a little over 1 s. a day; 1 s. a day is 18 l. 5 s. a year?—A little over it; not much.
 413. Did you give any of the 60 l. to Murnan?
 —No, my Lord, I did not.
 414. How much rent did Murnan owe you at the time of the election?—I believe he owed
 20 l.; he paid it since.
 415. You say at the time you got the 60 l., which was on the same day you made the bargain, that Murnan had not made up his mind how to vote; after that, did you ask Murnan to vote for
 Mr. O'Beirne?—No, never.
 416. Do you mean to tell his Lordship that you never spoke to Murnan before or after the election about his vote?—No.
 417. Where were the committee-rooms?—Up on the first landing.
 418. A drawing-room?—Yes.
 419. And is there a bedroom behind?—There is, and a back room.
 420. Were the committee-rooms this one drawing-room?—There were two others attached to it.
 421. He had the use of two other rooms?—
 Yes.
 422. Do you remember the day of nomination?
 —Yes.
 423. Were the rooms taken the day before the nomination?—Yes.
 424. The nomination was on the 18th, and the polling was on the 20th; do you know that?—
 Yes, I do.
 425. Your rooms were taken on the 17th?—I could not exactly say, but they were taken two or three days before the nomination.

426. Had

426. Had Mr. O'Beirne a committee at all, that you know of?—There is a hall going in and behind the shop; I was busy, and they may pass up to the rooms unknown to me.

427. You did not notice them passing up?—They could pass up, but I did not see any; they could pass up the shop and the hall too.

428. From that day to this did you ever see Mr. O'Beirne or anybody else in the house from the day they took the rooms?—They called, but I did not see any one.

429. What rent do you pay for your house?—£. 18 10s. a year.

430. How many rooms are there in the house?—Seven or eight rooms; eight, I think.

431. There is a little hall door beside the shop?—Yes.

432. There was a servant who opened that door if any one chose to come in?—Yes.

433. Did you supply any pen, ink, or paper for the committee?—No.

434. Did you do anything to the rooms for the committee?—Yes; it was cleaned out.

435. And I suppose the servant washed out the service?—Yes.

436. Who was the servant who was to open the door for the gentlemen, if any of them came?—They were not hired servants, they would be weekly.

437. At the time was there a servant to open the door if anybody knocked at the door?—There were women hired weekly.

438. Is there a knocker to the hall door?—Yes.

439. I presume the same knocker is there still, and was not injured by the number of knocks at the election?—Yes.

440. Can you name to his Lordship any other voters who were present on that occasion when your rooms were taken?—No, I think not.

441. Before Captain Graham came to you on that day, had he often been with you about the rooms?—He spoke about them.

442. How much did you ask for the rooms; at first did you not ask 75*l.*?—I could not say now; I think I did something that way.

443. You asked Captain Graham?—Yes.

444. Had you ever asked Mr. O'Beirne to give you 75*l.*?—No.

445. How much did you ask when the rooms were taken?—£. 60.

446. I ask you before you go down, how long before the election did Captain Graham first offer you anything for your rooms?—He spoke to me a long time before.

447. Did he speak to you a month before the election; I want to know what was the first offer Captain Graham made to you?—£. 35 or 40 l.

448. And you refused to take it?—I did not.

449. Would you have taken 30*l.* for your rooms?—No.

450. Did Captain Graham ever speak to you about Murnan?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

451. At the time you let the rooms as you have said, was there any bargain whatever about your vote, or was your vote mentioned at all?—Not the least.

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

452. How soon after the rooms were let did you make up your mind to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—It did not enter into my mind at all; the rooms were taken simply. Any more than that there was nothing else said to me but taking the rooms.

453. Mr. Curtis.] Whether you let the rooms or not, would you not have voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—I had an inclination that way.

454. Do not you know that you would?—I had an inclination for voting for him, but I did not say so to Graham.

455. Mr. Heron.] Did not you already say that you had not made up your mind?—No; I had an inclination, but I never set the rooms.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. HENRY M. BARRON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

Witness.] WE are bound to secrecy in the bank; must I show the books?

456. You are Manager of the National Bank in this town?—Yes.

457. Do you know Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

458. What books have you here?—The current account ledger, in which Mr. O'Beirne's account is kept.

459. Find that account and tell his Lordship when that current account was opened?—The first entry is October 1868.

460. What date?—The 12th of October.

461. The account was opened by a lodgment?—Yes.

462. What was lodged on that day in October?—The lodgment was 200 l.

463. How long does the account continue down to; have you totted the debit and credit side of the account?—Yes; October 12th 1868 to December.

464. What date in December?—The 31st of December it was closed.

465. What is the whole amount of lodgment during that period?—812*l.* 19*s.*

121.

466. Does it appear by that book how that money was paid out from time to time?—By cheques.

467. Drawn by Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

468. Have you the cheques?—No; the cheques were given up.

469. What became of them?—They were sent to Mr. O'Beirne.

470. Have you the receipt of Mr. O'Beirne for them?—Yes, "28th of December 1868.—I have examined my account at the National Bank of Cashel to the 22nd of December 1868, and find the balance from that date to be 4*s.* 10*d.* which I hereby admit to be correct.—James L. O'Beirne."

471. That is not a receipt for the cheques, but the cheques were given up that day?—Yes; when an account is closed, we send them the receipts.

472. According to the practice of your keeping your books, does this account represent the date of the payment or the date of the cheque?—The date of the payment of the cheque.

1869.

Mr. H. M.
Barron.

Mr. H. M.
Barron.
15 February
1869.

Mr. Butt (to Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.) We have served Mr. O'Beirne with a subpoena to produce the cheques.

473. Mr. Carton (to the Witness.) When were the other sums lodged?—October 19th, 199 l. 19 s 6 d.; upon the 27th, 100 l.; November 16th, 199 l. 19 s. 6 d.; November 19th, 30 l.; November 28th, 83 l.

474. Whose duty is it to pay the cheques into the bank? Has Captain Graham an account in the bank?—Yes.

475. When was that opened in the bank? Look in the months of October and November, the same dates as Mr. O'Beirne's accounts, have you any transactions upon Captain Graham's account during the period covered by Mr. O'Beirne's account?—

Mr. Hemphill objected to the question.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald ruled that the question could not be put.

476. Mr. Butt.] Was there any sum transferred from Captain Graham's account to Mr. O'Beirne's, or vice versa, about that time?—There was.

477. Mr. Carton.] Was it transferred from Mr. O'Beirne's to Captain Graham's, or from Captain Graham's to Mr. O'Beirne's?—There was a lodgment made by Captain Graham for Mr. O'Beirne.

478. On what date?—The very last.

479. What is the amount of that and the date?—£. 83.

480. How was that lodgment made?—By a cheque of Captain Graham's.

481. What is the exact amount?—£. 83.

482. Was it the balance of any other account?—Not that I am aware of; certainly not in the bank.

483. I ask whether, during the period covered by Mr. O'Beirne's account, there are any transactions in Captain Graham's account?—

Mr. Hemphill objected to the question.

484. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Captain Graham has had an account here for many years?—Yes; he is residing here.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald (to Mr. Butt.) You want to know whether between the 12th of October and the 31st of December he drew any cheques; is that what you want to know?

Mr. Butt.] We think we are entitled to know what cheques he drew.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald ruled that the question could not be put.

485. Mr. Butt (to the Witness.) Do you know, of your own knowledge, whether Captain Graham paid any money on account of the election expenses?—I do not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

486. You said that there was a lodgment by Captain Graham of 83 l.?—Yes.

487. On what date?—The 28th of November.

488. Was that the balance of the debit side of the account against Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes, it was the balance of Mr. O'Beirne's account; it had been overdrawn.

489. Had you written to Mr. O'Beirne, mentioning that he had overdrawn, and asking for the balance before that lodgment?—Yes.

Mr. Hemphill stated that he would wish to recal the Witness at a future stage of the proceedings.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Upon Michael Murnan being called, and not answering to his name,—

MICHAEL RYAN, re-called; Examined by Mr. Butt.

M. Ryan.

490. WHEN did you see Murnan last?—He is living with me.

491. Where did you see him this morning?—In his bed.

492. Has he been out of his bed?—He got up a little on Saturday.

493. What is the matter with him?—A paralytic stroke.

494. When did he get it?—A week ago.

495. Did any doctor attend him?—I think Dr. Wood.

496. Do you know whether any doctor attended?—All I know is, the doctor did not attend at the house; he is on the bed in the house, and he got up and he strode over to Dr. Wood's, and he got into bed again, and I am telling you the truth.

497. Did any doctor come to your house to attend him?—No.

498. At all?—No, I did not see him.

499. But do you know?—No, I did not see a doctor come.

500. Do you know whether any doctor came or not?—The doctor would not come to the house.

501. Then there is no doctor attending him?—No; Dr. Wood, I think.

502. He went to Dr. Wood?—Before he got very ill he went to Dr. Wood; he is very bad.

503. Mr. Curtis.] He is an old man?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN DUNN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

J. Dunn.

504. YOU have been in court here?—Yes.

505. You were not subpoenaed?—No.

506. Where is your father?—At home.

507. Has he been subpoenaed?—Yes.

508. I hope he is well?—Pretty well, considering.

509. Considering what?—He was bad lately.

510. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Why is he not here?—I do not know.

511. Mr. Butt.] When did you see him last?—About two o'clock.

512. Were you talking to him at all about coming up here?—No.

513. Did

513. Did you tell him you were coming up here?—Yes.

514. What did he say?—Nothing.

515. He did not say whether he was coming himself, or not?—No.

516. Did Mr. O'Beirne stop in your father's house at the time of the election?—Well, he did.

517. Are you sure?—Yes.

518. When did he come to stop there?—I do not know, really.

519. How long before the election was he there?—For a good while.

520. For a month?—I think he was.

521. Had he rooms in your father's house?—Yes.

522. What rooms had he?—He had a sitting-room and a bedroom.

523. Anything more?—I do not know of anything more; there is a parlour adjoining the drawing-room.

524. Had he a committee-room?—I do not know whether he had or not.

525. You do not know?—No.

526. You are assisting in your father's business?—In the way of farming.

527. And in your father's hotel?—No.

528. Do you never help him in the business of the hotel?—Never.

529. Where is his farm?—About a mile from Cashel.

530. You live in your father's house?—Yes.

531. When Mr. O'Beirne was there, did many people visit him?—Yes, they did; a good many.

532. In the evening did many people visit him?—Yes.

533. How many people would visit him in the evening?—I do not know.

534. Ten or twelve?—Yes; they may or not; some evenings no people may visit him; he may go out to dine.

535. When he was there, did you see or know of any person getting drink in his room?—Yes; I did.

536. How often may that have happened?—It may occur every evening he was there, but I may be amusing myself in some other way than looking at Mr. O'Beirne or his supporters.

537. You might be amusing yourself in some other way than looking at Mr. O'Beirne or his supporters?—Yes.

538. Were they voters that used to come and see Mr. O'Beirne?—Some were and some were not.

539. Can you give me the names of any of the voters that used to come?—Yes.

540. What names?—Dr. Maloney and Mr. Michael Hawley came, and several others that I cannot remember.

541. Used they stay late at night?—I do not know that really; they may stay till 10 or 11.

542. And you say that you saw drink?—I did.

543. Were you in the room when drink was taken?—Yes; some evenings.

544. How many were there in the room with Mr. O'Beirne when there was drink given?—I do not know how many.

545. Half-a-dozen?—I think there was.

546. Probably there might be 10 or 12, some evenings when drink was given?—I cannot say.

547. Something between half-a-dozen and 10?—Yes.

548. Who asked you to go up?—Nobody asked me.

549. You walked up to Mr. O'Beirne's room uninvited?—Yes; because when I went to go to bed, my room was opposite the parlour Mr. O'Beirne had, and I might be asked to sit down; we may have had a song there or two. We had a piano.

550. Upon evenings when you were in, how many people were there taking drink with Mr. O'Beirne?—I cannot say.

551. Were there ever so many as a dozen?—Yes.

552. Were there ever so many as 20?—I cannot say that.

553. You never remember 20?—I may remember, but I cannot say there were 20.

554. You will not say there were not 20?—No.

555. Might there be 30 people in the room in one evening?—I cannot say.

556. There might be?—Yes.

557. You are not sure?—No.

558. Then there were a number of people there; might there have been 30 people that you have seen in that room?—Yes.

559. There might have been 30; you will not swear there were not 30?—No, because I was not there every evening.

560. The evenings you were there, yourself, might there not have been 30 people?—Yes.

561. You could not count them?—I may be able to count them, but I did not count them.

562. You mean that you cannot say how many people there were?—No.

563. What had the 30 people to drink when they were there?—I cannot say.

564. Was it whiskey?—I cannot say.

565. What did you get?—I might have got a glass of sherry.

566. I know you might; what did you get?—I got a glass of sherry or a glass of port.

567. There was port and sherry there?—Yes.

568. Everybody who was there got sherry or port?—Yes.

569. How many glasses were there; four or five?—Yes, there might be.

570. And more?—Yes, perhaps.

571. And a number of decanters?—I cannot say decanters.

572. Were there black bottles?—Well, there would be bottles holding sherry.

573. Were there any black bottles holding whiskey?—I cannot say.

574. When you were up there, did you hear any speeches?—Yes.

575. Where were the speeches made?—In the room.

576. Were they made to people outside, or in the room?—Both in the room and outside.

577. Was there any one that took the chair at any of the meetings?—Yes.

578. Could you tell me upon any occasion who was in the chair; do you remember that?—I think Mr. O'Beirne was in the chair one evening, to the best of my belief.

579. I mean in the evenings when the speeches were made?—Do you mean inside or outside?

580. When the speeches were made inside, was Mr. O'Beirne in the chair?—I think he was; I am not sure.

581. Who made the speeches, could you tell me?—I heard Dr. Maloney one night; I heard Mr. O'Connell another night.

582. I ask you with regard to the inside speeches now?—Yes.

583. And, whilst the speeches were making,

J. Dunn.

were there spirits, or glasses, or bottles, on the table?—There were bottles and glasses also, but I do not know whether there was whiskey or not.

584. But were there bottles and glasses whilst the speeches were making?—Yes.

585. Is it a large room?—It is, when the two are let into one.

586. On any occasion when you were there, were the two let into one?—Yes, the two were in one when Mr. O'Beirne was there.

587. The whole time?—Not the whole time, but the most part of the time.

588. Was the room crowded or full?—No.

589. Was it nearly full?—No.

590. Was it half full?—I do not know, really.

591. How many people would the room hold if it were full?—I dare say it would hold 70 or 80.

592. And in that room how many would it hold if the folding doors were not opened, and the two rooms thrown into one; how many would the one room hold; about half, I suppose?—One of them would not hold half.

593. Was there enough people to make one room full on any evening that you were there?—Well, I do not know, really.

594. You cannot tell me that?—No.

595. Did you go into the second room?—Which second room?

596. There were two rooms, separated by folding doors?—They were both let into one.

597. Were the people on both sides of the folding doors?—The folding door is on hinges, and it is let into the wall.

598. Were there people in both rooms?—Yes, there were.

599. Where was the table; in which room was the table?—There was a table right in the middle.

600. Was it a large table?—Not very large.

601. Was it as long as the table you are sitting on there?—It was not.

602. Was it nearly?—It was nearly, but it was not as long.

603. Was it as long as this part of it (explaining the same)?—No.

604. Were not there glasses all round the table?—I do not know whether they were on one side of it; they were on some of it.

605. Did you ever hear speeches made outside from the balcony at all?—Yes.

606. Is there a balcony to your father's house?—Yes, there is.

607. How often were you in the room when speeches were made from the balcony outside?—I was there once, at all events.

608. Do you know who made the speeches from the balcony outside?—Mr. O'Connell Hackett made one, and some other men from Tipperary.

609. Did you ever see Captain Graham when you were there?—Yes.

610. How often did you see Captain Graham when you were there?—I did not see him every night when I was there.

611. Did you see him almost every night when you were there?—No.

612. What was Captain Graham doing?—Sitting.

613. Did he make a speech?—Not that I heard.

614. Did Mr. O'Beirne make speeches?—Yes, of course.

615. When you were there, was the lower door of your father's house open; the hall door?—I do not think the hall door was open, but the shop door was open.

616. How did the people come in?—Through the shop door.

617. Was there any one to stop them, or did anyone who liked come up?—Everybody who liked did not come up.

618. Whose business was it to stop them?—There was a man at the stairs to stop them; not to let up everybody.

619. Do you know who that man was?—I do.

620. Who was he?—His name is Hurley.

621. I suppose you did not like any of Mr. Munster's friends to come up?—I did not know who Mr. Munster's friends were.

622. In whose employ was Hurley?—I do not know whether he was in my father's employ or Mr. O'Beirne's; he must have been in either one or the other.

623. That is what I want to know; had you ever seen him at your father's before Mr. O'Beirne came there?—Ever seen whom?

624. Hurley?—Yes, I had.

625. Did you know that he was in your father's employ before that?—No; but he often worked for us.

626. Do you say upon these evenings when there was drinking and speechifying going on upstairs, that Hurley was always standing on the stairs not to let people up except whom he wished?—Who?

627. Hurley?—I do not know that they were people he wished to let up.

628. Do you know how he knew who to let up?—No.

629. But he was always standing there?—Not always; my father said he would come here when required.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

630. I think the only voters whose names you recollect as being in that room, were Dr. Maloney and Michael Hanley?—Yes.

631. And Captain Graham, on one or two occasions?—Yes.

632. You do not know who the other people were that were in the room?—I do not; I know that Mr. Morgan John O'Connell was there one evening.

633. He does not live in Cashel?—No.

634. Mr. O'Connell Hackett lives in Clonmel?—Yes, he does, I think.

635. You said you took a glass of sherry or port yourself occasionally?—Yes.

636. You do not know what the other people drank, or whether they drank anything?—No.

637. You did not pay any particular attention?—No.

638. You saw people in the room, and glasses and bottles on the table?—Yes.

639. That is all you know about it?—Yes.

640. Was it not Mr. O'Beirne's private sitting-room that he had?—Yes, it was.

641. Were you correct in saying that there was a balcony to the sitting-room outside?—No, there is a signboard outside.

642. There is no place that you can stand on outside?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

PATRICK MACKEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

643. You are an elector for the city of Cashel?
—Yes.

644. And you voted at the last election for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

645. Was your house taken at any time for a committee-room?—Yes.

646. By whom?—Mr. O'Beirne.

647. Himself?—Yes.

648. Who were present?—No person was present.

649. Did he call on you?—Yes.

650. In your own house?—No.

651. Where was it?—He sent for me to Mr. Dunn's, but afterwards he called to see the house.

652. First he sent for you to go to Dunn's?—Yes.

653. Is that the first time you saw him about the room?—The first time he called upon me was when he came to town.

654. I mean about the rooms; how long was it before the election that he called upon you or spoke about the rooms?—About three weeks.

655. How much did you ask for the rooms then?—No money at all. There was no money transaction between Mr. O'Beirne and me at all.

656. You asked nothing for the rooms?—I did not ask a farthing.

657. Was your house taken for a committee-room?—Yes.

658. And it was a committee-room?—Yes.

659. Did anybody meet there?—Himself and some few persons met.

660. You say that he first spoke to you about three weeks before the election?—Yes.

661. At Dunn's?—Yes.

662. And that afterwards he called at your own house to see the rooms?—Yes.

663. Did you get nothing for the rooms?—No, there was no promise whatever or any agreement between Mr. O'Beirne and I. He never asked me what I would take.

664. You are not to be paid at all?—I cannot say, but it rests with himself.

665. Did Captain Graham call on you?—Yes; he did not call upon me for Mr. O'Beirne.

666. Did anyone on behalf of Mr. O'Beirne call on you about the committee-room?—Captain Graham called for his own use.

667. How much was Captain Graham to pay you for the use of your house?—£.40; he said he wanted it for himself, and not for Mr. O'Beirne at all.

668. And you asked 40 l.?—Yes.

669. How long was that before the election?—About a week before Mr. O'Beirne took it.

670. At the time Mr. O'Beirne took it, had you broken off with Captain Graham?—Captain Graham did not take possession of the house.

671. You said that you would take 40 l.?—Yes.

672. And Captain Graham was to give you that?—Yes, for his own use; he made use of the words that he did not want it at all for the election.

673. That it was not wanted at all for the election?—That it was for his own private use that he wanted the house.

674. That was a week before Mr. O'Beirne came?—Yes.

675. And it was a bargain made then between you and Graham?—He told me that he would take possession, but he declined it afterwards.

676. When you made the arrangement with Mr. O'Beirne, was the bargain off with Captain Graham?—Yes, of course, when he had taken another house.

677. Had you seen Captain Graham from the time he agreed to give you 40 l. till you agreed to give it to Mr. O'Beirne for nothing?—No.

678. The moment Mr. O'Beirne asked you, you agreed to give it him for nothing?—Yes; he asked me whether I would give my house, and I said I would.

679. Do you mean to tell his Lordship that you agreed to give it to Mr. O'Beirne for nothing?—I tell you that those were the words that passed between Mr. O'Beirne and I.

680. I ask you before his Lordship, did you agree to give Mr. O'Beirne the house for nothing?—Mr. O'Beirne did not ask me what I would take for the house; there was not a word between us.

681. Did you understand that Mr. O'Beirne was to pay you, or that you were to give it him for nothing?—I have nothing to show for it; he need not pay me if he likes; I have not his word for it.

682. Do you expect to be paid?—I cannot say.

683. Do you believe that you will be paid?—I cannot say; it depends upon himself.

684. What is the usual figure, 30 l.; is that what you ought to be paid?—I cannot say what I will be paid or what I can get.

685. Now tell me, at the time Mr. O'Beirne spoke to you was the bargain off with Captain Graham?—Captain Graham told me —

686. Was it off or on?—I cannot say, because Captain Graham, immediately after he agreed with me, left, and he did not return, and he did not take possession of the house afterwards.

687. Then, before you heard anything from Captain Graham, and only a week after you made the bargain with him, you gave it to Mr. O'Beirne?—Afterwards.

688. Before you had any further communication with Captain Graham, between the time you made the agreement with Captain Graham and the agreement with Mr. O'Beirne had you any engagement or talk with Captain Graham at all?—None after that.

689. Now, I ask you on your oath, did you give the house to Mr. O'Beirne for nothing?—I had no promise whatsoever for the house; I cannot say but what I must give it for nothing.

690. But do you believe that it is for nothing, or for 30 l.?—I cannot believe.

691. Did he ever take the house from you before?—Never.

692. Did you tell Mr. O'Beirne anything in the world about Graham?—No, not a word.

693. Had you seen Captain Graham with O'Beirne before that canvassing; had they canvassed you together?—He never canvassed me.

694. Did Graham canvass you?—No.

695. Did Mr. O'Beirne canvass you?—Mr. O'Beirne asked me for my vote.

696. Who was with him?—Several.

697. What did he say to you?—He came and asked me for my vote.

698. What did you say to him?—I said I would

P. Mackey.

would make no reply until I saw what way the majority of the townspeople would go, and then I would go the same way.

699. Up to the time Mr. O'Beirne took the rooms had you made up your mind which way you would vote?—Previous to Mr. O'Beirne taking my rooms I had made up my mind to vote for him.

700. Previous to Captain Graham taking the rooms had you made up your mind?—Yes.

701. Before Captain Graham took the rooms for 40 l.?—Yes, I was determined to vote for Mr. O'Beirne before Captain Graham took the house at all.

702. Have you a son-in-law named Dwyer?—Yes.

703. Dwyer's house was taken also?—No.

704. Dwyer's was not taken?—No.

705. Did you ever ask any price for your rooms from any one else besides Captain Graham?—I did.

706. From whom?—Not on Mr. O'Beirne's side.

707. From the other side; did not you want from the other side 50 l.?—I would not give it if he gave 100 l.

708. Did not you say you wanted 50 l.?—He came and asked me for the house, and I said I would not give the house for a small sum.

709. You said that you would not give it him for a small sum?—I told him I would give it for 50 l., but I said after that I would not give it him at all.

710. When did you say that you would give it to Munster's side for 50 l.?—Some time in September; I think the 21st of September.

711. Do you mean to say that when you said you would take 50 l. for your house that you were not in earnest?—I might at the same time be in earnest.

712. You would have taken the 50 l. then?—I might have, but afterwards I would not.

713. When did you make up your mind that you would not?—Sometime afterwards.

714. Was it after Graham spoke to you?—It was before he spoke to me.

715. Now, I ask you, do you expect to be paid something?—I cannot say as regards that.

716. Do you swear that you will not take it?—I cannot say.

717. Do you swear that you will not take it?—I will not swear whether I will get it or not.

718. Will you swear that you will not take it?—I will swear no such thing.

719. How much will you take; will you take 30 l.?—I cannot say.

720. If you are offered 30 l., will you take it?—I cannot say.

721. How much do you think your house worth for the time?—I have nothing to show for any amount.

722. Would you take 100 l., on your oath, from Mr. O'Beirne?—I cannot say; I can make no reply.

723. Would you take 50 l.?—I have nothing to show for it.

724. Would you refuse to take 20 l.?—Och!

725. Would not you scorn 20 l.?—I do not expect anything; it may be.

726. It may be?—I do not care what.

727. Would you take 5 l. for your house and vote?—I would not sell my vote at all.

728. Would you sell your house?—I would not sell my house at all, and if I would sell my vote at all I could get more than 5 l. or ten 5 l.; I would not sell my vote.

729. Did you canvass Dwyer?—No.

730. Did you ask him for his vote?—No.

731. Mr. Butt.] Were you in court before you were examined?—Yes.

Mr. Butt.] I am told, with regard to all the witnesses, they are remaining in court.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Tell me their names.

Mr. Butt.] Patrick Mackey: this witness, has been in court.

732. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Why did you remain in court?—I did not know any different.

733. You were ordered to leave the court?—I was not ordered.

734. Did not you hear the witnesses desired to leave the court?—I did not understand it, my Lord.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Who are the other witnesses who have been in court?—

Mr. Butt.] Patrick Maher and Con Carroll.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Call Patrick Maher.

PATRICK MAHER, called.

P. Maher.

735. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did not you hear that the witnesses were to leave the court; there is an order made that the witnesses shall remain out of court?—I saw plenty of Mr. Munster's witnesses in court.

736. Mr. Butt.] You said just now that you saw plenty of Mr. Munster's witnesses in court?—At the door.

737. Listening to what was going on?—They could not hear what was going on here; I could not hear what was going on.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Butt.] I will ask your Lordship to attach Patrick Mackey for contempt of court.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Why should I do it? I cannot do so on the evidence before me.

PATRICK MACKEY, re-called; Examined by Mr. Butt.

P. Mackey.

738. WERE not you in court?—I was not in court when his Lordship laid the rule.

739. Were not you in court before you were examined?—Yes.

740. Had you heard that there was an order made that witnesses were not to be in court?—I did not understand the order.

741. Had you heard it?—I was told that nobody would be allowed in court, and I asked leave of the police, and they let me pass.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] I cannot attach witnesses on this evidence.

Mr. PATRICK CONDON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

742. You are an elector of Cashel?—Yes.
743. What is your business?—I keep a bacon business, a public business, and have a little land.

744. You have a small public-house in the town?—Yes.

745. Was your house taken by Mr. O'Beirne during the election?—No, not at all; my house was not taken.

746. Did you get any order for drink?—I got no order; I gave it myself. I got no order from any one.

747. You gave drink?—Yes.

748. Who paid you for it?—I was not paid.

749. To whom did you give drink?—I gave drink.

750. When did you begin giving out the drink in this very disinterested manner?—I think I gave a gallon of whisky to Keif.

751. Who is Keif?—He is a man who is doing business for Mr. O'Beirne.

752. About what time?—The night they had the meeting.

753. How long before the election was that?—Indeed I could not say.

754. Was it a week?—Yes.

755. Was it a fortnight?—Three weeks, I think.

756. When did you next give drink to anybody?—I called in three men off the street and gave them three pints of porter; some of them belonged to Mr. Munster, as well as Mr. O'Beirne.

757. When was that?—I think it was a fortnight or three weeks before.

758. Were they voters?—No, they were not voters.

759. On that occasion that you gave Keif the whisky, what did he do with it?—I do not know; I think a man of the name of Manahan took it away.

760. Who is he; is he a voter?—No, he was one of the mob.

761. Did you give out any more drink between that and the election time?—Not unless I may give a pint of porter; I gave to Mr. Munster's men sometimes, and to Dudley Burke I gave it.

762. To whom did you give the drink?—

Mr. Hemphill.] My attention has been called to a Witness in court, close to the table, John Dugan.

Mr.
P. Condon.
1869.

JOHN DUGAN, called.

763. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did not you hear the order for the witnesses to leave the court?—I was not here at the time; I was not aware of it.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Now leave the court.

764. Mr. Curtis (to the Witness).] For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. O'Beirne.

765. Did you canvas for Mr. O'Beirne before the election?—Never.

766. You never asked anyone to vote?—No; I never asked a man to vote.

767. How much drink did you give this way before the election?—As I am on my oath, I did not keep an account of it.

768. But you could give me an idea?—In all, about 4 l. altogether.

769. £. 4 worth of drink?—Yes.

770. And you were never paid for it?—Not a halfpenny.

771. Do you expect to be paid?—I do not know.

772. Do you expect to be paid?—Upon my word, I do not know.

773. Did you give anything along with the drink; anything in the way of bread or bacon?—No.

774. Nothing but drink?—No.

775. You do not think that you will be paid for it?—I do not know.

776. When you were giving the drink, did you expect to be paid?—I told the men who got it that I freely gave it myself; I being a friend of Mr. O'Beirne, and I voted for him before.

777. You voted for him in 1865?—I gave it myself freely; I told them so.

778. Were any of the persons to whom you gave the drink voters?—To my knowledge there was one man; I think he paid me 1 s.; that is a man of the name of Kennedy on the Commons.

779. You would not be sure of it?—Yes, I would be sure that he paid me 1 s.

780. Did you keep any account of the different amount of drink?—I did not keep an account.

781. Do you keep an account of the drink that you give from time to time in the shop?—Yes.

782. Were you subpoenaed to bring your books here?—I have not brought my books, but there is not 1 l. of drink due to me from the time I commenced; I only buy a small amount at a time.

783. Do you know a man of the name of Cunningham?—Yes.

784. Had you any conversation with him as to whom you would vote for?—Yes.

785. Did you ever tell him that you would vote for no man who would not take your house?—No; not to my knowledge.

786. What do you mean by that?—I said if there was anything passing by in Cashel, I was entitled to the benefit of the election as well as anybody else.

787. That is, if money was going you were to have your share of it?—No, that I would consider I was entitled to my part of it if anything was going.

788. If anything was to be made by the election, you were to have your share of it?—Yes; I could not say that I would have it, but I was entitled to it.

789. Who is Mr. Cunningham?—He is a man at the Lower Gate.

790. Was not he an agent of Mr. Munster?—He said to me that he was.

791. It was on that occasion that you said, if there was any money going you were to have

Mr.
P. Condon.

Mr. your part of it?—No, it was on several occasions.
P. Condon.

1869.

Mr. Hemphill objected to conversations with Mr. Munster's agent being gone into.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald overruled the objection.

Witness.] Before Mr. Munster was introduced in Cashel he and I had conversations about it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

792. The Keif you mentioned is not a voter?—No.

793. Is Manahan a voter?—No.

794. Would not you have voted for Mr. O'Beirne in any event?—Yes; I would vote for Mr. O'Beirne if I never got a halfpenny, and would vote for him again, if I never saw a halfpenny, or shilling, or pound.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. JAMES DUNN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr.
J. Dunn.

795. MR. O'BEIRNE was stopping in your house, was not he?—Yes.

796. Are you an elector?—Yes.

797. How long did Mr. O'Beirne stop in your house?—About seven weeks.

798. Of course you were paid for the rooms?—Yes.

799. What were you paid?—I was paid for my house.

800. How much were you paid?—£. 50.

801. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] When did the seven weeks end; was it long after the election?—Not long.

802. Mr. Butt.] Do you keep a public-house?—I keep an hotel.

803. You have a license for wine and spirits?—Yes.

804. Retail?—Yes.

805. Mr. O'Beirne lived in your house?—Yes.

806. Did you supply wine and spirits to Mr. O'Beirne during the time?—I do not know about that.

807. Who manages the house?—My wife.

808. Where is she?—At home.

809. Do you keep any books?—No.

810. Does she keep any books?—No.

811. You know nothing about the business?—Not a halfpenny about the home, any more than you do.

812. Is Mrs. Dunn here?—No; she will come.

813. Were you at home in the evenings?—I was never inside his room but once.

814. When was that once that you were inside the room?—I cannot say that.

815. Do you know a man of the name of Henley?—Yes.

816. Was he in your employ about the time of the election?—No, not in my employment; never.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

817. I suppose there is a greater demand for rooms at the election than upon any ordinary occasion?—Yes.

818. And you get higher rents for your rooms?—Yes, and I would not sell it again for the same money.

819. Independently of the election?—Yes.

820. Did it interfere with your business?—Yes.

821. And the profits of your business?—Yes; we had to turn away commercial men that we always had.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt.

822. How did it interfere with the business?—I had not that room for the commercial men to stop in.

823. Mr. Hemphill.] Your house is not a very large one?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. PAT MANSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

Mr.
P. Manson.

824. WHERE do you live?—In Cashel.

825. Are you Pat Manson, of Main-street?—Yes.

826. Are you in the habit of letting your house at the election?—At this time I did not.

827. You did before?—Yes.

828. To whom did you let it before?—To Mr. O'Beirne's agent.

829. For how much?—For something like 30 l.

Mr. Hemphill objected to going into anything that occurred before the last election.

830. Mr. Heron.] Who took your rooms this time?—No one.

831. Were your rooms placarded?—No.

832. Who was the agent that took your rooms on a former occasion?—I disremember now.

833. When were you paid the 30 l. for the election of 1865?—I cannot tell.

834. Were you paid until the coming on of the election?—I will not answer unless his Lordship says so.

835. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Answer when. —I cannot say; it was two or three years ago.

836. Mr. Heron.] Did you hold a promissory note for the 30 l.?—No.

837. Do you know Captain Graham?—Yes, since this election.

838. And before it?—No.

839. Do you remember when Captain Graham came into the town about this election?—No, because he did not come to me about the election.

840. Did anybody ask you to vote upon this election?—No, nor Mr. O'Beirne neither. He came into my house to ask how it was that I voted for him myself.

841. Who was with Mr. O'Beirne then?—Mr. O'Connell; I think he is the nephew of the great O'Connell.

842. There

842. There were none of the townspeople with him?—No; upon a former occasion—

843. Never mind about that?—A few days before that he came, and I was not in the house on that occasion.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr.
P. Manson.
1869.

Mr. TIMOTHY HOGAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

844. ARE you an elector?—I am.

845. And you voted at the election?—Yes.

846. For Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

847. Did you get from Mr. O'Beirne, a short time before the election, a cheque on the bank?—I did.

848. Did you get the money for the cheque?—I did.

849. At the bank?—Yes.

850. How much did you get?—£.20.

851. How long before the election did you get that cheque?—I believe it was about a fortnight or three weeks.

852. Was it Mr. O'Beirne's own cheque?—It was.

853. Where did Mr. O'Beirne give you that cheque?—He gave it me at Mr. Dunn's.

854. Was there anyone there when he gave it you?—I think Tim Shea was there.

855. Is that Timothy Shea?—Yes.

856. You think he was with Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

857. Are you sure?—I think so.

858. Have you a doubt that he was?—I am certain that he was.

859. Was there anybody else besides Timothy Shea with Mr. O'Beirne when he gave you the cheque?—I think not.

860. How came you to go to Mr. O'Beirne's that day; were you sent for by him, or did you go of your own accord?—I went to him.

861. Of yourself?—Yes.

862. Before you went to Mr. O'Beirne that day, had Mr. O'Beirne asked you to vote for him?—I told Mr. O'Beirne that I would vote for him, so he need not ask me at all.

863. When did you tell Mr. O'Beirne that you would vote for him?—I told him on that day.

864. I ask, before that day, had anyone asked you to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

865. Had you seen Captain Graham?—No.

866. And no person had called on you to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—No; but Mr. O'Beirne came to the house after.

867. I mean before that day?—No.

868. Up to the day that you went to Mr. O'Beirne and got that cheque, no person had asked you to vote for him?—No.

869. When you went to Mr. O'Beirne's, do you recollect what you said to him; what was the first thing you said; did you remind him of the debt he owed you?—It was the first thing in 1865—

870. The first thing you said when you went into Mr. O'Beirne's was reminding him of the debt he owed you?—Yes; it was not with him I contracted it.

871. Why did you go to Mr. O'Beirne about the debt?—I told him that Mr. Johnson did not pay me the balance that he owed me.

872. Was that Mr. Charles Johnson the attorney?—Yes.

873. Did you tell Mr. O'Beirne what the balance was for?—I did.

874. You may as well say what you said; what was it?—Twenty pounds.

875. Did you say what it was for?—I said it was owed to me by Mr. Johnson; I was knocked up and doing no business at that time, and I said so to Mr. Johnson.

876. Was that at the former election of 1865?—Yes.

877. And Mr. Johnson was acting for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

878. And you had set your house to Mr. Johnson?—Yes.

879. And you mentioned this to Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

880. You had a balance; what was your house set for in 1865?—At 40 l.

881. And you had been paid 20 l.?—Yes.

882. And 20 l. remained over?—Yes.

883. When were you paid the first 20 l.?—I was paid that previous to the election.

884. At the time the house was taken?—Yes.

885. Mr. Johnson is dead?—Yes.

886. When you said to Mr. O'Beirne that 20 l. remained due, what did Mr. O'Beirne say?—He said he thought it was paid.

887. What did you say then?—I said it was not paid, that I had business with Mr. Johnson.

888. Did any further conversation pass between you and Mr. O'Beirne about that 20 l.?—Not at all.

889. At that time I mean?—No.

890. And did he give you a cheque at once?—Yes.

891. You were saying that you were not paid?—Yes.

892. And you promised, upon that day, to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes, I did.

893. And of course you kept your word?—Yes.

894. Did he give you a glass of wine at all?—No.

895. How long were you with him?—Not long.

896. When you promised to vote for him, did you come away at once, or did you sit talking afterwards?—I came away.

897. Did you come away immediately after you promised to vote for him?—Yes.

898. At once?—Yes.

899. And Mr. O'Beirne said he was much obliged to you?—Yes.

900. It was after you got the 20 l., you say, that you promised to vote for him?—Yes, it was.

901. And you did not promise to vote for him until you got the 20 l. cheque?—He did not ask me.

902. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did he ask you after he gave you the 20 l.?—No; I told him when I got it that I would vote, but I would vote for him whether I got it or no.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

903. Do you remember Mr. O'Beirne saying that he did not want Mr. Johnson's name being talked about as leaving claims unsatisfied, as he was dead?—Yes, something to that effect.

904. Did not he say, when giving you the cheque, that it had nothing whatever to do with your vote at the election?—He did.

C

905. Did

Mr. 905. Did he say to you, in effect, that you
T. Hogan. were at liberty to vote for anybody that you pleased?—Yes.

 1869.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt.

906. Do I understand that Mr. O'Beirne said,
 "Now, paying you this 20 l. has nothing to do with your vote"?—Yes, he said so.

907. And then he said, when you had got the cheque, "And now, Mr. Hogan, you will vote for me"?—No.

908. Did not you swear this moment, that he asked you to vote for him?—He did not say that.

909. What passed was this; Mr. O'Beirne said to you, "This has nothing to do with your vote";
 was that it?—Yes.

910. And then you said, "Mr. O'Beirne, I will vote for you"?—Yes, I would vote whether I got it or not.

911. Was it before or after you got the 20 l.
 cheque that you said that?—It was after; it was after I told him I would vote.

912. But when he was giving you the cheque, and before he gave it you, did he say that it would have nothing to do with your vote; when did he tell you that the cheque had nothing to do with your vote; was it before or after you put the cheque in your pocket?—How can I say when he did not ask a vote of me?

913. Do you understand my question; or say that you cannot answer it?—I will answer anything I know.

914. Did not he, at the same time that he gave you the cheque, tell you that the cheque had nothing to do with your vote?—He did certainly.

915. Was it before or after you had put the cheque in your pocket?—I think it was in filling the cheque.

916. Then in filling the cheque, he said, "The cheque has nothing to do with your vote"?
 —Yes.

917. What did you say to that?—I said I would vote for him.

918. Then it was while he was filling the cheque that you said you would vote for him, was it?—Yes, certainly.

919. Are you in business again?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

[Adjourned to To-morrow, at Ten o'clock.

Tuesday, 16th February 1869.

Mr. Hemphill asked for an order to serve two witnesses in England, upon an affidavit which was now prepared. If from the progress made to-day and to-morrow there was no possibility of their being over in time, they should not attend. He inquired whether Mr. Richardson, the agent for election expenses, was present. 16 February 1869.

Mr. Butt stated that he was not.

The affidavit was sworn to by Mr. Peirce Grace, and handed in to the learned Judge.

The affidavit was read.

After some discussion, Mr. Baron Fitzgerald granted the application for orders for subpoenas out of the jurisdiction.

Michael Ryan being called, and not appearing, Mr. Butt asked for an order for his attendance. He stated that a notice had been sent to him to appear, and he said he would not come.

Order accordingly.

Mrs. HELEN DUNN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

920. YOUR husband has an Hotel?—Yes.

921. Do you manage his business?—In the house I do.

922. Do you keep the books, or are they kept under your superintendence?—They are.

923. Have you your books here?—I have one book; I have no other books.

924. What book is that?—The one I keep my accounts in.

925. Mr. O'Beirne came to your house to lodge during the election?—Yes.

926. What did he pay you for the lodgings?—He paid for the house.

927. What did he pay?—£. 50, and he paid for his board after.

928. He paid 50 l., and besides that he paid for his board?—Yes.

929. Did he pay you the bill?—No, he paid me on account; part of the bill.

930. How much was the bill?—As well as I recollect, 106 l.

931. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] That was independent of the 50 l., or was it including it?—Independent of the 50 l.

932. How long was he there?—He was going on eight weeks; he was seven weeks on Saturday; it was on the Tuesday morning next that he left.

933. Mr. Butt.] Was he all that time in your house?—Yes; he went to Clonmel, and he went to Dublin for two or three days.

934. How long was he in Clonmel?—I could not exactly say.

935. He was about six weeks actually living in your house?—Yes, and more.

936. Do you know a man of the name of Pat Hurley?—Yes.

937. Was he in your or your husband's employment at that time?—He was not in our employment; he was in and out like everybody else; he was a tradesman, and he was kept at the stairs; there was the hall door and the shop door, and he was kept there to see who went up and down stairs.

938. Were there a good many people going in and out to Mr. O'Beirne?—Indeed there was.

939. Did any people dine with him?—Yes.

940. Did they dine with him every day?—No.

941. How often did people dine with him in the week?—I could not tell.

942. Did you enter everything in the book?—I did; the most he had was four or five together, and them were priests.

943. Not electors?—No.

944. Let me look at the book?—I will; here it is (handing the same to the learned Counsel).

945. Oh, I see you have Mr. O'Beirne's account for wines and spirits?—It was his own wine and spirits.

946. That is separate from the rest?—That is separate; this is what he used at his own table, and his dinner is on the other side.

947. The wine and spirits come to 32 l. 2 s. 1 d.; it is headed, "Mr. O'Beirne's account for spirits, wines, luncheons, lemonade, &c."?—I did not write it.

948. Show me any other?—There is no other at all.

949. Is this it?—I do not know.

950. Show me any other account of Mr. O'Beirne's?—Here it is.

951. "Mr. O'Beirne's account with James Dunn, October 10th;" that is 39 l. 11 s.?—Yes, it is.

952. Thirty-two pounds, and 39 l. 11 s., would make 71 l.; is there any other account in the book?—There is.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] What is that for?

Mr. Butt.] "October 10th, 2 s.; servant's dinner, 2 s., &c." It appears to be an ordinary hotel account, exclusive of spirits; generally there are five dinners, then four dinners.

953. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] What servants had he with him?—His valet.

Mrs. H. Dunn.
—.

Mrs. H. Dunn.
16 February 1869.

954. Only his valet?—Only his valet.

955. Mr. Butt.] Now, show me any other account in that book for Mr. O'Beirne; I think there is one marked there; is that it (handing the book to the Witness)?—Yes.

956. Are there two more?—Yes; that is all I have of Mr. O'Beirne's account.

957. I have only in this account two of Mr. O'Beirne's?—Yes.

958. When he came to pay you 106 l. —?—Connors ordered that which you see there. I had a bill against Dennis Geary too, and I was to deduct the two bills and the valet's bill from the 106 l.

959. Why the valet's bill?—Because he had only drink; his dinner and breakfast are down there; he called for drink.

960. Do I understand you have given me two bills of Mr. O'Beirne?—I have.

961. One, 32 l. for spirits and liquors?—Yes.

962. The other, 39 l. for dinners?—Yes.

963. And in addition to that you have a charge against Mr. O'Beirne for over 30 l.?—For what?

964. I do not know; did not you say O'Beirne's bill was 106 l.?—Yes, I did; but at that time I only put it all down rough; I am to take Connor's and Geary's bill out of it.

965. One hundred and six pounds included the two bills, and the valet's bill, and Connor's bill, and what else?—Yes, and Geary's bill.

966. This is Pat Connor's bill, the expense agent; it includes this bill; it begins on the 18th of November; it is 4 l.; it appears to be all dated the 18th of November, 4 l. 14 s.; was that all supplied on the 18th of November?—I could not tell you.

967. Is there any one in your employment who can tell; does not it appear to be dated the 18th of November?—My daughter says it was.

968. On the 18th of November Pat Connors got at your house spirits and brandy to the extent of 4 l. 14 s.; is that so, and you charged it at first to Mr. O'Beirne?—I put it all in the bill.

969. For Mr. O'Beirne, was it not, you put it in one bill?—I did.

970. Can you tell me who drank that brandy?—I could not; it was a lot of people that were in the house with Connors, but they were not upstairs; they were in about the kitchen.

971. Did you see them in the kitchen?—I was in the shop, but I knew they were in there; the kitchen goes out of the back room.

972. In whose handwriting is that?—My daughter's; it is none of it in my handwriting.

973. You could not tell me any of the people who were in there that day?—Upon my word I could not.

974. There must have been many people in to drink that brandy?—There were a good many.

975. Show me Daniel Geary's bill in that (handing a paper to the Witness)?—Dennis Geary.

976. You say you put it all in one bill first for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

977. When you put it in one bill, what do you mean by that; did you make out a bill?—No, I put the amount on paper.

978. Did you keep any entry or any bill of those things as they were supplied?—Sure you have it there.

979. Is that the only entry you ever made?—My daughter every day kept a sheet of paper, and she transferred that at night to that book.

980. This book you wrote in every night?—Every night or every morning, or whatever time it was, but this is the book.

981. And this appears to be "Account of drink due to James Dunn by Mr. D. Geary;" look and see if "D. Geary" is written in a different ink from the rest?—I see it is.

982. You do not know when it was changed?—No, I do not know that.

983. Now this bill amounts to 18 l. 17 s. 6 d., and this begins, I suppose, on the 11th of November, and goes down to the 21st, and in those 10 days Mr. Dennis Geary got drink to the extent of 18 l. 17 s. 6 d.; did Mr. Dennis Geary drink all that?—He did not.

984. Who did drink it?—I could not tell you; people that were in the house.

985. Were they kitchen company or parlour company, or upstairs company?—They were upstairs one time.

986. This drink was supplied to Mr. Dennis Geary?—It was, certainly, and which he told me he would pay for; he has a pass-book.

987. I am not sure it quite comes up to the 106 l.; is there any other to make up the 106 l.? There was the valet's account.

988. Where is that entered?—I have not that entered at all.

989. How much was the valet's bill for drink?—He did not drink it all; I suppose he drank some.

990. He treated a good many people?—Indeed he did.

991. What was his bill?—I believe it was 11 l.

992. That would make up the 106 l.?—Yes.

993. You are doing a very good business?—Yes.

994. When you give any person anything on credit, you put it down at the time?—I do.

995. Have you a book in which you put down everything you give on credit?—I have.

996. That is a general book for putting down things?—I have a day-book in which I keep my accounts in, but I did not keep Mr. O'Beirne's account in it; I kept it aloof, and I kept that book specially for Mr. O'Beirne.

997. There is nothing in this book but Mr. O'Beirne's account?—That is all; no other accounts.

998. When were you told not to put in Geary's bill in Mr. O'Beirne's bill?—The 10th of November. Mr. O'Beirne said in my room, upstairs, I was listening to him, "Gentlemen, you are my guests this evening; from this forward it will be yours."

999. That was in your presence?—He said the writ was issued and he could see no friends from that forward.

1000. He said that before you?—I was on the lobby.

1001. Where were you when you heard him say it?—I was at the door on the lobby.

1002. Did he know you were there?—No.

1003. Were you listening at the door to his conversation when he said that?—I was; there were a good many there.

1004. How came you to charge these things in Mr. O'Beirne's bill in one bill?—I did not know the difference of it until Mr. O'Beirne came and asked me for his bill.

1005. When did you charge them in one bill?—I could not tell you.

1006. How came you to charge them in one bill?—

bill?—They were as I had them in the book; they were put into one bill.

1007. For Mr. O'Beirne?—I handed it to Mr. Grace.

1008. You handed the bill for Mr. O'Beirne of 106 l. to Mr. Grace?—Yes.

1009. When did you hand it to him?—I cannot say.

1010. Before or after the election?—After.

1011. How long after the election?—I cannot say.

1012. Was it a week?—Yes, a fortnight after.

1013. When you handed the bill for 106 l. to Mr. Grace, what did he say?—I never spoke to him since on the matter. I do not know what he thought of it.

1014. When you gave the bill of 106 l. to Mr. Grace, can you recollect what you said to him?—I gave it over to Mr. Grace.

1015. Did you ever get any answer from Mr. Grace?—Never.

1016. Who told you ever not to charge these things to Mr. O'Beirne?—Mr. O'Beirne told me he would not be accountable for any drink I gave in the house.

1017. When did Mr. O'Beirne tell you that; on your oath?—The day that the writ was issued, he told me he could not give drink or anything to any person.

1018. And he would not be accountable for any drink given in the house?—Yes, that he would not be accountable for drink given in the house.

1019. And after that did you give 11 l. worth of drink to his valet?—I did since he came into the house, for the seven weeks he was in the house.

1020. How much drink did you give the valet after that?—Not after that, but from the time he came.

1021. I say after that?—I cannot say how much after that, but from the time he came into my house, he owed me 11 l.

1022. Had you given any drink to the valet, on your oath, before the 10th of November?—I did the very night he came into my house, in October.

1023. To treat other people or himself?—And everyone that was with him.

1024. Was there any memorandum made of the drink you gave the valet?—There was.

1025. Where is it?—I have not it.

1026. Where is it?—I have not it.

1027. What became of it?—I could not tell what became of it.

1028. When did you last see it?—If I went to him, I may be able to get it.

1029. Were you subpoenaed to bring your books here; can you get the account of the drink you gave the valet?—I cannot say whether I can get it or not; I know he owed me 11 l., but I think I can lay hands on it.

1030. Why did you give the drink to the valet if Mr. O'Beirne told you he would not be accountable for any drink?—Because I was sure he would pay me.

1031. Who would pay you?—The valet.

1032. Has the valet paid you?—He has not yet.

1033. What is his name?—Henry Readen.

1034. Has Geary paid you?—No, he has not; Geary owes me a larger amount than that; he has a pass-book with me; I suppose there is about 30 l. for me, but not for electioneering.

121.

1035. Have you the pass-book?—No.

1036. Is this sum charged in this bill in Geary's pass-book?—No, it is not; that pass-book has been going on for the last two years.

1037. This account is not in that pass-book?—No.

1038. Has Connor paid you?—No.

1039. Has he a pass-book with you?—No, he has not.

1040. Have you asked Connor to pay you?—I have not.

1041. Have you asked Geary to pay you?—No, I have not.

1042. Who do you expect to pay you these accounts?—I expect Connors will pay me.

1043. And Geary will pay you too?—I suppose he will.

1045. When you sent the bill to Mr. Grace, you did not get the amount?—No, I did not.

1045. Where did Mr. O'Beirne pay you, or who paid you; I have asked you first who paid you the sum you were paid?—I got a cheque from London for 50 l. on account.

1046. Who from?—Mr. Cocks.

1047. It was not Mr. O'Beirne's cheque?—No, this came from his office, from Mr. Cocks.

1048. Whose cheque was it?—I suppose Mr. O'Beirne's, who sent it.

1049. It was a letter of credit, was it?—A cheque that I sent to the bank.

1050. Who signed that cheque?—Cocks.

1051. On what bank was it?—Indeed I cannot say.

1052. Was it on any bank here in Cashel?—No.

1053. Where was it?—I do not know.

1054. Do you know who Mr. Cocks is?—I know he is in an office of Mr. O'Beirne's.

1055. Did you ever see Mr. O'Beirne after about his bill, after you sent it to Mr. Grace?—I never spoke to him about his bill.

1056. Did you ever try to see him about it?—No.

1057. Did you go to Dublin to see him?—No; I went to Dublin on other business. I never spoke to Mr. O'Beirne about my bill.

1058. Have you made any application to any person about it?—Only to Mr. Grace.

1059. And that was by merely sending the bill?—Yes.

1060. Did you say that that book was the only book you have kept, in which you have entered these things to Mr. O'Beirne?—That is the only book.

1061. Then Mr. O'Beirne's things were not entered in your general day-book?—No, certainly not: I could show you that.

1062. And this book was kept specially for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes, so that it should not mix with any other.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

1063. There is another hotel in Cashel besides your husband's, the Corcoran's?—Yes.

1064. I believe Mr. Munster took the entire of Corcoran's hotel?—I do not know, but it was there that Mr. Munster's friends stopped.

1065. Mr. O'Beirne had, as I understand, three bedrooms and two sitting-rooms of yours?—He had; there was a folding door between the sitting-rooms, and before Mr. O'Beirne came I opened it.

1066. And I believe that constitutes the greater part

Mrs.
H. Dunn.
—
16 February
1869.

- Mrs. H. Dunn. part of your house; it is not large house?—Yes, the bulk of my house.
- 16 February 1869. 1067. Am I correct in saying that Mr. O'Beirne came to stop with you on the 10th of October?—Yes.
1068. And he continued on till after the election?—Yes.
1069. You said that sometimes five or six people dined with Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.
1070. Are you not aware that there were a great number of friends of Mr. O'Beirne not connected with Cashel at all that came there?—Yes, I am fully aware of that.
1071. Do you know Mr. O'Connor?—Yes.
1072. He is a stranger to Cashel?—Yes.
1073. Used he to stay with Mr. O'Beirne occasionally?—Yes, during the election.
1074. He was one of the parties for whom Mr. O'Beirne paid?—He was.
1075. Do you know the Mr. Hacketts of Clonmel?—Yes.
1076. Were they entertained by Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.
1077. Do you know Mr. Bourne of Clonmel?—Yes.
1078. Was he entertained by Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.
1079. Do you know the Rev. Father Ryan of New Inn; was he entertained?—Yes.
1080. And the Rev. Mr. Cooney?—Yes.
1081. And the Rev. Mr. O'Connell, and the Rev. Mr. Coffey?—Yes.
1082. None of those gentlemen are voters in Cashel?—No.
1083. Do you remember a large deputation coming from Clonmel to attend the county meeting at Thurles?—Yes.
1084. During the county election?—Yes.
1085. Do you remember that deputation being entertained by Mr. O'Beirne at your hotel?—Yes.
1086. That is included in this bill?—Yes.
1087. Do you recollect a deputation coming from Tipperary to attend a meeting?—Yes, I do.
1088. Was it a large deputation?—Yes.
1089. Did Mr. O'Beirne entertain them?—Yes.
1090. That is included in your account?—Yes.
1091. Do you remember a deputation to Archdeacon Quirke from Tipperary?—Yes.
1092. Were they entertained at your hotel?—Yes.
1093. Do those deputations and persons form a large portion of the items of the demand you made for these entertainments?—They do.
1094. Did Mr. O'Beirne ever give you any orders not to give any drink to any electors on his account?—He did, certainly.
1095. Was there any drink given to electors on Mr. O'Beirne's account to your knowledge?—No; except Geary and Connors and his valet.

1096. His valet was there during the whole time?—He was.

1097. Is not Mr. Dennis Geary an old customer of yours?—Indeed he is for many years.

1098. And has been always in the habit of dealing at your establishment?—Yes; and has a pass-book at present for 40 l.

1099. Why did not you include what drink you supplied to him during the election in the pass-book; had you any reason for it?—No reason whatever. The books were not made up or settled. I thought Geary would either pay me or say that I was to put it in the pass-book, but he did not say so, and I did not ask him.

1100. Was Pat Connor in the habit of getting drink at your house on other occasions?—Sometimes; he would pay for any drink that he got.

1101. Did not Mr. O'Beirne object to your bill when you sent it in?—I never spoke a word about my bill to Mr. O'Beirne.

1102. But you got the cheque you spoke of, 50 l.?—Yes.

1103. Did you ever furnish to Mr. O'Beirne the detailed items taken from the book?—No.

1104. What did you furnish him?—I furnished Mr. Grace with the full amount.

1105. The lump sum?—Yes.

1106. Did you furnish the sum to Mr. O'Beirne, himself?—I did.

1107. That is, you furnished him with the gross amount, 106 l. odd, and he gave you 50 l.?—Yes. I furnished him with the gross amount of 106 l. odd, and he gave me 50 l.

1108. Did Mr. O'Beirne ever authorise you to supply drink to his valet?—Never.

1109. Do you know whether Mr. O'Beirne was aware that the valet was getting this drink?—I cannot tell.

1110. You do not know whether he was aware of it?—I do not think he was aware of it. The valet said that he would pay me himself.

1111. Do you know whether Mr. O'Beirne was aware that you were supplying this drink to Connors or Geary?—He was aware because he saw it coming up. Geary ordered it.

1112. When did he see it coming up?—Whatever days we sent it; I cannot exactly tell the dates.

1113. I suppose you are always in the habit of letting your hotel during the election?—Yes.

1114. And you get more for it at election times than other times?—Yes.

1115. Cashel is a quiet place in ordinary times?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt.

1116. When you say that you have been in the habit of letting it at elections, to whom have you let it before?—To Mr. John Lanagan, and I was paid just as much for it.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MICHAEL RYAN, recalled; Examined by Mr. Butt.

M. Ryan. 1117. MURNAN, who is in your house; is he any relation of yours?—He is my brother-in-law.

1118. When you say that he is your brother-in-law, has he married your sister?—Yes.

1119. Is your sister alive?—Yes.

1120. Does she live in the house with you?—Yes.

1121. Then Murnan and your sister both live in the house with you?—Yes.

1122. How long have they lived with you?—Six or seven years.

1123. What business does Murnan follow?—None that I know of.

1124. Does

1124. Does Murnan follow no business?—No business at all.

1125. Is he a partner with you in your business?—No.

1126. I do not want to pry into things, but you said he paid you 20 l.; has he any property?—He has 10 l. for injuries.

1127. Has he anything else?—Sixpence a day pension.

1128. Is that all he has?—That is all he has.

1129. Now tell me how he pays you 20 l. a year?—I did not say 20 l.; I said a little short of it.

1130. Is it not the real fact that he gives you the 10 l. a year for injuries and the sixpence a day, and you support him and his wife?—No; she attends to the shop, for which she gets wages.

1131. The wife helps you in the shop?—Yes.

1132. And in return for all that, do you get his pension?—Yes.

1133. And you support him and his wife?—Yes.

1134. How long has he been paralysed?—He is not paralysed, but he has a touch in the face.

1135. How long has he had that?—For something about a week or something more.

1136. And before that was he in good health?—He was; not very good. 16 February 1869.

1137. Was not he always a feeble man?—He is a feeble man.

1138. And has been so for some time?—Yes.

1139. Would he be able to come here; on your oath?—I think he is not fit to appear in court.

1140. Would he be able to walk up here?—I think it would be very badly.

1141. But he could do it?—He does better in bed, but he made an attempt to get up on Saturday, and very short he was up, and he went to bed again.

1142. Do you say, on your oath, that you do not think he could walk up to this court house?—I cannot say what way he could get along. I never saw him out of his bed for a week; he made an attempt at getting up and very badly he was.

[The Witness withdrew.

Miss ELLEN DUNN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

1143. DID you keep this book, and is it in your handwriting?—Yes.

1144. Will you turn to the amount of drink that Connors got?—Here it is (handing the same to the learned Counsel).

1145. The 18th; was this the day of the nomination?—I do not know; I suppose so.

1146. What is the entry at the top of it?—“Drink given to Pat Connors, 18th November 1868.”

1147. Connors was not able to drink that himself?—I do not know what he did with it.

1148. Did he throw it away?—He got it in the shop. I did not give it all to him. I gave part of it.

1149. Were there people drinking in the shop?—There were about the place.

1150. On Connor's order?—Any drink he got he got it himself.

1151. How do you mean got it himself?—Called for it.

1152. And gave it to the other people?—I suppose so.

1153. You know the people of the town very well?—Yes.

1154. Who were there that day drinking on Connor's order?—I cannot say.

1155. You knew them?—I knew some of them.

1156. Were there 30 people that day drinking?—There may have been.

1157. Were there 50?—I would not swear that there were 50.

1158. Turn to the valet's account?—I had not the valet's account then.

1159. When did you write out that entry?—At the time of the election.

1160. That was on the 18th?—Yes.

1161. Now do you see what is called Mr. Geary's account; the 18 l. account?—Yes.

1162. Is that heading in your handwriting?—Yes.

1163. Read that heading as it was originally?—Mr. O'Connor's name is there, but Mr. Geary told me it was for him, and I altered it.

1164. Why did you put it down to Mr. O'Connor?—Mr. O'Connor called for part of it, and Mr. Geary said he was to pay for that.

121.

1165. What O'Connor is that?—Mr. O'Connor of Laffaney.

1166. Was he the gentleman who begun to order this on the 11th?—I could not tell that he begun the order; he ordered a few things, and Mr. Geary said afterwards to have his name put to it.

1167. Mr. O'Connor must have commenced it when you put his name—I suppose so.

1168. Do not you believe so?—I believe it.

1169. How long was it that Mr. O'Connor continued the orders?—I cannot tell.

1170. Did the people drink this in the parlour, or in the kitchen, or in the shop?—Some of them upstairs, and more in the parlour.

1171. When you say Mr. O'Connor, that is Mr. Thomas P. O'Connor?—Yes.

1172. Did you ever hear him speaking out of the window there?—Yes.

1173. While Mr. O'Beirne was there speaking to the people?—Yes.

1174. How often did you hear Mr. O'Connor speaking out of the window?—I do not know.

1175. Was there any balcony erected?—There is only the signboard.

1176. There is a place where they stand?—Not to stand.

1177. Do they sit when they are speaking?—I do not know what position they occupy.

1178. Who else spoke there while Mr. O'Beirne was there, besides Mr. Thomas P. O'Connor?—There were several people. I heard Mr. Hackett, and Mr. Browne and others.

1179. What Cashel people spoke?—I do not remember having heard any Cashel people except Mr. O'Beirne and Mr. O'Connor.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

1180. Do you know where Mr. O'Connor lives?—Laffaney.

1181. How far is that from Cashel?—I cannot say.

1182. Some miles?—Yes.

1183. He is not an elector of Cashel?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

M. Ryan.

16 February 1869.

Miss E. Dunn.

MISS KATE O'DWYER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

- Miss K. O'Dwyer. 1184. I BELIEVE you keep an hotel here?—Yes.
- 16 February 1869. 1185. Do the Rock Club meet in your hotel?—Yes, they have their rooms there, but they are quite distinct from the hotel.
1186. We know that there was a dinner at your house the day before the election, before the polling?—Yes.
1187. Did you provide that dinner?—Yes.
1188. Who gave the orders to provide that dinner?—There were so many that I cannot say.
1189. Who first spoke to you about the dinner?—It was a person of the name of Dwyer.
1190. What was Dwyer's christian name?—James, I think.
1191. Do you know where he lives?—He lives at the Commons, and there were a great many others, but he was the first; there were many others spoke about it.
1192. I suppose there must have been some one who told you what kind of dinner to get, and how many would dine; who first spoke to you in that way?—They came to me on Monday, and told me that there were a lot of persons to dine, without giving me any orders about it, and I said I could not possibly give them a dinner on Monday night, as my house was full of persons, and I would not be prepared, and then they said I might name any day myself, and I did so; I said Thursday.
1193. When you say they came to you on Thursday; who came, whom do you mean by "they"?—Mr. Dwyer.
1194. Anyone else?—Stapleton.
1195. Anyone else that you recollect?—I know their faces, but I do not know their names.
1196. Do you know Mr. Pat Connors?—I do.
1197. Was he one of them?—No, he was not; he never spoke to me about the dinner.
1198. Did you engage the fiddler?—No.
1199. Did he come to you to be paid?—He did.
1200. What did you tell him?—I told him I never engaged him.
1201. Did you tell him to go to any person to be paid?—No.
1202. Are you sure of that?—I am certain.
1203. But you did not pay him?—No.
1204. And you do not intend to pay him?—No.
1205. Have you your books with you, that you keep; the books of your hotel?—I have one book.
1206. Does that book give an account of that dinner?—No, I was paid for the greater part of that dinner; I was almost paid for all of it.

1207. You have nothing entered in your book about that dinner?—Nothing at all, nothing whatever.

1208. How was that?—I could not tell.

1209. How much have you been paid for it?—There are some odd persons in the town, that owe me for their separate dinners, and they told me from time to time that they would pay me.

1210. Have you any entry of the money you have been paid, in any book, on account of that dinner?—I may have it about, but not in any particular book.

1211. Have you any account of the people who are in your debt for that dinner?—I have.

1212. Where is that?—I could get it in the house at home, but I have no account of it.

1213. What were you to be paid for each dinner?—Five shillings.

1214. Did you include drink?—It included a glass of punch and a glass of ale.

1215. Was there more drink taken than that during that evening?—There was.

1216. Have you any account of the drink that was taken?—No, it was paid for as it was taken up.

1217. Do you mean that all the drink you sold over the 5 s. was paid for when it was sent up to the room?—Except what I said of one or two persons.

1218. Where is that account?—In the house.

1219. Do you know the one or two persons?—Yes.

1220. Who are they?—Mr. Dennis Geary.

1221. Could you tell me what is the amount of his account?—I could not.

1222. Is it as much as 1 l.?—Yes, but not much over.

1223. Who is the other person that has an account unpaid?—One of the Connors owes me something.

1224. You have that entered in the book?—I think I have it on a slip of paper; I do not think I ever put it into a book.

1225. Could you get it for me?—I am sure I could.

1226. Will you be good enough to bring all the accounts that you have relating to that dinner, of people owing you money, everything you have about it written down?—Yes; when am I to bring it.

1227. Whenever it is convenient.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS MURPHY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

- T. Murphy. 1228. Where do you live?—At Lower Gate.
1229. What are you?—A dealer.
1230. Have you a house?—I have.
1231. Was your house taken during the election?—It was.
1232. Who took your house?—Mr. O'Beirne.
1233. Mr. O'Beirne himself?—Yes.
1234. When did he take your house?—The day of the nomination.
1235. What did he give you for your house?—He gave me nothing, but he promised me 25 l.

1236. Of what kind is your house; is it a shop?—Yes.

1237. What kind of a shop?—Bread, butter, eggs, and anything of that kind.

1238. Have you any license?—No.

1239. Was it the whole house that Mr. O'Beirne took, or was it part of it?—Part of it.

1240. What part did he take?—A room or two he said would do.

1241. Did you clean up these rooms for him, or or do anything to prepare them?—Yes, they were cleaned up.

1242. What was done to them?—They were settled up; my wife cleaned them, of course; he said he may want them, and he said he may not.

1243. Did he want them?—No, he did not.

1244. No one went into them at all?—No.

1245. You say he promised you 25 l., but he did not pay you?—No.

1246. Did you ever ask him to pay you?—Never.

1247. Before Mr. O'Beirne went to you on the day of nomination, and took your house, had any one else gone to you about taking your house?—Parties on the other side did; Mr. Munster's side.

1248. No one went to you on Mr. O'Beirne's side, except Mr. O'Beirne himself?—No.

1249. What time of day did he go to you?—Just before he went up to the court-house. I went to go up to the court-house with him, and his party, and I told him the other party were taking my house.

1250. Did you tell him how much the other side were going to give you?—They did not offer me anything; I did not come to an understanding with them; I told him I would consider about letting of the house.

1251. What did Mr. O'Beirne say?—I forget whether he said to let a part of it to him, or not; he said it was too good for me, to have anything to do with the other side.

1252. Did he ask you to let it to him? No, I said I would let it to him.

1253. Was anybody by?—No.

1254. Captain Graham was not there?—He was not there then.

1255. There was nobody at all but Mr. O'Beirne and yourself?—There were a good many on the street at the time, but no one heard him or me.

1256. No one was near enough to hear you?—No.

1257. You know Captain Graham?—Yes.

1258. Had he been with you before this?—I met him on one occasion, and he spoke to me, and asked me how the election was going on.

Mr. Hemphill objected to conversations between Captain Graham and the Witness being gone into.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald overruled the objection.

1259. Mr. Carton.] What passed between you and Captain Graham?—Nothing more than he asked me how was the election going on. I said I did not know much of it. He said, are you going to vote for Munster. I said I would vote for Mr. O'Beirne, and I was going to vote for Mr. O'Beirne before he came in. I did not care what amount of money was offered to me, it would not induce me to vote for Munster.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN RYAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

1260. ARE you John Ryan (going)?—Yes.

1261. John Ryan is your name?—Yes.

1262. Are you a voter?—Yes.

1263. And you voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

1264. Did you do your best for Mr. O'Beirne besides?—No, I did not; I did nothing for him; I tried to do for my employer.

1265. You did not ask any one to vote for O'Beirne?—No.

1266. You never asked a single human being to vote for him?—No; parties may come into the shop and talk the matters over about the two candidates, or something similar.

1267. Had you any money with you at any time about the nomination day?—Money about me?

1268. Yes?—I had my employer's money.

1269. Had you a sum of 20 l. not your employer's money?—No, I had not.

1270. You had not 10 l. not your employer's money?—No.

1271. Nor 1 l.?—No, nor 1 l.

1272. Do you know a man of the name of Michael Coffey, a voter, who voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

1273. Did you ever speak to him about his vote?—Never; he was our foreman baker at that time.

1274. He was your foreman baker; you are at the head of the baking establishment, manager for Mr. Going?—Yes.

1275. He was your foreman baker?—Yes.

1276. You never spoke to him about the election?—No.

1277. You never mentioned to him the name of O'Beirne or Munster?—No.

121.

1278. Did you happen to know that Michael Coffey had a vote at that time?—I did.

1279. Do you know Captain Graham?—I do.

1280. Were you ever in Mr. O'Beirne's rooms at Dunn's?—I was one night.

1281. Was Captain Graham there that night?—He was; he came in.

1282. That is what I mean by being there; he walked in?—Yes.

1283. Were the Connors there that night; was the expense agent there; do you know the man?—No, he was not there.

1284. Do you know that man—(pointing to Connors)?—I do.

1285. Was Mr. Dennis Geary there?—He was.

1286. What night was that?—I could not tell.

1287. Do you know Mr. Ned Foley?—Yes.

1288. What is he?—A farmer outside the town; he lives in the town.

1289. Is he a voter?—He is.

1290. Is he one of the commons people?—Not one of the commons, he is a voter in the town.

1291. Did you know which way Michael Coffey was going to vote?—I heard that he had pledged himself to Mr. O'Beirne a month or three weeks before the election came off. I heard him talking about it.

1292. But you never spoke to him about it?—Never.

1293. On your oath, did not you get 20 l. for Michael Coffey?—On my oath, I did not.

1294. Did you ever give Michael Coffey any money?—Never, but his wages weekly.

1295. Do you know Mrs. Coffey, the wife?—

D

I do

T. Murphy.

16 February
1869.

J. Ryan.

J. Ryan.
16 February
1869.

I do not very well; I am not much acquainted with her.

1296. Were you ever in Michael Coffey's house during the month of November?—I was not three times in Coffey's house in my life; I could not tell you whether I was in the month of November.

1297. If it was not more than three times, you can remember the times because they were remarkable; you say you were not three times in his house in your life?—I think on one occasion he stopped away from his work, and I went and asked him why he was not coming to his work.

1298. Was that long before the election?—I believe it was after the election.

1299. Then there was one other occasion on which you were in his house?—Yes.

1300. Was it before the election?—I believe it was; I believe I took a turn in there on a Sunday when I was walking about the town.

1301. Was it just before the nomination?—I could not say.

1302. Was it in the month of November?—Really I could not positively say.

1303. Did you see Mrs. Coffey?—I did.

1304. Had you a cheque?—On my oath, I had not a cheque, nor anything tantamount to a cheque.

1305. Did you see Michael Coffey vote?—I did not; when I got the opportunity, I came up here and voted; I could not leave the business.

1306. The night you were in Dunn's, did you get any drink?—I took half a glass of punch.

1307. Were you in Dunn's on any other occasion?—Yes.

1308. Were you in to dinner?—No; nor in the committee-room on any occasion.

1309. Did any one canvass you?—Really, I do not know; Mr. O'Beirne came down and asked me for my vote.

1310. How long before the election?—I think three weeks.

1311. Who was with him?—Several; I cannot say who was with him; 30 or 40.

1312. Of the people of the town?—Of the people of the town.

1313. Voters?—I cannot say they were voters; some of them may have been voters for what I know.

1314. You at once said that you would vote for him?—Yes, I did.

1315. Your house was not taken?—No.

1316. Was Coffey's house taken?—I could not say.

1317. On your oath, did not Michael Coffey tell you that his house was taken?—I do not remember.

1318. On your oath, did not you know that Michael Coffey's house was taken as a committee-room?—I did not know anything about it, but I heard people say that the room was taken, but Coffey never told me.

1319. He is a foreman baker?—Yes, he is.

1320. Where is his house?—At a place called the Lower Gate.

1321. Who told you that Coffey's house was taken?—I cannot say.

1322. Did Mrs. Coffey tell you?—No.

1323. Did Michael Coffey tell you?—No; Mrs. Coffey never said a word about his house.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

1324. You say that about three weeks before the election Mr. O'Beirne canvassed you?—Yes.

1325. And you then promised him your vote?—Yes.

1326. Had you made up your mind to vote for him before you got the half glass of punch?—Yes.

1327. Before you went into Dunn's?—Yes, and would again to-morrow if there was another election.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MICHAEL COFFEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

M. Coffey.

1328. WHAT business do you follow?—A baker.

1329. Have you a house in Cashel?—Yes.

1330. And you are an elector?—Yes.

1331. Where is your house?—At the Lower Gate.

1332. What size is your house?—A large house.

1333. Did you let it during the election?—Yes.

1334. To whom did you let it?—To Mr. Munster; there were two rooms taken in the house.

1335. Did you let it to anybody else afterwards?—No, not afterwards.

1336. Before?—Before.

1337. Who had you let it to before?—I did not let the house to anyone.

1338. But the rooms?—I only let it to Mr. O'Beirne.

1339. When did you let it to Mr. O'Beirne?—I never asked him to take it.

1340. Did he ask you to let it?—He did.

1341. When did he ask you to let it?—Well, I cannot say.

1342. Was it before the election or afterwards?—Before.

1343. How long before the election?—I cannot say.

1344. A week before the election?—It might be.

1345. Not more?—Not more.

1346. Where did Mr. O'Beirne ask you to let the house?—In the very room he took.

1347. Then Mr. O'Beirne came into your house?—He was often there.

1348. Mr. O'Beirne came into the house to ask you to let the room?—Yes.

1349. Had he asked you for your vote before that?—Yes; and I told him I would vote for him on different times.

1350. Had you any committee-rooms near you?—He did not take committee-rooms; he only took one room.

1351. Did he tell you what he wanted with the one room?—He told me he would perhaps occupy it and perhaps he may not.

1352. He told you perhaps he might occupy it and perhaps he might not?—Yes; one room during the election.

1353. Was it a sitting-room or a bed-room?—A sitting-room.

1354. Did you say anything about the price he was to give you for it?—No, nor I did not speak about it to him.

1355. Had you any agreement with any person son about the price you were to get for that room?—No; I never asked him to take it.

1356. Sure I know you did not; but he asked you to let it?—Yes; this is a long time after my pledging myself to him.

1357. I do not care whether it was or not; I did not ask you about your pledge; when Mr. O'Beirne came in and asked you, and told you he would want your room, did you agree to give it him; on your oath?—I did not at the present time.

1358. Did you at any time agree to give it him?—I did.

1359. When?—I believe the day before the day of the polling.

1360. The day before the day of the polling, you agreed to give it him; where did you agree to give it him?—I believe I made a mistake; on that day I think I agreed with him; yes, I think it was on that day.

1361. On what day?—the day that he came into the house.

1362. Then did you agree on that day to give it him?—I did.

1363. Did you give it him?—I did.

1364. Then the room was his?—Yes.

1365. How long was he to keep it?—As long as he wished.

1366. What was he to pay you for it?—I did not make that agreement.

1367. What agreement did you make; on your oath?—On my oath, I made no agreement with him.

1368. Did you know what you were to be paid for it?—Yes.

1369. Were you ever paid?—Yes.

1370. How much?—20 l.

1371. Did Mr. O'Beirne ever sleep in that room?—Never.

1372. Did he ever come to that room from the day he took it?—He may, unknown to me.

1373. Did he ever come to it?—I do not know, on my oath, because it is at night I work.

1374. On your oath, did he ever come to that room?—I never heard he did.

1375. Did anybody ever occupy the room, to your knowledge, or did you ever hear of it?—No, I did not.

1376. And you got 20 l. for it?—Yes.

1377. When did you get the 20 l.?—The day before the day of polling.

1378. Who gave you the 20 l.?—Mr. O'Beirne.

1379. Himself?—Yes.

1380. How did he give you it?—A cheque on the bank.

1381. Where did he give it you?—In Mr. Dunn's hotel.

1382. Did he send for you or did you go to him?—He sent for me.

1383. Who did he send for you; who came to you?—I cannot recollect; perhaps a man I did not know.

1384. Was it a man you did not know?—I do not know who came.

1385. Did you see the man who came?—No.

1386. Where you at home when he came?—I got a letter.

1387. From whom was that letter?—From Mr. O'Beirne.

1388. Himself?—I cannot say.

1389. You cannot say?—No.

1390. Where is that letter?—I cannot say where it is.

121.

1391. What did you do with it?—I suppose I burnt it.

1392. Did you burn that letter?—I cannot swear I did. 16 February 1869.

1393. Did you burn it?—I cannot swear.

1394. Do you mean to say that you do not know whether you burnt it or not?—I do not know.

1395. Did you give it to your wife?—No.

1396. And you cannot say whether you burnt that letter or not?—I cannot say.

1397. Have you that letter now?—I cannot swear.

1398. Have you it?—I cannot swear.

1399. Was it signed "J. L. O'Beirne," or anything like that?—It was.

1400. Could you find that letter?—No, I could not.

1401. Do you swear that?—I do.

1402. When you said perhaps you had it, were you telling the truth?—I have many letters, perhaps.

1403. Could you find that letter?—I do not know.

1404. You do not know whether you could or not?—No.

1405. Was it a long letter?—Only a few words.

1406. What was in it?—I cannot say.

1407. Was it to go up to him?—Yes; that he would agree with me that day to take the room.

1408. And that letter was written the day before the day of polling; the day after the nomination?—I cannot say what day it was.

1409. Did not you say it was the day before the polling?—It was the day before the polling I went up to him.

1410. Was that the day you got the letter?—It was the night before that.

1411. It was the day of nomination that you got the letter; did the letter say he had agreed to take the room from you?—No; he told me of it before that.

1412. What was in the letter?—I cannot say.

1413. Did not you tell me that it was he who agreed to take the room?—Yes.

1414. Was that in the letter?—It was; it said I was to go up, and he would settle for the room.

1415. And in consequence of that letter you did go up?—Yes.

1416. Was it that night that you went up?—No, the night afterwards.

1417. It was the night before the polling?—Yes.

1418. Where did you see Mr. O'Beirne, when you went to Dunn's Hotel?—I met him in his own room.

1419. Was any one with him?—There was; I do not recollect who.

1420. Was there any one?—There was, I am sure.

1421. Do you recollect?—I do not recollect.

1422. Do you mean to say you do not remember whether you saw Mr. O'Beirne alone?—He was not alone; there were other parties.

1423. The question I ask is, whether there was anybody with him?—Yes.

1424. How many?—I cannot say.

1425. Were there three people with him?—I cannot say.

1426. Do you know Captain Graham?—Yes.

1427. Was he with him?—I do not know.

1428. Do you know Mr. Grace?—Yes.

D 2

1429. Was

M. Coffey. 1429. Was he there with him?—I cannot say.
 16 February 1869. 1430. Was Pat Connors with him?—I cannot say.
 1431. Was he not there?—I cannot say.
 1432. What did you say to Mr. O'Beirne when you went in?—I said nothing.
 1433. What did he say to you?—Nothing.
 1434. Did he draw a cheque for you?—He gave me a letter and a cheque in it.
 1435. He gave it you without saying anything?—Perhaps he may have said something, but I cannot say.
 1436. I do not want the perhaps; did not you say he say he said nothing?—Nothing that I can recollect now.
 1437. Did he give you a letter and a cheque?—He gave me a cheque in an envelope.
 1438. Did you open it then?—Yes.
 1439. In the room?—No, I went out.
 1440. You went out with the envelope, before you opened the letter?—Yes.
 1441. Where did you open it?—I cannot say.
 1442. Did you open it before you went home?—Yes.
 1443. In the street?—Yes.
 1444. Did you know what was in the letter when he gave you the letter?—No, I was not sure.
 1445. Did you know what amount was in it?—How the deuce could I know what was in it.
 1446. I did not ask you the deuce anything; but I ask did you know?—I did not see him put it in.
 1447. Do you understand the question; did you know what was in that letter when he gave it to you?—No.
 1448. Then you had made no agreement to get 20 l. for your room?—No, I never spoke of it.
 1449. Then you made no agreement with any person that 20 l. was to be for your room?—Yes, I did.
 1450. With him?—Mr. Munster.
 1451. I mean on behalf of Mr. O'Beirne?—No, I never mentioned it.
 1452. When you got the envelope, it might have been 5 l. as well as 20 l.?—I would sooner it was.
 1453. But I suppose you got the cheque paid?—Yes.
 1454. Mr. Munster had been asking for your rooms?—Yes.
 1455. Who, on behalf of Mr. Munster, wanted to take your rooms; who came to you for Mr. Munster?—Mr. Laffan.
 1456. Did you ever tell anybody that Mr. Laffan wanted your rooms for Mr. Munster?—Did I ever tell anyone?
 1457. Yes?—No.
 1458. Not a human being?—I am not sure; I think I did.
 1459. I want you to try now; have you a very bad memory?—Very.
 1460. Did you ever tell to any person that Mr. Laffan had been looking at your rooms for Mr. Munster?—I think I did.
 1461. Who did you tell it to?—I told it to Mr. Handley.
 1462. Who is he?—I think he was one of Mr. O'Beirne's committee men.
 1463. What is his name?—Con Handley.
 1464. When did you tell Con Handley that your rooms had been taken?—I will tell you; that same day after sending for me, I went to him and told him, and he told me to let them to him.

1465. Upon what day was that?—The day before the polling.

1466. On that day you went and told Con Handley that Mr. Laffan had come for your rooms?—Yes; he came talking to me.

1467. Con Handley?—Yes.

1468. Did Con Handley say anything to you about your vote then?—No.

1469. You swear it?—Yes.

1470. Did you say anything to Con Handley about your vote; recollect yourself?—Not to my knowledge.

1471. Did you say it, without your knowledge?—How the deuce could I say it without my knowledge.

1472. I ask you, on your oath, whether you told Con Handley that Mr. Laffan had come for your rooms from Mr. Munster; did you say anything to him about your vote?—When he saw them speaking to me he told me to let the rooms, and to get what I could out of him; he saw them about me, I think.

1473. Did you say anything about your vote to Con Handley?—No.

1474. You swear that?—Yes.

1475. Did he say anything to you?—No.

1476. Did you tell Con Handley that Mr. O'Beirne had been with you about your rooms?—No.

1477. Had you let your rooms to Mr. Laffan for Mr. Munster?—Yes.

1478. You had?—Yes.

1479. Then you had let them first to Mr. O'Beirne?—They were not the same rooms at all.

1480. It was another room?—Yes; that Mr. Munster took afterwards.

1481. You told this Mr. Handley, on that day, that Mr. Munster had taken your rooms, or Mr. Laffan for Mr. Munster?—Yes.

1482. Did you ask him to tell that to Mr. O'Beirne?—I did not; I told Captain Graham about it.

1483. You told Captain Graham about it too?—Yes.

1484. When did you tell Captain Graham about it?—That same day.

1485. Did you ask Captain Graham to tell it to Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

1486. What did you say to Captain Graham?—I said, "I was after letting two rooms to Mr. Munster."

1487. Did you say anything then about your vote?—No.

1488. Did Captain Graham say anything to you about your vote at that time?—No, nor before it.

1489. Did you say anything to Captain Graham about Mr. O'Beirne wanting your rooms?—No.

1490. That night you got the letter from Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

1491. And the next day a cheque?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

1492. You said, just now, that before you let the room to Mr. O'Beirne, you had promised him your vote?—Yes.

1493. And pledged yourself to him?—Yes; at different times.

1494. How long before the time you let the room room to him was it that you first pledged yourself to vote for him?—I pledged myself at different times, before he took the rooms.

1495. How long before?—I believe, a month before.

1496. And whether you let the room or not, to Mr. O'Beirne, would you not have voted for him?—On my oath, I would.

1497. Whether you let them or not?—Yes.

1498. Or whether you let the rooms to Mr. Munster or not, you would have voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

1499. Forty pounds you say it was, that you agreed with Mr. Laffan for Mr. Munster?—£.35.

1500. Which Mr. Laffan?—Mr. Pat. Laffan.

1501. Who is he; he is a brother of Mr. Michael George Laffan?—Yes.

1502. For 35 l., how many rooms were you to let for that?—Two rooms.

1503. Were you paid the 35 l.?—I had a process for 20 l.

1504. Who had you to process?—Mr. Munster.

1505. For the 20 l.?—Yes.

1506. Did you decree him?—Yes.

1507. And why did he not pay you; did he tell you why?—

Mr. Butt objected to the question.

1508. Mr. Curtis.] Were you told why it was he did not pay you the money, by him, or anyone on his behalf?—I do not recollect.

1509. When did you apply to him for the money before you processed him?—I applied three times.

1510. To whom?—First to Pat Laffan; I had not cheek to ask him; as I did not vote for him.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt.

1511. Had you promised to vote for Mr. Munster at any time?—I did once; I only wanted to get rid of him.

1512. When did you promise Mr. Munster to vote for him?—When he came here first, I only wanted to get rid of him.

1513. When Mr. Munster came here first, you promised to vote for him when he canvassed you?—Yes.

1514. That was before Mr. O'Beirne took the rooms; he came in and said he wanted the room?—Yes.

1515. Did you ever tell Captain Graham that you had promised to vote for Mr. Munster?—Never.

1516. Did you ever tell it to Con Handley?—Never.

1517. Was your agreement for the room with Mr. Pat Laffan in writing?—Yes, it was.

1518. Have you the writing?—No, he has it; I did not read it when I signed my name to it.

1519. But you had an agreement in writing to let the rooms?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ROBERT RYAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

1520. ARE you an Elector of Cashel?—Yes.

1521. You voted at the last election?—Yes.

1522. Do you know John Hogan?—Yes.

1523. Is he connected with you in any way?—Yes; he is in partnership in the grocery business.

1524. Do you live in the same house?—In the same house.

1525. The two of you are rated as occupiers of the house, you have your vote out of the same house?—Yes.

1526. I presume your house was not taken?—In what way?

1527. For the election?—No.

1528. Where is John Hogan now?—He is sent for.

1529. Do you know Daniel Ferris?—Yes.

1530. What is he?—A draper; there is Daniel Ferris senior and junior.

1531. You know them both at all events?—Yes.

1532. Did you see John Hogan with a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's?—See him with a cheque.

1533. Yes?—I did not.

1534. Did you never see a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's in your life?—I did not.

1535. Did you ever see a letter of Mr. O'Beirne's?—No; I have had no communication with Mr. O'Beirne by letter, I saw no letter either.

1536. I do not mean a letter to you, I mean a letter to Hogan?—I have not seen any.

1537. You never saw any?—No.

1538. Had you a conversation with Daniel Ferris about a letter from Mr. O'Beirne to your partner Hogan, a letter after the election; did not you know that your partner John Hogan got a letter from Mr. O'Beirne?—I never saw one; he might have got one.

1539. Did he tell you that he got one?—No.

1540. Had you a conversation with Dennis 121.

Ferris about a letter, after the election of Mr. O'Beirne's?—I do not recollect that I had.

1541. Will you swear that you had not?—I never recollect having any conversation with Daniel Ferris.

1542. Or any of his family?—Or any of his family.

1543. I now put it to you directly, about a letter directing a cheque not to be presented?—I have no knowledge of it.

1544. Did you ever hear before, the words I now mention to you?

Mr. Hemphill objected to hearsay evidence being gone into, and inquired whether any conversation that any Witness might have had with anyone in Cashel, was to be considered as evidence against Mr. O'Beirne.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] If the question is whether a vote is to be struck off, I must consider statements made by a voter, as to whether he was bribed.

Mr. Hemphill.] Where the voter is alive, and can be produced?

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Yes.

1545. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] You heard of the letter that I was examining you about; that is a letter of Mr. O'Beirne's directing a cheque not to be paid?—I have never seen it.

1546. A letter of Mr. O'Beirne's directing a cheque of 60 l. not to be presented; you never saw it?—No.

1547. Did you ever hear of it?—No.

1548. Till to day?—Not till I heard you ask me the question.

1549. Did you ever hear of a cheque for 60 l.?—

Mr. Hemphill objected to the question.

R. Ryan.

1869.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] My grounds for allowing it is, that I am not satisfied with the man's evidence, and I think they have a right to cross-examine him; I am receiving it as cross-examination to the credit of the Witness.

1550. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Do you know Patrick Russell?—I do.

1551. He is a voter?—He is.

1552. Were his rooms taken?—I do not know I am sure.

1553. Do you think they were?—I do not.

1554. Did not you hear that the 60 l. cheque was for Hogan's and Russell's votes?—No; I want you to understand that I know nothing about the 60 l. at all.

Mr. Hemphill stated that Hogan had not a vote.

1555. Mr. Heron.] Hogan the voter has a vote, and John Hogan has not a vote; it is Hogan the voter that I am asking about, that is, did John Hogan have a cheque for Russell and Hogan, the voter's vote, not for his own; do you swear to his Lordship that you never heard about Mr. O'Beirne's cheque?—I was asked the question by Mr. Laffan, and that was the only knowledge I had of it.

1556. When?—Some short time ago I was in Dublin, he asked me the question whether I knew anything about it; I told him I did not, and I tell you so now.

1557. That is the first you heard of it?—Yes.

1558. Then you did hear of the cheque before you were on the table to day?—Yes; I was asked by Mr. Laffan.

1559. Were you asked about that cheque in connection?—

Mr. Hemphill objected to the conversation with Mr. Laffan being gone into.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald over ruled the objection.

1560. Mr. Heron.] You spoke to Laffan in Dublin?—I did.

1561. How long ago?—I think about a fortnight.

1562. Did he mention to you Pat Russell's name and Dan Ferris's name?—I do not recollect that he did; he asked me about the cheque, if I had any knowledge of it, and I said not.

1563. Was that a fortnight ago?—Yes.

1564. Then you came back to Cashel?—Of course I did.

1565. On your oath, did you then speak to your partner Hogan about what Mr. Laffan told you in Dublin; on your oath, did not you?—I told him I had a conversation with Mr. Laffan.

1566. About the cheque?—I told him the conversation.

1567. About the cheque?—Undoubtedly.

1568. And you spoke to Dan Ferris about the cheque?—I did not.

1569. And you spoke to Pat Russell about the cheque?—I spoke in the presence of those parties who were there.

1570. That is John Hogan and Pat Russell?—I mentioned it to a few parties that Mr. Laffan called on me at Dublin, and asked me about the cheque.

1571. Who were the few parties?—I mentioned it to Patrick Cunningham.

1572. Is he a voter?—No.

1573. Who else?—John Hogan.

1574. Who else?—I might have mentioned it to Pat Russell, but I am not certain, and I cannot mention all that I spoke to about it; I might have said to a few parties that Mr. Laffan spoke about it.

1575. Tell the judge in your own way what John Hogan said to you?—I do not know what he said to me; I only mentioned the matter to him.

1576. And he said nothing?—He said nothing.

1577. What did John Hogan say to you?—

Mr. Hemphill objected to conversations between John Hogan, who was not a voter, and the Witness, being admitted as evidence.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald overruled the objection.

1578. Mr. Heron.] What did John Hogan say to you?—I cannot recollect what he said.

1579. Did you speak to him about the cheque?—I spoke about the conversation I had with Mr. Laffan.

1580. Did you speak to him about the cheque?—I told him that Mr. Laffan asked me whether I had any knowledge about the cheque.

1581. Did you speak to him about Mr. O'Beirne's letter?—No.

1582. Who was present?—I cannot say.

1583. Was Pat Russell present?—I cannot say.

1584. And you spoke to him the first thing?—I shook hands with him first, and asked him how do you do.

1585. You remember that?—Yes.

1586. Now I ask you what Hogan said to you about the cheque?—I cannot say what he said I am sure; I only told him of the conversation I had with Mr. Laffan.

1587. What did Hogan say to you?—I cannot say.

1588. When you spoke to Hogan, did Hogan deny having had the cheque?—Hogan did not tell me anything at all about the cheque.

1589. Did Hogan then deny that he ever had a cheque, when you said that Mr. Laffan had charged him with having a cheque for you, for Russell and the other Hogan?—Mr. Laffan's question to me was, whether I had any knowledge of the bank cheques, if I had seen any; I asked him what bank cheques meant, as bank cheques were of no use, or something to that effect.

1590. When did you see Russell about it?—It might have been the day after.

1591. Did you call and see him about it?—No.

1592. Did he call on you?—He calls at my place every day.

1593. Did he call on you?—Not specially for that.

1594. Did you tell him about it the first time you saw him?—I do not know the time I was speaking to him; I believe the first time I told him that Mr. Laffan had called on me.

1595. Were you present when Dan Ferris saw Mr. O'Beirne's letter?—Present where?

1596. Were you present when Dan Ferris saw Mr. O'Beirne's letter?—If I was, of course I would have some knowledge of the letter; consequently I was not present; if Dan Ferris did see the letter, I have no knowledge of it.

The Witness having left the box, was re-called.

1597. Mr. Butt.] Have you seen your partner since?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN HOGAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

1598. ARE you a partner with Mr. Ryan, who has just gone down?—Yes.

1599. You were not in court, and did not hear his evidence?—No.

1600. You were sent for to come up here?—Yes.

1601. Do you recollect having a conversation with your partner Robert Ryan, the night he came back from Dublin?—No.

1602. Do you recollect his coming home one night and telling you he had had a conversation with Mr. Laffan in Dublin about a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's?—No, I heard it in Dublin.

1603. Who with?—Mr. Ryan told me Mr. Laffan called on him.

1604. It was in Dublin that you had the conversation?—Yes.

1605. You did not hear his evidence about it?—No.

1606. Nor he has not told you since?—No.

1607. Had you a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's in your possession about the time of the election?—I had.

1608. How much was that cheque for?—£. 60.

1609. Who gave you that cheque?—Mr. O'Beirne.

1610. Where did Mr. O'Beirne give you that cheque?—At Mr. Dunn's.

1611. When did he give you that cheque?—About a month before the election came on.

1612. Where is that cheque?—I gave it back to Mr. O'Beirne.

1613. When did you send it back to Mr. O'Beirne?—I could not exactly say the date.

1614. About when?—About three weeks or a month ago.

1615. Had Mr. O'Beirne written to you for it, or did you send it of your own accord?—I sent it of my own accord.

1616. Then you have not used the cheque?—No.

1617. Had you any letter from Mr. O'Beirne about that cheque?—Yes.

1618. When; before you sent it back?—Yes.

1619. Where is that letter?—I did not know the letter was to be of any consequence; I might have destroyed it, or it might have been lost.

1620. In that letter did Mr. O'Beirne ask you not to present that cheque?—Yes.

1621. Did he give any reason for not presenting it?—No.

1622. But simply asked you not to present it?—Yes.

1623. How long after the election was that?—About the time I told you before.

1624. Did you tell, in that conversation that you had with Mr. Ryan your partner in Dublin, about that letter and the cheque?—No, I did not.

1625. Did he ask you about the cheque?—No; he knew nothing whatever about it.

1626. When he told you that Mr. Laffan had asked him, did you tell him?—No, I did not.

1627. When Mr. O'Beirne gave you that cheque, did he give you any instructions how you were to use it?—None.

1628. He gave you the cheque without any instructions?—He employed me as a canvassing agent; he employed me as his agent.

121.

1629. What were you to do with the 60 l.?—He employed me as an agent.

1630. Was it to pay yourself?—Yes, and nobody else.

1631. Do you mean to say, on your oath, that he gave you that cheque as payment for your own services as canvassing agent?—For my own services.

1632. Did you get anything else from him him for being his canvassing agent?—Nothing else.

1633. You got no money?—No, I have not received a single penny.

1634. He employed you, then, as his canvassing agent; do you swear that?—Yes, a month before.

1635. When he employed you as his canvassing agent, what did he say to you?—Simply that he had engaged me.

1636. Did you canvass anybody for him?—No.

1637. You never canvassed a single human being for him?—No.

1638. And did nothing?—And did nothing.

1639. You swear that?—Yes; consequently I returned the cheque.

1640. A month after the election?—A month or three weeks.

1641. Did you ever present the cheque?—No.

1642. Do you know a man of the name of Ferris?—Yes.

1643. Did you ever speak to him on the subject of his vote?—No.

1644. Do you know a man of the name of Russell?—Yes.

1645. Did you speak to him on the subject of his vote?—No.

1646. Did you ever speak to any voter in Cashel about his vote?—No.

1647. Why, when you were employed as canvassing agent for Mr. O'Beirne, did not you canvass?—I saw the danger; being a little green upon it. When I saw the danger, I did not put myself in danger.

1648. What was the danger in canvassing?—I saw I might get into a scrape.

1649. By bribery?—Yes.

1650. It was because you would not get into a scrape by bribery that you would not act as canvassing agent for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

1651. Did you think you were employed to bribe?—I was not told so.

1652. Did you understand that you were employed to bribe?—No.

1653. Why were you afraid to canvass; tell my Lord?—I will ask your Lordship's protection.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Answer the question.

1654. Mr. Butt.] Why were you afraid to canvass?—Because I thought it would be dangerous to bribe; and, consequently, I did not do so.

1655. On your oath, did not you know that the 60 l. was given to you to bribe?—No.

1656. What did Mr. O'Beirne say when he gave it to you?—Nothing.

1657. He said nothing at all?—No.

1658. He did not tell you that it was to pay you?—

J. Hogan.

16 February
1869.

J. Hogan.
16 February
1869.

you?—He told me it was for my own private use. “It is for yourself,” he said.

1659. He said, “This is for yourself”?—Yes.

1660. And you never used the cheque?—I never presented it.

1661. And never did anything for him?—No.

1662. Now, mind yourself; did you ever say to anyone that you had that cheque to pay for a vote?—No.

1663. To anyone?—No.

1664. Or for two votes?—No.

1665. Did you ever say that you had it to pay for Ferris?—No.

1666. You swear that, on your oath?—No.

1667. Did you ever say that you had it to pay Dennis Hogan?—Yes.

1668. You swear that?—I swear it.

1669. Or to Russell?—No.

1670. To anyone?—To anyone.

1671. Did you ever go back to Mr. O’Beirne after you were employed as his canvassing agent?—No.

1672. Did you ever speak to him since from that day to this?—I spoke to him last night.

1673. Where did you speak to him last night?—At Mr. Dunn’s.

1674. Did he send to you?—I went up to see one of the gentlemen with him, and I shook hands with him.

1675. Last night?—Yes; I said I was glad to see him, and turned out of the room.

1676. Did you say anything to him about the 60 l. cheque?—Not a word.

1677. Or to anybody else there?—No.

1678. Did you ever show the cheque to anyone when you had it?—Never.

1679. What did you do with it?—I kept it in my possession.

1680. Where?—In my own private possession.

1681. And you never mentioned to any person that you had that cheque?—Yes, of course.

1682. Who did you tell it to?—I met —

1683. I do not care who you met; who did you tell it to, on your oath?—I quite forget.

1684. Who did you tell it to?—I cannot recollect. I might have told a person, but I quite forget now.

1685. Did you ever tell Patrick Russell that you had that cheque?—No.

1686. Did you ever tell Dennis Hogan?—No, I have not seen the man at all.

1687. Did you ever tell Patrick Russell?—No.

1688. Who did you tell?—I might have told somebody.

1689. Do you mean to say that you had a cheque for 60 l. in your possession, and you cannot say whether you told anybody or not?—I cannot speak positively.

1690. You cannot speak positively whether you did or not?—I cannot say.

1691. Do you believe you ever told it to anyone?—I might have said so.

1692. Might you have said it to two people?—No.

1693. You swear that you did not tell it to two people?—Yes.

1694. On your oath, did you tell it to two people?—I might.

1695. Did you tell it to three people?—No.

1696. Will you swear that you did not tell it to three people?—I might.

1697. Do you understand my question; I ask you, on your oath, did you tell it to three people; either say yes or no, or say you cannot answer me?—I might.

1698. That is, you cannot say; did you tell it to four people?—No.

1699. Will you swear positively you did not tell it to four people?—Yes.

1700. You will swear positively that you did not tell it to four people; but you will not swear you did not tell it to three people?—Yes.

1701. You swear that?—Yes.

1702. And, on your oath, you believe that is true?—Yes.

1703. Will you swear that you did not tell it to four?—I might have told three.

1704. Did you tell it to four?—That is a question I cannot answer.

1705. Then you might have told it to four?—Yes.

1706. Might you have told it to five?—No.

1707. Who were the four people you told it to?—I cannot say.

1708. Where did you tell it?—I cannot say.

1709. Did you ever speak to anybody about it in your own shop?—Yes.

1710. You are sure of that?—Yes.

1711. Who did you speak to in your shop?—I cannot say.

1712. Are you sure that you did speak to some one in your own shop?—Yes, I might have done.

1713. It is not what you might have done; did you?—I cannot say.

1714. Did you tell or speak to some persons in your own shop?—I might have spoken to some person.

1715. Did you or did you not, on your oath?—I might have spoken to some person; I do not know who.

1716. How many letters did you get from Mr. O’Beirne about that cheque?—I never got only one letter.

1717. Did you ever show that letter to anybody?—No.

1718. Did you answer it?—I did not.

1719. How long was it after that letter came before you sent back the cheque?—About a fortnight, I believe.

1720. After you got the letter telling you not to present it, after the election, you kept the cheque, did you?—I kept it a fortnight or 10 days, I forget which.

1721. I will ask the question again, and ask you to recollect yourself, and take time to think. Did you ever speak to anyone about that cheque, and about presenting it?—I am sure I did not care 2½ d. about it; the cheque was for my own use.

1722. Answer my question. On your oath, did you ever speak to anyone about presenting that cheque at the bank?—No.

1723. Or about that cheque at all?—No.

1724. Do you know Pat Connors?—Yes.

1725. Did you ever speak to him about that cheque?—No.

1726. You never did?—No.

1727. You never said to him there were no funds in the bank?—Yes.

1728. You swear that?—Yes.

1729. Nor to Connors?—Nor to Connors.

1730. Did you know whether there were funds in the bank?—I did not pry into Mr. O’Beirne’s private business at all.

1731. You had the cheque?—Yes.

1732. Why

*J. Hogan.*16 February
1869.

1732. Why did not you present the cheque?—Because I got a letter from Mr. O'Beirne to that effect.

1733. It was a fortnight after the election; you had it six weeks in your possession?—No, only a fortnight.

1734. Why did not you present it that fortnight?—Because I had a letter from Mr. O'Beirne not to present it.

1735. When did you get the letter?—After he was elected.

1736. Was it before he was elected that you got the cheque?—Before.

1737. Why did you not present it during that 10 days?—Because I wanted to spare the gentleman.

1738. Did you intend to present it at any time?—Of course, I expected to get it.

1739. You expected to get the money during the 10 days, did you?—I did not.

1740. Did you tell me, this moment, you did?—That I intended to get the money?

1741. Is it true that you swore, this moment, that you expected to get it?—No, I did not expect to get it.

1742. At any time?—Of course I did.

1743. You wished to spare the gentleman, during the election, but you expected, at some time or other, to get the money?—Yes, because I was engaged a month before.

1744. And you expected to get the money?—Certainly.

1745. And you would have got it only for Mr. O'Beirne's letter, telling you not to present it, you would have presented it?—No, I would wait for it altogether.

1746. But you intended to present it; what did you take the 60 l. for?—I was to take it.

1747. For what; did you tell him the reason you did not use it was because you had done nothing?—Yes, when I saw the danger.

1748. What danger?—I would not work, consequently I sent back the cheque.

1749. Did you tell me, this moment, that you expected to get that cheque paid, some time or other?—It was optional with me.

1750. Did you say you expected to get it paid, some time or other?—Yes.

1751. Did you expect it; you have sworn twice you did; did you expect to get that cheque paid?—Of course, I did expect it.

1752. Do you say, now, that the reason you returned it was because you had done nothing?—Certainly.

1753. And yet you expect it to be paid?—Of course.

1754. And intended to have it paid?—He need not have paid me; I had done nothing, and I returned the cheque.

1755. Was it because you had done nothing that you returned the cheque?—Yes.

1756. Did he ask you to return it?—No.

1757. When he told you not to present it, did he say you could present it at a future time; did he say so in his letter?—The letter was torn up.

1758. Will you go and look for it; have you the letter, on your oath?—No, I have not.

1759. When did you last see that letter?—On my oath, I believe I did not see it for the last three weeks.

1760. Did you see it three weeks ago?—Three weeks ago.

1761. Where did you last see it?—In the desk.

1762. What desk?—The desk in the shop.

1763. Is that an open desk?—No.

1764. Under lock and key?—Yes.

121.

1765. Is it there now?—No.

1766. How do you know it is not there now?—I looked for it.

1767. When did you look for it?—About a fortnight ago.

1768. Who took that letter out of that desk?—I cannot say.

1769. Do you know who took it?—I might have destroyed it.

1770. Do you say you might have destroyed it?—Yes, I do.

1771. Did you look for it a fortnight ago?—I did, and could not find it.

1772. And you cannot tell whether you destroyed it or not?—No, I cannot say positively; I often have private letters in my pocket

1773. Did you leave it in the desk?—Yes.

1774. And you locked the desk?—Yes.

1775. And you say you went and looked for it a fortnight ago, and you do not know whether you destroyed that letter or not; is that your evidence?—Positively, I cannot say.

1776. Do you swear that you do not know whether you destroyed that letter or not?—I would not swear it.

1777. Do you know whether you destroyed it or not?—I cannot swear it.

1778. Do you know?—Sometimes I get private letters.

1779. I ask about that letter?—I might have burnt it with other letters.

1780. By mistake?—Yes, by mistake.

1781. Did you ever intend to destroy that letter?—It was no use to me.

1782. Did you ever intend to destroy that letter?—I did not.

1783. You never intended to destroy it?—No; it contained nothing.

1784. Did you intend to keep it?—Yes, of course.

1785. And you locked it up in your desk, intending to keep it?—There is no use in it.

1786. Are you married?—No.

1787. Who has access to that desk of yours?—Mr. Ryan had occasionally.

1788. If that letter had been in the desk, could Mr. Ryan have seen it?—No.

1789. Do you know a man of the name of Cunningham?—Yes.

1790. I ask you, on your oath, when was that letter last in your possession?—I cannot say.

1791. Had you ever any conversation with Cunningham about it?—No.

1792. You swear that?—Yes.

1793. Did you offer to show it to Cunningham?—No.

1794. You swear it?—No.

1795. I asked you before, did you show that letter to Dan Ferris?—No.

1796. You swear that positively?—Yes.

1797. I ask you again, on your solemn oath, was that cheque for 60 l. given to you to pay money for votes?—I swear it was not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

1798. You are not a voter yourself?—No.

1799. Is this desk, where the letter is, always locked, or occasionally opened?—Occasionally opened.

1800. As I understand, you have no recollection, one way or another, whether you destroyed that letter or not?—No recollection.

1801. I request you to search for that letter?—I will.

[The Witness withdrew.]

E

DANIEL FERRIS, junior, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

D. Ferris, Jun. 1802. WERE you in court during the evidence of the last witness?—I was in part.

1803. You heard what he was saying?—I heard what he was saying.

1804. Did you know of the order made yesterday, that the witnesses were not to be in court?—I did know of the order yesterday, as I left the court yesterday.

1805. You have known the last witness, Hogan, for some time?—Yes, I knew him a long time.

1806. Did he ever show you a letter from Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes, I saw one from Mr. O'Beirne.

1807. How long ago?—I cannot say; it was after the election.

1808. Where did he show it to you?—In the shop, I think.

1809. Were you behind the counter?—No; I was outside the counter.

1810. Did you take it out of his desk?—I could not say.

1811. Was the letter from Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes; signed "James L. O'Beirne."

1812. Did that letter refer to a cheque?—Yes, it did, I think.

1813. A cheque of 60*l.*?—I cannot say the sum.

1814. Do you remember what the letter said about the cheque; was it that the cheque was not to be presented?—Yes, it was.

Mr. Hemphill stated that the witness voted for Mr. Munster.

1815. Mr. Heron.] Now, tell his Lordship all that occurred between you and Hogan about that letter; what introduced the subject?—I only know he showed it to me.

1816. What did he say?—He handed it to me to read.

1817. What hour of the evening was it?—In the middle of the day, I think.

1818. What did you say to him; did you say anything to him?—I said nothing to him; it did not concern me at all.

1819. Was the letter about anything else but about the cheque?—No; only about the cheque.

1820. And no one else was present?—No.

1821. Did you ever speak to Robert Ryan about it?—No; I never had anything to say to him.

1822. Were you canvassed for Mr. O'Beirne?—I was; Mr. O'Beirne came in to me.

1823. Were you canvassed by Captain Graham?—No.

1824. Who was with Mr. O'Beirne?—Dr. Coyle was one.

1825. You know many people who went with Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

1826. And who were they?—I cannot say.

1827. Was this a public canvass of the town, from door to door?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

1828. We have already that you voted for Mr. Munster?—Yes, I did.

1829. And your father also has a vote?—Yes.

1830. Was it Mr. Pat Laffan that canvassed you first for Mr. Munster?—No; he never asked me to vote for Mr. Munster.

1831. Did anybody ask you?—No.

1832. Did Mr. Munster ask you?—No.

1833. He is an extensive customer of your father's?—Yes, and myself too.

1834. You are doing business on your own account?—Yes.

1835. What business is yours?—A fancy trade altogether.

1836. Could you give us an idea of how much Mr. Munster bought from you?—I could not say.

1837. Did he buy over 100 l. worth?—No, he did not.

1838. £. 50?—Scarcely 50 l.

1839. What line is your father in?—In the drapery.

1840. Did you see Michael Laffan, the attorney, at all in reference to the election?—Of course I did see him before the election.

1841. He knew you were a supporter of Mr. Munster?—I voted for Mr. Munster.

1842. He knew you would vote for Mr. Munster?—I do not know whether he did or not.

1843. Do you know where Mr. Patrick Laffan is now?—No, I do not.

1844. Do you know the young gentleman?—Yes.

1845. He is a medical student, I think?—He is.

1846. Was he ever acting for Mr. Munster for weeks before the election?—He was going about the street; I did not know what his business was.

1847. You saw him going about with Mr. Michael Laffan?—No.

1848. With Mr. Munster himself?—No, I did not.

1849. With whom?—By himself.

1850. Did you see him going into voters' houses canvassing?—I do not know.

1851. Do you know Patrick?—Yes.

1852. Was he acting for Munster?—Yes.

1853. Did you see Mr. Pat Laffan the day of the polling up in the court-house?—I cannot say.

1854. Did you poll late yourself?—Yes.

1855. Did you stop long?—Yes, I remained here till about half-past two o'clock.

1856. It was after the election that Hogan showed you this letter?—Yes.

1857. Was it Hogan or Ryan?—Hogan.

1858. Do you recollect what was in the letter?—It was something about Mr. O'Beirne; it was telling him not to bring the cheque forward to the bank.

1859. Not to present it for payment?—Yes.

1860. That was the whole of it?—Yes, a short letter; one side.

1861. Just try and think, as well as you can recollect, was Pat Laffan there?—Yes.

1862. Was he ever in your place asking you for your vote before the election?—I could not say.

1863. He was at school with you?—Yes.

1864. And you are intimate friends?—Yes.

1865. Where is Pat?—I do not know.

1866. Do you know that he has gone to America since this petition was filed?—I could not swear.

1867. Did you hear it from Mr. Laffan?—No.

1868. Did you hear from Munster that he had gone to America?—No.

1869. Had you any conversation with either Laffan or Munster about Pat Laffan?—No.

1870. You

1870. You do not know, and did not hear, whether he had gone to America?—No.

1871. Is your father subpoenaed by Mr. Munster?—No, by Mr. O'Beirne.

1872. Do you know whether any rooms were taken in your house?—No rooms were taken.

1873. How much did Mr. Munster buy from your father?—I cannot say; it is his business to answer.

1874. You say Mr. Munster bought 50 l. worth?—I cannot say what he bought.

1875. Mostly toys?—Yes; if you wish I will bring up a list of what he bought of me.

1876. Fifty pounds' worth of toys before the election?—He did not buy 50 l. worth.

1877. But about, at all events, what he bought was toys?—Yes.

1878. Has he any young children of his own?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

PATRICK RUSSELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

1895. Were you ever in Ryan's and Hogan's house before the election, talking?—Yes.

1896. Used there to be many with you?—There used

1897. What kind of a shop is it?—A whisky shop.

1898. How many would be there at a time?—I could not say; three or four, or more or less.

1899. As many as a dozen?—I could not exactly say.

1900. Would they be having drink there?—Yes, I often saw people drinking there.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARY HOGAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

1901. You are the wife of Dennis Hogan?—Yes.

1902. Where do you live?—I live on the Commons.

1903. I am sorry to hear your husband is not very well?—He is not.

1904. Do you know Mr. John Hogan?—I do.

1905. He is a shopkeeper in Cashel?—Yes.

1906. And Mr. Robert Ryan is his partner?—Yes.

1907. Were you ever, about the time of the election, in Mr. Hogan's shop?—I was not, unless I came about my business; not about the election.

1908. Did you come about your business?—I did come about my business.

1909. Was your husband ever there?—No, he was not able to come there.

1910. He voted, did he not?—He did.

1911. He was able to come and vote?—Yes, he came in a covered car.

1912. Who brought the covered car?—I cannot say.

1913. Before the election, was there ever anybody at your husband's house from Mr. O'Beirne, to ask him to vote?—From Mr. Munster there were people.

1914. Did he promise his vote to Mr. Munster?—No.

1915. Did he promise it to Mr. O'Beirne?—I cannot say.

121.

1916. Who did you see coming from Mr. O'Beirne for him?—I cannot say; there were a great many persons came to see him. M. Hogan.

1917. Was Mr. O'Beirne himself ever out there at your house canvassing?—Yes, he was canvassing.

1918. Out at your house?—Yes.

1919. How often was he at your house?—Only once; he canvassed the whole place, and came there.

1920. Do you know Tom Connors?—I do.

1921. Do you know Timothy Shea?—I know him.

1922. Was Thomas Connors ever out at your house?—He was not, to my knowledge.

1923. Was Timothy Shee ever out at your house?—He was not.

1924. Did you ever hear your husband say anything about any person having any money for him?—No; he did not promise his vote for any price to any person.

1925. Did he ever say anything to you about getting any money for the election?—He did not.

1926. Did he ever say anything about Mr. Hogan having asked him for his vote?—He did not. Mr. O'Beirne never spoke a word to him.

1927. Did you yourself ever get any money from anybody?—No, not a farthing; nor my husband either.

1928. Did you yourself ever get any money from Tom Connors?—Not a farthing.

E 2

1929. Or

M. Hogan.
 16 February 1869.
 1929. Or from Mr. John Hogan?—Not half a farthing.
 1930. Or Mr. John Ryan?—No.
 1931. Or anybody else?—No.
 1932. Did you ever hear that there was any money for you at Lower-gate?—I did not.
 1933. Listen to me: tell the truth, because you are on your oath. Did you ever hear from anybody that Mr. John Hogan had a cheque, part of which was to be given to you?—I never did.
 1934. Did you ever hear of his having a cheque from Mr. O'Beirne?—No.
 1935. Did you ever say to anybody that he had a cheque?—No.
 1936. Are you sure of that?—Yes, I am.
 1937. You are quite sure that you are telling me the truth?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

1938. Where do you live?—In the townland of Carran.
 1939. Your husband's name is Dennis Hogan, and he lives there too?—Yes.
 1940. Do you remember the night of the 17th of November last?—I remember, but I did not take any notice of it.
 1941. Do you know Pat Laffan?—I know the Laffans, but I do not know the names.
 1942. The young gentleman with sandy hair?—I know all the Laffans.
 1943. Mr. Butt] Were you ever at Dunn's Hotel?—Never.
 1944. You are quite sure?—Oh! I went in one day to the hall; and I just went in and turned out again.
 1945. What did you go there for?—I only walked out there.
 1946. What for?—For nothing, but my business led me there.
 1947. What was your business?—I wanted to see a friend there.
 1948. Who was your friend?—Some person from my own place.
 1949. Who was that?—My sister or brother, I wanted to see.
 1950. Was it your sister or your brother?—My brother.
 1951. What is your brother's name?—I have different brothers.
 1952. You tell me you went up to Dunn's Hotel to see your brother?—Yes; I expected to meet him, but I did not meet him.
 1953. What is the brother's name that you went to meet?—I have two or three different brothers; there is one in Kilkenny.
 1954. Where are your other brothers?—At Clonalty.
 1955. How far is that?—I suppose about six miles from Cashel.
 1956. How many brothers have you altogether?—I have two there.
 1957. And one in Kilkenny?—Yes.
 1958. Any more?—Yes.
 1959. How many more?—That is all I have.
 1960. Which of the brothers did you expect to meet the day you went up to Dunn's?—I expected to meet my brother Jerry, for I heard he was to come there.
 1861. It was to meet him that you went up there?—Yes.
 1962. Did you ask for him?—I did not go in then; I just went into the hall; I was afraid to go into there, for I was afraid they were gentlemen.

1963. Were you afraid to meet gentlemen?—I was afraid to meet them there.
 1964. Who brought you up to Dunn's?—No person at all; I walked up there.
 1965. Did any person go with you?—No person at all.
 1966. You swear that?—I do.
 1967. Do you know John Ryan?—Yes.
 1968. Did you see him that day at all?—I did.
 1969. Did not he take you up to Dunn's?—He did not take me up.
 1970. Did he go with you?—No, he did not.
 1971. Did you see him there?—I saw him pass by there.
 1972. Did you speak to him?—I did not speak to him.
 1973. Did he speak to you?—No.
 1974. You saw him pass by?—Yes.
 1975. Did you see anyone at all when you went up to Dunn's Hotel?—I did not; I went out into the yard and turned back again when I did not see the person I wanted.
 1976. You went into the yard?—Yes.
 1977. Did you expect to see your brother in the yard?—He was not there; I did not see anybody there.
 1978. Did you see anybody there?—I did not; Thomas Shea went out again.
 1979. What brought you into Cashel that day?—Why, business.
 1980. What business?—To buy a hat for my husband.
 1981. Did you buy it?—Yes.
 1982. What did you give for the hat; how much did you pay for it?—I suppose a couple of shillings.
 1983. How much did you pay?—Three shillings, because he was not well, and I did not want to go to the cost of buying a good one for him.
 1984. Was it before or after you were at Dunn's Hotel that you bought the hat?—It was the very minute I was coming in I went and bought it; I went about my business, buying what I wanted.
 1985. Before you were at Dunn's Hotel?—After I was there.
 1986. You brought it with you when you went to Dunn's Hotel?—Yes.
 1987. After that you bought the hat and other things that you wanted?—Yes.
 1988. How much money did you spend that day?—I cannot say.
 1989. About how much?—I cannot say.
 1990. Did you spend 5*l.*?—No, nor 10*s.* either.
 1991. Do you think that you spent 10*s.*?—I cannot say.
 1992. Do you think that you spent 10*s.*?—I cannot say; I bought bread and other things.
 1993. Mr. Curtis.] I believe Cashel is the market town of the Clonalty people?—Yes.
 1994. And Mr. Dunn's is the first hotel on the road coming in from Clonalty?—Yes.
 1995. The Clonalty people are in the habit of stopping there?—Yes.
 1996. Now, it was asked you, if you knew Pat Laffan, and you say you know all of them?—Yes.
 1997. Do you know a man of the name of Michael Halery?—Yes.
 1998. Do you know John Moloney?—Yes.
 1999. And Matthew Dwyer?—Yes.
 2000. Do you remember a night in November, about the time of the election, when Michael Halery, Halery, John Moloney, Pat Dwyer, and Moloney came to your house?—No.

2001. Did anyone come?—No; no one came to our house any night in November.

2002. Any night?—No one in the world never came to my husband about a vote in the night.

2003. Do you remember their coming there any time?—No, they did not.

2004. That is to your knowledge?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

M. Hogan.

1869.

PATRICK MAHER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

2005. You are Pat Maher of Main-street?—Yes.

2006. No. 120?—Yes.

2007. You voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

2008. Was your house taken?—It was not.

2009. What is your business?—The grocery business.

2010. Have you a spirit license?—Yes.

2011. Your house was not taken for a committee-room?—No.

2012. Did Captain Graham canvass you?—No.

2013. Are you sure?—Yes.

2014. Nobody canvassed you?—No; I went up to Mr. O'Beirne and gave him my vote the evening after he came to town.

2015. Did you tell Captain Graham that you would take 5*l.* less from him than from the other side?—No; I would take nothing at all from Munster's side, nor would not ask it from Mr. O'Beirne's either; I went voluntarily and gave my vote.

2016. Did you say in the presence of James Colley that you had got what you wanted?—No, never, not to my recollection; I never had any conversation with reference to the vote with him at all.

2017. Do you know the meaning of the phrase in the election times, getting what you wanted?—No, I never had a vote before.

2018. You do not know the meaning of getting what you wanted?—No.

2019. You do not know the meaning of getting a bribe?—No.

2020. You do not know what I mean by saying that?—No.

2021. Did you say you would vote for no man without being paid?—I did not.

2022. You are positive about that?—I am.

2023. Did you say if you could you would get money from the two sides?—Well, I might have said that.

2024. That is, both from O'Beirne and Munster?—I would not take any money from Mr. O'Beirne, nor he did not tender it me either.

2025. What might you have said when you say you might have said it?—Out of a joke.

2026. That is, you would take money from the two sides?—I might have said it out of a joke.

2027. But that you would have taken 5*l.* less from O'Beirne than Munster?—There was no joke about that.

2028. Did you ever ask any one on Munster's side what they were going to do for you?—I did.

2029. Whom?—Pat Cunningham.

2030. You understand what you meant by it?—But I would not accept of it.

2031. Says you to Pat, "What are you going to do for me"?—Yes.

2032. Where was this?—At Corcoran's.

2033. A public-house?—An hotel.

2034. Did you call up there?—I often called in there.

2035. When you said to Pat, "What are you going to do for me;" what did Pat say to you?—Pat said to me that if I would give him a note for 30*l.* he would give it up the night after the election.

2036. Did you tell that to Captain Graham?—To my knowledge, not; I do not think I had a conversation with Captain Graham.

2037. Did you go and tell it to O'Beirne's side?—No.

2038. Did you tell it to any one?—Not to any one connected with O'Beirne's until after the election.

2039. You do not think you ever did?—No.

2040. Were you at Dunn's Hotel?—I was.

2041. Were you there the evening before the polling?—I was not.

2042. Were you there the evening before the nomination?—I called up there.

2043. Was Mr. O'Beirne there?—He was coming down to the dinner that the voters had given at O'Dwyer's.

2044. Were you one of the free and independent people who dined there?—I was.

2045. You were in to dinner?—I was not there; I went in immediately after the dinner; the door was opened and I went in then.

2046. That is, at Miss O'Dwyer's?—Yes.

2047. What hour did you go there?—I think about nine.

2048. Had you a glass of punch?—I had not.

2049. What was your favourite liquor that evening?—I think I took one half glass of wine out of my own home that night.

2050. Did you dance that evening?—I did.

2051. With whom did you dance?—With many persons; unfortunately there were no young ladies there.

2052. Were you dancing from half-past 11 till half-past five?—No, I went home about half-past three and went to bed.

2053. Had the door to be unlocked for you?—No, I had full leave to go in and out; I went out once or twice and came back again.

2054. Did you see the door locked?—The door was locked.

2055. You did not see the door locked?—No, the key might have been turned.

2056. There was some drinking going on at your own house?—Sure there is going on that way every day.

2057. And a little more than usual at election times?—Of course.

2058. You treat people?—Why would not I.

2059. Had you any little bill?—No.

2060. How many people did you treat?—I should have a good memory to tell the people I treat from time to time.

2061. The day of the nomination did you treat any person?—Not one connected with O'Biernes; I treated every one that came in and out and paid me for it.

2062. I do not call that a treat?—I did not give a treat.

E 3

2063. You

P. Maher.

P. Maher.

1869.

2063. You did not give a treat during the whole election?—No.
2064. Do you know Mr. Farrey?—Yes.
2065. Did he order any drink from you?—No.
2066. Nor Connors, the expense agent?—No; I had no drink for anybody connected with O'Beirnes.
2067. Or Mick Keif?—Mick Keif got some drink for the mob.
2068. How many were the mob?—I could not say.
2069. A couple of hundred?—I could not say how many.
2070. How much drink did the mob get?—I could not exactly say.
2071. Did they get a gallon of whiskey?—They might.
2072. Two?—At different times.
2073. Three?—At different times.
2074. Four?—They did not get four.
2075. How many bottles of porter did they drink?—I could not exactly say.
2076. You kept no account of it at all?—No.
2077. You did not ask any payment for it?—No.
2078. And never expected to be paid a shilling?—I expect to be paid by the man who got it.
2079. Who is that?—Mick Keif.
2080. How much did you supply to Mick Keif?—A reasonable share.
2081. You got your share of what was going?—I did, in one sense.
2082. What is the one sense?—Whatever was going about during the election; whatever money the people had to spend I got my part of it.
2083. What is your claim against Mick Keif?—I think it is about 6 l. or 7 l.
2084. And you swear that you will not ask him for more?—I will not ask him for more than is due.
2085. How much do you intend asking for?—So much.
2086. £. 6 or 7 l.?—Yes.
2087. Have you it in your book?—No.
2088. Was it on the nomination day?—No.
2089. On the polling day?—No.
2090. How long before the election was it?—A fortnight before the election.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

2091. I suppose you were often in and out at Corcoran's Hotel?—Frequently.
2092. During the election time?—Yes.
2093. Was there much liquor going in Corcoran's Hotel?—Yes.
2094. Did you see drinking going on there?—Yes.
2095. Mr. Munster had Corcoran's Hotel for his friends?—Yes.
2096. Do you recollect how many days before the election Pat Cunningham had this talk with you?—Two days; the second night before the nomination.
2097. Before the nomination or the polling?—The day between both. I think the night before the polling, or the night after the nomination.
2098. Either at one or the other?—Yes.
2099. You told me, I think, or you told that gentleman, that Pat Cunningham said to you he would give you a note for 30 l.?—He would give me 30 l. if I would give him my vote.
2100. And he would give back the note the evening after the election?—Yes, the same evening.

2101. What was he to give you 30 l. for?—I suppose to vote for him.
2102. For whom?—Mr. Munster.
2103. Did you see Pat Cunningham after concerned for Mr. Munster before the election?—Yes.
2104. Did you see him with Mr. Michael Laffan?—Yes.
2105. Connected with the election?—Yes.
2106. Going about?—Yes.
2107. Did you see Pat Cunningham with Mr. Munster?—I saw him in the same room, but not speaking to him.
2108. When?—In Corcoran's rooms.
2109. Was Mr. Munster in the room at the time?—Yes.
2110. And other friends?—And other friends.
2111. Was Mr. Michael Laffan on any of those occasions in the room?—Yes.
2112. Was Mr. Pat Laffan on any of those occasions in the room at Corcoran's?—Yes.
2113. Had Mr. Munster a committee-room at Corcoran's?—Yes.
2114. Did you promise to vote for Munster for 30 l.?—No, I would not vote for Munster if he gave me 100 l.
2115. Did you see any drinking at Corcoran's in the presence of Munster?—Yes.
2116. What did they have?—Wine.
2117. Did you see any voters there?—I did.
2118. Were you often in that room?—I was never in that room but twice.
2119. I am speaking before the election?—Yes.
2120. What was the greatest number you saw on either of those occasions?—There were over 50, I believe.
2121. It is a large room?—Yes.
2122. You are a publican yourself?—Yes.
2123. And could make a pretty good guess of the quantity of the bottles in the room. Did there seem to be much liquor in the room, or wine?—Every person in the room was taking a glass of liquor.
2124. Did you see any ale or porter?—I saw no ale or porter.
2125. Wine was what you saw?—Yes.
2126. Was there any champagne?—I could not see. I think there was every kind of drink there except porter.
2127. Was Mr. Munster sleeping at Corcoran's at that time?—I cannot say.
2128. How many voters were in the room. You say there were 50 in the room; how many of them were voters?—I am sure there were 30 voters and more.
2129. You said you gave money and drink to Keif for the mob?—Yes.
2130. Had Munster any mob during the election?—He had.
2131. Had he a large mob?—Of course he had, and he has them up to the present day.
2132. How many men and women?—You could not count them; they are innumerable.
2133. Mr. Heron.] I suppose O'Beirne had only 10 or 15?—Yes.
2134. Do you know a person of the name of Howragan?—Yes.
2135. Did he get any drink from you?—No.
2136. Did he get any for the mob?—I do not know.
2137. Did you see him going about with Munster's mob?—I saw him with the Cashel people.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs. ANN MANSELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

2138. You live in Cashel?—Yes.
 2139. Your husband has a licensed house in Cashel?—He has.
 2140. Was there any drinking going on in your house during the election?—There was.
 2141. And before the election?—And before the election and after the election.
 2142. Was there more than usual going on before and during the election?—It is most likely there was, when there were a few more people in the town than usual.
 2143. Can you tell me about how many were in your house the week before the election?—I cannot say; we had no great push of business.
 2144. Did any one order drink in your house?—No one at all whatever.
 2145. And all the drink that was consumed in your house, before and during the election, was paid for on the spot?—Certainly not.
 2146. To whom did you give any drink on credit?—To my usual customers; to my long customers.
 2147. Tell me the names of them?—The parties between the commons particularly.
 2148. Just tell me some other names?—Richard Stapleton, Dan Dwyer, Dan Maloney, Thomas Hearn, John Dwyer, Dennis Ryan.
 2149. Any more?—There might have been a good many more.
 2150. Were all these men voters?—They were.
 2151. They were all voters?—Yes, I think so.
 2152. Can you tell me how much drink you gave on credit to these men during that time?—Little or none at all, with the exception of two.
 2153. How much?—It is very trifling.
 2154. How much to the two?—In all about a couple of pounds worth, or 45s. to each.
 2155. Have you any book in which this is entered against them?—Yes.
 2156. Have you brought your book here?—I have not brought it; my husband did; they were brought here yesterday, and he was not examined about them.

2157. Have you ever asked for payment of these small bills since the election?—I have not.

2158. You did not?—No; but I am fully confident that whenever I present my bill it will be paid.

2159. Are you in the habit of giving drink to those parties on credit?—Yes, to any amount; they are parties of good character, and they will not go beyond what they reckon their means are able to meet.

2160. How many altogether from the commons were in your house, and got drink before the election?—People came in in the morning, about election times; there is always a good deal of curiosity which leads them into the town; they come in and wander about; they come and they call for a round, or something like that.

2161. Did you see Mr. O'Beirne at your house?—Yes.

2162. How often was he there?—That I cannot reckon; he never came half so often as he was welcome.

2163. How often was he there for 10 days before the election?—I took no particular account.

2164. Might he have been there a dozen times?—No.

2165. Did he go out there every day?—No.

2166. Every second day?—No.

2167. Once a week?—I cannot say.

2168. Was he there more than once?—His visits were so very few; they were really angels' visits.

2169. Was he there more than once?—Yes.

2170. Was he there half a dozen times?—No.

2171. Was he there at any time when the people from the commons, that you mentioned, were drinking?—Never.

2172. Are you sure of it?—I am confident of it; I have often thought had the ladies in Cashel a vote, how much majority would Mr. O'Beirne have.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs.
A. Mansell.
—
1869.

Mr. MICHAEL DWYER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

2173. ARE you the son-in-law of Mr. Mackey who was examined before?—Yes.
 2174. What business are you?—The leather and spirit business.
 2175. Did you give any drink at the elections to any persons without being paid?—I gave it to Keif on his order.
 2176. That is Mick Keif?—Yes.
 2177. To what extent did you give drink to Mick Keif?—Two or three pounds.
 2178. Did you give any drink to Connor's on his order?—Yes.
 2179. How much did you give to Connors?—About 30s. or 2l.
 2180. Did you give drink on the order of anybody else?—Yes.
 2181. Whom?—Dennis Geary; he is in the habit of coming into my house; he is a customer of mine.
 2182. He was an old customer of yours?—Yes.
 2183. How much drink did you give to the order of Dennis Geary?—£.3, or say 50s.
 2184. Have you any book to show these things?—Yes.
 2185. Have you brought it here?—Yes.
 121.

2186. Take the book in your own hand, and tell me how much drink you gave on the order of Mick Keif?—£.3 1s.

2187. How much on the order of Geary?—£.4 10s. 3d.

2188. Who was the other man, Connors?—£.2 1s. 9d.

2189. How much else?—That is all.

2190. Have you those in one page of that book?—No.

2191. They are scattered through the book?—Yes.

2192. Have you anything else in that book?—No; there are private things there of my own.

2193. Is it private about the election?—No; it is a copy of an order.

2194. Had that anything to do with the election?—No.

2195. I will take your word for this; how came you to keep a book for these three gentlemen?—Because I never had an account to keep for Connors before, and I did not want to mix up his account with the leather account.

2196. This book has nothing in it except the E 4 three three accounts?—No; because I kept a memorandum of the drink I gave at several times, and at my leisure times I totted it into that book.

2197. Why did you put these three accounts into this big book?—I am just after telling you.

2198. Tell me again?—I had no account against Keif before that, and of course I made an entry of it in that book.

2199. Why in that book more than any other book?—Because it is more handy to bring to court.

2200. Did you give any other people drink on credit?—Yes, to a large amount.

2201. Was not it because it was an election account, that you kept it in this book?—Certainly, and no mistake.

2202. Did you ever ask anyone to pay that account?—No; I will apply to them, and they will pay me, of course.

2203. Did you ever furnish an account to anyone?—No.

2204. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

2205. Who drank this 10*l.* worth and more?—Not so much.

2206. Well, whatever it is; I suppose the three men did not drink it themselves?—No.

2207. For whom did they get it?—For the mob.

2208. At different times?—Yes.

2209. They got it from you for the mob?—Yes.

2210. Was your house taken at all during the election?—No; I am telling the truth.

2211. We do not doubt it in the least; it was not let during the election?—No, certainly not; I was never asked by either party.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

2212. Is this Michael Keif you speak of an elector?—No.

2213. What is Connor's Christian name?—Thomas Connor.

2214. That is not this man (pointing to the expense agent)?—No.

2215. Is Thomas Connor an elector?—No.

2216. Is Dennis Geary an elector?—He is.

2217. It was for the mob, the non-electors, that the drink was supplied?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt.

2218. How do you know that the people to whom you supplied the drink were non-electors?—I know the electors, all the men in Cashel.

2219. Can you swear that none of the electors got any drink?—Not as far as I know.

2220. Mr. Curtis.] Geary is a shoemaker, and he buys his leather from you?—Yes, to a large amount.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Heron read the bill furnished by Mrs. Dunn to Mr. O'Beirne to the amount of 106*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, from the 10th of October to November 24th.

Mr. JOSEPH RYAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

Mr.
J. Ryan.

2221. YOU are an elector?—Yes.

2222. And you voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

2223. What are you?—A shopkeeper.

2224. Have you a public-house?—Yes.

2225. What is your street?—The main street.

2226. Did you give any drink on orders?—Yes.

2227. On whose orders?—The orders of Michael Keif.

2228. How much drink did you give on his order?—On the whole, 2*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

2229. Did you give drink on anybody else's order?—No.

2230. Was that the only drink you gave on order?—Yes, the only drink; I think somebody else got something, but the whole amount was 2*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

2231. Have you furnished an account of it?—Yes, to Michael Keif; he called upon me for my bill, to send in to Mr. Grace.

2232. When did he call?—I cannot say the day.

2233. How soon after the election?—A considerable time.

2234. Were you ever paid since?—Never, and I never got it.

2235. Did you give it to Keif to be brought to Mr. Grace, or did you send it to Mr. Grace?—I sent it to Mr. Grace by my son.

2236. You have a son named Francis Ryan?—I have.

2237. He has no vote?—No.

2238. Did he get any employment at the election?—He did.

2239. What employment did he get?—I could not exactly say.

2240. Was he a watcher or a canvasser?—He was both; he will account for that.

2241. How much was he to get?—I cannot say.

2242. How much did he tell you he got?—I do not know.

2243. Did not your son tell you what he got?—I think he got nothing yet.

2244. What was he to get?—I made no bargain with him.

2245. You were not present at the bargain?—No.

2246. Did you ever go to Dunn's hotel?—Frequently.

2247. You went there how many evenings?—Upon two occasions.

2248. Was Mr. O'Beirne there?—He was.

2249. Was Captain Graham there?—Upon one occasion.

2250. Was Connors, the expense agent, there?—I do not recollect.

2251. Mr. Dennis Geary?—Unless on the day of canvassing; I met many persons there on that day.

2252. That is, when the public canvass was going on; were all these men with Mr. O'Beirne upon the canvassing?—I believe so; I saw them.

2253. Going from house to house with him on a public canvass?—No, going to the Commons; I could not say whether Captain Graham was there on that occasion.

2254. Were you with Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

2255. Who were the persons who went out to canvass the Commons; there were Mr. O'Beirne and Mr. Geary?—I am not certain.

2256. Yourself?—Yes.

2257. Who else?—My son.

2258. Who else?—Mr. Maher.

2259. Who else?—I could not say.

2260. About how many?—About 20.

2261. Most

2261. Most of them were voters?—I think so.

2262. You know the town's people; tell us all?—I could not tell every one of them.

2263. Who were they?—Mr. Tom O'Connor, of Laffener, the two Mr. Handlys; I could not name the parties; I should think there were about 18 or 20 voters on the Commons with him.

2264. Do you know Dennis Hogan?—I do.

2265. Do you know Mrs. Hogan, the wife of Dennis Hogan?—I do.

2266. Did you bring her up to Dunn's one day?—I am sure I could not bring to mind that I brought her up.

2267. But tell what occurred?—I could not say what occurred, but I recollect seeing her and all the Commons' people upon one particular day, and a Commoner introduced her.

2268. The day she was in and went to Dunn's, were all the Commons' people in too?—Oh, dear, not at all.

2269. Some of them?—Some of them.

2270. Did she go with them and come up to Dunn's?—Not to my knowledge.

2271. What conversation did you have with Mrs. Hogan on that day?—I had no conversation; I did not interest myself about the matter; she was frequently in my house for the last 15 or 16 years; I know the whole family.

2272. Do you know William Ryan?—I do.

2273. Had he a bill on the bank?—What do I know of it?

2274. Did he tell you that he had?—Sure, I know he had many bills in the bank.

2275. You said you knew he had many bills on the bank?—I have cause to know.

2276. He sometimes accommodated you with his name?—Yes.

2277. And you sometimes accommodated him with your name?—Yes.

2278. How long have you and he been accommodating each other in this way?—For the last seven or eight years.

2279. In which bank?—In the Loan Bank.

2280. Who is the manager of the Loan Bank?—Mr. Delahunt.

2281. Was there a bill of yours in the bank at the time of the election; a bill between you and William Ryan Richards in any bank?—No, not in the National Bank, unless it was in the Loan Bank.

2282. For how much?—£. 10. is the heaviest sum.

2283. How long was the bill for 10*l.*?—Three bills for 10*l.*, and 8*l.*, 9*l.*, and 10*l.* bills. He and I were security for different people round about. I signed bills for 60*l.* one day there.

2284. Do you know a man named O'Mara, security for William Ryan Richards for a 25*l.* bill?—I know Andrew O'Mara; I know him to be a security for William Ryan Richards.

2285. On a 25*l.* bill?—I cannot say.

2286. Was that bill in the National Bank?—I cannot say.

2287. That was at the time of the election?—I do not know what time; it has been going on for the last four years.

2288. Is that the bill now paid?—I could not tell. All I know is we accommodate each other. When he is short he helps me and I help him.

2289. Had you any money in your hands for the election; generally for the election?—Only for my own purposes.

2290. How much?—I could not tell.

2291. I mean, was there any money in your hands for the use of the election?—No.

2292. Did you spend any money yourself for the use of the election?—Not a shilling.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

2293. Did those people to whom you supplied the 2*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* worth of drink, drink it in your shop?—No; there was only a portion of it drunk; there may be about 8*s.* worth of spirits drunk in the shop.

2294. Were they voters or non-voters?—Non-voters.

2295. Were they what you call a mob?—Decidedly so.

2296. How long a time did the 2*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* cover; how many days?—From the 9th to the 17th.

2297. Of November?—Yes, I think so.

2298. Did he say that he wanted it for the mob that were shouting?—They were the messengers themselves.

2299. Who were the messengers?—The mob.

2300. And they got the drink?—Yes.

2301. And they took the drink from your establishment?—Yes.

2302. Did you supply any voters with drink?—No, I supplied non-voters.

2303. With reference to the 2*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*?—No, not for that.

2304. Did you supply any drink to Houragan, do you recollect?—I did.

2305. During this election?—Decidedly I did.

2306. Did you supply him with much drink?—Only what he came to the counter for.

2307. Did he get any from you?—No.

2308. I suppose a great number of voters went out to the Commons with Mr. O'Brien, backing him up?—Yes.

2309. About 20 voters?—I believe so.

2310. He only went out one day?—The second day as well.

2311. And it was the second day that these voters went that you speak of?—He went upon two occasions.

2312. For this election?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

FRANCIS RYAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

2313. You are the son of the last witness?—Yes.

2314. You live in Cashel?—Yes.

2315. With your father?—Yes.

2316. Were you employed during the last election?—Yes.

2317. By whom?—Mr. O'Beirne.

2318. Was it Mr. O'Beirne himself?—Yes.

2319. What were you employed to do?—Walk about the street.

2320. How much were you to get for walking about the street?—They did not make any bargain at all.

2321. That is not an answer to the question; I ask,

J. Ryan.

16 February
1869.

F. Ryan.

F. Ryan. I ask, how much were you to get?—I could not say.

16 February
1869.

2322. How much did you expect to get?—I do not know how much. If I get nothing I am satisfied; if I get money I will take it; if I get nothing I will do without it.

2323. Do you mean to say that you had not the slightest idea of what you were to get?—No.

2324. What were the rest getting?—I do not know what any other men were getting.

2325. And you were getting nothing at all?—No.

2326. And no promise?—No.

2327. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

2328. From nobody?—No.

2329. When did Mr. O'Beirne employ you?—About eight or 10 days before the election.

2330. What did he say to you when he was employing you?—He said he wanted me to walk about the streets and see how matters were going on.

2331. That is what he said to you?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

2332. Was not it to observe what voters were going into Corcoran's hotel?—Yes, and other things besides that.

2333. And to report to Mr. O'Beirne what voters were going into Cawkern's hotel and into Laffan's?—Yes.

2334. Would you tell what instructions you actually got from Mr. O'Beirne; tell precisely what Mr. O'Beirne told you to do?—That if I saw any voter going into Cawkern's, or into Mr. Munster's, or with any of Mr. Munster's agents, to report it to Mr. O'Beirne's.

2335. Did you do that?—Yes.

2336. Did you do it every evening during the time you were directed to do it; how long were you employed in that?—I was to go every evening, but some evenings I could not see him, and then I came next morning.

2337. And you reported to Mr. O'Beirne accordingly what voters you saw going into those places, or going with Mr. Laffan?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. RICHARD GRACE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr.
R. Grace.

2338. Do you keep a public-house in this town?—I do.

2339. I suppose you keep books?—I do.

2340. Have you your books with you?—I have my day-books.

2341. Are you an elector?—Yes, I am.

2342. Did you vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—I did.

2343. Did anyone canvass you to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—Not one.

2344. You were never asked to vote?—Mr. O'Beirne canvassed me.

2345. When did he come to you?—Before the election.

2346. Did you supply any drink to any person on credit?—I have been in business for 20 years, and giving value out in the town to many people. I went on in the same way during the election.

2347. Did you supply any drink to Daniel Geary?—No, I did not. His men came to me in his name for some drink a few times, and they came to me at another time. I said I would not give any more, because Mr. Geary did not give an order to supply them, and then they did not call after that.

2348. Did he call after that?—He did not.

2349. When you say his men, who were Mr. Geary's men?—The shoemakers.

2350. Is he a shoemaker?—Yes.

2351. Do you mean men in his employment?—Yes, they work for him.

2352. Was that all the drink you gave in Mr. Geary's name during the time of the election?—Yes.

2353. Tell me some of the other people on whose name you gave drank?—I gave drink to different people. I will show the book. This is the book.

2354. Tell me the persons to whom you gave drink?—I got no verbal order. I had nothing from Mr. O'Beirne or Mr. Grace; I supplied no drink whatever.

2355. To whom did you supply drink?—To people who are in the habit of drinking.

2356. Who are they; come to the 10th of November; let me look at that?—Everything is down here.

2357. Are these all on credit?—Yes, to different people; the town's people.

2358. Do you make out accounts against any people?—The only account is, I gave some drink to Keif, and I gave some drink to a man of the name of Patrick Ryan, who voted for Mr. Munster, and I gave some more to another supporter of Mr. Munster.

2359. I want to know about Keif; how much drink did you give to Keif?—I gave him a gallon of whisky; two gallons of whisky, and some glasses besides.

2360. Have you been paid for that?—No.

2361. When was that?—Before the election.

2362. How long before?—From the 4th November to the 18th of November.

2363. This is something between 2*l.* and 3*l.*?—£. 2. 7*s.*

2364. "Michael Keif, November 4th, a gallon of spirits; 10 glasses, 2*s.* 4*d.*; eight glasses, 2*s.* 4*d.*;" and four something of porter, 1*s.* 4*d.*; then, from the 4th to the 18th, there is no entry; and on the day of nomination you gave a gallon of spirits?—Yes, there are other things that make it up; there are small accounts there as well.

2365. Now, looking at that account, was it in your own handwriting; did you make it at the time?—Yes, at the time.

2366. On the day of nomination, were you in the shop when Keif got those gallons of spirits?—I was.

2367. Is this the day-book you keep?—Yes, where small accounts are made; you can see the running accounts there.

2368. Do you keep the election accounts separate in this book?—When I got an order for anything; but I got no order; if I got an order for Mr. O'Beirne or his agent.

2369. There is your day-book for the 18th of November: now, upon the 18th of November Keif got a gallon of spirits; is that entered in your day-book for the 18th?—It might be, but I took it into a separate account.

2370. Just

2370. Just look at your day book for Wednesday the 18th of November; is there a gallon of spirits to Keif entered there?—No, not in the day. This is a separate thing. I did not enter everything, particularly when they were not in the habit of running accounts with me; I kept it separate. I kept a separate account for Keif.

2371. What he got you did not enter?—No; nor what Patrick Ryan got. He is a man living there; he is a man belonging to Munster.

2372. What he got you kept separate?—Yes; and Ned Ling is another.

2373. What is torn out at the top of the page?—If we want a slip of paper we tear it up to write on it.

2374. You tear up your account books?—Yes.

2375. When was it torn?—I cannot say when it was torn.

2376. Look at the new tearing upon it?—Yes.

2377. When, on your oath, was it torn?—I cannot tell.

2378. When was it torn?—I could not tell.

2379. Can you form a judgment?—I cannot say; when I want a slip of paper I tear it out, without minding where I tear it.

2380. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Was there anything written on it?—Not a ha'porth.

2381. Mr. Butt.] Are you sure of that?—I have no recollection of it.

2382. Do you recollect it being torn out?—No.

2383. Do you see that little tail of writing there?—Yes.

2384. Was there anything written there; on your oath?—Not a ha'porth wrote by me.

2385. Was there anything written there?—Not at all.

2386. Did you ever look at that page?—I never minded only looking at the writing of it.

2387. Were you subpoenaed to bring your books here?—Yes.

2388. When did you get your subpoena?—On Saturday night.

2389. When you got your subpoena, did you look at your book?—No.

2390. Have you looked at it since?—I looked at it a few days ago; Saturday, I think.

2391. What did you look at it for?—To see what accounts I had.

2392. When you looked at it, was it torn out?—Yes.

2393. When you looked at it first?—Yes.

2394. Did you remember it was torn, when you looked at that book first?—I think it was torn before I wrote at all on it. I do not remember it at all. I think it was torn before I wrote on it.

2395. When you looked at that book on Saturday last, did you remember that it was torn?—I saw it.

2396. Did you remember how it was torn?—No.

2397. Did you ever send that account of Keif to any person?—No, because Keif is a good security for it. I will tell you what I gave. I gave a drink myself to the mob, in order to keep free from them, and in order to keep from having rows; more drink than that I gave away.

2398. How much drink did you give away; did you give a pound's worth; how often did you give drink to the mob?—Several times during the day, in order to quiet them; in order to have more influence. I saw a man nearly murdered going into the house.

2399. What was the value of the drink that you gave to the mob?—I really cannot say.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. THOMAS EDMONDS CLOSE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

2400. I BELIEVE you voted for Mr. Munster at the last election?—I did.

2401. Were you ever in the committee-rooms at Dunn's hotel?—I was in Mr. Dunn's house.

2402. Who were there on that occasion?—If you want me to explain the reason I was there at all—

2403. Who sent for you?—I met Mr. O'Beirne in the street, and he said he was surprised I had not called on him before; that was four or five days after he had been in town. In the meantime I had been in Thurles about my business, and it was the first time I came from Thurles that I met Mr. O'Beirne in the street. He said he was surprised I had not called on him before; that was on the Thursday, and then on the Saturday afterwards I went up to pay him a visit.

2404. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] What Thursday is this; the day before the nomination?—I do not remember the date, but I could soon ascertain that.

2405. How long about was it before the election?—If there is anybody in the court that can tell me—

2406. Mr. Heron.] Was it a week or 10 days?—Yes; I could ascertain the date.

2407. What day of the week was it?—On 121.

the Thursday I first met him, and it was on the Saturday I went to see him.

2408. In Dunn's hotel?—In his private rooms.

2409. What hour was it that you went into Dunn's hotel?—It was about 11 o'clock.

2410. In the evening?—In the morning.

2411. Who were in the rooms when you went in?—Mr. O'Beirne himself.

2412. What conversation had you with him?—Only some gentlemanly conversation; I was very happy to see him.

2413. Did you see Captain Graham there present?—Mr. O'Beirne, Captain Graham, Mr. Michael Handly, and Michael Quirke, and another or two were in the room; I cannot recollect who they were. I did not go up upon any business at all; certainly not anything to do with the election; it was only to see Mr. O'Beirne.

2414. Had you any conversation with Captain Graham about the election?—Not exactly about the election; but after I had bidden Mr. O'Beirne good morning (I do not think I was there more than 10 minutes), Captain Graham followed me and my son out of the room.

2415. Where did he follow you to?—To the lobby, or a small passage at the top of the stairs, and he called me on one side, and said, "Mr. Close, I shall be very happy to give your son some employment employment during this election." I said, "Well, Captain Graham, I am not sure whether he will be here during the election, for he is under a nomination for the Civil Service, from Lord Hawarden's nomination."

2416. That is to pass his examination?—Yes; "and I am not sure whether he will be here at all." "Well," said he, "I know you would be very glad of it; I will give him that," writing on a piece of paper, "20*l*."; he did not write it in letters, but in figures.

2417. Before that, had you been asked for your vote in the room?—No, I had not; Mr. O'Beirne never spoke a word about my vote, or anything at all about the election.

2418. What occurred when he wrote this 20*l*. on a piece of paper?—All I said was, "Captain Graham, I will think about it; I cannot say that my son will be here at all, and I must think of it."

2419. Did he say anything about why the money was to be given to your son, and not to you?—He said, "I cannot speak to you yourself, but I can speak to your son; your son can manage things or arrange it." He says, "I cannot engage you for anything; what is done must be done through your son."

2420. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Say distinctly what he said?—He said, whatever was done must be through my son, and not through myself. "I cannot speak to you," he says; "I can speak to your son."

2421. Mr. Heron.] Was that all that occurred?—It was. I was not there afterwards; I was not there from that time until the present.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

2422. You told us that you voted for Mr. Munster?—I did.

2423. Now, as I understand what you say, Captain Graham said, after he left the room with you, was, that he would give your son some employment?—It was.

2424. During the election?—Yes.

2425. Did he say anything as to the nature of the employment?—Not at all.

2426. And then, you say, he gave you a slip of paper?—No, he did not give me a slip of paper.

2427. What did he do, exactly?—He had a pencil in one hand and a piece of paper in the other, and he wrote down 20*l*. (describing the same).

2428. And you said, "I cannot say that my son will be here," when he did that?—I did.

2429. And of course the 20*l*. would not be given unless your son was here?—I suppose not; there was nothing said about that.

2430. Did you get any money from Mr. Munster?—Not a penny.

2431. Have you been promised any?—Not a penny; not a fraction of a penny.

2432. Had you been on Mr. Munster's committee, or had he any committee?—Not a single committee, or anything; I attended, and I was the first person in Cashel that tendered my vote publicly to Mr. Munster.

2433. Where is your son?—He is in Cashel.

2434. Is he in any employment?—He is in the Civil Service department.

2435. Has he any employment?—He is in the Civil Service in London.

2436. Through whose interest?—No interest except Lord Hawarden nomination, which he got from the Duke of Montrose.

2437. Mr. Munster had nothing to do with it?—Not the least.

2438. Did Mr. Munster employ your son since the election?—He did.

2439. When?—He employed him, I think, for a month or five weeks.

2440. After the election?—After the election. But would you allow me to explain the way in which Mr. Munster has employed him?

2441. Yes?—I told you, my Lord, that he was under an engagement to go under his examination, and as he had not passed previously at the first examination, we had fears with reference to his French. Mr. Munster was a very excellent French scholar, and I asked Mr. Munster to examine him in French, to see if he would pass his examination. Myself and son went up to Mr. Munster one evening. Mr. Munster examined him in his French, and Mr. Munster found that he was so far a superior scholar to what he had any idea of, that he said he would be very happy to do something to forward him in what he was going about; and he said he did not see how he could possibly legitimately do anything for him; that is to send him to London; that he could not do it, but he would be glad of his services. The next morning his secretary came to me —

2442. Answer the question; did Mr. Munster employ your son?—I told you he did.

2443. What did he employ him as?—He was assistant secretary.

2444. To himself?—No, assistant secretary to Mr. Munster's secretary.

2445. What is the secretary's name?—Mr. Biggan.

2446. Where does Mr. Biggan live?—He lives everywhere with Mr. Munster, wherever he is.

2447. Did your son live everywhere with Mr. Munster?—No, he was sent with Mr. Munster's messages to Dublin and other places, and was up at five o'clock in the morning writing for him.

2448. How much did he get?—Two guineas a-week.

2449. Did he get his board besides?—No.

2450. Did he board himself?—No.

2451. Did he get his travelling expenses?—He is here; he will be downstairs.

2452. You say you do not know that he got anything but two guineas a-week?—No.

2453. When did his employment commence?—I cannot tell.

2454. How soon after the election did the employment commence?—I cannot say.

2455. The election took place on the 20th of November; when did the employment commence?—I have not a note of it, but I can refer back to the notice with regard to my teaching, and I think I can find it. I think it must be about the beginning of December.

2456. You live in Cashel?—I do.

2457. Do you recollect, shortly after the election, seeing a placard about Cashel offering a reward of 500*l*. to anyone that would give information as to bribery?—Yes.

2458. Who made the offer; was it Munster?—I could not say.

2459. Did not you read the placard?—Yes.

2460. Did not it purport to be an offer of Mr. Munster of 500*l*.?—Mr. Munster's name was down for the money.

2461. How soon after the election did you see that?

that?—Before the election, and after the election, too.

2462. £. 500. was the figure?—Yes, I think there was another 100 l. offered.

2463. Again?—There were some.

2464. Was that for private information?—I could not swear what it was for, but I know that there was 500 l. offered for information.

2465. Did you borrow any money from Mr. Munster?—No.

2466. Did you get any note or bill?—No.

2467. Did he accommodate you with his name?—No, never, in any shape or form.

2468. Did he accommodate your son, or lend him any money?—Not that I know of; you had better ask him.

2469. Did you borrow money from anyone?—No.

2470. Do you know Con Carroll?—Yes.

2471. Did you borrow money from him?—No.

2472. Did you borrow 8 l.?—What 8 l.?

2473. Did you borrow 1 l.?—I have occasionally.

2474. Are you not very hard up?—No, I do not say that I am hard up.

2475. Are you well off?—No, I am sorry to say I am not.

2476. Do you know a man named Frith?—Yes.

2477. Did you ask him for the loan of 10 l.?—Never in my life.

2478. Nor any money?—There is a difference between 10 l. and 1 s.

2479. Did you ask him for the loan of any money?—Not with reference to the election or any other time.

2480. Was it about the time of the election?—It was not.

2481. When was it?—A twelvemonth ago.

2482. Do you know—

Mr. Butt objected to the private circumstances of the Witness being gone into.

Witness.] If you wish to know my circumstances, I will say I am a great deal poorer than I wish to be.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald stated these questions could not be put.

2483. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you ever tell anyone that you could prove this; did you ever tell anyone what you came here to-day to prove?—Yes, when I was asked, I did.

2484. Did you ever tell anyone but Mr. Laffan, the attorney?—I did; when I was asked, I did; I never said a word about it until I was asked.

2485. Did you lately have any conversation with anybody as to what you could prove here in reference to this, within the last week?—Yes, within the last three days.

2486. With whom?—With Mr. Laffan and Mr. Scallan.

2487. Anybody else?—No.

2488. And Dr. Russell?—I was going to make that exception. On Sunday morning I saw Dr. Russell, and he asked me whether my son would be over here, and hoped he would be able to prove what he mentioned to him; but for that I would not have said anything about it.

2489. That he would be able to prove against O'Beirne?—Not against O'Beirne, but to substantiate what he said before.

2490. When was that conversation?—Last Sunday morning.

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

2491. When did you publicly announce, in Cashel, that you would vote for Mr. Munster?—I was the first person in Cashel that publicly announced I would vote for Munster, without being solicited by Mr. Munster or any one of his agents.

2492. How long was that before the election?—I think three weeks.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. HENRY EDMUNDS CLOSE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

2493. You are the son of Mr. Thomas Close?—Yes.

2494. You now hold a situation in the General Post Office?—Yes, in the Savings' Bank Department.

2495. How long have you held it?—Since the 5th of January.

2496. You obtained it by a competitive examination?—Yes.

2497. On a nomination obtained for you by Lord Hawarden?—Yes.

2498. Do you recollect, before the election, going up to Mr. O'Beirne, at Dunn's hotel, one day, with your father?—Yes, I do.

2499. Did you see Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

2500. Who was with Mr. O'Beirne?—Mr. Michael Handley, I think, Mr. Michael Quirke, and Captain Graham; I remember them.

2501. Do you remember Captain Graham following you and your father out of the room?—Yes.

2502. Did you hear what passed between them?—I did not hear all that passed between them, but I saw Captain Graham make marks on some paper, and he asked would that do.

121.

2503. Did you hear your father reply?—My father did not say anything, but laughed it off, and said he would see about it.

2504. State what you heard?—He took him over to the window, in the lobby.

2505. Did you hear any more of the conversation?—Not at that time.

2506. Did Captain Graham ever speak to you?—Yes.

2507. When was that?—Some time after that.

2508. How long after that?—I think in the following week: I could not tell you what particular day.

2509. When did Captain Graham see you?—The first time was at the corner, just opposite to Dr. Coyle's shop.

2510. What did he say to you then?—He said he would be very glad to do anything for me. "I would be glad to have your father on our side, and anything that is done must be done through you." He said, "I have offered your father 20 l. for your services, and of course we do not want your services. You know what it is for."

2511. What

Mr.
T. E. Close.
16 February
1869.

Mr.
H. E. Close.

Mr.
H. E. Close.
1869.

2511. What did you say to that?—I said I would see about it; I said I would speak to my father.

2512. Did you take the employment?—No.

2513. Did you ever see Captain Graham again?—Yes, I met him the same week; he was coming up, along with his daughter, at the corner of the Golden-road.

2514. What passed between you then?—He asked me had I made up my mind? I said, "No."

2515. Did you mention to your father what had occurred?—No.

2516. Did you mention it to any person since?—I made no secret of it at all.

2517. Do you know Dr. Russell?—Yes.

2518. Did you mention it to him?—Yes.

2519. Now, you were afterwards in Mr. Munster's employment?—Yes.

2520. In what capacity?—As his assistant private secretary.

2521. How long were you in his employment?—Up to the time that I left for England; up to about the 3rd of January.

2522. What did you receive from Mr. Munster for that employment?—Two guineas a week.

2523. Were you paid or given anything more by Mr. Munster than the two guineas a week?—No; whatever expenses I was under on his business he paid me.

2524. Did you go on his business?—Yes; I went up to Dublin with some parcels of his on private business.

2525. While you were in Mr. Munster's employment as assistant secretary, did you really work?—I really worked.

2526. What did you do; what was your occupation?—Copying his letters, and copying several other things, and writing and travelling to and fro; I went to Dublin five or six times for him.

2527. And of course you were paid your travelling expenses?—Yes.

2528. How many hours a day were you employed?—I had no stated hours; sometimes I was up at four o'clock in the morning, and sometimes I never got to bed at all.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

2529. When did you first arrange with Mr. Munster, or he with you, for the two guineas a week?—I forget the exact date; I could give you the agreement between us. Mr. Munster has got the agreement between us.

2530. A written agreement?—Yes.

2531. Before the written agreement was drawn up, was it with him, or anyone on his behalf, that you negotiated?—No one on his behalf. Mr. Biggan came down and said that Mr. Munster wanted me to go with him as his private secretary. He said that Mr. Biggan was very tired and worked very hard, and he wanted some one to help him, and if I would accept of the situation Mr. Munster would employ me.

2532. Were the two guineas a week mentioned then?—Yes.

2533. How many weeks were you receiving the two guineas a week?—I cannot say; it was from the time the agreement was made between us up to the 3rd of January.

2534. Did you receive any other money from Mr. Munster or Mr. Biggan?—I received a loan of 5*l.* from Mr. Munster to pay my expenses to go over to London.

2535. When was that?—The night I left Cashel to go to London on the 3rd of January.

2536. Did you receive any other money?—No, except my other expenses.

2537. How much did you get for expenses and everything else?—I do not know; I gave my accounts to Mr. Munster of what money I had received from Mr. Munster.

2538. For how many weeks?—For the time I was with him.

2539. Could you form any opinion of all the money you got altogether, including the two guineas a week and everything else?—I do not know how many weeks I was with him; I dare say I was with him about six weeks; I do not think I was any longer; that would be 12*l.*

2540. Then the 5*l.* in addition to that?—That was only a loan.

2541. What was the nature of your duties, copying his letters?—Copying his letters.

2542. Anything else?—Travelling to see about his business.

2543. In what direction; what business?—To Dublin sometimes, sometimes to Portarlington.

2544. What was the business you were travelling for?—I am not at liberty to explain.

Mr. Munster.] You are at perfect liberty.

2545. Mr. Curtis.] Upon what business did you travel to Dublin and Portarlington?—I travelled to Dublin to take letters; I travelled to Portarlington to see about an hotel where he was going to stop, and to see whether I could get a proper house for him to stop at when he was going on a visit to Mr. Moore.

2546. You brought letters to Dublin for him?—Yes.

2547. To whom; were they connected with the election?—No.

2548. Do you know what was in the letters?—No.

2549. Did you bring a letter to Mr. Patrick Laffan from Dublin?—No, I never had any connection with him.

2550. Did you bring a letter to Dublin from Patrick Laffan?—No.

2551. Or write any letter to Patrick Laffan for Mr. Munster?—No.

2552. To whom did you bring the letter you brought to Dublin?—I posted them in Dublin.

2553. If you sent them through the post office, what was the object of your bringing them to Dublin?—The post closes in Cashel at 10 o'clock; the night mail goes up then, and the night mail does not close in Dublin till half-past five in the morning; and if Mr. Munster had not the letters written in time, I brought them up and posted them in Dublin.

2554. How many were the letters?—Three.

2555. To whom were they directed?—I do not know.

2556. It was in consequence of Mr. Munster having lost the post on a particular day that you were sent up to Dublin?—They were very important letters.

2557. How do you know that?—I believe Mr. Munster—

2558. How did you know they were important letters?—If they were not very important letters, I am sure Mr. Munster would not let me go to Dublin to post them.

2559. How

2559. How much money altogether did you get from Mr. Munster?—I could not tell you the exact sum.

2560. Did you get 20 l. altogether?—Including my wages?

2561. Yes?—My wages and expenses amounted altogether, I daresay, to 20 l.

2562. Did you get 40 l.?—No.

2563. £. 30?—No.

2564. £. 25?—About 25 l., perhaps not that.

2565. Were any of the letters that you posted in Dublin addressed to persons in Cashel or to any person in Cashel?—No.

2566. You read the direction on them?—Yes.

2567. You do not remember the directions?—No, but I remember they were not to any persons in Cashel; they were all English letters.

2568. Now the time you say you met Captain Graham in the street, and that he made allusion to the 20 l. —?—What time?

2569. After the time that you say you and your father visited Mr. O'Beirne at Dunn's?—I met him twice.

2570. The first time after that, the second time you say he only asked you had you made up your mind, but the first time he made an allusion to the 20 l., and said he had offered your father 20 l. for your services; was not it for your services he said the 20 l. was offered?—Yes, but he also said, "You need not do anything."

2571. He said that the 20 l. was for your services?—Yes.

2572. Not a word was said about voting or anything else?—Yes, there was.

2573. I am alluding to the time when you and your father were at Dunn's?—I did not hear the conversation; I told Mr. Butt that I did not hear the conversation; I only heard part. I heard Captain Graham say, "Will that do?" or "Is that enough?" or something to that effect, and I saw him making marks upon paper.

2574. Were you in court during the time your father gave evidence?—No, I have not been in court for the last two months.

2575. Supposing your father said that no allusion was made to a vote at all at the interview on the lobby between Captain Graham and him, would that be true?—I swear that I did not hear all the conversation.

Mr.
H. E. Close.
1869.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt.

2576. You got money to pay your travelling expenses to Dublin and the other places you were sent to?—Yes.

2577. Did you give to Mr. Munster a return of the money you had actually spent in travelling?—I gave it Mr. Munster through Miss Thorn or Miss Haig.

2578. Did you give a return of anything but what you actually spent?—No.

2579. The rest was accounted for?—Yes.

2580. You received nothing more than the two guineas a week?—I always had a pound in my pocket for any incidental expenses; if Mr. Munster was not in the place I could pay for things, but I accounted for it. Mr. Munster always lets every person in his house have a certain sum of money, so that if anybody is not in the way they may pay.

2581. Mr. Curtis.] Were you in Cashel at the election of 1865?—I was.

2582. Do you know for whom your father voted at that election?—

Mr. Butt objected to the question.

Mr. Curtis was heard in support of his question.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald ruled that the question could not be put.

[The Witness withdrew.

The Court adjourned for a short time.

Upon resuming,

WILLIAM CASHIN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

2583. HAVE you got two sons named John and James Cashin?—Yes.

2584. Were they employed at the election for Mr. O'Beirne; was John employed at the election for Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

2585. Was William?—He was doing something for him, I believe.

2586. How much was he to get for doing something for him?—How do I know what he was to get? I know nothing about it.

2587. You voted for Mr. O'Beirne at the last election?—I did.

2588. And the election before, in 1865?—Yes.

2589. Do you know John Davis White?—I do.

2590. Do you remember signing a bill that he witnessed?—I do not remember the bills, it is so long ago.

2591. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] What is so long ago?—I have no knowledge of the bills; I know nothing at all about them.

2592. Mr. Heron.] Do you know some that 121.

John Davis White witnessed, and which you signed?—I have no knowledge of it.

2593.—Do you remember signing a bill?—No.

2594. Did you sign a bill?—I do not know whether I did or no.

2595. On your oath, did not you sign a bill?—No.

2596.—Did you sign a bill at any time?—I do not know whether I did or not; it is so far ago.

2597. Did you get any money at the time you signed the bill?—I did not. I do not know whether I signed the bill or no. I never got a halfpenny.

2598. Did they give you back your bill?—I cannot say whether they did or not; how could I prove it? I do not know whether I passed the note or not.

2599. You cannot say whether you passed the note or not?—I did not say I did not.

2600. Did they give you up any bill, or your son, shortly before this election?—I know
F 4 nothing

W. Cashin.

nothing about what happened between my sons and myself; how can I foretell?

2601. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you give up any bill yourself?—No, I did not, nor pass any bill either.

2602. Mr. Heron.] Do you mind taking a retainer for 5*l.* 5*s.*?—I got five guineas the morning after from Mr. Laffan; he told me he had a job for me to do, and told me he had a job. I asked him what kind of a job it was, and he told me he would tell me when I got out.

2603. You remember all this?—Yes.

2604. You remember all this?—I remember what happened about a fortnight ago, or a month ago; I do not know which.

2605. Did you take the five guineas at first?—Yes.

2606. Did you afterwards take them back?—I gave him back the five guineas.

2607. Who told you to give back the five guineas; did you get any money at this election?—No, I did not get any; not as much as would shave me.

2608. Do they shave for a penny?—I could shave for a penny here.

2609. Did you know a man named White at the last election of 1865?—That is four or five years ago; how do you know what happened at that time? If I did not put it down in a book, how could I know?

2610. Maybe you were written down in a book?—Maybe I was not.

2611. Where did you last see White about the election?—What do you say to that?

2612. I want you to tell me?—I will if I can.

2613. When did you last see White?—What do I care about White?

2614. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] When did you last see White?—I did not see White this last three years.

2615. Mr. Heron.] Do you swear that you did not see White for three years?—I do; maybe he passed me.

2616. You did not see him to speak to him?—No.

2617. Did you speak to him three years ago, at the time the bills were going?—Maybe I did.

2618. What is White?—How do I know? he is a man.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

2619. Do you know Mr. Pat Laffan; young Pat Laffan?—He has a beard across his lip, that is all I know of him.

2620. I mean the brother of that young gentleman there?—He gave me a cheque for five guineas; he told me he had a job for me.

2621. What did he tell you the job was?—He told me I would lose the job.

2622. Where did he give you the cheque?—In Corcoran's hotel.

2623. Was it a cheque he gave you?—A cheque on the bank.

2624. Who was the cheque signed by; whose name was to the cheque?—I suppose Laffan's.

2625. Was it Michael's or Pat's?—I do not know what you call him.

2626. What did he say the job was; he gave you a job there?—He said he saw some notice up against listing for votes; he said, "When you will go out, I will show you how to do the job."

2627. What did you do with that cheque afterwards?—He thought to list me to vote for Munster.

2628. It was for the five guineas?—I want to explain what the list was.

2629. You saw some notice up about listing for votes; what were the words of it?—I have no notion what it was; I saw it wrote up, any man that took any money.

2630. When did you return the five guineas cheque to him?—In the morning I offered the money and he would not take it.

2631. Was that to that young man or the brother?—I cannot swear which gave it me.

2632. Was it in the office; do you know where Attorney Laffan's office is?—It was in Corcoran's Hotel.

2633. Was it there you brought back the cheque?—Yes.

2634. You had not got cash for it?—Yes, he told me to run over and get cash for it.

2635. Did you get cash for it?—Yes.

2636. Where?—Opposite Corcoran's, the National Bank.

2637. Did you get cash for it the day you got the cheque?—Yes, half an hour after I got it.

2638. After that, how many days had you the cash before you returned it?—I gave it up on Saturday. I gave it back when I saw it posted up on the walls about taking money.

2639. Can you say what you said when you gave back the money?—I told him I would not keep the money; I gave him the money back again.

2640. Did you say you would not keep his money?—He would not take it from me; I went up again and he would not take it again, and I left it on the table; "Keep it now," said I, "and do what you like with it."

2641. Were you served with any written paper or notice by Mr. Laffan?—No, I was not.

2642. Was that the notice you saw (handing the same to the Witness)?—Yes.

Mr. Heron read the notice from Mr. Peirce Grace, which was posted, cautioning the electors of Cashel.

[The Witness withdrew.

Sir JOHN GRAY, M.P., sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Sir
J. Gray,
M. P.

2642*. DID any money for the purposes of the Cashel election pass through your hands, and if so, to whom did you give it?—No money of any kind; I had no connection with the Cashel election, directly or indirectly, in any form or shape.

2643. Or to Mr. O'Beirne?—Or to Mr. O'Beirne.

2644. Or any money of which you were cognisant?—No, never from Mr. O'Beirne to me or from me to Mr. O'Beirne.

2645. I only ask you as to the Cashel election; you are not cognisant of any money which was transmitted to any person for any purposes of the election?—No; I gave you a most comprehensive answer, including not only Mr. O'Beirne, but anybody connected with Cashel.

[The Witness withdrew.

Miss KATE O'DWYER, recalled; Examined by Mr. Butt.

2646. HAVE you got your books?—Yes.

2647. Upon that night of the dinner, have you any entries in your books relating to that?—Do you want to see it?

2648. Yes?—There is very little in it; there is an entry to Mr. O'Connor.

2649. Show me?—Here it is (handing the same to the learned Counsel).

2650. "Mr. J. P. O'Connor, five punch, 2 s. 6 d.; breakfast for 48, at 1 s., 2 l. 8 s.;" was that the morning after the dance?—Yes.

2651. Mr. Thomas O'Connor you have entered here, "14th, two port hot, 1 s. 4 d., one brandy hot, two decanters of spirits, 10 s., on the 19th; and one port and lemonade, 8 d.; —, 17 s.;" that is to Mr. Thomas Connor. Here is J. L. O'Beirne, Esq., a bill against him of 33 l. 4 s. 3 d.?—Yes.

2652. Are those entered in your own handwriting?—Some are and some are not.

2653. You would not enter them if the things were not supplied?—No.

2654. Now tell me this, how many persons dined there that day?—I could not tell.

2655. Take it in your hand; these are the names of those who paid for dinner on the 19th of November 1868, given to Mr. O'Beirne by his friends; and then there are 12 people, by James Ryan, of the Commons, 3 l.; then there is "Pat Bryan, Pat Maber, Michael Hanley, Mr. Patrick Maunsell, John Phelan, and Dr. Maloney; Mr. Fahie, Denis Hency, Dr. Wood, Wm. Gorman, and Mr. John Sturdy," 5 s. each, making in all 5 l. 15 s.; that is so?—Yes.

2656. Do you know how many people dined there?—No, I have no idea.

2657. Now I see here, in Mr. O'Beirne's bill, on the 21st November, "Lunch for 68 people, 17 l.;" what was that?—That was the day of the declaration of the poll.

2658. Is there anything else in the book?—Nothing, except Mr. Geary's account.

2659. Show me the accounts that relate to us?—They are here (showing the same). That is Mr. Geary's, but there is only one item belonging to that night; he deals with me.

2660. "Mr. Geary's account, brought from page 187;" this begins on May the 8th?—Yes.

2661. "18th, 3 spirits; 19th, 4 dinners and spirits, 1 l. 1 s.;" this is in his ordinary account?—Yes.

2662. I see 12 dozen of champagne?—No; one dozen and a half.

2663. "Two dozen of wine, 6 l., 21st of November;" I suppose that was the same day as the luncheon?—Yes.

2664. The whole thing is that luncheon, except 4 l.?—Yes.

2665. Have you been paid that account?—No.

2666. Was your house taken?—No, sir, I think not.

2667. Why do you think not?—There was no understanding about taking it; there is no voter in my house.

Miss
K. O'Dwyer.
16 February
1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

2668. Just look at "Breakfast for 48 at 1 s.?"—Yes.

2669. Is that Mr. O'Connor of Laffener?—Yes.

2670. He is a county voter; he is not a borough voter?—No.

2671. I did not catch what you said Mr. Geary's account was?—£. 1.

2672. When was that supplied, the 1 l.?—The 19th.

2673. Was Mr. Geary one of those who subscribed to this dinner for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

2674. One of his supporters?—Yes.

2675. All the parties named in this list which you have produced, did they pay their own 5 s. to you?—Yes, they paid what you see there.

2676. That was, the parties paid themselves?—Yes, they gave me the money.

2677. You took down their names as they paid?—Yes.

2678. And you look for payment of the others?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt.

2679. Have you any paper showing the number who dined there?—No.

2680. Could you tell me the number who dined there?—No.

2681. How will you get the 5 s.?—I must just chance it.

2682. Were there 20 who did not pay?—I do not know.

2683. Were there 50 who did not altogether?—Yes.

2684. You had only 30 there?—That is all.

2685. You have only been paid for 23 persons dining there?—Yes, that is all.

2686. And there were more than 50, do you think?—I do not think there were.

2687. Were there 50?—I do not think so.

2688. Were there more than 40?—I do not know. There was a great rush of persons coming in, and the whole thing was confused, so that it would be very hard to tell.

2689. That is all that you were paid for, at all events?—That is all.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM MEEHAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

2690. WHEREABOUTS do you live?—Attikitt.

2691. Is that on the Commons?—Yes.

2692. Do you know John Davis White?—I do.

2693. Did he ever witness any bill of yours?—No.

2694. Are you sure of that?—I am.

2695. Do you remember the election of 1865?—I do. W. Meehan.

2696. You voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—I did.

2697. Will you still say that Mr. John Davis White never witnessed any bill or promissory note, or anything of that kind, of yours?—I do.

2698. You swear that positively?—I do.

G

2699. Did

W. Meehan. 2699. Did you ever pass a promissory note in your life?—Never.
 16 February 1869. 2700. You never passed a promissory note in your life?—No.
 2701. Did you ever put your name on a stamp?—Never.
 2702. Would you know the look of a stamp if you saw it?—I would, I think.

2703. You are positive you never put your name to anything, in the presence of Mr. White, in the way of a bill or promissory note, or anything else?—No.
 2704. Or got any money from him?—No, never.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. JOHN DAVIS WHITE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

Mr. J. D. White. 2705. Do you know the last witness, William Meehan?—I have seen him.
 2706. Do you remember the election of 1865?—I do.

Mr. Hemphill inquired whether what occurred in 1865 could be gone into.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald ruled that if it had reference to the last election of 1868, it could be gone into.

2707. Mr. Heron.] Were you ever a witness to any document that William Meehan signed?—To the best of my recollection, that man, William Meehan, that went down there, was one of the persons whose names I witnessed to a promissory note.

2708. What time exactly was it; was it in reference to the election of 1865?—It was before the election of 1865.

2709. How long before the election?—I cannot charge my memory.

2710. It was some time near to the election?—Yes.

2711. Do you remember the amount of the promissory note?—£.30.

2712. First, I ask you, how many documents did you witness, and what were the nature of the documents?—There were, to the best of my recollection, 10 of 30*l.* each.

2713. Were they made payable to any person?—They were made payable to a person of the name of John Phelan.

2714. Who was he?—I do not know, except to hear that he was an attorney's clerk in Dublin, or something of that sort.

2715. Were the 10 documents signed before the election?—I cannot say that.

Mr. Hemphill objected to the examination, on the ground that the Petitioners had not in any way shown any effort or exertion to obtain the promissory notes, and that they could not give evidence of anything reduced to writing without exhausting the proper sources.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald stated that the existence of the documents could be shown, but they could not be examined into further.

2716. Mr. Hemphill.] Are you a solicitor, and were you acting for Mr. O'Beirne, in 1865, as solicitor?—I was acting for Mr. Johnson, who was solicitor for Mr. O'Beirne.

2717. Were you acting as solicitor in the transaction?—I was acting as under agent to Mr. Johnson, who was my partner, and who was Mr. O'Beirne's agent.

Mr. Hemphill objected to the witness being examined upon matters of which he was cognisant as a professional man only.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald overruled the objection.

2718. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] To whom were these documents given up when they were signed, whatever they were?—To the best of my recollection, I sent them by Mr. Johnson to Dublin; that is what I would naturally do, I know; I will not tell you anything but what I am certain of.

2719. Do you know old Cashin?—I do know him, but I am not acquainted with him.

2720. Did you see the old man examined?—I was kept out of the court.

2721. Do you remember the appearance of the old man?—Yes, he is a bald man.

2722. Where was it that these bills or these documents were witnessed by you?—In my parlour.

2723. That is here, in Cashel?—In Cashel.

2724. Were they all witnessed by you on one occasion?—The very same time; the same day and hour; the two were together.

2725. Did you ever see those documents since?—I should think not.

2726. Did you know old Cashin at the last election of 1865?—I have no personal knowledge of any man, previous to that time, to the best of my recollection; I would remember the appearance of Cashin and Meehan.

2727-8. You do remember the appearance of both those men?—Yes.

2729. Did old Cashin sign one of these documents?—Yes.

2730. Do you remember the name of any other elector who signed?—No.

2731. Do you remember that man (William Hackett)?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JEREMIAH NEIL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

J. Neil. 2732. Do you know that gentleman, Mr. White?—No, I do not.

2733. Did you never see him before?—To my knowledge, I did not.

2734. Have you ever seen him before?—No.

2735. Did you ever give a note for the last election; the 1865 election?—No.

2736. Did you get any money at the 1865 election?—No.

2737. Do you remember being canvassed at his election?—I do.

2738. Who

2738. Who canvassed you?—Mr. O'Beirne; I pledged myself to him.
 2739. Did you get any money at this election?—No.
 2740. Were you at Foley's house?—Yes.
 2741. And a good many of the other commoners?—I, Ferris, and three or four more of us.
 2742. Who else?—Ned Maloney, Thomas Welch, and others.

2743. All commoners?—Yes.
 2744. How long was that before the election?—I could not exactly say that.
 2745. Were you asked there, would the old figure do?—No.
 2746. Did you never hear that word?—I did not.

J. Neil.
 16 February
 1869.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs. MARY GORMAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

2747. You are the wife of William Gorman?—Yes.
 2748. Where do you live?—In Cashel.
 2749. Do you know Thomas Connor?—Yes.
 2750. Do you know anybody of the name of Hurley?—Yes; Hurley, the painter, is it?
 2751. Yes?—Yes.
 2752. Were you ever up at "Dunn's Hotel" at the time of the election?—Very often; nearly every day.
 2753. What were you doing there?—Delivering information and getting orders.
 2754. What for?—Meat orders.
 2755. What is your husband?—A butcher.
 2756. Do you recollect Connor coming for you at any time to go up there?—No.
 2757. Or Hurley?—Yes.
 2758. Do you recollect his coming one night for you very late?—Yes.
 2759. What time did he come?—I think it was near 10.
 2760. Did you go?—Yes.
 2761. Was Connors in your house when Hurley came for you?—Yes, there was Connors, a butcher or jobber.
 2762. That was another man?—Yes, he was sitting at the fire.
 2763. And did you go up then?—Yes.
 2764. With Hurley?—Yes.
 2765. Did Connors go with you?—No.
 2766. Do you recollect his wanting to go with you?—No.

2767. There was nothing said about his going with you?—Connors said I might as well go home; Connors said we could not walk it; it was fun to say O'Beirne and Munster would not be together; just like a joke.
 2768. You went up with Hurley?—Yes.
 2769. Where did you go?—Up to Mr. Dunn's.
 2770. Did you see Mr. Dunn?—No; I only saw his wife.
 2771. Did you see Mr. O'Beirne?—No, I never spoke to him in my life; I never saw him anywhere than walking the streets.
 2772. Who did you see there?—I could not say I saw any one but himself; I saw O'Beirne's boy walking about the shop, or at least his valet.
 2773. What did Mrs. Dunn want with you?—She wanted chops for an early breakfast; there was the nomination the following morning, and so as not to be in a bustle in the morning, to send her up 5 lbs. or 6 lbs. of chops.
 2774. And you did it?—Yes, and if she liked 12 lbs. I would have done it.
 2775. Your husband is a voter?—Yes; if she required a sheep's head I would have given it as willingly as that much.
 2776. Your husband is an elector?—Yes.
 2777. He voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes, indeed he did, with the greatest of pleasure.

Mrs.
M. Gorman.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES CULLEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

2778. WHERE do you live?—The Lower Gate.
 2779. Is your father a voter?—Yes.
 2780. What is he?—A cooper.
 2781. Were you employed at the election?—Yes.
 2782. Who by?—Mr. O'Beirne.
 2783. What did he employ you for?—To watch the Munsterites.
 2784. How long before the election were you employed?—I cannot exactly tell; I kept no account.
 2785. A week before the nomination?—Yes, a week.
 2786. How much were you to be paid?—I do not know; I made no bargain with him, nor he with me.
 2787. And you never got a penny?—Yes.
 2788. How much did you get?—£. 1.
 2789. Who gave you the 1*l*.?—Mr. O'Beirne's man.
 2790. The valet?—Yes, by Mr. O'Beirne's orders.
 2791. Were any other boys paid along with you?—Yes.
 121.

2792. Who else?—Four more.
 2793. What other four?—They were not voters' sons; I cannot tell you all; a boy of the name of Canavan, and Manahan, Squire, Pat Flaven, and James Colne, and your obedient servant.
 2794. None of them were sons of voters but yourself?—One.
 2795. Who was the one?—Squire.
 2796. What day were you paid?—I kept no account.
 2797. Is he a son of George Squire of Friar-street?—Yes.
 2798. What is his name?—I do not know.
 2799. Was it before the nomination that you were paid?—I kept no account, good, bad, or indifferent.
 2800. Was it before the election?—It was the day of polling.
 2801. What day was it?—I cannot say.
 2802. Was it before the polling-day?—It was the same day.
 2803. What hour were you paid it?—Well, by God! I would want to be a prophet to think of it since.

J. Cullen.

J. Cullen.
16 February
1869.

2804. Do you know what hour it was?—No.
2805. You do not know whether it was in the morning, or in the evening?—It was the morning.
2806. Was it up at Dunn's Hotel?—Yes.
2807. Were you told to go there for payment?—I was not told to go there.
2808. Do you expect anything more?—No.
2809. What?—I do not know what you mean.
2810. Do you swear you do not know what I mean?—I swear positively.
2811. Do you expect any more from Mr. O'Beirne?—Mr. O'Beirne is an honourable gentleman; he can do what he likes with me; if I get no more I am satisfied.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

2812. How many days were you employed altogether for the 1*l*.?—Eleven days.

2813. What were you doing during the 11 days?—Watching the Munsterites; especially the young man, Mr. Laffan.

2814. And giving information?—Yes, to Mr. O'Beirne.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MICHAEL MALOCHNEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

M.
Malochney.

2815. Is your father a voter?—Yes.
2816. You are not a voter?—No.
2817. Were you employed in Cashel at the last election?—Yes.

2818. Who employed you?—Mr. Johnson.

2819. Last November I mean?—I was not personally employed, but I did business for Mr. O'Beirne; there was no agreement between us at all.

2820. Did anybody speak about your doing business for Mr. O'Beirne?—No, I went up to Mr. O'Beirne the day he arrived in Cashel, I just spoke to him on Sunday evening first.

2821. What passed between you and Mr. O'Beirne?—I just went up to see him, and told him about the transaction occurring that passed between Cunningham and two or three voters that evening previous to that, where they said Mr. O'Beirne was a pauper and that he had no money, and that there was an immensity of money lodged by Mr. Munster, and that he would be the man for Cashel; also he introduced a subject of his own, about the previous election of 1865, saying where Mr. O'Beirne owed him a certain amount of money, and that he did not pay it until December 1866, I think.

2822. Did Mr. O'Beirne say anything to you or did you say anything to Mr. O'Beirne on that occasion about doing any work?—Not a word.

2823. You swear that?—Yes.

2824. You say you were employed in the 1865 election?—Yes.

2825. And was anything due to you on the 1865 election when you went up to Mr. O'Beirne that night?—No.

2826. Now, on your oath, how much were you paid for the 1865 election?—25*l*.

2827. Was not there a balance due to you when Mr. O'Beirne came up to Cashel, and you went up to him?—At that time it was the first night Mr. O'Beirne came, not the night of Sunday evening; there was nothing between us that evening.

2828. There was afterwards?—Not so far as any money between us.

2829. Did Mr. O'Beirne, upon any subsequent occasion, employ you to work for him at the election?—Never to give me any occupation.

2830. Did Mr. O'Beirne, on any subsequent occasion, employ you to work for him?—No, except to tell me to come up at such a time, he never spoke about money at the election at all.

2831. You still have not given me an answer to the question; did Mr. O'Beirne at any of these times tell you to work for him during the election, or did he employ you to work for him?—

He told me to watch Mr. Munster's doings at the election.

2832. Do you swear that there was no balance due to you at the last election?—No.

2833. Did not you get the sum of 10*l*. in the month of November?—I swear I never received a shilling from Mr. O'Beirne.

2834. From whom did you get the 10*l*.?—I never received a shilling from any man.

2835. You did not receive a single shilling?—A single shilling.

2836. How long were you working for Mr. O'Beirne during this last election?—I was working all through, from the first time he came into the town, though I had not been with him.

2837. What is your employment?—I am a tradesman.

2838. What tradesman?—A brogue maker.

2839. Are you so well off that you can afford to give up your work, and go about working Mr. O'Beirne's business for nothing?—I could do it very well.

2840. Do you swear that you did not get a single shilling for what you did at the present election?—I swear I did not get a shilling from any man except Mr. Munster.

2841. Or before the election?—Or before the election.

2842. How much did you get from Mr. Munster?—1*s*.

2843. And you took it?—Yes, and spent it.

2844. Was that with the subpœna?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

2845. I believe you are not a voter?—No.

2846. As to the conversation you heard between Cunningham and the voters on the hill; who were the voters on the hill?—Pat Callivan and Tom Murphy, the three were standing there one Sunday evening, and he and another man, Foherty, walked down together on the hill and passed us by, and walked 20 or 30 yards. Foherty led him away, and he turned back again to get on, and said Mr. O'Beirne is such and such. All through I was going to vote in favour of Mr. O'Beirne, and they said not to let him go on, for he was inclined to vote for Mr. O'Beirne more than any other man in Cashel. Cunningham then introduced a subject of his own about his money questions at the election before, and said there was 105*l*. due since the last election until December 1868, and if Mr. O'Beirne's life was taken short as stronger men's than his was, he was done with it.

2847. What did they say about Munster?—He said Munster was the only man for Cashel.

2848. Why?

2848. Why?—Because a man with money was the right man for Cashel.

2849. Were there any other voters joined in that conversation?—Yes, Mr. Gorman made a remark, where was the 105 l. in his house if the money was due, or where was the value for it.

[The Witness withdrew.

2864. When were you employed?—About a month before the election.

2865. What were you employed for?—I was about the town the same as Cunningham, looking after Mr. Munster's agents.

2866. Used you to be about the town all day?—Yes.

2867. And whenever you got thirsty you used to have a little drop?—No.

2868. Where did you have your luncheon every day?—I used to go home.

2869. What were you paid?—I only got 1 l., and no more.

2870. Was any arrangement made to pay you anything at all when you were employed?—No, he did not agree with me for anything.

2871. Where was it that Mr. O'Beirne employed you?—At Mr. Mackey's tally-rooms.

2872. Pat. Mackey's tally-rooms?—Yes.

2873. Were there other persons employed too?—Yes.

2874. Who were the other two?—There was Curran and Flavan.

2875. What is Flavan's Christian name?—Joseph Flavan.

2876. What did Mr. O'Beirne say to the three of you?—He told us to be on the street every day, and watch Mr. Munster's agents.

2877. Did you make your report?—I made two or three reports.

2878. What did you report at head-quarters?—I used to see Mr. Munster's supporters going into Corcoran's hotel after Mr. Laffan, and two or three more of his agents.

2879. And you would bring word of it?—Yes.

2880. Did you make three reports during the whole time?—I made several.

2881. How much did you expect to be paid?—I brought in a bill for 50 s.

2882. Did you send any bill to Mr. Grace?—Yes.

Mr. Heron (to Mr. Grace).] Show me the bill.

Mr. Grace.] I have it not.

Mr. Heron.] You will have the bills in the morning?

Mr. Grace.] Yes.

2883. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Did the others send in a bill?—I do not know.

2884. Did you agree between yourselves what you would be paid?—No.

2885. Did you send in the bill after you got the 1 l.?—After.

2886. And you got 30 s. more?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

2887. About how many days were you employed?—About 14 days.

2888. Did you make any of these reports in writing to Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

2889. Could you say how many days you reported in writing; five or six of them?—Five or six of them.

2890. Or more?—More.

2891. And gave them to Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

2892. Used you to bring them to him in the evening?—Yes.

2893. Did the reports state what you had observed during the day?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

PATRICK HICKEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

2894. Is your father a voter?—Yes.

2895. And voted for Mr. O'Beirne at the last election?—Yes.

2896. Were you employed during the last election?—No.

2897. Did you do any work at the last election for Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

2898. Did you get any money?—No.

2899. You never interfered?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

 2933. You were 40 perches away?—Yes.
 2934. Did you see any other cars?—Yes, Mr. Munster's car.
 2935. Did you see it after you?—Yes; it was after me.
 2936. Did you run a race?—No; it ran before me sometimes and then stopped after me.
 2937. Who got first to the commons?—He got first to the Cross before me.
 2938. Who was first back, do you think, in Cashel?—I was; sure myself was first back.
 2939. Did you win the race?—By God I do not know whether I did or no.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

2940. Who was in Mr. Munster's car; was his car a covered car?—His car was an outside car; the car that came after me, and was running bang into my car; I shouted to the driver to keep out of the way.
 2941. Did you see the people on it?—No.
 2942. You do not know who they were?—No.
 2943. Any of them?—One of them is Daniel, of Ladyswell; he drove up to me to see who I had in.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr.
J. D. White.

Mr. JOHN DAVIS WHITE, recalled; Examined by Mr. Heron.

Upon William Cashin being called,

2944. (To Mr. White.) Is that the man who signed the note?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ALICE STAPLETON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

A. Stapleton.
 2945. You are a daughter of Daniel Stapleton, one of the commons?—Yes.
 2946. Your father voted at the last election for Mr. O'Beirne?—He did, with the greatest of pleasure.
 2947. Did your father give you any money about the time of the election?—No, your Lordship, he did not.
 2948. Nor a shilling?—Nor a farthing.
 2949. Did your father give you any money during the whole month of November?—No, your honour, never.
 2950. Did you buy any things in town during the month of November?—Indeed, I did not; not that I can recollect.

2951. Do you know Tom Connors?—I do.
 2952. Do you remember his coming to your father's house during the time of the election?—I was in Cashel at the time he came.
 2953. He was there with Tim Shea?—I was in town; I met him on the way, and he did not tell me what he wanted.
 2954. You met him on the way down to your father's?—Yes.
 2955. Did you know he was going there?—No.
 2956. Did your father tell you that Tom Connors had been there?—Well, he did not.
 2957. Who told you?—I heard this in town, by some of the neighbours I met walking out to the commons, but not at the same time.

2958. Did

2958. Did you go home that night?—I did.
 2959. What hour did you get home that night?
 —It was a late hour enough; I suppose it was after six.
 2960. Was your father at home when you went out?—He was.
 2961. Did Tom Connors come there after you went out?—No, never; not at any time during the election he never came into my presence.
 2962. Did your father tell you that Thomas Connors had been there while you were out?—Yes, he said Tom Connors had been there, and took down his name, and the morning after their names was on the walls of Cashel; my father's name was there, and any further than that I do not know.
 2963. How many are you in family at your father's?—Ne'er a girl but myself.
 2964. Have you any brothers?—I have a step-brother, and a nephew of mine there.
 2965. After that visit of Tom Connors, did your father give you any money?—Never.
 2966. Did Tom Connors ever give you any money?—Never a shilling I ever possessed, except the shilling I received for the subpoena.
 2967. That is the only shilling you ever got?—That is the only shilling I ever got.
 2968. Did you ever see any money in the house after Tom Connors was there?—No.
 2969. Did you hear them talking about the money?—No, I never did in any sort of a way, never.

 2970. No talk at all about any money going?—No.
 2971. Did you hear the words "the old figure?"—No.
 2972. Do you know what that means?—No, I never heard a word of it, and no one ever came into the house to trouble me on that occasion in any sort of way.
 2973. Did you buy any clothes in November?—No, I did not.
 2974. Or in December?—No, I could not recollect that I bought any clothes; but I bought clothes other days.
 2975. I do not mean your own wearing clothes?—Any other clothes I never possessed.
 2976. Is it you that buys the things for your house, for your father?—Yes, and everything that comes into the house.
 2977. You manage the house?—Yes, I do.
 2978. Do you mean to say that you made no purchase for the house?—No, I did not.
 2979. Did any new bedding and table covers come into the house?—No, in any sort of way it never came into the house.

[The Witness withdrew.]

TOM CONNORS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

2980. You are the brother of Patrick Connors?—Yes.
 2981. Do you know your brother was appointed agent for election expenses for Mr. O'Beirne at the election?—I am not certain.
 2982. Did you never hear it?—No.
 2983. You never heard that he was?—No.
 2984. Do you mean to say, on your oath, that you did not know that your brother was expense agent or not?—He has never told me.
 2985. Do you know it?—I do not.
 2986. Do you mean to say that you do not believe that your brother was expense agent?—No, I could not swear it.
 2987. You do not believe he was expense agent?—I cannot swear.
 2988. You swear you do not believe it; have you any belief on the subject?—No.
 2989. You have no belief on the subject, whether your brother was expense agent, or not?—No.
 2990. You swear that?—Yes.
 2991. Were you yourself an agent for Mr. O'Beirne?—Never.
 2992. In any way?—No.
 2993. Did you do anything for him in the election?—I went to the commons on one or two occasions.
 2994. Was that all?—Yes.
 2995. You never did anything else?—No, except taking a message, or anything like that.
 2996. Did you do anything for Mr. O'Beirne at the election?—It was very little I could do for any one.
 2997. Did you do anything?—Very little.
 2998. Did you never canvass?—No.
 2999. Did you treat any voters?—No.
 3000. Did you treat the mobs?—I gave drink at my own expense.

3001. How much drink did you give at your own expense?—I gave drink at Miss O'Dwyer's.
 3002. To whom did you give drink at your own expense at Miss O'Dwyer's?—To Con Carroll.
 3003. Is Con Carroll a voter?—Yes.
 3004. Did you swear, a moment ago, that you never gave drink to a voter?—I did not swear any such thing.
 3005. How much money did you spend at Kate O'Dwyer's in giving drink?—I cannot say.
 3006. How much do you think?—I cannot say.
 3007. How often did you give drink?—Before and after the election; for a number of years I have been giving drink to people at Miss O'Dwyer's.
 3008. Do you mean, by that answer, to tell me that you gave no more drink at the time of the election than you were generally in the habit of giving?—I may give more at that time.
 3009. Did you give more?—I am sure I did.
 3010. Besides Miss O'Dwyer's, did you give drink at any place else?—Yes.
 3011. Where?—I gave drink at Mr. Michael O'Dwyer's.
 3012. To whom did you give drink at Michael O'Dwyer's?—I cannot say who they are.
 3013. Did you give drink at any place else?—I have given drink at several places—at John Comon's.
 3014. To whom did you give drink there?—I cannot say who they were.
 3015. How much do you think you owe for drink there?—Twelve or fifteen shillings.
 3016. Did you tell me how much you owe Miss Kate O'Dwyer for drink?—I cannot say; I have not been furnished with the account.
 3017. As much as 2 l. or 3 l.?—No.

T. Connors.

T. Connors.
—
16 February
1869.

3018. Can you say any other place where you gave drink?—I gave drink at Patrick Connor's.

3019. How much do you owe there?—Nothing.

3020. How much did you pay there?—I paid as they came in and out.

3021. During the election how much did you pay there?—I was not in there during the election.

3022. During the month, and the day of the election, I want to know where you gave drink; I want to know several places?—I am not certain.

3023. Do you mean that you cannot answer my question as to any other place where you treated persons about the time of the election?—No, I cannot swear that I gave drink at any other places.

3024. Did you give any at Dunn's?—Yes, I treated parties at Dunn's.

3025. How much do you owe at Dunn's?—I do not know what I owe at Dunn's.

3026. Did you ever ask for it?—I have paid accounts at nearly all the houses in town.

3027. When did you pay those accounts?—I paid no accounts at all since the election.

3028. Do you understand that I am asking you about the time of the election?—I understand you perfectly well.

3029. Tell me any other houses in which you gave drink to people during the time of the election?—I cannot tell you any other house.

3030. How often were you at the commons?—On two occasions.

3031. Were you there at Timothy Shea's?—Yes.

3032. What time did you go out?—Between five and six o'clock.

3033. When did you come back?—Before ten.

3034. What were you doing there that night?—There was a rumour in the town that most of the commons men that were pledged to Mr. O'Beirne were coming over to Munster's; and, to know the accuracy of it I went out to see.

3035. How many houses did you go into that night?—I suppose from 28 to 30.

3036. About 30 houses?—Yes.

3037. Were all those the houses of voters?—Yes.

3038. Were you alone with any voters that night?—No.

3039. Was Timothy Shea present at every interview you had with the voters that night?—No; all the parties in the house were present when I went in.

3040. Did you never take a voter into the inside room that night?—No.

3041. You positively swear that?—I do.

3042. Did you ask those voters how they were going to vote?—No; I asked them would they give their signatures if they were inclined to vote for Mr. O'Beirne, and some of the men gave me their signatures as I went down that night, and some did not.

3043. Had you the paper signed; what was the paper?—The electors on the commons determined to vote for Mr. O'Beirne in the election now to take place; it was posted on the wall.

3044. What became of the paper that you got signed?—The printer may have it.

3045. What did you do with it?—I gave it to the printer.

3046. Do you call that canvassing for Mr. O'Beirne?—I do not; I went there for myself.

3047. Were you canvassing that night for Mr. O'Beirne?—No, indeed.

3048. You were not?—No.

3049. Were you ever at Dunn's Hotel with Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

3050. How often were you with him there?—I cannot say how many times.

3051. Were you there every night?—I was not.

3052. How many nights from the time Mr. O'Beirne came to Cashel, how many days passed without your seeing him?—Many days.

3053. How many days?—Half a week, or more. I might see him passing through the town, but not having an interview with him.

3054. When you were going out to the commons at night, did you talk of taking any one else with you?—Yes.

3055. Who was the person?—I was going to take Michael Keif.

3056. What prevented you taking him?—He was going with me; he met Timothy Shea, and asked Timothy Shea to come with me.

3057. Do you know John Hogan?—Perfectly well.

3058. Did you ever get any cheque of Mr. O'Beirne from Hogan?—None.

3059. Did you ever speak to Hogan about a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

3060. Did you never know that Mr. O'Beirne had given a cheque of 60 L. to John Hogan?—I may have heard it.

3061. Did you ever hear of the cheque of 60 L.?—No.

3062. Do you swear you did not?—I heard it in court.

3063. Before to-day did you ever hear it?—No.

3064. Did you ever speak to John Hogan about that cheque?—Never.

3065. Did you ever see any drink at Mr. O'Beirne's room at Dunn's?—I saw drink there at Mr. Dunn's, but I do not know who had the drink there.

3066. Did you ever see any one drinking?—I drank there myself.

3067. Did you ever see any one else drinking?—I cannot say who I saw drinking.

3068. Did you ever see any one else drinking at Dunn's?—Yes.

3069. How many?—I cannot say.

3070. Were you ever present when drinking was going on at Dunn's, in Mr. O'Beirne's room?—I was.

3071. Were you a friend of Mr. O'Beirne's, when he was here?—I would like him to be returned, that was all.

3072. Were you much with him?—No, not very much with him at all; I had business to mind.

3073. What is your business?—Clerk to Mr. Hanly.

3074. Did you ever say to any person that you had taken money out with you to the commons?—Never.

3075. Do you know a man of the name of William Gilbert?—Yes.

3076. Had you ever any conversation with him?—Several times.

3077. Had you ever any conversation with him about the election?—I cannot say; we were always speaking about the election for the last 12 months.

3078. Since the election, had you any conversation with him?—Not of any importance.

3079. Had

3079. Had you any conversation with him at all?—Not about the election. I have said nothing to him about the election since it was over.

3080. Now I bring your attention particularly to it; were you ever drinking in Ryan and Hogan's house with William Gilbert?—I may have taken a glass of drink.

3081. Were you?—I cannot say what evening you mean.

3082. Any evening since the election?—I was.

3083. Do you remember any evening you met William Gilbert in Ryan and Hogan's public-house?—I met him on several occasions.

3084. Do you remember one evening that Cunningham was there?—Cunningham has been there very often.

3085. Do you remember any evening that Gilbert and Cunningham were there together?—I cannot tell you that; Cunningham has said so much about the election. He said if he thought I went to the Commons he would have followed me out and robbed me, if he thought I had the money.

3086. Where did Cunningham say that?—In Mr. Corcoran's hotel, and Mr. Michael Laffan was there.

3087. Were you present?—Yes.

3088. Cunningham said if he knew you had money, he would have robbed you on the way?—Yes.

3089. I want to know whether Cunningham, Corcoran, and you had ever any talk about your going to the Commons with money, in Ryan and Hogan's public-house?—Never.

3090. Had you any conversation with them?—I had several conversations with them.

3091. About going to the Commons; Gilbert, Cunningham, and yourself, and four or five others, being present?—Not to my recollection.

3092. Is that all you can say?—Yes.

3093. Will you swear you did not?—I will swear I do not recollect.

3094. I ask you will you swear you had no conversation, not that you do not recollect?—I swear that I had no conversation about money on the Commons.

3095. About your going to the Commons, had you any conversation there about your going to the Commons?—I may have had.

3096. Had you?—I will not swear.

3097. Did you ever say you left Tim Shea in the kitchen while you arranged with the voters in the room?—Never.

3098. You did not say that in Ryan and Hogan's public-house to Gilbert and Cunningham?—Never.

3099. Did you say that you had spent 500 l. in the Commons?—Never.

3100. Did you ever give anyone any money after the last election?—Never.

3101. You swear that?—I do.

3102. Did you take any house?—No; for what would I take a house?

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

3103. Did you, in point of fact, bring out any money at night to the Commons?—No.

3104. For what did you go there?—It was reported in the town that the men who were to vote for Mr. O'Beirne were voting for Mr. Munster, and I went out to get their signatures, and to ascertain the fact.

3105. The men who had previously promised?—Yes.

3106. To get their signatures to a paper?—Yes.

3107. You said the paper was posted on the wall?—Yes.

3108. Was that a copy of the document signed?—Yes.

3109. You are not a voter yourself?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM GILBERT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

3110. Do you know the last witness, Thomas Connors?—Yes.

3111. Were you with him one evening, in Ryan and Hogan's public-house, after the election?—Yes.

Mr. Hemphill objected to the course of the examination.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald over-ruled the objection.

3112. Mr. Heron,] Did the conversation turn on the election?—Not that I am aware of; sometimes it did.

3113. Did you hear Tom Connors say anything about giving money, and how much?—No, I did not.

3114. Did you hear him say anything about going out to the Commons?—Yes, I heard that.

3115. And about Shea being with them?—Yes, I heard that after the election.

3116. Did you hear Tom Connors say it?—No.

3117. What did Tom Connors himself say?—I do not remember.

3118. Did you hear him say anything about Mick Keif?—No.

3119. Not at all?—No.

121.

3120. Did you hear him mention Tim Shea's name?—No.

3121. What did he say about having gone out to the Commons?—I did not take note of it.

3122. Did he say anything about bringing any money out there?—Not that I am aware of.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

3123. Are you in the employment of Mr. Andrew O'Mara in this town?—Yes.

3124. What business?—Drapery.

3125. Does he live in Main-street?—Yes.

3126. Is Mr. O'Mara a voter?—Yes.

3127. Did he vote for Mr. Munster at the late election?—He voted for Mr. Munster.

3128. Did you see Mr. Munster in the shop occasionally, before the election?—I saw him occasionally.

3129. About how often did you see him?—About twice.

3130. Before the election?—Yes.

3131. Was he there on any particular business?—Nothing whatever, except that he bought something for himself.

3132. Drapery?—Yes.

3133. Any large quantity?—Not very large.

3134. Was it for Mr. Leahy that he bought the goods?—He bought some.

1869.

*W. Gilbert.*16 February
1869.

3135. Do you know whether Mr. Munster discounted any bills for Mr. O'Mara?—Well, I do not know.

3136. You say he did not discount any bills for Mr. O'Mara?—Yes.

3137. Were any of the bills discounted for any of the Commons' men at O'Mara's?—No, not that I am aware of.

3138. Did any of the Commons' men come into Mr. O'Mara's before the election?—Yes.

3139. Did any of them bring any bills or I O U's?—Not that I am aware of.

3140. Did you ever hear from Mr. O'Mara that they had?—No.

3141. Is there a lane behind Mr. O'Mara's house?—Yes.

3142. Is there an entry from that lane into the kitchen?—Yes.

3143. Did you see any commoners go in through the back way?—I saw them going in the front way.

3144. Did you see them going in through the back way?—No.

3145. Do you know John Maloney?—Yes.

3146. Did you see him going into O'Mara's?—Yes, both before and after the election.

3147. What business was he doing with Mr. O'Mara?—I do not know.

3148. Was he in the shop?—Yes.

3149. You cannot tell what passed between them?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

TIMOTHY SHEA, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

T. Shea.

3150. Do you recollect going out to Commons some nights before the election, with Buckley?—I do.

3151. How long was it before the election, do you recollect?—I did not keep an account.

3152. Was it a week?—I suppose it was about a week.

3153. Were you out there more than once before the election?—I was with Mr. O'Beirne; when the cars were going about I went in a car.

3154. You were driven by Buckley and you went out with Tom Connors?—Yes.

3155. Did you go into any houses that night?—No, I did not go into many houses; I was not very well; I remained in the car. I went into some of the houses. I will explain; I was on the start and this Connors called me and asked me would I go out to the Commons with him. I asked him what he wanted me for and he told me he had some sort of requisition to sign, and I do not know the contents of it now, and he read it; he satisfied me then, and I went with him, and no more than that, in the car.

3156. When you went out to the Commons, did Connors go into the houses?—He did, and I went with him to some of the houses.

3157. I thought you said you stayed in the car?—Into some of the houses; the night was cold and I had very bad clothes on me, and I did not care to stir out from where I was.

3158. Into how many houses did you and Connors go together, to the best of your recollection?—To the best of my recollection, I saw them sign the paper; I forget the contents, but it was a sort of requisition, saying that they would vote for Mr. O'Beirne. There was a rumour in the town that a good many Commons people intended to vote for Mr. Munster; in consequence of that, he went to ascertain who were the persons who were supposed to vote.

3159. Did you hear Connors asking these people to vote for Mr. O'Beirne, and see them sign the paper?—I did not.

3160. Of course there was not a word said about money?—Indeed, my Lord, as far as I am concerned, Connors was as single that night as I am now; if I could state what I heard, I do not believe he had a shilling in his waistcoat pocket.

3161. Into how many houses did you go with Connors?—Really I cannot say now.

3162. Did you go into half a dozen?—I believe about six or seven.

3163. He went into about 30?—He did not that night.

3164. He said so?—I do not know exactly.

3165. Do not you think that he ought to know how many houses he went into?—I know the houses he went into.

3166. If you know the houses he went into, you could know how many houses you did go into?—I went into Matthew Duggan's, and there were people on the way home; three or four came in and signed the paper there in my presence; they were on their way home.

3167. Tell me the names of the houses you went into?—Dan Dwyer's and Duggan's; I forget their names.

3168. There would be more than six altogether?—I did not take the number; I could not exactly say.

3169. That is all you know about it?—That is all I know about it.

3170. You do not know what happened when you were outside?—No; there were four or five signed the paper in my house.

[The Witness withdrew.]

GEORGE SQUIRE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

G. Squire.

3171. ARE you an elector?—I am.

3172. You voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

3173. I believe your son was examined here?—He was.

3174. Were you ever at Dunn's with Mr. O'Beirne?—I think I was a couple of nights; I was just in and out.

3175. Do you know whether your son was employed at the election or not?—I believe he was, but not to my knowledge.

3176. Do you mean to say that you do not know whether he was employed or not?—I know he was employed, but I did not know upon what terms.

3177. Did you ever ask your son upon what terms he was employed at the election?—I do not know that I ever asked the question.

3178. Did you never ask your son upon what terms he was employed at the election?—I do not know upon what terms he was employed; I know that he got 1 l., that is all I know.

3179. You

3179. You know that your son was employed?—Yes.

3180. Did you ever ask him what he was to get for his employment?—No, I do not think I did.

3181. Will you swear you did not?—I am sure I did not.

3182. You say you do not think; that implies a doubt; are you sure?—I am almost positive; I do not believe he knew himself what he was to get.

3183. How do you know that he did not know?—Because I did not ask him any questions about it.

3184. How do you know he did not know what he was to get?—Because I do not think he knew himself.

3185. Have you told me that you knew your son was employed?—Yes; I knew how he was employed.

3186. Then you think he did not know what he was to get?—I do not think he knew what he was to get.

3187. Why do you think that?—Because I never asked the question.

3188. Because you never asked the question, you think he does not know what he is to get?—I say, I do not think he knows.

3189. I ask you, did you ever ask him what he was to get?—Never.

3190. Did you ever talk to him about his employment?—I often talked to him, and he told me that he got 1*l*.

3191. Did you know the nature of his employment?—I believe he was employed as a sort of—I could not exactly tell you what—going about with messages.

3192. Does your son live with you?—He is apprenticed out, and he lodges in the house.

3193. You see him every day, and he takes his meals with you?—Yes.

3194. Did you have the curiosity to ask him the nature of his employment?—I asked him what he was doing, and he said he was going about.

3195. And you never asked him what he was to be paid for it?—No.

3196. Did you never ask anybody else what he was to be paid?—No.

3197. Did you ever get any money from any person in connection with the election for your son or anybody else?—My son got 1*l*.

3198. Did you yourself get any money from any person in connection with the election?—No, except when Mr. Munster's servant served me with a summons, I got 1*s*.

[The Witness withdrew.]

DENNIS GEARY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

3199. You voted for Mr. O'Beirne at the last election?—Yes.

3200. Did you take any houses for him?—No.

3201. Or give any orders?—Not for Mr. O'Beirne, I gave orders.

3202. Did you give any orders?—For what purpose?

3203. For the purpose of drink?—Not for Mr. O'Beirne; but with my own free will.

3204. Did you give orders for drink?—I gave orders for drink as my own free act and will.

3205. Where did you get it?—Mr. James Dunn in one case. I am a bootmaker by trade, and my hands asked me for drink and I sent them over to Grace's.

3206. For how much?—I told them to have a drink.

3207. How much did you pay at Grace's?—Nothing.

3208. How much did you pay at Dunn's?—Nothing yet.

3209. Any other place?—Mr. Michael O'Dwyer.

3210. How much did you order there?—I could not tell.

3211. Any other place?—I was, the night of the dinner, at Miss O'Dwyer's, and I ordered a glass of drink for my friends.

3212. And you did not pay?—Certainly not.

3213. And you never intended to pay?—Yes, as soon as ever I can.

3214. And you would not take a farthing from Mr. O'Beirne?—Decidedly not.

3215. Do you mean to say that you never got money from Mr. O'Beirne?—For what purpose do you mean?

3216. Did you ever get any money from Mr. O'Beirne?—For what purpose do you mean?

3217. For anything?—I received 50*l*. from Mr. O'Beirne this time three years.

121.

3218. Did you ever see any bills for voters?—I did, but not at this election.

3219. How many?—Six.

3220. Whose bills?—Three Dwyers', one Ryan, and two Careys'.

3221. What are the Christian names of the Dwyers?—Daniel in one case, and James and John.

3222. Where did you witness the bills?—In my own house.

3223. What is the name of the two Careys?—John, who is dead, and Michael is the other.

3224. Michael is here, and is a voter?—Yes.

3225. And he voted at the last election?—I could not tell you that.

3226. Were the six men together when you witnessed the bills?—No.

3227. Were any of them together, or was it done separate?—Four came into my house the 22nd June 1865; as well as I recollect there were four in one case, one afterwards, and one did not come at all; Michael Carey got the money of his brother.

3228. Who paid him the money?—I paid him the money.

3229. How much money had you then to pay? Thirty pounds in each case.

3230. That is 180*l*.?—Yes.

3231. Who gave you the 180*l*.?—Charles Fraser Johnson.

3232. Was all the money that you gave them money to bribe the voters?—No such thing; I disbelieve that word; he did it for no purpose; there was no consideration between the voters, me, nor Johnson.

3233. It was the 22nd of June?—Yes.

3234. Is that the day of the polling; was it before or after the polling?—I believe the election came off on the 15th of July; it was nearly a month after.

3235. But the addresses of the candidates were out?—Yes.

3236. And

G. Squire.

16 February
1869.

3236. And Johnson was agent for Mr. O'Beirne?—I do not know; people deny it; I never was informed that he was the agent for Mr. O'Beirne.

3237. Who paid you the 50*l*.?—Mr. O'Beirne sent me 50*l*. from London, next August two years; it was a bill upon the bank three months after date; I accepted it and I got the money; the bill was taken up; not by Mr. O'Beirne.

3238. By whom?—Am I to answer that?

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] I do not see why we should go on with this.

Mr. Hemphill objected to the question.

Witness.] On my solemn oath, at this election of 1865, neither directly or indirectly have I voted for pay, or been paid one way or the other.

3239-40. Mr. Heron.] Of the six men whose bills you witnessed how many are now voters?—I was after stating that; two are dead and four alive.

3241. Who are alive?—The three Dwyers and one Carey; Ryan and one Carey is dead; John, James, and Dan Dwyers.

3242. John Dwyer, Dan Dwyer, James Dwyer, and Michael Ryan?—Yes, that is it.

3243. That is Price's lot?—I do not know it.

3244. What is the name of the other man; Michael Dwyer?—No, John, James, and Dan.

3245. Dan Dwyer of Laurel's lot?—I do not know which lot he lives in.

3246. And James Dwyer of Laurel's lot; they are all on the Commons?—Yes.

3247. To whom were the bills of the three Dwyers made payable?—Am I to answer that, my Lord?

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald stated that the question could not be put.

3248. Mr. Heron.] What was done with the bills?—I have them; I was subpoenaed to the effect to produce the bills, and I have them.

3249. Show them to me?—Here they are (handing the same to the learned Counsel). On the morning of the 22nd of June 1865, Johnson called at my house; I was at my employment; he asked for a pen and ink; I gave it him, and he showed me this copy and said, "draw the bills to this effect"; I had no information of Mr. Johnson's action till then.

3250. This is the draft?—Yes.

3251. "Three months after date, I promise to pay Mr. John Whelan, or order, at No. 44, Main-street, the sum of 34*l*. sterling"; was John Whelan living at 44, Main-street?—I do not know.

3252. Who got the stamps?—Carey got them with his brother; I had no stamps at the time; Mr. Johnson told me the terms of the bill.

3253. Have you had those in your possession ever since?—Yes.

3254. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] You kept them from that time?—Yes.

3255. Mr. Heron.] Michael Ryan, James Dwyer, Daniel Dwyer, John Dwyer; did you canvass the Dwyers for this election?—No.

3256. Do you know them?—I do.

3257. Did you call at their house?—Never.

3258. Did you tell anyone that you had these bills of the voters?—I have often jested; there were so many funs about this late election, that

I continually spoke of it; from time to time my talk was of it; I did not personate my explanation to tell that I had these bills; I might have said in a jest that I had them.

3259. Did not you boast that you had the bills?—I certainly said that I had the bills in 1865.

3260. Bills of the men who were going to vote in 1868?—I did not say when they were going to vote.

3261. But bills of men who were going to vote in 1868?—The living men.

3262. Now tell me, did you tell Mr. O'Beirne that you had those old bills?—On my solemn oath, from the day Mr. Johnson gave me those, to that hour, I never mentioned them directly or indirectly to him.

3263. Did you tell Mr. Grace that you had the bills?—Never in my lifetime.

3264. Whom did you tell that you had the old bills?—I told Mr. Laffan in July last that I had the bills, and he told be to burn them.

3265. At that time, had you made up your mind which candidate you would be for?—Mr. O'Beirne for 20 months before he came to Cashel, in preference to any man, and if he comes again I will support him in preference to any man.

3266. Do you know Connors, the expense agent?—Who is he? Call him by his Christian name.

3267. You never knew that there was an expense agent?—As a matter of fact I have not known him; but if you tell me his Christian name I will know.

3268. Do you know that man (pointing to Pat Connors)?—I know that man.

3269. You never knew that he was expense agent?—No, I never heard it.

3270. Were you with him at Dunn's, at Mr. O'Beirne's?—Yes, I was often at Dunn's Hotel since Mr. O'Beirne came to town.

3271. Were you on Mr. O'Beirne's committee?—No.

3272. As far as you know there was no committee?—I do not know.

3273. As far as you know there was none?—There might have been.

3274. But as far as you know, was there any?—No.

3275. You did not know any man at this committee-room?—No.

3276. You did not know anyone to have a committee-room?—I live by my head, and I do not get into the extremes of knowing what Mr. Munster or Mr. O'Beirne would carry out; I did not go for the pay of Munster or O'Beirne either in any case.

3277. Did you know that Thomas Murphy's house was a committee-room?—Who is Thomas Murphy?

3278. I do not know; do you know Thomas Murphy?—Yes.

3279. Do you know that his house was taken for a committee-room?—No.

3280. Did you know that Michael Coffey's house and Michael Dwyer's house were taken?—No.

3281. Did you know that Michael Ryan's house was taken?—Yes, I knew that.

3282. Did you know of Patrick Mackey's house being taken for a committee-room?—Yes.

3283. And James Brown?—Yes, I heard Captain Graham had his rooms, not for Mr. O'Beirne, but Captain Graham's own use, living there.

3284. What

3284. What is the total amount of orders that you gave?—I cannot tell; I was never furnished with a bill.

3285. Did you give 10*l*.?—I might.

3286. Did you give 20*l*.?—I might.

3287. Did you give 30*l*.?—I cannot say.

3288. Do you swear that you did not give 40*l*.?—I cannot swear.

3289. Will you swear that you did not give 50*l*. in drink?—I cannot say.

3290. Will you swear that you did not give 100*l*.?—I cannot say; I was never furnished with an account.

3291. Will you swear that you did not give 500*l*.?—I will swear nothing but what I know.

3292. Did you give any orders to non-electors for drink?—Certainly I did, and the greater amount of drink I gave was to the mob when they came up to my door, and asked me, after my hours of business, to know whether there would be anything for them. I sent these people to the different houses, and they got some drink.

3293. For the purpose of fighting?—No, it was not.

3294. For what purpose?—The street was in such a state, upon my oath I was in dread to come out of my own door.

3295. What did you give them drink for?—To save myself and the others when the people came to my own door to assault me there.

3296. Was the mob protecting you?—My mob?

3297. Yes?—I did not want that gross protection unless I passed down the street, and would be overhauled; when money was thrown in the street of Cashel, and nobody to take it up, you must expect what the state of the town was.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

3298. Did Mr. O'Beirne or Mr. Grace ever authorise you to give any orders for drink in any house during the election?—On my solemn oath, neither from Mr. Grace or Mr. O'Beirne, directly or indirectly, nor through any man, have I received any order.

3299. Was it altogether your own act?—Positively so; neither through them or any agent under them have I received any orders; I did it as my own act.

3300. There was an overwhelming mob?—Yes.

3301. For what purpose did you give the drink?—I wanted to show to his Lordship that there was an overwhelming mob, and every citizen required protection; I required protection for myself, as I was a friend to the cause of Mr. O'Beirne.

3302. Were there strangers to the town among that mob; did the mob come from the neighbouring counties?—I do not know.

3303. You say there was money thrown on the streets of Cashel?—I cannot say that; I did not see it.

3304. Whose money was it?—I could not say that; I heard the bellman call out that money was found, and if there was any owner, but nobody came forward, and the bellman kept it.

3305. These bills were passed on the 22nd of June 1865, and you have retained them ever since?—Yes.

3306. I see there is a bill to John Carey, or promissory notes; John Carey, Michael Carey; this is a blank form; Michael Ryan, James Dwyer, Dan Dwyer, and John Dwyer?—Yes; those are the six bills that I got.

3307. Did you ever use these bills for the purpose of the present election?—Never.

3308. John Carey is dead?—Yes.

3309. Was he dead before the election?—He died some time after the last election of 1865.

3310. Did you have any conversation with the Dwyers about these bills?—Never since these were signed; they never asked me about the bills.

3311. Does the same answer apply to Michael Carey?—As to Carey, he was speaking about these bills; Carey demanded this bill, and I would not give it him.

3312. When you refused it, did you say anything about voting?—He asked me, and my reply was to him, "Am I not as trustworthy as I was the last four years?"

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

3313. How long before the election did Carey ask for the bill?—I could not state the number of days, there might be about four weeks.

3314. What did Carey say to you?—He came up, and said "I want that document from you."

3315. What right have you to the document?—The right was this, that I kept it, and I have it.

3316. By force?—From whom?

3317. What right have you to the bill; did not Carey sign the note?—For the 30*l*. he received out of my hands.

3318. Did he owe the money to you?—No.

3319. To whom did he owe it?—I do not know, I never heard what the consideration was at all.

3320. Was Carey angry at your not giving up the bill?—I thought he was.

3321. What did he say?—He said nothing, but walked down.

3322. Did he say that he would make you; did he say that he would have you prosecuted?—I did not hear that.

3323. For whom were you keeping the bills?—For my own pleasure and will; they were my own.

3324. You do not know who Phelan is?—I do not know who Phelan is, directly.

3325. What do you mean by directly?—I never heard who Phelan was.

3326. Is there any such person alive?—There is a thousand men of the name of Phelan in Ireland.

3327. I speak of 44, Main-street?—I do not know 44, Main-street, Cashel.

3328. You never had it pointed out to you?—I do not know the number I live in myself, and you need not be surprised at my not knowing the other.

3329. Do you believe that the promissory note that you refused to Carey represented a debt to Phelan?—I believe the law speaks for itself in this case; when the money is lent the document is made; I am not a lawyer; I am a very poor one; my hands and brains are very good, and I live like a gentleman; there is nothing that money can buy that I do not have.

3330. Did any one tell you to keep the bills?—Never; no one.

3331. Will you give those bills to any one?—An act of my own, if I like.

3332. Will you give them to Mr. O'Beirne if he asks for them?—That is a question I will not answer you.

3333. Do you intend to give them to Mr. O'Beirne

D. Geary.

16 February
1869.

D. Geary. O'Beirne if he asks for them?—I will not give them.
 16 February 1869. 3334. If he asks for them will you give them to him?—Well, I will not give them to him.
 3335. Or to Mr. Grace?—No.
 3336. Never?—I never will.
 3337. Will you give them to anyone?—An act of my own; if I like, I may.
 3338. Whose are the bills?—I hold them in trust, that is all I know about it.

3339. For whom?—I do not know for whom; I will keep them as long as I like.
 3340. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] From whom did you get the money for those bills?—In 1865?
 3341. Yes?—From Charles Fraser Johnson, who is now dead; there was no consideration; I delivered this money without any consideration for the voters.

[The Witness withdrew.

JAMES DWYER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

J. Dwyer. 3342. ARE you an elector?—I am.
 3343. You voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.
 3344. Did you get anything for your vote?—Nothing.
 3345. Were you promised anything?—No, nor asked it.
 3346. You would not take anything for your vote?—No; if I would I could get it.
 3347. From Mr. Munster, I suppose?—I suppose so.
 3348. Did you ever pass a bill for money given you for your vote?—I did, some time ago, but not at the present time.
 3349. But in 1865; is that the bill you passed (handing the same to the Witness)?—That is my name, at any rate.
 3350. Did you expect to get anything for your vote at this election?—No.

3351. Why did you not?—Because I did not expect it, or did not want it; because I intended always to vote for Mr. O'Beirne.

3352. Did you expect to be paid for it?—No.
 3353. Did you expect it at the last election?—I did not.

3354. But you got it at the last election in 1865?—There was no mention made of it.

3355. Then what was the 30 l. given you by Mr. Geary for?—When Mr. Johnson was canvassing agent at the election he was here.

3356. That is the note you signed?—Yes, that is my name (the note was handed to the registrar and marked).

3357. At this election you got nothing?—No, nor asked.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. MICHAEL HANLY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

M. Hanly. 3358. You voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—I did.
 3359. And I believe you canvassed for him also?—I canvassed with him.
 3360. Was there a public canvass from house to house at the election?—Yes.
 3361. Who were with you on the canvass?—Mr. O'Beirne and I and some other parties; I forget who the rest were; Mr. O'Beirne and I were on the first day, and canvassed the first day about the town.
 3362. Were you paid an old debt by Mr. O'Beirne before this election?—No; I was not paid a penny by Mr. O'Beirne.
 3363. Was your mother paid?—I think so.
 3364. How much?—About 19 l.
 3365. By whom was she paid?—I believe it was Mr. Grace.
 3366. What was the original debt?—Nineteen pounds.
 3367. Was that for treating in 1865?—No, it was not.
 3368. What was it for?—Car-hire.
 3369. In 1865?—In 1865.
 3370. Before the old debt was paid I believe you were not very friendly to Mr. O'Beirne?—Not exactly very friendly; I wrote to Mr. Johnson about the amount of the bill, he was Mr. O'Beirne's agent; I did not get a very agreeable letter, and I was not very friendly; but as soon as Mr. Grace wrote to Mr. O'Beirne the amount was sent over.
 3371. When was that?—Some time before the election.
 3372. Was it a month before or a week before?—I cannot say.
 3373. Just before the last election?—It was some time before the last election.

3374. Was Mr. Grace the gentleman who paid it?—Yes, Mr. Grace paid it.

3375. For the hire of how many cars was this?—I do not recollect how many cars.

3376. How many cars had you at the time?—There were several horses and cars employed.

3377. Was this for driving out to canvass the commoners in 1865?—No; there were some cars employed to go to Goold's Cross for Mr. O'Beirne.

3378. What did you say to Mr. Grace about the old debt?—Complaining I was not paid.

3379. Did not you say that Johnson behaved badly to you?—I did.

3380. And very badly?—I said that it was not proper treatment; I have his letter still.

3381. Show me the letter?—I have it not about me.

3382. Did you show it to Mr. Grace?—No, I was determined to show it to Mr. O'Beirne, but I did not.

3383. What did you say to Mr. Grace?—I told Mr. Grace that I thought the debt ought to be paid.

3384. You said more than that?—I may have said more.

3385. Did not you speak to Mr. Grace because he was the conducting agent for 1868?—I spoke to Mr. Grace about it.

3386. Because he was the conducting agent?—Of course.

3387. When you spoke to Mr. Grace did not you know there was going to be an election?—Of course I knew it.

3388. Did you speak to him, and intimate to him what you were going to do, or did not Mr. Grace know that you would not vote for Mr. O'Beirne

O'Beirne unless the old debt was paid?—He did not know any such thing; he could not draw any such conclusion as that.

3389. Were you at Dunn's?—Yes.

3390. Often?—Yes.

3391. Were you on O'Beirne's committee?—I know nothing about his committee.

3392. You do not know that there was a committee?—No.

3393. Did you see Captain Graham at Dunn's?—Yes.

3394. Did you advise about the taking of houses?—Yes; not exactly advise, but Captain Graham desired me to go to Ryan and see about his house, that is Ryan in the Main-street; I went to Ryan and Murnan; I met Murnan.

3395. That is the old man?—Yes; Murnan called upon Ryan, his brother-in-law, and he went aside and said that Mr. Munster, or some party from Mr. Munster, were taking the rooms.

3396. For how much?—I think he said 60*l*.

3397. Murnan said that in Ryan's presence?—I think it was Ryan said it; I said it was an enormous amount of money.

3398. You knew the rooms were not worth the money?—Yes.

3399. You thought it an enormous and ridiculous amount?—I did at that time; said he, "I will give the preference to Mr. O'Beirne;—he always took my house, and I will give him the preference to those rooms."

3400. Before you went down had not you a talk with Graham?—What?

3401. Did not you and Graham come to the conclusion if you did not take the committee-rooms you would lose the two votes?—We did not come to a conclusion.

3402. You got them independently of that?—No.

3403. What did you go and bargain about the rooms for?—For the use of a committee, if there was a committee formed.

3404. At that time there was no committee formed?—No; that was three weeks before the election.

3405. If there was to be a committee formed, you went down to take the committee-rooms?—Yes.

3406. Did not you know that if you did not take the committee-rooms you would lose the two votes?—I did not know any such thing.

3407. Did not you canvass the old man for his vote?—I do not think I did.

3408. Look at his Lordship and say this; was not your object in going to the committee-rooms, to secure the two rooms?—On my solemn oath it was not.

3409. You said you thought 60*l*. a ridiculous and monstrous price?—Yes.

3410. Did you say so at the time?—I said it was too high; he said it was not too high; Mr. Munster had offered 60*l*.; I did not offer that sum of money.

3411. When you went down to bargain about the committee-rooms, did not Ryan say to you, "You know that we have two votes here"?—He did not say any such thing.

3412. Were you consulted about employing the sons of voters?—No.

3413. Were you present when the sons of voters were employed?—No.

3414. Did you go to bargain for any other committee-room?—No.

121.

3415. Did you know any other committee-rooms were being taken?—No.

3416. You were every night at Dunn's?—Not every night.

3417. And you saw Graham every day?—Not every day.

3418. Nearly every day?—He was often up and down.

3419. During the whole time, up to the polling, do not you think there were any other houses taken in Cashel?—Yes.

3420. Whose houses?—I heard there were houses.

3421. Any one else's houses?—And Mackey's.

3422. Taken for committee-rooms?—Yes.

3423. Were you ever in any of those committee-rooms?—No, never.

3424. Or anybody else to your knowledge?—Not to my knowledge; I heard there were—Mackey's.

3425. Was Michael Ryan's house taken?—Yes.

3426. Did not you hear, altogether, that there were 10 or 12 committee-rooms taken?—No.

3427. Were you at Miss Kate O'Dwyer's the night before the polling?—Yes.

3428. Were you there nearly all night?—No.

3429. What hour did you leave?—Eleven o'clock.

3430. Did you give any orders for drink?—Yes.

3431. On what house did you give orders?—I gave orders to Pat Maher for 10*s*.

3432. How much did you order there?—I gave an order there for 10*s*.

3433. On what day?—I do not recollect the day.

3434. Was it for the mob?—Some parties that came in.

3435. Was that the only order that you gave?—Yes; I gave an order for 5*s*. at another time; some people came up to me, and in order to get rid of them, I gave an order for 5*s*.

3436. You used to go about with Captain Graham?—No.

3437. Did you see Captain Graham going about canvassing with Mr. O'Beirne?—No; I went canvassing with Mr. O'Beirne whenever he went canvassing.

3438. Was Captain Graham in Cashel the whole time?—Mostly.

3439. Where was he living?—He stopped at Mr. Brown's part of the time.

3440. Did you visit Captain Graham there?—No.

3441. In Dunn's Hotel, where Mr. O'Beirne was staying in the evening, did you go with a list of voters to Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

3442. Did you see the list on the table?—I had a list myself.

3443. Had you marked on the list the men pledged either to Mr. O'Beirne or to Mr. Munster, or the unpledged men?—I did not mark them off, I made a guess at them.

3444. You knew the people, from your own knowledge?—Yes, I knew he would be returned from the very commencement.

3445. In your own mind you marked the men who would vote for him, and the men who would not, and the unpledged men; did you ever discuss the unpledged men with Captain Graham or Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

3446. Did you know at the time the houses were taken; first, as regards Ryan and Murnan's

Mr.
M. Hanly.

nan's, at the time you went down there they were unpledged?—I do not know whether they were unpledged or not.

3447. Did you know that they were pledged?—I could not say what they were.

3448. I first asked about your general knowledge of the town, and you said you knew the men safe for O'Beirne, and the men safe for Munster, and the men that were doubtful?—I knew Murnan would vote for Mr. O'Beirne.

3449. You were sure of Murnan but not of Ryan?—No, Ryan was not there.

3450. Patrick Mackey; did not you know that he was a doubtful man?—Indeed I did not.

3451. Did not you know that Mackey voted for Lanagan the last election against O'Beirne?—Yes.

3452. At the time that Mackey's house was taken did not you know that he was not a pledged supporter of Mr. O'Beirne?—No, I did not know at the time his house was taken.

3453. Do you know Pat Condon?—Yes.

3454. Did you hear that his house was taken?—I did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

3455. You reside in Cashel?—Yes.

3456. You are an owner of land in the neighbourhood?—Yes.

3457. How much land?—I hold only 200 acres of land.

3458. You recollect Mr. O'Beirne in the election?—Yes.

3459. You are a town commissioner of Cashel?—Yes.

3460. As to the 19 l., you said just now that you could not exactly recollect how long before the election it was paid to your mother?—No, I know that it was paid.

3461. Do you remember Mr. Grace's illness?—Yes.

3462. Was not he ill a considerable time before the election?—Yes.

3463. Was not it before his illness that the money was paid?—Yes.

3464. Was not that first payment three months before the election?—It may be six months.

3465. Your mother does not live with you?—No.

3466. She lives separate?—Yes.

3467. Is there any voter of Cashel living in the same house with your mother?—No.

3468. She lives by herself?—No.

3469. Tell me whether the payment of 19 l. to your mother at all influenced your vote at the election?—I do not know; I was going to write to Mr. O'Beirne previous to the election to contradict a rumour that I would not support him.

3470. Would you not have voted for Mr. O'Beirne whether the 19 l. was paid or not?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

3471. What letter were you going to write to Mr. O'Beirne?—I was going to write to Mr. O'Beirne to tell him that I would support him, to contradict the rumour that I would not support him.

[The Witness withdrew.

[Adjourned to To-morrow,
at Ten o'clock.

Wednesday, 17th February 1869.

Mr. WILLIAM JAMES O'BRIEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

3472. HAVE you your books?—I have them here (producing the same).

3473. Just open Mr. O'Beirne's account?—I have not brought the correct account; I was only asked to bring this.

3474. We want the other too; can you send for it?—Yes.

3475. Open the cheques on branches?—Yes; at what date.

3476. For October and November, the time of the election. What is that book?—It contains all the cheques cashed here on all branches in England or Scotland, or anywhere else.

3477. And all the branches of the National Bank?—And any other bank.

3478. Did you, in the months of October and November, cash any cheques bearing Mr. O'Beirne's signature on any other bank?—No.

3479. That book would tell you if you did?—Yes, it would.

3480. Did you cash any cheques of Mr. Cocks'?—No, not to my knowledge.

3481. Can you tell by the book?—To the best of my knowledge I did not; where shall I begin?

3482. Begin at the 10th October. I suppose they are not very numerous?—These are every day's transactions during the week, up to 1st of January.

3483. You need not go further than the 20th of November or the 1st of December?—This contains every single cheque.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Are you inquiring about these particular cheques or whether there are any other cheques?

3484. Mr. Butt.] Look also if there were any cheques cashed for either Captain Graham, Mr. Cocks, or Mr. O'Beirne?—The cheques of Mr. O'Beirne appear under different headings; I must go through them separately.

3485. You said also there were no cheques drawn by Mr. O'Beirne cashed by anybody?—On other banks outside Cashel, no.

3486. Now were there any cheques drawn by any person cashed for Mr. O'Beirne, for Captain Graham, or for Mr. Cocks?—I will look through. (The Witness examined the book with Mr. Laffan.)

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Heron stated that they had served a subpoena on Simon Tracey, but he would not appear, and he therefore asked for judge's order.

Order accordingly.

MICHAEL BAREY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

3487. Do you produce the original subpoena?—Yes.

3488. Do you know Simon Tracey?—Yes.

3489. Did you serve him with a copy of that?—Yes.

3490. When?—On the 6th day of January.

3491. Where does he live?—In Friar-street, Cashel, in his own dwelling-house.

3492. You know the man well?—Yes, for the last 20 years.

3493. When did you see him last?—Not this month; he absconded after it was served.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. PIERCE GRACE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

3494. Do you produce all the accounts for Mr. O'Beirne that were sent to you?—These are all the accounts. I have tied them up.

3495. Is that all you have got?—That is as far as my recollection goes (producing the same). The reason I mention that is, there were one or two bills mentioned here yesterday that had been furnished to me. I did not see them amongst them; that is the reason why I expressed a doubt about the matter.

3496. The first bill is Mr. James Dunn's, for 106 l. 2 s. 6 d., already rendered; No. 2, J. Lyster O'Beirne, Esq., M.P., to Edmund Canavan, for services given during the election, 10 l. Cashel, December 4th, 1868. Edmund Canavan?—He is not an elector.

3497. What is that for?—He was one of the men that were about the streets. Perhaps I might mention that I did not interfere with these bills, or dispose of them. I merely put these bills together; I knew nothing about them myself; I merely kept them till Mr. O'Beirne would come.

3498. "No. 3, J. Lyster O'Beirne, M.P., debtor to Patrick Dwyer to the amount of 10 l. sterling, being due to him for canvassing at the late election of the city of Cashel, on the 21st October to the 20th November, and employed by him in the presence of Mr. James Carey. 20th of November 1868. Patrick Dwyer, Cashel." I do not find him an elector?—No, I think not.

3499. "No. 4, James J. O'Beirne, Esq., M.P., to I J. Quirke."

Mr. W. J. O'Brien.

17 February 1869,

M. Barey.

Mr. P. Grace.

Mr. J. Quirke." Is he an elector?—He is a printer.
P. Grace. There is John Quirke, an elector.
 17 February 1869. 3500. This is printing; the total amount is 13 l. 12 s. 6 d., including carriage and pair?—Yes, carriage and pair to the Commons, 2 l.; two carts, 1 l. 11 s.; total 13 l. 12 s. 6 d.

3501. This is David Ryan?—Yes.

3502. Who is he; is he an elector?—No, he is not.

3503. "James Lyster O'Beirne debtor to David Ryan to amount of 10 l. sterling, due to me for canvassing the late election, the city of Cashel, from the 21st October to 20th November, and recommended by Miss O'Dwyer to him. Dated the 26th November 1868. David Ryan, Cashel." "Cashel, 4th December 1868. Mary Glasgow ruled 40 women during the election; speeched and agitated day and night six weeks in the interest of O'Beirne; shook hands with that honourable gentleman, and kept loyal and true the whole time; the exertion of the contest has left her rather backward in health, and she begs to submit to him a bill of 3 l., hoping that he will enjoy good health. Your obedient servant, M. Glasgow. To — Grace, Esq." Here is Thomas Murphy's bill; is he an elector?—He is.

3504. "J. Lyster O'Beirne to Thomas Murphy the sum of 25 l. sterling, for the use of part of his house at Lower Gate during the late election. Cashel, 15th December 1868." "James Lyster O'Beirne to James Curran, November 17th, 1868. To amounts due to me as agent at the recent election at Cashel, 5 l.;" that is the boy examined yesterday?—Yes.

3505. He said he got 1 l.?—Yes.

3506. Here is Edward Squire's bill, 1 l. 10 s.; "J. Lyster O'Beirne, debtor, for 10 days reporting, at 5 s. per day, 2 l. 10 s.; paid, 1 l.; balance, 1 l. 10 s. Edward Squires."

Mr. Hemphill.] Have you read them all?

3507. Mr. Heron.] No; but they are immaterial. (To the Witness.) Who wrote out the nomination for the expense agent?—I did.

3508. At the time you wrote out the nomination, I presume you wrote it out in the usual way for Mr. O'Beirne to sign?—Yes.

3509. Had you got his consent for Connors to be his expense agent?—I had not.

3510. Did you tell him that he was expense agent?—Soon after the election.

3511. How soon after the election?—Soon after.

3512. Within a week?—I should think so.

3513. I presume Mr. O'Beirne nominated Connors to you?—We spoke of the matter here at the nomination, and we agreed upon nominating Connors.

3514. You have already said that you had nothing to do with the payment of bills?—No, I had no order whatever about them; I was sick during the greater part of the time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

3515. His Lordship has heard already that you were conducting agent, at the late election, for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

3516. Did you ever in any way employ Dennis Skirry?—Never.

3517. For any purpose?—No.

3518. Connected with the election?—Never.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] I think you had better keep this part of the case for a subsequent occasion, and recall Mr. Grace.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. THOMAS CLOSE, recalled; and further cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

Mr. 3519. YOU voted for Mr. Munster at the late
T. Close. election?—I did.

3520. You are a musical gentleman?—I am.

3521. Had you a concert immediately before the last election, in 1868, in Cashel?—I could not say; I have had so many in Cashel; I could not tell you.

3522. I must ask you to try and remember; the nomination took place on the 18th of November 1868, and the election took place on the 20th?—I do not think I had one in the month of November.

3523. Had you one in October?—I might have had; but I cannot tell you.

3524. Cannot you recollect whether you had a public concert in Cashel either in October or November?—I do not remember.

3525. Is your memory so inaccurate?—It is so long ago, I cannot remember. I have been at scores of concerts since that.

3526. Had you a concert in December?—No, I do not think I had.

3527. Had you any concerts at all last winter in Cashel?—Oh yes, I had.

3528. In 1868?—Yes.

3529. Before Christmas?—Yes.

3530. How long before Christmas?—I think I can tell the date; it was about the 18th of November. I have not a memorandum about it.

3531. Now you recollect it was the 18th of November?—I think it was the 18th of November.

3532. About the 18th?—It was.

3533. Did Mr. Munster take tickets for that concert?—Yes.

3534. How many?—100 tickets.

3535. What was the amount?—£. 12 10 s. I asked Mr. O'Beirne's gentlemen to take them, and they would not.

3536. Mr. Munster took some tickets, but Mr. O'Beirne refused?—Mr. O'Beirne did not refuse, but Captain Graham refused to take tickets.

3537. Have you more sons than one?—I have.

3538. Did your son get four suits of clothes from Mr. Munster, about the time of the election?—He did not, indeed.

3539. Either of them, or any of them?—No, not either of them.

3540. Did they get any clothes?—Mr. Munster gave him some clothes, I forget what it was, just before he went to London.

3541. Try and think?—He made him a present of some clothes; I do not exactly know how much they were. He made him a present when he was in his employ; that was long after the election.

3542. Which boy was that?—The eldest.

3543. The boy examined yesterday?—Yes.

3544. That was before he went to London?—Yes.

3545. The

3545. The second son; did he give clothes to him?—No.

3546. None at all?—No.

3547. Did he present any of your family with a gold watch?—No, not one.

3548. Or any watch?—No; we have not a watch in the family.

3549. Do you know a man of the name of Cornelius Carroll; Con Carroll?—Yes, I do.

3550. Had you dealings with him?—I have still.

3551. Had you before the election?—I had.

3552. Did you owe him 14*l.* before the election?—I think I did.

3553. Have you any doubt about it?—No; I am not quite sure of the amount.

3554. You owed him some money?—Yes; we deal with him quarterly.

3555. Mr. Heron.] It was a quarter's bill?—Yes.

3556. Mr. Hemphill.] You gave him a bill for it?—Yes.

3557. Has it been paid?—No.

3558. It is in the bank?—Yes; I did not give him a bill for 14*l.*

3559. But whatever the amount was?—Yes; I paid him cash besides.

3560. Do you recollect bringing him to Corcoran's Hotel at any time before the election?—I do.

3561. Did you introduce him to Mr. Leahy?—Yes.

3562. Was Mr. Leahy an active person on behalf of Mr. Munster?—Yes; he was the first person I spoke to about voting for Mr. Munster. I was there, and Mr. Leahy. Before I saw Mr. Munster I promised him.

3563. Was there a conversation between you, and Mr. Leahy, and Carroll, in reference to this bill of yours, or this demand of Carroll's against you?—Not a word; I had no conversation with them both together at all.

3564. Did not you introduce him to Mr. Leahy?—Yes.

3565. What did you do when you introduced him?—I left him in the room; I thought he wanted to set his house.

3566. Did you hear what conversation there was between Mr. Leahy and Carroll?—I did not.

3567. Were you afterwards informed by Mr. Leahy that he had offered to sign a bill for Carroll, to be discounted at the bank for your demand, if he would be on Munster's side?—Mr. Leahy never mentioned anything of the sort.

3568. Did any one tell you?—No.

3569. Did Carroll tell you?—No; I asked him if he would set his house, or something of that sort; he said Mr. Leahy would not give any cash, and he would not take a bill or anything else.

3570. A bill for what?—A bill for what I understood the purpose I introduced him there was, thinking he would set his house to Mr. Munster's party. I had no idea of taking him there to sell his vote, but he frequently said he would be glad if he could set his house. I met him and said, Mr. Leahy is the man to speak to if you want to set your house; it was for no other purpose than that I took him. I thought of doing him a good turn instead of a bad one.

3571. Did Carroll tell you that a bill had been offered to him, if he would vote for Mr. Munster?—No.

121.

3572. What did he say about voting for Mr. Munster?—He said that Mr. Leahy would not give him the cash for any transaction, and he would not take a bill or anything else.

3573. What was the nature of the transaction; have you any doubt that it was to vote for Munster?—If a man lets his house, it is a natural thing to believe that he will vote for the person he lets it to. With regard to the bill in the bank, that Mr. Hemphill said was connected with the election, it was long since the election I gave the bill and paid the money.

3574. Mr. Heron.] That is for your own private account?—Yes.

3575. Mr. Hemphill.] Is your son, who is in London, living at Mr. Munster's residence in London, his lodgings, or hotel?—No, he is living at his own place.

3576. Has he been living there?—He was there a week or nine days.

3577. Not more?—Not more.

3578. Do you know a man of the name of Williams?—In Cashel; a shoemaker?

3579. Yes?—I do.

3580. Did you owe him money at the time of the last election?—I owe him money now, but merely an ordinary transaction; I paid him money the other day. I had some new things from him; the things I have on now; my boots I had last Saturday, and so I owe him money.

3581. Did you tell Williams on Saturday last that you would pay him after the election petition was tried, or anything to that effect?—Not that I remember; I paid him some money last week.

3582. Do you owe him anything now?—Yes, I owe him for the things I have on.

3583. You owe him for the boots you have on?—I owe him about 1*l.* altogether.

3584. Had you any conversation with him last Saturday?—I was in there for these boots.

3585. Had you any conversation with him?—It is very likely I had.

3586. Was it about what you owed him?—Yes, it was about what I owed him, because I paid him money on Saturday.

3587. Do you still owe him a balance, after paying a few shillings on Saturday?—Yes.

3588. Was it on Saturday that you got the new boots?—Yes.

3589. Do you only owe him for the new boots?—Yes; this morning I was in there and he said he had not made up the account; I do not know what I owe him.

3590. Did you on Saturday tell Williams (do not mind the particular words I put to you); did you, in substance, tell Williams on Saturday that you would pay him after the election petition was over?—My Lord, how could I do it when I did pay him.

3591. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you or did you not?—Not that I know of.

3592. Mr. Hemphill.] Might you have said it?—I might have said anything; I do not recollect.

3593. Do you expect to be in funds after the election petition is over?—Not a penny piece, except what I earn.

3594. How earn?—I am teaching; I am at a loss of time now, my Lord.

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

3595. The Mr. Leahy you mention is the brother of the Archbishop Leahy?—Yes, and

for

Mr. for that reason I took an interest in Mr. Munster's election.
T. Close.
 17 February 1869. 3596. And the Con Carroll you have mentioned was the man who was always asking you to try and get his rooms taken?—No; but it was as a matter of a joke he said, "I wish I could let my house;" "I have a fine house, I wish some one would take it; I would not care whether it was Mr. O'Beirne, or Mr. Munster, or Mr. Scallan;" I wish I could let it.

3597. Carroll voted for O'Beirne?—I believe he did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MRS. CATHERINE TRACEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mrs. 3598. I BELIEVE you are the wife of Mr. Simon Tracey?—Yes.
C. Tracey.

3599. Do you remember when he was served with a subpoena to come here?—Yes.

3600. When did you last see him?—I am not certain; about a fortnight or a month ago.

3601. Do you say a fortnight or a month?—About a fortnight.

3602. Where did you see him last?—In my own house.

3603. Where is he now?—I could not tell you at present where he is; when I last heard from him he was in London.

3604. When did you hear from him?—A fortnight ago.

3605. He left home after he was served with the subpoena?—He did.

3606. Was he canvassing for Mr. O'Beirne, at the time of the election?—Well, I do not know; I do not think he was; I believe he went with him one Saturday morning; that is all I can recollect.

3607. He went on a Saturday morning?—Yes.

3608. Where did he go that Saturday morning?—He went about the town.

3609. With Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

3610. Did you ever see any cheques of Mr. O'Beirne's with your husband?—Never.

3611. Did you ever offer money to anybody?—Never.

3612. You swear it?—Yes.

3613. Did you ever offer a cheque to any person?—No.

3614. Did you ever talk to any person about money?—I recollect a woman named Rochford coming in one night; she asked was my husband in; I said not. She said, Did I know where he was; I said no; she went to look for him, and she came back and said, did I know whether he would give him any money; she said could she get 20 l.; Mr. Munster's party had offered her 10 l. and she said she would take it; I said my husband had no authority to give her money.

3615. Do you know Kennedy a voter?—Yes.

3616. What is his Christian name?—Thomas.

3617. Do you know Lamb a voter?—Yes.

3618. What is his name?—Whelan.

3619. Did your husband ever speak to you about Kennedy or Lamb?—No.

3620. Was that all that passed between Mrs. Rochford and you?—That is all as well as I recollect.

3621. You did not tell her that you had a cheque, did you?—No, never.

3622. Or that your husband had?—Never any such thing; I could not tell her.

3623. And did you mention Kennedy's name in that conversation or Lamb's?—No.

3624. I asked you where you saw your husband last; what did you tell me?—You asked me where did I see my husband last; I said in my own house.

3625. How long ago was it?—Four days ago.

3626. In your own house?—Not in my own house.

3627. Where did you see him four days ago?—In Cashel.

3628. Where?—In the street.

3629. Did not you tell me he was in London?—I said the last letter I got from him was from London.

3630. Where is he now?—I cannot say.

3631. You saw him in the streets of Cashel, three or four days ago?—Yes.

3632. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Was that after you heard from London?—Yes, after.

3633. Mr. Butt.] Did you speak to him when you saw him in the street?—Yes.

3634. Did you ask him where he was?—No.

3635. You did not ask him where he was going to?—No.

3636. And you do not know where he is going to?—No.

3637. Have you heard from him for the last three or four days?—No.

3638. Did you hear anything of him?—Not since.

3639. Did any person tell you anything about him, since you saw him in the streets of Cashel?

—Mrs. Rochford told me last night she heard he was in Cashel; that is all.

3640. That she heard he was in Cashel?—Yes.

3641. Was he in your house, or in his own house, since he went to London?—I told you he was. I told you I saw him in my own house.

3642. Was that after he came back from London?—Yes.

3643. When did you see him in your own house, since he came back from London?—A week or 10 days after it.

3644. How long ago was that?—About a week or 10 days ago.

3645. Did he ever say that he was going to London?—I knew what he was doing; he went away on business.

3646. What business?—To buy clothes.

3647. How long were you speaking to him?—Not very long.

3648. In the street, when you saw him three or four days ago?—I only just spoke to him 10 minutes or so.

3649. What were you speaking about for 10 minutes or so?—Nothing.

3650. Did you not ask him in the 10 minutes, why he was not at home?—I did not.

3651. When was he at home last?—About 10 days ago.

3652. What time did he come home?—He was at home about 10 days ago.

3653. What time of the day?—In the night.

3654. What time of the night?—I believe it was about 11 o'clock.

3655. How long did he stay at home?—A couple of days; two days, I believe.

3656. Was

3656. Was he going about the street during the two days?—He was not.

3657. Was he hiding himself?—He was not hiding himself.

3658. Where did he stay during the two days?—In his own house.

3659. Did he go out during the two days?—Not to my knowledge.

3660. Do you swear now, that he was not hiding himself?—He was not hiding himself; he was about the house.

3661. Did he want people to see him?—I cannot say; they could see him if they liked.

3662. Was he in hiding from being served with a subpoena?—He was served at the time.

3663. He remained two days at home?—Yes.

3664. When did he go away from home?—Two or three days since.

3665. What time did he leave home?—Seven o'clock in the evening.

3666. Did he tell you where he was going to when he left home?—He did not.

3667. It was after that, that you met him in the streets of Cashel?—It was, I believe.

3668. Do you now swear he never told you the reason he was leaving home?—He never told me the reason he was leaving home.

3669. And you do not know where he is now?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mrs.
C. Tracey.

17 February
1869.

Mrs. MARY ROCHFORD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

3670. Do you know Mrs. Tracey?—I do.

3671. Do you recollect being in Mrs. Tracey's house a short time before the election?—The election week.

3672. Were you there more than once during that week?—No; I went in for the purpose of getting a tick in the night; I wanted to put feathers in it.

3673. What time of day was it when you were there?—At night fall.

3674. Did you see any money with Mrs. Tracey that night?—I did.

3675. What money did you see with Mrs. Tracey that night?—I saw a note and cheques on the bank.

3676. Had you any conversation with her about these notes?—I went in—

Mr. Hemphill objected to the conversation between this witness and the last being given, Mrs. Tracey not being a voter, and not being connected with Mr. O'Beirne.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald over-ruled the objection.

3677. Mr. Carton.] Is your husband a voter?—He is.

3678. You saw cheques and notes with Mrs. Tracey that night?—Yes.

3679. How many cheques did you see?—I could not say how many cheques.

3680. Did you see more than one?—Yes, to the best of my belief there were 10 or 12 cheques; I went in for the purpose of buying a tick of Mrs. Tracey and she asked me upstairs in her room; I went up with her; she says, "Now, if John gives his vote to Simon, he is interested with Mr. O'Beirne—he has trusted him with his money to give it to whom he pleased;" she brought out of her chest—she had a chest of drawers in it—a small little box out of it; she had it on a table in the middle of the room, and opened it, and there was a lot of cheques in it; first she pulled out a 50 l. cheque, "That is for two of my friends," said she, "and I will give you a cheque," said she, "for John for 30 l." "Oh!" said I, "I will not take the cheque; give me the money;" she went then and brought a bundle of notes, and she said she would give me the money; then I said I must ask John whether he would give his interest to Mr. O'Beirne, before I took the money; I turned out of the room and came down the street, and at my return Simon Tracey and Michael O'Mara were in my shop with my husband; she said she would send Simon up after me to see if I could get John to give his interest to Mr. O'Beirne, and at my return Simon Tracey and Michael O'Mara were in the shop, speaking to my husband; Simon Tracey took me out in the back yard, and Michael O'Mara remained with my husband; he asked me if I could persevere upon my husband to give his interest to him; he was interested for Mr. O'Beirne; I told him my husband pledged himself to Michael Laffan, and I was afraid he would not break his word; I said I would persevere on him to do so. "If so," said he, "I will go over to Mr. O'Beirne to his room; I will send for him to come over." "While you are away," I said, "I will speak to himself to give his interest to you, for Mr. O'Beirne;" I called my husband on one side, and I asked him would he give his interest to Mr. O'Beirne, and that he would get 30 l.; he said, my Lord, he would not; that he worked his lifetime and he earned his bread honestly, and that he would never give his vote for bribery.

3681. Did Mrs. Tracey say who was the friend she had the 50 l. cheque from?—She did not.

Mr. Butt.] Stated that he would confront the last witness, Mrs. Tracey, with the present witness.

Mrs. M.
Rochford.

Mrs. CATHERINE TRACEY, re-called, and confronted with the Witness.

3682. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald (to Mrs. Tracey).] MRS. ROCHFORD says she went to buy a tick, and you were there; that you were at home, and you asked her whether she could get John's vote; you took a box out of a drawer in your room in which there were several cheques; that you took out a cheque for 50 l., and said it was for two friends of yours; that you also said you would give her a cheque for 30 l.; she said to you she would rather have the money; that then you introduced notes; that she then said she would consult her husband, and went for her husband; is that true?—Not a word of it is true.

Witness.] I sent for her last night to announce to her that I was summoned, and that I should attend at this court to-day, and she sent for me then to a neighbour's house, and I went into that house; she asked me how was it I announced anything such as that; I told them it came out of a jest in the court a couple of nights ago, and that it appeared that from that court they conveyed it, and that I should have to tell the truth; she said if I would not escape her; I said I would not do so for Mr. O'Beirne or Mr. Munster.

3683. Mr. Butt (to Mrs. Tracey).] Did you see that woman?—She sent for me.

3684. Did she tell you what she was going to say to-day?—No.

Witness.] I did.

3685. Mr. Butt (to Mrs. Tracey).] Did you see that woman when you took her up to your own room?—Yes, I went up.

3686. You went up?—Yes.

3687. Is there a chest of drawers in your room?—Yes.

3688. Did you open the chest of drawers?—No.

3689. While you were with her?—No.

3690. You did not show her any money or cheques?—I swear, on my solemn oath, I never showed money or cheques.

3691. You did not do so?—No.

Witness.] She placed me at the bedside on a chair, and she put them on the bed and on the chair.

3692. Mr. Butt (to Mrs. Tracy).] What passed between you and that woman, when she came up to your room?—She asked me was my husband there; I said he was not in; she said, "Where can I see him?" I said, "I did not know;" she said she wanted to speak to me, would I go upstairs; she told me she was going to get money from Mr. Munster's party, 10 l.; she said, "If I could get 20 l. I would vote for him;" that is all that passed about money or cheques; how could I show cheques that was never in my house.

3693. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald (to the Witness).] Did you tell her your husband was getting money?—No, my Lord.

3694. Mr. Hemphill (to Mrs. Tracey).] What is your husband?—He is a dealer; he deals in old clothes.

[Mrs. Tracey withdrew.

3695. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] What is your husband?—A house carpenter.

3696. Mr. Carton.] Do you know Mrs. Cunningham?—I do; it was there I sent for Mrs. Tracey last night; I did not wish to have to come against her; her husband is a relative of mine.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

3697. You say your husband is a house carpenter?—Yes.

3698. Where does he live?—In Canopy-street.

3699. What rent does he pay for his house?—I could say; Mr. Grace is the landlord; he will be able to tell the rent.

3700. You mean to say that you do not know the rent your husband pays?—It is a long time since I go down to Mr. Grace; I go with 4 l. and 5 l.; I cannot say how long we are in it.

3701. Your husband is a voter?—Yes.

3702. Was he a voter at the last election?—No.

3703. This was the first time he was on the Register?—Yes.

3704. When did your husband first promise Mr. Munster to vote for him?—The first day Mr. Michael Laffan asked John Rochford would he give his interest to him, he said he would recommend to his uncle, the Archdeacon Laffan, because he was a good friend of his.

3705. When was it?—I believe I could not say whether it was the election; whether it was the commencement of the election, I could not say.

3706. Do you know Mrs. Hackett of the Green?—I do; she is a friend of mine.

3707. Are you in the habit of dropping in to speak to Mrs. Hackett of the Green?—I was never in Mrs. Hackett's house but once since.

3708. Have you been talking to Mrs. Hackett?—She has been talking to me.

3709. About the election?—Yes.

3710. Did you ask Mrs. Hackett before the election whether there was any money going, or anything to that effect?—I never asked any such question.

3711. Did you ask anything to that effect, whether there was any money going for votes?—I will tell my Lord about Mrs. Hackett; she came to me, and told me, would John go with her husband James. I said, "I feared he would not, he pledged himself to Mr. Michael Laffan, and he was a man that was not in the habit of going to do anything but what is just." "If he comes with James," she says, "Mr. O'Beirne is a very clever man, and he will bring him out of any difficulty he is to get into; James will get him recompense as well as himself." Then my Lord, a few nights after, the Saturday night, to the best of my belief, before the election, she came in, and she says to me, "We will have two bottles of porter;" says she, "James has settled with Mr. O'Beirne, on this day in the morning." "He received 2,000 l. out of the bank, at 10 o'clock, which was at the time of getting it; she said Captain Graham was there, and Mr. Powell, and he has plenty of money now," said she, and "James has went and given his vote to him;" and in the way that she told it to me, she said, "Now welcome James," said Mr. O'Beirne and Captain Graham, in Mrs. Dunn's room, "Welcome James," said Mr. O'Beirne.

3712. Is that what Mrs. Hackett said?—Yes. "Now," said he, "James, I recompense you for the action you have done at such a time;" I believe it was, to the best of my belief, 1863 or 1865, I cannot say which; and "I now recompense you in 1868, for your father's vote and your own." "He gave him," said she, "40 l." and now, says she, "if you get John to come," said she, "James will have him regulated the same way; and he is a fool to be going with that section that he does not know without knowing Mr. O'Beirne, that can bring him out of any difficulty that he gets into." That is the truth.

3713. Did you ever tell any one before this of that conversation with Mrs. Hackett; the conversation about the section; did you ever mention it to any one?—I do not know whether I did or not.

3714. Did you ever mention it to Michael Laffan, for whose uncle you had such respect?—I might.

3715. Did you?—Perhaps I did.

3716. Did you not; you are not sure, are you?—I did I am sure; I think I did.

3717. When did you first mention it to Mr. Michael Laffan?—Immediately after the election.

3718. When did you first mention to him about this conversation with Mrs. Tracey up in the the bed-room; when did you first mention that to him?—I could not say.

3719. Did you mention it to him before the election?—No, I never did; never before the election at all; I was not speaking to Mr. Laffan before the election; he came to the door with Mr. Munster; that was all.

3720. Did you mention it to him after the election?—Yes.

3721. How soon after the election?—I could not say exactly.

3722. Did you mention it to him the week after the election?—I cannot say.

3723. Did you mention it to him a short time after the election?—Some time after I mentioned it to him.

3724. It was not when you first heard it talked about a few nights ago in some house, that you mentioned?—I did not say any other house, but my own house.

3725. You said there was some talk about it a few nights ago?—He asked me why Mr. Munster did not give me a summons; I said he would not because I knew too much of his affairs.

3726. You had told all that to Mr. Michael Laffan before?—I do not know whether I told it before or not.

3727. Do you mean to say that you do not know whether you told this story to Laffan before two or three nights ago?—I did tell Mr. Laffan.

3728. Did you get a summons from Mr. Laffan?—I did.

3729. When?—Yesterday.

3730. Did your husband get anything for his vote for Munster?—No.

3731. Was he promised anything?—No.

3732. On your oath?—I solemnly protest he never was.

3733. Was he promised 10*l.* now?—No; he was promised nothing, and he looked for nothing.

3734. Did he do anything in the carpenter's way for him?—He made a little bin for the oats.

3735. When did he make the little bin for the oats?—About the time of the election.

3736. Does your husband keep any book for these kind of jobs?—I do not know whether he keeps a book.

3737. You do not know whether he keeps a book?—The book I see him keeping, is when he pays any little bills for anything he gets for gentlemen; he may keep that account.

3738. I ask you when Mr. Munster got this little bin from your husband?—He got a carpenter to make it, because he cannot attend to all the business he has to do.

3739. He has so much to do?—Yes.

3740. What did your husband pay the carpenter for making it?—Eighteen shillings or 1*l.* a week.

3741. What did he get for the little bin?—Well, I believe to the best of my belief I could not guess; because the bill I sent in for the bin and the feathers amounted to 6*l.* 5*s.* or something like that; to Mr. Laffan I gave it, I think.

3742. Did you give the bill to Mr. Laffan?—No; I do not know that I did.

3743. Who did your husband give the bill to?—I cannot say.

3744. Do you mean to say that you do not know who he furnished the bill to?—Mr. Cunningham asked me to receipt the bill, and I receipted the bill for the amount.

3745. When did Pat Cunningham come in to receipt the bill?—I cannot say.

3746. How soon after the election?—I cannot say whether it was before or after.

3747. You must answer my questions; you cannot escape from it; was it before or after the election that Pat Cunningham came in to get that receipt?—To the best of my belief it was after the election.

3748. How soon after?—I could not say.

3749. Was it a week after?—I cannot say.

3750. Was it before Christmas?—Upon my solemn word I cannot say.

3751. Was it last week?—I cannot say.

3752. You cannot say to his Lordship whether it was last week?—It was a week.

3753. Not a fortnight?—It was a fortnight ago to the best of my belief.

3754. How much did Munster pay you for this bin and the feathers?—It was 6*l.*; I cannot say; it was some few shillings over 6*l.*

3755. It was not due?—It was due honestly for the feathers.

3756. Was it to you that he paid it?—I receipted the bill.

3757. Did you read the bill?—I do not know whether I read it or not.

3758. Are you able to read?—Yes, I am.

3759. Do you mean to say that you cannot say whether you read the bill that you were receipting?—I cannot say, because consequently I could not read the bill without specs.

3760. And you could not read the cheque without specs?—I could, if I see the cheque quite well.

3761. Could you read it?—I saw a 50*l.* cheque.

3762. Did you read it?—No.

3763. Had you your specs on?—No.

3764. You were able to read the 50*l.* without specs?—Yes, she put it into my hand.

3765. You were able to read the 50*l.* without the specs, were you?—I did.

3766. Were you?—The figures were so plain.

3767. The figures were so plain that you were able to read them without specs?—Yes.

3768. Who made out the bill which your husband furnished to Mr. Munster?—My husband drew the bill.

3769. Were you present when he drew it?—I was not; I did not mind him.

3770. Were you present?—He asked me how much was my account; I said it was 5*l.*

3771. How many stone of feathers were there, on your oath?—I got the bill with the crane ticket, and I paid it in.

3772. How many stone?—I do not know.

3773. Do you buy feathers?—Yes.

3774. Do you deal in feathers?—Yes.

3775. Do you know the quantity of feathers?—I cannot say; they were in a crane.

3776. On your oath, what bulk of feathers did you send?—I cannot say; the ticket of the crane was there.

3777. Where were the feathers delivered?—At Mr. Munster's house.

3778. At Abbey View?—No; in John-street, Cashel.

3779. Did you bring them there yourself?—I did.

3780. How did you bring them?—An ass and car.

3781. Were they in a tick?—Yes, they were in a tick.

3782. What was the size of the tick?—A large tick, and bolsters too.

Mrs. M. Rochford.
 17 February 1869. 3783. What is the price of feathers in Cashel?—The best feathers are 1 l. a stone.
 3784. But, selling in Cashel, what is the price of feathers?—I can buy them at 1 s. and 1 s. 1 d. a pound.
 3785. Cannot you tell the quantity of feathers?—I cannot say; it depends upon the quality.
 3786. What quality was it?—The best quality.
 3787. What was the weight?—I cannot say, my Lord, but they had the ticket of the crane that they were weighed in.
 3788. What was the value of this bin?—I do not know, but he himself charged for the bin.
 3789. What was the size of it?—A large-sized bin.
 3790. As big as this desk?—Yes, and bigger; I did not mind looking at it; it was a large-sized bin for horses.
 3791. What was the value of it?—I could not say.
 3792. Was it worth 1 l.?—I cannot say.
 3793. Was it worth 10 s.?—He will tell you himself.
 3794. Was it worth 10 s.?—The man that worked at it would not make it in three days.
 3795. One carpenter got 18 s. a week for making it?—Yes.
 3796. He would take three days to make the bin?—He was doing other jobs.
 3797. You cannot tell the value of the bin?—No.
 3798. How long have you been married?—Twenty-two years.
 3799. Has your husband been a carpenter all the time?—I always worked my own way, and never interfered in his business.
 3800. Was it a little bin or a large bin?—Previous to this I said I could not say.

3801. Was it a little bin or a big bin?—You can see it; send one of your men.
 3802. Was it a little bin or a big bin?—I could not tell you.
 3803. Was not it a little bin?—I told you I could not answer the size of it.
 3804. Do not you know that your husband got 20 l. for the bin and feathers, on your oath?—No, my Lord; I protest to my God and Lord we never received a farthing from Mr. Munster in bribery, and never asked him.
 3805. I did not ask a word about bribery?—We never received a penny but what was due.
 3806. What did you do with the bill; has Pat Cunningham got it?—I do not know.
 3807. Did you hear of the 500 l. reward?—It is not in my blood to take anything so disgraceful.
 3808. Did you hear of the 500 l. reward?—Did you hear of it?

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Answer the question.

3809. Mr. Heron.] Did you hear of it?—I never heard anything about it.
 3810. Did you hear of it?—I cannot say whether I did or not.
 3811. Are you to get anything for giving evidence to-day?—No; God forbid.
 3812. Have you been promised anything?—No.
 3813. Have you been told that you will get your expenses?—I have been told nothing.
 3814. Will you swear that?—Yes.
 3815. Do you expect anything?—Not a farthing, except what I earn myself, and my husband.
 3816. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.
 [The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. WILLIAM JAMES O'BRIEN, re-called; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr. W. J. O'Brien.
 3817. HAVE you gone through the books?—Yes.
 3818. I asked you about cheques passed on other banks by Mr. O'Beirne through your bank?—Yes.
 3819. Have you found any?—No; they are not drawn by Mr. O'Beirne.
 3820. Are there any passed by Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes; there are two passed by him.
 3821. Tell me any of them passed by Mr. O'Beirne?—Two upon other banks; there was one on the 19th of October, and one on the 14th of November.
 3822. What were they?—£. 200 each.
 3823. By whom were they drawn?—Mr. W. H. F. Cogan.
 3824. Upon what bank were they drawn?—Bank of Ireland, Dublin.
 3825. Now tell me in favor of whom; take the book and read everything about it on the 19th of October and 14th of November?—Yes.
 3826. Tell everything about the cheque on the 19th of October?—"In favour of Mr. O'Beirne, drawn by Mr. Cogan on the Bank of Ireland, Dublin, 200 l."
 3827. That was on the 19th of October?—Yes.
 3828. Was that 200 l. put to Mr. O'Beirne's account, or was it paid to him?—It was put to his account.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] The first 200 l. that was spoken to yesterday, was the 18th of October; if it was put to his credit, it must be the same sum.

3829. Mr. Butt.] I thought it was extra?—No; they both correspond.
 3830. £. 199 19 s. 6 d. was put to his account; I think the 14th of November, a similar sum in the same way is also put to his credit?—Yes.
 3831. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] One of the dates you gave was the 16th of November, 199 l. 19 s. 6 d.?—It was the same cheque; it was on the 16th my Lord.
 3832. Mr. Butt.] You had other lodgments made to Mr. O'Beirne's credit during that period?—Yes.
 3833. Were they paid in cash, or how were they made?—

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] The 83 l. was in cash.

Witness.] There was one 200 l. advised from our London office, the 12th of October, that is the first item, and advised to his credit.

3834. How were the other lodgments made?—There are two more; one for 100 l., lodged by H. Raver, a man of Mr. O'Beirne's; it is the 7th of November.
 3835. That is cash?—Yes.
 3836. The next is on the 19th of November, for 30 l.?—Yes.

3837. Was

3837. Was that cash?—It does not say whether it was cash.

3838. The next?—The next is the one by Captain Graham.

3839. I ask you the same thing as to Captain Graham, were there any cheques on other banks passed by Captain Graham?—None.

3840. There are a number of cheques entered there, drawn by Mr. O'Beirne, and paid to the bank?—Yes.

3841. Who pays those cheques at the bank?—I do.

3842. Do you enter into any book the name of the person to whom you pay the cheque?—No; it is done in a skeleton way.

3843. Is it done in any way?—It is done in some branches, but not in Cashel.

3844. Is there any record of the persons to whom those cheques were paid?—None whatever.

3845. You have not the cheques?—

3846. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] These are all cheques to bearer?—Yes.

Mr. Butt.] Now I ask for those cheques.

Mr. O'Beirne.] I received a subpoena to produce those cheques the day your Lordship sat; that night I sent a letter to London, requesting them to be sent as soon as possible; the subpoena served in London was not a subpoena duces tecum.

3847. Mr. Butt (to the Witness).] Did you pay the cheques with your own hand?—Nearly all; that is my position; I may have been absent.

3848. Do you know a man of the name of Simon Tracey?—Yes.

3849. Did you ever see him come to the bank with a cheque on Mr. O'Beirne?—I did.

3850. How often do you remember Simon Tracey coming to the bank with cheques of Mr. O'Beirne's?—I think he never brought more than one cheque to me.

3851. Have you a distinct recollection of that one cheque?—I have.

3852. What was the cheque?—I did not cash it at all.

3853. What was the cheque?—I forget the amount of it.

3854. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] You did not pay it?—He said, Are these cheques honourable here; I said they are certainly, and he took it away again.

3855. Mr. Hemphill.] He merely showed it you?—That is all.

3856. Mr. Butt.] Just state what Simon Tracey said about that cheque?—Nothing more than what I said; he asked, were they honourable there; I said yes.

3857. When he said that, he showed you the cheque?—Yes.

3858. Had he more than one in his hand?—He only showed me one.

3859. Will you, as nearly as you can, fix the time when he brought that cheque?—I have no idea.

3860. Was it before or after the election?—I have no recollection about it.

3861. Do you know a man of the name of Tom Connors?—There are so many of the name, that I cannot say.

3862. An assistant at Mr. Hanly's?—Yes, I do.

3863. Can you recollect whether he brought any cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's to the bank?—I think he did one.

3864. By looking at the book, would anything refresh your memory?—No.

3865. Will you allow me to look at that account; be particular in answering me; can you now remember any person whom you recollect bringing a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's; did Hogan do so; you are obliged to tell me?—I can only go by memory.

3866. You are obliged to tell me?—Yes; Mr. Hogan, of Main-street.

3867. Is that Mr. Hogan the partner of Mr. Ryan?—No; he keeps a shop the other side of the street.

3868. What is his name?—Timothy Hogan.

3869. That was a cheque for 20*l*.?—I cannot tell the amount.

3870. Can you recollect any other person who brought a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's?—I think I paid a man of the name of Coffey a cheque.

3871. Michael Coffey?—Yes.

3872. Do you know any of the people on the Commons?—I have heard them often spoken of.

3873. Do you remember any one of the commoners ever presenting a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's?—I do not know their names.

3874. Do you know a man of the name of Hackett?—Yes.

3875. I do not care about their names, but do you recollect any person whom you believe to be a commoner presenting a cheque?—I would not like to undertake to swear it.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] It is hard upon him to ask those questions.

Witness.] I have 40 or 50 cheques every day, and it is impossible to answer the questions.

3876. Mr. Butt.] Do you know a man of the name of Hackett?—I know several of the name of Hackett.

3877. James Hackett?—No.

3878. Do you know Mr. Ryan and Mr. Hogan?—Yes.

3879. Was there ever a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's presented to you by either of those gentlemen?—Not to the best of my knowledge; I do not remember it.

3880. I find here, on the 17th of November, a cheque for 100 l.; have you any recollection of whom it was presented by?—No.

3881. On the 19th of November; will you just look at the amount; do you observe on the 19th of November that there was an unusually large number of cheques presented?—Yes.

3882. Did it strike you in any way; was your attention called to it?—There were some eight cheques, but nothing very particularly of Mr. O'Beirne's; there were seven cheques.

3883. That is more than I see on any other day; can you remember any person who presented a cheque upon that day?—I cannot swear to it.

3884. Read out the cheques presented on the 19th?—£. 10, 16 l, 8 l, 6 l, 20 l, 40 l, and 30 l.

3885. Try again to remember any other person that ever presented a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's?—Excepting his men, I may have paid one or two to him.

3886. You remember his bringing cheques?—Yes.

3887. Do you know Geary?—Yes.

3888. Did he ever present a cheque?—I do not remember that he did.

K

3889. Do

Mr. W. J. O'Brien.

17 February 1869.

Mr. W. J. O'Brien. 3889. Do you know anyone of the name of Kennedy?—Yes, I do.
 3890. Did he ever present a cheque?—No.
17 February 1869. 3891. Any Kennedy?—Not to my knowledge.
 3892. Do you know Mr. Keif?—Yes.
 3893. Has he an account at the bank with you; Michael Keif?—I never heard of it before.
 3894. Did Michael Keif ever present a cheque of Mr. O'Beirne's?—I think he did, one or two.
 3895. Did he?—I think he did.
 3896. How many cheques do you think Michael Keif presented?—Perhaps two or three.
 3897. To what amount?—All very small amounts; I really could not tell you.
 3898. You smile at Michael Keif; I suppose he is not in a position to have an account at your bank?—He may be, for all I know.
 3899. Do you know a person of the name of William Ryan Richards, of the racecourse?—Yes.
 3900. Is his name William Ryan Richards?—I know him by the name of Richards.
 3901. Has he any dealings with your bank?—Yes.
 3902. Was there a bill of his in the bank at the time of the election?—He had one in November.
 3903. For how much?—For 25 l.
 3904. When was that bill paid, do you know?—On the 30th of November.
 3905. Let me look at your book?—It is paid by renewal.
 3906. It was renewed?—We call that paid.
 3907. Tell me about those bills of William

Ryan Richards; was there another bill?—Yes; there were two bills altogether with that man.

3908. Mr. Hemphill.] Are those bills now in the bank?—These are the bills paid during the month, or about the election; they were 25 l. each.

3909. Mr. Butt.] Have you an entry of those bills in your book?—They appear in the book.

3910. Whose name was on them?—Ryan and Thomas Carey on one, and Ryan and Mara and Carey on the other.

3911. Was Mr. O'Beirne's name on them?—No.

3912. Have either of those bills been paid?—Yes; one was renewed, and the other was paid in cash.

3913. Which was paid in cash?—The first one, without Mara's name on it.

3914. When was it paid?—On the 13th of November one was renewed, and the other was paid in cash.

3915. Was Mr. O'Bierne's name on any bill in the bank at the time of the election?—No, I do not believe so.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Butt applied for an attachment against Simon Tracey, for contempt, in not appearing to his subpoena.

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald stated that he would consider the application.

Mrs. JOHANNAH NOLAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

Mrs. J. Nolan. 3916. WAS your house taken at the last election?—No, it was not.
 3917. Your husband voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.
 3918. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] What is your husband's name?—John Nolan.
 3919. Mr. Heron.] What business is he?—He is a house painter.
 3920. Was your house not taken at all for any purpose?—No.
 3921. Did you see any cheques going?—No, sir, I never did.
 3922. Who canvassed your husband in your presence?—Mr. O'Beirne came in himself.
 3923. Who was with him?—I saw Mr. Michael Hanly and Dr. Coyle.
 3924. And Captain Graham?—No, I think not.
 3925. Do you know Simon Tracey?—I do by appearance.

3926. When did you last see him?—I could not say when I saw him last.

3927. Did you see him within the last week?—No.

3928. Did you see him within the last fortnight?—No.

3929. Does he live near your house?—He does not.

3930. Did you see him about the time of the election?—Yes, I did.

3931. Where did you see him?—Passing in the street.

3932. What did you see him doing?—I did not see him doing anything.

3933. Was he in your house at all?—He never came into my house.

[The Witness withdrew.]

RICHARD PRICE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

R. Price. 3934. WHERE do you live?—Bally Herbry, four miles from here.
 3935. Were you much in Cashel during the election time?—I came in the day of polling.
 3936. That is all?—Yes.
 3937. Were you never in Cashel before that?—I was.
 3938. Then you were in Cashel on the day of polling?—Yes.
 3939. With whom were you in Cashel on the day of polling?—I was with myself the most part of the day.

3940. Were you beside yourself?—Yes, and several people alongside me.

3941. Who else were with you?—I was with Captain Graham in the evening.

3942. Where were you with Captain Graham?—Up at Dunn's hotel.

3943. What time did you come in on the day of polling?—About 10 o'clock.

3944. In the morning?—Yes.

3945. Did you go to Captain Graham straight, when you came in?—I came here to the court.

3946. Did

3946. Did you see Captain Graham at the court-house?—I do not think I did.

3947. What were you doing all day?—Listening to every person.

3948. Did you take any part in bringing up any voters for Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

3949. You went to Dunn's hotel to Captain Graham in the evening?—Yes.

3950. And Mr. O'Beirne was there?—Yes.

3951. That was the day of the polling?—Yes.

3952. When had you been in Cashel before that?—I usually came in once a week, or twice a week, according to my business.

3953. When, before the day of polling, had you been in Cashel last?—About a fortnight, I think.

3954. Had you not been in Cashel for a fortnight before the polling?—I think not.

3955. Were you with Captain Graham?—I met him at Mr. Hind's, at Lower Main-street.

3956. Did you stop with him long that day?—Five minutes.

3957. Did you go to Dunn's hotel with him?—No.

3958. Were you never in Cashel from that to the day of the polling?—I may.

3959. Were you?—I do not know whether I was or not.

3960. Were you helping Mr. O'Beirne at the election?—No.

3961. You did nothing for him?—No.

3962. Or for Captain Graham?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

3963. Do you know Mr. Michael Joseph Laffan, a solicitor?—Yes.

3964. Do you know Mr. Munster, the Petitioner?—Yes.

3965. Do you remember having been sent for at any time after the election?—Yes.

3966. By whom?—Mr. Laffan, I was told.

3967. How long after the election was that?—About a week; on a Sunday he sent for me.

3968. Did you go to Mr. Laffan?—I did, on the Monday morning.

3969. Where did you see him?—In his office.

3970. In Cashel?—Yes.

3971. What took place between you?—He asked me what I would take to prove bribery against Captain Graham and Mr. O'Beirne.

3972. Laffan asked you?—Yes.

3973. What did you say?—I told him I heard he had offered 500 l. for me, and if he gave me that I said I would tell him all that I knew about Captain Graham and Mr. O'Beirne. He said he could not buy a pig in a bag; and I said if the pig in the bag was not worth it he should not buy it.

3974. Then there was no pig in the bag; did you see Mr. Munster?—No; I saw Mr. Leahy.

3975. What took place between you?—He wanted me to lay it in certain people's hands; I said my hands were the best.

3976. Whose hands?—One Dr. Russell, or the Archdeacon of Cashel. I said I would have it in no man's hands but my own.

3977. What amount did they say was to be put in their hands?—£. 500.

3978. How long after the election was that?—About a week.

3979. At the same time you saw Mr. Laffan?—Yes, on the same day. He said, had I any objection to go to John-street, where Mr. Munster lived. I said, "Not the least."

3980. Did you go?—Yes, and I met Mr. Leahy and the two Mr. Laffans, and they laid down several ways for me to take the money. I said I would take it in no way but the one.

3981. What was the result of that conversation?—That is all that I know.

3982. Did you know anything to tell them?—Not a halfporth.

3983. Did you do anything at all for Mr. O'Beirne during the election?—Never; I never knew the gentleman till Captain Graham brought me up to see him.

3984. Did you offer any reward for anyone to vote for or support Mr. O'Beirne in any way?—No.

3985. Did you offer any reward, directly or indirectly, for any man to support Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt.

3986. You had nothing to tell Mr. Laffan?—No.

3987. Would you have taken the money?—I would, if they gave it to me.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Butt stated that he had now closed the general case on behalf of the Petitioner, as regards avoiding the election on the ground of bribery, and he would now proceed with the scrutiny. He stated that he proposed to take each vote separately, according to the uniform practice of the House of Commons.

Mr. Hemphill was heard against the proposition, and contended that the Petitioner should take the whole of the votes together, and give all the evidence upon that part of the case before the Respondent should be called upon to answer.

After some discussion,

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald ruled in favour of the course proposed by Mr. Butt.

Mr. Butt handed in the poll-books as evidence in support of his case. He stated that the first vote objected to was that of Charles Biancony, No. 3 on the register, who claimed his vote as a freeholder. He contended that there was no such franchise in Cashel as that of a freeholder, and was heard in support of his contention.

Mr. Hemphill was heard in support of the vote.

After some discussion,

Mr. Butt withdrew his objection.

Mr. Butt.] We propose to strike off the name of Mr. Patrick Connors as being a paid agent; he has admitted that he was agent for election expenses.

Baron Fitzgerald.] What is the section?

Mr. Butt.] The 8th section of the 31 & 32 Vict. c. 49. (No voter who within six months before or during any election shall have been retained, hired, or employed, &c.) The Act 26 & 27 of the Queen, c. 29, compels the appointment of agents; I submit that the appointment of the person without a condition that he will act for nothing is an appointment for hire.

1869.

Mr. Hemphill.] He stated that he never was paid, never agreed to be paid, or expected to be paid; the appointment was made behind his back. In the Dublin election nearly 400 agents were acting for the sitting Member, who all acted gratuitously; and it never was pretended for a moment that they were not entitled to record their votes.

Mr. PIERCE GRACE, re-called; and re-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

Mr.
P. Grace.

3988. Mr. GRACE, you told us already that Patrick Connons was named by you and Mr. O'Beirne as agent?—Yes.

3989. Did you see Patrick Connon at any time before he polled?—I did, and the discussion has now brought a matter to my recollection; I was asked when I told him after the election that he had been appointed. Connons spoke to me before he voted; he said, "He thought there was a mistake made in appointing him as agent, as an agent could not vote"; and I then told him that that made no difference, that as he was not a paid agent he could vote.

3990. And did he acquiesce in the statement that he was not a paid agent?—Quite so.

3991. Mr. Butt.] When was that?—That was before he voted; in fact, it was only the discussion now that brought the matter to my recollection.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

3992. Do you mean to say now, that you told him he was agent for election expenses before he voted?—I do.

3993. Have you any doubt at all about that?—I have not the slightest, because the discussion here has brought it to my recollection; Connons put it expressly before me that I had disqualified him by appointing him an agent; I told him that he was not disqualified, inasmuch as he was not a paid agent.

3994. But he did not give you any pledge that he would not take payment for his election expenses?—Oh, certainly not; it was clearly understood that he was not to be paid.

3995. Will you tell me, did you hear him swear he never knew he was election expense agent?—I heard him swear something about it; I think I told Mr. Heron that I told him very soon after the election.

Mr. Butt.] Because they all signed a declaration saying that they would not require payment.

Mr. Hemphill.] I would like to ask Mr. Grace a question.

3996. We are not speaking of your evidence; did you hear him say that?—

Mr. Hemphill.] I think he said afterwards that he heard something about it either on the day of polling or of nomination.

Mr. Butt.] No, indeed.

Baron Fitzgerald read the evidence previously given by Connons on the points.

3997. Mr. Butt.] Mr. Grace, will you tell me this; as I understand you, it was he who said to you that you had disqualified him by making him agent, first?—Yes; either that, or that "I cannot vote"; something tantamount.

3998. Then that was not said in consequence of any communication from you, but was a statement from him?—I think so.

3999. As well as you recollect?—I think so.

4000. Of course when he made that statement he knew he was appointed?—He must.

4001. Had you not posted through Cashel a copy of that clause of the Act disqualifying persons who are agents?—I had.

4002. It was particularly relating to the Commons; to some attempts to make persons paid agents for the Commons?—Precisely so.

4003. Can you recollect whether Connons alluded to the Commons when he spoke to you?—I am sure he did; I have no doubt of it.

4004. And then you told him "not if you are not paid"?—"Not if you are not paid." I think I said, you are not a paid agent, and therefore you are not disqualified; something tantamount to that.

Mr. Butt submitted that on the evidence Connons was not entitled to vote.

Baron Fitzgerald ruled against the objection to the vote of Connons.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM CASHAN, Examined by Mr. Heron.

W. Cashan.

4005. (Handing document to Witness.)] Is that your name on the back of that?—It is so long ago; give me a pen and I will write my name; it is too long ago when I wrote my name before; I can't prove it.

4006. This is the five-guinea cheque you got last November; I think you are 'cuter than you look; do you want to write your name in order to get the money?—I don't want any money at all.

4007. Take that in your hand, and look at it?—To the best of my opinion I think it is, but I could not swear to it; to the best of my opinion it is my name.

4008. Who gave you that?—Who gave it to me; some one of the Laffans gave it to me.

4009. Did you put it in the bank?—I did, and he told me to run over and change it.

4010. And get the money at the National Bank?—I got it at the bank; I don't know what bank it is.

4011. Five pounds five shillings?—Yes.

Mr. Heron read the document as follows:—Cashel, 4th November 1868. National Bank.—Pay to Mr. William Cashan, or order, Five pounds five shillings, as retainer. Signed by J. W. Laffan, and endorsed by the Witness.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

4012. It bears date the 4th of November?—Yes.

4013. Was it in Laffan's office that he gave it to you?—Below; in Corcoran's hotel.

4014. What did he say?—I don't know whether he was doing wrong, because he was forcing the whisky upon me and I could not take it.

4015. What

4015. What did Mr. Laffan say or do to you when he handed you that cheque?—He said he had a job for me.

4016. For whom did he say?—I thought it was for the horses he had the job.

4017. What did he say; did he say anything about horses?—He did not.

Baron Fitzgerald.] We had all this before.

4018. Mr. Hemphill (to Witness).] Were you told that this was to retain you as agent for Mr. Munster?—No, I was not.

Baron Fitzgerald.] What is the ground of disqualification relied on?

Mr. Butt.] The ground has failed on proof.

Mr. Hemphill.] Then he remains on.

[The Witness withdrew.

W. Cashan.
17 February
1869.

JOHN CASSIDY, Examined by Mr. Butt.

4019. Mr. Butt.] HE appears by the poll-book to have voted for Mr. O'Beirne; look at that cheque; you got that cheque?—I got a cheque; I could not say it was that; I did not mark the cheque.

4020. His name is not on the back of it (to Witness). You got a cheque, at all events, for five guineas?—Yes.

4021. What did you get that cheque for?—For to take an agency from Mr. Laffan.

4022. For whom?—Oh, I suppose for Mr. Munster.

4023. You took the cheque?—Yes.

4024. And agreed to act as agent?—Well, I agreed to see Mr. Laffan again.

4025. But didn't you take the cheque?—I did.

4026. Did you not agree to act as agent; did you not tell him you would act as agent?—I did not tell him I would act as agent, but I told him I would see him again.

4027. You did not retain the cheque?—No, I did not retain the cheque; but perhaps I may remark to you, if you will allow me, that I was quite ignorant of what I was doing with regard to the law. I thought I might act as agent; at the same time I had no idea in the world of damaging my vote for Mr. O'Beirne.

4028. When you took that, you thought you could vote for Mr. O'Beirne, and intended to vote?—No doubt in the world of it.

4029. Although you were the paid agent of Mr. Munster; and you might have done it until lately; but when you found out the contrary, you wrote that letter?—I did not write that letter, but—

4030. It was written for you with your consent?—Oh, yes; that is my name.

4031. You signed it then?—Oh, yes.

Mr. Butt read the following letter:—
“Cashel, 6th November 1868.—Sir, You did not inform me that no retained agent could vote at the next election, which I now find is the case. I am pledged to vote for Mr. O'Beirne, and therefore refuse to accept your offered retainer for Mr. Munster, and return you the cheque herewith.” That was the same day as the cheque.

Witness.] Perhaps I may remark to your Lordship, that I was regularly snared into it through ignorance of the law. Mr. Laffan attempted several times, and he got me for it. I would not wish it, for all I could mention, that my vote should be damaged for Mr. O'Beirne.

4032. Mr. Curtis.] In point of fact, you did return the cheque?—On the same day, within a few hours. As soon as ever I found that I had erred and done an act contrary to law.

Mr. Butt.] You have not done anything contrary to law.

Witness.] Oh, yes; because a paid agent could not vote safely for himself.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Butt.] We will give up this case. Now I propose to take off the poll the vote of Captain Graham as having bribed.

Mr. Hemphill.] Are you going into further evidence?

Mr. Butt.] We are, as to any votes that require it.

Mr. Hemphill.] Are you taking up Captain Graham's case on the evidence as it now stands?

Mr. Butt.] As far as I know, on the evidence as it stands now.

Mr. Hemphill.] I think it not unreasonable to ask my friend whether he is going into the rest as to this particular vote now? He must now make his election.

Mr. Butt.] I am, certainly.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I don't think that would be perfectly fair. With reference to all these Witnesses, I will determine none of the cases, for these very persons may have to be called on the general case, and evidence might then come out which it would be most material to consider. I think it should be the same way with respect to Captain Graham, if you intend to call him on the general case, for then his cross-examination might be most material on the point now at issue.

Mr. Butt.] I thought they might have called him now.

Mr. Hemphill.] I have no objection to call Captain Graham now, reserving my right to call him as to the general case.

Baron Fitzgerald.] If you do, this must stand as it is now. I can see that it might be a great inconvenience to you to call a man charged as being an agent, now, for that is directly bearing upon the other parts of the case, and we are not upon that now at all. It was an inconvenience of this kind that I was thinking of before.

Mr. Hemphill.] I call on you (Mr. Butt) now then to make your election, and go on with this vote or abandon it.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Oh, no; not anything of that kind. There is prima facie evidence; but I will hardly deal with this as I would with the others as a concluded case. I am dealing with the others, though I won't determine, except in cases which I see clearly are cases that might be determined by the evidence now given; but I wish to make an exception in those cases in which the parties may be necessary to be called on the general case, for I may be bound by what might afterwards turn out.

Mr. Butt.] Then it would be most convenient for all parties to reserve the decision upon Captain Graham's vote at present.

Baron Fitzgerald.] If you call him now on this particular question, reserving to yourself the right to call him on the general question afterwards, the question now, on his vote, must be determined upon the evidence now given.

Mr. Hemphill.] Well, I would rather reserve him for the general case.

Baron Fitzgerald (to Mr. Butt).] But if you have any more evidence to offer, you had better offer it now.

Mr. Butt.] I thought it would have been more convenient to have called him now.

Mr. Hemphill.] I will not produce any witness in the conduct of my case until it suits my convenience.

Mr. Butt.] That is not fair. I wanted to separate these two petitions originally.

Mr. Hemphill.] On what ground do you seek to strike off Captain Graham's vote; I have a right to ask?

Mr. Butt.] On the ground that he is a person who, if the evidence is believed, is proved to have been bribed. That disqualifies him from voting. When I challenge his vote I think he ought now to come on the table, and meet the case made against him.

Mr. Hemphill.] I will not produce Captain Graham at this stage of the case.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Captain Graham's case I mark now, as standing; but I would be glad that any evidence as to him, that you wish to rely on, you would produce now.

Mr. Hemphill.] This would drive us to the course of calling Captain Graham as one of our witnesses to know does he admit the bribery or not.

Baron Fitzgerald.] It is for you to judge whether you will call him or not as to this point. All I want you to do now is to offer all the evidence that you intend to offer.

Mr. Butt.] I am willing to let the case rest now if they will answer it now; but there are several of these commoners that we are going to object to.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I think the fairer way, as they say they won't call Captain Graham, is to leave his case completely over for it.

Mr. Butt.] Precisely. That is all I ask. We next propose to strike off the votes of Michael Ryan and Michael Murnane upon the evidence already given.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Neither of them are alleged to be agents.

Mr. Hemphill.] Murnane has not been examined. What is your ground as to this?

Mr. Butt.] That they were bribed by the nominal payment of 60 l. for the house.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Do you intend to offer anything further as to that?

Mr. Hemphill.] It was Mr. O'Beirne who took the house from Michael Ryan. Of course, there again, we must in the progress of the case examine Mr. O'Beirne, and it would be rather inconvenient to do so now.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I think so.

Mr. Hemphill.] They have subpoenaed all these witnesses, Captain Graham and Mr. O'Beirne.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Mr. Butt, I don't know what your evidence against Murnane is.

Mr. Butt.] That he was brought into distinct negotiation for the room.

Baron Fitzgerald.] As it will be absolutely necessary to call Mr. O'Beirne, there would be great inconvenience in calling him now upon this particular case.

Mr. Butt.] There must be a general examination certainly.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Before I have their case opened, it strikes me that there would be really something unfair in calling him.

Mr. Butt.] There is a little difference between Mr. Heron and myself as to our impressions of what your Lordship has said. I understood you to say that, even if we closed our case against Captain Graham, you would not compel them to produce him now.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I don't consider that you are closing him now at all.

Mr. Butt.] But supposing you did, you would not put them to produce Captain Graham now?

Baron Fitzgerald.] I think not. Oh, no; for the reason that I think it would be unfair to treat you as closed, when part of your evidence against Captain Graham, your subsequent cross-examination of him.

Mr. Heron.] Supposing that we now decided to close the evidence against Captain Graham, if we say that we have no further evidence of bribery against Captain Graham, I think he ought then to be produced.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I won't oblige them to do it, Mr. Heron.

Mr. Butt.] We think that, on the same grounds, you should make the same rule with regard to Patrick Mackey, Thomas Murphy, Michael Coffey, and Timothy Hogan.

Baron Fitzgerald.] There would be enormous difficulty in calling Mr. O'Beirne to each of those cases.

Mr. Butt.] As having taken part in corrupt treating, we ask you to strike off Patrick Connors, Denis Guirey, Patrick Maher, Patrick Maunsell, Michael Dwyer, Joseph Ryan, and Richard Grace.

Baron Fitzgerald.] All these are persons against whom evidence is already given.

Mr. Hemphill.] This is for treating. On what section do you rely?

Mr. Butt.] We go upon the 4th section. We add to those whom we claim to take off for bribery, the name of Simon Tracy.

Mr. Hemphill.] He is not a voter.

Mr. Butt.] Then we cannot take him off. Supposing that we succeed in all the others, it will make 14 votes to be taken off. Now we propose to call some of the commoners.

PATRICK KENNEDY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

4033. WHERE do you live?—On the Commons.

4034. You are an elector?—Yes.

4035. Do you know a man named Dan Noley, at the Commons?—I do.

4036. Were you at his house a short time before the election?—No.

4037. At all?—At all.

4038. Who first asked you to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—No one but myself; I wished to vote for him.

4039. Did no one ask you?—No one ever asked me; but I said I would go where my neighbours were going.

4040. Whom did you say that to?—Some of the neighbours.

4041. Did Mr. O'Beirne himself never ask you?—No.

4042. Nor Tom Connons?—Never; nor anybody else.

[The Witness withdrew.

P. Kennedy.

1869.

PATRICK CONNELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Cartan.

4043. WHERE do you live?—On the Commons.

4044. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

4045. You voted O'Beirne, I believe?—Yes.

4046. Who was it asked you to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—My mind was laid out to vote for O'Beirne before he came to Cashel at all.

4047. But did anyone ask you?—They did.

4048. Who asked you to vote for O'Beirne?—Mr. O'Beirne came round on the Commons, and asked me would I go with him, and I told him I would.

4049. Do you know a man named Tim Shee?—I do.

4050. Do you know a man named Connons?—I do.

4051. Do you remember, on a night in November, either Shee or Connons going to his house?—I do.

4052. Was it to your house or to Noley's house?—It was to my house they called.

4053. Did Shee and Connons, or one of them?—They did.

4054. Both went to your house?—They did.

4055. What passed between you that night?—They asked me was I pledged to Mr. O'Beirne, and I told them I was; then they told me to sign my name to a kind of paper they had, and so I did; and that was all about it then.

4056. Had Connons any money with him?—No.

4057. Are you sure of that?—I am.

4058. How much did you get for voting?—I got no money.

4059. No money?—Nor was not promised.

4060. Did you get a cheque?—No.

4061. Do you know what a cheque is?—I do not.

4062. Did you get anything in 1865?—No.

4063. Did you vote for O'Beirne in 1865?—I did.

4064. You got nothing in 1865?—No.

4065. You gave your vote from pure love and affection for Mr. O'Beirne?—I did.

[The Witness retired.

P. Connell.

DANIEL NOLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

4066. WHERE do you live?—On the Commons of Cashel.

4067. You are an elector?—Yes, sir.

4068. Do you remember, one evening, Mr. O'Beirne being at your house before the election?—I do.

4069. I believe he met a number of commoners there?—Four or five.

4070. Who were the four or five that he met there?—Daniel Malony was one; Thomas Walsh was another; Jeremiah Neei, and Patrick Holland.

4071. Did Mr. O'Beirne ask them for their votes?—No.

4072. He did not?—No.

4073. He did not say a word about their voting for him?—No.

4074. You swear that?—I do.

4075. Did they say anything to him?—No.

4076. Will you just tell me what was said by any of the persons present upon that occasion; what passed; how long was Mr. O'Beirne in the house?—Between half-an-hour and an hour.

4077. Then it was a quakers' meeting; you were all silent?—No; not silent.

4078. What were you talking about, then?—

About retainers, sir; I myself was the author of it. They came to know; they had found out; might they be retainers for the Common.

4079. For what?—For Mr. Munster.

4080. Why did you bring those four or five persons there?—I considered—we considered that those were four or five who knew the knowledge of all the rest of the neighbours.

4081. Who was with Mr. O'Beirne?—No person; there was Keefe, sir, I believe.

4082. Anyone else that you recollect?—The driver that drove his car.

4083. What time of the day was it when Mr. O'Beirne came out there?—Something about dinner time.

4084. Two or three o'clock?—A little earlier; between one and two in the day.

4085. Did you say anything about the last election, the election of 1865, while you were talking there?—No.

4086. Did no one mention the election of 1865?—No.

4087. Or say anything about it?—No.

4088. Had you voted for O'Beirne at the election of '65?—I had.

D. Noley.

- D. Noley.* 4089. Were you one of those that gave a bill for 30 l. to anyone?—No.
- 17 February 1869. 4090. Did you get 30 l.?—No, sir; but I gave a cheerful vote for him.
4091. You say Mr. O'Beirne did not ask them for their votes?—I do.
4092. Do you remember Mr. O'Beirne saying, "Will you now be satisfied with the same arrangement as the last time?"?—No.
4093. Or anything like that?—No.
4094. Will you swear he did not?—I will.
4095. Was that the only time you saw Mr. O'Beirne out there?—Oh, he came to us before that.

4096. Did you hear him saying anything like this: "Will you be satisfied with what was done before?"?—Never.

Mr. Butt.] I don't think we can carry the cases further, so we will close our case altogether.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I will consider the other 147 cases as still open to you.

The Court then adjourned. On resuming,

Mr. Hemphill opened the case on behalf of Mr. O'Beirne, the Sitting Member.

CORNELIUS CARROLL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Curtis.

- C. Carroll.* 4097. WHERE do you live?—At the Lower Gate.
4098. You are a voter of Cashel?—I am.
4099. Do you know Mr. John Coman?—I do.
4100. Do you remember the 13th of November last?—I do.
4101. Did you see Mr. Coman on that day?—I saw him in the evening.
4102. You saw him on that day in the evening?—I saw him at five o'clock in the evening.
4103. Where did you see him?—At my own house.
4104. Did he come to you?—He did.
4105. Did any conversation take place between you?—There did.
4106. What was it?—He brought me into my own room off the shop, and read Dean Cantwell's letter for me, and told me he had a conversation with Pat Laffan. Pat Laffan told him he would not like to get him into it.
4107. What was the letter about?—In praise of Mr. Munster; that he was a good man. He read the letter to me.
4108. What was in the letter?—It was in praise of Mr. Munster, and told the people of Cashel to vote for him.
4109. After reading the letter, what did Mr. Comans say; did he say anything further?—He did.
4110. What was it he said?—He said he was talking to Pat Laffan.
4111. About what?—About whisky.
4112. Tell us what he said?—He said it was better not to give me any whisky.
4113. Who said that?—Mr. Comans.
4114. Does he sell whisky himself?—He does.
4115. What then occurred?—I said it was better not to get a third into it; there should be something else done.
4116. What was further said at that interview after the whisky was mentioned?—He came out, and read the letter again for my sister, and told me to go up to Corcoran's hotel, and that I would meet Pat Laffan there.
4117. Did he name the hour?—Half-past seven o'clock.
4118. Baron Fitzgerald.] 'What is your sister's name?—Anastasia Carroll.
4119. Mr. Curtis (to Witness).] Did you go at the hour named to Corcoran's hotel?—I did.
4120. Whom did you meet there?—I went upstairs, and met Pat Cunningham on the landing, and inquired for Pat Laffan; he told me he was inside in the room reading the letter; he told me to wait until he would be down, that it would be in a few minutes; he went in, and told him I was there.

4121. What then occurred?—I waited then for a long time, and he was not making his appearance, and I was going to go, but Cunningham told me to wait, that he would be down in a few minutes; I waited then, and he came out.

4122. Baron Fitzgerald.] Who came out?—Pat Laffan.

Mr. Hemphill called attention to the fact that two witnesses, Comans and Cunningham were in court, listening to the evidence.

Baron Fitzgerald.] All witnesses on both sides who have received subpœnas must leave court.

4123. Mr. Curtis (to Witness).] You say he brought you into a room with him?—Yes; into a dark room; there was no light in it.

4124. You went into the room?—I did.

4125. Was there anyone there but you and he?—Not a Christian; only us both.

4126. What occurred when you went in?—We went to the front of the room, and he spoke to me, and said that he was talking to Mr. Comans.

4127. Before that, did he say anything about the door?—He had not at that time; he said it would be better not to get Comans, a third person, into it at all at all, and that they would do something else.

4128. In what way?—I suppose in the way of money, besides whisky.

4129. Something else for you?—Yes.

4130. But did he say anything about the door; did he tell you to close the door?—He told me that they would rather win at the poll; that it would be better to win at the poll, and be beaten after by petition. He said, "Don't let anyone know it; come up to me on Monday at 12 o'clock, and I will make you all right." I left the room. That is all that occurred in the room then.

4131. I asked you the question a while ago, When first you went into the room, while you were there did he say anything to you about the door?—Before he told me he would "make it all right" he told me to close the door; that he did not want to have anyone hear it.

4132. Did he say to you to come to him at 12 o'clock on Monday?—Yes.

4133. Did you go to him at 12 o'clock on Monday?—I was walking about the town, about 11 o'clock, and a man named Beary came out of the hotel.

4134. What

4134. What is Beary?—He is a process server.

4135. What occurred when you met Beary?—He told me to go to Pat Laffan, that he wanted me; I asked him what he wanted with me.

4136. Was Beary in Mr. Munster's employment at that time?—He was an agent.

4137. Did anything occur when you met Beary?—Nothing more than that he told me to go in to meet Pat Laffan.

4138. In where?—To Corcoran's Hotel.

4139. Did you go into Corcoran's Hotel?—I did not go into it at that time; I waited for about half-an-hour, for there was a crowd about it, and I did not like to be seen going in then.

4140. Did you go in at the end of the half hour?—I did.

4141. Whom did you meet?—When I went inside the door, I saw Cunningham and Pat Laffan on the first landing; both of them were together.

4142. What then occurred?—It was in to Pat Laffan I went, but Cunningham came down to me; I never was called in, only he just came to me and brought me into the parlour; both of us went into the parlour; no one but the two of us were there, Cunningham and I. He asked me could I set a part of the house or yard; I told him I could not. "Don't you know what I mean?" said he. "I do," I says. "Well, how much?" says he. "Forty pounds," says I. "Oh, that is too much." "Well," says I, "I think you will have to give more." So he offered me 30 L. "I won't have it," says I. "Well, we will divide the 10 L." "Very well, I cannot settle with you now," says he, "until evening, when I will meet you," said I. "Don't come down to the house; if you want me, see me in the street; I won't come any more to this house."

4143. What then occurred?—I was going home to my own house in the evening about four o'clock, when I was just opposite Miss O'Dwyer's hotel or a bit farther; Cunningham came up to me and asked me, "Would I take half the notes and he a half, until four o'clock on Friday evening." I said, "I would not; that he should depend on me and give me the whole." He said, "it was against the rule; that he could not."

4144. Until four o'clock on Friday evening; was not that the day named for the polling?—Yes.

4145. What then occurred?—So he brought me down to the hotel, and I went with him, and I think it was on the first landing we stopped; we did not go into the room. He asked me, "Would I leave the money in Mr. Coman's hands." I objected to it, and asked the money again from him. "Can you not depend on me and give me the money to myself?" He said, secondly, "it was against the rule, that he could not do it." I did not see any money at that time. He went into the room and brought out a bundle of notes in his hand, and called the servant for a pen and ink. She came with that and an envelope, and so he counted 35 L., and had a 5 L. note left. Said I, "You may as well make it 40 L. and put it into the envelope." "No, I could not," said he. I could not say who was in the room that gave him the money, but I suppose he himself will tell. So he put the money into the envelope and signed "John Coman" on it.

4146. What did he do with the envelope then; would you know the envelope if you saw it?—I would; it was a plain envelope; a common envelope.

4147. Is that it (hands document)?—That is it.

121.

4148. You wrote your name on it?—Yes.

4149. Is that your name and handwriting written on it, for the purpose of identification?—It is.

4150. What occurred then?—He closed it up and told me to follow him over to John Coman's; he brought over the letter in his hand.

4151. Cunningham did?—Yes.

4152. What then occurred?—I went over after him to John Coman's.

4153. When you came there, what happened?—I went up the lane way, and when I went into the parlour door, Mrs. Coman and Cunningham were standing there; he invited me to a glass of brandy. I refused it, saying, "I would not take anything." He asked me, "would I leave the letter with Mrs. Coman until four o'clock on Friday evening." I said, "I would not."

4154. Did you say what was in the letter?—No, I did not; I did not say what was in the letter to her; so then he asked Mrs. Coman to send for Mr. Coman; Mr. Coman was sent for and came up the lane; we were standing in the parlour; he came in; Cunningham and I were standing at the door. I spoke first, and said, "Cunningham has a letter here for 35 L., will you keep it?"

4155. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you say that to Coman?—Yes; I said, "Will you keep it till four o'clock on Friday evening?" "I will not," said Coman; "I will have nothing to do with it;" going back again into the kitchen. "Now," said I, "Cunningham, did not I tell you that would be the way; so I will go home," said I, "and stop here no longer." So I was going down the lane way when Coman called me into the kitchen. "What is this about?" said he; said I, "He has money here, and he won't take my word and give it to me."

4156. Did any one join you about that time?—There were several in the lane at that time.

4157. Do you remember any names?—There was a man named Feehan; Cunningham made a remark, saying "he had a little business to do;" so I came out with Coman then, and was going down the lane. "Don't be in a hurry," said Cunningham. I said, "What is the use of stopping here;" so with that I turned up the lane. I think Cunningham and Mr. Coman walked out into the kitchen. Only I had occasion to go up the lane, I would have gone home; he followed me up with the letter.

4158. Baron Fitzgerald.] Who did?—Cunningham.

4159. Mr. Curtis.] Did he overtake you?—I was about five or six minutes on.

4160. What occurred when he came up?—He handed me the letter, and I took it. "Now," said he, "make out all the information you can, and don't be trusting to that." "I will make out no information at all," said I; "I will go with Mr. O'Beirne, and I will vote for him."

4161. And you accordingly did vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—I did, decidedly, I think they were half notes.

4162. Would you know them if you saw them?—I saw the money counted.

4163. What did you do with this (document handed to Witness)?—I never opened it; I kept it in my pocket.

4164. To whom did you give it?—To Mr. Grace.

4165. That same evening?—The very same evening.

C. Carroll.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

17 February
1869.

4166. When did you first speak to Mr. Coman about the election?—I often spoke to Mr. Coman; I cannot tell you at what exact time.

4167. Was it long before this day that you got the notes?—That I spoke to Mr. Coman?

4168. Yes; was it long before that you first spoke to Mr. Coman?—The first time of all?

4169. About the election?—I might have spoken two months before to Mr. Coman about the election.

4170. Did you ever ask Mr. Coman to get you some employment about the election?—I knew well he could not get me any employment.

4171. Did you ask him?—Never.

4172. Did you ask him to get your house taken?—To get my house taken?

4173. Yes; do you understand the question I am putting to you; did you ever ask Mr. Coman to get your house taken?—Yes, I might have asked him.

4174. Did you ask him?—I did.

4175. To get your house taken?—Yes.

4176. How often did you ask him to do that?—I could not account for that.

4177. Did you ask him more than once?—I may.

4178. Did you?—I will say more than once.

4179. You did ask him more than once?—I did.

4180. More than twice?—No, I did not ask him more than twice.

4181. Had you a house to let when you asked Coman to get your house taken?—A house to let?

4182. Yes?—I had not.

4183. Then you asked Coman to get your house taken, when you had no house to let; is that so?—It is.

4184. What are you; what is your occupation? A public-house.

4185. How large is your house?—Not very large; then there are only two rooms down below and two overhead; five beds in one and three in another, always occupied.

4086. Did Mr. Coman refuse to get your house taken?—He did.

4187. And did you after that go back again to ask him to get your house taken?—I did not.

4188. How often did he refuse you?—He did not refuse me more than—I never was—I may have spoken to him twice.

4189. Did he refuse you?—He did.

4190. And did you then, after being refused by Mr. Coman, go up to Corcoran's Hotel to Laffan?—To which of them; there are two Laffans.

4191. Well, to Mr. Pat Laffan that you have been talking about?—I did.

4192. And did you ask Mr. Laffan to take your house?—Never; I never asked Pat Laffan to take a house.

4193. Did you agree to let him your house?—Never; I would not set my house to him.

4194. Did you set it to any one?—Never.

4195. Whom did you vote for in 1865?—I never had a vote before this time; they were canvassing me four times a day.

4196. Who were canvassing you?—Mr. Laffan there, Mr. Michael Laffan.

4197. Four times a day?—Aye, sometimes he would come to me four times.

4198. Who else?—No one else.

4199. Did any one else but Mr. Michael Laffan come to canvass you for Mr. Munster?—No.

4200. Did Mr. Munster canvass you himself?—He did.

4201. Did you promise to vote for him?—No sir, he did not ask me.

4202. Well that is what I mean by canvassing, and he did not ask you?—No.

4203. Did Mr. Michael Laffan ask you to vote for Mr. Munster?—He did.

4204. What did you say?—I said I would not vote for him at any time.

4205. Did you ever promise to vote for Munster?—Never.

4206. Then you did not promise to vote for Mr. Munster when you had this interview with Laffan and Cunningham?—Never.

4207. Do I understand you to say that from beginning to end you never promised to vote for Mr. Munster?—Never.

4208. Did they come to you to get your house from you?—They did.

4209. When?—That night about nine o'clock, when I was after giving up the money.

4210. They came to get the house from you?—It might be.

4211. Who came?—Cunningham.

4212. He asked you for the house?—Yes.

4213. And you refused to give it?—I did.

4214. Then you did not set your house?—Never.

4215. But Cunningham came and asked you for it?—Yes.

4216. Did he say he wanted it?—He said he wanted a room and part of a yard.

4217. Was not that what he had asked you for when he spoke to you first; a room and part of a yard?—It was, but I denied giving it to him.

4218. But did he not ask you for it?—He did.

4219. He came out at about nine o'clock that night to ask you for it?—Yes.

4220. Did he tell you what he wanted with it?—No.

4221. At any time?—No.

4222. Did he tell you that he had lost Ryan's and Murnane's house; on your oath?—He never did.

4223. He never told you that?—No.

4224. And when he came to you at nine o'clock, did he not tell you what he wanted with it?—No.

4225. You never intended to let your house?—No.

4226. And you never intended to vote for Mr. Munster?—Not at any price.

4227. What did you go there for then?—What?

4228. What did you go there for?—Go where?

4229. To Corcoran's Hotel?—When he sent for me.

4230. What did you go to Mr. Coman for?—To Mr. Coman?

4231. Yes?—Sure I often went to Coman's.

4232. What did you go to Mr. Coman's for, sir?—If he could get me money at the election.

4233. Then you went to Coman to get you money at the election?—Yes, if it was in his power.

4234. For what did you expect to get the money?—For my vote, I suppose.

4235. To whom were you to give your vote, that you thought Mr. Coman would get you money for?—To whom I would like.

4236. Is

4236. Is that your answer?—Yes.

4237. Then Mr. Coman was to get you money for your vote that you were to give to whom you liked; is that what took you to Mr. Coman's?—It was.

4238. On your oath?—On my oath.

4239. To vote for whom you liked?—Yes; I had not the slightest notion of voting for Mr. Munster.

4240. What were you to get money from Mr. Coman for, on your oath?—For my vote.

4241. For whom were you to vote, if Mr. Coman was to give you money?—For whom I might like; there was no "must" on me, for whatever amount of money I might get.

4242. Do you understand me, sir; did you go to Mr. Coman's in the hope of getting money for your vote, on your oath?—I think so.

4243. Did you tell me this moment that you went to Mr. Coman's to get money for your vote?—That I went to Mr. Coman's?

4244. Yes, to get money for your vote; you need not be looking there; look at his Lordship; is that true that you so went?—I did.

4245. In the hopes of getting money for your vote?—Yes, positively.

4246. Very well, now; when you went to Mr. Coman's in the hope of getting money for your vote, for whom did you think to vote to get the money?—Whatever amount of money I got from Mr. Coman or Munster, I would not vote for him.

4247. What brought you to Coman then, if you did not intend to vote for him; was it to cheat him you went?—If I could get the money from Mr. Munster; that was what I was looking for; I got it and I did not keep it.

4248. When you went to Coman, did you intend to give the money to Laffan and not to keep it?—Positively I did.

4249. Then it was to entrap Coman you went?—To entrap Coman? I was not going to entrap Coman; the only design I had was in looking for the money, for I was well aware that I would get it; I was in dread of the election going against Mr. O'Beirne, and it was that I could prove a case of bribery against Mr. Munster; that is the whole affair; he offered me 10 guineas.

4250. You say you never meant to keep the money?—Never.

4251. And from beginning to end it was all a trap?—All a trap in that way.

4252. Did you tell anybody you were going to trap Mr. Coman?—Mr. Coman?

4253. Yes?—I was not going to trap Coman.

4254. Did not you go to Coman?—I did.

4255. Did you not go intending?—?—He came to me with the letter; I thought he might have influence with Mr. Munster when he canvassed me.

4256. Did you ever tell any human being you were going to do that?—To do what?

4257. Do you understand my question?—No.

4258. Do you swear you don't?—No; put it to me.

4259. Did you ever hear of a plant? Do you know what that is? Did you ever tell any human being that you were going to Mr. Coman to make out a case, in order that you might prove it against Mr. Munster?—I did.

4260. Whom did you tell that to?—Patrick Meagher.

4261. To anyone else?—No.

4262. Who is he?—He lives in Main-street.

4263. When did you tell it to him?—Every day I went to his shop, I told him I would get the money sooner or later, and make out a case against Mr. Munster.

121.

4264. You swear that?—Positively I told him 20 times.

4265. Then, in fact, all you did was to make out a case against him?—Yes; and I made it.

4266. Did you ever ask Coman to give you an order for whiskey?—Never; but Cunningham proposed it and I, standing at the Market House one day.

4267. On the first day that you went up, Patrick Laffan did not say anything to you then, if I understand you, about taking your house?—No; I never spoke to Patrick Laffan.

4268. Tell me what you said to Patrick Laffan when you went up?—To Corcoran's?

4269. Yes; the first time you saw him?—I went into a room in the house.

4270. What did you say to him?—He spoke to me.

4271. What did he say to you?—He told me that he had been talking to Coman about the whiskey, and that he did not like to get a third into it.

4272. And you said nothing to him?—I replied that it was better not.

4273. Did you ask him for money?—No.

4274. Did you not go up then to make out a case?—Sure he sent for me.

4275. Did you go there intending to make a case?—I did.

4276. You did not ask him for money?—No.

4277. You said nothing about your house?—No.

Re-examination of the Witness by Mr. Curtis.

4278. You said something just now about 10 guineas having been offered to you?—Yes.

4279. Who offered it to you?—Michael Laffan, the evening Quirk got the retainer, offered me five guineas first.

4280. Do you remember the time?—I do not.

4281. Was it before the election?—It was.

4282. Long before the election?—The very evening of the retainers; I told him on that evening that Quirk would not vote for Munster if he got a hundred pounds, and I asked what was the reason he got five guineas. He struck me on the shoulder, and said, "The reason I gave it to him was that he cannot vote for either now."

4283. Where did this occur?—Out from my own door about 40 yards, opposite Michael Quirk's, in the middle of the road.

4284. That was five guineas; what about the other five?—I was selling seven heifers outside Mrs. Corcoran's on the fair day; Mr. Laffan came to Mrs. Corcoran's door. "Are you in dread of me," said he. "No," said I, "I never was in dread of any one." He called me into the club room, and began to talk to me about Quirk's case; I said he was drunk when he got the five guineas retainer. "Well," said he, "anyone that will keep them, I will give him five guineas more."

4285. Mr. Hemphill.] Keep the retainers?—Yes, and won't speak about them; make them known, I suppose he meant.

4286. Mr. Curtis.] What did you say?—I said nothing about that. We had a long chat over the election, and he told me they had 5,000 l., I think, at the bank, and that they did

- C. Carroll.* not know how in the world to give it; that all they wanted was the way to give it out.
 17 February 1869. 4287. Did Mr. Laffan say that?—Yes.
 4288. What bank did you understand by that?—I suppose our own bank.
 4289. There is only one bank, the National Bank?—That is all. So we had a long chat, and just as we came out of the hotel, he offered me 10 guineas. “No,” said I, “I will vote at the election; I won’t be retained at all.”
 4290. What did he say about that 10 guineas; what did he offer it to you for?—To retain me, I suppose.
 4291. For what purpose?—As an agent; he told me I could not vote if I was retained.
 4292. Was it at the time he spoke of the 10 guineas that he told you you could not vote?—It was.
 4293. Mr. Butt.] He told you you could not vote if you acted as agent?—Yes.
 4294. Had you told him then that you would vote for Mr. Munster?—No.
 4295. Had you told him that you were going to vote for Mr. O’Beirne?—No.
 4296. Were not you then pretending to be a friend of his, and a supporter of his?—Sure I would not get into them at all, only——
 4297. Were you not pretending to be a friend of his?—Perhaps I was.
 4298. Were you not?—I suppose I was.
 4299. You were; and when you were pretending to be a friend of his, he wanted to retain you. You complained of another person being retained as agent at five guineas; and he told you he would give you 10 as agent; and that if you took it you could not vote. Is not that it?—Yes.

4300. Baron Fitzgerald.] Was this before or after you had the dealing with Coman about the 35 l.?—It was after it.

4301. Mr. Curtis.] Are you sure of that; are you quite sure whether it was before or afterwards?—What?

4302. Whether the 10 guinea transaction was before or after the transaction about the 35 l.?—It was before it.

4303. Baron Fitzgerald.] You have said twice before that it was after it?—It could not be after, because it was on Monday, the 16th, I got the money, and the fair day was a fortnight previous to that.

4304. Mr. Curtis.] Was it on the fair day?—It was on the fair day the ten guinea transaction happened. It was on Monday, three days before the election, I got the money.

[The Witness then retired.]

Mr. Butt.] Had you not better finish his case?

Mr. Hemphill.] I will take my own course.

Mr. Butt.] It will destroy the rule about witnesses being in court.

Baron Fitzgerald.] It is irregular to leave one part of the case and go on to another.

MARGARET HACKETT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

- M. Hackett.* 4305. WHAT is your husband’s name?—James Hackett.
 4306. He is a voter?—Yes.
 4307. Has he a brother?—He has two brothers, one in Ireland, and one in America.
 4308. What is your husband’s father’s name?—John Hackett.
 4309. Has he a vote?—Yes.
 4310. What is your brother-in-law’s name?—William.
 4311. Has he a vote?—He has.
 4312. Do you know Mr. Munster’s house at Abbey View?—I do.
 4313. Did you last October write a letter to Mr. Munster?—I did.
 4314. Where is that letter, do you know; did you leave it at Mr. Munster’s?—I did.
 4315. With whom did you leave it?—I gave it to the servant.

Mr. Hemphill.] We call on you to produce that letter.

Mr. Butt.] We know nothing about it.

4316. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] What is the substance of the letter?—I never spoke a word to anyone belonging to Mr. Munster before I took it; I heard Mr. Munster was a charitable man, a man very prodigal of money, and I merely wrote to him and told him that I wanted 10 l.; my husband knew nothing about it; my husband never knew a word of this the whole of the time.

4317. Could you tell what you wrote?—I merely told him that since I was married, seven or eight years ago, I had incurred debts now and then to the amount of 10 l., and if he would kindly assist me to pay it, I would make all my endeavours and use my influence over my husband, father-in-law and my brother, to get their votes; if he would give the money to pay the debt.

4318. Very good; you say you gave the letter to a servant in Mr. Munster’s house?—I did.

4319. Did you bring it to Mr. Munster’s, that gentleman there?—I was introduced, and the servant——.

4320. Were you shown into a room in the house?—I was.

4321. Was it a parlour or a sitting-room?—There were two rooms.

4322. You were introduced into a room; who was in it besides Mr. Munster; was that gentleman there that day?—Yes; Mr. Munster sat in a chair when I was introduced to him.

4323. Was anyone else in the room?—At the time I went into the room there was a lady.

4324. Do you know the lady’s name now?—I do not.

4325. Was there any other gentleman in the room besides Mr. Munster and the lady?—There was a gentleman sent for.

4326. Was the lady a young lady or an old lady?—She was a young lady.

4327. Was she dark or fair?—She was dark, I should think.

4328. Do you know, now, who that lady was; have you seen her since about Cashel?—There was another lady came into the room afterwards.

4329. But the lady you first saw; do you know who she is?—I think it was Miss Sterne.

4330. Another lady afterwards came into the room?—Yes.

4331. Do

4331. Do you know who the other lady is?—Yes.

4332. What is her name?—Miss Ede.

4333. Had you any talk with this lady and Mr. Munster when you got in; just tell what you said?—Mr. Munster asked me who wrote the letter, and did anyone know anything about it but myself; I told him not, and that I did not wish for the world that anyone should know it, for that it was unknown to my husband I did it.

4334. Did he or any of the ladies say anything?—He said I had no right to write such a letter to him.

4335. Did he say why?—No; he said that if he gave me money, or assisted me on that letter, I could injure him afterwards about it, sir; and I got frightened and was afraid he might just tell to the people, or my husband, that I had done such a thing.

4336. When he said you had no right to mention that in the letter that you wrote to him, did any of the ladies say anything?—Mr. Munster said he was not allowed to give money to any of the voters, or to buy votes.

4337. Did any of the ladies say anything; did Miss Ede?—Miss Ede asked Mr. Munster might she lend the money, for it was a lend of money that I asked of Mr. Munster in my letter.

4338. What did he say when Miss Ede asked him that?—He said she could not lend me money, and said something about her being too closely connected with himself.

4339. You said there was a gentleman in the room?—Yes.

4340. Did he say anything?—After a little deliberation the gentleman, who was standing with his back to the chimney-piece, said, “What do you think of this lady’s note to Mdle. de Montcœur; she is a very charitable person, and I am sure would consider her.”

4341. Do you know who that gentleman is?—I think it was Mr. Richardson.

4342. Did you see him afterwards in Cashel?—I did; to the best of my belief it was his face that was in the room that night.

4343. When Mr. Richardson spoke about writing to Mdle. de Montcœur, did Mr. Munster say anything?—I could not say that Mr. Munster made any reply then.

4344. Did any one say anything?—No; I think Mr. Munster said something, but I could not understand what it was; there was some insinuation about speaking to Mr. Laffan when he would come down.

4345. Did you leave the house then?—I did, and they said they would speak to Mr. Laffan.

4346. That is, Mr. Michael Laffan, that young gentleman there?—Yes.

4347. Did you see him?—Yes; I rapped at his hall door.

4348. Did you tell Mr. Laffan?—I told him that I wrote to Mr. Munster that I wanted money, and that I would not wish for 2,000*l.* that any person in Cashel, or my husband, should know what I had done.

4349. What did Mr. Laffan say when you said that?—He said that he would see after it; he said something about his going down to Mr. Munster, and that he would see after it.

4350. Did you say anything when you told him about having written about votes, or anything of that sort?—I don’t remember.

4351. Very well: after that, did you write to any one else; you went home; did you write to Miss Ede?—Yes; Mr. Munster told me before I left the room, that I should write up to this young lady, and state what I wanted, to her.

4352. Before you left the room and went to Mr. Laffan, that you should write to Miss Ede, and state what you wanted, to her?—Yes. He did not not say Miss Ede, but to “this young lady”; I did not know that Miss Ede was her name.

4353. Did you write the letter to her?—I did, sir; I addressed her as Mademoiselle Munster; I thought she was his daughter.

4354. What was the substance of your letter to Miss Ede?—It was just the very same as I wrote to Mr. Munster; but I spoke nothing about votes.

4355. Did you go with that letter yourself to Abbey view?—I did; I would not trust anyone else with it.

4356. What did you do with it?—I gave it to a servant.

4357. Did you see Miss Ede, after that, the day you brought the letter?—The very time, I went in and saw her.

4358. Did you see Mr. Munster on that visit?—Mr. Munster was passing from one room to another; he saw me, and told me to sit down on a small chair in the hall.

4359. After that, did you see Miss Ede?—I did.

4360. Tell us what conversation you had with Miss Ede; what passed between you?—Miss Ede gave me a letter; she came out and gave me a letter.

4361. Did she say something to you?—She told me, this was a letter in answer to the letter I wrote to Mr. Munster on the evening before; and she gave me an envelope, with a direction to Mademoiselle de Montcœur, and told me, she had written what I wanted to that young lady, and that she might give me what I wanted.

4362. Did she say, “young lady”?—I asked her who, and she said, this lady whose direction is on it.

4363. Do you know, was the direction on the envelope?—It was, and a stamp on it.

4364. I presume you are able to read and write?—Yes.

4365. Do you recollect the direction in London?—I do.

4366. What was it?—Mademoiselle de Montcœur, 41 Brompton-square, London, South East.

4367. Did you write, pursuant to that, to Mademoiselle de Montcœur?—I did.

4368. What was the substance of your letter to her?—I told her that I applied to Mr. Munster for a certain amount, and that after I got married I got into debt, just as I told Mr. Munster, and that I applied to Mr. Munster before for the money, and that he could not give it to me on account of my being the wife of one voter and the daughter of another, but that Mademoiselle Munster, or rather the young lady who lived with him, directed me to write to her.

4369. When you were getting the envelope from

M. Hackett.

17 February
1869.

M. Hackett. from Miss Ede, did you get any letter?—I did.

17 February
1869.

4370. Do you recollect what was in that letter?—I recollect the substance of it; I sent it to London, to the young lady in London, to let her see that I was not imposing on her.

4371. You first wrote to Mdle. de Montcœur, as you said, making the application?—Yes.

4372. Now, did you get any answer to the first letter that you wrote to Mdle. de Montcœur?—No.

4373. Did you write a second letter?—I did.

4374. And you posted that letter yourself in the post office, Cashel?—I did.

4375. Did you write a second letter to Mdle. de Montcœur?—I did.

4376. What was the second letter?—To let her see that I was not imposing on her I enclosed to her the letter I received from Miss Ede on my first application to Mr. Munster.

4377. Can you tell what was the substance of Miss Ede's letter that you enclosed to Mdle. de Montcœur?—As nearly as I recollect it was: Dear madame, I have been commissioned by Mr. Munster to tell you that, on account of fearing to influence the votes, or something to that effect, he can never consider you, but feeling much sympathy for what you have made known to me yourself, I will try to consider you amongst my own friends.

4378. Did you get any answer to your second letter to Mdle. de Montcœur?—Yes; I got an answer to the first or second letter she sent me, but the one.

4379. Did you get an answer after you sent the second letter?—I did; there was a short letter, and a cheque for the amount that I required.

4380. What did you do with the letter and cheque that you received from Mdle. de Montcœur?—I was afraid my husband would find out the letter, and I tore it up into small bits, and threw it behind the most obscure part of the house.

4381. Show it to me. (The Witness handed to Counsel a little parcel.)

4382. Was there anything enclosed in this letter?—There was a cheque.

4383. Have you brought the cheque up to Miss Ede?—Yes; in my letter to Mdle. de Montcœur I told her that I was told by Miss Ede, in order that it might not be made payable through the bank or the post office, to have the cheque made payable by her to me, and I got the cheque then.

4384. Made payable by her?—By Miss Ede to me.

4385. Then you brought Miss Ede the cheque?—Yes.

4386. Did Miss Ede cash the cheque for you?—She did.

4387. Do you know on what bank the cheque was; did you read the cheque?—I read my own name on it, payable to Mrs. Margaret Hackett, and, to the best of my belief, there was some name like Coups or Coutts on it.

4388. When Miss Ede cashed this cheque what did she give you?—She gave me a Bank of England 5 l. note and five sovereigns.

4389. Up at Abbey view?—Yes.

4390. Was there any one by when she gave you that?—No one was in the room when I went in to her; but she sent out for Miss Sterne, she said she had not enough of money.

4391. Did Miss Sterne come in?—She did.

4392. Did you write your name across that cheque?—I did.

4393. Did she ask you to do it?—She did.

4394. To put your own name on the back of it?—Yes.

4395. You took away the money?—I did.

4396. What did you do with the 5 l. Bank of England note?—I took it to the bank.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

4397. You asked for charity?—I did.

4398. And you wanted to keep it a secret from everybody?—And my husband in particular.

4399. I say you wanted to keep it a secret from everybody?—I did.

4400. And you did keep it a secret?—I did until Mr. Cunningham made a boast of it about the town, all Mr. Munster's counsel could do, about my asking for money and writing to him at all, and by the advice of Mr. O'Connell who told me everything that was insinuated, I was obliged to put myself under the protection of 4401. Of Mr. Grace?—Of Mr. O'Beirne's counsel.

4402. How soon after you got the 5 l. note and the five sovereigns did you tell it?—I never told it.

4403. How soon?—Three weeks after the election Mr. O'Connor returned it to me at Mathew Hanly's.

4404. Who is O'Connor?—Thomas O'Connor.

4405. Is that Tom Connor?—It is.

4406. That man there; look at him?—It is not.

4407. Is it his brother?—Yes; that is he.

4408. You know he was on Mr. O'Beirne's side, didn't you?—I did.

4409. And your husband, and your father-in-law, and your brother-in-law all voted for Mr. O'Beirne?—They did.

4410. Then you never influenced them to give a vote to Mr. Munster?—I did not tell my husband the reason why I was.

4411. Did you ever try to influence them in favour of Mr. Munster?—I told them it was better for them to vote for Mr. Munster, but I was afraid to tell —

4412. You got 10 l.?—Yes.

4413. Did you look on that as the price of three votes in Cashel, 3 l. 6 s. 8 d. a vote; did you ever hear of them being so low as that?—I thought it was for charity; I got it until O'Connor told me they were going to make a handle of me about it, and I knew it was not for charity I got it then.

4414. You thought it was for charity?—She knowing I was in want of it.

4415. And you asked it for charity?—I did not not ask it for charity ; I asked it to influence the votes.

4416. Did you say, on your oath, that you got it in charity?—But then the answers I got from the letter showed me that Mr. Munster was not inclined to give it to me, and that he considered that, on account of my wanting it, he would give it to me; I thought at first——

4417. Never mind what you thought; when did you give your evidence to Mr. Grace?—I did not give it to him until two or three nights ago.

4418. Did you get any charity since?—No, sir, nor did not ask it.

4419. Or your husband?—No.

4420. Is your husband's name John?—James.

4421. Where do you live?—In Cashel.

4422. Was your house taken?—No.

4423. Who canvassed you?—I was canvassed by Mr. Munster and Mr. O'Beirne.

4424. Who was with Mr. Munster?—A multitude of people

4425. Was Captain Graham?—He was not.

4426. You cannot tell the name of a single person?—I could; there were Mr. Cody, Mr. Michael Hewly, and Dr. Coyle.

4427. Was that on the day of the public canvass?—I should think so; I made no remark as to the day.

Re-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

4428. When were you first canvassed by Mr. Munster?—I could not tell you.

4429. Was it before you wrote that letter?—It was not.

4430. What was the date of that letter?—I think it was on the 28th of October.

[The Witness retired.

The Court was then adjourned to Ten o'clock on the following Morning.

M. Hackett.

Thursday, 18th February, 1869.

1869.

The Court sat at ten o'clock, pursuant to adjournment.

Counsel and attorneys appeared as before.

Mr. Hemphill.] I read the account lodged with the sheriff.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Have you totted the amount?—

Mr. Hemphill.] Between 1,600 l. and 1,700 l.

GERALD FITZGERALD, Esq., Sub-Sheriff, recalled; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

G.
Fitzgerald,
Esq.

4431. Do you produce this account?—I do; I got no vouchers; I got the account in an envelope; I don't know from whom it came.

4432. On what day did you get it?—On the 11th of February.

PATRICK CUNNINGHAM, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

P.
Cunningham.

4433. WHAT business are you in?—I am in general business with my father.

4434. Do you live in Cashel?—Yes.

4435. Have you got a vote?—No.

4436. Has your father a vote?—He has.

4437. Were you employed by Mr. Munster at the late election?—By Michael Laffan.

4438. What were you employed as?—General business, keeping the accounts, and so on.

4439. Give his Lordship an account of the duties you had to perform in connection with the election?—The paying of several bills for car drivers and other necessities that were required.

4440. Are you not, generally speaking, the clerk to Mr. Laffan, or working for him?—No; still I often do business for him.

4441. When did you begin to work for Mr. Laffan in respect to the election?—I think in October, as well as I can recollect.

4442. Try and recollect?—I could not point out the exact day.

4443. Was it before October?—Early in October.

4444. Was it before Mr. Munster arrived in Cashel?—No.

4445. Was it after he arrived in Cashel?—I think it was before he arrived; I wrote some circulars.

4446. What sort of circulars?—His address.

4447. Did you compose it?—No.

4448. Did you get it printed?—No.

4449. What did you do about them?—I directed some of them to the electors.

4450. In envelopes?—Yes.

4451. What money did you get for your own services?—I got 30 l.

4452. Was that all you got for your services?—That is all I got at present.

4453. Do you know Mr. George Richardson?—Yes, I did not know him before he came.

4454. I am speaking of what you know now?—Yes.

4455. He was agent for election expenses?—I don't exactly know; I believe he was.

4456. Have you any doubt of it?—I could not say.

4457. Did you furnish him with an account of your own demand?—I did.

4458. How much did you furnish to him?—I furnished him with an account for my services of 100 l.

4459. Did you receive any portion of that 100 l.?—No, only 30 l.

4460. Was it after you furnished that 100 l. account that you got the 30 l.?—No; previously I deducted the 30 l. out of my bill.

4461. Did you give detailed items?—No.

4462. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] You claim 100 l. in addition to 30 l.?—No, my Lord; 70 l. in addition to the 30 l.; 100 l. altogether.

4463. Mr. Hemphill.] What did you say in the bill?—For the amount of my services during the election.

4464. About what time did you send that bill in?—I sent it in before three weeks after the election.

4465. After the polling on the 20th November?—Yes.

4466. Was Mr. Richardson in Manchester or Cashel when you sent it in?—I don't know; he was in Manchester I think.

4467. Did you send it by post?—No.

4468. How did you send it?—I sent it to Mr. Laffan.

4469. Did he say that he would forward it to Mr. Richardson?—He did not say.

4470. Did he say anything to you on the subject of it?—No.

4471. Did he look at the bill?—He did.

4472. Did he say it was too much or too little?—He said nothing, but merely laughed, and put it on the file.

4473. Did he not object?—He objected to no bill; he took in all the bills, no matter how much they were.

4474. When were you paid the 30 l.?—In October.

4475. By whom?—By a cheque from Mr. Richardson.

4476. On the National Bank?—Yes.

4477. How long before the election were you paid the 30 l.?—As well as I can recollect it was in October.

4478. For whom did your father vote?—He voted for Mr. Munster.

4479. Had

*P.
Cunningham.*
1869.

4479. Had he a vote at the former election?—He had.

4480. For whom did he vote on the former occasion?—Mr. O'Beirne.

4481. Do you know Mr. Patrick Laffan?—Yes, I know him.

4482. He is a brother of Mr. Michael Joseph Laffan?—Yes.

4483. He is, as I understand, a young medical student?—I believe so.

4484. Isn't he?—I don't exactly know.

4485. Was he in Cashel for five, or six, or seven weeks before the election?—He was.

4486. Where was he living?—With his brother.

4487. Mr. Michael Joseph Laffan?—Yes.

4488. Was he very active for Mr. Munster?—No, not very active.

4489. Was Mr. Pat Laffan doing anything in respect to the election?—I don't exactly know.

4490. What was he doing?—I could not exactly say.

4491. Was he going about asking voters for their votes?—I do not know.

4492. Did you ever go about with him?—Yes, but not to ask for votes.

4493. What did you go about with him for?—I accompanied him several times through the streets, but I never waited on any voter.

4494. For what?—Different business.

4495. State to his Lordship what the general nature of the business was?—I went with him several times; he gave me orders to go and employ the cars, and to send them to Mr. Munster, and several other necessary things.

4496. You know there is no harm in what you are saying; I only want you to give an account of the general nature of the duties of you and Pat Laffan in connection with the election?—I told you what my duties were before; I do not know what Pat Laffan's were.

4497. Did you see him doing anything?—I never took note of what he was doing; I took charge of my own business, and never minded what Mr. Pat Laffan was doing.

4498. Did you see Mr. Munster frequently the week before the election?—No, only very seldom.

4499. Did you ever see him?—I did see him driving through the town.

4500. Were you ever up at Abbey View?—I was.

4501. What were you there about?—I went with messages.

4502. From whom?—From Mr. Michael Laffan; I often took up letters there, and so on.

4503. In connection with the election?—I don't know what they were about.

4504. Did you ever receive any messages from Mr. Munster yourself?—No.

4505. On your oath, of any sort?—I may have got a letter.

4506. Did you ever receive any verbal message from Mr. Munster?—No.

4507. You know how to write?—Yes.

4508. Look at this envelope; is that your handwriting; "Mr. John Canan"?—Yes.

4509. Is the word Cashel in your handwriting?—Yes.

4510. Did you ever receive any money for business connected with the election from any one or party?—Yes.

4511. From whom?—From Mr. Pat Laffan.

4512. How much money did you receive?—I got 50*l.* from him.

4513. In what form; was it a cheque?—No, in notes.

4514. Bank notes?—Yes.

4515. What sort were they, National Bank?—I think they were 5*l.*, as well as I can recollect.

4516. When did Mr. Pat Laffan give you these?—Two days previously to my taking Carroll's house; I will just state to his Lordship—

4517. Now, you will answer my question; did you never receive any sum of money from anybody in connection with the election except the 50 l.; I am speaking now of the 30 l. you told me of?—Oh, I received several sums.

4518. I want you to tell me what they were?—I could not; I did not take a note of what I received, for I paid them out in paltry sums.

4519. Whom did you receive the money from?—Some from Michael and some from Mr. Pat Laffan.

4520. Did you receive any money from any other parties except Pat and Michael Laffan?—No.

4521. For what purpose did you receive the money you refer to?—For paying small bills.

4522. Connected with the election?—Yes.

4523. What was the nature of the bills generally?—I paid a small bill to O'Donnell for some drink.

4524. What is his Christian name?—Thomas O'Donnell.

4525. Is he a publican?—He is.

4526. How much did you pay to Thomas O'Donnell for drink?—A paltry sum, I think over 1 l.

4527. When was that?—I think it was in October, about the end of October.

4528. Is this Thomas O'Donnell a voter?—Yes.

4529. Did he vote for Mr. Munster?—He did.

4530. Do you mean to say you only paid him 1 l.?—I think it was something over 1 l., as well as I can recollect; it might be a little more.

4531. Did you pay him all in a lump?—Oh, it was not so large; I did.

4532. Did you ever pay him more than that one?—Well, not that I recollect.

4533. Try and recollect?—I don't know; I think I did not pay him altogether 3 l.; I think the sum I paid him was 1 l. 3*s.*

4534. Might you have paid him 3 l.?—Well, I think not.

4535. What other paltry sums did you receive from the Laffans to pay; try and think?—I told you before that I took no notes; I have often got 3 l. or 4 l. or 5 l. a day; I gave some money to Hourigan; I generally got it from Laffan for the town and so on; for car owners and car drivers.

4536. £. 3, 4*l.*, or 5 l. a day?—Yes, on some days; some days not so much was required.

4537. How long was that going on before the election?—It may be for three weeks or a month, as Mr. Munster had a great deal of car driving to and fro.

4538. Did you ever go to the Commons?—I did.

4539. Who went with you; did you go more than once?—I did.

4540. Who went with you?—I do not know that there was anyone with me but the driver.

4541. What did you go for?—I went out to the voters to see what they were intending to do.

M 4542. To

P.
Cunningham.
 —
 18 February
 1869.

4542. To ask them for their votes?—No.
 4543. Well, what was it you went there for; what did you go for, sir?—I wanted to know whom they were intending to support.
 4544. Did you ascertain whom they intended to support?—No.
 4545. They did not tell you?—No.
 4546. Did you ask them to vote for Mr. Munster?—No.
 4547. On your oath, do you tell his Lordship that you did not ask them to vote for Mr. Munster?—No, not that I can recollect.
 4548. How many times did you come there?—I think I went four or five times to the Commons.
 4549. Did you go on cars?—Yes.
 4550. Was it on your own car?—I went on my own car two or three times.
 4551. Did you go on hired cars?—I did.
 4552. Did you pay for the hired cars?—I did not.
 4553. Did Mr. Laffan pay for you?—I could not say.
 4554. Was the car driver settled with?—Yes.
 4555. Were you paid for your own car when you used it?—Decidedly so.
 4556. Who paid for it?—Mr. Laffan did.
 4557. Michael or Pat Laffan?—No, it was not he gave me the cheque.
 4558. From whom did you get it?—From young Mr. Close, I think.
 4559. Young Mr. Harry Close?—No, not Harry; I don't know his name; the younger brother.
 4560. It was the gentleman who was examined?—No.
 4561. When did you get the cheque?—After the election.
 4562. Was it for 30 l.?—No, 19 l. 12 s.
 4563. Was that for car-hire?—For car-hire.
 4564. Whose cheque was it; it was not Close's?—No.
 4565. Whose was it?—I could not say.
 4566. Did you cash the cheque?—I did.
 4567. Did you read it?—No, I only read the amount; I could not say what signature was to it; I did not mind whether it was Laffan's or Mr. Munster's, or Mr. Richardson's; I think it was Mr. Richardson's.
 4568. Where did you cash it?—At the National Bank; it was not I cashed it, but my father.
 4569. About what time did you get it?—I think it was in December.
 4570. What was the precise amount?—£.19 12 s., I think.
 4571. Did you furnish no detailed account of that 19 l. 12 s. to anyone?—Yes.
 4572. To whom?—To Mr. Michael Laffan.
 4573. And all that was, as I understand it, for car-hire, in going to the Commons, and elsewhere?—Yes.
 4574. Now, besides, I must ask you, Mr. Cunningham, and I will give you as much time as you like to reflect, how much money did you get altogether of what you call paltry sums; about how much?—I could not say, I kept no account, no note of it.
 4575. Did you get 100 l.?—I don't know; I will not say.
 4576. Will you swear you did not get 100 l.?—I will not swear.
 4577. Did you get any cheques except the 19 l. 12 s. you have mentioned for any account or any purpose?—Yes.

4578. When?—I got a cheque last Saturday week.

4579. For what?—For oats supplied to Mr. Munster; 11 l. 4 s.

4580. When was it supplied?—Since the 30th November.

4581. I do not want to go into any recent transactions with Mr. Munster and you, but besides that cheque of 19 l. 12 s. did you get any cheque from Mr. Laffan, Mr. Munster, or any one of that party?—Yes, I did; but not on my own account.

4582. Whose cheque was it?—It was signed by Mr. Laffan with some small cheques on the bank.

4583. Was that before the election?—I think it was after the election.

4584. How many cheques did you bring altogether to the bank?—Oh, I could not say.

4585. I must ask you to reflect?—I could not say; I do not think I brought more than three or four.

4586. Did you read any of them?—No, I did not.

4587. Come, can you tell his Lordship whose drafts they were; who signed them?—Mr. Laffan signed some.

4588. Who signed the others?—Whatever cheques I got they were from Mr. Laffan; they were for his private use.

4589. I am not asking you the use they were for, but did you get any cheques signed by Miss Ede?—No.

4590. Are you sure of that?—Oh, the last cheque I got was given, I think, by Miss Ede, for the oats.

4591. Did you get any cheques signed by Miss Sterne?—No, not that I can recollect; I think no, my Lord.

4592. I ask you again, do you mean to tell his Lordship that you cannot tell who signed the cheque for the 19 l. 12 s.?—I cannot recollect; I think it was Mr. Richardson, as well as I recollect; of course the cheque is there.

4593. Now, besides these small cheques that you have mentioned, and the moneys that you have mentioned, and the 19 l. 12 s. cheque, did you get any other cheque from Mr. Munster, or any one of his party?—No.

4594. Did your father, to your knowledge?—No, he did not, not a penny.

4595. Do you know a man named Pat Meagher?—Yes.

4596. He is a publican?—Yes.

4597. Did you ask Pat Meagher for his vote before the election?—No.

4598. You swear that?—I will.

4599. Did you ever talk to Pat Meagher about which way he would vote?—No.

4600. Did you talk to him at all about the election, before the election?—No; he came to me several times.

4601. Did you ever offer him 35 l.?—No.

4602. Did you ever offer him any sum of money?—No.

4603. On your oath?—I had a conversation with him the night I took Carroll's house; he and Carroll went down to my father's twice, looking for me, to see whether I would take Carroll's house; I was in Corcoran's hotel, upstairs in a room, taking a glass of wine, when Carroll came; I told Carroll I did not want to have have anything to do with Meagher; that I did not want his house; that I was after taking his place that day, and wanted no more. He said, "You had better see him." "No," said I, "I don't want to see him." He persevered, and Meagher came in; I told Meagher that I had sufficient taken, and that I did not require it; he persevered and pressed me, and said how was it I would not take his house as well as Carroll's; he said he would vote for no one unless his house was taken, or unless he was paid; he said then that he was after opening in business, and in want of money, and that if I took his place it would do him a service; I refused then, and he persevered so much on me that, to get rid of him, I said, "I will borrow 20 l. from my father, and give it to you on an I O U for three months, if you are so badly off for money." He said no more, but went out.

4604. Were you to give him back the I O U after the election?—No, not a word about it.

4605. Are you quite sure of that?—Quite sure.

4606. How many public-houses were orders given for, by or on behalf of Mr. Munster during the election?—Oh, I could not say that.

4607. How many do you know of?—Well, I think that only four were taken.

4608. Give the names?—Reilly; there were three or four together, I think, my Lord.

Mr. Hemphill here called attention to the fact that some witnesses were in court.

Baron Fitzgerald.] They should leave the court; tell me who they are? (It was stated that Mr. Coman was in court; and Mr. Coman, who was present, said he had come for Mrs. Coman.)

4609. Mr. Hemphill (to Witness).] You were mentioning the names of the publicans?—Rody Fogarty, John Reilly, Donnell, Mrs. O'Donnell.

4610. Anyone else?—No; there was some small order given to Edmond Broe.

4611. What was the order for?—For drink.

4612. No others, Mr. Cunningham?—No; Mr. Sullivan, I think.

4613. Had those parties that you mention all votes except Mrs. O'Donnell?—Yes.

4614. Did you pay any of those parties?—No, only a small sum to Donnell.

4615. You did not pay the others?—No.

4616. Did they furnish accounts to Mr. Laffan?—I don't know.

4617. What house or rooms were taken for the purposes of the election by Mr. Munster, or on his behalf?—I don't know; I took two myself.

4618. Which were the two?—A man named Phelan's.

4619. Where is it?—At the back of the "Pipe."

4620. What did you pay him?—£. 30.

4621. When did you take it?—About a week or a fortnight before the election.

4622. Is he a voter?—Yes.

4623. Whom did he vote for?—Mr. Munster.

4624. What part of the house did you take?—I took two rooms upstairs on the first landing.

4625. How many rooms?—Two.

4626. What did you take them for?—Committee-rooms.

4627. Had Mr. Munster a committee?—No; tally-rooms.

121.

4628. Then they were taken for tally-rooms?—Yes.

4629. Were they used?—No, we did not want them.

4630. Were they used at all in any way?—No, they were not.

4631. Was he paid by a cheque?—No.

4632. How was he paid?—He is not paid.

4633. What was he to be paid?—Mrs. Phelan, that I took the rooms from, was offered 25 l. by O'Beirne's party; she will get 30 l.

4634. What was the other house?—A man named Dwyers.

4635. Is he a voter?—Yes.

4636. What is his Christian name?—Francis.

4637. Did he vote for O'Beirne or Munster?—For Mr. Munster.

4638. When did you take his rooms?—I took them early in November.

4639. What rooms did you take from him?—I wanted a private bed-room.

4640. How much did you pay him, or agree to pay him?—£. 30.

4641. Has he been paid?—I cannot say, I did not pay him.

4642. Was it you made the agreement?—It was.

4643. Was anyone present?—No.

4644. Was Pat Laffan with you when you made it?—No.

4645. Whom did you mention the agreement to?—I think it was to Pat Laffan.

4646. Did you mention it to Michael Laffan?—No.

4647. Did you to Mr. Munster?—No.

4648. Baron Fitzgerald.] Who told you to do it?—Mr. Pat Laffan.

4649. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you take any other, houses besides Phelan's and Dwyer's?—No; only Carroll's.

4650. Are you aware that other houses were taken for or on behalf of Mr. Munster?—I will not say.

4651. You did not know whether any other houses were taken or not?—Anything that I did—I am not prepared to account for others.

4652. Did you hear from Mr. Laffan whether other houses were taken?—No, I did not; I did not ask any person.

4653. Did you hear?—Oh, he might have said several things that I did not take a note of.

4654. Did I understand you to tell his Lordship that you never heard any of Mr. Munster's party saying that other houses had been taken?—I did not want to inquire into these things at all; only what I was forced to do myself I did.

4655. Then you were forced to do what you have told?—Yes; what I have told.

4656. Was Dwyer's house used?—No.

4657. Did any one sleep in the room you took?—No; there were some parties belonging to Mr. Munster, some coachman, or some one, and they came down to Corcoran's, and I was informed by Mr. Pat Laffan that they wanted a bed-room.

4658. Do you know where Mr. Pat Laffan is now?—No.

4659. When did you see him last in Cashel?—I think it was the end of November, as well as I can say; the end of November or December; I cannot say exactly the date.

4660. Did you hear from Mr. Munster where Mr. Laffan was?—No.

4661. Did you hear from Mr. Michael Laffan that he had left Ireland?—No.

4662. You

P.
Cunningham.
18 February
1869.

P. Cunningham.
18 February 1869.

4662. You swear that?—I do.

4663. What was his address in Dublin?—I do not know; I never wrote to him.

4664. You did not know where he was stopping in Dublin?—No.

4665. You have not seen him in Cashel since the time of the election?—No.

4666. How soon after the election did he leave Cashel?—I think in November or the early part of December.

4667. How was it you went to Carroll about his house?—No, I did not go to him.

4668. Did he come to you?—Yes; I saw him on Saturday immediately after Ryan and Murnane's; I had Ryan and Murnane's house taken on Wednesday; the week before the election I took Ryan's house for myself; Ryan came over to me—

4669. I am not asking you as to that; I am asking you now about Carroll?—Well, I am stating about how I gave the money to Carroll.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Answer the question, and then give the explanation.

4670. Mr. Hemphill (to Witness).] Had you and Pat Laffan any conversation with Carroll in Corcoran's hotel?—No.

4671. Were you in Corcoran's hotel with him at all?—I was.

4672. Did you go into another room in Corcoran's with him?—I did.

4673. Which room?—The room, I think, on the second landing.

4674. Was there any one by at the time but yourselves?—No.

4675. Did you say anything about wanting a part of his house and yard?—Yes.

4676. What did he say?—He said what use do you want it for; I said I could not give him a decided answer at present as to what use I would put it to.

4677. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you know the house before?—Yes.

4678. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you say, "Don't you know what I mean"?—No.

4679. Are you sure of that?—I am.

4680. What exactly did you say?—I said we would not put him to any inconvenience, I was sure; I asked him what he wanted for it; he said 40 l.; I offered him 30 l.; he said he would not take that, that it was too small; then he said we would divide it, and I consented; that was 35 l. So then I refused to give him the money, and he said he would not give his place without getting the money. The only objection I had to giving the money was, on account of what happened about Ryan's and Murnane's house, that was taken on the Wednesday previous to the Saturday; they returned me the money on Thursday morning; I had Ryan's receipt drawn by Murnane, and signed by Ryan, and he had 50 l. in his possession for a day and a night.

4681. Did you see Carroll afterwards in the street?—Yes, after I took his place; in about an hour or so.

4682. Did you ask him then would you leave him the half notes?—No.

4683. What did you say about half notes to Carroll?—I objected first to giving him money, on account of the way I was treated by Ryan and Murnane; and then I offered him the half notes. He said he would take no half notes. "Well," said I, "what guarantee will you give me for the money?" He said he would give me no guarantee, and I objected to give him the money.

4684. I ask you what you said to Carroll with respect to the half notes; you must have said something to him as to what he was to do with them, or something to that effect. Tell his Lordship what you said to him?—I asked him would he have half notes for using his place; he said he would not, but refused at once, my Lord.

4685. What was he to do with the half notes?—He asked me how long would I want his place, and I said I could not fix the time.

4686. What was said about the other half notes?—Nothing was said; I said I would keep them.

4687. Until when?—I did not say when; I pointed out no time.

4688. You pointed out no time; did you not point out that you would give him the other half on Friday afternoon?—Not that I recollect.

4689. Did you, after this conversation, go back with him to Corcoran's hotel?—Yes.

4690. Did you go up into a room with him?—After that conversation with him?

4691. Yes?—No.

4692. Did you go up at any time at all. I am not speaking of what you told us about the room. Did you go a second time to that hotel with him?—No, not a second time.

4693. Did you produce any money to him?—Yes, I had the money in my possession at that time.

4694. Where?—In my pocket.

4695. Where did you show him the money first?—In Corcoran's hotel.

4696. Was it on the same occasion that you first spoke to him about the price of the room that you showed him the money?—Yes.

4697. Are you sure of that?—I am.

4698. Why did you show him the money when you had not settled the price?—It was when we introduced Mr. Corcoran's name as to leaving it in his hands that the money was shown.

4699. When you wrote the name of John Coman on the envelope; when did you write the name of John Coman on the envelope?—It was at that very same time in Corcoran's hotel.

4700. Did you put the money in a closed envelope?—Yes.

4701. After that, did you say if Coman's kept the letter it would do, or something to that effect?—Yes; I refused to give him the money on account of the way I was treated by Ryan; we proposed, as Carroll was always dealing with Coman, to leave the money in his hands.

4702. Did you and he go to Coman's with the envelope?—Yes.

4703. Did you see Mr. Coman there?—Yes.

4704. Did you ask him to leave the notes with Mrs. Coman's?—Well, I may have said so; I said nothing about the notes.

4705. Did you say you would leave the letter?—Yes, as well as I can recollect.

4706. Did you ask him to take a glass of brandy?—Well, I don't know that I did; I may have done so.

4707. Did you ask for Mr. Coman's, the master?—Yes; and she said he was out.

4708. And that she would send for him?—Yes.

4709. You and he after that met Coman; he came in?—Yes.

4710. Did you say anything to Mr. Coman?—No.

4711. Did he say there was 35 l.?—No; not a word about the money.

4712. What

4712. What did he say to Coman?—To leave the letter in his hands, for some time.

4713. What did Coman say?—Mr. Coman said, he would not have anything to do with it at all.

4714. Did Mr. Coman know what was in the letter at that time?—No.

4715. Did you see Coman then go into the kitchen?—Yes; Coman and Carroll went into the kitchen.

4716. Did you see a man named Feehan there?—Yes; I think I saw him passing out of the dram-shop.

4717. Was there any conversation between them about whisky, in your hearing?—Yes.

4718. What was it?—Not on that day.

4719. On another day?—Yes; previous to that.

4720. I will come to that afterwards?—Did Carroll come out of the kitchen, after going with Coman, and see you again?—Yes.

4721. Did you then give him the envelope?—After some hesitation; I was coming away; I think, as well as I recollect, Coman's said to me, "What arrangement have you made with Carroll about his place, I think you may rely on him; he will stick to his work"; or to that effect.

4722. And did you give him the letter then?—I gave him the letter then.

4723. Did you say anything to him when you were giving him the letter?—No.

4724. Did you say anything?—No, but handed him the letter, up in the back yard.

4725. You did not say anything about looking for information?—No, not at that time.

4726. At what time did you say something to that effect?—In about an hour or so afterwards I said that he had a great deal of knowledge, being so long connected with O'Beirne's party and his friends, who were all retained by them and employed; and that whatever information he would inform us of connected with the election we would pay him for, along with taking his place.

4727. That you would pay him?—Yes; and get him paid.

4728. What did he say when you told him that?—He said; I don't know what reply he made; I think what he said was that "they won't know I have set my place to you at all, and no one will know it until the day of the election whom I will vote for, and then I will go up and vote."

4729. Did you tell Mr. Michael Laffan all about this?—No.

4730. Did Mr. Pat Laffan know it?—Oh, I told him I took his place.

4731. Did you tell him you gave him 35 l.?—No, I did—

4732. Did you tell Mr. Michael Laffan that you had given him the 35 l.?—No; I only told Mr. Pat Laffan.

4733. What did you do with the balance of 15 l.?—I gave it to Pat Laffan.

4734. When?—I gave him about 8 l. of it. I paid some small bills. Immediately after that I wanted some money, the same day, and I took it out of the 15 l.

4735. You paid some of the election bills?—Yes.

4736. You were going to tell me the conversation about the whisky that you heard between Comans and Carroll?—Previous to the taking of the house, about a week or ten days, on Sunday about one o'clock, Coman and Michael Laffan together were going up to the news room. I was just coming down, and Carroll came up and proposed either to Michael Laffan or Coman to get him some whisky, to the amount of 30 l. or 40 l., and that he would support Mr. Munster.

4737. What did Coman's say to that?—Coman objected at once; Michael Laffan said it was impossible, that he could do nothing in that way.

4738. Was there anything said about a third party coming in?—No.

4739. But Michael Laffan was present at the conversation?—He was.

4740. And he says it was impossible to do it?—Yes.

4741. That was a week or ten days before the rooms were taken?—Yes.

4742. Had Pat Laffan given you the 50 l. at the time of that conversation?—No, he had not.

4743. It was subsequent to that?—Yes.

4744. Was any one present when Pat Laffan gave you the 50 l.?—No.

4745. Was it at Michael's office he gave it to you?—No, in Corcoran's hotel.

4746. I believe that was Mr. Munster's committee-rooms?—No, he had no committee-rooms.

4747. Had he taken the whole hotel?—No, I think he had the first landing.

4748. Was it in one of the rooms on the first landing that the 50 l. were given to you?—Yes.

4749. I see in these expenses 248 l. for Corcoran's hotel bill; was there much drinking going on in Corcoran's hotel before the election?—No, not a great deal.

4750. Do you mean to say that?—I do.

4751. Did you ever see any voters in there at all?—I did.

4752. Did they get refreshments when they were there?—Very little.

4753. Did they get any?—Yes, they got some before the nomination day, a week or ten days.

4754. How many of them had you seen there from time to time?—I think there were about fifty or sixty there one night Michael Laffan came down.

4755. What night was that?—I think about the 1st or 2nd of November; some time early in November.

4756. Did Michael Laffan entertain them at dinner or at an evening party?—No; there was no party; he only just came down; this was the first time that he came down.

4757. Was there much liquoring going on?—No, no liquoring when Michael Laffan came down.

4758. Was there before he came?—No; there were a few bottles of wine.

4759. Do you call spirits liquor?—No; wine.

4760. Would you call wine liquor?—No; you may call it what you like.

4761. There were a few bottles of wine?—Yes.

4762. Champagne?—No.

4763. Port and sherry?—Sherry.

4764. Were you present when these retainers were given to the voters, what is called the five-guinea retainers?—No; I never saw any of them since.

4765. You don't know anything about them?—(No answer.)

4766. Baron Fitzgerald.] You got a receipt?—Yes.

4767. Baron Fitzgerald.] Have you got it?—I gave it, I think, to Mr. Ryan when I got the money.

P.
Cunningham.
1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

4768. You gave that receipt back?—Back to Ryan.

4769. And you got back 50*l.* from Ryan?—I got back my 50*l.*

4770. Had you any written agreement with Ryan about the house?—I had.

4771. What became of it?—I gave it back to Ryan.

4772. What was in that written agreement with Ryan?—Received from Patrick Cunningham the sum of 50*l.*, as well as I can recollect, for the use of my rooms at the election; drawn by Murnane and receipted by Ryan. The morning he returned me the money he said if he would not get 10*l.* for Murnane's vote that he would not keep it. There is a man here named Narrell who was with me when I was getting back the money from him; and he said that if he had got 10*l.* more for Murnane's vote he would have kept it.

4773. Baron Fitzgerald.] Was it on the Wednesday before the election that you hired Ryan's and Murnane's house?—Yes; I think the election came off on the 10th or the 11th. Thursday was the election day. It was Wednesday week.

4774. Was it on Saturday?—It was on Saturday I took Carroll's place.

4775. Was that the day Murnane returned the money?—Murnane returned the money on Thursday or Friday, and I had the money in my possession, and I took Carroll's place.

4776. Mr. Butt.] With the money that they gave you?—With the money; he returned the money on Thursday or Friday.

4777. Had you made any use, or tried to make any use, of Ryan's rooms?—Yes; we gave notice on that day to the supporters of Mr. Munster to be there on that Thursday evening, and we had to send them all word not to meet there, that Ryan was after giving the money back again, and that we would not get the room.

4778. When Ryan and Murnane's rooms were taken, did you want them?—I did.

4779. What did you want them for?—For Mr. Munster's supporters to meet there.

4780. Do you remember the meeting at Corcoran's?—Yes.

4781. Did any inconvenience occur at that meeting at Corcoran's for want of room?—Yes; and Mrs. Corcoran was much displeased.

4782. Baron Fitzgerald.] When was that?—Previous to the taking of Ryan's place.

4783. Was it in consequence of that, that you took Ryan's rooms?—Yes; Mrs. Corcoran objected several times, on account of the way in which her place was knocked about; and she said that if she thought she would have been so much interrupted she would not have let her place at all. Then I took Ryan's place, and went up to the rooms and looked at them.

4784. And did you think they would suit your purpose, of having meetings of Mr. Munster's supporters?—I did.

4785. You say you had issued a summons for a meeting of Mr. Munster's supporters at Ryan's?—Yes.

4786. Did that meeting take place?—No.

4787. What prevented it?—Ryan returning the money.

4788. What did you do when he returned the money; where had you the meeting?—We had it at Mrs. Corcoran's.

4789. Did that put you to any inconvenience with reference to that meeting?—It did.

4790. Just state what it was?—I had to send messages to all Mr. Munster's supporters, and I think a good many of them were disappointed; they did not know where to go; they went to Ryan and Murnane's rooms, and got some offensive answers, that the money had been given back, and that they could not attend; some of them, I believe, did not attend at all the meeting that night, and did not know where it was.

4791. When you offered the half notes, did you give any reason for not giving the whole?—Yes, on account of the way I was treated by Ryan returning the money.

4792. Then you mentioned to Carroll the way Ryan treated you?—Yes.

4793. Baron Fitzgerald.] You say you knew Ryan's house?—Yes.

4794. How many rooms are there in it?—Two rooms, a large and a small.

4795. How many beds are there in the two rooms?—No beds in the large room.

4796. Baron Fitzgerald.] I am speaking of Carroll's house?—Yes.

4797. How many rooms are there in it?—Four or five rooms in Carroll's house; three or four rooms.

4798. Mr. Butt.] Will you tell me what size is Carroll's yard?—It is a large yard.

4799. What did you want the yard for?—I did not know what use; Pat Laffan told me he wanted the house and part of the yard.

4800. Did you ever hear from Mr. Munster that, having been disappointed in Ryan's, he wanted to have an open-air meeting in the yard?—No.

4801. You say that a meeting took place at Mrs. Corcoran's after you were disappointed in Ryan's; in what room did that meeting take place?—In one of the rooms upstairs.

Re-examination of the Witness by Mr. Hemphill.

4802. You spoke of a meeting of supporters; were those commoners?—No.

4803. Not commoners?—The townspeople.

4804. They were to have met in Carroll's?—They were to have met in Ryan's.

4805. Was there no room in Carroll's where you could assemble the townspeople?—Yes, there is; there is a room off the kitchen, a very good room, and a front room upstairs.

4806. Was that room off the kitchen one of the rooms you took?—No.

4807. What is the size of the room upstairs?—It is not very large; when I went down to get possession of the room, Carroll said, "What are you up to?" It was at one or two o'clock on Saturday that I took Carroll's house; he said first that I could go up; I asked for a candle to go upstairs, and see if the room would suit our convenience; he objected at once; he said he could not give the room then; he thought he could give the yard then; the following morning I went again; his sister was in the shop, and she said that neither the room nor the yard were wanting, but the vote, and he refused to give either.

4808. Baron Fitzgerald.] When you went the second time to Carroll, did you know he had given the money?—No, I did not.

4809. Are you sure of that?—I am.

4810. Mr. Hemphill.] You say that the commoners

moners were to have met at Ryan and Murnane's?—It is very likely, if they were in town, some of them would be at the meeting.

4811. Were they not to be at the meeting in Ryan and Murnane's?—Oh, I don't know.

4812. Did you not go out with Mr. Munster one day to canvass them?—No; on the day of the meeting I was with Mr. Munster.

4813. Did you bring drink to the Commons on that occasion?—Yes, I brought a few bottles of sherry and a couple bottles of port wine.

4814. For the commoners?—No.

4815. For whom?—Some of the people of the town went with us.

4816. The commoners did not taste a drop of it?—I don't know, but they might have got it; Mr. Munster was there; it was on my own car.

4817. Did you on any other occasion send wine or drink to the commoners?—Yes.

4818. Was there a meeting of the commoners?—Yes; there was the day Mr. Munster went out.

4819. Did many of the townspeople go out?—Yes, a good many; all the voters.

4820. How many?—Well, a large attendance; nearly a hundred people were there altogether.

4821. Did you make speeches on that day?—Yes.

4822. Did you take out sherry on the car?—I took out only a few bottles of sherry.

4823. For Mr. Munster?—No, not for Mr. Munster; I took it out for our private use, to give it to whom I chose.

P. Cunningham.
18 February 1869.

ANNE COMAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Curtis.

4824. Do you know the last witness, Cunningham?—Yes.

4825. Do you know Cornelius Carroll?—I do.

4826. Do you remember Friday, 3rd November last?—I do.

4827. Do you remember seeing those two on that day, Carroll and Cunningham?—I do.

4828. Where did you see them?—In the back parlour.

4829. What day was it?—Well, I cannot exactly say.

4830. Did they both come together, or follow each other, and if so, which came first?—One tapped at the window, and when I opened the door, I first saw Cunningham.

4831. Did he come in first?—I cannot say; the other was outside the door, but he was the first that I saw.

4832. Did Cunningham go in?—Yes; he came into the back parlour.

4833. Had you and he any conversation there?—He asked me was Mr. Coman in, I said he was not, that I thought he was in the news-room, immediately opposite my own house; he asked would I be kind enough to send for him, which I did, and Mr. Coman came.

4834. Was Carroll present during that conversation?—He was.

4835. And when you sent for Mr. Coman?—Yes.

4836. When Mr. Coman came, what occurred?—I do not know; I opened the door from the shop into the little parlour, and closed it when Mr. Coman came, and left him with them; I do not know what occurred between them.

4837. Did you remain in the room?—No; I turned back into the shop, and after a second or two, I heard Mr. Coman speak very loud and cross, and saying that he would kick them down the lane.

4838. Kick whom?—The two parties that were speaking to him.

4839. Did you him say anything else?—No.

4840. Did you hear Carroll say anything?—No; not to each other; I heard Cunningham ask Carroll would he have half a glass of brandy. Cunningham said to Carroll, "I might as well give it to herself"; Carroll said "No."

4841. Did you hear anything more than that?—No; nothing more.

4842. Your husband sells porter?—Yes.

4843. Do you know of some six or seven barrels of porter having been supplied from your husband's shop for Mr. Munster?—No; not six or seven.

4844. How much?—Two.

4845. What size were they?—Half-barrels.

4846. Where were they delivered?—I could not tell you.

4847. Do you know who ordered them?—Well; Mr. Coman would, perhaps, be able to give you some information.

4848. Do you know of your own knowledge?—No; I do not recollect; I think they were ordered by Cunningham.

4849. How soon before the election was that?—Well, I could not say.

4850. Was that the day there was the meeting on the Commons of Mr. Munster's supporters?—I could not say.

4851. Did you hear of a meeting?—I did.

4852. Do you remember the day on which you heard it?—Well, I recollect the day, but I could not know the day.

4853. Was it not for that meeting that the porter was ordered?—I know the porter was ordered, but I could not exactly say.

[Not cross-examined, and the Witness retired.]

A. Coman.

Mr. WILLIAM JAMES O'BRIEN re-called; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

4854. Did Mr. Munster open an account at the National Bank?—Yes.

4855. Open the ledger and tell us when he opened that account?—On the 18th September there is a first lodgment to his credit.

4856. What is the date of the last lodgment on his own account?—12th December.

121.

4857. What is the gross amount of the lodgments during that interval?—£. 8,102 1 s. 2 d.

4858. What is the amount of the disbursements?—There is a balance.

4859. What is it?—A balance on the 31st December of £. 2,077 17 s.

M 4

4860. Does

Mr. W. J. O'Brien.

Mr. W. J.
O'Brien.
18 February
1869.

4860. Does that indicate the amount of the various cheques?—Yes.

4861. Would you run your eye down that, and see if there is a cheque for 19*l.* 12*s.* about the 20th November, or the latter end of November, after the election?—I don't see any cheque for that amount.

4862. Did a lady named Miss Ade open any account with you in the bank?—Yes.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I feel some difficulty about questions as to an account opened by Miss Ade.

Mr. Hemphill.] We will connect it with the subject of inquiry.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I would rather you do so before you inquire into the lady's private account.

Mr. Hemphill submitted on the evidence, that this was a subject open to him to examine about.

Baron Fitzgerald said he did not think so; they might as well inquire into his account.

4863. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Have you got Mr. Richardson's account?—Yes; there is an account for Mr. Richardson.

4864. What is the first date for that account of Mr. George Richardson?—November 2nd.

4865. What is the last?—It was closed on the 31st December, it is going on at the present day.

4866. What is the total amount of lodgements to his credit?—To the 31st December?

4867. Yes?—£. 700.

4868. Did the total of disbursements balance that?—They closed it up altogether.

4869. The book is balanced?—Perfectly.

4870. Is there a cheque for 19*l.* 12*s.* at the latter end of November?—No; I do not find any cheque for that amount.

4871. Did Mr. Michael Joseph Laffan open an account with you?—Yes.

4872. Just look to his account, what is the first date?—November 4th.

4873. Is that continued to the end of the year?—To the 31st December.

4874. What was the total amount of lodgements to his credit during that interval?—It was closed twice.

4875. State the first closure?—On the 19th November.

4876. What was the total amount of the lodgements between the 4th and the 19th?—£. 485.

4877. Was that balanced?—No; there was a small balance to his credit that day.

4878. Then he re-opened the account?—Yes.

4879. What was the amount of the lodgements up to the end of the year?—£. 234.

4880. Is that balanced?—That is balanced.

4881. Baron Fitzgerald.] When was the second opening?—Apparently it was opened on the same day.

4882. And then the account was closed?—It was regularly balanced; it was perfectly closed.

4883. Mr. Hemphill.] Are there nine cheques for 5*l.* 5*s.* there?—Yes.

4884. Just turn to Mr. Munster's account, and see if there are any five-guinea cheques in it?—There is one cheque for five guineas.

4885. Are there any in Mr. Richardson's account?—No.

4886. Did Mr. Pat Laffan open any account with you?—No.

Not cross-examined, and the Witness retired.

Dr. JOHN WOOD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Curtis.

Dr.
J. Wood.

4887. You live in Cashel?—Yes.

4888. You know Mr. Munster?—Well, I know him by appearance, that is all I know about him.

4889. Do you remember having supplied him with any articles?—Yes, medicine.

4890. In the month of October last?—Yes.

4891. What was the amount of them?—Well, I could not exactly tell. There were two bills for, I think, something about 4*l.*

4892. Did you furnish an account?—Young Mr. Laffan called on me and requested me to furnish the first bill.

4893. Which Mr. Laffan?—Mr. Patrick Laffan.

4894. How much was that?—I think about 2*l.*, but I cannot exactly say.

4895. This was before the election?—It was.

4896. How long?—Well, I dare say about a week or more.

4897. Do you remember the 5th of November?—Well, I do not.

4898. Do you remember Patrick Laffan coming into you on any particular occasion?—Yes, I recollect his calling on me between nine and 10 o'clock at night.

4899. Early in November?—Yes.

4900. What occurred?—When he came to my place, he said, "I have lost the medicine bill which you furnished." I said it was no consequence, that he could have another if he wished, but that since he furnished the bill a larger amount had become due. He asked me what might be the amount of the other bill. I stated that I thought the two bills were in or about 4*l.*

4901-2. What then occurred?—He pulled out a cheque book, and said he would give me a cheque; I was very intimate with him, and asked him into the parlour. He said he would do so, and on his way in he handed me a cheque, which I threw into an empty drawer, and neither he nor I read it. I threw it into the drawer amongst bills. He staid with me for about an hour, and then left. I did not look at it until the following morning, when I read it over the first time, and was surprised. I took it to Mr. Grace, and had his opinion on it, and he directed me to return it, and I tried to do so on that day.

4903. Tell us the amount of the cheque, and what was written on it?—Well, it was not a cheque, it was one of these papers to break votes, I believe.

4904. What was it?—A retainer.

4905. Would you know the document if you saw it?—No, I do not think I would.

4906. What did you say; give us the substance of it?—There was only one line on it, and there was 5*l.* 5*s.* on it.

4907. Did it purport to be an order on the bank bank for 5*l.* 5*s.*, or anything of the kind?—It was.

4908. Did you not read it till the next morning?—No.

4909. What did you do with it?—I sent it several times, by Mr. Grace's directions, to be delivered to Mr. Pat Laffan. He could not be had, and I went to Mr. Grace, and told him that I had sent it frequently to Mr. Pat Laffan, and that he had not been found; he directed me to send it to Mr. Michael Laffan. I did not write a letter, but merely wrote his name on the back of it and sent it back to him.

4910. Did you write this letter (document handed to Witness)?—I did.

4911. Is that a copy of the letter you wrote?—Yes.

Mr. Curtis then read the following document:

"Sir,

"I have discovered when you left my house that the paper you handed to me was a cheque, signed by Mr. M. I. Laffan, for 5*l.* 5*s.*, with the word retainer inserted in it. I am at a loss to understand why you should have taken such a liberty with me, and I now return you the cheque, and request that you will not again presume to repeat any such attempt with me.

"Your obedient servant,

"J. Wood."

"M. I. Laffan, Esq."

Mr. Baron Fitzgerald.] Has that a date?

Mr. Curtis.] It is not dated.

4912. When was it sent?—It was sent the following day, but not delivered on that day, because he could not be had.

4913. Did you get an answer to it from Mr. Michael Laffan?—I did.

1914. Is that it?—It is.

Mr. Curtis.] This letter is dated the 9th of November 1868.

"Dear Doctor,

"I am exceedingly sorry that you should adopt the hostile course towards us that you are doing. We, in giving you a retainer, were very anxious to benefit you, at the same time that it would advance the cause of our client. I therefore trust that you will, on consideration, look at it in this light, and do all that you can on behalf of Mr. Munster. I must add, that I am obliged, as Mr. Munster's conducting agent, to decline taking back the retainer which I assume your letter contained.

"Faithfully yours,

"M. I. Laffan."

4915. You got that letter?—Yes, on Sunday morning.

4916. On receipt of it, what did you do?—I went to Mr. Grace, to have his advice as to what answer I should send. He said he would give me an answer in half an hour. Before the half hour was expired Patrick Laffan called on me, and said that if I would promise on my word that I would not mention the particulars of it, in order that the other parties should not hear of it, he would keep it, and there should be no more about it.

121.

4917. You voted for Mr. O'Beirne at the election?—I did.

4918. After voting for O'Beirne, do you remember being served with any document?—I was served with a summons by Mr. Munster, and it was postponed three times, for a month each time, to convenience him.

Mr. Curtis read the summons, of which the following is a copy:—

"Petty Sessions (Ireland) Act, 1851,
14 & 15 Vict. c. 93.

"Henry Munster, Complainant.

"John Wood, Defendant.

"Petty Sessions, District of Cashel, County of Tipperary.

"Whereas a complaint has been made to me that on the 4th day of November 1868, at Cashel, in the said county, you, the defendant, agreed to act as agent for and on behalf of Henry Munster, at the election for the borough of Cashel, then expected to take place, and accordingly accepted and took a retainer on behalf of said Henry Munster, to act as his agent, and afterwards voted at said election; this is to command you to appear as a defendant, on the hearing of said complaint, at the Court-house, Cashel, on the 9th day of December 1868, at 12 o'clock noon, before such justices as shall be there.

"(signed) Martin Jos. French,

"Justice of said County.

"This 3rd day of December 1868."

"To John Wood, of Cashel."

4919. Baron Fitzgerald.] Who signed this?—

Mr. Curtis.] Mr. French, the magistrate.

Witness.] I attended.

4920. Mr. Curtis.] What became of the summons?—It was adjourned.

4921. Did Mr. Michael Laffan attend?—He did.

4922. At the petty sessions?—He did.

4923. At the hearing of the summons?—

4924. Did Mr. Munster attend?—He did.

4925. What became of the case when it was called on?—It was adjourned for Mr. Munster's convenience.

4926. On his application?—Yes; I was anxious that the thing should go on.

4927. At the end of the month what became of it?—It was adjourned again.

4928. Is it disposed of yet?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

4929. You are talking of young Mr. Pat Laffan?—Yes, the younger.

4930. You never said a word about the election the whole time?—We had a mixed conversation.

4931. Tell me, how did you mix it?—I left the compounding of it to him.

4932. At what hour the following morning did you look at the bill?—About eight o'clock, as soon as I came down.

4933. Had you heard about the placard?—What placard?

N

4934. The

Dr.
J. Wood.

1869.

Dr.
J. Wood.
1869.

4934. The placard saying that every man that took a five guinea retainer could not vote for either Mr. Munster or Mr. O'Beirne?—I had not heard of it at the time; I did not see it. I heard that the object of them was to break votes.

4935. Did you hear that before you went to Mr. Grace?—I could not say whether I heard it or not.

4936. Did Mr. Grace compound the letter for you that you wrote to Mr. Laffan?—No; I went to Mr. Grace about every letter.

4937. Did he compound it?—He promised to do the last one, but I am not aware that he did.

4938. At what hour did you go to Mr. Grace?—About the hour that he was usually up; about 10 o'clock.

4939. Did you go at 10 o'clock on the day after you got the five guinea cheque?—I did.

4940. Were you alarmed when you saw the five guinea cheque?—I was surprised at it, never having heard or seen one of them before.

4941. Did you tell young Mr. Laffan that you would vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—No; I was not determined at that time. I was inclined not to vote for anyone.

4942. You had not made up your mind?—Well, I was not inclined.

4943. How soon after the five guinea cheque had you made up your mind?—I cannot say; a very short time before the election, for I was not inclined to vote at all.

4944. A couple of days after it?—I don't know.

Re-examined by Mr. Curtis.

4945. At the time you called on Mr. Grace he was, I believe, suffering from serious illness?—He was.

Mr. Hemphill.] Do you admit that Quirk, Halloran, Hogan, and Gleeson, got these letters? We have them here.

Mr. Butt.] I admit it.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I think you are quite right; it is not like a case between party and party.

PATRICK HALLORAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

P. Halloran. 4946. WHERE do you live?—On the Commons of Cashel.

4947. You are a voter?—Yes.

4948. Do you know young Mr. Pat Laffan?—Yes.

4949. Do you see this cheque; is that your name, "Pat Halloran," on the back of it?—Yes.

4950. Did you get that cheque on the 7th of November last from Mr. Pat Laffan?—Yes.

4951. Where did he give it to you?—At my own house.

4952. Was anyone with you when he gave it to you?—Not when he gave it to me.

4953. What did he say when he was giving it to you?—He said, this is a thing of no importance.

4954. Tell us the whole of it?—I refused different times to take it from him. There was a man named Byrne with me first, when he asked me to take it.

4955. Was that Captain Dudley Byrne?—Yes; I refused to take it from him. Then Captain Byrne took away all my family out of the house, and left Pat Laffan and myself together. I said I would not take it, and positively refused to do so different times, and said I would have nothing at all to do with such a transaction. He forced me to take it. He said it was a thing of no importance. He said, "You could talk to your neighbours." "Well, I could talk to my neighbours without leaving this spot," said I. Then he forced me to take it.

4956. Did he tell you that it would prevent your voting?—No.

4957. Did he say what you were to do with it?—He mentioned nothing at all. He said it was a thing of no importance; "but you can talk to a few of your neighbours," said he.

4958. Did he ask you to read the name on the back of the cheque?—He did.

4959. Did you at that time read the name on the back of it?—I did.

Mr. Hemphill.] This cheque is dated the 7th of November 1868, and is drawn by Michael I. Laffan, and the man's name, Pat Halloran, is endorsed on it.

4960. What did you do with that cheque?—I came the very same day to give it up to Mr. Michael I. Laffan. He refused taking it from me.

4961. When Mr. Pat Laffan went to you to give you that cheque, was it filled up, or did you see him do anything on it?—He wrote.

4962. Did he write his name on the body of it?—Yes.

4963. He had a book of them at the time?—He had.

4964. You were telling us what you said to Michael Laffan when you brought it to him?—I told him I did not want to keep this at all; that I did not understand the nature of it; that I knew no more of it than I did of the building of a ship.

4965. What did he say?—He said he would not take it.

4966. Did he take it?—No.

4967. What did you do with it?—I kept it till I gave it up to Mr. Grace.

4968. You voted for Mr. O'Beirne at the election?—I did. I was served with this notice afterwards to keep me up to my business, as being a retained agent.

4969. Was the notice you were sent signed by Mr. Laffan?—No, but another agent.

4970. Mr. Scallan?—No.

4971. Captain Dudley Byrne?—No.

4972. Mr. Leahy?—

4973. Mr. Richardson?—Mr. Richardson; and when I was served with the notice I came to Mr. Grace and showed it.

4974. You have not got it?—No.

4975. Was the substance of it saying that you would be indicted for a misdemeanour, or anything of that sort?—No, but that he would keep me to my business. I never acted, or asked any man.

Not cross-examined.

[The Witness withdrew.]

LAURENCE HOGAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Curtis.

4976. (Document handed to the Witness.) You are a son of Michael Hogan?—I am.

4977. Do you see the name, "Michael Hogan," on the back of that?—I am not able to read.

4978. Did you see that signed?—I did.

4979. When was it signed, and by whom?—Mr. Laffan.

4980. That writing on the back of it?—Yes.

4981. Does your father know how to write?—No, nor to read either.

4982. Is that his mark on the back of that; did you see him acknowledge that?—I did. Mr. Laffan asked him to put his hand to it, and he put his hand to it.

4983. Was that before the election?—It was.

4984. How long?—I don't know.

4985. Where did this occur?—In the house.

4986. You live with him?—I do.

4987. Which of the Laffans was it?—I don't know any of them; I have no acquaintance with them.

4988. What did Mr. Laffan say to your father, or he to Mr. Laffan?—He said nothing, only he came in and got the book, and he wrote down something in the book.

4989. Mr. Laffan did?—Yes, sir. He did not know what he was writing, nor I did not know what he was writing. He asked my father to write his name. My father said he was not able to write it. I asked him was that any difference as to voting. He said not; that he could vote for any side. We did not know what was it, either the one or the other of us, until we got another boy to read it, my brother, and then we came in and gave it up to Mr. Grace the morning afterwards.

4990. Was Mr. Laffan after leaving, before you got your brother to read it?—He was.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

4991. You say that Mr. Laffan told you when he gave you the cheque, that it would make no difference as to your vote?—He did.

4992. Did you tell him that you were going to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—I said nothing, but asked him would it make any difference in the way of voting, and he said not, that he could vote for any party.

4993. Where is your father?—He is at home in bed.

4994. Is he ill?—He is.

4995. How long has he been sick?—A fortnight.

4996. Did any person come to serve your father with a subpoena to attend here?—He did.

4997. Was he in his bed then?—He was.

4998. How long had he been in bed before he got the subpoena?—A week.

4999. Before he got the subpoena?—Which, sir?

5000. Wasn't he served with a subpoena to come here to give evidence?—He was not.

5001. Did anyone go to his house to serve him with a subpoena?—He did.

5002. When was that?—It was on a Saturday night.

5003. How long ago; was it last Saturday?—It was.

121.

5004. On the Saturday before?—It was.

5005. Which?—Last Saturday.

5006. Did the man serve your father with the subpoena?—He did not.

5007. Why didn't he?—Because of his not being in the same evening.

5008. Then your father was not in on that Saturday evening?—He was not.

5009. Did you see the subpoena?—I did not.

5010. Were you there when it came?—I was.

5011. Your father was not in his bed on that Saturday evening?—He was not.

5012. When did he take to his bed since?—Sir?

5013. When did he take to his bed after that?—On Sunday.

5014. I suppose you told him a man had been there with a subpoena?—Sir?

5015. When did you tell him that a man had been there with a subpoena for him?—Saturday.

5016. But when did you tell your father of it?—On Sunday.

5017. How long after you told him did he go to bed?—He was not in bed at all on Sunday, for he was at the fire. He got up part of the day.

5018. Did he sit up all Sunday?—He did.

5019. Did he go to mass?—He did.

5020. I hope he was tolerably well on Sunday?—Well, no more than that.

5021. Did he get up at all on Monday morning?—He did.

5022. How long did he sit up on Monday?—For the day.

5023. Was he up on Tuesday?—He was.

5024. And Wednesday?—Yes.

5025. And Thursday?—Yes.

5026. And Friday; that's to-day; is he up to-day?—He is.

5027. Then he is going about quite well?—He is not; he is within, sir, at the fire, sir.

5028. Why did you take that cheque to Mr. Grace?—I did not know anything about it, sir.

5029. What made you think of Mr. Grace?—I did not know whom I gave it to, sir, nor what it was then.

5030. And you had no particular reason for bringing it to Mr. Grace?—I had no particular reason at all.

5031. More than any other person in Cashel?—Because I knew him better than any other man in Cashel.

5032. It had nothing to do with Mr. O'Beirne, your going to Mr. Grace?—Of course not.

5033. Did you know that Mr. Grace was managing for Mr. O'Beirne?—I did not.

5034. Did you know Mr. O'Beirne was in Cashel at all?—I did.

5035. I suppose you knew he was Member for Cashel?—Well, I did.

5036. Do you know how your father voted in 1865?—I don't know anything about it.

5037. On your oath, did you know that your father got money for his vote?—I did not.

5038. You did not?—No.

5039. Your father never told you a word about it?—No.

5040. You swear that?—I do.

N 2

5041. Do

L. Hogan.

1869.

L. Hogan.
 18 February 1869. 5041. Do you know Pat Connor?—Yes.
 5042. Was he at your father's house?—No, nor anyone belonging to the O'Beirne party never entered the house.
 5043. Nor Tom Connors?—No.
 5044. Never entered the house?—No.
 5045. Did they come to the door?—They never came to the house nor to the door.
 5046. Did your father meet any of them?—I don't know.
 5047. Do you know Dan Foley?—I do.
 5048. Were you ever in his house?—No.
 5049. Was your father there?—I never was inside his house.
 5050. Was your father there?—No, sir.

5051. You swear that?—I do; nor any other house in the place.
 5052. That's on the Commons; and to your knowledge did your father ever see Mr. O'Beirne?—He did.
 5053. Where?—At the Cross on the race-course, when every one was seeing him.
 5054. Was he speaking to him?—He was.
 5055. Was that at the meeting there?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Curtis.

5056. Do you know the man who had the subpoena?—I don't know him; oh, I do, sir.
 5057. What's his name?—Dwyer.

MICHAEL QUIRK, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

M. Quirk.
 5058. HAVE you a vote?—Yes.
 5059. Do you know Mr. Pat Laffan?—I do.
 5060. And Mr. Michael Laffan?—Yes.
 5061. Did Mr. Pat Laffan give you a cheque any time before the late election?—No.
 5062. Did Mr. Michael Laffan?—Pat Laffan went to my house a couple of times.
 5063. Did you see him?—No.
 5064. Then did he give you a cheque?—No, Pat Laffan did not.
 5065. Did Mr. Michael Laffan?—Yes.
 5066. When was it?—Begor, I have no recollection.
 5067. Was it a week?—Well, about that.
 5068. Whereabouts was it that he gave it to you; do you know Corcoran's hotel?—Yes; I think it was in Corcoran's.
 5069. Did he say anything to you when he was giving you that cheque?—I have no recollection.
 5070. Did you read the cheque when he gave it to you?—I did not.
 5071. What did you do with it?—I went to the bank and got five guineas on it.
 5072. Was it a five guinea cheque?—Yes.
 5073. You wrote your name on it?—I did.
 5074. Did you afterwards ascertain what the cheque was for?—I did, the day after.
 5075. What was it for?—
 5076. Baron Fitzgerald.] What did you think it was for?—I was writing for Mr. Laffan some days before for the county election. I asked him for some money, and he told me to follow him into Corcoran's hotel. I had a drop, I think, the same day.
 5077. Mr. Hemphill.] You had been working for the county election?—I had.
 5078. And you were a little — ?—I had.

5079. Did you discover next day what it was for?—A cousin of mine, Con Carroll, told me, "Now your vote is broken. You have got a cheque from Mr. Laffan for five guineas." He told me "the reason he gave it to you was in order that you should have no vote." When I heard that, I got the five guineas and gave it to my sister and packed it off to Mr. Laffan with a note that I would be in no way concerned for Mr. Munster, neither would I vote for him.
 5080. Did you hear from him afterwards?—I heard the same night from Mr. Richardson.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

5081. What are you?—A writing clerk.
 5082. When did you return the five guineas?—On my solemn oath the very morning after I got the money at the bank.
 5083. And you did not spend a shilling of it?—I did, 1 s. 6 d. or so.
 5084. In drink?—Exactly.
 5085. You had your "morning" after you cashed the five guineas?—Oh, I had without it.
 5086. Wern't you asking Mr. Laffan to be employed about the election?—I might.
 5087. Wern't you?—I asked him could I get anything to do about it. "No," said he, "you will vote for Mr. O'Beirne, and will go with Mr. Grace."
 5088. Were you employed by Mr. O'Beirne?—No; Mr. Grace told me he could not give it to me.
 5089. Did he give you a shilling?—Oh, the devil a shilling.

[The Witness withdrew.

MISS ISABELLA ADE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

Miss I. Ade.
 5090. MISS ADE, were you stopping at Abbeyview before the late election?—I was.
 5091. Do you recollect a woman of the name of Mrs. Hackett?—Perfectly.
 5092. Calling about the 28th of October last?—I cannot say as to the date.
 5093. Do you recollect her bringing a letter?—I don't know whether she did bring a letter.
 5094. Then I may bring it to your recollection. Do you recollect her being shown into the room when Mr. Richardson was there?—I do.

5095. There was a lady named Miss Sterne also there?—I don't recollect her being present.
 5096. Do you recollect that the substance of the letter was to ask for a loan of 10 l.?—Yes.
 5097. Something to that effect; and mentioning that her father-in-law and brother-in-law and husband had votes, the Hacketts?—Yes, I do.
 5098. Do you recollect Mr. Munster saying anything?—Yes.
 5099. State to his Lordship just the substance of what Mr. Munster said?—Mr. Munster said, when when she spoke of the votes, she spoke to me first about the votes; Mr. Munster immediately said he would have nothing to do with her, and to go about her business. These were the words.

5100. Did you say anything then?—I said nothing at that moment.

5101. Tell us, as well as you recollect, just the substance of what passed on that occasion, while Mrs. Hackett was there, that either Mr. Richardson, or you, or Mr. Munster said?—

5102. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you say anything when he told her to go about her business?—I made no remark at that time.

5103. Did you afterwards, before the woman left?—She did not leave at the moment, and I went outside into the hall with her, and told her it was very foolish of her; that Mr. Munster would not have anything to do with her; and then she began to talk to me.

5104. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you hear Mr. Richardson say anything to her?—No, I did not.

5105. Do you know Madlle. de Moncourt?—Not personally.

5106. Do you know that there is such a person?—I do.

5107. Do you remember her name being mentioned?—Not the first time I saw Mrs. Hackett.

5108. Was it the second time that Mrs. Hackett called?—I mentioned it to her myself.

5109. What did you say to her in reference to Madlle. de Moncourt?—I said I could not do anything for her because Mr. Munster would not allow me, and that perhaps Madlle. de Moncourt would help her if she was in such distress.

5110. Did you give her an envelope directed to Madlle. de Moncourt?—I did.

5111. Do you yourself recollect writing a letter to Mrs. Hackett?—No, I did not write to Mrs. Hackett.

5112. Did you write to Madlle. de Moncourt?—I did.

5113. Did you give that letter to Mrs. Hackett?—No.

5114. Did you send it direct yourself to Madlle. de Moncourt?—I did.

5115. Did you not write yourself to Mrs. Hackett?—I did not, as far as I recollect.

5116. She states that you wrote a letter to her?—I did not.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I did not understand her to say that the letter was addressed to her. I think she said she got a letter.

5117. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you give her that letter; did you give her the envelope?—I don't recollect giving her a letter of any description.

5118. Do you recollect her afterwards bringing you a letter which she said she received from Madlle. de Moncourt?—I do.

5119. And a cheque?—Yes.

5120. Was that on Coutts's bank?—I don't know.

5121. Have you got it in your pocket?—I have.

Mr. Hemphill.] This is, "Pay to Mrs. Margaret Hackett, or order, 10 l."

Mr. Butt.] On Coutts?

Mr. Hemphill.] Yes, Coutts & Co., London.

121.

5122. (To Witness.) You got her to endorse her name on it, Margaret Hackett?—Yes, I did.

5123. And gave her a 5 l. note and five sovereigns?—I think I gave her all in gold; I am not sure.

5124. Had you, Miss Ede, an account in your name; did you open an account in the National Bank in Cashel?—Before the election?

5125. Yes?—I did not.

5126. You had no account?—No.

5127. I am not speaking of matters subsequent to the election, nor do I wish to talk of any matters except those connected with the case before us; did you open any account from the time you came to Cashel, previous to the election, in your own name?—I did not.

5128. Or draw any cheques in your own name?—None.

5129. On the National Bank?—Drawing cheques? perhaps I don't understand your question; do you mean to cash cheques or to draw them?

5130. I mean cheques like that?—I don't think so; I believe I did not.

5131. Did you give any cheques?—None whatever.

5132. To any party?—No, I gave no cheques.

5133. Did you keep a cheque book of any sort?—No.

5134. Have you opened an account since the election at the National Bank?—I have one; I have a cheque-book now.

5135. When did you first get the cheque-book?—I think it was about a month ago.

5136. Was it then you opened the account in the bank?—It was.

5137. Was it from Mr. Munster that you got the money to lodge in the bank?—Yes.

5138. How much?—He makes me a transfer whenever I require money for house-keeping purposes.

5139. You lodge it in your own name?—He makes a transfer in my name.

5140. Transfers it from his account to yours?—Yes.

5141. When was that first done, Miss Ede?—About a month ago, I believe; I am not quite sure as to the date.

5142. Would you say it was two months ago?—It may be.

5143. We are now at the 18th of February?—I can't be sure. I don't recollect when the first—

5144. Did you pay any money on account of bills, or anything connected with the election?—None whatever.

5145. Did Miss Sterne—do you know is Miss Sterne in Cashel now?—She is not.

5146. Was she here at the time of the election, and previous to it?—She was here previously to the election.

5147. On a visit at Abbey View?—Yes.

5148. Baron Fitzgerald.] Was it with your own money, or Mr. Munster's, that you paid that cheque?—It was with my own money.

5149. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you see Miss Sterne, or did you know of her paying any election accounts?—I do; I know that she paid some.

5150. Were you present when she paid them, Miss Ede?—Not always.

5151. But occasionally did you see her give money to Mr. Laffan?—Never.

5152. To

Miss
I. Ade
18 February
1869.

5152. To whom did you see her give money; I am not speaking of private matters?—I saw none given, except to pay bills.

5153. Election bills?—I saw no election bills.

5154. You have just said now——?—I made a mistake.

5155. Do you mean to say that you never saw Mr. Munster pay any bills connected with the election?—No, I did not.

5156. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

5157. You say she had an account at the bank in her own name?—Yes.

5158. Did Mr. Munster transfer, as in your case, any money to her name?—He did.

5159. Was that before the election?—Yes.

5160. Do you recollect telling Mrs. Hackett that that money was not for the votes, or anything of that sort?—I do, distinctly.

5161. Just tell us what you said?—I told her I had nothing to do with the electioneering business, and that it was no use talking to me about votes, and that she had better go about her business; she prayed very hard with me, and said she was in very great distress.

5162. That was the first time?—Yes; I asked Mr. Munster's permission, and he said I had better let it alone.

5163. You have told us that you yourself are not acquainted with Madlle. de Moncourt?—Not to see her; I never saw her.

5164. Were you in the habit of writing to her?—Yes.

5165. For Mr. Munster?—Yes.

5166. Then Madlle. de Moncourt was an acquaintance of Mr. Munster's?—Yes.

5167-8. But you yourself had never directly communicated with Madlle. de Moncourt on any business previous to this election?—Never.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

5169. Had you been in the habit of looking, for Mr. Munster, at petitions for charity, on applications for charity presented to him?—Yes.

5170. Do you generally do that?—Always.

5171. Do you mean to say that it is his habit to refer these petitions to you?—Yes; I was given charge of them.

5172. I suppose he is in the habit, every place, of receiving a good many?—I believe so.

5173. Have you looked at a great many for him?—A great many acts of charity.

5174. I mean petitions?—I saw them all; they were all given to me.

5175. As to this lady in London, that you were asked about, you say you have never seen her, have you?—No, I have not.

5176. Have you heard a great deal of her?—Yes.

5177. Have you heard of her as being a charitable person?—I have.

5178. And a person likely to do a charitable act?—Certainly.

5179. Take that in your hand; is that your handwriting on the back of it?—It is.

5180. Did you put the two letters you got from Mrs. Hackett into that?—Yes.

5181. When did you put them into it; the 28th of October is on the back?—I don't know whether I put the dates of the letters, or the dates of my putting them into the envelope.

5182. Why did you put them into the envelope?

—Because she did not wish it to be known; she wished it to be quite private.

5183. Was it to prevent any person seeing them that you put them into the envelope?—That is what I did it for.

5184. Open them (the Witness opened the envelope)?—

Mr. Butt read the following letter:—

“Green, Cashel,

“28 October '68.

“Dear Sir,

“I hope you will forgive my intrusion, which I never would have done were not I and those to whom I belong some of your most influential supporters. I introduce myself to you as the wife of James Hackett, whose father and himself possess a vote, each of which are at the perfect disposal of the former, as also that of his brother William, now, as on all former occasions, will go with the other two. I will only ask you, in return of the influence which I will successfully use in your behalf, a lend of 10*l.*; and the reason I am obliged to have recourse to your generosity, I shall quickly let you know. A few years ago, when I got married, my father promised myself, privately, 20*l.*, of which my husband knew nothing about, on strength of which promise I foolishly went in debt the sum which I now ask of you to lend me. Should you doubt me, I beg you to refer to Mr. Laffan, and I am confident he will give you a most respectable character of me; or to his Grace the Archbishop, who knew me well at the time I was educating in the Ursuline convent, Thurles, which he is the patron of. I could refer to several others, but as wish to keep it a perfect secret, as it would expose me to the ridicule of several were they to know it; but I am confiding in a gentleman, and my trust is, I am sure, in safe keeping.

“I remain, &c.

“Margaret Hackett,
“Cashel.”

“Henry Munster, Esq.,
“Green, Abbey View, Cashel.”

Mr. Butt.] The second letter is to this lady in London, and is as follows:—

“Green, Cashel.

“Dear Mademoiselle,

“Hearing of your many charities, and your kind sympathy for those who are in trouble or embarrassment, I have recourse to your kind and benevolent heart, as I am in the greatest trouble on account of 10*l.* I owe, of which my husband is not aware of; and being of cross temper, it would bring great trouble on were he to become aware of it. Should you avert such a trouble from me, I shall for ever feel it my duty to remember you in my prayers, as also to pay you back, at the earliest opportunity, the sum, should kindly give it to me. I have also with me the bills of the various parties to whom I owe the money, should you wish to see them. I come in this disguise that I may not be remarked, as I would not wish to be seen or known, lest the people may surmise the purport of my visit. It is, my dear lady, real fear of creating my husband's animosity animosity that makes me trespass on your generosity.

"I remain, &c.

"Margaret Hackett,

"Green.

"Madlle. Munster,

"Abbey View, Cashel."

5185. Mr. Butt.] That is addressed Madlle. Munster, but was intended for you; I suppose she thought you were Mr. Munster's daughter. Now did you afterwards get from her that letter?—I did.

5186. I think you said, that after you told her that Mr. Munster could have nothing to do with her, she still importuned you to get her the 10*l.* note?—She did very much.

5187. Was it in consequence of that, that you did go out to her and advise her to write to the lady in England?—It was.

5188. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you say anything about saying nothing about the votes?—I did; I told her not to speak to me about votes, because, if so, I should not be allowed to help her.

5189. What is the name of your English friend?—Mademoiselle de Moncourt.

5190. You did not say anything to her about the votes?—Nothing at all.

5191. You got that letter from Mrs. Hackett afterwards that you have in your hand?—Yes.

5192. As to the account you have now in the National Bank, will you explain; I believe you take care of the household expenses of Mr. Munster?—Yes.

5193. You pay the ordinary household expenses; was Miss Sterne formerly in the habit of doing that?—That's what she did.

Mr. Butt.] This is a letter you received afterwards from Mrs. Hackett:—

"Dear Miss Haide,

"I am a long time waiting to have an interview with you, but each time I was disappointed, either by your absence of the inconvenience of the time I used to endeavour to endeavour to do so. I have long and many a time since I experienced your kindness, and that of your good friend, but things taking such a turn as I did not expect, I feel it my duty to consult you concerning what you, in your kindness and generosity of heart, gave me, or rather put me in a way of getting, by your interest, for which I pray, on this Christmas eve, that God may send His choicest blessings on you, and send you spiritual consolation according as you endeavour to shield me from the anger of a husband whose displeasure I dread more than anything in this world. Dear lady, I'll go to my people; I'll tell them how I am situated, and perhaps they may look on me and help to give back what I got to you, or, by your advice, to the good lady who sent it to me. Tell me how to act, and may grant you all the compliments blessings of the season.

"M. Hackett."

Mr. Hemphill.] What is the date of that letter?

Mr. Butt.] Christmas eve, and it contained the beautiful little Christmas card, on 121.

the back of which are the words, "A happy Christmas; your kindness I'll never forget; my prayers shall be for you, though seas roll between."

5194. Baron Fitzgerald.] You don't appear to have used that cheque upon Coutts's?—I have used it.

5195. You have been paid the money?—I beg pardon, I did not understand you. I have not used the cheque at all.

5196. Why did you not?—I did not require it.

5197. Did anybody desire you not to do it?—I think not.

5198. Were you desired by anybody not to use it?—I believe not.

5199. Mr. Butt.] Have you been in London since you got it?—I have not.

5200. If you had been there, would you have used it?—Not unless I was without money.

Re-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

5201. Do you recollect, when you were cashing the cheque for Mrs. Hackett, your observing that Mr. Munster should pay the money back to Madlle. de Moncourt, or something to that effect?—I don't recollect that.

5202. Something to that effect; that Mr. Munster, of course, should pay the money back to Madlle. de Moncourt?—I don't recollect that at all.

5203. I suppose you always had plenty of pocket-money at this time?—I had.

5204. So that you would have no difficulty in giving a 10*l.* note yourself, the first day she called?—I don't know whether—oh, I could have given it.

5205. But you thought it was better to go through Coutts's and this Madlle. de Moncourt?—I did, and simply because I was forbidden to give it to her. I was forbidden to give it at all. What I did was in disobedience.

5206. Would it not have been much simpler, if it was an act of charity, for you to have put your hand into your pocket and, out of your own money, handed it to Mrs. Hackett?—But I could not, because I was forbidden by Mr. Munster to do it.

5207. What did Mr. Munster say to you?—He told me to send her about her business.

5208. Wer'n't you really doing what she asked you?—I was. I did wrong, no doubt.

5209. Quite right. Would you look at this memorandum; when was it that you sealed the envelope; it purports, by the endorsement, to bear date the 28th of October; was that date put on on the 28th of October, or subsequently, Miss Ede?—I can't say; is it the same date as the letter? I can't tell.

5210. Look at the seal, and tell me whose it is?—I did; it is my seal.

5211. There were two letters sealed up; did you get the two letters the same day?—I think not.

5212. Then when was it; how many days after the first letter did you get the second?—I can't remember. I was in the habit of receiving sometimes 16 or 17 letters a day.

5213. Look at that memorandum; is that in your handwriting on the envelope?—It is.

5214. Some is written in pencil, and some in writing?—Yes.

5215. Is

Miss
I. Ade.
18 February
1869.

Miss
I. Ade.
18 February
1869.

5215. Is all that your handwriting; both the pencilling and the writing?—It is.
5216. When was it written?—It appears to be the 28th of October.
5217. It purports to be; I ask you when it was written?—I cannot say.
5218. Was it written after the election?—No.
5219. Are you sure?—I believe so.
5220. Are you sure?—I am sure; yes.
5221. When was it written?—It was before the election.
5222. How long before it?—I cannot say.
5223. Read the memorandum out?—"Madame, I am commanded by Mr. Munster to inform you, much as he regrets the hardship of your case, and highly desirous as he would be to help you under ordinary circumstances, your unfortunate and ill-judged attempt to offer him an interested inducement to do that which, if he did, would be freely done, and from goodwill alone, rendered it totally impossible for him to consider of doing so. But, feeling much sympathy for such a case as you have proposed to me, I will endeavour to do for you what I can amongst my own friends. Yours truly, Isabell Ade.—28 October 1868."
5224. What did you write that for?—I must have written to Mrs. Hackett.
5225. Part of this is in pencil and part in ink?—It was a sketch of the letter before I wrote it.
5226. That letter was written on the 28th?—I should suppose so; I cannot say.
5227. Was it not after that, that you got her letter addressed to yourself?—I don't know.
5228. Baron Fitzgerald.] When did you first tell Mr. Munster that you advised her to ride to Madlle. de Moncourt?—I don't remember.
5229. But you did tell him?—I believe I told him; I am not sure.
5230. Did you tell him of your getting that cheque?—No I did not.
5231. You say you think?—I am not sure.
5232. Mr. Hemphill.] Of course, when you were writing that letter of which this is a copy, you were aware that it would have been wrong on account of the votes to have had anything to say to her?—I was, unless I could have persuaded her that I was doing it simply as a charity, which I tried to do.
5233. Had you ever cashed a cheque before in that way?—Never.

Mrs. MARGARET HACKETT, re-called; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mrs.
M. Hackett.

5249. Is that the young lady you saw?—That's Miss Ede; that's the young lady that paid me the money.

Mr. Hemphill.] Have I a right now, my Lord, to see what money was standing in Miss Sterne's name in the bank?

5234. What made you get Mrs. Hackett to endorse the cheques?—It would have been of no use unless —

5235. You were aware of that?—Yes.

5236. You had, I suppose, cashed cheques yourself?—Yes.

Mr. Hemphill asked that the cheque on Coutts's bank and the letters read by him should be marked. The following is a copy of the cheque:—

"No. 06864. London, 2 November 1868.

"Messrs. Coutts & Company. Pay to Mrs. Margaret Hackett, or order, Ten pounds.

"A. E. O. de Moncourt."

"£.10."

5237. Mr. Hemphill (to Witness).] You say it was all gold that you gave to Mrs. Hackett?—I think it was.

5238. Had you all that money yourself that day when you gave it to her?—I had.

5239. Do you recollect asking Miss Sterne to make up what you wanted of 10 l.?—I do not.

5240. Was Miss Sterne there when you paid the money?—She was not.

5241. Did you give it to Miss Sterne and ask her for money?—I am not sure.

5242. Where is she now?—I don't know.

5243. Is she in this country?—I don't know.

5244. I ask you again, Miss Ede; just recollect this; Mrs. Hackett stated that you had not the full 10 l., and that you went out to get from Miss Sterne what made up the difference, whatever it was, that you required; is not that so?—I have no recollection of having done so; I may have done so.

5245. Did you mention to Miss Sterne about this cheque?—I think not.

5246. At any time?—I don't believe I ever spoke of it to her.

5247. Was she aware that you had written to Mademoiselle de Moncourt?—I don't think she was; I don't think she knew anything about it.

5248. You did not know Mademoiselle de Moncourt, but she knew of you?—She knew something; yes.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Indeed I don't think you have.

Mr. Hemphill.] Or in Miss Ade's?

Baron Fitzgerald.] I don't think you have.

[The Witnesses withdrew.

JOHN DWYER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Curtis.

J. Dwyer.

5250. You are a voter of Cashel?—Yes.
5251. Do you know Mr. Pat Laffan?—I know the two of them.
5252. The brother of Mr. Michael J. Laffan?—Yes.
5253. Do you remember the time of the last election?—I do.
5254. Do you remember, before the election, having got a cheque for five guineas?—I do.

5255. From whom?—From young Mr. Laffan that is gone off.

5256. From Pat Laffan?—Yes.

5257. Whose name was on the cheque?—I did not much mind.

5258. You don't know what was on the face of the cheque?—No; I only looked at the amount of the money.

5259. What did he say when he was giving it to to you; was it he gave it to you himself?—It was.

5260. What did he say when he was giving it to you?—He said he was going to give me a cheque for five guineas; that I was late for the bank that evening; and, begor, I took it from him.

5261. Did he tell you what the cheque was for?—He did not.

5262. Tell us now exactly what was said; did he say anything about your voting?—I asked him nothing about it.

5263. Did he tell you it would prevent you from voting?—No.

5264. Did you at all know that it would have the effect of preventing you from voting?—If I did, I would not take it for 100*l*.

5265. Did you vote afterwards?—I did not.

5266. For either party?—No.

5267. Did you cash the cheque at the bank?—Pat — checked it for me.

5268. And you got the money?—Yes.

5269. But for getting that cheque, would you have voted?—I would for Mr. O'Beirne, undoubtedly.

5270. Then did you discover that the taking of the cheque would have the effect of stopping you from voting?—When I saw it advertised in the street.

5271. Do you remember, before the election, having been sent to the Commons on any occasion?—I was.

5272. By whom?—Mr. Laffan.

5273. Which of them?—The boy that has gone off.

5274. That is Pat?—Yes.

5275. What were you sent there for?—They sent me out the night that Tim Shanavan and Tommy Connor were taking down a list of the voters that were pledged for O'Beirne.

5276. Who sent you out?—I don't well know. I think it was young Laffan that came up to Clark and got the order.

5277. Did you go?—I did.

5278. Who went with you?—Michael Cahill.

5279. Did Laffan say anything to you when he was sending you out; did he tell you what you were to do?—He told me that there was some party belonging to O'Beirne; I think they considered that O'Beirne had gone out himself that night; and they sent me out to know what they were about.

5280. Did they give you any message, or to say anything out there to anyone?—No, they did not.

5281. Just think; did he tell you to promise anything?—No.

5282. Can you recollect any further directions that he gave you?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

5283. Did you watch Connor's that night with Cahill?—I went out as far as my first cousin's house, the Dwyers, at Sampson's Hill.

5284. Did you see Connors go to any house?—I did not.

5285. Were you with Cahill the whole time?—I believe I was; Cahill and I walked across from the Golden Road.

5286. What were you out for?—We went out to find out what they were up to.

5287. Did you watch them?—I was told what they were about; I did not watch them.

5288. After you got the five guineas, were you not working for Mr. Laffan for some time doing what he bid you?—I was, against my grain, you may be sure.

Re-examined by Mr. Curtis.

5289. Did you, at any time, get a message from Mr. Laffan to promise money out at the Commons?—Yes.

5290. When?—Young Mr. Laffan told me they would give 25*l*. a man.

5291. Where was it that he told you that?—I kept no account.

5292. Was it at Corcoran's hotel?—Yes.

5293. Was anyone by when that was said?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

5294. How much did you get in 1865?—I got 60*l*.

5295. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Guirey.

5296. Denis Guirey?—Yes.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I will not allow this.

THOMAS GLEESON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

5297. You are a voter?—I am.

5298. Do you know Mr. Pat Laffan?—I do, well.

5299. And Michael Laffan?—Yes.

5300. Did you get a cheque from Mr. Pat Laffan at any time?—I did.

5301. Was that before the last election in November?—Oh, yes.

5302. What did he give you the cheque for, did he say?—He asked me would I act as the agent of Mr. Munster. I told him I would not; that I was pledged to Mr. O'Beirne.

5303. Did he leave the cheque with you?—He did.

5304. You gave back the cheque?—Yes.

Not cross-examined.

[The Witness withdrew.

J. Dwyer.

18 February
1869.

T. Gleeson.

JOHN RYAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Curtis.

J. Ryan. 5305. WHERE do you live?—At the Race-course.
18 February 1869. 5306. Near Cashel?—Yes.
5307. You are a voter?—Yes.

5308. Do you remember the last election?—I do.

5309. Do you know Mrs. Boyton?—I do.

5310. Do you remember having met her a short time before the election?—I remember it well.

5311. How soon before the election?—I suppose a fortnight or three weeks.

5312. Where did you meet her?—In the street; she asked me in to tea with her.

5313. Where is she living?—She was living at Abbey-view; she was living at Miss O'Dwyer's, the "Rock Hotel," at this time.

5314. Where is she living now?—I could not say.

5315. She asked you in to tea with her?—She did; into the "Rock Hotel."

5316. Did you go?—I did, but it was over when I went in.

5317. What occurred when you went in?—I went into the parlour there; I was introduced to the Miss Ryans from Thurles; I was asked to take a glass of punch by Mrs. Boyton; to take it along with her husband, Mr. Boyton, of the Bank. After that, I said it was time for me to be going away; she said, "Do sit down and take another"; so we took two glasses of punch, each of us. Mr. Rafferty then came in, and I spent about another half-hour talking. She begged their pardon, and went up into a bedroom; she called me with her, and I went in.

5318. Was there anything said about the election; did she say anything to you about the election?—She did; she said she had 1,225*l* for me to distribute amongst the Commons people, and to take my own share out of it.

5319. Baron Fitzgerald.] Mrs. Boyton did?—Mrs. Boyton, wife of the Accountant of the National Bank.

5320. Is Mr. Boyton a voter?—He is.

5321. For whom did he vote?—For Mr. Munster.

5322. Mr. Curtis.] What did you say to that?—I said I would have nothing at all to do with it at the present.

5323. Was there anything further said about it?—There was.

5324. On that occasion?—When I was coming away she said to me, "Take a glass of brandy," and brought up a bottle of brandy. I took a glass of brandy out of it, and then I said I would go away. She took hold of me by the skirts of the coat, and said I should take the money from her, and divide it honestly.

5325. Did she tell you what it was for; what she would give it for?—She told me to distribute it amongst the Commons voters; she said I was the most respectable man in it. I had got a letter from Mr. Boyton to Mr. Sealy, and I was a poor-rate collector, and therefore I should distribute the money.

5326. Did you see Mr. Sealy with Mr. Munster before the election?—Oh, I did often.

5327. Used he to go about with Mr. Munster on his canvassing parties?—Yes.

5328. What is the christian name of Sealy?—I could not swear.

5329. Did you go away after refusing to take the money in that way?—I did.

5330. Was the conversation afterwards renewed?—No, it was not afterwards, that night.

5331. On any other day or night?—I went for the money afterwards. I went to Fethard on Tuesday. It was on a Monday this happened. It was too late when I came home from Fethard, and I did not go in. On Wednesday, the old fair day at Clonmel, the 5th of November, I said I would send an uncle's son of mine for advice about it.

5332. Was that conversation about the money renewed?—He said for me to have nothing at all to do with an election. He said there was a clerk in the Youghal Union, or some place, and that an order came down from the Poor Law Commissioners that he should be dismissed if he did not give up elections, and that if I thought my situation worth keeping I should.

5333. Baron Fitzgerald.] Who told you that?—Mr. Guirey's son in Clonmel.

5334. Mr. Curtis.] Did she point you out the box?—She did.

5335. When was that?—On the night of the 3rd of November, the first evening.

5336. Did she tell you the money was in that box?—She did.

5337. Where was the box?—I could not say.

5338. Was it in the room?—It was in the room, in the bedroom.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

5339. You say that Mrs. Boyton told you you were the most respectable man on the Commons?—She did; I had a letter from her husband to Mr. Sealy.

5340. You consulted your cousin, your uncle's son, about this?—Yes.

5341. Did you tell him everything?—I told him nothing concerning money or anything.

5342. Then what did you consult him about?—I did not consult him about the money at all when he told me to have nothing at all—

5343. What did you go to consult him about? To know if this 1,225*l*.—if I undertook it—

5344. Then you went to consult him about that, and never told him of it?—No, I did not; but he showed me a letter in the newspaper about the clerk of a union—

5345. Do you swear that you went to consult him as to whether you should take the 1,225*l*. or not?—On my oath I did.

5346. Baron Fitzgerald.] What did you say?—I told him I wanted to send him to Mr. Hackett, and that whatever he charged for his advice concerning electioneering business, I would give it to him.

5347. Mr. Butt.] What I want to know about is, did you want to know whether it would be bribery or not?—What he would advise; if I took it and distributed it amongst the commonsers, would I be in any hold for the money afterwards.

5348. What for?—If the money was denied by any of the Commons people; if they said they did not get it, I might have to account for it myself.

5349. Then it was about that that you went to consult Mr. Hackett?—It was about that.

5350. Do I understand you to say that if you could could have been sure of that, you would have taken it?—Well, I would.

5351. You are quite new to a thing of the kind, I suppose?—I never heard of that before.

5352. You never heard of money being distributed to the Commons people before?—Yes, I did; but not that money.

5353. You heard of money being distributed to the Commons people?—I often heard there was money distributed.

5354. Did you ever do it yourself, on your oath?—Any of the money distributed to myself—

5355. To the Commons people, sir; did you ever distribute money to the Commons people?—Never.

5356. You never did?—Never; to not one.

5357. Didn't you do it in '65?—No; I distributed no money to any person.

5358. Did you give no money to anyone on the commons in '65?—No; to not as much as one man.

5359. Did you get any to give in '65?—I got nothing to give.

5360. In '65?—No.

5361. Did you ever say you had?—Never said it.

5362. Did you, at the time of the election in 1865, get money from anyone, now?—Oh, it's not necessary that I should answer that; it has nothing to do with this. Shall I answer it, my Lord?

Baron Fitzgerald.] Yes.

Witness.] Well, I would rather not answer it.

Mr. Butt.] Well, you must answer it.

Baron Fitzgerald.] You must answer it; but you will be entitled to a certificate of indemnity if you require it.

5363. Mr. Butt.] Tell me, did you get any money from anybody in '65?—I never got a penny from e'er a member.

5364. Did you get money from anybody?—I often got money.

5365. Did you get any money from anybody connected with the election of 1865, or connected with it?—I did not get any money connected with an agent from the election, nor was I concerned in that election.

Mr. Butt.] I submit that this man was an agent distributing money on the commons.

Witness.] No, on my oath I was not.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I am not sure that my certificate would relieve him from any responsibility connected with the election of 1865.

Mr. Butt.] If he claims your Lordship's protection, he is not to be called on to answer.

Baron Fitzgerald.] But he has claimed it.

Mr. Butt submitted that the inquiry as to the election of 1865 was relevant.

Baron Fitzgerald ruled that it was not.

The Witness was walking off the table, when

Mr. Butt said, "Stop; you are not going away yet."

Witness.] I am not in any hurry either.

5366. Mr. Butt.] Do you know of any bills being given by anybody in 1865?—No; I know of no bills being given to anybody in 1865.

5367. Do you know of any of the commoners passing bills?—Only what I heard of Mr. Guirey.

5368. But you did not know of it at the time?—No, I did not.

5369. Did you ever ask Mr. Munster to employ you at this election?—Never.

5370. You never asked to sell him a horse?—He asked to buy a horse from me; not he, but Pat Cunningham.

5371. I ask you distinctly, and don't answer this if you don't like, were you given money by any person at the election of 1865 to give to voters?—Never.

5372. Baron Fitzgerald.] You are not bound to answer the question?—(Witness.) I never got it my Lord.

5373. Mr. Butt.] What did you mean by saying that you claimed the protection of the court?—I did not think the election of '65 had anything to do with this. It is not that I wanted to claim protection.

5374. Was there a bill of yours in the National Bank at the time of this election, or about it. I am not asking you what it is?—I had.

5375. Was Captain Graham's name on it?—He was not before this election; he was some years ago.

5376. But not at this election?—Not at the time of this election.

5377. Did you ever say to any person that there was a bill of yours in the National Bank with Captain Graham's name on it?—There was a bill in the bank of Captain Graham's for many years with me, and I renewed it often too.

5378. Did you say to any person that there was a bill in the bank with Captain Graham's name on it?—Never said it to any person, except when I would go to the manager of the bank, I would ask him for a renewal of the bill. I had a bill for 23 l. for three years in the bank with Captain Graham's name on it.

5379. When did Captain Graham's name get off your bill on the bank?—Well, I have not the date of it.

5380. Was it long before the election?—Before the election?

5381. Yes?—Oh, I could not say that.

5382. Was it a month?—I could not say.

5383. Was it a week?—I could not say.

5384. Do you mean to say that you can't tell me?—I told you that Captain Graham's name was on a bill in the bank with me for the last three years, and I won't tell you any more about him.

5385. You must. A week before the election, was Captain Graham's name on a bill in the bank for you?—A week before the election?

5386. Yes?—It was.

5387. And after the election?—Yes.

5388. How much was that bill?—Well, I have not the docket of it here.

5389. Do you know how much it was?—I could give a guess about it.

5390. How much?—Either 30 l. or 35 l.

5391. Is it in the bank now?—Yes.

5392. With Captain Graham's name on it still?—Yes.

5393. What was the consideration for that bill?—The consideration for that bill was that he was a friend to me always.

5394. And lent you his name?—Yes, he and a grand uncle of mine were on the bill together, and when the grand uncle died, he did it by himself.

J. Ryan.

18 February 1869.

J. Ryan. 5395. Did he ever ask you to pay it?—I never asked anybody to pay that bill.
 18 February 1869.

Re-examined by Mr. Curtis.

5396. You spoke just now about selling a horse?—Yes.

5397. When was it that you sold the horse?—I sold her before the election, my Lord.

5398. Mr. Butt.] Were you often with Mr. Munster before the election?—I was; he gave me a glass of wine, and put some biscuits in my pocket.

5399. Mr. Curtis.] You say you sold a horse before the election?—Yes.

5400. How long?—I suppose about a fortnight or three weeks.

5401. To whom did you sell it?—Pat Laffan.

5402. What was the price of the horse?—Seventy pounds.

5403. How much were you paid for it?—I was paid nothing. When he called me into Corcoran's hotel, into the bed-room, and wrote a cheque for 70*l.*, and told me this cheque is to be on account, I went to the manager of the bank to know what to do about it. He said I would get cash for it the following morning. This was about six o'clock in the evening; he said I had better go to—5404. Had you the cheque at that time?—I did not take the cheque at all, nor would I give him up the horse till I would get the money.

5405. What was the bargain?—To have the horse inspected by a veterinary surgeon, Mr. Dolan. He inspected him. The horse was yoked to the carriage, and Pat Laffan and myself drove out. Afterwards he called me into the bed-room and told me he would write a cheque for the amount of the money, 70*l.* on account. I told him I had never got a cheque on account that way, and that would it not be well for him to get the cash for me; he would not do that.

5406. Was there anything about the election?—He said that if I would sign a receipt, and support Mr. Henry Munster, he would get the cash himself.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs. HENRIETTA BOYTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

Mrs. H. Boyton. 5407. I BELIEVE you are the wife of Mr. Boyton of the bank?—Yes.

5408. He is a voter of this town?—Yes.

5409. You are now living in John-street; you and your husband?—Yes.

5410. In Mr. Munster's house?—Yes.

5411. When did you go to live in Mr. Munster's house in John-street; was it before the election or after it?—After it.

5412. How long after it?—Really at this moment I could not recollect.

5413. Just try and do so; I have a reason for asking; was it about a week?—I could not say.

5414. Before that, were you lodging in Miss Kitty O'Dwyer's hotel in Main-street?—Yes.

5415. Do you recollect some evening a few days before the election, seeing a tall young man named John Ryan there?—Yes, I did. A long time before the election I saw him.

5416. You knew him before?—Yes.

5417. Do you recollect your asking him to take tea with you and your friends?—No, I do not.

5418. Did you ask him to take a cup of tea?—I may have done so.

5419. Was Mr. John Boyton, your husband, present there?—He was present one evening.

5420. They had some punch, he and Ryan?—Yes.

5421. Do you recollect Mr. O'Rafferty, a clerk in the National Bank, coming in on the evening you speak of?—Yes.

5422. Do you recollect your asking Ryan to go into a room, that you had something particular to say to him?—No, not the least.

5423. Might you have done so?—No.

5424. You are quite sure?—Quite sure.

5425. At any time?—No.

Mr. Heron.] That man (Ryan), ought to be put out now.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I don't think he ought.

5426. Mr. Hemphill (to Witness)]. I want you, Mrs. Boyton, to recollect yourself if you please. Do you recollect asking Ryan to go to one side, or into an adjoining room, to talk to him about the election?—No, not until he was going away; and I walked after him then; that was all.

5427. Did you talk to him about the election?—I am sure I did.

5428. Have you any doubt that you did?—No.

5429. What did you say to him about the election?—Well, I could not exactly recollect; but I may have asked him whom he would vote for.

5430. Did you say anything about money to him?—No, I did not; not to him.

5431. Not to him?—No, I did not say it, but he did.

5432. What did he say?—He said that he came to speak about selling a horse.

5433. What did you say?—And he said he wanted 70*l.* for that horse; and I said I would convey the message to his agent.

5434. But what had the horse to say to the election?—Well, I don't know; I can't say that. He said also that he wanted to get money for the votes of the Commons; that he was the person.

5435. When he said that he wanted to get money for the votes of the Commons, did you say that you had 1,230*l.* for him to distribute amongst the commoners, or words to that effect?—Never.

5436. What did you say when he said that?—He said the commoners' votes were to be got for 30*l.* a man.

5437. What did you say?—And that they held bills that should be taken up; and he said that they could not vote without money.

5438. He says you said that you had 1,225*l.*?—

5438*. Baron Fitzgerald.] He said a great deal more than that. He says that you took him into a bed-room, and showed him a box which you said contained 1,225*l.*?—Never, my Lord; I never said the like. I had not such a thing, thing; nor I never said the like; I never had a shilling; never had 5 l.

5439. Mr. Hemphill.] He did not say that you showed him money, but he said that you showed him a box which you said contained 1,225 l.?—I never said the like.

5440. Who was present this evening that there was the talk about the horse and about the votes?—I think Mr. Boyton was present, because he came frequently about the horse.

5441. Yes; but I am speaking about the evening that John Ryan was speaking about the votes?—Mr. Boyton was present; I cannot say he was present all the time, but I know that he was in the room part of the time.

5442. I thought you said you went out with John Ryan?—No, I did not; but when he was going away there was a passage-room and I went through that room with him, because he could not go out without going through it, and I dare say I may have walked with him.

5443. Is that passage-room used as a bedroom?—No, never; I never saw it used as a bedroom.

5444. Was there anybody in it?—It was used by nobody.

5445. Wern't you in the room by yourself with John Ryan for a short time that evening?—No, I was not, unless merely walking through; I might have walked through; I could not possibly say that I did, but I might have walked through.

5446. Was there anyone by when he was talking to you about the votes of the Commons?—I don't recollect that there was; he was speaking to me —

5447. Did anyone tell you to-day what John Ryan swore on that table, come?—I heard it said that he had sworn that I offered him money.

5448. Who told you to-day that John Ryan had stated in the witness box here that you had offered him money; who told you that, ma'am?—I heard several say it.

5449. Who told you what evidence Ryan gave to-day?—

5450. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did anybody tell you what evidence Ryan gave?—Yes; Mr. Scallan told me.

5451. Was it that gentleman there?—Yes.

5452. When did he tell you that?—A while ago.

5453. Was it when you were coming round here to the table?—No, not at all.

5454. When was it?—I think about an hour ago; I could not exactly say.

5455. Do you mean to say that an hour ago that young gentleman, Mr. Scallan, told you what Ryan said?—I could not positively say how long ago it was.

5456. What did Mr. Scallan say to you?—He said that Mr. Ryan said I offered him 1,200 l.

5457. Did he tell you about the box?—Not a word of it.

5458. Or about your going into the room?—Not a word of it.

5459. After this conversation, whatever it was, did you see John Ryan afterwards?—No; oh, yes; frequently.

5460. Did he call upon you a few days after this conversation at Miss O'Dwyer's hotel?—He did.

5461. What did he call on you for?—About the buying of a horse.

5462. What did he say to you?—He asked first for 70 l., and wanted to know could I, as a friend, get him 40 l. for the horse; and I said, could he not send his horse to the fair and not mind selling it to Mr. Munster.

5463. Did he say nothing more except about the horse and the price of the horse?—Yes; I remember that he said that there were so many voters that he could get, and that they were to have a meeting the next day, and that if he got 30 l. a man for them; that they held bills.

5464. Was it the second time that he said that?—I think it was; he said it all through.

5465. Then you were constantly talking to him about the votes?—Well, I think it was a subject of conversation.

5466. Who told you at all to speak to him on the subject of votes?—Not one.

5467. Did your husband?—Never.

5468. Did Mr. Munster?—Never; Mr. Munster never told me about anybody; Ryan came to me and annoyed me very much, and we had to get him put out.

5469. Do you know Captain Dudley Byrne?—I do.

5470. Is he in Cashel?—I am sure he is not.

5471. When did you see him last?—I think about a fortnight or three weeks ago.

5472. Where did you see him last?—In John-street.

5473. In Mr. Munster's house?—In Mr. Munster's house.

5474. Did you see him last Sunday?—No, I did not.

5475. Do you mean to tell his Lordship that it is three weeks since you saw him last in Cashel?—I could not say three weeks, but if I had a few minutes to think, I could say the exact time; I am almost sure it is three weeks; it may be only a fortnight.

5476. Did you hear from Mr. Munster where Captain Dudley Byrne now is?—No, I did not.

5477. Did you hear him mention where he is; you are living in the house with Mr. Munster?—I never heard him mention a word of it.

5478. Will you swear that Captain Dudley Byrne was not in the house in John-street last Sunday week?—I am sure he was not in the house; as far as I recollect he was not in the house; I am sure he was not in the house; he could not be in it without my seeing him.

5479. When Ryan called back on you a few days after that tea, on being up at Miss O'Dwyers', did you mention the name of Captain Dudley Byrne to him?—I did not, unless I said that I would tell Mr. Boyton of his wanting to sell the horse, and that I would convey his message to the agent; but that otherwise I knew nothing about it; it was to Mr. Laffan that I said I would convey his message; but I never got any authority from any of them; it was merely as a friend that I spoke to Mr. Ryan, just as to any gentleman that would vote for Mr. Munster.

5480. When Ryan called back upon you on the second occasion, didn't he ask you for the money you mentioned at Miss O'Dwyer's hotel?—He did not.

5481. You swear that?—I do; for I had no money.

5482. Did you say that whatever the money was, you had returned it to Captain Dudley Byrne?—Never; I had no money.

5483. Did you ever give any money to Captain Dudley Byrne; I mean not of your own, but for the purposes of the election?—Never.

O 3

5484. Or

Mrs.
H. Boyton.
—
18 February
1869.

- Mrs. 5484. Or any cheque?—Never.
H. Boyton. 5485. Had you ever a cheque of Mr. Munster or of Mr. Laffan, or any one on behalf of that 18 February gentleman in your possession?—Never.
1869. 5486. Never a cheque?—Never.
5487. Did you ever see a cheque for 1,225 l.?—
—I never saw a cheque at all for anything connected with the election.
5488. Before you went to the lodgings at O'Dwyer's, you lived at Abbeyview?—Yes, I
did.
5489. That is where Mr. Munster now resides?
—Yes.
5490. When did you or your husband let Abbeyview to Mr. Munster?—I think it was on the 16th of October that I let it.
5491. Didn't you leave the house when you let it?—I did.
5492. When was it that you left the house;
do you mean to tell his Lordship that you don't recollect?—I left it on Friday, I think, the 16th of October.
5493. What rent was Mr. Munster to pay for the house?—£. 60 for three months.
5494. Was it a furnished house?—Yes, furnished.
5495. Did you pay him for your accommodation in John-street?—No, indeed, I did not.
5496. You are rent free there?—Well, I am a visitor there.
5497. You are an inmate of the family; what do you mean by a visitor; I thought Mr. Munster resided at Abbeyview with his family?—He has the two houses.
5498. Does he board you as well as lodge you in John-street?—Yes.
5499. Pays for your board; what rent do you pay for Abbeyview?—£. 15 a-year.
5500. Is your husband boarded in John-street with Mr. Munster as well as yourself without paying anything for it?—Yes; I was invited
there; I was very uncomfortable in the hotel, my Lord; was put up into a garret room; and I should have left it but that there were no lodgings;
I was frequently invited to stay in John-street;
I would not have let my house for 60 l., for it was I that let it against the will of my husband, and I did not care to break up his house, but that I had nuns living with me to send to school, and on that account I induced young
Mr. Laffan to take my house, for it would have been a better house that would have been taken otherwise.
5501. Who told you that another house would have been taken?—I know that they were wanting a better house.
5502. How do you know?—I know; I think there was some house offered.
5503. Did Mr. Boyton take a very active part for Mr. Munster in the election?—No, I don't think he took an active part.
5504. Did he take any part beyond voting?
—No, not a single part.
5505. Did he canvass?—No, he did not.
5506. Are you sure of that?—I am perfectly sure of it.
5507. You say it was in October that Abbey-view was taken, the 16th of October?—Yes.
5508. What rent has he been paying; after the expiration of the three months, has he made a fresh agreement with you?—No agreement. He was to have given up the house when the time was up, that was the 16th of January. He was not ready, and I was written to. I said he could hold the house as long as was his convenience.

5509. Rent free?—Oh, I did not want to keep it for any rent.

Mr. Heron called on the shorthand writer to read the part of the evidence of John
Ryan, relating to his interview with Mrs.
Boyton when the box containing 1,225 l.
was mentioned, which was accordingly done.

Cross-examination of Mrs. Boyton by Mr. Heron.

5510. Did you ever ask John Ryan to tea?—
Never.

5511. Did you ever tell him that you had
1,225 l. to distribute amongst the commoners?—
Never.

5512. Did you, as he was going away, ever bring him into any bedroom on any occasion?—
No.

5513. Or show him any money in a box?—
Never. I had not it.

5514. Was there a word of truth in what that man said?—Not a word of truth in it. I had no money. Probably I had not as many shillings at the time.

5515. Did you ever, on any occasion, tell him that you had 1,200 l. for him to distribute amongst the commoners, or ask him anything on the subject?—Never. It was he that came to me on all occasions, annoying me.

5516. You have mentioned 30 l.?—Yes.

5517. On the occasion of that interview, when 30 l. was mentioned, tell all that occurred between you?—He said that the commons men, if they got 30 l. each, would vote for whoever would give it to them; and that if I would try to get him that, he was one of the heads of the party, and could bring them all with him.

5518. What did you say to that?—I said that I would convey the message, but that I had no authority to offer anything.

5519. Baron Fitzgerald.] What?—I said I would carry the message to his agents, but that I had no money, nor no authority from anyone to give anything.

5520. Did you mention it to anyone?—Yes.

5521. To whom?—To Mr. Pat Laffan.

5522. Mr. Heron.] Did he say that he had ever done anything of the kind before?—I think he said they got it before.

5523. Baron Fitzgerald.] You say you mentioned it to Mr. Laffan what he told you?—And Mr. Laffan said they would have nothing to do with Ryan at all; and that when he spoke about selling the horse, he came from 70 l. down to 40 l., and that they would have nothing at all to do with Ryan. And when he came last to me at Miss Dwyer's, I told him I had no time to give to him; and also at Abbeyview we told him that we could not give our time to him, and sent him away about his business.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES DARMODY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Curtis.

5524. You are a Voter of the borough of Cashel?—Yes.

5525. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

5526. For whom?—For Mr. Munster.

5527. Do you know Mr. Pat Laffan?—Yes.

5528. And Mr. Michael Joseph Laffan?—Yes.

5529. Do you remember having had any conversation with either of those gentlemen a few days before the election?—Never. I never had any communication on the election with either Mr. Munster or any of his agents.

5530. Do you remember having had any conversation with anybody with reference to the election in Corcoran's hotel, just previous to the election?—I don't think I do.

5531. In a dark room?—No.

5532. Do you say that positively?—I do, for my mind was made up to vote for Mr. Munster from the first day he came to Cashel till the last.

5533. When was that?—Well, I don't know.

5534. What first made you make up your mind to vote for Mr. Munster?—I said that under no consideration would I go from Mr. Laffan or the Archdeacon, that I would not vote against him. J. Darmody.

18 February 1869.

5535. I believe you had a horse employed by Mr. Munster?—No, I had not. The horse belongs to my mother.

5536. Has that horse been hired by Mr. Munster?—I believe he has.

5537. Do you know what he gave for the hire of it?—I do not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Cartan.

5538. Do you know Pat Connors?—I do.

5539. Did he ever ask you to vote?—He did.

5540. How long before the election?—I think it was a month or six weeks, about. I was winnowing corn in a barn, and Pat Connors came in to me.

5541. Did he ask you more than once?—I have no recollection.

[The Witness withdrew.

THOMAS DONNELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

5542. I BELIEVE you are a Voter?—Yes.

5543. Did you vote for Mr. Munster at the last election?—Yes.

5544. Where do you live?—In Main-street.

5545. You have a public-house there?—Yes.

5546. Did you supply drink for the election?—Before the election.

5547. How much did you supply altogether?—I supplied, let me see, I believe about 7 l. worth.

5548. Whom did you supply it to?—To the working men in the street.

5549. Who paid you for it?—I was not paid for it.

5550. Whom did you bill for it?—I think, Mr. Laffan.

5551. You have not been paid yet?—No.

5552. Have you got any cheque?—No.

5553. Was it only 7 l. altogether?—That's all.

5554. Who is your landlord?—My landlord was Dr. Butler. T. Donnell.

5555. Who is your landlord now?—Mr. Munster.

5556. When did he buy your house?—He bought it in the month of October.

5557. Before the election?—Yes.

5558. Who gave you the order for that 7 l. worth of liquor?—Mr. Laffan gave some of it, and another man gave more of it.

5559. What did Mr. Laffan say when he was ordering it?—He wrote a little order for a man in the street to give the people refreshments.

5560. Did you give any drink to any voters?—No.

Not Cross-examined.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN HANLY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Curtis.

5561. ARE you a Voter of Cashel?—Yes.

5562. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

5563. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Munster.

5564. Who asked you to vote for Mr. Munster?—Mr. Laffan.

5565. Which Mr. Laffan?—Mr. Michael Laffan.

5566. Tell the truth, and nothing will happen you; was anything promised to you for your vote?—Nothing.

5567. Did you get anything for your vote?—I got nothing for my vote.

5568. Nothing of any kind, money or otherwise?—I got no money, sir, nor no promise of it. J. Hanly.

5569. Did any of your family get any money for your vote?—No, sir, there did not.

5570. Did you get any present?—I got a prayer-book.

5571. For your vote?—No, not for my vote.

5572. Did you get any picture?—A maid that does the going with the milk got a little picture; I never got anything for my vote at this election, or any other election.

Not Cross-examined.

[The Witness withdrew.

EDWARD WALSH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

E. Walsh. 5573. You are a Voter?—Yes.
 18 February 1869. 5574. Did you vote for Mr. Munster at the late election?—I did.
 5575. Have you a house in Cashel?—In Main-street.
 5576. Did you let any part of it before the election?—Mr. Laffan came to me one night as I was standing at the door, and said this would be a good place for a tally-room if you have no objection; said I, “I have no objection,” that’s all.
 5577. You let it?—That’s all I done.
 5578. How much were you to be paid for it?—He did not say he would give me anything, nor I did not ask anything.
 5579. You have not been paid anything?—Nothing at all.
 5580. Do you expect anything?—Maybe, I would get something.
 5581. Was it Pat Laffan that this happened with?—Michael Laffan.
 5582. How long before the election?—I believe about three weeks or a month.
 5583. Was your house used at all?—Until the morning of the polling.
 5584. What room did he take?—The front room.
 5585. Upstairs?—Yes.

5586. Did he go to look at it before he took it?—He did not.
 5587. Just stood at the door?—Just stood at the door.
 5588. How was it used the morning of the polling?—There were two or three clerks; I do not know whether it was used at all; I saw them going up.
 5589. You saw no voters there?—No voters.
 5590. And you left it to him?—I did not make any agreement, nor he did not say he would give me anything.
 5591. Whom did you vote for at the former election?—I voted for Mr. Lanigan; I voted at all, and I never got a penny from any of them.
 5592. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did Mr. Laffan say anything to you about your vote?—No, sir, not a word.
 5593. Did anybody ask you for your vote?—No; only Mr. Munster came one day to the door, I told him I would not pledge myself to anyone.
 5594. Mr. Hemphill.] Was that before or after the time Mr. Laffan took the room from you?—It was after it.

Not Cross-examined.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. MICHAEL J. LAFFAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

Mr. M.J. Laffan. 5595. You were the Conducting Agent for Mr. Munster at the late election?—I was.
 5596. Where is your brother, Patrick Laffan?—At present I don’t know.
 5597. When did you last hear from him?—I had no letter since he left Cashel.
 5598. Where did he go to from Cashel?—Dublin.
 5599. Where there?—When in Dublin he lives at No. 5, Nelson-street, but his place of business is the Catholic School of Medicine.
 5600. He lived with you in Cashel?—Yes, he lived with my father.
 5601. Is he in this country now?—I believe not.
 5602. When did he leave it?—I don’t know; I can only form an opinion, because I know nothing of his movements myself; but I believe he left this country in the early part of December.
 5603. And you don’t know where he is gone to?—I heard, but I don’t know.
 5604. Where?—He was in Paris when I last heard.
 5605. He was employed at the late election for Mr. Munster?—Well, not exactly.
 5606. Did he do anything for Mr. Munster?—Oh yes, a great many things; I mean by being employed that he was not an agent in that sense.
 5607. Was he paid anything?—Nothing.
 5608. Oh, is he to be paid by Mr. Munster?—There is no agreement or bargain, or anything else, that he will be; but of course I cannot say whether he will, or will not.
 5609. Do you know Pat Cunningham?—Yes.
 5610. You heard him examined to-day?—I did.
 5611. He was also employed?—He was.

5612. Do you know Mr. Edmond Leahy?—do.
 5613. Is he in Cashel now?—I believe not.
 5614. When did you see him last?—I saw him, I think, last Sunday week; it might be last Sunday.
 5615. Was it in Cashel that you saw him?—Yes, I think, last Sunday.
 5616. Was he employed for Mr. Munster?—Well, I can’t say exactly; he seems to be a particular friend of Mr. Munster.
 5617. Did you see him go about with Mr. Munster?—I did certainly.
 5618. Where was he stopping when he was in Cashel; he does not live in Cashel?—No, he stops at Corcoran’s hotel.
 5619. That is the hotel Mr. Munster had taken, and I suppose his hotel bill was paid by Mr. Munster?—Well, I should think Mr. Richardson paid it; Mr. Leahy’s expenses at that hotel, in my opinion, are included in the 200*l.* paid to Mrs. Corcoran.
 5620. You, yourself, had an account at the bank?—Yes.
 5621. What other agents were employed for Mr. Munster besides those parties; I won’t call them agents?—Mr. George Richardson and myself were the two agents. At the beginning we employed, at least we thought we did,—his lordship decided against us,—those agents that were retained, and I think there were two or three since, employed as clerks.
 5622. Now Mr. Laffan, did you give those five guinea retainers with the view of really employing those men?—Well, I must explain the view—
 5623. Answer first, and then explain?—Well, I can’t well answer it without giving an explanation.
 5624. Very

5624. Very well?—One night we were discussing the election at Abbeyview in the presence of Mr. Munster. I told him, as well as I recollect, that Mr. O'Beirne and his agents had bills out for the greater part of the electors since the former election. I told him, too, that that, of course, gave him a certain influence; I told him that those parties would be looking out for money at the present election, and generally laid before him, as I thought it right to do, the state of things. He told me then, as he had told me previously, that if a shilling by bribery would put him in for Cashel, he would not give it.

5625. Mr. Munster told you that?—Mr. Munster; but, he said, "If we won't give bribery to them in any shape or form, the best thing is to prevent them from being bribed on the other side, so that if they are bribed and give their votes, they will be of no use." Mr. Munster then directed me to give those parties the five guinea cheques, and acting on his directions, I did so.

5626. That was with the view of preventing them from voting for O'Beirne?—Well, if you wish it, that way; but with the view, I say, of preventing their being corrupted by Mr. O'Beirne.

5627. But to prevent their voting for Mr. O'Beirne?—No doubt; but it would prevent them, both ways; I wish to state—

5628. Don't state anything but in reply to my questions?—I wish you to allow me—

5629. If you say it is in answer to my question?—Certainly, I do; yesterday these retainers were sneered at and laughed at. I got the advice of counsel as to those retainers.

5630. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did counsel advise you not to take back the retainers?—Well, the only counsel that advised that was Mr. Munster.

5631. Was it under the advice of counsel that you threatened to prosecute these men?—

Baron Fitzgerald.] Now, I cannot—

(Witness.)—I will answer that it was.

5632. Mr. Hemphill.] Was that Mr. Munster's advice?—No; the advice of another counsel, an Irish counsel; if I thought they would have been accounted bribery, I would not.

5633. When was Mr. Richardson last in Cashel?—Sometime after Christmas; I can't fix the date for you exactly.

5634. Was this account, or the account of which it is a copy, prepared in your office?—No.

5635. Where was it prepared?—Well, I suppose by Mr. Richardson.

5636. Do you mean to say that you never saw the account before it was sent to the sheriff?—I mean to say that I did see it.

5637. Did you see the bills referred to in that account?—All the bills came to me; that is, I think, nearly all; at all events I got a great lot of them.

5638. Have you them?—I have not one of them.

5639. Where are they?—I gave them to Mr. Richardson.

5640. Were they sent to you?—I put them down on a file and handed them over.

5641. You have none of them now?—Not one.

5642. You drew cheques on your account for the election?—Some small cheques.

5643. Have you got those returned cheques?—I have a few of them.

5644. Have you the block book?—Yes.

5645. I only want what are connected with the election?—They are all mixed up together.

5646. I see a great many of your blocks are blanks?—Yes.

5647. "James Carroll"; was that for goods supplied?—No; it has no reference to—

5648. Just run over the blocks quickly and tell me which of these have reference to the election; don't read out any that have not?—There is no block in this relating to the borough election.

5649. Tell me, how many retainers altogether of five guineas you gave out?—I cannot be very accurate, not having given them myself, but I think between 11 and 14 altogether.

5650. Was 14 the maximum?—I should think so.

5651. How many of those, whom you retained, voted for Mr. Munster?—Well I can only speak of those whom I retained myself.

5652. Didn't you fill up the cheques for all?—Yes; but I did not put in their names.

5653. Do you mean to say you don't know the names of the parties who got those 14 cheques?—I do not; there are eight of them already in the list; those are the eight that voted for Mr. O'Beirne.

5654. Who were the other six?—There is a man named John Dwyer who did not vote at all.

5655. That is nine?—There is a man named Thomas Cooney.

5656. He voted for Mr. Munster?—Yes; there were two men named Neill, they had no votes.

5657. Did you retain them?—Yes.

5658. Was it you or your brother did that?—Well I am not quite sure.

5659. Had their fathers a vote, or are they brothers, those Neills?—I think the father of one has a vote and the brother of another.

5660. And the brother and the son got those five guinea retainers?—They were.

5661. You have counted 12; what were the other two?—Well there were some others.

5662. Was Denis Ryan one of them?—No; the only other one is a man named Denis Phelan, I think.

5663. Was it Martin Phelan?—I did not give it to him.

5664. Do you know if he got it?—My belief is that he did.

5665. Did you not get all those cheques back from the men?—Oh yes; whatever cheques went out I got them.

5666. Was Martin Phelan a voter?—Yes.

5667. And he voted for Mr. Munster?—He did.

5668. Was Pat Ryan a voter?—Not that I am aware of.

5669. Baron Fitzgerald.] (Question not heard)?—To those whom I gave the cheques I told that they could not vote.

5670. Mr. Hemphill.] Was Thomas Rawlins one?—Yes.

5671. You say all these bills were sent into you?—Yes.

5672. And it was your duty, as conducting agent, to look at them, I suppose?—Oh, I am sure I must have looked at them.

5673. Will you tell me what were the "messengers and porters"?—To put it in plain words, it was a mob.

5674. £. 155 15 s.?—Yes.

P

5675. How

Mr.
M. J. Laffan.
18 February
1869.

Mr. M.J. Laffan. 5675. How long were the mob organised?—A few men were employed every day, from the time Mr. Munster came to Cashel till the election.
18 February 1869.

5676. What was the precise time of Mr. Munster coming to Cashel?—I cannot fix it.

5677. About what was it?—I think about the 20th of October; from that to the 26th.

5678. Was the mob organised immediately?—Yes.

5679. How many were in the mob, in round numbers?—Well, I don't know; I never asked.

5680. A mob of men and women, I suppose?—I think men.

5681. Who was the captain of the mob?—A man named Hourigan.

5682. There was some "Lady" captain mentioned?—

Mr. Heron. At your side.

Witness.] I gave orders to keep them at a distance.

5683. Mr. Hemphill.] You say 155 l. 15 s. At what rate were they paid?—Hourigan told me half-a-crown each.

5684. Did that include the drink?—Oh, certainly not.

5685. That was merely given for their services in shouting?—Well, during Mr. Munster's canvas, which he had to do in a carriage, it was necessary to have some of them to keep back the crowd of beggars and women.

5686. And they were a sort of——?—Guard or escort.

5687. There are one or two other matters, that I see, cars and drivers, 19 l. 9 s. 2 d.; who was that paid to?—That was paid variously. I think the drivers of cars had 100 l.

5688. Alone?—I think so.

5689. And the car owners, how much?—I don't know that the car owners have been paid at all. I am not aware.

5690. Did you employ any of the voters' cars?—Yes, certainly.

5691. Just name some of them?—Pat Maunsell, John Quirk, Pat Ryan; I don't think there was anyone else.

5692. I see here, "Agents and messengers, 49 l. 18 s. 8 d." who were the "Agents;" we won't mind the "Messengers"?—I can't well know what way Mr. Richardson compiled that from the different items before him; but if you will allow me to look at it (document handed to witness)—I rather think; well I don't know whether Richard O'Donnell's pay is included in that. It may be a separate payment to him.

5693. Who were the "agents," to whom the 49 l. refers?—That is, they were something better than those represented by the 155 l.

5694. But who were they?—I could hardly give the names.

5695. What agents were employed besides those you have mentioned?—There was, as agent, no one but Cunningham employed to do anything only as messengers and clerks of that kind.

5696. There are two remarkable items; "Cash to sundry persons on account as agents 42 l."; and immediately after, "Sundry agents and messengers, 49 l. 18 s. 8 d."; and "Sundry small sums, messengers and others, 20 l.; ditto, ditto, ditto, 19 l. 10 s. 8 d."; that is irrespective of the large item for the mob; that comes to 131 l. in round numbers. Can you tell me who were the agents represented by that large expenditure?—I cannot. I could not give you the particulars.

5697. The bills were handed to you?—By me to Mr. Richardson.

5698. Then you saw the bills?—Certainly.

5699. You cannot tell how that is made up?—I cannot, because I was not at the payment of them.

5700. Cunningham is not included in that, because he has 30 l. besides?—So I see. For instance, there were some messengers put down, after the election specially, for 1 l. or 30 s.; and very likely they are included in that 49 l.

5701. I see 5 l. for Hourigan, besides the 155 l.?—Yes.

5702. Now how many houses were engaged or hired by Mr. Munster, for the purpose of the election, altogether; I don't mean Abbeyview, and John Street?—First, Mrs. Corcoran's hotel, there was a room taken in that, the second bedroom; and when the election was approaching, we had to use the whole drawing-room floor; then we were limited, and we had to descend into the coffee-room. The next house taken, that I am aware of, was Ryan and Murnane's. The next house taken was Carroll's at the Lower-gate. Carroll is a voter; Coffey's.

5703. Any other house?—Edward Walsh's; I told him I would use it as a tally-room, without making any bargain.

5704. Where is his house?—It is just at the corner of John-street.

5705. Any other?—I heard to-day; in fact I heard yesterday; Mr. Grace handed me the list. I heard before that, Phelan's house was taken.

5706. Was Mr. O'Sullivan's house taken?—No.

5707. Or any room in it?—No.

5708. Was Thomas Donnell's?—No.

5709. Was John Reilly's?—No.

5710. Or Rody Fogarty's?—No; I am speaking of what I am aware of, or heard.

5711. From your own knowledge, or heard people about you?—Yes.

5712. Was John Arthur's?—No; but the "Telegraph" office was taken from him; he is the landlord of the "Telegraph" office.

5713. Has he a vote?—He has.

5714. Do you know what was paid for the "Telegraph" office?—I think 25 l. or 26 l.

5715. What did the telegraph cost from Goold's-cross to Cashel?—I think they paid the Telegraph Company about 300 l.; and I should think I paid here, 50 l. or 60 l. for fitting up the house.

5716. Was James Walsh's house taken?—No; not that I am aware of.

5717. Nor Denis Dwyer's?—Nor Denis Dwyer's.

5718. Nor John O'Brien's?—No.

5719. Nor Mathew Dwyer's?—No.

5720. Nor Thomas Rolland's?—No.

5721. Do you mean to tell his Lordship that you don't recollect any other house, except those that I have mentioned?—I do.

5722. Taken for tally-rooms or anything else?—Yes.

5723. Had Mr. Munster a committee?—No, he had not a committee; but his supporters used to meet sometimes, and he used to address them; he had no committee.

5724. On what publicans were orders given to supply drink previous to and during the election?—The orders I gave myself.

5725. Yes?—

5725. Yes?—I gave an order to Thomas Donnell to give some drink to the mob.

5726. Did you give him an unlimited order?—No.

5727. What was the limit?—Well, I could not tell you at present; but I know it was limited.

5728. Did you pay him?—I think I paid him 3 l. on account.

5729. How much do you owe him?—I don't know.

5730. Did he furnish a bill?—He did.

5731. What was the amount of the bill?—Unless his own swearing, I don't know; I could not tell you now.

5732. Any other publican?—I don't recollect myself giving an order to anyone else.

5733. Do you know of any publicans to whom orders were given?—Mrs. O'Donnell.

5734. Where is she?—She lives in Main-street.

5735. Is she the daughter of a voter?—Yes; but she does not live with him.

5736. What order was given to her?—I did not give it.

5737. Did she furnish a bill?—Yes.

5738. How much did she claim?—I think she claims 40 l.

5739. What was the drink supplied there for?—I think to the butchers, principally.

5740. Have the butchers votes?—None of those to whom it was supplied.

5741. Do you know the names of the parties to whom it was supplied?—Well, I think, a man named Butler.

5742. He got the whole 40 l.?—I don't know whether 40 l.'s worth was given. I only know that the bill was sent in.

5743. He was to distribute it?—I heard, generally, that the butchers got the drink.

5744. They form a fraternity of some eight or ten?—No; I exclude the voters.

5745. Are you sure that a butcher who was a voter never took a sup?—I cannot swear that, but I know my impression and belief is, that it was not exactly the voters that drank it; it was only the others. The butchers who have votes were rather above that; they were not likely to be parties.

5746. Don't you know that Michael Noonan got some of it?—Well, I won't answer.

5747. From Mrs. Donnell's?—There was some, I am sure.

5748. At John Reilly's?—Yes. I think I ordered a drink to be sent on enight to the men on guard at the Abbeyview, and I ordered it either from Reilly's or Fogarty's; I suppose about a quart.

5749. Was there any ordered at Michael O'Sullivan's?—I am not aware that I ordered any.

5750. Did he send in a bill?—He sent in a bill for drink.

5751. For how much?—I think it was 48 l.

5752. On whose order was it given; was it Mr. Munster's?—No, I am sure Mr. Munster never ordered any.

5753. Was it Pat Laffan?—Very likely.

5754. I believe John Mullins is a publican, and sells drink?—Yes.

5755. He is a voter?—He is.

5756. Did he bill you for any drink after the election?—No, I am sure not.

5757. Was there any drink ordered at his house?—Not by me.

5758. Used not voters be constantly in and out of Corcoran's hotel?—Well, not constantly.

5759. Were they often?—Oh, yes, there were some persons who were continually there at night; some of our supporters would drop in when we were taking punch, and we would ask them to take a glass of punch.

5760. You would not think there was any harm in that?—Certainly not.

5761. That, we may suppose, is what made up the ingredients of this 220 l. bill?—Certainly. That did not often occur, though.

5762. Weren't you every night of your life at Corcoran's hotel, with a party of voters and non-voters?—We were there.

5763. Every night?—I should think nearly every night.

5764. Were you ever there a night yourself that you did not see from 20 to 30 voters there getting unlimited liquor?—I did not see so many. I only saw 50 or 60 there three or four times. I cannot tell you; perhaps it would range from five to 20.

5765. Voters?—Well, I won't say voters.

5766. Coman voted for you?—Yes.

5767. Did he bill you for any drink?—Yes.

5768. How much?—He billed me for 8 l. 3 s., the principal item of which was forty bottles of whisky, given on Christmas Day by Mr. Munster's orders.

5769. To whom?—To some of the labouring men in the town.

5770. Were there any half barrels of porter?—There were two half barrels of porter.

5771. Was that brought on the day of the meeting of the commoners?—I can't tell you.

5772. Did you go with Mr. Munster?—I did.

5773. Was there a large assemblage?—There was.

5774. Do you know of any drink being given on that day?—I do.

5775. How much?—I got some brandy from Cunningham. He told me they had a bottle of brandy, and I got it from himself or his father. That is the only drink, and it is just possible that while I was drinking, some other persons may have come up.

5776. How much money of Mr. Munster's did you yourself spend about the election?—Some 600 l. or 700 l.

5777. Have you been paid; I don't want now to pry into private affairs; have you been paid your own election charges by Mr. Munster?—I got a hundred guineas.

5778. Haven't you other demands?—Oh, certainly. That is, I expect to get more than 100 guineas, and to be paid for other proceedings afterwards, and legal matters.

5779. You spent 700 l.?—Yes.

5780. All on the election?—I think about that. Ah, well! it was mixed up in various ways; I paid a lot of money for cars; Mr. Munster was continually driving about town.

5781. Canvassing?—No; there were cars; three or four cars, and himself with them, up and down the town all day; he paid for them; I don't think they belonged to the election at all.

5782. Was not Patrick Cunningham's father's house taken, in addition to those you have mentioned, or a room in it?—No.

5783. Was not he one of those who supplied the drink?—Yes, I should think so.

5784. He is a publican?—Yes.

5785. And a voter?—And a voter.

Mr.
M. J. Laffan.
18 February
1869.

Mr. M.
J. Laffan.
18 February
1869.

5786. How much did he bill you for?—You must refer to his son, for I don't know if he sent any bill at all; I suppose the son perhaps ordered; but I did not send him an order.

5787. Did Mr. Leahy draw any cheques for election purposes?—I don't think he did.

5788. Did you see any of his cheques?—Never.

5789. Did you ever see any?—I never saw a cheque of his.

5790. Where is Captain Dudley Byrne now?—I cannot tell.

5791. Did you see Mr. Boyton often in "Corcoran's Hotel"?—He might have been there once or twice.

5792. Did you see him?—I think I saw him once or twice, not more.

5793. Have you seen him at Abbeyview frequently?—Certainly; he was staying with Mr. Munster, I think, after the election.

5794. Used he, Mr. John Boyton of the bank, to be at your office?—I don't think he ever was in the office; I am certain he was not there during the election, nor since, in my opinion.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

5795. Tell us, Mr. Laffan, what occurred between you and Con Carroll?—Con Carroll came to me several times to know whether I was not going to get his house taken, or to do something for him; I did not see my way to it; I had not it done at that time, and I don't exactly recollect now any further interview. Oh, yes! now I recollect; I quite forgot it. One Sunday, Coman and I were going to the news-room. Con Carroll came up, and wanted us to give an order for whisky; for me to give Coman an order for whisky which he was to get; I said I could do no such thing.

Re-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

5796. You are aware that Mr. Munster gave 500 l. for the Christian Brothers?—I am.

5797. When was that given; about when?—It was before the election.

5798. Was it in October or November?—Well, I should think he was not there many days before that; I should think probably it might be the 1st of November.

The Witness retired.]

The Court then adjourned for 20 minutes.

Upon the Court resuming,

The Rev. DANIEL RYAN was sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

Rev.
D. Ryan.

5799. You are the Catholic Curate of this town?—Yes.

5800. Do you know Mr. Michael Laffan?—I do.

5801. Had you a conversation with Mr. Michael Laffan in reference to the election?—No, I don't think I had. I had with his brother, Pat Laffan.

5802. About signing a requisition?—Yes; he asked me to put my name to a requisition to call a Mr. Munster to come forward and stand as a candidate for the representation of Cashel.

5803. Was that what he said?—Yes.

Mr. Butt objected to this conversation.

Objection disallowed.

Witness.] I told him that I did not like the idea of a contest at all in Cashel; that it would bring a great deal of disturbance amongst the people; that I would like to avoid a contest, as we had a very good man already, and that it was only money-hunters who were looking for a person to overset him, and that he could not expect me to put my name to the requisition. "Oh," said he, "had you put your name to the requisition, I intended asking Mr. Munster for 40 l. or 50 l. for the Vincent de Paul Society." "Oh," said I, "you could not think that I could do anything that way, even for charity." He then said, "Holy Mother Church has a very wide mouth." "It is strange," said I, "to see that those who owe most to the Church are the first to speak against her, such as you." That's all the conversation.

5804. Were you yourself afterwards prohibited from taking any part in the election, Dr. Ryan?—

Mr. Butt objected to the question.

Baron Fitzgerald.] What have we to do with that?

Question disallowed.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

5805. Did you call Mr. Munster, at any public meeting, an emissary of Beelzebub?—No, I never did in a public meeting. I never mentioned Mr. Munster's name.

5806. Did you in any place call him an emissary of Beelzebub?—Never.

Mr. PIERCE GRACE, recalled; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

Mr.
P. Grace.

5807. You were the conducting agent of Mr. O'Beirne at the late election?—Yes.

5808. When were you first retained?—I can't remember. Indeed, I should say three months before the election.

5809. I believe you got ill shortly after your retainer?—Sometime afterwards; shortly afterwards.

5810. Was it before or after Mr. O'Beirne came to Cashel first that you got ill?—It was before it.

5811. And you were ill when he arrived?—Yes.

5812. Were you long confined to your house?—I think about a month, or perhaps more.

5813. Did you ever employ Denis Guirey to do anything for Mr. O'Beirne?—Never.

5814. Did

5814. Did you give him any authority-what-ever?—None.

5815. Did you ever employ Captain Graham, or authorise Captain Graham to act for Mr. O'Beirne?—No.

5816. Did you employ anyone in connection with the election, Mr. Grace?—Well, I did not.

5817. You conducted the business yourself?—Yes.

5818. And the clerks, I suppose, in your office, did the scrivenery business, any that there was?—There was very little scrivenery business to be done.

5819. There was a man of the name of Keefe; was he authorised by you in any way to act?—No.

5820. I think his name is Michael Keefe?—Michael.

5821. Do you know that man, Michael Ryan?—Yes.

5822. Were you present at any time, at any conversation between him and —?—And Mr. O'Beirne. I was.

Mr. Butt.] I object, unless it be some conversation that we have given evidence of.

Mr. Hemphill.] He was called by you.

Question allowed.

5823. What was it; did you hear Mr. O'Beirne say anything to Michael Ryan, or Michael Ryan to Mr. O'Beirne in reference to this?—In the first place, Ryan stated that I was present when the arrangement was made that his house was taken. That was a mistake on his part; but I was present afterwards at a conversation between himself and Mr. O'Beirne about that house. Mr. O'Beirne told me that Ryan wanted to get more money for his house, and I told Mr. O'Beirne to get whatever money he had given Ryan, and to give it up.

Mr. Butt.] Was Ryan present?

Baron Fitzgerald.] We cannot have conversations between —

Witness.] Ryan came in just at the same time, and Mr. O'Beirne then offered to give up the house to Ryan and leave him at full liberty to do what he pleased with it, and to get back the money he had paid.

5824. Did Ryan say anything to that offer?—No; Ryan kept the money, and Mr. O'Beirne kept the house.

5825. You know Mr. Pat. Laffan?—Yes.

5826. Did you issue a subpoena with his name on it in this matter?—Yes.

5827. Did you make any effort to serve him?—I inquired for him at the School of Medicine in Cecilia-street, Dublin.

5828. When did you inquire for him first?—I think it is about ten days' since; something about that.

5829. Were you informed that he had left, or what?—I saw his brother there who is a demonstrator; another brother, and he told me that he had not seen him for some time. I then inquired from his brother where his lodging was, and he told me at a house in Nelson-street; I think No. 5.

5830. Did you inquire at Nelson-street?—I inquired; I am not sure of the name of the street; I think that is the name; I inquired, however, at 121.

the number of the house that they gave me, and saw a woman there who told me he had not been at that lodging for some time past.

5831. Did you make inquiries in Cashel at Michael Laffan's house?—I did not, but another person did.

5832. You were not able to serve him with a subpoena?—No.

5833. Did they tell you at his lodging that he had left the country?—No.

5834. You know Captain Dudley Byrne?—Yes.

5835. Did you see him active about the election?—Yes.

5836. Did you put his name to a subpoena?—Yes.

5837. Did you make efforts to serve him?—I gave the subpoena to be served on him; that is all the effort I made.

5838. He has not been served?—He has not.

5839. Do you know Mr. Leahy?—Yes.

5840. I believe he is a brother of the Archbishop of Cashel?—Yes.

5841. Did you see him active for Mr. Munster at the election?—Yes.

5842. Is he in Cashel now?—I am not aware that he is.

5843. Did you try to serve him with a subpoena?—I put his name to a subpoena to be given to him, as I did in the case of Captain Dudley Byrne.

5844. And he has not been served?—No; I gave directions that every effort should be made to serve both those gentlemen.

5845. Baron Fitzgerald.] When you say that those parties were employed as agents, you spoke of persons for payment?—I employed no persons for payment or otherwise.

5846. To your knowledge was anyone employed?—Not to my knowledge.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

5847. In truth, Mr. Grace, you took very little part in the election at all?—Very little.

5848. In fact you left it very much to —?—In fact I was not able to take a part in it; I was ill; I suppose I was not out, perhaps, more than a fortnight before the election, and I was not very well able.

5849. You did not interfere?—Not very much.

5850. As to Captain Graham, do you know where Captain Graham lives?—At present?

5851. Where does he generally live?—He had a residence at Maryville, here in town, which he disposed of before the election.

5852. Then at the time of the election he had no residence in Cashel?—None.

5853. Did he come back to Cashel at the time of the election?—Yes.

5854. Didn't he take much more part in the election than you did?—He certainly acted a friendly part towards Mr. O'Beirne.

5855. He was certainly more active than you were?—I daresay he was.

5856. And a great many others were more active?—No doubt of it.

5857. Wasn't Captain Graham constantly with Mr. O'Beirne?—Well I cannot speak of that; I was ill.

5858. Well, you had an opportunity of seeing?—I don't think more than other people.

Mr. 5859. What other people were there?—Mr. many people; Mr. O'Beirne seemed to have
P. Grace. O'Connell, Mr. Laffan, Mr. Hanly. I cannot troops of friends.

CAPTAIN JOHN GRAHAM, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

Captain 5860. I BELIEVE you are a Justice of the J. Graham. Peace of the county Tipperary?—I am.

5861. And also a Captain in the Tipperary Light Infantry?—Yes.

5862. Had you a residence in Cashel before this last year?—I had.

5863. Maryville, I think, is the name of the place?—Yes.

7864. Did you reside there with your wife and family?—Yes.

5865. Where did you remove from that place?—To Kingstown.

5866. When was that?—I have been off and on there for the last year and a-half; but I keep my house in Cashel.

5867. Did you remove with Mrs. Graham and your family in the year 1867?—Yes, I think about a year and a-half ago.

5868. You kept the house on for some time?—I did.

6869. Did you afterwards let Maryville?—I did, to Captain Andrews.

5870. About what time, I am not precise as to dates, did you let the house?—I think about May or April, I am not quite sure.

5871. In 1868. You have property in the neighbourhood of Cashel?—I have, and in Cashel.

5872. And though you left Maryville had you occasion to come to Cashel generally on business?—Constantly.

5873. Have you relatives residing in Cashel?—I have.

5874. In the year 1868, after selling Maryville, did you come down to Cashel?—I did.

5875. About what time did you first come?—I have been several times.

5876. Going backwards and forwards; well, do you know a person of the name of Broune in town?—Yes.

5877. Did you take lodgings at Broune's?—I did.

5878. When was it that you took lodgings at Broune's?—In September.

5879. Did you keep the lodgings?—I did.

5880. What were they?—A bed-room and sitting-room.

5881. I believe you are an intimate friend of Mr. O'Beirne's?—Yes, for some time.

5882. And have known him for some?—For some years.

5883. Was Mr. O'Beirne in Cashel when you took Broune's lodgings?—He was not.

5884. He had not arrived?—No.

5885. Do you know a man of the name of Murnane?—I do.

5886. Did Murnane ever promise you to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—He did.

5887. When did he promise you?—In September; early in September.

5888. Had you, before that, communicated with Mr. O'Beirne about asking Murnane to vote, or anyone else to vote?—No, never.

5889. Had you any authority, at that time, from Mr. O'Beirne to solicit votes for him?—None whatever.

5890. Had you, at any time, authority from Mr. O'Beirne to solicit votes?—No.

5891. Or to canvass for him?—No.

5892. Or to act in any way in connection with the election?—None.

5893. Do you know a person of the name of Michael Ryan?—I do.

5894. Did you ever speak to Ryan about his vote?—Never.

5895. Did you ever look at Ryan's house with a view to taking it?—I did.

5896. When did you look about it?—Before I took Broune's house.

5897. Did he ask any price for it?—He asked 40 l. for his house.

5898. And did you take it?—No.

5899. Or agree to take it?—No.

5900. Was it after that, that you took Broune's house?—It was.

5901. Had your conversation with Ryan anything to do with O'Beirne?—None whatever.

5902. Or to the election?—None whatever.

5903. Do you know a man of the name of Pat Mackey?—I do.

5904. Did you look at his house?—I did.

7905. Or rooms rather. Was it the house, or rooms?—Rooms.

7906. At what time did you do so?—Immediately after looking at Murnane's, and before I took Broune's.

5907. What did he ask?—He asked 40 l.

5908. Did you agree to take them?—I did not, I liked his rooms very much, and I said I would consider about it.

5909. Did you leave him under the impression that you would take them, or anything of that sort?—Not intentionally.

5910. But you said you liked the rooms?—Yes.

5911. After that you took Broune's house; what did you pay for Broune's house?—20 l.

5912. For a bed-room and a sitting-room?—Yes.

5913. And you kept them?—Yes.

5914. Baron Fitzgerald.] When he asked 40 l., for what time was it?—About two months. I intended remaining until after the election. That is the reason that I said two months.

5915. Were you generally, in any way, authorized either by Mr. O'Beirne, or Mr. Grace, to act for him in reference to the election?—Certainly not.

5916. Do you know Mr. Close?—I do.

5917. Had you known Mr. Close for some time; has he been long in Cashel?—Oh yes, a good many years.

5918. You are a Cashel man yourself?—I was born here.

5919. Do you recollect how Mr. Close voted in 1865?—For Mr. O'Beirne.

5920. Had you any conversation with Mr. Close in reference to the election?—I had.

5921. When was it, as well as you can fix the time, that you had the conversation?—About four weeks before the election.

5922. The nomination took place on the 18th of of November?—The 18th of November; about four weeks; about a month before that.

5923. Have you any means of fixing the time? Except that.

5924. Where did you meet Mr. Close?—At Dunne's hotel.

5925. That is where Mr. O'Beirne was staying at the time?—Yes.

5926. What conversation had you with Mr. Close?—Merely saying to Mr. Close, "I intend asking Mr. O'Beirne to employ your son as an agent during the election," and he replied by saying that he was very much obliged, but that he thought his son would not be here at the time; that he was looking for a situation, and was likely to get it. I said, "Very well, if he is, he may as well earn 15 l. or 20 l." and he said he was very much obliged.

5927. Was that the entire of the conversation with him?—The entire.

5928. Did you write on a piece of paper 20 l., or anything of that sort?—I did not.

5929. You mentioned what you said?—I said 15 l., or 20 l.

5930. In speaking to him in that way did you convey to him that you were seeking to influence his vote?—I did not.

5931. Did you, at the time, intend to procure any employment for his son when you spoke to him?—I did, from Mr. O'Beirne.

5932. Had you, before that, spoken to Mr. O'Beirne at all about getting employment for him?—I had not. It was entirely from myself.

5933. After that do you recollect meeting the son?—I did, about a week after that.

5934. Is it Mr. Harry Close; had you any conversation with him?—I had. I met him opposite to Dr. Coyle's, and I asked him if he wished to be employed for Mr. O'Beirne, and he said he did not.

5935. When you had the conversation with his father, the elder Mr. Close, were you aware how he was going to vote?—I believed that he was going to vote for Mr. O'Beirne.

5936. Why did you believe that?—From his having voted so on the former occasion, and having heard nothing to the contrary.

5937. He says that you followed him into the lobby out of Mr. O'Beirne's room at Dunne's, to a small passage on the top of the stairs; that you called him to one side, and said, "Mr. Close, I shall be very happy to give your son some employment during the election." He said, "Well, Captain Graham, he is under a nomination for the Civil Service from Lord Hawarden, and I am not sure whether he will be here at all." "Well," said you, "I know you would be very glad of it."

5938. Baron Fitzgerald.] Is that correct?—As to the situation, it is.

5939. When you first saw him, were both he and you in Mr. O'Beirne's room?—He was in the room.

5940. Was it when going outside that he spoke to you?—It was, my Lord.

5941. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you say, "I know you will be very glad of it, I will give him that,"—writing on a piece of paper 20 l.?—No. Such a thing never occurred, my Lord.

5942. You have stated what did occur?—Yes.

5943. Did you say, "Captain Graham, I will think about it; I cannot say that my son will be here at all, and I must think about it?"—Yes; something to that effect.

5944. Did you say, "I cannot speak to you yourself, but I can speak to your son"?—No.

5945 "Or that your son can manage the thing, or arrange it"?—No.

5946. Baron Fitzgerald.] Nothing of that kind at all?—No, my Lord, nothing bordering on it.

5947. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you say I cannot engage you, for what is done must be done through your son?—No; I said no such thing; what I stated at the time, I now state.

5948. Did you say, "I cannot speak to you, I can speak to your son"?—No; I was speaking to him at the time.

5949. You say you had a conversation with the son; do you recollect his meeting you? You met him at Dunne's Hotel?—No; it was opposite to Dr. Coyles.

5950. Did you meet him more than once?—No. Oh! I often saw him in the street, but never to speak to him.

5951. When you met him, what did you say to him, or he to you?—I asked him if he was inclined —

5952. What he says is this. "He," said he, that is you, "said you would be very glad to do anything for him. I would be glad to have his father on our side; and anything that is done must be done through him." Did you say that?—No.

5953. Did you say anything to that effect, Captain Graham?—No.

5954. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you ever say that you would be glad to have his father on your side?—No, my Lord.

5955. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you say, "I have offered your father 20 l. for your services; of course we do not want your services, you know what it's for"?—No, I did not.

5956. Or anything to that effect?—No.

5957. Do you recollect meeting him subsequently to that at all?—No; I have no recollection, except in the street.

5958. But I mean speaking to him?—No.

5959. Did he on a subsequent occasion meet you, and did you ask him had he made up his mind?—Not after that.

5960. It was stated, and appeared in the bank book, that you sent a cheque for 83 l. to the National Bank for Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes, I did.

5961. Can you state under what circumstances you did that; that was on the 28th of November, I think, according to the entry in the book?—It was after the election. Mr. O'Beirne came to my house a couple of days after, I think about nine o'clock. He had got a letter, and I had got another from Mr. Barron, the manager, stating that his account was overdrawn by 83 l. Mr. O'Beirne was to leave next morning by the boat, and I said, "I will write to Mr. Barron, and transfer 83 l., or 82 l., whatever it was, from my account to yours;" and he said he was very much obliged, and would send it to me from London, which he did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Cartan.

5962. You say you took lodgings at Broune's?—Yes.

5963. What kind of place is Broune's?—Broune himself is a watchmaker.

5964. What kind of a house is it?—It is one of Captain

J. Graham.

of the ordinary houses in the street; it has a shop.

5965. Now, is it a good house, Captain Graham?—Well, I think, of its kind, it is very good.

5966. Now, is Broune's the house in Cashel that a gentleman would select to take lodgings in for his own use?—I did so.

5967. And you positively state that you took those lodgings in Broune's for your own use?—Positively, and for no one else.

5968. Are you staying at Broune's now?—No, I am not.

5969. Where are you staying now?—With Captain Minchim, on a visit.

5970. Did you ever sleep at Broune's?—Of course I did.

5971. How many times altogether did you sleep at Broune's?—Every night for five or six weeks; five, at all events.

5972. How long were you in Cashel about the election?—About two months, except for a couple of days, when I went to Cork.

5973. Where do you live?—In Kingstown.

5974. Might I ask you, Captain Graham, what brought you to Cashel?—My own private business; I receive my own rents, and whatever is to be done in the way of management of my property I do myself; I have neither agent nor bailiff.

5975. Do I understand that your coming to Cashel had nothing whatever to do with the election?—At that time certainly not; I was very anxious to be here during the election, and I intended it.

5976. You collect your rents?—Yes.

5977. Was that the private business that brought you to Cashel?—Amongst others.

5978. How many tenants have you?—I should think about 50; I could not tell you; 40 or 50.

5979. Are you in the habit of coming to Cashel to collect your rents?—I am.

5980. How long does it take you?—Sometimes a short time.

5981. Are they so badly paid that it takes two months to collect them?—No, indeed; they are the best paid rents in the country.

5982. Baron Fitzgerald.] I understood Captain Graham to say that he offered to take the house for two months because he intended to stay over the election?—I did.

5983. Mr. Cartan.] How long do you know Mr. O'Beirne?—Eight or ten years; since he first contested Cashel; I was opposed to him at that time.

5984. Were you in Cashel at the election of 1865?—I was.

5985. Were you an active supporter of Mr. O'Beirne then?—I was.

5986. What do you mean by saying that you were opposed to him?—When he first contested the representation I was opposed to him; he contested Cashel three times.

5987. Were you an active supporter of Mr. O'Beirne this time?—I was very anxious, indeed, for him.

5988. You were here in Cashel when Mr. O'Beirne was here before the election?—I was, a portion of the time.

5989. I suppose you saw him every day?—I did very nearly.

5990. Several times a day?—I did frequently, and dined with him.

5991. Did you see Mr. Grace?—I saw Mr. Grace, perhaps, two or three times a day.

5992. Did you ever confer with him about the election?—I very often talked to him.

5993. You canvassed for Mr. O'Beirne?—I asked votes for him.

5994. Did Mr. O'Beirne know you were canvassing?—I don't think he did, for it was before Mr. O'Beirne came that I asked.

5995. Now Captain Graham?—Oh, I don't know what Mr. O'Beirne knew at the time.

5996. Do you mean to say you don't know Mr. O'Beirne knew you were canvassing?—

Well, I am quite sure he must have known it; he must have known I was anxious about him.

5997. Did you ever tell him you had been asking votes for him?—Of course I did.

5998. Did you and he compare notes together as to the number of votes that were going to support him?—I never had notes, comparing notes, I have often spoken.

5999. You can compare notes without having them written; did you ever tell Mr. O'Beirne how many votes you had got during a particular day?—No, but I often asked him how many he had.

6000. You never told how many votes you had got?—I often asked Mr. O'Beirne what numbers he expected to poll.

6001. That is not an answer to the question I asked you; did you ever tell Mr. O'Beirne what votes you had succeeded in getting promises of?—I may have mentioned names; I am quite sure I did.

6002. Baron Fitzgerald.] To Mr. Grace?—Oh, yes, my lord.

6003. Mr. Cartan.] Do you know Thomas Murphy?—I do.

6004. He was a voter?—He was.

6005. Did you ever go to him about taking his house?—About taking his house, never.

6006. On the day of that interview with Mr. Close, tell me exactly what occurred between you?—Really, I have said it so often—

6007. Baron Fitzgerald.] Were you in the room when Mr. O'Beirne and Mr. Close came in?—I believe I was, my lord; my impression is that I was.

6008. Mr. Cartan.] Did Mr. Close speak to Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes, he did; shook hands with him, and, I believe, introduced his son.

6009. Did he stay long in the room?—Oh, perhaps ten or twelve minutes; really, I could not tell.

6010. Was anything said during that time as to how Mr. Close was to vote?—Not a word; not in my presence.

6011. Then you went outside with him on the landing?—I followed him.

6012. For what purpose did you follow him out on the landing?—To tell him what I have stated.

6013. What was it that you did tell him?—I told him that I would recommend Mr. O'Beirne to employ his son as an agent, and he said he was very much obliged, but he thought he would be away at the time, as he expected a nomination.

6014. Why couldn't you have said that in the room with Mr. O'Beirne?—I might have said it if I liked, but I said it as I told you.

6015. Why didn't you?—I really could not tell you.

6016. You

6016. You cannot give any reason?—I have no reason.

6017. What sum did you propose to give for the services of young Mr. Close?—I did not propose to give anything. I said if he earned 15*l.* or 20*l.* it would be very well.

6018. Had you previously made any arrangements with any other sons of voters about giving them employment?—I had not.

6019. Then this was a special benefit to young Mr. Close?—I think it was.

6020. I would ask you to be sure about that?—Well, I think, if he got it, it would be a benefit to him.

6021. That is not the question I asked; what I asked was this, was it a special benefit for young Mr. Close?—It was a benefit.

6022. Was he the only son of a voter who was to get employment?—Oh, no. If I had had interest for any one else, I would have—

6023. Did you at any other time suggest any other voter whose son was to get employment?—I am not quite sure whether I did not suggest young Cullen.

6024. What's his father's name?—William Cullen.

6025. Did you promise him employment?—No.

6026. Did you promise his father?—I did not.

6027. Did you say anything about giving employment?—I spoke to his son.

6028. What did you say?—I asked him would he wish to be employed for Mr. O'Beirne, and he said he would be very glad; and I believe he was afterwards employed.

6029. Did you mention any scale of remuneration?—No, none whatever.

6030. That day afterwards did you meet young Close in the street?—I did.

6031. Did you meet him more than once?—I had seen him more than once, but I did not speak to him more than once.

6032. What did you say to him on that occasion?—I asked him did he wish to be employed for Mr. O'Beirne; he said something else, used more words, but the substance was "No."

6033. Did you ever say anything to young Close after that day you met him at Mr. O'Beirne's about his father or his father's vote?—No.

6034. Are you sure of that?—Perfectly sure.

6035. Do you know a man named William Sullivan at Bohercly?—No. There is Paddy Sullivan.

6036. Do you know him?—I do.

6037. Do you know a man named Sheehy;

he has a son-in-law named Sheehy?—I don't think he has a son-in-law; I am not sure.

6038. Is it an intended son-in-law?—I don't know.

6039. Do you know a man named Sheehy, a policeman, some connection of his?—I do, but I believe he is not a married man.

6040. Did you ever promise Sheehy a place?—Never.

6041. Did you ever promise Sullivan that you would get Sheehy a place?—Never.

6042. Did you ever say a word to Sullivan about getting Sheehy a place?—Never.

6043. Nor to Sheehy himself?—Never.

6044. Do you know a man named Cahill in the town?—James C. Cahill. I do.

6045. Did you offer his son any employment during the election?—I don't believe I did.

6046. I must ask you to charge your memory now about this?—I remember speaking to Mr. Cahill more than once in his house.

6047. Did you ask Cahill to vote for O'Beirne?—I did.

6048. Did you say anything to him about giving his son employment?—I may have said about his getting employment. I have no recollection of it, but I may have.

6049. With reference to the 83*l.* cheque, you say you got a letter from Mr. Barron, the manager?—I did.

6050. What was in it?—It was saying that Mr. O'Beirne overdraw his account by 82*l.* 15*s.* or 83*l.*, and that Saturday would be the day on which he should return him in his accounts as a defaulter. Mr. O'Beirne got a similar letter.

6051. Have you got that letter?—Oh, I have not; I think I burned it. I am positive I burned it at the time.

6052. Well, that was a letter written with reference to Mr. O'Beirne's account?—It was.

6053. Why was that letter written to you?—Because he knew that Mr. O'Beirne was stopping in my house, and he sent another by the same post to Mr. O'Beirne. He was very anxious, I suppose, that Mr. O'Beirne should not be returned as a defaulter.

6054. That seems to have been a very unusual proceeding. Had there been any dealings between you and Mr. O'Beirne with the bank?—Except that 83*l.*

6055. But had there been any previous dealing between Mr. O'Beirne and you, and the bank, from which Mr. Barron, the manager, would naturally have written to you?—No.

6056. No dealing whatever?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. JAMES LYSTER O'BEIRNE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

6057. I BELIEVE you contested Cashel, in 1857, unsuccessfully?—Unsuccessfully.

6058. You were elected in 1865?—I was.

6059. When did you, after the dissolution of the late Parliament, first come to Cashel?—I came about the 10th of October.

6060. Had you previously issued your address?—I had issued a short address.

6061. Do you recollect the date of that address?—I think it was in the end of August.

6062. Up to the time of your coming to Cashel had there been any indication of a contest?

test?—I had heard of it two or three days before.

6063. Two or three days before the 10th of October; but not until then?—Not until then.

6064. Had you up to that time made any preparations for a contest?—I had not.

6065. Had you, before you arrived at Cashel, retained Mr. Grace as your conducting agent?—I had retained Mr. Grace more than a year before.

6066. As your conducting agent?—Yes.

Mr. J. L.

1869.

6067. When you arrived in town Mr. Grace was ill?—I found Mr. Grace in fever.

6068. Where did you take up your abode when you first came?—I staid at Dunne's hotel.

6069. And you had the accommodation that we heard of, the two rooms and the three bedrooms?—I had.

6070. After arriving, did you make a personal canvas of the town?—In some eight or 10 days afterwards.

6071. Did you go round most or all of the voters?—I went to a large number of the town voters on the first day.

6072. Were you well received on the first occasion?—I thought I was.

6073. Did you receive any promises?—Very many.

6074. Do you know a man named Pat Mackey?—I do.

6075. Did he promise to vote for you soon after your arrival in Cashel?—He did.

6076. Did he promise to vote unconditionally? Quite so.

6077. Do you know Mr. Murnane?—I do.

6078. Did you canvass him?—I did.

6079. Shortly after you arrived?—On the first day of my canvass.

6080. He is an old man?—He is a very old man.

6081. Had he supported you at the first election, in 1857?—He was one of my strongest supporters in 1857.

6082. When you canvassed him on this recent occasion, did he promise you or not?—He promised me at once.

6083. I believe there was a person named Michael Ryan living in the same house with him?—There was.

6084. Did you on the occasion that you got Murnane's promise as you have mentioned?—I don't think I did.

6085. Is Ryan a relation of Murnane's?—I have heard since that he is a relation.

6086. Do you happen to know what?—I do not.

6087. Did you canvass Ryan through Murnane on that day?—I did.

6088. Did he say anything about Ryan?—I understood Murnane distinctly to promise that Ryan—

6089. To impress what you said on his mind?—To impress what you said on his mind.

6090. Do you know a voter named Michael Coffey?—I do.

6091. Did you canvass him on that day?—I don't think I did.

6092. Any time after?—Soon after.

6093. Was it before the 7th of October?—I think it was; I cannot fix the date.

6094. At all events, you say it was soon after?—Some three or four weeks before the election.

6095. Did he promise you?—He did.

6096. Was anything said about his house when he promised you?—Not a syllable.

6097. Did he and Murnane promise you unconditionally?—Quite so.

6098. Do you know Thomas Murphy, a voter?—I do.

6099. Did you canvass him yourself?—Yes.

6100. Was it on the first or second occasion?—I cannot tell; several of the voters were out on the first occasion.

6101. Did he promise you?—He did.

6102. Unconditionally?—Quite so.

6103. You say you frequently canvassed them?—Yes; I was in the town for nearly two months.

6104. Had you any committee?—I had not.

6105. Had you any agent except Mr. Grace?—Yes, I had.

6106. Who?—I had Mr. Hogan; John, I think, is his Christian name. I had a man named Simon Tracy.

6107. Did you canvass the Commons?—I did.

6108. Were you well received on the Commons?—I was.

6109. Just generally, may I ask you whether you had met with many refusals on the occasion of your earlier canvass?—As well as I can now recollect I had met with some three or four refusals on the Commons; but all the Commons' voters were not in their houses on the first day that I went there.

6110. Now you know Denis Gurrey?—I do.

6111. Did you ever authorise him in any way to act for you in the election?—Never.

6112. I put that question in the most general way?—Never.

6113. Do you know Michael Keefe?—I do.

6114. Had he anything to say to you during the election?—He had.

6115. What was his office?—He had the charge of paying the people in the street.

6116. That is, what has been called——?—What has been here called the mob.

6117. Well; Patrick Cannon was your expense agent?—Yes, he was an expense agent.

6118. Did you ever authorise his brother Tom to act for you in any form or shape?—No.

6119. As a canvasser, or otherwise?—No.

6120. Did you ever authorise any of those parties; Gurrey, or either of the Connors, to give or get drink for any election?—I gave the most positive instructions I could give that no one, whether friend or otherwise of mine, should give drink to anybody on my behalf at the election.

6121. Were you aware of the illegality of it, or of the consequences?—I was not aware of the consequences. If you will allow me to state the reason I gave that order, was that I had made a pledge to the archdeacon and the clergy that as far as I could prevent it there should be no drinking or riot in the streets.

6122. Now you were staying at Dunne's hotel, as you told us?—I was.

6123. Mrs. Dunne furnished it to Grace, and it came to your hands, I presume, that bill for 106 l. for the entertainment?—She furnished me with a copy of the bill.

6124. Did you give her any directions with reference to giving entertainment to any one?—I did.

6125. What were they?—I desired her distinctly to give no entertainment, and no drink to any elector.

6126. When did you give her that order, do you recollect?—Very soon after going to her hotel.

6127. You have a valet of the name of Raven?—I have.

6128. Were you aware that he was ordering drink?—I was not.

6129. Did you ever authorise him to order it?—Certainly not.

6130. Had he any authority from you except as your body servant?—None whatever.

6131. Had you many friends staying with you occasionally at Dunne's hotel?—I had visitors very very frequently; persons not connected with Cashel, or voters of Cashel.

6132. Several of them have been mentioned; Mr. Morgan John O'Connel?—Many gentlemen came to see me.

6133. Used they to occupy bedrooms?—Once or twice; Mr. Fisher, of Waterford.

6134. That's the editor of the "Waterford Mail"?—Yes; Mr. O'Connor, of Laffena.

6135. He is an influential person in the county?—Yes.

6136. Do you recollect deputations coming to you?—Not to me.

6137. But coming into the town?—Yes.

6138. Did you receive them?—They visited me as they passed.

6139. Mention what deputation?—The first can scarcely be called a deputation. It was a number of gentlemen who went to attend a county meeting at Thurles, and they came back to my rooms on their return from Thurles to Clonmel.

6140. Was that a meeting in connection with the county election?—That was a meeting in connection with the county election.

6141. Was it a large deputation?—A large number of gentlemen.

6142. Did you entertain them, or order anything for them?—I did.

6143. Did they dine, or only take —?—They did not dine; they came in upon me unexpectedly after dinner.

6144. And you ordered wine in the usual way?—Yes.

6145. That's one. Did any other body happen to visit you there in the same way?—Yes; the deputation, which came, I think, from Tipperary to present an address to Archdeacon Quirk, recently appointed to Cashel, came to my rooms from his.

6146. Did you entertain them in like manner?—I did.

6147. Was there any other, do you recollect now, besides the Tipperary and Thurles deputations?—Well, I don't think I can remember another.

6148. Now, with reference to this supplying of drink to any election on any occasion—I am putting it in the most general way—did you order, or authorize anyone to order, drink to be given to any person for the purpose of influencing their votes?—I did not; I never heard of it until I heard of it within the walls of this court-house.

6149. Have you paid 50*l.* for the use of the hotel?—Yes.

6150. Was that a reasonable price for the rooms?—I believed it to be a reasonable price.

6151. In engaging that hotel, did you seek to influence the vote of Dunne?—Certainly I did not. I did not know how Dunne would vote.

6152. Did you ask him?—I did not; he voted against me before.

6153. In the 1865 election?—He did.

6154. I believe the clergy used occasionally to dine with you at Dunne's?—They have; the clergy of the neighbourhood, the Catholic clergy.

6155. That is, of the parts surrounding Cashel?—Not the clergy of Cashel.

6156. I think you told me you saw the detailed items of Mrs. Dunne's account of 108*l.*?—I never have; but I paid 50*l.* on account of it.

6157. Did you say you wrote anything when you were paying that, with reference to the balance?—No, I did not.

121.

6158. Now, we will come to another part of the transaction?—Do you recollect dining at Miss Kitty O'Dwyer's hotel on the 19th of November?—I do, perfectly.

6159. What led to that dinner; were you the guest on the host there?—I was the guest.

6160. Was it a dinner got up for you?—A dinner got up for me.

6161. Did you in any way order that dinner?—Not in the least.

6162. Did you pay for that dinner?—Certainly not.

6163. Or in any way promise to do so?—Never.

6164. Were there a good many voters there?—There were a good many.

6165. Did you leave early in the evening?—I left about between 11 and 12.

6166. Was Mr. Grace at the dinner?—He was not; I think not.

6167. Were you aware whether the door was locked in order that not a man should leave; it was stated here?—I cannot say whether it was or not.

6168. Did you call any list of the voters over at that dinner?—Not at the dinner.

6169. Well, at any time during the evening?—I did before I left.

6170. What was the meaning of that?—The meaning of that was to enable me to see who were the voters who were in town; who were my supporters who were in town.

6171. Did you give, or to your knowledge were any directions given that evening to lock the door and prevent voters from going in and out?—Certainly not. Not with my sanction or knowledge.

6172. Do you know whether during the dinner or afterwards there was a crowd outside; can you state that of yourself?—Only from hearing a noise; I was not outside.

6173. You know Pat. Mackey?—I do.

6174. Did you take a house from him?—I did.

6175. When did you take the house; just state that to his Lordship now, and all the circumstances about the house?—I took the house, I think, three weeks or more before the election. I had no intention of taking the house until I found that my room at Dunne's hotel was inconveniently crowded, and that I could do no business there.

6176. Now, what passed between you and Mackey when you took the house; state the substance of what passed?—I sent for him, and asked him whether he could give me his house, and he said he would. I asked him what was the price, and he said he could not give it at less than 40*l.* I was not satisfied with that amount, but eventually I gave it.

6177. It was not actually paid as I understand?—I have not paid it.

6178. In taking that house did you seek to influence Mackey's vote?—Not in the least. He was pledged to me three or four weeks before.

6179. Was there any reference made at all to his voting on that occasion?—Not a syllable.

6180. Now, we have already heard of Michael Ryan and Murnane's rooms, when did you take those rooms?—I took those rooms very shortly before the election; within a few days.

6181. Will you state to his Lordship why you took those rooms, and for what purpose?—I took the rooms for the purpose of assembling there the Commons' voters. I had long known that the 1869.

Commons' voters were in the habit of frequenting Mr. Murnane's house, and I believed they would rather go there than elsewhere. It was intended by me that they should come there.

Mr. Butt.] Don't say what you intended.
Baron Fitzgerald.] He is at liberty to say for what purpose he took the rooms.

6182. Mr. Hemphill.] What was your arrangement with Mr. Ryan?—Witness.] I don't understand the question.

6183. Did you make any agreement about the rooms?—Yes, I did.

6184. With Ryan?—Yes.

6185. State to his Lordship what it was?—Mr. Ryan asked me 60 l. for the house, which I was not at all satisfied to pay.

6186. Just tell us, as well as you recollect, the substance of what passed between you and Ryan in reference to this house?—Mr. Ryan said he valued his rooms at that amount, as well as I could remember; that he could get that amount for them.

6187. Did he say from whom?—No, I don't think he did.

6188. When he said that did you say anything?—As well as I remember I offered him 40 l., but I cannot positively say. I think I offered him 40 l. which he refused.

6189. Did you finally agree as to the price?—I did.

6190. On the same occasion?—On the same occasion.

6191. Was anything said in reference to his vote on that occasion, or on any occasion?—Not a syllable.

6192. Had you any talk with him afterwards about it before the election?—When I took his room he seemed to wish for payment, and I happened to have some notes with me, and I paid him the 60 l. in notes afterwards.

6193. Did he adhere to his agreement?—He came back on the same day within an hour or less.

6194. What did he say?—He stated that he was not satisfied. I cannot give the exact words; that he could get more for his rooms; and I told him that he was perfectly at liberty to let his rooms if he could get more, and that he had only to return me my money.

6195. Do you recollect whether anyone was present at that conversation?—Mr. Grace was present.

6196. Were those rooms used?—They were not.

6197. Was there any reason why they were not used?—Yes.

6198. What?—The voters whom I intended to put into those rooms on the night before the polling remained at the dinner that was given at Miss O'Dwyer's rooms; and therefore Murnane's rooms were useless to me.

Mr. Hemphill proposed to ask the witness whether on taking those rooms of Ryan and Murnane he in any way intended to influence their votes.

Baron Fitzgerald.] You may ask it.

6199. In taking those rooms and paying 60 l., did you mean to influence the votes of those men, Ryan and Murnane?—Certainly not, I considered that I had a very large majority then, and I did not want two votes.

6200. Now we come to Coffey's house; you took it?—Yes.

6201. For what purpose did you take it?—I was advised, the purpose was to assemble several voters, who lived in the lower end of the town, on the morning of the polling.

6202. Was it to keep them together?—To keep them together. As a tally-room at the lower end of the town. He lives near the lower gate.

6203. Tell what passed in reference to it, when did you first speak about this; you told us already the husband had promised to vote for you?—Long before.

6204. When did you first speak about taking the room?—I daresay the week before the election.

6205. And after he had promised?—Long after he had promised.

6206. Did you look at the room?—I did.

6207. Was Coffey there?—I went to his wife and asked her whether she could give me a room of her house, and she said she thought she could, and asked me could I look at it. I went upstairs with her to look at it, and found that her husband was in bed in the room. It was a good-sized room. He was a baker who works at night.

6208. Did you make any arrangement that day?—I did not.

6209. Did you afterwards take the room?—I did.

6210. What did you offer for the room?—£. 10.

6211. Was she satisfied with that?—She was not.

6212. What did she demand?—She said she should have 20 l. at least.

6213. Did you agree to give 20 l.?—I did.

6214. In doing that, did you seek to influence Coffey's vote?—Certainly not.

6215. Was 20 l. too much for the tally-room?—Well I thought it was dear, I thought it was a high price.

6216. Was there any reason why you should give so high a price?—Yes, there was.

6217. What?—Mrs. Coffey pressed upon me the consideration that the loss of her former husband, who was a supporter of mine in 1865 —

6218. She had been the wife of a former supporter of yours?—She had, yes. She told me that she attributed the loss of his life to his labours in my behalf in 1865, and that he never had any consideration from anybody on my behalf.

6219. Did you use that room as a tally-room?—I did not.

6220. I believe Mr. Munster had taken a room in the same house?—I did not know that then.

6221. Did you afterwards ascertain it?—The day before the nomination I understood that Mr. Munster had taken rooms also in that house.

6222. How did you pay the 20 l.?—I gave Coffey himself my own cheque on the National Bank for 20 l.

6223. Did you give him that before the election?—I gave it to him within a day or two after I saw his wife.

6224. Do you know a man named Thomas Murphy?—I do.

6225. Had Murphy supported you on former occasions?—I don't remember.

6226. Do you recollect, did you go to Murphy's room?—I did not.

6227. Did you take it at all?—I took it on the morning of the nomination.

6228. Did

Mr. J. L.
O'Beirne.

1869.

6228. Did you agree for any price?—I made no agreement. On the morning of the nomination, Murphy came to my room with a number of other electors to escort me to this courthouse; and I heard on the way, a few yards from Dunn's Hotel, that he had a room which might answer the purpose for which I had taken Coffey's. I asked him if he had one, he told me he had, and that he would let it to me; he said he would expect 25 l. for it; I made no bargain, made no reply; I believe from his evidence here that his price was ———

6229. Did you do that to influence his vote?—Certainly not; he came to escort me to the courthouse as a pledged voter.

6230. Did you ever pay that?—I have not.

6231. There was a man named John Hogan? There was.

6232. He is not an elector?—He is not.

6233. State what you did in reference to him?—I was urged by several of my friends to retain John Hogan's services on my behalf to speak and canvass for me the electors whom I knew, and I went down and saw him very reluctantly.

6234. Fix about the time you first spoke to him?—Well, it was before the end of October, as well as I can remember.

6235. Some time before the election?—A long time before the election.

6236. Tell what passed?—I went to his shop and asked him whether I could calculate upon his support, whether he would become an agent of mine and let me reward him for whatever he would do for me; he said he would. Upon that occasion no terms were mentioned. I subsequently saw him and asked him what he expected, and he fixed a figure, which, as well as I remember, was something like 80 l.; I thought that very extravagant, and eventually I agreed with him for 60 l.

6237. Did you give him the 60 l.?—Not then.

6238. Did you afterwards?—I did; I gave him a cheque for 60 l.

6239. On the National Bank of Cashel?—Yes.

6240. Was that given for his services?—The cheque was to remunerate him for his services.

6241. You are aware that that cheque was not presented?—I know it was not.

6242. Did you write to him on the subject?—I did.

6243. When; do you recollect; about when?—Soon after I got back to London I found my account was overdrawn.

6244. That was long after the election was over?—A fortnight, I think.

6245. Why did you write to him then not to present the cheque?—Because I was unwilling that there should be a cheque presented and dishonoured.

6246. You told me that there was a man named Simon Tracy?—Yes.

6247. Do you know where Tracy is?—Certainly not.

6248. Have you seen him since you came to town?—No.

6249. Did you employ this man?—I employed him under the same circumstances as I employed Hogan.

6250. Did you give him a cheque?—I did.

6251. For what amount?—The same amount.

6252. That was 60 l.?—Yes.

6253. Do you know whether that was ever presented?—I know it was not; I told both these men, when I gave them the cheques, that they must not present them without my authority and knowledge.

6254. Do you know about Timothy Hogan?—Yes, I do.

6255. What about him; did you give him?—I gave him a cheque; my own cheque on the National Bank for 20 l.

6256. What did you give that for?—To pay him an account which he claimed as due in 1865, which he stated to me that my then agent, Mr. Johnston, ought to have paid him, but did not.

6257. About what time was this that you had this conversation?—About the third or fourth day after my arrival in town.

6258. Had you seen him before that, or was that the first occasion that you saw him?—I am not certain whether I saw him before or after the first canvass. No, it was before I canvassed.

6259. Will you state to his Lordship exactly what took place on that occasion?—Timothy Hogan came to my room and complained a good deal about not having been paid this sum of money. I intimated to him that I never heard there was any money due to him, and asked him what the money was due for. He said it was an account for car hire and services rendered, I think. I am not quite certain whether he did not also say services rendered to Mr. Johnston, and that he had been very illused, and should have been paid. I then told him I was very unwilling that any of the Cashel people should have any claims against me unpaid, and I paid him the cheque. While I was paying it to him I told him it must be clearly understood that it was to have no influence whatever upon his vote on the present occasion. Before he left the room he told me that, whether I had paid the bill or not, he would have voted for me.

6260. Did you, on paying him that demand of 20 l., seek to influence his vote?—Most positively not.

6261. You gave the cheque?—I did.

6262. Unconditionally?—Unconditionally.

6263. There was a demand you paid of Mrs. Hanly's?—Yes; Mr. Grace paid that.

6264. Was that before you arrived in Cashel?—Long before. I knew nothing of the payment until after I had arrived.

6265. Were you aware that Gurney had these notes?—I was not; I heard rumours of it two years ago.

6266. Until two years ago, did you hear anything of them?—The year after the election of 1865 I heard first of these notes. I paid their accounts; I paid other accounts; I paid Mr. Quirk's account (a printer and car-owner) of 27 l.

6267. Did he vote for you at this late election?—He did not.

6268. Did you pay Mrs. Burke?—I paid Mrs. Burke, a widow.

6269. Had she any connection with voting?—Not that I know of. She came to me one Sunday, and asked me to pay her account. I requested her to furnish it, as I knew nothing of it. She came the next morning, with the items of the account; and I found clothes and various things given, some used by my late agent, at the time of the election of '65; and as she was a widow, and stated that she had given those things in my name, I gave her a cheque for the amount.

6270. Baron Fitzgerald,] Had any application been made by any of these persons, in the interval between the two elections?—One, my Lord; I think Mrs. Burke did write to me once.

Mr. J. L.
O'Beirne.
—
18 February
1869.

6271. Was she a stranger in the town?—I don't know. There were very many applications made for accounts, after Johnston's death, the year after the election, which I was obliged to pay; 500 l. or 600 l.

6272. Do you happen to know the date of Mr. Johnston's death?—October 1866.

6273. Now, I ask you, Mr. O'Beirne, did you, directly or indirectly, by payment of money, or promises, or giving of entertainments, seek to influence any vote at the late election of 1868?—I certainly did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

6274. Was Mr. Charles Johnston your conducting agent in the election of 1865?—He was.

6275. And, of course, authorised to act for you?—Certainly.

6276. We all know you have an account here in the National Bank, and that you drew cheques; have you these cheques?—At this election?

6277. Yes?—I have not, but I daresay they will be here to-morrow morning. I have written for them, but I don't think my letter can be replied to.

6278. When?—On the evening of the day the subpoena was served on me.

6279. What day was that?—Monday last.

6280. Then that letter would be delivered in London on Tuesday evening; on Wednesday morning, at all events?—Yes.

6281. Could not an answer be here?—It ought to be here this afternoon.

6282. It cannot come till to-morrow morning?—Yes, it would come to-morrow afternoon.

6283. To whom did you write?—To my confidential clerk and manager, Mr. Cox.

6284. Did you telegraph to him?—I did not.

6285. Why did not you?—Well, I never thought of telegraphing to him.

6286. Never thought of telegraphing for cheques that you knew would be wanted for this trial?—I did not know they would be wanted, Mr. Butt.

6287. You did not know they would be wanted?—Permit me to finish my answer. I believe that if they wanted the paper the solicitor would have served me, in London, with a subpoena duces tecum to bring them.

6288. Mr. O'Beirne, on Monday, did you know that those cheques would be wanted for this trial?—For the first time I did.

6289. You knew it on Monday?—Certainly.

6290. Why didn't you telegraph?—Well, in giving an answer to that question, I may tell you that I understand Mr. Munster, or whoever the telegraph belongs to, charged 1 s. per word for every message sent to this town during the election.

6291. Was that the reason you did not telegraph?—That was not the reason; I never thought of telegraphing.

6292. Then why did you not; I ask you why you did not?—If I had thought of telegraphing I should have hesitated in consequence of that rule.

6293. Why didn't you think of telegraphing?—I cannot tell you why I did not think of telegraphing.

6294. Did it not ever occur to you that these cheques ought to be here?—It did not.

6295. You never knew that the cheques would be material in an inquiry in which corrupt practices were charged?—I did not.

6296. What is the name of your confidential agent, to whom you have written for these cheques?—William Cox.

6297. Where did you write to him?—To my office in London.

6298. Is he there?—He is.

6299. You have no doubt of that?—I have not the slightest doubt of it.

6300. Now, let me ask you; you appointed an agent for election expenses?—I did.

6301. Did you pay a single particle of expenses through that agent?—Not one single shilling.

6302. Why did you do that?—Because I was in the hands of my legal adviser, Mr. Grace, and I had no intimation or advice from him to do so.

6303. Do you mean to convey to me by that answer that you did not know that the law required you to pay your expenses through an agent?—I do know the law required me, but I did not know what the limit is of time, and I don't now know it.

6304. Do you know that the law made it a misdemeanour for any person to pay any expenses except through an agent?—I do not.

6305. Do you mean to say that, Mr. O'Beirne?—I do, sir.

6306. You are a Member of Parliament?—I am.

6307. And you are a solicitor?—I was, many years ago; 20 years ago.

6308. And do you mean now to tell me that you did not know that the Act of Parliament required you to pay your expenses through an agent for election expenses?—I did not state any such thing.

6309. What did you say?—I said that I did not know that the Act of Parliament fixed any limited time.

6310. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you ever read the section of the Act?—I don't think I ever read the section of the Act, my lord. I know there is such a section, but I don't know the provisions of it.

6311. Mr. Butt.] You have not recognised the importance of your obeying the law or not?—I considered that I was in very safe hands, and I was prepared to do whatever Mr. Grace advised.

6312. Did Mr. Grace advise you to pay your expenses by personal cheques?—He did not.

6313. Did you ever ask him?—I never did.

6314. Then you had no advice from him on that subject?—I had not.

6315. Did you ever read this: "No payment, except in respect of the personal expenses of the candidate, &c., shall be made by or on behalf of any candidate at any election, &c., otherwise than through an agent whose name and address shall be declared in writing to the returning officer on or before the day of nomination, &c." (Vide section referred to.)?—I did not know that section. I have made but one payment since the election, which was to Mrs. Dunne, of 50 l.

6316. Did you make any through your election expense agent?—None whatever.

6317. Did you appoint an agent for election expenses?—I signed the appointment prepared by Mr. Grace on the day of nomination.

6318. For what did you think he was appointed?—For the purpose of paying the expenses of the election.

6319. And you never paid a penny through him?—I never have.

6320. Tell me how much money have you spent spent in this election?—I cannot tell you, but I think the election has cost me about 500 l.

6321. You had 800 l., and 300 l. of it was not spent on the election?—I don't think it was.

6322. Then out of that you spent, in other ways, 300 l.?—About that, I think.

6323. Since you came to Cashel?—Yes.

6324. And 500 l. on the election?—Yes.

6325. Had you any other moneys on hand applicable to election expenses, except what was lodged in the National Bank?—No.

6326. Then when you said you paid some things in notes, were those notes got by you out of the National Bank?—I think they were.

6327. You think, but do you know?—I brought down notes with me from Dublin, and I lodged from time to time 100 l. in notes.

6328. Did you lodge that?—I think so.

6329. Can you tell me how?—I cannot tell you the mode, further than that it was a lodgment in notes.

6330. Had you any money in your hands applicable to election expenses, except what you drew by cheques upon the National Bank?—No.

6331. Then you had no notes that you brought from Dublin?—No.

6332. Did you say now that you had not?—I did.

6333. How have you recollected that since this moment?—I don't think I made any variance in my statement. I did not intend to do it.

6334. Did you say that the only money you paid for election expenses was drawn through the National Bank?—Yes.

6335. Can you tell me generally what the 500 l. that you spent was for?—Yes, I can. The greater part of it was spent in paying the people in the streets.

6336. Paying the mob?—Yes.

6337. How much?—Very nearly the whole of it. Certainly 400 l. and upwards.

6338. Do you mean to say that you paid over 400 l. to the mob in the streets of Cashel?—I think I paid more.

6339. Will you let me ask you how that payment was made to the mob in the streets of Cashel?—In notes drawn from the National Bank.

6340. When did you begin to pay them?—I think the first payment was made on the morning but one after my canvass on the Commons, when there was a public meeting in the town.

6341. Through whose hands was that money paid?—I think part of it was paid through the hands of a man named Canavan.

6342. Who was he?—One of the townspeople.

6343. Was he a voter?—No.

6344. Through whom else was it paid?—There was another man, named Meenahan, a companion of his.

6345. Anyone else?—Yes, Michael Keeffe.

6346. Anyone else?—I don't know anybody else.

6347. Now, who paid the money to Canavan?—I did myself.

6348. How much money did you give to Canavan?—I think I gave him 27 l. or 30 l.

6349. Altogether?—Oh, no; on that afternoon?

6350. I mean altogether?—Altogether? I could not tell you. I have given him very large sums.

6351. How much about; tell me within

15 l. or 20 l.?—I have given him over 60 l. or 70 l.

6352. How much did you give to Meenahan?—I daresay 30 l. or 40 l. I cannot quite say.

6353. Did you give Meenahan 50 l.?—I think I did. I paid him 5 l. a week.

6354. How many weeks was this going on for?—For eight weeks nearly.

6355. Then, 40 l. or 45 l. would represent the payments to Meenahan?—I think it would.

6356. How much did you pay to Keeffe?—I paid Keeffe, I daresay, 180 l. or 200 l.

6357. Was Keeffe a voter?—He was not.

6358. None of these three persons were voters?—No, they were not.

6359. Was Keeffe an agent of yours?—Keeffe was employed by me.

6360. Was he an agent?—Well, if you will tell me what you mean, I will tell you what his business was.

6361. I want to know, did you consider that Keeffe was an agent of yours?—I did not.

6362. I want to know what you meant when you said you employed only two, Simon Tracy, and John Hogan; now tell me what you employed Tracy for?—He was exceedingly ———

6363. Ah, sir; tell me what you employed him for?—I employed him to do what he could for me with the Commons' people, and the voters in his neighbourhood.

6364. For what did you employ Hogan?—For the townspeople; to go to the townspeople; and for the Commons' people also.

6365. Was Simon Tracy to attend to the townspeople, and Hogan to the Commons' people?—I did not divide their duty.

6366. Then these two that you employed to canvass for you, you considered as your agents?—Yes.

6367. And Keeffe, that you gave 200 l. to pay the mob that was organised for you, you did not consider as your agent?—I did not consider him my agent.

6368. On the day you came to Cashel, on the 12th of October, the same day that you lodged 200 l., you drew out 50 guineas; what was that for?—Mrs. Burke.

6369. To pay her this old bill?—It was on a Monday. I think you will find that I came on the 10th.

6370. Did her bill amount to 52 l. 10 s.?—It did.

6371. The next cheque is of the 16th, for 10 l.; what was that for?—I think personal expenses.

6372. On the 17th, 10 l.; what was that for?—I don't know. It was not for personal expenses.

6373. Well, but now, personal expenses ———?—I can't tell you what they were for.

6374. It was not to pay your hotel bill?—No, no. I paid nothing there.

6375. Do you mean by personal expenses money given away in the streets?—Perhaps it was given to Keeffe.

6376. That's not personal expenses?—I cannot tell you what they were for. I will, if I can.

6377. If the cheques were here, you know, they would tell; what do you mean by "personal expenses"?—I was always obliged to have several pounds in shillings in my pockets for the people in the streets.

Mr. J. L. O'Beirne.

18 February 1869.

Mr. J. L.
O'Beirne.

1869.

6378. To give away?—Certainly.

6379. I would scarcely call that personal expenses; I will not go through all these; but there is one most remarkable one on the 20th of October, a cheque for 35 l.; what was that for?—No; I cannot tell you what that was for.

6380. I find one for 70 l. on the 22nd?—Yes; I can tell you of that. That was remitted by me to London for something else.

6381. On the 17th of November, the day before the nomination, I find a cheque for 100 l.; what was that for?—That was for the purpose of paying the people who were to come into town and support me at the nomination; for paying the mob.

6382. Where were they to come from?—A large number of people were coming from Clonolty and the neighbourhood, and they were all to be paid something or another.

6383. By whom were they hired?—They were not hired at all. I never hired them, nor did they come by my order.

6384. By whom were they engaged to come?—I think Mr. O'Connell, of —, told me a large number were to come in.

6385. Then, 100 l. was spent to pay a street mob on the day of the election?—No, no, it was not a mob.

6386. Were they voters?—No.

6387. What brought them in?—They came in to support me, being the popular candidate.

6388. Is that your evidence; that you being the popular candidate in Cashel, paid 100 l. to strangers to prove your popularity?—I have not said that I paid 100 l.

6389. What was it for?—I wished to have money by me for the payment of those expenses.

6390. Did you use that 100 l. in that way?—I think I did, a good deal of it; I cannot say that I used it all.

6391. That was because you were the popular candidate?—That is one of the penalties of being a popular candidate.

6392. To pay the mob to cheer you?—I never engaged them or desired them.

6393. Did you not pay for them?—Yes, I did. That is one of the penalties of popularity.

6394. You were telling me about taking Ryan's house?—I did not take his house. I went to canvass.

6395. You said you saw Murnane there. He had been a warm supporter of yours in 1857?—He had.

6396. Was Murnane the owner of the house in 1857, when you first started?—He was the owner of a house, whether on the same side of the street or not I can't say.

6397. Did Ryan at that time live with him?—I don't think he did.

6398. Ryan afterwards married his daughter?—I heard that here; I did not know it before. I don't think Ryan was a voter.

6399. Was any of the 100 l. to be spent in giving drink?—Not a shilling. The price that was paid was from 2 s. 6 d. to 3 s. 6 d. a head to each man.

6400. I think you told me that you desired Mrs. Dunne to give no drink to any elector?—I did.

6401. I think you said that you did that not from any apprehension about the law, but because you promised the clergy that you would not encourage drinking?—I was under the impression that the law allowed treating and drink to be given up to a certain period. It was the old law, I believe. I have learned during this inquiry that it is not so.

6402. Now tell me this: your reason was, that you had promised the clergy not to encourage drinking?—I had.

6403. Did you say to Mrs. Dwyer not to give it to any elector?—I did not say to any elector specially.

6404. I thought you did. I will have your evidence read?—Well, I ask permission to correct my evidence.

(The evidence previously given by Mr. O'Beirne on the point in question was read by the shorthand writer.)

6405. No matter if there was a mistake. What instructions did you give to Mrs. Dunne?—I gave verbal instructions.

6406. What were they?—I told Mrs. Dunne not to give drink or any entertainment to any elector; and I am sure I added, "to anybody on my behalf without my orders." I don't know that those were the precise words; but what I meant to convey to Mrs. Dunne was, that she was not to give drink or entertainment to anybody on my behalf without my order.

6407. But you mentioned electors particularly?—I certainly did; but what I desired was, not to confine my answer to the word "elector."

6408. Now when did you give her those instructions?—I gave her those instructions within a very few days of my arrival.

6409. You are aware now, aren't you, that Mrs. Dunne charged you a considerable amount for drink supplied?—I have heard so; I have never seen the items.

6410. You heard it here now?—Yes, I have.

6411. Then that charge to you, and that giving drink to Guirey and to Keefe, and the others who got it, was a direct violation of your orders?—It certainly was.

6412. By Mrs. Dunne?—By Mrs. Dunne.

6413. You heard Captain Graham's evidence here about the taking of Murnane's house?—I did.

6414. He was taking a very active part for you at the election?—He was.

6415. And you consulted with him as to the conduct of the election?—I did.

6416. He was the most reliable person, except Mr. Grace?—He was my only personal friend whom I could confer with, in consequence of Mr. Grace's illness.

6417. And you did confer with him?—Very constantly.

6418. As to every step you took?—Not every step.

6419. As to any important step?—Very constantly.

6420. Of course you knew when he canvassed voters for you?—He frequently told me he had asked votes; he frequently came in in the evening and told me he had asked votes.

6421. Did you ever employ him for anything else; for other things than taking the house?—No, never.

6422. How many houses were engaged for you during the election?—The four houses named were the only houses ever, to my knowledge, engaged for me at the election.

6423. Two of these, I think you said, you never used?—Three of them I never used.

6424. Now

6424. Now as to the final arrangement with Ryan and Murnane for this house, when was that final arrangement made?—Very soon before the election.

6425. Was it the day before the polling-day?—No, I don't think it was, but it was very close to that period. It was certainly not the day intervening between the nomination and that day.

6426. Did you know when you took that house that it had been engaged to Mr. Munster?—Certainly not.

6427. They did not tell you that?—Never.

6428. Why did you think of engaging that house the day before the election; I don't say the day before?—I have already answered that question. Because I considered it necessary to have a house where the Commons' voters could come to on the day intervening between the nomination and the polling, as was the custom at previous elections in this town.

6429. But you knew that before?—I did.

6430. That it would be wanted?—Yes.

6431. You never looked for it until two days before it was wanted?—No, I did not.

6432. And you never used it?—I did not use it.

6433. What were the Commons' voters to do in that house?—They were to come and remain there the night before the day of polling.

6434. Were they to sleep there?—Not to sleep, for it would not hold them.

6435. Were they to get refreshments?—They were to remain there.

6436. And get refreshments?—Not with my sanction.

6437. Did you intend that the Commons' voters should come in there on the night before the polling?—I did.

6438. Why?—Because that was the practice here.

6439. Particularly as to the Commons' voters?—Simply the Commons' voters, because they had a long way to come.

6440. How far?—Some of them four miles.

6441. And it was the custom to bring them in and put them in one place?—It was.

6442. And that was, in fact, done at the Rock hotel, wasn't it?—It was.

6443. How many Commons' voters were at the dinner at the Rock hotel?—I think there were about 30; I cannot be accurate, but I think about 30.

6444. And you knew then that they were remaining at the Rock hotel that night?—I did.

6445. And that list that you called over, was that a list exclusively confined to the Commons' voters?—It was; I think it was; that's my recollection.

6446. Any mistake, of course, correct immediately; where did you get that list?—I had made out a list for several days previously; I had been several times to the Commons, and I had made up the list.

6447. Did the list you called over at the dinner contain a list of all the Commons' voters?—No, I don't think it did.

6448. On what principle did you select those that were to be called over?—I selected those that I understood were to support me.

6449. It contained a list of all the Commons' voters who you knew would support you?—Who, I believe, would support me.

6450. Then you went to the dinner, and called that out at the dinner?—No, I did not.

121.

6451. After dinner?—I called it out in a separate room.

6452. Baron Fitzgerald.] The dinner was in one room, and what they call the Rock Club was in another?—Precisely.

6453. Mr. Butt.] Was it in the Rock club-room that you read it out?—It was.

6454. Can you tell me out of 30 Commons' voters that were read out, how many answered?—I cannot; I think 25 or 26.

6455. Then almost all the Commons' voters who were your supporters, were there?—They were.

6456. Had they dined there?—Many of them had.

6457. How many of them, do you think, were there altogether?—I think it came up to a hundred; the room was inconveniently crowded.

6458. Did you intend when you called that list, that all the Commons' voters were to remain there all that night?—No, I did not; I hoped they would remain there, and I wished them to remain there, but I did not think they would; some of them did go.

6459. You say you did not think they would remain; why?—Because it is not a very comfortable thing for men to do to remain all night.

6460. When you called the list, you were afraid they would not remain?—I asked them to remain.

6461. Did you tell any of them you had the place taken for them to remain?—No, I did not.

6462. That you had taken Ryan and Murnane's house for their special accommodation?—No, I did not.

6463. Nor convey it to them in any way?—No, I did not.

6464. Whatever accommodation they got that night, they got at the Rock hotel?—They did.

6465. Had you done the same thing at the election of 1865 as to the Commons' voters?—I had not done it myself, but it was done for me. Corcoran's hotel was the place in 1865.

6466. Was there a dinner for them there in that year?—I don't think there was; they had some entertainment, but I attended no dinner.

6467. Who provided that?—Who paid for it, I don't know.

6468. Do you mean to say that you don't know; did you pay for it in 1865?—Certainly not.

6469. What did the election in 1865 cost you?

Mr. Hemphill objected.

Witness.] I have no objection to answer it at all.

Baron Fitzgerald did not think the question one that should be allowed.

Mr. Butt submitted that it should. (To Witness.)

6470. Were you in court when Mr. Hemphill was making his statement?—I was in court during the greater part of the statement.

6471. Did you hear him say that you would not be driven to bribe in Cashel; that there was a presumption against it by your having been elected in 1865, triumphantly by the free-will of the people?—No, I did not.

Mr. Butt submitted that he had a right to put the question as to the cost of the election in 1865 as to the credit of the witness.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I will not allow illegal evidence to be given under the notion of credit.

Mr. Butt.] I submit, I have a right to ask him

Mr. J. L. O'Beirne.

18 February 1866.

Mr. J. L.

1869.

him, did you commit bribery at the last election?

Baron Fitzgerald.] I don't think you have.

6472. Mr. Butt (to Witness).] I ask you, did you, or anyone to your knowledge for you, pay for any vote in 1865?—I certainly did not.

6473. Did anyone with your knowledge, or with money supplied by you?—Certainly not.

Baron Fitzgerald.] It cannot be done, it would be very wrong on the ground of credit to do a thing indirectly.

6474. Mr. Butt (to Witness).] Now, Mr. O'Beirne, will you tell me this; when you gave Hogan that cheque for 60 l., did you intend it to be presented?—I did.

6475. Immediately?—No.

6476. When was it to be presented?—It was long post-dated, I think it was dated the 28th; I explained to him that I thought I might be short of money, and that it should not be presented without my knowledge.

6477. Mr. Hemphill.] The 28th of what month?—Of November.

6478. Had you given Tracy a similar cheque?—Yes, I had; I cannot tell whether it was before or after that I gave it to Tracy, or about the same time.

6479. Was that cheque to Tracy also post-dated?—It was precisely similar.

6480. Had you given any other post-dated cheques?—No.

6481. You had not?—No.

6482. Did you think 60 l. a very large sum to give to Hogan?—Yes, I did, a very large sum.

6483. And 60 l. a large sum to give to Tracy?—I thought them both very large sums.

6484. I think you said you paid no one else?—No one else, I paid Keffe.

6485. What did you pay to Keffe?—I think I paid Keffe about 40 l.

6486. For himself?—Yes, for himself.

6487. And that was for organizing a mob?—He did a great deal more than that.

6488. What else did he do?—He constantly was out at night with men I found necessary to have to protect me coming home from dinner, from outrages of various sorts. They were out very late at night frequently.

6489. You don't like them to be called a mob, a body-guard?—Those were the services.

6490. As to Michael Coffey's house, was that taken?—It was taken, I think, a fortnight before the election; I am not quite certain about the date, I think a fortnight.

6491. I forget what you gave him?—20 l.

6492. What did you want his house for?—For the purpose of assembling the voters of the Lower Gate there on the morning of the polling, that they might go up together.

6493. Did you think it more important to have a place for the voters of the Lower Gate, or of the Commons?—Very much more important for the voters of the Commons.

6494. You provided a place for the voters of the Lower Gate a fortnight before?—I did; yes.

6495. And for the Commons not until two days before the election?—I did not.

6496. Did you use Michael Coffey's house?—No, I did not.

6497. As to Thomas Murphy's house, I think I understood you to say that you took it on the morning of the nomination?—As we were walking up to the court-house.

6498. What did you want it for?—I wanted it in place of Coffey's.

6499. What passed, was it Murphy that asked you to take his house, or you that asked Murphy?—Murphy came to me, I think; no, I think I called to Murphy. I heard that Mr. Munster had taken rooms in Coffey's house, and I determined that my voters should not go there; and I heard in the morning that Murphy had a house in the same neighbourhood that would answer the same purpose, and I called to him going up to the court-house.

6500. Was any use made of that house?—None whatever; Mr. Grace determined to tally his voters in the court-house, instead of out of it.

6501. Did you hear Timothy Hogan's evidence?—Yes, I did.

6502. Did you hear him say that the 20 l. was the balance of an account for his house, taken in 1865?—I don't think so, I did not hear him say so. He may have said so, but I did not so understand it; I never saw any account from him; it was a balance of an account certainly.

6503. (Handing book to Witness.) Look at that cheque on the 29th for 30 l.?—I cannot tell you what it is for, but I believe it is for the purpose of paying the daily expenses of the mob as well.

6504. Do you expect your cheques here tomorrow morning?—I hope they will be here to-night.

6505. They cannot be here to-night?—I don't know whether they are not here this moment.

6506. Were you here when Coffey was examined?—Yes, I was.

6507. Did you hear him say that he had got a letter from you?—I did.

6508. And that he went up to you?—I believe he did get that letter.

6509. And that when he came up you handed him an envelope with 25 l. in it?—I heard him say that.

6510. Is it true?—Not all true; part of it.

6511. Baron Fitzgerald.] When did that take place?—A very short time before the election.

6512. Was it the day before the polling?—Certainly not the day before the polling. I am quite sure not the day before the polling.

6513. Mr. Butt (handing ledger).] Will you look at the 19th, the cheque there for 20 l.; how long before the election did that occur?—Did which occur?

6514. That transaction about giving Coffey the 20 l.; this cheque is on the 19th?—My memory would lead me to say that it occurred four or five days.

6515. Could it have been a week before the election?—It might have been; I am not clear upon it at all.

6516. It might have been the day intervening?—I could not say.

6517. Could it have been three weeks before the election that you paid him the 20 l.?—Certainly not.

6518. Now, look back the three weeks before the election, and see if you can find any cheque for 20 l., but the one which is on the 19th?—The last cheque is on the 31st of October for 20 l.; that is very nearly three weeks; that was not the cheque, I am sure.

6519. Then there was no cheque from the 21st of October for 20 l. up to the 19th; see if I am right in that?—No, I don't think there is; there is not.

6520. Now, the remaining cheque is the one on the 19th for 20 l.; that is the only remaining 20 l.?—If the witness swore, I don't remember his swearing, that it was the 19th; I would not swear that it was not so.

(The learned Judge read the evidence of Coffey on this point.)

6521. Is that true?—With the exception of the date. I won't swear that it is not the day.

6522. Is it true that you sent for him, wrote a note for him, saying, "That if he would come up you would settle for the room"?—Perfectly.

6523. And that when he came up you put the cheque into the envelope?—I had drawn a cheque, and I may have put it into the envelope.

6524. Baron Fitzgerald.] What was the day that you took Murphy's room?—On the morning of the nomination.

6525. Then you must have known, if you took it instead of Coffey's, that the latter was let to Mr. Munster?—I did know that Coffey's room was let to Mr. Munster on the day of the nomination.

6526. Then you paid the 20 l. afterwards?—I don't think I paid it. I am sure I paid it before.

6527. Mr. Butt.] When you took Thomas Murphy's room, had you any doubt that it was when you were walking up to the nomination?—Not the slightest.

6528. What time was the nomination?—At 10 o'clock.

6529. Then it was before 10 o'clock on the day of the nomination that you took Murphy's room?—Yes.

6530. Did you then know that Coffey's room had been taken by Mr. Munster?—When I took Murphy's room I did know it. It was in consequence of that that I took it.

6531. When did you know that Coffey's room had been taken by Mr. Munster?—I think the previous evening or that morning; I cannot tell you whether it was on the previous evening or that morning.

6532. Who told you; could you tell me that Coffey's room had been taken by Mr. Munster?—Well, I cannot remember.

6533. Was it Hanly?—I am not certain. It may have been. It is very likely it was Mr. Hanly; I could not tell you. Several persons were constantly coming in and out of my rooms, and I heard everything that was going on.

6534. Could it have been Captain Graham?—I don't think it was. I wish to state that in any case I should have paid Michael Coffey the 20 l. whether I used his room or not.

6535. How many rooms are there in Michael Coffey's house?—I have only seen one large room.

6536. When you knew that he had let his room to Mr. Munster, didn't you know that that was the same room that he had let to you?—No, I did not. I believe there are other rooms.

Mr. Butt asked if the cheques drawn by Mr. O'Beirne were in court.

Mr. Hemphill said a messenger had gone to see if they had arrived.

6537. Mr. Butt (to Witness).] I think you said you heard, about a year after the elections, about this outstanding bill?—Something about that.

6538. From whom did you hear it?—I heard it from Mr. Johnston some short time before his death, and I think by letter.

(Baron Fitzgerald read another portion of the evidence of Coffey.)

Mr. J. L. O'Beirne.

18 February 1869.

6539. Mr. Butt (to Witness).] I put this question to you; when you sent that 20 l. to Coffey you had not heard that the room was taken by Mr. Munster?—I don't think I said that; I have not said that.

6540. How is the fact then; had you heard it?—I believe I had heard it.

6541. Then, when you sent the 20 l. you had heard that the rooms were taken by Mr. Munster?—I really cannot tell you positively.

6542. What is your impression?—My impression is that when I sent the 20 l. I had not heard that the room was let; that's my present recollection, but I should have sent the 20 l. in any case.

6543. But when you sent the 20 l., had you heard then that the rooms were taken by Mr. Munster?—My recollection is that I had not.

6544. What did you write to the man to come up to you for that evening?—Because I wished to settle the account with him.

6545. Why had you not settled the account with him any time in the week before?—Because there was a difference of opinion between his wife and myself as to the amount to be paid for the room; she pressed very much for 20 l., and I said I would consider of it.

6546. Had you seen his wife apart from himself?—Yes.

6547. Had she come up to you?—Yes; by my desire.

6548. Had you sent to Mrs. Coffey to come up to Dunne's hotel to you?—No, I had not; I stated that when I first saw the room, I asked Coffey to come up to my hotel the next morning to arrange as to the price I should give, and Mrs. Coffey came up to my room; that was some considerable time before.

6549. Did you agree to her terms?—Not absolutely, I did not.

6550. Then, you had not agreed to her terms when she came to you?—Not at first.

6551. Not at all?—No.

6552. And when you put that 20 l. for her husband in the note, you had no agreement at that time that you were to pay 20 l.?—She told me—

6553. Now answer my question: had you any agreement at that time with her or her husband that you were to pay that 20 l.?—I had not definitely fixed; I had no definite agreement; I had not made up my mind.

6554. Then when you sent him that note with 20 l. in it, you had not made up your mind as to the sum?—I had not.

6555. You refused to give 20 l.?—I had not refused; I said I thought the sum too high; I saw Coffey several times in my room afterwards, and I told him that I would consider about it, and I gave him to understand that I would take the rooms.

6556. Do you mean to say, then, that after you had taken the room you saw Coffey repeatedly in Dunne's hotel?—Very often.

6557. And did Coffey know that his wife had asked 20 l.?—Yes, I think he did; I can't say whether he did or not.

6558. Did not you tell me you told him that you would consider of it?—Told her.

R 2

6559. Told

Mr. J. L. O'Beirne. 6559. Told him?—No, I don't think I said that.
 18 February 1869. 6560. How often had Coffey himself (I am not speaking of his wife) been in your room between the time you first spoke about the room, and the time you sent him the 20*l*.?—Very often.

6561. How many times?—I daresay four or five.

6562. Had you and he any conversation about taking the rooms?—Yes, I had.

6563. Did he ask you for any price for his room on the occasion?—Yes; I think he asked the same price as his wife did, 20*l*. (A messenger here handed a letter to Mr. Butt, who gave it to the Witness.)

[The Witness read the letter as follows:—]

"17th February.—Dear Sir, I have received a copy of the subpoena. I have no papers whatever referred to in that document. I believe the cheques and account which you gave to me to examine and check, I think in December last, were so examined and checked by me, and are now in your drawers with the year's vouchers; but I cannot get at them without the key which I think you have. At all events, I have not got it. If you send me the keys, and tell me how I can get them, you shall have all the papers I can find, in course of post, which I trust will be * * Yours very truly, William Cox."

6564. Baron Fitzgerald.] What was the meaning of sending the subpoena?—To show what papers were required, my Lord.

6565. Mr. Butt.] Did you write with the subpoena?—I did.

6566. What did you write with it?—I wrote with the subpoena most pressing, that the cheques and bank account should be sent at once.

6567. Had you any knowledge of where they are?—Not the least. I had no knowledge of where any of my papers are.

6568. Had you the keys of those drawers?—When I leave London I put all my keys into a private drawer.

6569. Do you know, with the help of that letter, where the cheques are?—Yes, I think I can tell the drawers that they are in, if this be correct. He says, I think, they are in a drawer.

6570. In fact, you do not know where those cheques are?—I do not know where they are. My recollection is that they are with all the year's vouchers.

Mr. Hemphill.] Mr. O'Beirne was served with the ordinary subpoena in London. He only came over from England last Sunday morning. When he came to Cashel he was served with the subpoena duces tecum; and if there is any inconvenience in complying with it, no one can be blamed but the Petitioner.

Mr. Butt.] We are not to blame. If the Act of Parliament had been complied with, the vouchers would have been lodged with the expense agent. We find that that was not done, and that now it is important to get these cheques.

6571. (To Witness.) I must test your memory, then, as to each of these cheques. I asked you already about the cheque for 52*l*. 10*s*., and you said it was for Mrs. Burke. Have you any doubt about that?—Not the least. It was the first cheque I drew.

6572. On the 16th there is one for 10*l*.; of that you can't give me an account?—No, not of small cheques.

6573. On the 17th there is one for 10*l*. On the 20th one for 35*l*.?—I can't tell what that was for.

6574. On the 22nd there is one for 70*l*.?—That was sent to London, I have said already.

6575. On the same day there is one for 20*l*.; what was that for?—I think that is Timothy Hogan's. It was one of the very early cheques that I gave.

6576. Now, let me ask you as to Timothy Hogan; do I understand you to say that when he came into the room he made great complaints as to the money being due by Charles Johnston?—He certainly seemed much dissatisfied.

6577. With its not having been paid?—Yes, he did.

6578. He had at that time given you a pledge to vote for you?—None whatever. I don't think I had seen him. He had not, for I had not canvassed him.

6579. And then you drew a cheque, telling him it had nothing to do with his vote?—Yes, certainly.

6580. And on getting it he told you he would vote for you, even if it had?—He certainly said he would vote for me, and I think he added that he would have voted for me, whether I paid him, or not. I again reminded him that I gave it unconditionally, and without attempting to influence him.

6581. Up to the time he got that cheque he was not a pledged supporter of yours?—Well, I cannot say what he was to the townspeople.

6582. Not to you?—Not to me.

6583. On the 26th of October there is a cheque for 20*l*.; can you say what that is?—No, I cannot.

6584. On the 28th a cheque for 10*l*.?—No.

6585. On the 29th there is a cheque for 30*l*.; can you tell me what that is for?—I don't think any other of these cheques are for any other than the purpose I have already stated; they were for constant expenditure that was going on amongst the people.

6586. Did you get vouchers for that expenditure?—None. I got some reports now and then; rough accounts.

6587. What did you do with those accounts?—I have some of them.

6588. Where are they?—They are in London, but they are very few.

6589. This was an expenditure of about 400*l*. Had you any check upon that expenditure whatever?—Yes; I had a return of it every morning.

6590. Who from?—From Keffe.

6591. But if Keffe chose to make an untrue return, had you any check upon him?—None whatever.

6592. Did Keffe make every day a return to you of the money?—Every day or every other day.

6593. What did the return contain?—The number of men employed, and the number of women, and the number of days, whether it was in the day or night.

6594. Here is on the 29th a cheque for 30*l*., can you give an account of that?—That is the one I have just spoken of.

6595. On the same day a cheque for 20*l*.?—
 The

The 29th. One of those days I was going out of Cashel for some time, and I took some money.

6596. On the 31st there is a cheque for 20 £.; can you give any account of it?—No.

6597. On the same day a cheque for 17 £.?—No. One of these cheques is for Quirk.

6598. On the 6th there is a cheque for 23 £., can you give me any account of that?—No.

6599. Do you remember drawing a cheque for 23 £. for any purpose?—No; I can't tell you.

6600. On the same day, the 6th, there is a cheque for 15 £.?—That's Quirk's.

6601. On the 17th one for 100 £.?—That was for the expense I have already explained.

6602. To whom was that cheque given?—Sent down to the bank and changed.

6603. Whom did you send it with?—Very often my servant.

6604. But that cheque for 100 £., that is the only cheque for so large an amount that you drew, have you any recollection of it?—No; I have no recollection of how I got it changed.

6605. Do you recollect having drawn it for 100 £.?—Yes.

6606. What did you do with the money you got?—I kept the money in the house for a considerable time, and then I lodged back 30 £. of it.

6607. You lodged back; did you tell me it was drawn to meet those expenses?—I did; I think you will find 30 £. re-lodged.

6608. 30 £. re-lodged on the 19th, was that out of the 100 £. cheque?—I think so.

6609. When you say that that cheque for 100 £. was drawn to meet those expenses, were there demands upon you for which you wanted that money?—I don't think there were demands for the whole amount.

6610. Were there demands at all?—Yes, certainly.

6611. From whom?—I cannot tell you from whom; from Keffe and others, Canavan, and Meenahan. I was always obliged to have a considerable sum in the house.

6612. Have you any recollection of drawing that cheque for 100 £.?—I have a recollection of drawing the cheque for 100 £., a very general recollection.

6613. On the 18th there is a cheque for 12 £., what was that for?—I cannot tell you.

6614. Now on the 18th I find that you drew cheques for 10 £., 16 £., 8 £., 6 £., 20 £., 40 £., and 30 £.?—That's all after the nomination day.

6615. That's all on the day intervening?—After the nomination.

6616. 20 £. of it, I think, we have as given to Coffey?—One of those cheques, certainly, was Coffey's.

6617. Can you tell what you drew the cheque for 40 £. for after the nomination?—No, I can't indeed.

6618. Can you tell me what you drew the cheque for 30 £. for after the day of nomination?—No, I can't; I don't know that I did draw it after the nomination. I don't know if these cheques could have gone in before the nomination.

6619. Under the date of the 20th, I find 7 £., 16 £., and 25 £., can you tell me what any of these cheques were drawn for?—Not specifically, I cannot.

6620. On the 23rd of November, I find a cheque for 60 £.?—That was drawn in favour of my servant to pay a small account before he left Cashel; I remember that.

6621. On the 25th of November there is a cheque for 20 £.?—I drew that myself for my own expenses.

6622. Well, that is more likely to be the cheque on the 26th for 20 £., the last cheque drawn here?—I think I left before the 26th.

6623. Do you mean to tell me that, of all those cheques, with one exception, you cannot tell me what they were drawn for?—No, I have not said that; I said that in a very few of the cases I can tell you. I can tell you of Burke's; and one of those cheques, it occurs to me, was drawn for a balance of Quirk's account. I gave him 2 £., 15 £., and 12 £.

6624. And, except saying that they went in this expenditure of paying the mob, you cannot give me an idea of how the rest was paid?—I think, as I said, about 400 £., or perhaps 450 £., went for paying the expenses of the mob.

6625. Did you keep any book of any expenses at that election?—Indeed, I did not; I wish I had.

6626-7. And that's all the explanation you can give me of these?—I tell you positively that the cheques went exactly as I have stated. I told him; I think I am almost certain I can remember what I said; not to present the cheque, as there was no lodgment to my credit in the bank; I think I told him if he sent it to London, I am not certain, but I think I told him that I would remit the amount.

6628. Then you intended to pay Hogan that money?—Certainly.

6629. Do you intend now to pay it?—I do certainly.

6630. Did he do anything for you?—I thought he did; I never heard he did not until he came on this table; I heard it with great surprise, I thought he had done me a great deal of service.

6631. Did you write to Tracy not to present the cheque;—Yes, I think I did; I told Hogan, and especially I told Tracy, that cheques being given for services of that class I might be short for other purposes, and that I hoped he would not present the cheque without letting me know something about it; I said the same thing to Hogan; they were both post-dated cheques.

6632. Did you write to Tracy not to present the cheque as you did to Hogan?—I cannot say that I did, for I requested Tracy more especially not to present the cheque.

6633. You wrote to Hogan to say that if he sent the cheque to London he would be paid?—Yes, I think so.

6634. Is Tracy paid?—He is not.

6635. Why did you not write to Tracy to make the same pledge?—Because he did not

* * * If you will allow me to explain: in giving the cheque to Hogan I post-dated it, and I told him why; that perhaps just at the period of the election I might be short of money, as I was.

6636. Didn't you do the same thing to Tracy?—No; I told Tracy absolutely; I requested him not to present the cheque in any case, without first communicating with me.

6637. Then you told Hogan that he might present the cheque if he did not hear from you?—Yes, I did, about the 28th of November; the date that would have given me time to get back to London.

6638. And the cheque to Tracy; when was it dated?—It was dated about the same time, I

Mr. J. L.
O'Beirne,

18 February
1869.

Mr. J. L. cannot tell you whether it was the 26th or the 28th.

18 February 1869. 6639. But it was not to be presented at all without hearing from you?—That was the understanding.

6640. Did you ever hear, until you heard it here, of Hogan having shown the cheque to anyone?—Never.

6641. Or of Tracy having shown your cheque to anyone?—I heard it here; I heard that Tracy went to the bank to ask if my cheque would be honoured.

6642. I would like to ask you through whose hands did all those cheques, that you drew here, pass?—How do you mean; by whom were they cashed?

6643. Yes?—I frequently sent my servants.

6644. How many of those cheques were cashed by your servants?—A great many of them; I sent Keffe also to cash them.

6645. From yourself always?—From myself always.

6646. When you gave Keffe the money to spend on the mob, was it a cheque?—Sometimes.

6647. Then he cashed that cheque for himself?—He did.

6648. Had Guirey ever a cheque?—Never.

6649. Had Tom Connors a cheque?—Never.

6650. Did you ever give Tom Connors any money?—Never.

6651. He was exerting himself?—He was, very much.

6652. Did you pay Tom Connors anything for his services?—Not a farthing.

6653. Or Guirey?—Not a farthing.

6654. Then, if I understand you rightly, did you pay anyone for his services?—Yes, I did; Keffe. The payment to him will be found among those cheques.

6655. You never paid anyone else for anything that they did for you?—Yes, I paid a man named Sleeveen.

6656. How much?—I think I paid him either 15*l.* or 20*l.* My recollection is 20*l.*

6657. What was that for?—That was for an old claim against Mr. Johnston in 1865.

6658. I am not asking you that?—I never paid him for anything he did at this election.

6659. Did you pay him for services at this election?—Not a farthing.

6660. Can you tell me any person, except Keffe, whom you paid for services at this election?—Not one person.

6661. Then, in this expenditure, there is nothing paid for services?—No, except what I have already told you.

6662. Except Keffe?—Yes.

6663. Is there anything paid for newspapers and advertising?—Yes, there is; 12 guineas to Miss Hackett of Clonmel. That is one of the items that I did not remember.

6664. Is that all that is paid upon your account?—I don't think there is any other. I don't remember.

Mr. Butt referred again to the non-production of the cheques.

Witness.] I most positively say, on my oath, that I have no objection to produce the cheques.

6665. I was asking you before about those bills of the former election; you say you heard it from Mr. Charles Johnston before his death?—I did; some short time before his death.

6666. Tell what he told you?—I think he wrote to me to London.

6667. What did he tell you?—That a number of bills had been discounted for Cashel voters, and that some of them were still outstanding; and I think he added that he had some, or that his clerk had some. I believe that Mr. Phelan was a clerk of his.

6668. Then you knew, at all events, the year before Mr. Johnston's death, that those bills were outstanding?—I knew just before his death.

6669. Do you know with what money they were discounted?—I believe they were discounted with the money that I supplied to Mr. Johnston. I don't believe he had any other money.

6670. May I ask you how much money you supplied to Mr. Johnston?—I supplied him with a considerable sum.

6671. How much?—£. 2,000 or more.

6672. How much more?—Well, I daresay it was 2,500*l.* I can't tell you.

6673. Was it 4,000*l.*?—No, nothing like it.

6674. Now, tell me, did he tell you what use he made of it; can you tell me how many bills of the commoners he told you there were?—He never told me any number of bills.

6675. Did he tell you the amount of them?—No, he did not.

6676. What did he write; the amount of each bill?—Yes, he did.

6677. What was it?—£. 30.

6678. Did you understand from him that these bills, which were discounted, had been the price of the votes?—Well, I certainly did. He did not so write it; but it was the impression produced on my mind.

6679. Then, you knew that at the former election 30*l.* was the price of a vote?—I knew it afterwards.

6680. I am not saying that you were personally mixed up with it?—When I got that letter I did know.

6681. On your arrival here, then, you knew that there were a number of voters who had received from your agents 30*l.* bills at former elections?—Some had received 30*l.* bills. I think Mr. Johnston mentioned other amounts; that there were also 40*l.*, and 50*l.*, and 20*l.* bills.

6682. Did you ever make any inquiry as to the persons in whose hands those bills were?—I never did; I was very much dissatisfied about it.

6683. But still you had placed in Mr. Johnston's hands a sum of 2,500*l.*?—I gave him money as he required it, during the election.

6684. At least to the amount of 2,000*l.*?—Certainly 2,000*l.*

6685. Did you ever get any account of it?—Never.

6686. Did you ever ask for it?—Frequently.

6687. Did you ever get it?—Never.

6688. Were you yourself then out at the Commons?—When?

6689. Then?—I was, three or four times.

6690. Had you been out at the former election of 1865?—I had, two or three times.

6691. When you went out this time, how did you meet the Commons' voters; did they assemble seem to meet you?—No, they did not; I went from house to house, as I did in 1865.

6692. Did you do the same things now as in '65?—As nearly as possible.

6693. Was there any allusion made by any of the voters to 1865?—Not the slightest allusion that I can remember.

6694. They did not say they voted for you.

Did you know those who had voted for you before?—No, I did not.

Mr. J. L.
O'Beirne.

6695. Did you know that the greater majority had voted for you?—I knew some few had not. (Cross-examination closed.)

18 February
1869.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. WILLIAM J. O'BRIEN, recalled; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

6696. (Ledger produced to the Witness by Counsel.) DID you return Mr. Munster's cheques?—No.

6697. Have you got them?—We have.

6698. Do you produce them?—Yes.

6699. Do you see this cheque of the 21st September?—Yes.

6700. Is that Mr. Munster's cheque on your bank?—Yes.

6701. In whose favour is that?—Edward Leahy.

6702. For how much?—£. 100.

6703. There is another cheque of Leahy's; what is the amount of that?—£. 55.

6704. What is the date of that?—The 20th of October.

6705. "Captain Dudley Byrne;" what is the date of that?—The 15th October; amount, 25 £.

6706. Take that in your hand, and tell me what it is?—"P. Laffan, Esquire," for 200 £.; the 5th November.

6707. That is Cunningham's?—Yes.

6708. That is 30 £.; I think I have already proved that. Look at this one: what is the date of it?—The 31st of October, in favour of George Richardson, for 500 £.

6709. Read that also?—The 8th January 1869, for 459 £. 13 s. 10 d.; in favour of George Richardson.

6710. Here is one also from Mr. Richardson; what is the date?—The 20th January 1869, for 100 £.

6711. Do you see that one of Mr. Leahy's; what is the date of that?—The 20th January 1869, for 50 £.

Mr. W. J.
O'Brien.

Baron Fitzgerald.] The shortest way would be to put in them all.

Mr. Butt.] Mr. Munster will be examined to-morrow.

Mr. Hemphill.] If you undertake that Mr. Munster will be examined, I won't detain this gentleman.

Mr. Butt.] Mr. Munster is most anxious to submit himself for examination.

The trial was then adjourned to the following Friday morning, at 10 o'clock.

Friday, 19th February 1869.

19 February 1869. The Court sat at 10 o'clock a.m.
Counsel and Attorneys appeared as before.

ANASTASIA BISHOP, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

A. Bishop.

6712. ARE you in the service of Miss Kitty O'Dwyer?—Yes.

6713. Were you in her service last November, before the election?—Yes.

6714. Do you know a young man named John Ryan?—Yes.

6715. That tall young man?—Yes.

6716. Were you living with Miss Kitty O'Dwyer when Mr. and Mrs. Boyton were staying at her house?—Yes.

6717. Do you recollect John O'Dwyer taking tea one evening with Mrs. Boyton, at Miss O'Dwyer's?—No; he took no tea.

6718. Do you recollect seeing him there?—Yes.

6719. How long before the election was it that you saw him there?—About a week.

6720. Was Mrs. Boyton there, the evening that you refer to?—She was.

6721. And John Ryan?—Yes.

6722. Did you see John Ryan and Mrs. Boyton go up-stairs into any room in the house?—Yes, I did.

6723. Was the room up-stairs?—Yes.

6724. Were they in the room together?—Yes, they were.

6725. How do you know?—Because I had to go up to call him. His sister's husband came for him, and I was obliged to call him.

6726. Did you find them in the room together?—Yes.

6727. Was the door shut or open?—The door was shut.

6728. Did you open the door?—I opened the door.

6729. And were they speaking inside?—Yes, they were.

6730. Is there a passage-room, a room leading into the parlour down below, through which people pass going out?—Yes, there is.

6731. Can you say of your own knowledge; if not, don't answer it; how long they were in that room together?—They were about a quarter of an hour.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

6732. What room was it?—It was a bed-room.

6733. Whose bed-room was it?—Oh, it was not anyone's; it was not a particular bed-room.

6734. That is just what I want to know; was it Mrs. Boyton's bed-room?—No; her bed-room was next.

6735. Then, it was not Mrs. Boyton's bed-room?—No.

6736. Who first asked you about this?—About which.

6737. About your remembering; did anyone ever ask you about Mrs. Boyton and John Ryan having been in a room together?—Yes; I was asked yesterday did I recollect.

6738. Who asked you?—Mr. Ryan himself did.

6739. Then, he went down to ask you?—No, he did not. He met me outside in the street.

6740. What did he ask you?—He asked me did I recollect the night I was below with Mrs. Boyton and I said, I did.

6741. What more did he say to you; did he ask you, did you remember his going into the room?—No, he did not say that.

6742. What makes you recollect that about the room; did you ever see Ryan there any other time?—No, never.

6743. He was never there any day?—No.

6744. Do you swear that Ryan was never at the "Rock" hotel, except that night?—Not with Mrs. Boyton, and I could swear I never saw him in the house before.

6745. You never saw him in the house before?—No.

6746. Where was Mrs. Boyton's room in the house?—Oh, it was down—

6747. Her bed-room?—Her bed-room was next this room that I speak of.

6748. Where is that?—It is a room in the top of the house, called the "Colonel's room."

6749. Was it a garret?—No, not a garret.

6750. Was it not at the very top next the slates?—Yes, it was.

6751. How many storeys has the house?—Two storeys.

6752. Were you there the night of the dinner, before the election?—I was.

6753. How many people dined there that day?—I don't recollect.

6754. Could you tell me now about how many; did 10 people?—Oh, I won't answer that question. I don't know. A good many dined there.

6755. Do you mean to say you don't know whether 10 people dined there or not?—Yes, there did; 40 people, but I cannot explain how many.

6756. I ask you did 10; did 40?—I don't know. It is a question I won't answer.

6757. Answer that; did 40 dine there?—There did.

6758. Fifty?—There did.

6759. Sixty?—I don't know about 60.

6760. Did 60 people dine there; do you know?—I do.

6761. Well, how many; did 60 people dine there?—There were a hundred and fifty people. I think I counted them at the time of the dinner in the house.

[Baron Fitzgerald.] Why didn't you answer that at first?

6762. Mr. Butt.] A hundred and fifty people dined; who counted them?—I don't know; I only heard them speak of it, that there were so many.

6763. Who did you hear speak of it?—I heard a good many in the house.

6764. Did you hear your mistress speak of it?—I did not.

6765. Did

6765. Did you attend them at the dinner?—Yes, I did.

6766. How did they sit at the dinner?—There was a table along two rooms.

6767. Was it in the “Rock” Club-room, or up-stairs?—No, the “Rock” rooms are down stairs.

6768. Was it in the “Rock” room they got their dinner?—No, it was up-stairs they got their dinner.

6769. You attended, you say?—Yes.

6770. I suppose Miss O’Dwyer had a cook that day?—Yes, she had.

6771. Who was the cook?—I forget her name.

6772. Was she brought in that day, or was she always in the house?—No, she was not; she was only there for the week.

6773. Why did you put Mrs. Boyton up so high in the house?—That was her bed-room from the first day she came to the house.

6774. Who had the rest of the house?—Every person that came. Strangers.

6775. Did you see anybody come to order that dinner?—No, I did not.

6776. You are sure of that?—I am.

6777. Did you see any one pay for it?—No, sir.

6778. It was not your business to take the money in the room?—No, it was not.

6779. Was there any one there to take the money from the persons who dined?—Miss O’Dwyer, of course, took the money herself.

6780. Did you see her take any money?—No, I did not.

6781. Was there much drink brought in during the evening?—I don’t know.

6782. Did you bring in any?—No.

6783. Are you sure you did not bring in any?—No.

6784. Did you see any drink brought in during that evening?—I did.

6785. Who brought it in?—The other waiter that was there.

6786. Who was that?—Cummins.

6787. How many bottles of whiskey were brought in?—I don’t know.

6788. Were there 10?—I don’t know.

6789. Do you mean to say you can’t swear whether there were 10, or not?—I can’t swear.

6790. Were there two?—I could not swear.

6791. Can you swear if there was one?—No.

6792. Did you see any whiskey at all?—Yes, I can; but I can’t swear how many bottles.

6793. Can you say if there was one bottle?—Yes, of course there was.

6794. Were there 10?—I don’t know.

6795. How often did you see drink going into the room that night?—I saw it twice after dinner.

6796. How was it taken up?—I don’t know.

6797. What was it taken in?—It was sent up in decanters to the table.

6798. How many decanters were sent up?—I don’t know.

6799. Were there more than one decanter?—There was.

6800. Can’t you tell how it was carried up; was it on a tray?—It was.

6801. Were there more than two decanters on the tray?—There were.

6802. More than three?—No; three decanters.

6803. You saw a tray going up with three decanters, and you saw that going up twice?—Yes.

6804. Can you tell me who called for it?—No, I could not.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs. MARGARET HACKETT, re-called; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

6805. Do you know Mrs. Rochford?—I do.

6806. Did Mrs. Rochford, before the election, ask you whether there was any money going, or anything to that effect?—She told me that if there was any money going on the O’Beirne side to let her know of it, that her husband was a poor man, and that wherever the money was it was there they wanted to go.

6807. Baron Fitzgerald.] Repeat that?—She told me if there was any money going on the O’Beirne side to let her know it, that her husband was a poor man, and that it was there they wanted to go. She also said she had a wish for O’Beirne; that her father told her he was as good a Member as ever went to the House of Commons; and that if they were going to give an independent vote, that it was O’Beirne that should get it; but that where the money was it was there she wanted to go.

6808. Mr. Hemphill.] Just listen to what Mrs. Rochford swore, and tell me if it is true or not: “Mrs. Hackett came to me and told me would John go with her husband James. I said I was afraid he would not; that he had pledged himself to Mr. Michael Laffan, and was a man not in the habit of going to do anything but what is just. If he comes with James (you said) Mr. O’Beirne is a very clever man, and he will bring him out of any difficulty he may get into. James will get him compensated as well as himself.” Did you ever say that?—Never. I told her continually that I never heard of money on the part of Mr.

121.

O’Beirne. I told her to stick to Mr. Munster. If I could offer money for Mr. O’Beirne, I am certain I could have had her for that side; but I never told her there was money.

6809. Again she said, it was on a Saturday night she had the first conversation with you, and that a few nights afterwards, before the election, you came in and you said to her, “Mrs. Rochford, we will have two bottles of porter; James has settled with Mr. O’Beirne on this day, in the morning.” Did you say that?—Never.

6810. Did you propose to have two bottles of porter?—We had two bottles of porter at Mrs. Dowling’s, the evening before the election.

6811. Did you say to her on that occasion that James had settled with Mr. O’Beirne?—Never; nor did I know that my husband spoke a word to Mr. O’Beirne until the Saturday before the election, when he told me he went to Mr. O’Beirne, and gave his vote independently.

6812. Further she said, you went on to say that he, Mr. O’Beirne, had received 2,000 £ out of the bank at 10 o’clock, which was the time for getting it; did you say that?—Never.

6813. Or anything to that effect?—No; but she used to say that Mr. O’Beirne had no money, but that he got the loan of it from Mr. Power.

6814. She says you said that Captain Graham there has plenty of money, and Mr. Power?—Never.

6815. And that James has went to give his vote for him, and that he also said, “Welcome James;”

Mrs.
M. Hackett.

Mrs. James;" did you tell her all that?—Never; I never knew that my husband went to speak to Mr. O'Beirne until the Saturday before the election.

M. Hackett. 19 February 1869. 6816. She also says that you told her in this conversation between Mr. O'Beirne and your husband, "James, I will compensate you for the cause, and what you have done it. I will now recompense you in 1868 for your father's vote, and your own." Did you ever tell her that Mr. O'Beirne had said such a thing?—Never.

6817. Or anything to that effect?—No.

6818. Did you tell her that he (Mr. O'Beirne) gave James, your husband, 40*l*?—Never; I never heard of the statement until I heard that she swore it. I never heard the words. I most solemnly swear I never heard the words until I heard she swore it here.

6819. Did you say that if you got John to go, James will have him treated the same way?—I never told her that; I always told her to stick to Munster. If I could offer her money for Mr. O'Beirne, or had the power to do so, she certainly would have voted for Mr. O'Beirne.

6820. Did you ever say to her that he, meaning John Rochford, is a fool for going with that Saxon that he does not know, instead of Mr. O'Beirne, that can bring him out of any difficulty?—She often stated that the Saxon would now hunt the Irishman.

6821. You have heard me read what she stated?—Yes.

6822. Is it true?—It is false; I never asked her to vote for Mr. O'Beirne; I never told her I had money to get from Mr. O'Beirne; I never knew my husband went near him at all until the 7th of November, when he told me he went to Mr. O'Beirne, on account of some difference between him and Mr. Laffan, and gave his vote independent.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

6823. What is that that your husband last told you?—I never knew my husband to go to Mr. O'Beirne, or have any conversation with him, until the 7th of November, the Saturday before the election, when he told me he went to Mr. O'Beirne, and gave his vote independent.

6824. Did he not say it was in consequence of some difference with Mr. Laffan?—He said he had a falling out with Mr. Laffan.

6825. And then he told you that in consequence of that falling out with Mr. Laffan he went to vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—He said he thought he would break his vote by retaining him.

6826. Did he tell you that in consequence of that falling out with Mr. Laffan he went to give his vote for Mr. O'Beirne?—That was the cause of the falling out.

6827. Answer my question, Mrs. Hackett; did your husband tell you that it was in consequence of the falling out with Mr. Laffan that he gave his vote to Mr. O'Beirne?—He told me that Mr. Laffan thought to take him in along with several others, and that now he would give his vote independent for Mr. O'Beirne.

6828. Did you say this moment that it was in consequence of a falling out with Mr. Laffan that he went with Mr. O'Beirne?—Well, that was the cause of the falling out.

6829. Did you ever tell your husband that you got 10*l*. from Miss Ade?—I never told my husband that I got 10*l*. from Miss Ade, or any one connected with him, until I was subpoenaed, and then I was obliged to give my evidence.

6830. Then you never told your husband?—I never told him a word about it until I was summoned.

6831. Was that true that you told in the letter to Mr. Munster?—Was all I said true.

6832. Yes?—It was all true; I wanted money.

6833. Was it true that you had been disappointed of getting 20*l*. when you were married?—My father promised to give me 20*l*.; but when I asked him, he told me that he could not give it.

6834. Was it true that you had gone into debt without your husband's knowledge?—It was without his knowledge.

6835. Was it true that you had done so?—It was.

6836. What did you go into debt for?—For clothes.

6837. And your husband did not know of it?—He did not.

6838. Did you say that the young lady at Abbeyview was a dark young lady?—The first night that I went into the room I thought that the young lady that went into the room was dark.

6839. Was she?—Miss Ede is a dark young lady.

6840. Did not you say that the other young lady was dark?—I stated that the first night I did not know whether she was dark or fair; the second time I saw her in the room I knew that it was Miss Sterne, and that she is fair.

6841. Did you say in your evidence here that she was a dark young lady?—At what time did I say that?

6842. When you were examined here before?—I said that the first evening I went into Mr. Munster's room I was not sure whether she was fair or dark.

[The Witness then withdrew.]

Mr. Hemphill.] I now tender the cheques produced by Mr. Barrow, the officer of the National Bank; I don't think I need trouble your Lordship by reading them; but I only tender to enable me to observe on them. They are produced by the officer.

Baron Fitzgerald.] How many are there?

Mr. Hemphill.] There were three separate accounts: Mr. Laffan's, Mr. Munster's, and Mr. Richardson's. There are 17 cheques, all drawn by Mr. George Richardson. You will recollect that Patrick Halloran and Michael Hogan proved having received two retainer cheques, which were the only two that were produced; and then, connected with that cheque, we prove the letter written by Mr. Grace, dated the 14th of November 1868, and addressed to Mr. Michael Laffan. I need not read it again. I also produce Mr. Laffan's answer of the 16th November 1868, connected with these two cheques. And then, with reference to Dr. John Wood's retainer, we have his letter. It does not purport to be dated; and Mr. Michael Laffan's answer, 9th November 1868, and the summons founded on that, issued on the 9th December 1868. Also a copy of the letter, which was proved by Mr. Grace to Mr. Laffan, from Cassidy, one of the men that got retainers, dated the 6th November 1868. It is a letter repudiating it. And then there is a notice.

Mr. MICHAEL J. LAFFAN, re-called; and Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

6843. I SUPPOSE, Mr. Laffan, that is your handwriting, signed to that cautionary notice (produced)?—Yes, it is.

Mr. Hemphill.] It is dated the 19th November, and directed to Mr. Michael Hogan.

Counsel read the document as follows:—

“ Sir,—I have to remind you that inasmuch as you were duly retained to act as an agent for Mr. Henry Munster at this election, and which retainer you accepted, you are thereby disqualified from voting thereat; and inasmuch as in the event of your doing so, you will be guilty of a misdemeanour, punishable with fine and imprisonment, pursuant to the 8th section of the 31 & 32 Vict. c. 49, I hereby caution you against attempting to vote thereat for any candidate; and in the event of your doing so, your vote will be invalid, and you will subject yourself to a prosecution for having committed a misdemeanour.

“ Dated this 19th November 1868.

“ Michael J. Laffan.”

“ Mr. Michael Hogan.”

(The following are copies of the other Letters mentioned by Mr. Hemphill:—)

“ Cashel, 14 November 1868.

“ Dear Laffan, — Michael Hogan and Patrick Halloran have instructed me to send you the two cheques, which I enclose, for 5*l.* 5*s.*, each bearing your signature. They say that at the time your brother gave the cheques to each of them, he made misrepresentations which deceived them. They desire me to inform you that they have not acted as agents or canvassers for any candidate, but that they will vote for Mr. O’Beirne, and give him all the support they can. Faithfully yours, “ Pierce Grace.

“ M. J. Laffan, Esq.”

“ Cashel, 16 November 1868.

“ Dear Grace,—I return the cheques given to Michael Hogan and Patrick Halloran, as retainers for acting as agents for Mr. Munster, amount 5*l.* 5*s.* each, which I note are endorsed. You are misinstructed; there was no misrepresentation whatever, and I must hold the parties to their engagements. They have been retained as agents, and as such cannot vote for any candidate. If they attempt, I am instructed by eminent counsel their votes will be disallowed, and they will subject themselves to a prosecution for a misdemeanour. Very truly yours,

“ Michael J. Laffan.”

“ Pierce Grace, Esq.”

“ Cashel, 6 November 1868.

“ Sir,—You did not inform me that no retained agent could vote at the next election, which I now find is the fact. I am Mr. pledged to vote for Mr. O’Beirne, and there- M. J. Laffan, fore refuse to accept your offered retainer for Mr. Munster, and I return you herewith 19 February 1868. the check. Your obedient servant,

“ John Cassedy.”

“ M. J. Laffan, Esq.”

(Copy cheque.)

No. 22,998. The N. Bank.

“ Cashel, 6 November 1868.

“ Pay Mr. John Cassedy on order five pounds five shillings, as retainer for his services at election.

“ £.5 5*s.* (signed) “ M. J. Laffan.”

(Copy.)

Mr. Hemphill.] Then we put in the envelope, directed to John Coman, into which the 35*l.* was put. We also read the following letters of Michael Quirke and Mr. Laffan:

“ Cashel, 7 November 1868.

“ Dear Sir,—I have just heard that you have stated that the money you paid to me yesterday, five guineas, was as a retainer for Mr. Munster. Now, I give you notice that I did not understand you to say so when you paid me. I asked you for payment for my services given to you for the county election; and when you paid me, I believed it was for those services. I now inform you that I refuse to be retained for Mr. Munster, and if you decline to allow me to keep the money paid to me by you as remuneration for work done for you for the county election, I am prepared to offer to return it to you, and request your answer to this letter. Your obedient servant,

“ Michael Quirke.”

“ Michael J. Laffan, Esq.”

“ Cashel, 7 November 1868.

“ Mr. Michael Quirke,

“ Sir,—I have received your letter, and have only to say in reply that you having accepted my cheque, as retainer for Mr. Munster, to that acceptance, I shall hold you, and will insist on your fulfilling your engagement to him. As to your misunderstanding what the cheque was for, I will merely say there was no room for such. Yours very truly,

“ M. J. Laffan.”

Mr. Hemphill.] We now close, on the understanding that the opposite side will produce Mr. Munster.

Mr. Butt.] Yes.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Have we these bank books here?

Mr. Butt.] I was just going to ask for them; we gave notice to Mr. Barron.

Mr. HENRY W. BARRON, re-called; and Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr. H. W. Barron. 6844. CAPTAIN GRAHAM mentioned yesterday that you wrote a letter to him about Mr. O'Beirne having overdrawn his account?—Yes.

19 February 1869. 6845. Why did you write to him?—I wrote to Mr. O'Beirne first; and Captain Graham, when he was going away, said, "should Mr. O'Beirne be away, that I should write to him."

6846. You wrote to Mr. O'Beirne first; how is that?—I wrote to him to Captain Graham's house, and then he had gone to England.

6847. Then you did not write the letters to Captain Graham or to Mr. O'Beirne contemporaneously?—No; I wrote that in case Mr. O'Beirne should be gone.

6848. But were the two letters written?—The same day.

6849. When Captain Graham was going away, did he say to you to "Write to me if Mr. O'Beirne be away"?—Yes; he said, "If Mr. O'Beirne be away, write to me."

6850. Then Captain Graham knew that Mr. O'Beirne's account was overdrawn?—Not till I wrote.

6851. Then what was the conversation between you and Captain Graham, that made you write?—He said, "Should Mr. O'Beirne's account be overdrawn, if you write to me I will have it settled."

6852. Then Captain Graham was a guarantee?—As far as that conversation.

6853. That, of course, implied that he would have it settled?—That he would have it arranged if I wrote to him.

6854. Did Captain Graham state that before Mr. O'Beirne's account was overdrawn?—I think so.

6855. Was Mr. O'Beirne with Captain Graham when he said that?—No.

6856. Was it on the faith, then, of that guarantee from Captain Graham that you let Mr. O'Beirne overdraw his account?—Certainly not.

6857. You would have let Mr. O'Beirne overdraw without it?—I would.

6858. Did you see Captain Graham very often during the election?—Yes; he was often there.

6859. Had you any conversation with him about the election?—How about the election?

6860. Well, about the election first, then I will ask you was there anything particular said in reference to the election?—Yes; he asked me if I would ask a man to vote.

6861. Who was that person?—A man named Kennedy.

6862. Who was Kennedy?—He is a baker in the town.

6863. Had you any conversation with Captain Graham about the election except that?—I am not aware.

Mr. PIERCE GRACE, recalled; and Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr. P. Grace. 6864. DID you hear Mr. O'Beirne say that he paid 12*l.* to the "Clonmel Chronicle"?—That he paid it to some Clonmel paper, but I don't know which.

6865. Can you tell me was that an old account or one in relation to this election?—I did not know anything at all about it.

Captain GRAHAM, re-called; and Examined by Baron Fitzgerald.

Captain Graham. 6866. I THINK you told me that you reside in Kingstown?—I did.

6867. You have an account with the National Bank here?—I have.

6868. It was on the National Bank here that you drew for 83*l.* and balance of the account?—It was.

6869. The gentleman who has first gone down from the table explained his reason for writing to you as well as to Mr. O'Beirne in this way: He said that Mr. O'Beirne was staying at your house, and that his particular reason for writing to you was that on some previous occasion you had stated to him that if Mr. O'Beirne went away overdrawing his account you would see to it?—Yes, my Lord, that is so.

6870. Now, I ask you this, of course expecting an answer not according to the sound but according to the sense: In the interval between the time of your going to Cashel and leaving it, was any money paid to your account in the National Bank for Mr. O'Beirne; I don't mean in his name, but for him?—Not one penny.

6871. Did you draw any other cheque in favour of Mr. O'Beirne?—No, my Lord.

6872. Or any cheque for the purposes of the election at all?—No.

6873. For the purposes of the election?—None whatever.

Mr. HENRY W. BARRON, re-called; and Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr. H. W. Barron. 6874. DID you solicit the vote of Mr. Kennedy?—I did not.

Mr. PIERCE GRACE, re-called; and Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr. P. Grace. 6875. WERE the sheriff's expenses paid?—Yes.

6876. Who paid them?—I handed over a cheque that I got from Mr. O'Beirne.

6877. What was the amount?—I think it was 20*l.*

6878. Was that the whole of what you paid the sheriff?—That was the entire; but I believe Mr. Munster paid him 5*l.*

6879. On what bank was that cheque?—On the National.

6880. Is it one of those cheques that are entered tered in the book?—I suppose so; it was paid, I think, on the day of the nomination for the county election.

6881. When was that?—The day of the county nomination.

6882. Don't you know when that was?—I really don't.

Mr. JOHN COMAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

6884. You live in Cashel?—Yes.

6885. Do you know Cornelius Carroll?—I do.

6886. Had you any conversation before the election with him?—Oh, several; he is a customer of mine for over 20 years.

6887. Do you remember his reading a letter from Dean Cantwell?—I read the letter.

6888. Would you tell us what passed between you and Cornelius Carroll that evening; first, fix the date?—Well, nothing in particular; he had been in the habit of coming to my house frequently; he called several times to me to know if I could do anything at the election; he said that Cunningham was employed, and that he could be as active as Cunningham; I told him that Cunningham was not a voter, and that it would be better for him not to have anything to do with it.

6889. When did you see him next after that night?—He used to come mostly once or twice a day, for he said to me he was sure I was a great friend of Mr. Laffan's, and that I could get him something to do, and that I could get his house taken.

6890. Do you remember one evening Cunningham and he coming up to your house?—That is about an order.

6891. Yes?—I do.

6892. Do you remember the Sunday previous to that day; did he come to you for anything?—Yes, he did; Laffan and Cunningham and I were speaking opposite my own hall-door.

6893. Baron Fitzgerald.] Which Laffan?—Michael Laffan. He said, "I am glad now you are together, and, sir, if you get an order from Mr. Laffan for whiskey, won't you give it?" I said, "I would give any amount of whiskey upon your own order, but I will have nothing to do with anything connected with the election; I would as soon have your order as either Mr. Laffan's or Mr. Cunningham's."

6894. Did Mr. Laffan say anything?—He said, "Oh, such a thing could not be heard of."

6895. Did anything else pass then?—No.

6896. Now do you remember the evening that Carroll and Cunningham went to your house?—They went to my house and asked Mrs. Coman where I was.

6897. Don't tell anything except what took place when you were present?—I came in and she told me that they were inside in the room next the shop. I went in and said, "What do you want?" Cunningham said, "We want to leave a letter in your hands." I said, "What letter?" And, said Carroll, "They would not trust me; they took my house," or something to that effect. "They would not trust me with the money, and I have agreed to leave it upon your hands." I said, "Of course it is something connected with the election, and you have a great deal of impudence to dare to come here with any such letter, and I will kick the two of you out of the house."

6883. Was it several days after the Cashel election?—I think it was some days; a few days after the Cashel election.

Mr. Butt.] Now we go into a rebutting case, and I would like to have Miss Kate Dwyer here.

Mr.
P. Grace.
19 February
1869.

6898. Was anything else said that you recollect?—No; I don't recollect anything else being said.

6899. Was anything said about Ryan and Murnane's house?—Oh yes; Cunningham said that he had Ryan and Murnane's house taken, and that they returned him the money, and that, consequently, he had some objection to leave the money with Carroll himself.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill,

6900. You said you read a letter of Dean Cantwell's?—Yes.

6901. What was the short substance of it?—Merely the short substance of it; up to the time I got Dean Cantwell's letter, and until I saw the recommendation of Mr. George Henry Moore, I had not made up my mind to vote.

6902. What was the short substance of the letter?—That he was in a position to recommend Mr. Munster as a man who, he thought, would benefit the town of Cashel.

6903. And asked you for your interest?—No; he said I can recommend Mr. Munster.

6904. Did he not write to you as an influential man in Cashel to enlist you in Mr. Munster's service?—Well, I don't know; I think he wrote to several others also.

6905. But I am only speaking of you?—Well, Dean Cantwell and I are very old friends.

6906. Do you recollect having been present at any conversation between Carroll and young Pat Laffan?—Oh, well.

6907. Do you recollect at any time when you talked about the whiskey, saying to the effect that it would not do for a third party to be got into it, or was that said in your presence, rather?—No, not in my presence.

6908. By either Laffan or Conyngham?—Never; it never occurred in my presence. I will give you all the information I have. Pat Laffan came up to me one morning at Corcoran's hotel, and said Carroll was with him and wanted to get an order from me for whiskey.

6909. Did you tell Carroll that Pat Laffan would meet him at "Corcoran's" hotel; do you recollect that?—Not on the whiskey matter.

6910. Did you at any time tell Carroll that Pat Laffan would meet him at Corcoran's?—Not meet him exactly; but that he could see him there; I did not make any appointment; but that if he wanted Pat Laffan he could see him there.

6911. You know when you saw this envelope you did not like the look of it?—I never laid my eyes on that letter; I never saw it, good, bad, or indifferent.

6912. I understood you to say that you saw a letter, and that you thought they had a great deal of impudence?—I did not say I saw the letter.

6913. Did you or did you not see the letter?—Never; I never laid my eyes on it.

6914. Did you say when they mentioned that letter that you would not have anything to do with

Mr.
J. Coman.

Mr. J. Coman.
19 February 1869. with it for 1005 l., or anything to that effect?—I did not mention a thousand pounds, nor was there any money mentioned at all. They said they wanted to leave this letter in my hands about the house, and then I told them they had a great deal of impudence to mention such a letter to me.

6915. Do you recollect telling him when Carroll was going home to wait a little while; how long did they remain that evening?—I don't know, for the reading-room was just opposite the door. I walked across, but Conynghame had followed me out. "I suppose," says he, "I might have entrusted him with this letter." "Do what you like with it," said I, "and you had a great deal of impudence to come to me."

6916. Did Conynghame go into the kitchen with you?—I am after telling you that Conynghame had come to me to speak to me.

6917. What passed between you and Conynghame then?—I have just told you that what Conynghame said was, I suppose I might have trusted himself with the letter, and I said, "You may do what you please with it."

6918. And it was after that you saw him following Carroll, was it?—I walked out and across to the Town Hall, and the two were in a line with me.

6919. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you tell Conynghame that you thought he might trust the man himself?—Conynghame said, "I suppose I might trust the man himself with the letter, and I said, "you may do what you like with it."

6920. Mr. Hemphill.] Were you not very active in helping Mr. Laffan in reference to this petition?—Oh no.

6921. Did you give any information to Mr. Laffan as to the parties to be served with the subpoenas?—Mr. Laffan often spoke to me about the parties.

6922. In reference to this petition?—In reference to this petition Mr. Laffan and I had a great deal of conversation.

6923. Did you not supply information as to the parties to be served with subpoenas?—Certainly not; he knew the whole of the names himself.

6924. Did you give any names?—Well, I might have mentioned names; we might be talking generally, and he might ask me, being the receiver over the corporation property.

6925. Is that where the Commoners live?—The Commons.

Re-examined by Mr. Carton.

6926. What information did you give Mr. Laffan; just tell us now?—Well, Mr. Laffan was talking of the names, and I said, "I think there is very little use in your summoning" so and so; but I never dictated to Mr. Laffan. He knew the whole of them himself as well as I.

6927. Did you say anything else to Mr. Laffan; did you mention any names?—Well, I might have mentioned names.

6928. Of the Commoners; what else did you say to Mr. Laffan about it; why did you tell him there was no use in summoning the Commoners?—Well, I will tell it if I am allowed now.

Mr. JAMES L. O'BEIRNE, re-called; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr. J. L. O'Beirne. 6929. You stated yesterday that you gave a cheque to pay some newspaper?—I did.

6930. Was not that for an account standing over from a former election?—Yes, it was. No, not from a former election; it was an old account.

I had subscribed for years to the "Clonmel Chronicle."

6931. It was not for anything connected with this election?—Certainly not.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. MICHAEL COFFEY, re-called; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr. Coffey. 6932. Is that your handwriting to that agreement?—It is.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

6933. That's your handwriting?—Yes.

6934. Now that is dated the 19th of November, the day before the polling?—Yes.

6935. When did any one first speak to you about your room for Mr. Munster?—I went first with the intention, if I got the money, to go to Mr. Grace with the money; and they told me they would not like to trust me. They had some suspicion of me.

6936. When was that?—That was the week before the election.

6937. Who was it spoke to you first on Mr. Munster's behalf about the room?—Pat Laffan came down to me.

6938. And was that the time you speak of, about a week before the election; or when did Pat Laffan propose about the room?—The day he took it.

6939. What do you say happened a week before the election?—I went down to Corcoran's Hotel, and told two men that I would do it.

6940. Do what; let the room?—No; we were in dread that O'Beirne would be defeated, and we wanted to find out was he giving money; and I went with that intention, to know if I could find it out; and they told me they would give it to us after the election, if I voted.

6941. Give you what?—Money.

6942. Baron Fitzgerald.] Who told you?—I was going to state this yesterday, and I did not like to mention any one's name.

6943. Who was it?—Mr. Sullivan is one.

6944. Who else?—Mr. Laffan.

6945. Which Mr. Laffan?—Michael Laffan.

6946. You must tell the whole of what was said to you, and when it took place?—They told me that they did not like to give any money, on account of what Carroll had done the day before. Then I told him that I would not give him my vote. They told me that they would give me money after the election, for Mr. Munster was a very rich man. After the petition (they told me that there would be a petition lodged, and that every elector would be sworn),—then I went away, with the intention of not minding them at all. He came down to me then to settle for the room.

6947. The same day?—A couple of days after, No,

No, the day before the election he came to settle for the room.

6948. Who did?—Pat Laffan.

6949. Who did you tell that you would do them?—Mr. Guirey is one, and Mr. Ryan.

6950. What is Ryan's christian name?—John Ryan.

6951. When was it that you told Hanly that Mr. Munster's people had been with you?—I told Mr. Hanly the day before the election.

6952. Was that after you signed the agreement, or before it?—Before it; and I told him afterwards too.

6953. Was the agreement signed before or after you got the money from Mr. O'Beirne?—Afterwards.

6954. Mr. Hemphill.] Did anyone at all speak to you on Mr. Munster's behalf before that, either about your vote or about your room?—They did.

6955. Baron Fitzgerald.] Before what?

Mr. Hemphill.] Before the 19th of November.

Re-examination of the Witness by Mr. Butt.

Mr. Butt.] We will read the agreement now: "I agree to let Mr. Henry Munster have the use of my house and yard during the election, for a sum of 35*l*."

"Dated the 19th of November 1868.

"Michael Coffey."

6956. (To the Witness.) At what time of the day was that agreement signed?—In the morning.

6957. What time in the morning?—About 12 o'clock. I did not read it before I signed my name to it.

6958. But you remember signing it?—I remember signing it.

6959. Tell me, up to the time you had signed that agreement had you let your house to Mr. Munster, or agreed to give it?—Up to the time I signed that?

6960. Wasn't that?—That is the time that I let it to Mr. Munster.

6961. When you went to Corcoran's Hotel, you wanted to serve Mr. O'Beirne?—Yes.

6962. And to entrap Mr. Munster's agent into promising you money?—I did not want to entrap him at all; I wanted to see if they were giving money.

6963. With the intention of using it for Mr. O'Beirne, who you thought would be unseated?—Yes.

6964. Well, I call that entrapping them; whom did you plan with that you should go there?—I told Mr. Guirey that I would do it. He told me that he thought they were giving money, and he told me about Carroll; and then I said I would see if it was true, and I went down.

6965. Did you say anything about letting your rooms to them that day, when you went to Corcoran's Hotel, or what did you say?—I asked them; no, I don't think I spoke about the rooms that day.

6966. Do you say now, on your oath, that Mr. Michael Laffan told you that you would get money after the election was over?—I do; I swear that.

6967. How much?—He did not state any sum.

6968. Who was by when he said that?—Mr. Sullivan went out; I don't think they were giving any—

6969. Was anyone by?—I think Mr. Sullivan was present; Mr. Sullivan said, "Won't you take Mr. Laffan's word?"

6970. That they would pay you after the election?—Yes.

6971. You processed Mr. Munster for the money for your rooms?—I did.

6972. How much did you recover?—20*l*.

6973. Was Mr. Scallan present, either when your rooms were taken or when you went first to the hotel?—When I went first to the hotel; when Mr. Laffan came for me; I wanted to see Mr. O'Beirne before I would let them, to tell him about it. They sent a man watching me, to know would I go in, and I did not like to go in for fear.

6974. Was that when you were sent for to go to the hotel, to let your rooms?—Yes.

6975. You wanted to see Mr. O'Beirne before you would give them an answer?—Yes.

6976. What did you go to Mr. O'Beirne for then?—To tell him what I was intending to do.

6977. What you were intending to do?—Yes.

6978. What was that?—To tell him that they came down for me to-day, to take the house.

6979. And you saw that they were watching you?—Mr. Scallan met me and another man, and they asked me, would I not go into the hotel, to settle? I told them that I would not; that I had let them to Mr. O'Beirne. Then Mr. Scallan made answer; there was another man with him. He said that I could let the house to him, "but," said he, "sure you need not vote for me."

6980. You have not answered my question yet; when you saw Mr. Laffan, and say that he promised you money after the election, was Mr. Scallan present?—He was present when he made the agreement, but he was not present when he paid me; there was no one but the two of us.

6981. Have you not said that you went into the house, and that Mr. Laffan promised you money after the election was over?

6982. Baron Fitzgerald.] In Corcoran's Hotel?—Yes.

6983. Was Scallan present then?—No.

6984. But he was present when you signed the agreement?—No.

6985. Well, when was Scallan present?—He was present when we were making the agreement.

6986. For the house?—Yes; then Pat Laffan brought me into a private room, and shut the door.

Mr.
M. Coffey.
1869.

Mr. MICHAEL JOSEPH LAFFAN, recalled; Examined by Mr. Butt.

6987. You have heard what this man said?—I have.

6988. Is it true that you ever, on behalf of Mr. Munster, promised him money after the election was over?—It is not.

121.

6989. Did you say anything of the kind?—No.

6990. Did you see him in Corcoran's Hotel?—I did.

6991. Who was present?—Mr. Sullivan.

6992. Who

Mr.
M. J. Laffan.

Mr. 6992. Who is Mr. Sullivan?—I cannot say ;
M.J. Laffan. Sullivan was often in and out. I wish to state—

19 February
 1869.

Mr. Hemphill.] I think you had better answer the questions.

The Witness.] I merely wanted to state that Coffey promised his vote to Mr. Munster in my presence, when we went on a former canvass through the town, a considerable time before that.

6993. Mr. Hemphill.] You had some conversation, at all events, in Corcoran's Hotel?—Oh, yes; I recollect the fact of his coming in there.

6994. You know a man named Sullivan?—I do.

6995. He is in court?—I can't say.

6996. Point him out?—[A person in court said, "I am here."]

6997. Mr. Hemphill.] Have you subpoenaed him as a witness?—Have I?

6998. Yes?—No.

6999. Is he subpoenaed?—By us; no.

7000. Then you had some conversation with him in the presence of Sullivan?—Yes; Oh, I won't undertake to say that I had a conversation in the presence of Sullivan, with him. I recollect the fact of his coming into the room on that particular day. I am perfectly certain that I never made such a promise to him, as that I would give him money after the election.

7001. Do you recollect what day it was that he came to the house?—Well, I think it was either the day between the nomination and the polling, or the day before the nomination.

7002. The day before the nomination?—Yes.

7003. That is before Mr. Munster took the room at all?—Yes.

7004. I want you to be particular on that; was it before Mr. Munster took the room, that you had the conversation?—To be strictly accurate, I cannot say, but I recollect it was quite close to the election.

7005. Had you more than one conversation with him, sir?—I had.

7006. With Coffey?—Yes.

7007. Before the polling?—Yes.

7008. Now the first conversation, was it at Corcoran's Hotel?—It was not at Corcoran's.

7009. Where was it?—In his house.

7010. Coffey's own house?—Yes.

7011. What did you go there for?—I think I canvassed the whole town for Mr. Munster before he commenced his own canvass.

7012. The conversation you speak of, you say, was close to the election; before the nomination day, or before the polling?—Yes.

7013. The conversation you are mentioning was in Coffey's own house?—The first conversation I had with Coffey.

7014. What brought you to his house?—To canvass him.

7015. Didn't you tell me a moment ago, that before that, in Mr. Munster's own canvass, he promised Mr. Munster?—No, I did not; I told you that he promised Mr. Munster when we went on the canvass, but that was not before I went on a canvass.

7016. When did he promise Mr. Munster?—I should tell you that I first canvassed for Mr. Munster, and then Mr. Munster and I went on the canvass through the town, in his carriage, and he repeated the promise which he had previously made to me.

7017. When did he first promise you; that is what I want to know?—I should probably say a month.

7018. A month before the election he promised you; what took place at Coffey's house, when you had this conversation?—

7019. Baron Fitzgerald.] When was it you had the conversation you told Mr. Butt of, and where?—The first conversation I ever had with Coffey was in his own house; the second was in Corcoran's.

7020. Mr. Hemphill.] When was that conversation at Corcoran's?—Either on the day before the nomination, or on the day before the polling.

7021. Tell me precisely what passed between you in that conversation?—Well, I could not.

7022. The substance of it, sir?—The substance of it was, that Coffey came into the room; of course I canvassed him; I reminded him of his promise, and asked him was he going to stick to it, or something of that kind; a general conversation. I never made him a promise of money.

7023. Baron Fitzgerald.] Tell what did he say?—My Lord, I cannot tell you what happened with every elector.

7024. No, no; but what did he say; do you remember what he said?—Do I remember what he said; as far as my recollection serves me, he said he was going to support us; to stick to us. He said, "Didn't I promise you already."

7025. Is that your whole recollection of it?—That is my whole recollection of it.

7026. Was anything at all said about a petition?—Not a word by me.

7027. Or by Sullivan, in your presence?—I don't recollect Sullivan taking any part in the conversation.

7028. Or by Guirey?—Oh, no; Guirey was one of O'Beirne's principal friends.

7029. I think he said Sullivan and Guirey were in the house with you?—With Coffey? well, I think not; Sullivan, he says, was in the room.

7030. He told him not to trust you?—Sullivan told him not to trust me? I don't believe such a thing could have happened.

7031. Might it have happened?—It might not, could not, because I don't think Sullivan could make such a statement.

7032. Was there anything taking place, to which it could refer?—There was not; Sullivan never said that.

7033. Have you an independent recollection of the conversation?—No, I have not, of all the details of the conversation; I can't recollect.

7034. Do you remember a person of the name of Judge being there?—No; there was no such person mixed up in the election; there is a man in the town, a slater, of that name.

7035. Might he have been there?—No.

7036. Did you ever say that no money could be given, or settled for, until after the time for petitioning was over?—I told the parties who came to me, that we would give no money.

7037. Until when?—I did not say.

7038. Until after the time for petitioning?—I never made that statement.

7039. Did you not make that statement to the parties, before the election?—No.

7040. Are you quite sure of that?—I am, certain.

7041. Had you any conversation with Coffey, except the one you have just mentioned?—That was the only conversation that I recollect with him; that, as I recollect, was the second one.

7042. When did you first make up your own mind to take the rooms?—I think it was the day between the nomination and the polling; in fact, I am not quite sure that I made up my mind at all. It was Scallan and my brother that did it, and I told them that I would not undertake—They consulted me, in the first instance, but I became aware of it in the course of the day.

7043. What was the room taken for?—To put the Commons voters in on the night before the polling.

7044. You did not consider that a corrupt act on the part of those acting for Mr. Munster?—Well, I did not.

7045. You thought it was a legitimate thing to take rooms for that purpose?—To take rooms, if we made use of them.

7046. You intended to use them?—Yes.

7047. And were they made use of?—Yes; at least I believe so. I gave directions to carry out the object, and I understood it was done. I did not see it myself going on.

7048. There was nothing in that act that you consider illegal or improper?—That is a matter of opinion.

7049. You did not consider it so?—I did not.

7050. Baron Fitzgerald.] Was anything said in that conversation about Carroll at all?—By me to Coffey?

7051. Yes?—No, my Lord.

7052. By none of them?—No; but I am quite sure that Mr. Scallan said it; it is my belief.

7053. Mr. Hemphill.] What is it that you think Scallan said?—

7054. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did you hear it said, whatever it was?—No, my Lord, I did not.

7055. Mr. Hemphill.] Had you not heard, before this conversation at Corcoran's, that Coffey had promised Mr. O'Beirne?—I had not.

7056. Do you swear that?—I do; the only thing I heard about Coffey, from somebody or other, was, that he was a doubtful voter.

7057. But you had not heard that he had promised Mr. O'Beirne?—Of course we were calculating.

Mr.
M.J. Laffan.
1869.

Mr. JOHN LEWIS SCALLAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

7058. Do you recollect taking this house from Coffey?—I do.

7059. What day, exactly, was it that you took the house?—The day before the polling.

7060. That was the 19th?—The 19th.

7061. About what time of the day was it?—I think it was about 12 o'clock, or between 12 and 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

7062. Did you go down to Coffey about taking the house, or did Coffey go to you?—I went to look for Coffey.

7063. And did you meet him?—I went down in the morning to his house, and he was out. We had determined—I and Mr. Pat Laffan—I don't think Mr. Munster was a party to it—

7064. Don't mind that?—I went down to the house after we lost Con Connell's house, for the purpose of taking Coffey's, he having stated, on the previous Monday or Tuesday, when he came to Corcoran's hotel, that he was disposed to let his house, and that Mr. O'Beirne was seeing about it. I went down to his house, and found that he was out. I came up to the hotel, and was told shortly afterwards that Coffey was in the street. I should have mentioned before, that I went down to Murphy's house, and found that it was taken by Mr. O'Beirne. I went across to Coffey in the street, and said, "We have lost Carroll's house, and, consequently, it is indispensable for us to have some house in town." "Well," said he, "I made a proffer of a house to you the other day at the hotel." "That is very true," said I. "We did not want the house then, and did not wait on you for it at all; but now we do want the house, are you prepared to let it; have you let it to Mr. O'Beirne?" "I have," said he. "Well, of course, if that be the case, Coffey," said I, "that is all about it." I made a pause then, and I looked at him, and said, "Coffey, in the first instance you came forward very honestly at the hotel, and while you complained very much that Mr. Munster's agents gave you no attention whatever, and never canvassed you except at the beginning, still, at the same time, as you pledged yourself to Mr.

Munster, you meant to keep your word. Now, of course, Mr. O'Beirne having taken your house, is a matter altogether independent of your vote, and you will keep your pledge like an honest man."

7065. What did he say to that?—He said, "I don't know;" and I left him.

7066. Did you meet him later in the day?—Later in the day I was told that Coffey wanted to see me. I said, "Send him to me." I and Pat Laffan saw him then. Said he, "I won't let my house." Said I, "I thought it was let to Mr. O'Beirne." "Oh no," said he, "I did not conclude the thing; he and I differed." "Well," said I, "if you have not let the house, we are prepared to take it, for we want the house;" and we then and there agreed to take his house. I drew up the memorandum which has been put in evidence to-day, and handed it to Pat Laffan for the purpose of arranging about the payment, as no money whatever passed through my hands in reference to the election. That is what passed exactly.

7067. What time of day was that?—I think between 12 and 1 o'clock on the 19th.

7068. Did you see Coffey after that?—I did see him afterwards in the street, when he appeared to be under the influence of liquor.

7069. Did you at the time want the house?—Well, as far as I could judge (I had not a great deal of experience of election matters at Cashel or elsewhere); but as far as I could judge, I understood that the house was really required for the purpose of assembling voters on the morning of the polling, and the night before the polling, and for that purpose I went to take the house, having lost the other; and I should mention that I went down there afterwards, at four or five o'clock in the afternoon, perhaps not so late, when I saw a number of persons in it, and I saw possession given of the house; and Coffey, at none of the interviews, mentioned that Mr. O'Beirne had taken the house after he stated to me that Mr. O'Beirne and he had differed.

Mr.
J.L. Scallan.
—

Mr.
J.L. Scallan.
1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curtis.

7070. When was it that Coffey first offered the house to you on behalf of Mr. Munster?—I don't think he made any actual offer, but he mentioned in the course of the interview I had with him at Corcoran's hotel, on the Monday or Tuesday previous to the nomination, that Mr.

O'Beirne was about taking his house, and I think at that time (I am almost sure at that time) I said to him, "Well, by all means, Coffey, if you can make an honest penny by your house, do make it, and let it to Mr. O'Beirne."

[The Witness withdrew.]

Miss KATE O'DWYER, recalled; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Miss
K. O'Dwyer.

7071. I WANT your papers that you produced the other day; did you bring your books?—You kept one before. (The Witness was understood to send for papers.)

7072. Mr. Butt asked for the paper that had on it the names of the persons that paid for the dinner?—Witness. I was taking it away, Mr. Butt, and you called me back and took it from me.

7073. It has been read; what I want to ask you is: I saw in that paper that twelve commoners were paid for by Mr. Ryan?—Yes.

7074. Who was the Mr. Ryan who paid it?—Mr. James Ryan; I saw the twelve commoners pay James Ryan in my presence; I was busy at the time, and I could not take the money myself; he owes me 10s.; he told me he had to pay for 14, and he only paid me for 12.

7075. Was James Ryan acting for you?—No, he was not.

7076. Where did Mrs. Boyton sleep?—She slept in the best room in my house; it is called the Colonel's room, because we give it to the colonel of the Tipperary Militia.

7077. You made a colonel of Mrs. Boyton, then; was she satisfied with that room?—Perfectly satisfied.

7078. Did you put her out of it?—Never.

7079. Had she any other room but that?—She had.

7080. What was the other room?—She had the use of the public sitting-room.

7081. Had she any small little sitting-room of her own?—She had; it had been a bedroom.

7082. Did she complain of it?—Well, no; it was her own wish to go into the room, and she did at times; but she made use of the public room also.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

7083. Was it a small room next the bedroom, on the same floor?—Quite close, on the same floor.

7084. You were in and out of the room?—Constantly.

7085. Had she a box that she kept money in, or did you see a box?—I did.

7086. What sort of a box was it?—A large-sized deal box, with a cotton cover; there were two boxes; there was also a sort of writing-desk in her room.

7087. Was it a wooden writing-desk?—A mahogany writing-desk.

7088. Did she ever say that she kept money in any of these boxes? No, she never did.

7089. Did you ever see her take money out of a box?—I did; I saw her take money out of a box.

7090. Was it the large box, or the writing-desk?—The large box; she has paid me money out of the large box.

Mr. JOHN BOYTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Carton.

Mr.
J. Boyton.

7091. WERE you and your wife living at Miss O'Dwyer's before the election?—Yes.

7092. Do you know a man they call Ryan, of the race-course?—I do.

7093. Do you recollect his calling on you before the election?—I do.

7094. Did he call more than once?—I think about twice.

7095. Did he then say anything to you about the election, or about his vote?—Yes, he wanted to sell a horse.

7096. What did he say to you?—He said if he got 60 l. or 70 l. for the horse he would support Mr. Munster.

7097. Do you recollect the night that Mrs. Boynton, you, and he, were together in that house?—I do.

7098. Do you recollect what took place that night?—It was all about selling his horse; he said if he got 60 l. or 70 l. for the horse he would vote for Mr. Munster, and also that if he got 30 l. each for the votes of the commoners, he would get them to vote.

7099. What room was this in?—It was in the public sitting-room of the hotel.

7100. You were in that room the whole time that Ryan was there?—I think I was.

7101. Did Ryan and Mrs. Boyton go out of the room together?—No, except to leave; when he was going out I think I walked out with him, just to show him down the stairs.

7102. Did Mrs. Boyton and he go out of the room together?—I cannot say.

7103. Were you not there all the time?—Oh, except when he was going—

7104. Yes, exactly?—Then she might have walked down with him a bit.

7105. Did she go out of the room alone with Ryan?—Oh, certainly not; not at all.

7106. Had Mrs. Boyton a sum of 1,250 l. in a box?—Oh, Lord! not 1,250 pence; not at all.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

7107. You are the cashier of the bank?—I am accountant.

7108. And of course you know the state of the accounts?—I do very well.

7109. Where are you now living?—I am living in Mr. Munster's house.

7110. Close to the church?—Yes.

7111. And you were at Abbeyview?—I was for a short time.

7112. You were aware, of course, knowing the accounts, accounts, that Mr. Munster had this large credit at the bank?—Yes.

7113. You were quite aware of that?—Yes.

7114. Had John Ryan ever drunk tea at Kittv O'Dwyer's with you and your wife before?—Never; never asked him.

7115. You are not of the same rank in life?—Certainly not.

7116. Baron Fitzgerald.] Did he take tea at all that night?—No, sir.

7117. Mr. Hemphill.] Was there any tea there?—No, there was not.

7118. Was there any tea produced?—Not while he was there.

7119. Were the tea-things on the table?—I am sure not.

7120. What made Ryan go to you?—Well, I always had a friendship for him; I saw he was a respectable young man, and he always came to me, and I obliged him in any way when he asked my advice.

7121. Is he a friend of yours?—I was always friendly to him.

7122. Did you see this horse that he offered to you?—I never saw it.

7123. And were you going to buy it?—I was not going to buy the horse at all.

7124. Then you refused it; you would have nothing at all to say to it?—I had nothing at all to say to it; only I wished to serve him, and I said I would speak to one party or other connected with Mr. Munster.

7125. There was a good deal of conversation about the election between you and your wife and Ryan?—Yes.

7126. How long did he stay in the room?—About, perhaps, half an hour.

7127. What hour was it?—I think it was between five and six o'clock.

7128. And the candles and gas were lighted?—They were.

7129. You said, I think, you were in the room the whole time?—I am sure I was.

7130. What was said first—on your oath?—Well, I am somewhat decomposed, for it is the most extraordinary charge I ever heard.

7131. Then you are somewhat decomposed?—I am; I am surprised at such a thing.

7132. And does that affect the clearness of your recollection?—It does not affect it in the slightest.

7133. Not the slightest?—Not in the slightest degree; because we were bothered with him about his horse that night.

7134. And why did you not tell him to leave the room?—Oh, I would not do that; I would be very sorry.

7135. You said that you and your wife went to see him downstairs?—Oh, no. I showed him down.

7136. Where was your wife?—I suppose she remained in the room.

7137. Don't suppose; can you state whether she did remain in the room when you went to show him downstairs?—When I left the room I don't know whether she might have gone out of it or not.

7138. At all events, you and he left the room, leaving her behind?—Ryan and I, yes.

7139. Then she was inaccurate in her recollection when she stated that she went into the passage that leads on the landing with him?—She might have followed me after.

7140. This room, you say, is on the drawing-room floor?—It is; and you must pass out through another sitting-room to get out.

7141. And you are quite clear that you walked out with Ryan and not your wife?—I am.

7142. Of course you must have money for your ordinary house expenses?—Two or three pounds.

7143. Of course you would not keep more in the house; it would be foolish?—Oh, no.

7144. Is there not a box in the bedroom where your wife kept the money?—She very seldom has any.

7145. If she has any, where would she keep it?—Oh, she keeps it—I don't know really.

7146. In a box?—Yes.

7147. Do you recollect seeing Anastasia Bishop there that evening, the servant girl at Miss O'Dwyer's?—I suppose I did; she was the attendant.

7148. You don't recollect whether you did or not?—I think she was the attendant.

7149. Do you recollect her going upstairs, and knocking at your wife's bedroom for any purpose?—I do not, indeed.

7150. Might not she have done so without your knowing it?—She might.

7151. Where did you go after John Ryan left?—I remained in the sitting-room.

7152. The whole night?—Yes, I am sure I did.

7153. Did you go down to the shop with him when you went to show him downstairs?—No, I did not. I am sure I did not.

7154. Is there a light in the passage?—Yes; sometimes the light was there and sometimes it was not lit.

7155. Was there a light that night in the passage?—I cannot say.

7156. Now, Mr. Boyton, is it not the fact that Ryan and your wife, as she stated, left the sitting-room together, leaving you behind them; is not that the fact, sir?—I won't say it is the fact or not; but I think, my Lord, this is all a conspiracy, from the way Mrs. Boyton was suborned.

Re-examined by Mr. Carton.

7157. Did you speak about it?—I spoke to Michael Laffan about it, and he said not to have anything to do with him, that he was a dangerous man. I met him afterwards at Abbeyview; it was after dinner, and came out to meet him in the hall. I felt that he was a respectable young man, and asked him what he wanted, and again he said to buy the horse, and to speak to Mr. Leahy; and that he would give the horse for 35 l.

7158. Baron Fitzgerald.] May I ask you, Mr. Boyton, if you thought it was the part of a respectable young man to sell his horse for 60 l. or 70 l. and give his vote?—I could not say what the horse was worth; I had not seen it.

Mr.
J. Boyton.

1869.

Mr. HENRY MUNSTER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr.
H. Munster.
19 February
1869.

7159. You were a Candidate for this borough at the last election?—Yes.

7160. At what time did you come here?—On the 16th of October, I think; I am not sure whether it was the 16th or the 17th.

7161. Did you engage anyone as your conducting agent?—Mr. Michael Joseph Laffan.

7162. Did you canvass the town soon after your arrival?—I do not think I did very soon; I was very infirm at that time.

7163. I believe you took a house at Abbeyview?—It was taken for me before I came.

7164. Who took it for you?—I think Mr. Laffan signed the agreement, as my agent.

7165. Then did you go to Abbeyview immediately on your coming?—Direct; drove from the Thurles station.

7166. Tell me who accompanied you; the inmates of your own family?—Immediately?

7167. Well, yes; immediately or afterwards?—I travelled from Sheffield with, I think, Miss Ede, Miss Sterne, Mr. Leonard Cartwright and his sister, Miss Emily Cartwright, but they did not come to Cashel with me; I came to Cashel with Miss Ede and Mr. Edward Leahy, who met me at Thurles.

7168. Mr. Edward Leahy is brother to the Archbishop?—Yes.

7169. And was a supporter of yours here?—He was a very old friend of mine; my first acquaintance.

7170. You had known Mr. Edmund Leahy for some time?—At intervals, Mr. Butt, before he went out to Jamaica with a Government appointment. I was going to tell you what I thought might cut short —

7171. When did you canvass the town?—I don't think I can tell you; I went to six, eight, or ten houses at a time, according as I could.

7172. Baron Fitzgerald.] What Mr. Butt means is, what time did you commence?—I don't remember, my Lord; I should think probably about ten days or a fortnight after my arrival; my beginning in the town was calling in two physicians.

7173. After your arrival here, of course you opened an account in the National Bank?—Before my arrival.

7174. Now I will just put this general question to you, Mr. Munster. Did you ever, to any person, supply any money, knowing that it would be expended in bribing voters, or intending that it should?—I did not.

7175. Or that it should be expended in treating voters?—I did not.

7176. Did you know of any money being expended in bribery during the election?—I did not.

7177. Or in treating?—I did not; I except from that answer, that I saw some bottles of sherry ordered presumably on my credit.

7178. Where was that?—At Corcoran's hotel. I think the day I made the speech, some sherry was handed round; I forget; I think it was Saturday; I have not the dates; if I had an almanack —

7179. Did you to Mr. Laffan give any directions or instructions, with reference to the expenditure of money, do you recollect?—I do not think that I did; it did not enter into my mind that it would be necessary.

7180. There have been some things which you have done here mentioned, and I must ask you about them: it has been stated, that you bought 50 l. worth of toys at a shop in Cashel?—I see it so reported in yesterday's "Times."

7181. I believe it is also stated that you have no children?—Yes, I saw that also.

7182. The latter is not quite true?—Nor the former. I have no children, in one sense; I had two sons and a daughter.

7183. Will you tell me as to the purchase of the toys; what was that transaction?—I, on two occasions, bought a considerable lot of toys; one, the day before the nomination, for a scramble among the schoolboys at Abbeyview, the house I occupied, and the other, subsequently to the election, for the children of the school; 5 l. or 6 l. worth at Christmas; which I sent to the national school and the convent school, to be distributed among the children; with the exception of these toys, and perhaps, a few balls, my purchases at Mr. Ferris's consisted of such things as these: flat candlesticks for my house, carpet-bags, books, chiefly religious books, prayer-books, rosaries, combs. I have given away a great number of combs since I have been in Cashel.

7184. To girls, was it, or to —?—To the young ladies and gentlemen of the town, who happened to be begging.

7185. What were the rest of your purchases at Mr. Ferris's?—A number of prints which are hanging about my house.

7186. Some very good?—No, not very good; of a low class.

7187. Did you make those purchases as you wanted those things?—Entirely; I never bought anything since I have been here that I did not want, in a certain sense; I don't mean to say by that, that I could not have done without them.

7188. There is another transaction about which we have been asked; will you just tell me, with reference to applications for charity, in what exact position did Miss Ede stand to you?—When I came down here, it was so difficult for me to transact any business or attend to anything, that I made this division. Not only did I appoint an election expense agent, but I employed Miss Sterne to attend to my household expenses, and gave her an account on the bank for that purpose; and knowing that I should have undoubtedly many begging applications, I got Miss Ede, who had come to stay with me from a French convent, prior to her intended noviciate there, to consider all those cases of charity, and relieve them according to her judgment and mine.

7189. Now, I believe I must ask you this, though, perhaps, you don't like to answer it; I believe you have been in the habit of giving largely in charity?—At different times of my life; of late years, I have been very irregular, because, since 1864, I have alternately had intervals of great depression—monetary, I mean—and some inflation.

7190. When you say depression, you mean that you suffered heavy losses in different transactions?—Well, yes; not in transactions exactly.

7191. Well, by being brought into companies?—Baron

Baron Fitzgerald.] What have we to do with this?—Chiefly one company.

7192. Do you recollect the time when the letter came from Mrs. Hackett, whom we have heard of?—I do.

7193. Will you just tell his Lordship, as nearly as you recollect, what passed upon that occasion?—Mrs. Hackett forced her way almost into my presence, and a letter of hers, whether to me or to somebody else I cannot say, for I discouraged any letters being written to me at all; but a letter of hers being seen by me, and containing some allusion to some voter or another, that was quite enough for me, and I would have nothing more to do with her, and had her sent away. She had some further conversation, I believe, with Miss Ede, but I may say it is one out of some eight hundred cases.

Baron Fitzgerald.] State nothing but what occurred in your own presence.

7194. Had you, or was there in your presence, any further conversation with Mrs. Hackett, after you had sent her away; I want you to state everything that passed while you were present?—Well, I do not recollect very well; I think she went out and talked with somebody else, and then they came back and begged very hard for her, and then I think I saw her again for a few minutes; but I don't feel at all certain, it happened to me so often, and but for one circumstance I should not have recollected it at all.

7195. Did you ultimately agree to give her anything or did you refuse?—No, I did not.

7196. Did you recommend an application to be made to a lady in London?—I did, some time after, because they pressed me so hard; both Miss Ede and Mr. Richardson thought it was a deserving case; in fact, I thought the woman was a plant, and said so from the first. I said, "Well, perhaps Mademoiselle de Moncourt would undertake to lend her the money.

7197. Was that lady a friend of your's?—She is my godmother; my dearest friend in the world.

7198. I believe she is now too ill to be here?—She is blind, and I think I have a letter that I received from my wife yesterday about her.

7199. Mrs. Munster is with her?—No; the moment I heard of any intention to compel her attendance, I recommended them to call in Mr. Paget.

7200. She is unable to be here?—She was so ill in July, August, and September, that she could not come down to me to Sheffield.

7201. When you assented to the application being made to this lady, was it thought you might give the money through her?—Certainly not; that would be the same thing as to give it myself.

7202. And of course you are not under any obligation to repay the money to her?—Most certainly not; the same answer would apply.

7203. In assenting to or yielding to the suggestion that that application should be made, had you any wish or desire to influence a vote?—Not the least; I weakly yielded to their importunities; I thought they were soft at the time.

7204. Now you have been in court part of the time, and you have heard of a good deal of voters being retained as your agents?—Yes, I know all about that.

7205. You know all about that?—At least, I think I do.

121.

7206. Was it with your consent and knowledge that that was done?—Oh, entirely; I may say it was my own suggestion.

7207. Will you just tell for what purpose that you suggested that that was done?—Well, I am under a difficulty, because it is rather an argumentative process.

7208. Baron Fitzgerald.] I don't want to hear any reasoning; I merely want to know what they were?—The Witness. My idea, my Lord, was, that it was a step, a move, in the direction of purity of election.

7209. Mr. Butt.] Then for what purpose did you wish those people to be retained as your agents?—In order to prevent the most corrupt people in the constituency, whom others bribe—and I would not bribe—from voting at all.

7210. Baron Fitzgerald.] That is, paying them for that?—The Witness. To make use of them, to render such services as I might want; with that double object.

7211. Mr. Butt.] You knew it would prevent them from voting?—Oh, certainly.

7212. It was done?—I believe it was; I don't know it of my own knowledge; I was told that in one instance it was done.

7213. Now will you tell me, did you know of any house being taken for you during the election?—I knew of Corcoran's hotel, of course.

7214. Of any other place?—I don't know if I heard of the house opposite; I heard of the house at the Lower Gate; Carroll's, I think. I think I am right in thinking it is Carroll's, at the Lower Gate. I remember, as I was driving about, the house being pointed out to me, and it was explained to me why that house was wanted. Oh, I must have heard of Ryan's; I am wrong.

7215. What explanation was given to you as to how Carroll's house was wanted?—Because we could not get Ryan's.

7216. Had you been told that they had failed in getting Ryan's, and therefore they could get Carroll's?—I heard of it altogether; I heard of it altogether, uno flatu—the whole thing together. I heard that there was a yard. If I may explain, the thing was this: we had a meeting upstairs in Corcoran's room, which was inconveniently crowded, so much so that individually I was very much inconvenienced; I got squeezed up against the fire, and half roasted. For the next meeting we were to have Ryan's. We could not get it; and what I heard, as I tell you, uno flatu, was, that being unable to get Ryan's, we tried to get Carroll's, where there were facilities for holding meetings, or admitting our own supporters into the yard.

7217. Do you believe that Carroll's?—I ought to add, before you ask me another question, that our next meeting was held in a kind of tap-room below, and not in the room above, at Corcoran's. We had three meetings there; two at least in that tap-room, which was a little larger, but was still inconvenient. It was not hired by me at all, and I don't know who paid for it.

7218. You wanted a place of meeting?—So I was told.

7219. But from your own judgment, and from what you saw?—I think so.

7220. Did you believe, from what you were told, that Carroll's yard would answer for the purpose of the meeting of your supporters?—I believe it would; but I think I never heard of it until after Carroll had also "shied." I suggested that we should immediately bring an action against him

T 3

Mr.
H. Munster.
1869.

Mr. him for a breach of contract, and recover the money.

H. Munster. 7221. Who was your agent for election expenses?—Mr. George Richardson, my private solicitor for many years, at No. 12, Seven-street, Manchester.

19 February 1869.

7222. He was your private solicitor?—And friend; he is my friend also, for many years.

7223. I believe I may ask you, is he a gentleman of position and eminence in his profession?—He is.

Mr. Hemphill objected, on the ground that Mr. Richardson's position was not the question.

Baron Fitzgerald.] I don't think you can try his character.

The Witness.] I heard with great pain, my Lord, that it was my duty to have had him here. I had not the slightest conception of it, and, more than that, on Monday, having heard what fell from you (for I had not known that the other side subpoenaed him), I would have telegraphed to him to come immediately, as I did for Miss Sterne, whom I brought yesterday from London.

7224. Mr. Butt.] They have not proved any effort whatever to serve you; did you make any effort whatever to keep Mr. Richardson from coming here?—Oh, not the least. We unfortunately had a quarrel; I had a quarrel with his wife before the nomination, and since then our private friendship is weaker, though still he does my business, because he wanted it; he is not a rich man, though very much respected.

7225. But you made no effort to keep him away?—Oh, not the least.

7226. Did you authorise any house to be taken, with the view of indirectly?—I beg your pardon, I ought to have added this: he wrote me a letter the other day, saying he hoped I would not want him, to which I did not give an answer.

7227. Did you authorise any house to be taken, with the view of influencing a vote?—I did not, and would not.

7228. In any charities that you have given away in Cashel, did you seek to influence any vote?—Certainly I did not.

7229. As it has been mentioned here, I must ask you, did you give a very munificent donation to the funds of the Christian Brothers?—Not quite so. For the purpose of bringing the Christian Brothers to Cashel?

7230. For the purpose of bringing them to Cashel?—Yes.

7231. That was a sum of 500 l.?—It is not an absolute gift.

7232. Just state what it was, and how it was given?—

7233. Baron Fitzgerald.] You were saying that the gift was conditional only?—I beg pardon, my Lord; I must tell the whole thing, because "conditional" is ambiguous. Before I came here, it was suggested to me that I should do this by letter; that I should lodge 400 l. or 500 l. in the hands of trustees, to be given for the purpose of bringing the Christian Brothers here, in case I was elected; to be returned to me in case I were not. To that I immediately replied, by next post, that I would be a party to no such transaction; that if I approved of the object I could give the money, and would give it at once, and the condition which I subsequently attached to my gift, the gift being otherwise unconditional, being this: that the Christian Brothers should be brought to Cashel within nine months of the date of my handing over the cheque.

7234. Now, I have asked you whether you gave Mr. Laffan any directions as to the expenditure of money; did you, in any conversation with Mr. Laffan, speak to him on the subject of the illegal expenditure of money, one way or the other?—I several times discussed the turn which the election was taking, and various matters connected with it, and the one thing I always said to Mr. Laffan, not merely implicitly, because I remember the exact terms, were these: I said, "Mr. Laffan, I will forgive any result that may happen, except winning the election and being unseated for bribery." I mention that out of many, because I happened to remember the exact terms.

7235. Have you repeated similar injunctions to him upon other occasions?—Not injunctions, but directions; we were discussing what was being done and reported as being done, and all the one hundred and one little matters with regard to it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

7236. Let me see your bank book?—I will give you every book and cheque I have in the world.

7237. I have no wish to pry into matters not connected with the election.—I will answer any question you choose; there can be no delicacy whatever.

7238. Mr. Munster, do you know who it was first suggested that you should become a candidate for Cashel?—Mr. Edmund Leahy. Suggesting is, perhaps, hardly the term; he mentioned that it was possible.

7239. But that was what first gave you the idea; I suppose you had hardly ever heard of Cashel?—Oh! I beg your pardon.

7240. Otherwise than in your studies?—No, not casually.

7241. But you had no particular interest in the place until last year; am I correct in so saying?—No—yes, I think you are.

7242. When was it that the possibility of having the honour to represent the borough of Cashel was presented to your mind by Mr. Leahy?—Some time in this autumn.

7243. How long before you came; you came on the 16th of October?—I could hardly tell you without looking at letters; I will send for them all, if you like.

7244. Was it a month?—I should think about a month.

7245. When was it that you gave the £. 500 for the Christian Brothers?—I will tell you, if you let me look—

7246. I want the date?—I can give you the date of the cheque; perhaps my pass-book would help you?

7247. Is it in the pass-book?—Certainly.

7248. I see 500 l., that may be it; Mr. George Richardson's account?—No; that is George Richardson; my account was a feeder to two accounts—Mr. Richardson's for election expenses, and Miss Sterne's for household expenses.

7249. I want to fix the date of the 500 l.?—I am not sure that it was out of my cash account; I don't think it was.

7250. Was it in any cheque; I see no cheque here?

here?—I tell you why that was, because the cheque was handed to Mr. Edmund Leahy; he was to be satisfied in a certain number of days, I think a week, that they had suitable premises, and he reported, when the time came, that he was satisfied, and the cheque was handed over to Archdeacon Quirk.

7251. It is not mentioned in this account?—I beg your pardon; I had accounts in five banks, including Coote and Co., and the Bank of England.

7252. Baron Fitzgerald.] All we want to know is the date?—It is a pity the Archdeacon is not here, because he has the cheque in his possession.

Mr. Hemphill.] I see no 500 l. cheque, but one, "George Richardson."

Mr. Butt.] It was not a cheque on the Cashel bank?

The Witness.] No; my recollection is that it was Coote's.

7253. Mr. Hemphill.] How long before you came to Cashel, on the 16th of October, did you give this cheque?—After I came to Cashel.

7254. Was it after?—Oh, yes; I saw some gentlemen there, Mr. Mullins and the others, and the town commissioners, and I had a conversation on the subject with them; I could give it from recollection.

7255. When did you first publish your address; what was the date of it?—I don't think I know; it was before I came here.

7256. And you held then the meeting of the town commissioners?—I did not hold the meeting; they came to me up at Abbeyview, in my rooms, and we had a conversation.

7257. Was it after that they so waited on you, that you gave the cheque for 500 l.?—I wrote it there and then, after we had the slight conversation; I think they thought I was going to recede from my offer, and I wrote the cheque then and there, somewhat to their surprise.

7258. In whose favour was it?—In favour, I think, of Archdeacon Quirk.

7259. Who was it suggested that you should lodge 500 l. in the hands of trustees, to be spent in case of your election?—I don't think I know; it was mentioned to me, I believe, in a letter of Mr. Laffan's.

7260. Mr. Michael Laffan?—My agent.

7261. There are two?—I never corresponded with any but the one, Michael Laffan.

7262. Was that letter written to you before your arrival in Cashel?—It was, and I daresay Mr. Laffan has it this moment.

7263. It was to be lodged, in case you were elected?—No, no; not in case I was elected.

7264. His proposition was, that you should lodge it in the hands of trustees, to be used in case you were elected?—Not his proposition.

7265. Well, the proposition conveyed in the letter; whose proposition was it, Mr. Munster?—I don't know.

7266. Did the letter mention whose proposition it was?—It did not.

7267. Was it the archdeacon's or the bishop's?—Certainly not.

7268. Was it Mr. Edmund Leahy's proposition?—Certainly not; Mr. Edmund Leahy was with me at Sheffield.

7269. Was it the commoners' proposition?—I don't know; I don't know whose it was; the letter did not state, and I did not care to inquire.

7270. You said you would not do that, but made the condition that a school should be provided within six months; is not that what you said?—I think that is what I said; it is all in writing, and, I believe, published in the newspapers.

7271. Why did you fix nine months?—Why did I fix nine months? Because I thought, if they had them at all, they ought to have them within that time.

7272. Why not twelve or six months; why nine months?—Because I was assured that they would come here in six months, and I put the three months extra as a margin; I would have been quite willing to wipe out the condition altogether.

7273. Did the local clergy of Cashel support you?—Quite the reverse.

7274. Any of them?—None of them.

7275. Did the clergy in the county; did the Archbishop support you?—I don't know what you call support; the Archbishop was my friend.

7276. Do you mean to say you don't know what I mean by asking you, "Did the Archbishop support you"?—I think it is an equivocal and insidious question, sir.

7277. Then you don't understand what I mean; did he give you his interest?—If you mean in an electioneering sense, he did not.

7278. Did you send a cheque to the Archbishop himself, for charitable purposes, for 100 l.?—I did not.

7279. Did anyone on your behalf?—No.

7280. Was a cheque or was cash (now don't mind if I use "cheque," if it was not done by a cheque), you know what I mean; was 100 l. sent to the Archbishop for charitable purposes by you, or was it offered?—No.

7281. That you know of?—No.

7282. Are you sure of that?—Perfectly.

7283. Did you ever hear of 100 l. having been offered for charity on your behalf?—For charity, no.

7284. Well, for what?—For what? do you answer me a question, and I will answer it, sir.

7285. You know you are on your oath, Mr. Munster?—I am; I am quite aware of it.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Mr. Munster is right; your question assumes—

The Witness.] It is because I am on my oath, my Lord, that I wish to understand the question before I answer it.

7286. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you ever offer the Archbishop 100 l. for any purpose?—I did.

7287. When?—When I was on a visit with the Archbishop in Thurles, after he had taken me to his cathedral.

7288. What was the 100 l. for?—For the cathedral.

7289. Now, when I asked you a few moments ago about this 100 l., did you mean to tell his Lordship that you did not understand what I wanted to ascertain?—I had some idea, but it was not within the terms, in my humble judgment, of your question; and all I have got to attend to is the language that you use.

7290. Quite right; how was that 100 l. given?—It was by my cheque.

7291. Was it afterwards returned to you, or the cheque given back to you?—I have made a mistake; the cheque was not given then; if you wish, I will tell you the whole circumstances.

7292. Well, shortly?—I cannot tell it shortly.

7293. Baron Fitzgerald.] First tell us whether it was returned?—Never, my Lord; it was not given on that day; it so happens that sometimes I cannot make a short story of a long one.

7294. I don't want to cut short your explanation, but answer the question first, and say if the cheque was returned?—It was not returned.

7295. Now give your explanation?—It was never sent until after Father John Ryan made the attack on the Archbishop and myself, when I immediately sent the cheque, and it was never returned.

7296. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you hear of that attack?—I did.

7297. What was it?

7298. Baron Fitzgerald.] What is the necessity of this?

Mr. Hemphill submitted that the question he was going to ask was material.

Baron Fitzgerald allowed the question to be put.

7299. Mr. Hemphill.] What I want to know is this: you have said that it was after the attack of Father John Ryan's that you sent the cheque, and that it was then returned?—Oh, it was never returned.

7300. You sent the cheque; what was the attack?—A letter was published in the newspaper, I think the "Freeman's Journal," in which Father John Ryan said that I had bribed the Archbishop with 100*l.* to give me his support, or something of that kind.

7301. And you sent the cheque after that?—Yes.

7302. You have told us that you had a variety of bankers in England; I suppose they had balances during the same period as may be covered by this account in their hands?—Positive or negative.

7303. In your favour?—Not in all cases.

7304. I am not prying into these matters?—You are quite welcome.

7305. You had balances in some of them?—In some of them.

7306. And, amongst others, you had a balance at Coote's?—I had.

7307. I see here that between the 18th of October 1868, up to, I think, the end of the year, when the account is balanced, your lodgements altogether in the National Bank of Cashel amounted to 8,102*l.* 1*s.* 2*d.*?—Yes, I believe so; I don't know.

7308. Does that include the amount which was lodged to the private account of Mr. Michael Laffan for election purposes?—Lodged by me; I never lodged a farthing to his account.

7309. Does that represent all the money that you had in Cashel?—With the exception of 5*l.* in coppers, I believe it does, except, perhaps, that I had dividend warrants, or something of that kind.

7310. How did you supply funds for the election to Mr. Laffan; did you draw cheques in his favour?—I sent Mr. Laffan, to whom I was a stranger, a cheque for his retaining fee for 100 guineas from Sheffield; I began with that.

7311. Quite right?—And then as he asked me for money on account, which he very seldom did until lately, for counsel's fees, for I had not supplied him with much money, I gave him whatever he asked.

7312. Was it by cheque, which he lodged?—I gave nothing to anybody that was not by a cheque; every cheque is in the bank now.

7313. Are you aware that it was boasted, or at least announced, throughout Cashel, that you had lodged 5,000*l.* to your credit at the bank?—I never made a boast of it.

7314. Did you ever hear it generally circulated?—Mr. Laffan complained to me that my having done so was a very great annoyance to him, because people came worrying about him.

7315. Might I ask you, you did not come to Cashel until the 16th of October, while you lodged on the 18th of September, the month before, 5,000*l.* to your credit in the National Bank?—I will tell you most easily; because I was coming almost any day for that time. I was pressed to come. I was told that I must come. I could not come; in fact the 6th of October was the first day I put this foot to the ground, or put any of the least weight on it.

7316. I see the very first cheque you drew here was a cheque in favour of Mr. Edmund Leahy for 100*l.*?—Yes.

7317. What was that for?—Travelling expenses, chiefly.

7318. Whose travelling expenses?—Mr. Leahy's. He came to Ireland to look at an estate for me, and to do something else for me, not connected with Cashel. I will tell you what it was, if you like.

7319. Did you not know that he was coming to Cashel to feel his way, if I may use the expression?—Why, I distinctly tell you that he came to Ireland for another and very different object.

7320. I am not speaking of his coming to Ireland?—I sent him to Ireland.

7321. Did you send him to Cashel to see what were your prospects of success?—No, I did not.

7322. Were you aware that he came to Cashel?—After he had been in Ireland for some time he came to Thurles, and then I think he wrote to me about Cashel.

7323. Was it after that you sent him the 100*l.*?—No; I think it was before; but I cannot tell you until I look at my letters which I have in a box.

7324. Where is Mr. Leahy now?—I don't exactly know.

7325. When did you see him last?—I think last Sunday.

7326. Where?—At Goold's Cross station.

7327. Do you know Captain Dudley Byrne?—I do.

7328. Was he acting for you at Cashel?—I don't think he was; it is a question of law. No doubt he accompanied me in my canvass, as did several gentlemen at different times. I could not get out of my carriage, and he came to the carriage to me. I always had some friends of mine sitting with me to supply my wants. At that time I could do very little for myself.

7329. Were you not aware that Mr. Grace was trying to serve Mr. Leahy with a subpoena?—I was not.

7330. Did you never hear it?—Never.

7331. Did you ask Mr. Leahy to come to Cashel with you last Sunday from Goold's Cross?—No, I took him to Goold's Cross from Cashel.

7332. Was he previously with you in Cashel, or or did he only come on Sunday morning?—No; he only came very specially. I don't like to refer to other matters.

7333. I don't want you?—Owing to a difficulty I was complaining of with the Cashel post-office I never trusted anything of importance in the Cashel post for some time.

7334. Was it last Saturday evening he came to Abbeyview?—I think not.

7335. What day was that?—Not Saturday at all; Sunday.

7336. And he left the same day?—He left the same day.

7337. Now I ask you when did you see Captain Dudley Byrne first?—Really, I wish you would keep to one or other.

7338. I will exercise my own discretion; we are in a court of justice, and you cannot dictate to me?—If it is to be that way, I shall apply to his Lordship, for it seems unfair to drive me from one to the other.

Baron Fitzgerald.] It is necessary that he should not be confused.

Witness.] My only fear is that I may answer as to one gentleman when I am asked as to another; I have no other fear whatever.

Mr. Hemphill.] I shall be very distinct, Mr. Byrne.

Witness.] My name is not Byrne.

Mr. Hemphill.] I beg pardon; any question that I put his Lordship will rule as to whether it is legal or not.

Witness.] His Lordship, I think, has decided that point in my favour, sir.

Mr. Hemphill.] Well, whenever you wish to answer the question, I will put it.

Baron Fitzgerald.] Go on; what is the use of this controversy?

7339. Mr. Hemphill.] I ask you about Captain Dudley Byrne; was he, or was he not, acting for you in your candidature here?—I think he took a great interest in my candidature; if you wish to know, I have not the slightest reservation about it; I think Mr. Edmund Leahy knew Captain Dudley Byrne, who was a perfect stranger to me; Captain Byrne advised Mr. Leahy to see Mr. Laffan on my behalf, and to retain him as my agent; and that is the whole chain between Mr. Laffan and myself.

7340. Did Captain Dudley Byrne go canvassing with you?—Sometimes he did; sometimes Mr. Pat Laffan did, and sometimes they accompanied me in my carriage; I did not canvass in the common sense of the word, because I don't think I asked any one elector of this town for his vote; I have said I don't think I asked any one person in it for his vote; I went about, submitting myself to be criticised, on account of the reports that had gone abroad about me, that I was an Orangeman, and goodness knows what.

7341. Did you supply Captain Dudley Byrne with any money for any purpose?—Not any.

7342. Did you give him any money at all; I am speaking now of the interval between 18th September and the beginning of the year?—Some money for his travelling expenses.

7343. How much?—I think 25 l.

7344. Where is Captain Dudley Byrne now?—I don't think I exactly know; I heard he was to be at his own residence to-day; whether he is or not I cannot tell you.

7345. When was he last in Cashel; what day?—I don't think I know; about three weeks ago.

7346. Was he here last Sunday?—I think not.

7347. Did you see him on Sunday?—I don't think he was.

7348. Was it on the Sunday he was last in Cashel that you saw him; any Sunday two or three weeks ago?—I think, I am not quite sure, that it was on—not on a Monday; you asked me when I last saw him.

7349. You think it was on the Monday; very good; you mentioned just now the name of Mr. Pat Laffan?—Yes.

7350. Was he employed by you for the election?—That also, I think, is a question of law, personally, I did not employ him; I found him, as I thought, in his brother's employment, and I thought he was a clerk of his brother's for a long time, until I found out that he was studying for medicine.

7351. But you are aware that he was acting for his brother in the progress of the election?—I constantly saw him with his brother; he came up to Abbeyview to talk about election matters to me, and to others in my presence.

7352. Do you know where Pat Laffan is?—I do not; I heard he was in Paris, studying for medicine, but as for knowing, I don't know; I had a slight difference with Mr. Pat Laffan.

7353. Did you supply him with any money?—Do you mean for election purposes; if so, I misunderstood your question before; in that case, I did not, I think.

7354. We won't use the word "supply"; did you give him any money from the 18th September up to the end of the year?—Do you mean for himself, personally?

7355. For any purpose; did you hand him cheques or money?—Oh, yes; now you have come to a question, I can answer; you will see by my cheque-book that I gave him a cheque for 200 l.

7356. I don't see that cheque here?—Oh, it must be there.

7357. I see, quite right; on the 11th of November; for what purpose did you give him the cheque for 200 l?—Will you allow my counterfoil now to supply the answer?

7358. Certainly; it will refresh your recollection?—I don't want any; on the 11th of November you see (hands block).

7359. That is the entry here, "Pat Laffan, 200 l."—It was drawn on the 5th; that puzzled me.

7360. I see this is the counterfoil?—That is the counterfoil.

Mr. Hemphill reads:— "November 5th 1868, Pat Laffan, grant to Fethard Convent, 200 l."

7361. I believe the very Rev. Dean Cantwell is parish priest of Fethard?—I believe he is.

7362. I want to know?—I don't know; but I think he is; I have no reason to doubt it.

7363. Were you aware that Dean Cantwell had written a letter to Coman?—No; I was not.

7364. Enlisting him in your behalf?—Neither to Coman or to anybody else.

7365. I believe Dean Cantwell is one of the gentlemen who made speeches for you at the hustings?—He certainly did, though I certainly did not hear him; if you call this court the hustings.

Mr.
H. Munster.
19 February
1869.

Mr.
H. Munster.
—
19 February
1869.

7366. Did he make them?—I have no doubt he did; I saw it in the papers.

7367. Now, Mr. Munster, I don't want to pry into your private affairs, but I must ask you a question, for which I have a reason, and that is the number of servants in your household establishment in Cashel?—Really, I can hardly tell you; it is fluctuating from time to time.

7368. How many domestic servants do you keep?—Really it is very hard; Miss Sterne could tell you much better than I.

7369. But you won't?—I tell you, sir, now this moment, I have four brats whom I picked up in the streets, in order that they might not run after my carriage; two at Abbeyview, and two at Johnstown.

7370. What do you call them?—Four brats: I give them occasionally sixpence or half-a-crown.

7371. Baron Fitzgerald.] What I understand he is asking you for, is your domestic servants?—Well; I mean domestic or not.

7372. Baron Fitzgerald.] He means the persons boarded and lodged in your house?—Some of my domestic servants, my Lord, are a sort of charwomen who come in and go out in the day.

7373. Mr. Hemphill.] I am confining the question to the important point between the 18th of September and the end of the year; I am not speaking of your present arrangements?—Miss Sterne could tell you so much better, for she paid them.

7374. We may not have her?—I have telegraphed for her to London.

7375. Then you can't tell?—It is not within my dominion.

7376. I want to be candid with you; the reason I asked you that question is that in the book it appears that between the 18th of September and the end of December your expenditure amounted to over 6,000 l.?—Stop a moment; no, I don't think that is correct.

7377. Well, now correct me if it is wrong?—Perhaps you will allow me to look at that book.

7378. Oh, certainly; somewhat over 6,000 l. it appears by this book?—Yes; but there is a 1,000 l. which is gone into another bank.

7379. Did it go?—Yes, to the bank now at Thurles.

7380. Well, now let us pause; you transferred 1,000 l. on that date to the bank at Thurles?—I beg pardon, I did not transfer; that is incorrect. I took ten 100 l. notes in Dublin that day, and brought them down to Thurles that night, and they are at Thurles now.

7381. Where did you get them?—At the National Bank at Dublin, on my cheque.

7382. I thought it was an account for the Cashel bank?—They charge it to my account here, of course.

7383. Why did you bring that 1,000 l. to Thurles?—It was due for the lodgment of the election petition on the 21st December.

7384. Why not lodge it in Cashel, or leave it in Cashel; was there any object in opening an account at Thurles?—Simply because it had nothing to do with this.

7385. But you do not live at Thurles?—No, I do not.

7386. You have no connection, as far as I am informed, with Thurles?—Well, nearly as much as I have with Cashel.

7387. Nearly as much?—Yes; there was an estate somewhere there that I was thinking of buying.

7388. Did you draw any portion; what is the date of that 1,000 l.?—"21st December, 380 l., Read and Crawford."

7389. That is an attorney's bill; they are solicitors?—No; I can give you the reason. That money is mine now. There is that 380 l. of mine now in another place.

7390. Did you draw on the Thurles bank for any portion of that 1,000 l.?—Not a penny.

7391. With that exception. Glance your eye down along these cheques from the beginning (book handed to Witness)?—I must tell you that there is a good deal of confusion in the early part of this account, for what I intended to take place did not. Mr. Richardson did not have a separate account from the first; he drew cheques, which were cashed in my account. You will see this distinguished by the initials of "H. M." and "G. R." up to a certain period. My directions were disobeyed. I wanted my own accounts to be as short and simple as possible.

7392. My simple question is this: does that book, with the exception of these two items you have fairly mentioned, of 1,000 l. and 380 l., represent your expenditure during that period in Cashel?—No, not all in Cashel; there was that cheque to Captain Dudley Byrne of 25 l., that you mentioned; that would not be expended in Cashel.

7393. I don't know that?—Well, I think I do; but I won't be positive either.

7394. Baron Fitzgerald.] There was 100 l. to Mr. Pat Laffan for some convent?—£. 200; and I think there was a large sum for a bazaar in Dublin, the Vincentian Sisters, which either I or Miss Sterne paid; all our hotel bills at Dublin; also our hotel bills at Killarney; for I had been travelling about lately.

7395. Mr. Hemphill.] Are they included in it?—Yes; they are included in it. "Thomas Graham, 85 l. 9 s." I rather think that was for furniture to a Clonmel dealer. I furnished a house here, you must remember, and bought a horse and carriage and all sorts of things; but if you want the exact amount of my Cashel expenditure, Mr. Richardson's accounts can furnish it to you, and Miss Sterne also.

7396. Very well; I won't press you.—But I wish you would let me give this paper, for I had great difficulty in knowing what to do. I made no return of my personal expenses, which seemed to me so odd. I wanted to return the whole of it. My election agent made his return. I wanted to make the return as a mass, because, although I thought it was too much, I could not discriminate, and I would not make a guess. Miss Sterne can speak to every item of it.

7396*. Then we will keep it until she is produced?—Oh, certainly.

7397. Were you aware that Mr. Edmund Leahy bought 30 l. worth of cloth at a draper's in Cashel?—No; I think it is not correct.

7398. Did he buy any?—Yes; he bought some things for me, which I had made up and have worn since.

7399. Did you yourself make many purchases in Cashel from voters?—I did, a good many, and I can easily tell you why.

7400. First, before you tell us why, can you mention how many voters you did deal with?—I never knew whether anybody was a voter or not.

7401. Do you mean to tell his Lordship that you did not supply yourself with a list of voterst?—Not?

—Not before I made the purchases, I do mean to tell you and his Lordship.

7402. When did you first make or see a list of the voters?—Oh, I think not for a fortnight after I was in Cashel.

7403. Did you make no purchases after a fortnight from voters?—Oh, very likely; I did, in fact, I know I did, because it happened that some of the people I was dealing with were voters; I went to the best shops in the town.

7404. Did you go from your house to Cashel?—No; I came from Sheffield.

7405. That is a good town, and has good shops?—Very good shops.

7406. Did you bring a variety of articles yourself from Sheffield?—I sent before me Miss Sterne, something like a fortnight before I came here, not knowing what Cashel was like, with a great number of articles that I thought I could not get in Cashel, of the 101 things that I needed; I got rather chaffed by Mr. Leahy about my personal appearance, which unquestionably was shabby, and consequently I had some new clothes; I think the people of Cashel looked down on me as a tattered figure.

7407. Did you bring a great number of watches?—I don't think I did.

7408. I don't mean for private use?—Oh, you have hit a hobby of mine; I have 300 or 400 watches, and I might have brought 10 or 15 with me to Cashel.

7409. Only 10 or 15?—Not more.

7410. How many of them went to the voters' wives and families in Cashel?—I have not given away a single watch since I came to Cashel; oh, I have, to a Sheffield servant of mine, who came with me.

7411. That is the only watch you gave?—I believe so.

7412. Are you quite certain of that, Mr. Munster; just try and think?—Well, I am so likely to give away a watch that I don't like to be positive; but I believe it is.

7413. Were any watches sold that you are aware of?—Yes.

7414. At what price now?—A man named Ryan, from whom I was in the habit of buying watches and other odds and ends, bought a watch for 25 s. from Leonard Cartwright, who came over to bring some things of mine over, and he sold that watch to Dr. Russell for 25 s.; and Dr. Russell has bitterly complained of it since.

7415. Do you mean to say that he took Dr. Russell in?—No, I do not; I think he sold him a very good watch for the money.

7416. And that was the only watch sold to anybody?—I believe so.

7417. Very well; we will leave the watches now. Now, I want to know, can you give me an idea of how much money was expended amongst the voters in Cashel for the purchase of goods, and who were the voters that got it?—I don't think I can.

7418. Am I over the mark in saying that you spent 1,500 l. during the autumn or winter of last year in purchasing goods amongst the voters of Cashel?—I should think you were five times over the mark.

7419. Then I will say 300 l.?—No; I don't say that; but if you like, you can have it ascertained to the fraction.

7420. You cannot give any more specific?—That is my idea.

7421. I won't press you?—I beg your pardon, 121.

I forgot; I bought furniture for the John-street house, which is not a very small house; and a good deal of that was bought in Cashel, but not by me; so I cannot tell you further.

7422. Do you recollect having a large dinner at Corcoran's hotel; or was there a large dinner there just the evening before the election; no, at Coffey's lodgings, that you are aware of?—Not that I am aware of.

7423. Was there any dinner at Corcoran's hotel?—I think not.

7424. Did you entertain any voters at Corcoran's hotel?—I might have given them a glass of sherry; it is quite possible.

7425. You might have?—I did; but I did not know whether the parties were voters or not.

7426. Are you aware that Mrs. Corcoran was paid 228 l. for her bill?—She was paid some bill; she demanded it personally, and wrote to Mr. Richardson; I cannot really tell you what the amount was.

7427. Did you not take the trouble to ascertain what became of that money?—Not very much; Mr. Bigger, my private secretary, does that.

7428. Do you know anything at all of your expenditure?—Yes; I do know something, I think.

7429. No details?—I don't know the details of that bill, for instance.

7430. I must ask you to try and recollect; do you mean to say that you did not, over and over again, entertain voters at Corcoran's hotel; or were they entertained to your knowledge?—I never entertained them, nor were they entertained to my knowledge, excepting that I said before, that sometimes there was a bottle or decanter of sherry on the table.

7431. Did you ever see the details of that bill of 228 l.?—Yes; I think I have.

7432. Where is it now; that bill itself?—I don't think I know.

7433. Has your secretary got it?—I think he has; as far as I could, I have taken care to have every scrap of paper preserved.

7434. Did you know Mr. Boyton was a voter when you took his house?—No, I did not; in fact, I did not take his house.

7435. Who took it?—Mr. Laffan.

7436. Michael?—Yes; several letters passed between Mr. Boyton and myself; there was a negotiation, and I said, I would leave it all; in fact, I did not know what would suit me.

7437. You were an intimate friend of Mademoiselle De Moncourt, you have told us already?—She is both the oldest and dearest friend I have in the world, and my godmother.

7438. Did you yourself pay any money among what is called the mob of Cashel?—You mean the beggars.

7439. No; but during the election, you know; do you understand what I mean?—I am not sure that I do, and I am cautious in answering; if you will show me the bill, I will tell you in a moment.

7440. Look at that, and we will have it marked (Document handed to Witness)?—Having looked at it, I have never seen this.

7441. What is the total of it?—£. 248 12 s. 2 d.; This, I don't think, I have ever seen.

7442. At all events, it was furnished to you, or your secretary?—No, it was not; it was sent to Mr. Laffan, I think, or Mr. Richardson; I don't think I have ever seen that particular bill.

7443. I see it commences on the 21st September, U 2

Mr.
H. Munster.

1869.

Mr.
H. Munster.
1869.

tember, with Capt. Byrne's account; we will take up the items; I see an amazing quantity of liquor of all sorts, in this?—I daresay you do; I refused to pay some portion of it.

7444. Look at that; are you aware of only a few glasses of wine having been drunk in Corcoran's hotel?—If you talk to me of what I saw —

7445. How often were you in Corcoran's hotel?—Not often.

7446. Were you there ten times before the election?—I should say, not ten times, except in the billiard-room, on the ground-floor. I swear I never saw anything; I was not above six times there; I ought to tell you that I was always mobbed when I went to Corcoran's.

7447. How do you mean?—There was a crowd of people in front, and a crowd of people in the yard, and I had great difficulty in getting to my carriage.

7448. What is Mr. Cahill, do you know; I see his account?—How do you spell his name?

7449. O-a-h-i-l-l?—Mr. J. C. Cahill, of No. 3, Main-street.

7450. He is a voter?—Yes.

7451. I see in the bill, Mr. Cahill's account is: One pint decanter of spirits, 4 s.; two ditto, 8 s.; one ditto, 4 s.; one ditto and bottle of lemonade, 4 s. 6 d.; two quart decanters, 16 s.; two bottles of sherry, 10 s.; two ditto, 10 s.; one quart decanter of spirits, 8 s.; one bottle of whiskey, 5 s.; two ditto and lemonade, — ; two glasses of spirits, 1 s.; one bottle of soda, 6 d.; one quart of spirits, 8 s.; six bottles of soda, 3 s.; two glasses of sherry, 1 s.; might I ask you, how Mr. Cahill came to get all that liquor?—I have not an idea.

7452. Do you mean to tell his Lordship you don't know?—I do, most certainly.

7453. Did he drink it all?—I cannot possibly say.

7454. He is a voter?—If he was six voters I don't think he could drink all that.

7455. Was not Cahill employed by Mr. Laffan?—I don't think he was.

7456. Did you see him acting at all?—Oh, I have seen him.

7457. Acting on your behalf on the election?—I thought he was one of my committee, while I fancied that I had a committee.

7458. Here is another account of the same Mr. Cahill, with an amazing quantity of spirits and liquors of all sorts. Attend to this, if you please: "19th of November, eight breakfasts, 16 s."; who got their breakfasts at Corcoran's that day?—I am sure I cannot tell.

7459. Then am I to understand that you really allowed them to spend as much money as they liked, without your calling them to any question; is that what I am to understand?—I could not possibly prevent Mrs. Corcoran from putting down in that bill anything she liked. I never authorised it, directly or indirectly.

7460. Has the bill been paid?—Not the whole of it.

7461. Has not 228 l. been paid?—Some of it has been paid.

7462. That is what appears by the election expenses?—Surely you have Mr. Richardson's cheques: it was he who paid.

7463. The total of that bill is 248 l.?—I think the sum of 20 l. was what we objected to for spirits given to voters, and we would not pay it. Yes, but I left it to Mr. Richardson, as I assumed he knew what the law was. I paid 100 guineas for his services; and I was rather disgusted that any of it was thrown upon me.

7464. You, in fact, left it to Mr. Laffan to do what was right and proper, and gave yourself no further trouble about it?—Quite so.

7465. You also knew that Pat Laffan was making himself active about the election?—Pat Laffan was always coming up to Abbeyview, early in the morning and late at night with any messages, and all sorts of things; and I did not inquire into the relations between him and his brother.

7466. Did he not frequently go in your carriage with you from house to house to the voters?—He did. I did not know where to go to.

7467. He pointed out where you were to go?—Michael Laffan, I think, chalked out the voters that I was to canvass on a particular day. Pat Laffan took me and showed me the places where they lived, Michael having to go away sometimes to Tipperary or Thurles or other places.

7468. You yourself did not see the least harm in taking rooms of voters?—Not if I wanted them. The question was discussed; but Ryan's and Carroll's were the only two men that came under my notice. In their case, to some extent, I was consulted. On any portion of the question of price being raised, I said, "Well, whatever fairly may be an indemnification of the man for letting his rooms at an inconvenience for such a purpose, let him have it."

7469. About this telegraph station from Goold's Cross, how much did it cost you?—I think 394 l.; I paid it myself.

7470. Have you presented that as an absolute gift to the people of Cashel?—Dear me, no.

7471. You are at liberty to withhold it when you think right?—Just when I please; I have a great mind to do so to-morrow.

7472. Then am I to understand that you only gave that provided the people of Cashel made themselves agreeable to you?—I did not provide anything at all, one way or the other; I simply made a telegraph, and I used it myself most frequently.

7473. You mean to shut it up when you leave Cashel?—I don't say I do.

7474. Do you?—I don't know; that will depend on how they behave.

7475. Did you not erect it, at all the expense you have been at, in the hope of being thereby returned as Member?—I never indulged in an expectation so futile.

7476. Did you never expect, then, to be returned?—That I don't know.

7477. Did you ever expect to be returned?—That, I tell you, I did not know.

7478. Did you ever entertain the expectation of being returned?—I thought it possible.

7479. But not probable?—I thought it was probable.

7480. Did you do the utmost in your power to promote that return?—No, I did not.

7481. There were things left undone that might have been done?—Quite so.

7482. What were they?—Bribery; I had no doubt that if I had held up my finger I should have been returned by a considerable majority, as you asked me the question.

7483. You are a classical scholar?—Yes, a little, in a mild way, I have been.

7484. Did you ever boast that the Cashel men were like Danae, and could be won with gold?—No; a blackguard from Tipperary made the allusion allusion to Danae, and I called him over the coals for it.

7485. Oh, it was not your classical allusion; have you given a classical allusion that you came to Cashel like Jupiter, in showers of gold?—That was in the papers.

7486. You said you purchased horses; did you not make a variety of purchases of horses and stock from voters?—I did not; two horses were bought for me without any knowledge of mine, but I don't know at this moment from whom; I believe one was from—

7487. Who was Mr. O'Beirne's proposer?—I believe so; I don't know it.

7488. Did you buy a mule from a voter named Thomas Luby?—A jennet.

7489. What did you pay for it?—I don't know.

7490. Who paid for it?—Really, I cannot tell you.

7491. Do you not know what the price of the jennet was?—I assure you I don't know.

7492. Did you buy it before the election?—Yes.

7493. Why did you do it?—I don't know why.

7494. Did you sell the jennet?—It was found unsafe, and so we got rid of it.

7495. Did you sell it after the election?—No, it was sold directly almost.

7496. What was it sold for?—I don't know that; I can tell you nothing about it.

7497. Who bought it?—I don't know.

7498. Is it a fact that you paid Tom Luby 70*l.* for his jennet?—I don't believe it is.

7499. Mr. Munster, this is a serious matter, and I must ask, is it a fact that you paid 70*l.* for the jennet?—To my knowledge, nothing can be more false; it may be, but I don't know.

7500. What did you pay for it?—I don't know.

7501. Did you sell it for 2*l.* 10*s.*?—I know it was bought, and that it was sold, but what it was sold for, or bought for, that I cannot tell you; I can tell you this, that it was sold because it was considered unsafe for me.

7502. Did you buy a variety of cattle at different fairs about, and present them to voters?—I only bought one until long after the election, and I have got that now; I gave 9*l.* or 10*l.* for it, and I saw it this morning at Abbeyview; I may say this in general, that I believe it to be a tremendous lie.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt, Q.C.

7503. As to the bill at Corcoran's hotel, I believe that some of your friends, for whom you had no room at Abbeyview, were staying there?—Yes, I had not John-street house then.

7504. I believe Captain Dudley Byrne and Captain Stewart were staying there?—Yes, and Mr. Richardson and his wife, and I am not sure whether there were not some of their children.

7505. But you paid the bills?—Well, I did not wish that anybody should incur expense who gave his aid in my affairs, directly or indirectly.

[The Witness then withdrew.]

Miss ANNE STERNE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Cartan.

7506. DID you come over to Cashel with Mr. Munster?—I came the day before Mr. Munster.

7507. Were you living at Abbeyview with him?—I was.

7508. How long were you there with him?—I think about three months.

7509. During that time had you the management of Mr. Munster's household?—I had.

7510. Did you pay all the bills connected with the household?—I did.

7511. All the household expenses?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill, Q.C.

7512. I find by the bank book, that the total amount of cheques that you signed and drew for was 1,855*l.* 3*s.* 2*d.*; do you mean to tell his Lordship that all that money was spent in household expenses?—There were journeys and hotel bills; there were charges in Dublin, and several other things of that kind.

7513. And that is what made up this 1,855*l.* 3*s.* 2*d.*?—I don't know that that was the exact amount.

7514. Were you in Cashel yourself from the time you came over up to the end of the year?—I have been away for the last three weeks.

7515. I speak of up to last December?—I was.

7516. You were in Cashel that whole time?—Yes.

7517. And you paid expenses connected with the house?—I did.

Mr.
H. Munster.
—
19 February
1869.

7518. Do you recollect supplying some money to Miss Ede on one occasion?—I supplied every one with money who wanted it. Miss Ede several times.

7519. Do you recollect going into the room with Mrs. Hackett?—I am not sure of the woman.

7520. A tall country woman?—I don't know the woman you mean.

7521. Do you recollect going in and giving Miss Ede some sovereigns to make up 10*l.*?—I never recollect going into the room.

7522. Did you give her some gold?—I have given Miss Ede gold several times.

7523. Are you aware that Miss Ede gave money to Mrs. Hackett, or are you not?—I am aware of it.

7524. Did you not supply Miss Ede with some money to make up that?—I could not tell you; when Miss Ede asked me for money, I never asked her what it was for; I gave it as a matter of course.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt, Q.C.

7525. Do you mean to convey that she had no money of her own?—No money of her own! I don't know what she had; I meant for household purposes.

Mr. Butt then put in as evidence Mrs. Corcoran's hotel bill for 248*l.* He also mentioned that two cars had been sent to Golden for John Rochford.

Miss
A. Sterne.

JOHN ROCHFORD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt, Q.C.

J. Rochford. 7526. WHERE have you been this morning?
—In Golden.

19 February 1869. 7527. Are you working there?—Yes.
7528. And have been sent for and brought here?—I was.

7529. You are the husband of Margaret Rochford?—Yes.

7530. You are an elector of Cashel?—Yes.

7531. Do you recollect any time before the election did your wife make any proposal from Mr. and Mrs. Tracey?—My wife told me she was at Simon Tracey's, and that she saw some cheques there with his wife, and that she would get one if I voted for Mr. O'Beirne; 30*l.* I think she told me.

7532. Baron Fitzgerald.] When did she tell you that?—I forget the night, sir.

7533. How long ago?—Oh, it was before the election.

7534. Mr. Butt.] How long?—I don't exactly know.

7535. Was it a week?—Well, I could not exactly say how long.

7536. Do you recollect one evening Simon Tracey himself coming to your house?—I do.

7537. Baron Fitzgerald.] Was it before or after that?—It was after that; I believe it was the same night.

7538. Mr. Butt.] On the evening that Mr. Tracey came to your house, was there any one else there?—There was, I think, another young man.

7539. Was his name Mara?—I forget his name now, but I would know him.

Mr. Hemphill.] This part of the original case; we must examine Mara now.

Baron Fitzgerald.] It is just as you went into the case of Mrs. Hackett.

7540. Mr. Butt.] It was not my fault that we had not this witness here yesterday. (To Witness.) I am now asking you about the evening that Tracey and Mara were there; did your wife say anything to you while they were there?—I think she called me, as far as I recollect; I told her that I would vote as I promised, for I was greatly pledged to Mr. Laffan for Mr. Munster; she said I was right.

7541. Was it in the presence of Tracey she said that?—I think, as far as I recollect, it was.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill, Q.C.

7542. Where were you this morning?—At Golden.

7543. How long have you been in town since you came from Golden?—About 11 o'clock I came here.

7544. Did you come to Cashel from Golden at 11 o'clock to-day?—Yes.

7545. Did you come up to the court-house?—I went up the town.

7546. Were you not in the court-house until within the last half-hour?—I was.

7547. Why did you not come when you were called; did you hear yourself called?—No.

7548. Who went for you to bring you into the court-house?—I forget his name.

7549. Do you see him here in court; was it Mr. Scallan that went for you?—No.

7550. Who?—Mr. Laffan, I believe.

7551. Had you any conversation with Mr. Laffan as to what your wife had proved?—No.

7552. What did Mr. Laffan say to you?—He only asked; I don't think he asked me that question.

7553. What did he say to you?—I forget now what he said to me.

7554. Ten minutes ago?—I don't recollect; he spoke hardly one word.

7555. And yet you recollect what your wife told you three months ago?—Oh, distinctly.

7556. I ask you again, upon your oath, what did either of these gentlemen say to you to-day?—

Mr. Butt.] Speak of one or the other.

Mr. Hemphill.] Take Mr. Laffan first.

I don't recollect what he said to me now, to tell you the truth, and I am on my oath; that is my answer, and I don't think he spoke a second word.

7557. Did that other gentleman speak to you?—He did.

7558. What did he say to you?—He asked me what had I to say; he asked me did Mr. Tracey come down to the house to me?

7559. When did he ask you that?—A while ago.

7560. Go on; tell us the whole of what the tall young gentleman said to you?—All he asked me was, did I recollect the night Mr. Tracey came down.

7561. Go on?—That is all.

7562. Did he ask you about the cheques?—He did; I told him myself.

7563. Did he ask you?—No; but I told him myself, before he asked me.

7564. But did he ask you?—I don't think he did; I told it myself.

7565. You don't think he did?—I don't think he did, I forget now; I told him myself, because I could recollect it very well.

7566. You forget when this conversation was that you had with your wife?—Oh, it is, I believe, a couple of months ago, or rather before the election.

7567. But you forget how long before the election?—I do; I did not take any note of it.

7568. When was it you had this talk with her?—When she came from Tracey's house.

7569. Where?—In my own house.

7570. Did she say how many cheques she saw with Mr. Tracey?—She said if I took one of them I might; but I said I would vote where I was pledged.

7571. You were pledged to Mr. Munster?—Yes.

7572. Did you vote for Mr. Munster?—Yes.

7573. Did you send him a "bin"?—Yes.

7574. What did you get?—25*s.*

7575. What did you get altogether?—About 4*l.* or 5*l.*

7576. Was that all you got?—1*l.* 5*s.* I believe, and 4*l.* or 5*l.* was got for feathers.

7577. How much did you get altogether?—About 6*l.* 5*s.*

7578. Did you talk with your wife, since she was examined here the other day?—We were talking.

7579. About

7579. About this case?—No, nothing more; we were talking of course.

7580. Did she tell you what she had sworn here on the table?—No, she did not.

7581. Do you tell his Lordship that?—I do.

7582. Did she tell you that she was examined as a witness?—Oh, she did, of course.

7583. Did she open her lips as to what she had said; on your oath?—No, I don't think she did; she did not tell me what she said.

7584. Why did you tell me a moment ago that you had a talk, and that you forgot?—No; she did not tell me exactly what she said, and I forget exactly what she told me.

7585. You forget?—Indeed I do; for she could not say anything more than what I am saying myself.

7586. Have you seen your wife since you came back from Golden this morning?—Certainly.

7587. Did you go straight up to her when you came to Cashel?—I went just up to clean myself.

7588. Did she tell you that Margaret Hackett had been examined?—She was not there at all.

7589. Have you seen her to-day?—I saw her in here.

7690. Did you see her at all in the street?—I did down about the court-house. Yes.

7591. Did you not talk with her about what you would prove?—Not very—not a word.

7592. "Not very!" what were you going to say, upon your oath?—I was speaking an odd word to her.

7593. About what?—Nothing about what I was going to say; nor she did not ask.

7594. What were you speaking to her about? —Because I had nothing to say but what she had to say herself. J. Rochford.

7595. Did she know that you were coming here to be examined?—I believe she did.

7596. Did you tell her?—Of course I did.

7597. Did you say "Margaret, I am going upon the table"?—No.

7598. What?—Nothing more than that she knew I was to be examined.

7599. Did she tell you that Mrs. Hackett had been up contradicting you?—No; but she told me that she had to come to-day through Mrs. Hackett.

7600. What did she mean by that?—I don't know.

7601. Then she did tell you that Mrs. Hackett was here to-day?—She did.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt, Q.C.

7602. You were asked about Mr. Scallan, did he speak to you?—Yes.

7603. Did you tell him outside, the same story that you have told now here?—Yes.

7604. Was it taken down on paper by Mr. Scallan?—Yes; I believe it was.

Mr. Butt, Q.C.] We now close.

Mr. Curtis then spoke to evidence on behalf of the Respondent.

Mr. Butt, Q.C., replied on behalf of the Petitioner.

THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

ELECTION PETITION FOR COVENTRY.

To the Right Honourable the Speaker of the House of Commons.

Common Pleas Chambers,
1st March 1869.

IN the matter of a Petition presented to the Court of Common Pleas, under the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, by Thomas Berry Bishop and others, voters at the last Parliamentary Election for the City of Coventry, against Henry William Eaton and Alexander Staveley Hill, Esquires, who were upon that occasion elected and returned, which Petition alleged amongst other things corrupt practices to have been committed at the election, and prayed that it might be determined that the said election and return of the said Henry William Eaton and the said Alexander Staveley Hill were and are null and void, and that the said Henry William Eaton and the said Alexander Staveley Hill were not duly elected or returned to Parliament :

I, Sir James Shaw Willes, Knight, being one of the Judges for the trial of Election Petitions in England, having heard and determined the said Petition, do certify and report such determination as follows :

1. The said Henry William Eaton, one of the Members whose return is complained of by the Petition, was duly elected and returned.
2. The said Alexander Staveley Hill, the other Member whose return is complained of by the Petition, was duly elected and returned.
3. No corrupt practice was proved to have been committed by or with the knowledge or consent of any candidate at such election.
4. Upon the evidence before me it does not appear that corrupt practices have, nor that there is reason to believe that corrupt practices have extensively prevailed at the election.

J. S. WILLES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN before the Honourable Mr. Justice Willes, on the TRIAL of the ELECTION PETITION for the CITY of COVENTRY, at the County Hall, Coventry.

Tuesday, 16th February 1869.

BERRY and Another	-	-	-	-	-	-	Petitioners.
EATON and HILL	-	-	-	-	-	-	Respondents.

Mr. Henry James and the Honourable Chandos Leigh appeared as Counsel in support of the 16 February Petition. 1869.

Mr. T. H. Kirby appeared as Agent.

Mr. Huddleston, Q.C., Mr. Gates, and Mr. Dugdale appeared as Counsel for the Respondents.

Mr. T. Dewes appeared as Agent.

Mr. Henry James was heard to open the case in support of the Allegations of the Petition.

Samuel Smith was called, but did not answer.

Frederick Clark was called, but did not answer.

THEOPHILUS FOX, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

1. WHO are you?—I am clerk to Messrs. Troughton and Kirby.

2. They are the solicitors to the petitioner?—Yes.

3. Did you serve yourself a subpoena upon Samuel Smith?—Yes, on the 3rd of February.

4. Where?—At Bury, in Lancashire.

5. Did you also serve a subpoena upon Frederick Clark?—

Mr. Justice Willes said that the service must be regularly proved.

6. Mr. Chandos Leigh (to the Witness).] Did you give anything to Smith when you served him with the subpoena?—I gave him 2s. 6d. himself, and I left 15 s. with the gentleman he was lodging with for the conveyance of him to Coventry.

7. Have you seen him in Coventry since this subpoena was served?—Yes; I met him last night by the eight o'clock train from Leicester.

8. Where?—At the Coventry station; the principal station.

9. When you met him there, did you take him anywhere?—Yes; I took him in a cab to the "Red Lion."

275.

10. An inn in Coventry?—Yes.

11. Did you stay with him there?—I stayed with him, I think, about a quarter of an hour altogether.

12. Did you leave him with anybody?—I left him in company of Mr. Lingard, of Bury, and a person of the name of Warner.

13. Who is Warner?—He is a Coventry person.

14. Are they supporters and friends of yours?—Yes.

15. Did you go to him again after you left him?—What made me leave him was simply this; I will make a statement of my reasons for leaving him—

Mr. Justice Willes.] I think you had better answer the questions you are asked.

16. Mr. Chandos Leigh.] Did you go to him again after you left him?—I returned, and when I returned he was gone.

17. When was it that you returned?—About a quarter past nine o'clock.

18. The same evening?—The same evening.

19. You have not traced him since?—No.

20. Did you subpoena Frederick Clark?—Yes.

A

21. When?

T. Fox.

T. Fox.
16 February
1869

21. When?—On the 4th of February 1869, this month.
22. Where?—At Leicester.
23. Where at Leicester?—At the “Cigar-makers’ Arms” public-house, I think it is called.
24. When you subpoenaed him, did you give him anything?—I gave him 5s.
25. Have you seen him since?—I saw him the same afternoon that I served him.
26. But not since then?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

27. You are clerk to the attorney for the petitioners?—Yes.
28. Do you know a man of the name of Micklewright?—Yes.
29. Who is he?—He is a gentleman that has been getting up the evidence on the part of the petitioners.
30. What is he?—Well, I do not know whether he is a solicitor or a clerk; I cannot say.
31. You have been about with him getting up evidence, have you not?—No.
32. Have you not been with him?—No.
33. On no occasion?—Not to my knowledge.
34. Is he a tall man, with gray whiskers?—Yes.
35. Do you mean to swear that you have not been with him?—Not to my knowledge.
36. You can tell me whether you have been with him or not?—I have not been with him.
37. On no occasion?—No.
38. Did you ever represent him as “Mr. Commissioner Micklewright,” sent down with the judge from London to get information?—No.
39. Did you ever hear him represent himself so?—No, certainly not.
40. Did you hear him represent himself as Mr. Serjeant Ballantine?—No.
41. Who was sent to cross-examine?—No.
42. Never?—No.
43. You have been about a little amongst the witnesses; is Micklewright a stranger to Coventry?—I believe so.
44. Do you know who brought him here?—No.
45. You never saw him before?—Yes; I saw him perhaps about 18 months ago, previous to this affair.
46. Is he often here?—I do not know; he is an entire stranger to me.
47. Do you know a man of the name of Frederick Parnell?—Yes.
48. Did you go to Parnell to ask him to give evidence?—There are two Parnells; which of them?
49. Frederick?—Yes.
50. Did you ask him to go and have a glass of something to drink with you?—Yes.
51. And you took him to the “Shakspeare”?—I took him to some public-house; I do not know the name of it.
52. And you were getting up evidence?—Yes.
53. Did you give him something to drink?—There was a pint of ale, that was all.
54. But who paid for it?—I paid for it.
55. Did you tell him that he could have half-a-sovereign, and that he might as well tell you now as when he came to the court?—I made use of those words, but I never made use of his having half-a-sovereign, or any amount of money. I never mentioned any sum.
56. Did you say he could have half-a-sovereign?—No.

57. Nothing about money at all?—I told him that I might pay him for loss of time if he—
58. If what?—If he gave me any evidence by detaining him.
59. Did you tell him that he would get six months if he did not tell?—No; most distinctly, no.
60. Do you know William Farmer of Nottingham?—Yes.
61. Did you go to him?—Yes; I saw him one day last week.
62. Did you give him something to drink?—Yes.
63. What did you give him to drink?—About two or three glasses of gin, I think.
64. It was not election time when you gave him this gin; you went to get evidence from him, did you?—Yes.
65. How much was it?—Well, I think, altogether it was about four glasses that he and two or three others had each.
66. This was when you were getting up the evidence?—Yes.
67. Did you see him two months ago also?—In the month of November last; no, in December, I beg your pardon.
68. Did you tell him that if he gave evidence, you would not turn your backs upon him?—No; I never made use of such expressions.
69. Did you tell him that 50*l.* would be divided among them, if he gave evidence that would unseat the sitting Member?—No.
70. Did you say nothing at all in the way of money?—No; nothing of the kind.
71. Was a man of the name of Ephraim Elliot present at the time?—Yes.
72. Both Farmer and Elliot were present at the time?—Yes.
73. Do you mean to swear (I may fairly remind you of the occasion I am speaking of) that you did not tell them that there would be 50*l.* to be divided among them if they gave evidence?—No, nor 50 pence.
74. What did you give them drink for?—I was treating them.
75. What for?—To see if I would get any information from them.
76. How long were you treating them?—Perhaps a couple of hours.
77. And you were plying them with gin all the time?—They had four glasses, I think, altogether.
78. At the rate of half-an-hour a glass?—Just so.
79. Four glasses each?—Yes; there was another there.
80. Twelve glasses amongst all of you?—Not amongst the two; that is twelve glasses amongst the three.
81. Then you were trying to get evidence out of them at the rate of a glass of gin every half-hour?—Yes.
82. Is that the way you go about to get evidence?—I don’t very often do it.
83. This is a new practice to you?—Quite.
84. I presume that in ordinary cases, not election cases, you do not condescend to gin-and-water?—Just so.
85. But since the alteration in the practice as to election petitions you use gin-and-water as an inducement?—I never did the thing before.
86. You are rather ashamed of it now I should think?—No, I am not; I have done nothing to be ashamed of.

87. Do

87. Do you know John Whitmore?—Yes.

88. That was another witness?—Yes.

89. Did you give him 8 s.?—Yes; that would be for his railway fare from Nottingham to Coventry; when I gave him the subpoena I gave him 8 s. at the same time.

90. That is what is called a viaticum; you do not understand it?—No, I do not.

91. Then I will not explain it to you; but you do understand what gin-and-water you gave to him?—Exactly the same portion as Elliot and Farmer.

92. At the rate of a glass of gin-and-water every half-hour?—Yes.

93. Is that your prescription usually?—I do not know that it is.

94. How many hours were you dosing them with gin-and-water?—The same quantity.

95. Three hours?—No, not three hours.

96. How many hours?—From one to three, I think.

97. How many glasses of gin-and-water did you dose them with?—About four; I don't believe it was more than four a-piece.

Mr. Justice Willes suggested that it would be better to reserve the cross-examination of this witness on these matters until the persons referred to had been themselves examined.

T. Fox.

16 February
1869.

Mr. Huddleston said that he wished to show by what means this evidence had been got up.

98. Mr. Chandos Leigh (to the Witness).] Will you hand in the subpoenas of Smith and Clark?—Yes (handing in the same).

99. Mr. Justice Willes.] What is Samuel Smith?—He is an elastic weaver.

100. Then he is an artisan, and a skilled artisan?—Yes.

101. Was he the person you subpoenaed at Leicester?—No, at Bury.

102. In Lancashire?—Yes.

103. And you offered him 15 s.?—I left 15 s. with the gentleman that he was lodging with.

104. It was 17 s. 6 d.?—Yes; half-a-crown and 15 s.

105. Did he complain when you saw him here of not having had sufficient to pay his fare?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

FREDERICK CLARK, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

106. HAVE you a vote for this city?—Yes.

107. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

108. Where have you been living lately?—At Leicester.

109. But where at Leicester; have you been living at a public-house?—Yes.

110. Who keeps that public-house?—Mr. Fielder.

111. Do you know the name of it?—The "Malt Shovel."

112. Have you paid anything where you have been?—For lodging; yes.

113. And for your eating and drinking?—Yes, I kept myself.

114. At the "Malt Shovel"?—Yes.

115. Has anybody given you any money?—Yes.

116. What money have you had within the last month?—In what way; I had 5 s. the other week.

117. From whom was it?—Fox.

118. That was with your subpoena?—Yes.

119. Had you any money besides that?—Yes, I had money besides that.

120. From whom?—I have had some from Mr. Streightley.

121. Did anyone tell you to go to this "Malt Shovel"?—No.

122. Had you ever lived at this public-house before?—No, not till I went to Leicester.

123. Who told you to go there?—I went of myself to live there and get my living.

124. When was that?—I should think two months before the election.

125. Have you lived at the "Malt Shovel" ever since?—Not all the while; I lived at the "Britannia" too.

126. But when did you go to the "Malt Shovel" first?—I went to the "Britannia" first, and I live at the "Malt Shovel" now.

127. Have you been at the "Malt Shovel" since the election?—Yes, I have been at the "Malt Shovel" since the election.

275.

128. On the Thursday before the election did you receive a piece of paper, a circular, at Leicester?—Eh?

129. Come, Clark, you heard me. On the Thursday before the election did you receive a small piece of paper?—I received a note sometime, I cannot say to a day, before the election; it was a letter.

130. What have you done with that?—I don't know what I have done with it.

131. Have you kept it, or destroyed it?—I have not destroyed it; I have lost it.

132. So you cannot produce it?—Eh? No, I cannot produce it.

133. Do you recollect what was in that letter?—Well, I cannot say word for word; it is a long while since; I cannot say, particularly, what was in it; but I know it was to ask me whether I would come to Coventry to vote.

134. For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes; it was to ask me whether I would come and vote.

135. Were you told that you were to report yourself in that letter, and to whom?—I was to go to the committee.

136. Where?—In Hales-street.

137. Is that the Bishop-street Ward?—Yes.

138. On the Sunday after that, which would be the Sunday after the election, did you see a man named Parker?—Parker?

139. You know him; you know who I mean, do you not?—Well I know a good many.

140. A good many what?—I have heard of him.

141. Mr. Justice Willes.] How many Parkers did you see that day?—Well, I saw a good many before the election; I seed several. I know there was a young man named Denny amongst them.

142. Mr. Henry James.] Do you know a man named Henry, or Harry, Parker?—Yes, I have heard that name.

143. Have you not seen that man?—Yes; I have seen him.

144. When did you first see him before the election?—It is a long while ago; I cannot tell you.

A 2

145. Did

F. Clark.

F. Clark. 145. Did you see him on the Sunday before the election?—I think it was with Parker, and a man named Wagstaff and Denny that I see
16 February 1869.

146. When did you see him?—They came to the "Britannia."

147. When was that?—On the Sunday night.

148. You only saw one Parker on that Sunday night, did you?—It was not Parker.

149. Did you not see Parker at all?—Not on the Sunday; I seen him on the Monday.

150. You saw Denny and Wagstaff on the Sunday?—Yes; I remember the two particularly.

151. Where did they ask you to go to?—They asked me to go to a public-house on the Monday.

152. What public-house is that?—I think it is called the "Talbot."

153. At Leicester?—At Leicester.

154. Was that the Monday night of the nomination day at Coventry, the day before the poll?—Yes.

155. Whom did you see at the "Talbot"?—I don't know; I seen a good many there.

156. I know you did; did you see Parker there?—Yes.

157. What Parker was that?—Henry, I think it would be.

158. Does he live at Leicester?—Yes; I think he does.

159. What is he?—A dyer, I think.

160. Whom else did you see?—Well, there was a few; there was Parker and Wagstaff, and Denny and Smith.

161. What is Smith's Christian name?—Sam, I think; I never seed him before, not to know him, till that night.

162. Does he live at Leicester?—Well, I haven't seen him since the election, except a day or two after the election, when I saw him.

163. About how many were there altogether?—I should think there were 30 or 40.

164. Do you know the names of any others; was there a man named Frederick Jones there?—Yes, he was there.

165. Was a man named William Greene there?—Yes, he was there.

166. Was a man named Whitmore there?—I don't know him.

167. Do you not know Whitmore?—I don't know him.

168. Do you know a man named Herbert Farren?—No.

169. You don't know a man named Farren?—No, I don't know Farren.

170. You don't know a man named Ireland?—Yes, I know him.

171. Was he there?—I have knowed him since the election.

172. But was the man that you have known since the election there?—Well, I cannot say positively; but I believe he was there.

173. Was a man named Henry Freeman there?—Yes.

174. Do you know Makepiece?—No, I do not.

175. Do you know a man named George Cleaver?—No.

176. Do you know a man named Cleaver?—No.

177. There were others there besides?—Yes, there was a kitchen full of men.

178. Was there a gentleman there of the name of Burrarghs, a Leicester gentleman?—"Barrows," I think, is his name.

Mr. Huddleston objected that 300 names had been given in the bill of particulars, many without Christian names and addresses, and without references to the numbers on the register, and that he did not find the name of Frederick Clark amongst them as alleged to be bribed.

Mr. Justice Willes reserved his opinion on these points.

179. Mr. Henry James.] Was your name, and the names of the men who were there, read out from a register?—There was some names called over.

180. Who called the names over?—Barrows.

181. Did the men answer to their names who were there?—Some of them.

182. What did you happen to say; they called out your name; did you answer to it?—Yes, I said I was a voter.

183. Were any person or persons made captain of you all?—No.

184. Was Freeman's name mentioned as to do anything to see after you, or anything of that kind?—He was to see as we went right.

185. Freeman was to see that you went right?—Yes.

186. Did Burroughs say anything at all about being satisfied?—I do not know; I was looking after beer; I do not know what he said.

187. How much beer did you look after?—I had a good deal that night.

188. Did the others have beer too?—Oh, yes.

189. Who paid for it?—Well, I paid for some myself, and Smith paid for some, and Parker paid for some, and we all paid for some.

190. How much did you pay for?—I found I was about 1s. 9d. out of pocket when I got home.

191. Had you spent that in beer?—Yes.

192. Upon yourself, or upon the others?—They handed a cap round.

193. Was there any appointment made as to where you were to meet?—Yes, there was an appointment that if we had a mind to go we should go.

194. Was it said where you were to meet the next morning?—Yes.

195. Where was that?—On the Hinckley road.

196. At what time?—From six o'clock to half-past.

197. Was anything said about its not being safe for you?—

Mr. Huddleston objected to this as being a leading question.

Mr. Justice Willes overruled the objection.

198. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] Was anything said about its not being safe for you to meet in the town?—Yes, they said we had better meet on the road.

199. Was any reason given why?—Well, I did not know of any reason.

200. You have given your statement, and do tell me the truth; was anything said about its not being safe to meet, or to start in the town?—It is a long while, and I have forgotten since then.

201. Surely you do yourself an injustice; was anything anything said that evening about its not being safe to meet or start in the town?—They said we had better meet on the road; that would be the best.

202. You told me that before; was anything said about its not being safe to meet in the town?—I do not recollect; I do not remember it being said.

203. You say that positively?—I say that positively.

204. Was no reason given why you should start on the Hinckley-road, and not in the town?—No.

205. Did you ask?—Yes.

206. Was anything said at all as to payments for loss of time?—They said we should be made satisfied; at least that was what we reckoned amongst ourselves; one another said if we went for loss of time, we should be made satisfied.

207. Who said (if any one) that you should be made satisfied?—Smith.

208. Samuel Smith?—Yes, I believe that is him; I could not say for positive.

209. Was that said in Parker's presence, in the room where you were?—I heard Parker was there, and he must have heard it.

210. Was Freeman there too?—Yes.

211. And Burroughs?—Not "Burroughs," "Barrows."

212. Was anything said at all about any sum of money, about 2*l.* or anything of the kind?—No.

213. No sum was mentioned?—No.

214. On Tuesday morning did you meet on the Hinckley-road?—Yes.

215. How many of you were there that met?—I could not say to one, but I think there were about three-and-twenty of us.

216. Was there a vehicle, a carriage?—Yes.

217. Was it a van, or what?—It looked like a gentleman's carriage.

218. But you did not, all three-and-twenty, get into it; was it a sort of half omnibus, a half carriage thing?—It was a long one with two seats.

219. However, this carriage or van, whatever it was, broke down, and the driver went and got another?—Yes.

220. Did you, all of you, three-and-twenty gentlemen, walk on to the "Red Cow"?—Yes.

221. Did you have something to drink there?—Yes.

222. Did you pay for anything?—Yes.

223. Did you pay for all you drank?—Well, not all of it; I paid for some.

224. Before you came into Coventry, were you met by any one at the Foleshill-road?—Yes.

225. Mr. Justice Willes.] I suppose the Hinckley-road is out of Leicester?—Yes, on the same road; Foleshill is near to Coventry, and Hinckley is close to Leicester.

226. Mr. Henry James.] How far out of Leicester were you when you were met in the first instance by the carriage?—I should think just on the outside.

227. What time in the morning was it?—Half-past six o'clock or a quarter to seven.

228. It was dark then?—Quite dark.

229. Were you met on this Foleshill-road by a gentleman from Coventry?—Yes.

230. Did he give you anything?—Yes.

231. What did he give you?—A voting card.

232. Did he give voting cards to the others?—Yes.

233. Have you kept your card or not?—No.

275.

234. Was it a voting card for Eaton and Hill? F. Clark.
—Yes.

235. Do you know that gentleman's name?— 16 February
I do not. 1869.

236. He was a stranger to you?—Quite a stranger.

237. Was anything at all said at that time about your being paid?—I do not recollect.

238. About when you got back to Leicester, where you were to be, at Coventry or at Leicester?—I was inside the van, and he was out on the road, and I could not hear what he said; Parker got out and spoke to him.

239. Parker said something to this gentleman?—Yes; he got out of the carriage to this gentleman; they walked on a bit, and then he came back and took out the cards and called the names over, and as he called the names over we answered to them.

240. Did that gentleman, or Parker, or any one say anything about your being paid when you got back to Leicester, and not paid in Coventry?—No; I never heard them say such a thing.

241. Or anything about it?—No.

242. Or receiving anything when you got back to Leicester?—No.

243. Or having anything for loss of time?—No.

244. Nobody on the road?—No.

245. You came in, I believe, to Coventry, and you polled for Mr. Eaton and for Mr. Hill?—Yes.

246. On returning from polling did you meet a person of the name of Kilbey?—No.

247. Did you meet Mr. Kilbey at any time? I seed him once or twice that day, but I did not speak to him.

248. I was speaking of Mr. James Kilbey?—I know him.

249. Did you not speak to him on that day?—Well, I might have spoken to him; I think I did speak to him.

250. You just said that you did not; be careful; he spoke to you?—It is a long while since; I was in beer all day, you see.

251. I do not see at all?—Well, I say, I cannot remember; I had had a good deal of beer, do you see; I was in beer all day.

252. But you are all right to-day, are you not?—Well, no, not particular.

253. The fact of your being in beer yesterday does not make you forget what took place in November?—It is three months ago since that happened.

254. But you do not forget things that occurred six months ago; did you not speak to Kilbey, and did he not speak to you?—He said to me, "Hallo! Clark, are you come?"

255. What else did he say?—He said, "Where are the others?"

256. Now you see you recollect all the others?—Well, you see you came on to me so sudden.

257. Did you tell him that you wanted something to eat?—No.

258. Did he tell you to go anywhere?—No.

259. Not to the "Bull's Head"?—No.

260. Did you go to the "Bull's Head"?—Yes, I was there in the course of the day.

261. What caused you to go there?—I went there because my brother goes there.

262. Did not Kilbey tell you to go there?—No.

A 3

263. Will

F. Clark. 263. Will you swear that?—I will swear it.
 — 264. Did he say to you, "Perhaps you will 16 February want to see me again?"—?
 1869.

Mr. Huddleston objected to this as being a leading question.

Mr. Justice Willes overruled the objection.

265. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] Did he not say, "Perhaps you will want to see me again"?—No, I do not think he said anything like it.

266. Did you not reply, "It is all arranged, we shall be settled with at Leicester"?—No.

267. Nothing of that kind?—No.

268. Did you use that expression to him about being settled with at Leicester?—No.

269. You have given your evidence—?—Ah! but I was paid to do that.

270. Did you intentionally state what was untrue at any time?—Well, the facts I stated here was a good deal hearsay.

271. But were they true?—Well, no, some of it was not true.

272. Did you intentionally state that, and sign that paper; is that your signature (handing a paper to the Witness)?—

Mr. Huddleston objected to this line of examination.

Mr. Justice Willes overruled the objection.

273. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] Is that your signature (handing a paper to the Witness)?—Yes.

274. Now, having reminded you that you signed this piece of paper, at the time you signed that statement did you sign anything that you knew to be untrue?—Yes.

275. And you knew it to be untrue at the time you stated that?—Yes.

276. Did you state "I replied to Mr. Kilbey: it is all arranged we shall be settled with at Leicester"?—I made that statement.

277. Is that true?—No, it is not true; that is not.

278. But you stated it, and knew it to be untrue at the time you stated it?—Yes, but I had had a good deal to drink.

279. Did you know it to be untrue at the time you stated it?—Well, they wanted me to say "summat," and of course I told them "summat."

280. Did any one suggest this to you?—Yes.

281. Who did?—I don't know.

282. Who was it (if anybody) who suggested those words to you?—I will tell you. I think we went back from voting, and I had parties come after me, and they said they had heard as I did this and the other, and they said if I would go to Coventry and give evidence I should be well paid, and I should be set up in business.

283. Who told you that?—Mr. Streightley.

284. Did you go and state what you knew to be untrue?—Yes, and would again if they came bothering me day after day.

285. You stated what was untrue, and you would do it again: how do we know that you are stating what is true now?—How do you know that I am stating what is true now.

286. Yes?—Well—.

287. Are you stating what is true now?—Of course.

288. You state upon your oath that you did say to Mr. Kilbey that you were to be settled with at Leicester?—I never used those words to Mr. Kilbey to my knowledge.

289. Will you swear that you did not?—I will swear that I did not; not to my recollection.

290. Did he not say, "Very well"?—Kilbey say, "Very well."

291. Yes?—"Very well," what?

292. To what you said to him?—I did not say anything.

293. You said you spoke to him?—I said he spoke to me: he said "Hallo! Clark are you here?" I says "Yes." He says, "How long have you been come?" I says, "I just come." He says, "Where are the t'others?" and I said, "On the road." I said, "Will you come out and have something to drink?" I think I used those words to him.

294. What did he say to that?—He said he did not know; he said I had better go to the "Bull's Head."

295. You forget that you told me just now that he did not tell you to go to the "Bull's Head;" what do you mean by swearing within the last five minutes that he did not tell you to go to the "Bull's Head"?—I did not swear that he did not tell me to go to the "Bull's Head."

296. I think you did?—Well, I am rather confused this morning, and I have been down at Birmingham, and I have had a good deal of beer, and I cannot recollect all that has been said, but what he has got down there against me; they came to me, and they wanted evidence, and they wanted to get out summat, and would pay for doing it, and I told them some that was true and some that was untrue.

297. You need not repeat that painful affair in your life; but why did you tell us just now on your oath that Mr. Kilbey did not tell you to go to the "Bull's Head"?—I said I did not recollect it.

298. Then do you recollect it now?—Yes.

299. For what were you to go to the "Bull's Head"?—Well, I went there to have some beer.

300. Was that after Kilbey told you to go?—Yes.

301. Did you go to the "Bull's Head"?—Yes.

302. Did you have some beer?—Yes.

303. And you had something to eat?—Yes.

304. Do you know the name of the landlady?—I could not say; Norris or Morris, or some such name as that.

305. Did you pay her for what you had?—Yes.

306. How much did you pay?—Well, I had two pints of beer I paid for.

307. Did you pay for what you had to eat?—Yes.

308. How much did you pay?—Ninepence.

309. Out of your own pocket?—Yes.

310. Did you tell Kilbey that?—No.

311. You told Kilbey that you did not pay?—Yes.

312. And that was untrue?—Yes.

313. After you had been at the "Bull's Head," did you meet any of your companions; seven of them?—I met somebody here in the afternoon.

314. Seven of them?—I do not know how many; there might have been seven.

315. Did you tell them to go to the "Bull's Head," or tell them that you had been having something something to eat and drink at the "Bull's Head"?—No.

316. Did you mention the "Bull's Head" to them?—I said I had been to the "Bull's Head."

317. Did you tell them they could have anything to eat and drink there?—No.

318. You swear that?—I swear that.

319. Did you see Burrowes give 2*l.* to Parker?—No.

320. Any money?—No money whatever.

321. Did you tell this to Mr. Kilbey: "I did not pay anything; Whitmore, Green, Samuel Smith, Henry Coutts, and another was there; I saw Burrowes pay Parker 2*l.*, to be spent on the road": did you make that statement, and sign it?—I might have done so.

322. Is it true?—No.

323. You intentionally stated that which you knew to be untrue?—Yes.

324. Who told you to state that; that you saw Burrowes pay Parker 2*l.* to be spent?—I made it out of my own head.

325. Pure invention, out of your own head?—In pure invention.

326. Did you start back again about eight o'clock?—Between eight and nine.

327. You had some drink on the road?—Yes.

328. Did you see anybody on the road give Parker money, a man who keeps a druggist's and grocer's shop?—No.

329. "We stopped first at the 'Prince William Henry,' where we had two half-gallons of ale; then at the 'Wheatsheaf,' and one said there was a good old Tory opposite, and that we might get something out of him; he came over to us, and gave Parker 2*l.*; he keeps a druggist's and grocer's shop;" is that true?—No.

330. Did you make it up out of your own head?—Yes.

331. You did not reach the "Talbot" at Leicester till about two o'clock in the morning?—About that time.

332. Did Parker ask you to go there the next morning to him?—Wagstaff his name was; he asked me to come up in the morning.

333. Where to?—To the "Talbot."

334. For what purpose?—I suppose to be made right with, as they talked about.

335. Did you go?—Yes, I was there.

336. Were these the persons you met, Samuel Smith, Jones, Ward, Whitmore, Green, and Denny?—No, there were only four of us.

337. Who were they?—Me, Denny, Smith, and Green; those were the four; the others were in work.

338. Did you see Parker there?—Not then.

339. Or Freeman?—No.

340. You say "Not then"; when did you see Parker or Freeman next?—At night.

341. Where did you see them?—At the "Talbot."

342. You went in the morning; did you go away from the "Talbot," or stop there?—I stopped there just about an hour, or an hour and a-half.

343. You then went away?—I went away and had some dinner.

344. Where did you go to have the dinner?—At home.

345. And came back in the evening?—Yes, about seven o'clock.

346. Did anybody then tell you to come?—I do not know; I use the house.

275.

347. You did not come from any message?—F. Clark.
No.

348. You met Parker and Freeman there?—16 February
Yes; I seed Parker there at night, the night 1869.
after the polling.

349. You told us you went in the morning, in order, you supposed, to be made right; what did you say to Parker, if anything, about being made right; did you ask him for anything?—No.

350. Did any one in your presence?—No.

351. You had gone in the morning to meet Parker, so as to be made right. When he came in the evening, that was said about being made right?—I never heard any one talk about being made right.

352. Or getting any money?—Or getting any money.

353. You could not find anybody in the morning; what was said to you about being made right that night; what was said by anybody that night; you had gone in the morning to be made right, and to see Mr. Parker: when he came in the evening, what was said about getting your money, or being made right?—They talked about one thing and another; some said they were going to have some money, and some wanted some.

354. Who wanted the money?—Smith wanted some, and Green says he was going to have some of Denny; he said he should have some.

355. Who did they say that to?—To Mr. Parker.

356. You did not mention the subject?—I said if they had any I would have some.

357. To whom did you say that?—To Mr. Parker.

358. What did Mr. Parker say?—He says he had got no money.

359. Was Wagstaff there then?—No, he was not there.

360. Did you see Wagstaff at any time with Mr. Parker during that day, Wednesday?—No.

361. Do you mean to tell me that Mr. Parker said he had got no money?—Yes.

362. Did Mr. Parker say he had drawn the money from Mr. Kilbey for the Bishop-street Ward, 15*s.* for each man in his ward?—Mr. Parker said what?

363. Mr. Parker said he had drawn the money from Kilbey for Bishop-street Ward, 15*s.* for each man in his ward; upon your oath did not Mr. Parker say that?—I never heard him; I had that information from Denny.

364. Denny told you that?—Yes.

365. That Mr. Parker had said so?—Yes.

366. Is this true, that they were not satisfied with 15*s.*?—There was a bit of a bother; some said they should have more.

367. More than what?—Fifteen shillings.

368. To whom?—To Mr. Parker and others amongst themselves.

369. Then 15*s.* was mentioned in Mr. Parker's presence, but they said they would have more than 15*s.*?—Denny said so.

370. To Mr. Parker?—Yes.

371. That they would have more than 15*s.*?—Yes.

372. What caused Denny to say, "We will have more than 15*s.*," who fixed 15*s.* as the sum he was to have?—Mr. Parker.

373. Tell me what Mr. Parker said about that 15*s.*; what did Mr. Parker say about 15*s.*?—He says, Denny says that he says there was 15*s.*, and he wanted 1*l.*

374. What did Mr. Parker say about 15*s.*; never

F. Clark. never mind what Denny said?—I do not understand you.
 16 February 1869. 375. What did Mr. Parker say about the 15 s.?—He did not say anything.
 376. You said Mr. Parker did say something about—

Mr. Justice Willes.] He fixed the sum of 15 s.

377. Mr. James.] When he fixed the sum of 15 s., what were the words he used?—Denny told me, he says, I have got 15 s. a-piece for t'others and all; there was a bit of a bother; some said I have only had 10 s.; there was one of them only had 10 s.

378. Mr. Justice Willes.] Who?—One of them.

379. How much had you?—I never had a halfpenny.

380. Somebody complained of only having 10 s.?—Yes.

381. Mr. James.] Who was that?—I think it was Denny,

382. You say Mr. Parker fixed the 15 s.; what did he say when he fixed the 15 s.?—He says that was all he had got.

383. Was that before or after he said he had not any money at all?—Yes; they went then with him and said they should have it; he owned he had got some for four or five.

384. From whom did he say he had got it?—Mr. Kilbey.

385. You know James Kilbey of Bishop-street Ward?—Yes, perfectly well.

386. You say he fixed the 15 s., and said he had got it from Kilbey; what did he fix the 15 s. for?—For the loss of time, I was given to understand.

387. Was that said?—It was for trouble.

388. Did he tell you for how many he had got 15 s.?—Four or five for that ward.

389. How many voters were there in that ward; were there four or five that polled in Bishop-street Ward?—I think there were seven; that is what I heard, there were seven.

390. When he said he had got 15 s. for four or five from Kilbey, did the men ask him to pay it?—Yes.

391. What did he say or do?—He handed it over to some one, and they seemed to be satisfied; four or five of them.

392. To whom did he hand it over?—Wagstaff had the 15 s.

393. Wagstaff was there then?—Yes.

394. Was anything said about Wagstaff having lost a little child?—Yes.

395. And had buried it?—I think he had got it dead in the house.

396. Did he get 15 s. or 1 l.?—He got 1 l.

397. Was anything said before he got the 1 l. about his loss?—Mr. Parker seemed to know him; he said that he had lent him 5 s. out of his own money.

398. But the 15 s. he gave him?—Yes.

399. To whom else was 15 s. given?—Sam Smith, so he says.

400. You were present, and you saw Mr. Parker hand over the money?—I never seed no money.

401. You say they asked Mr. Parker for money, and you said that he handed over the money?—He gave it them; I did not see no money pass.

402. Did you see him put his hand to them?

—Yes; I thought he was making them all right.

403. What caused you to think he was making them all right; was it by what you saw?—Because they left off grumbling.

404. Before they left off grumbling, did he put his hand near to them?—Yes; we were all close together.

405. He put his hand near to them; did you see them look at what they had got in their hands?—No.

406. What did they do with their hands?—They put their hands in their pockets.

407. All of them, one after the other?—Yes.

408. Who put their hands into their pockets; Wagstaff, Smith, and who else?—Denny and Smith.

409. What is Denny's Christian name?—It is either James Denny or James William Denny.

410. He put his hand in his pocket?—Yes.

411. Anybody else; we have Wagstaff, Samuel Smith, and Denny; anybody else?—Yes; there was Green there.

412. Did Green put his hand in his pocket, or did he have anything?—I only seed one make a movement to put his hand in his pocket, and that was Smith.

413. Did Green stop grumbling?—Yes; they stopped grumbling; some said it was not right, for then they had not any at all, and they said, they should have it, and he said, "Well, if you will be quiet, you shall have it."

414. Some stopped grumbling, and some said they had not had it, and were not right, and he said, "Be quiet, and you shall have it"?—Yes.

415. To whom did he say that?—To all of us.

416. Did Frederick Clark put his hand in his pocket?—No.

417. Did he get anything?—No.

418. Will you swear that?—Yes.

419. This is not true, "they were not satisfied with 15 s.; they received 15 s. from Mr. Parker, and they said they could have 1 l. a-piece, and Mr. Parker said 15 s. was all he had"; is that true?—It is true in the way that they left off grumbling.

420. First, is it true that you received 15 s. from Mr. Parker?—That was a falsehood.

421. Made up in your own head?—Yes.

422. Is it true that they said that they could have 1 l. a-piece, and that Mr. Parker said 15 s. was all he had?—Smith said he should have 1 l.

423. What did Mr. Parker say to that?—He said that was all he had got; the others asked why they had not got it, and he said he had nothing to do with them.

424. Were the other men Bishop-street ward-men or not?—Not Bishop-street ward-men.

425. Did Mr. Parker say to whom they ought to go?—He said they must wait.

426. He did not mention any name?—No, he did not mention no name.

427. Did you say, "You have had all the money, and I ought to have mine"?—Yes.

428. To whom did you say that?—To all of them, I thought by what I could see; I thought they was having some, and I thought I ought to have some.

429. The next day did you meet Henry Freeman?—No.

430. Did you meet anyone who said anything about sending a letter to Coventry to see about it?—Mr. Parker.

431. Where did you meet Mr. Parker?—Coming from his work at dinner-time.

What

432. What did you say to Parker; this would bring us to Thursday, would it not, the Thursday after the poll?—Yes.

423. What did Parker say when you met him coming from his dinner?—I says, "How are you going on; do you hear anything?" "No," he says, "I have sent a letter."

434. Did he say to whom?—To the managers.

435. Did he mention the name of anyone?—No, I do not think he did.

436. You think he did not mention the name, but said he would send to the manager?—Yes.

437. On the Friday, did you go anywhere with Denny?—Yes.

438. Where?—I came to Coventry.

439. What for?—I came to fetch some things I had left.

440. Did you happen to call on Kilby?—Denny went.

441. With you?—No, by himself.

442. Did you go with him?—No.

443. Is this not true: "I and Denny went to Coventry, and called on Kilby, and asked him for my money; he replied, 'Daniel, there is enough at Leicester to pay all of you; Mr. Parker has got 40 l.; have you not been paid.'"

444. Mr. Justice Willes.] Who is Daniel?—I never heard the name before.

Mr. Justice Willes.] That is a mistake for Denny, I suppose.

445. Mr. James.] Did this occur: "I and Denny went to Coventry, and called on Kilby, and asked him for my money"?—Yes, that is true.

446. Did you call on Kilby?—I stood out-side.

447. Did you hear what was said?—No.

448. Is this true; did Kilby say, "Denny, there is enough at Leicester to pay all of you; Parker has 40 l.; have you not been paid"?—Denny says, that Kilby says that the money was there.

449. When Denny came out you did not hear what was said; but did Denny tell you something?—He told me —

Mr. Huddleston.] No; we cannot have what he told you.

450. Mr. James.] He only said something to you; I will not ask you what it was?—He said it would be all right.

451. I must ask you; did you not tell Mr. Kilby, "I said no, I want to be paid, and he said, have you not been paid; I was not satisfied because I had not received the 2 l. promised me by Burrows"?—I never used those words to Kilby.

452. Did he not say, "he durst not pay"?—That is what Denny told me.

453. Do you know Mr. Seymour?—No.

454. Mr. Seymour, the gentleman who is a solicitor; had you any note ever given you to take to Mr. Seymour?—No.

455. Did you know of any note?—No.

456. You never saw it or heard of it?—No.

457. Were you ever told by anyone that you were to go to Mr. Seymour?—Denny said he was going to him.

458. Did you not go with Denny to Mr. Seymour's?—I went as far as the office with him.

459. Did Denny go inside?—Yes.

460. Did you stand outside?—Yes.

461. You did not see Mr. Seymour?—No.

462. Are you sure?—Yes; I see one of the men.

463. One of the clerks?—Yes.

464. Had you any talk with him about it?—Denny did.

465. Denny talked with a clerk at Mr. Seymour's?—Yes.

466. Did you hear what he said?—He went and spoke with him.

467. Did not you go in with him?—No.

468. How did you see the clerk?—I was in the office.

469. Where Denny and the clerk were?—Yes.

470. What did Denny say to the clerk?—He said he wanted to see Mr. Seymour; he says, "Very well, wait a bit"; he waited a bit, and he went in, and I stopped in the other office.

471. Denny went in and you stopped with the clerk?—Yes.

472. Did you have any talk with the clerk?—No.

473. When you came out you could get no money; you got none from Denny?—No.

474. Did you go back to Kilby?—No.

475. Did Denny go with you?—Denny says he went back.

476. You did not accompany Denny, did you?—No.

477. Had you money of your own to pay your railway fare back?—Yes, I had money about me.

478. Did you get 5 s. from anyone that day?—No, I never received a half-penny of no one that day.

479. Is this out of your own head: "I went back to Kilby's about dinner time; I told him I could not go back because I had no money to pay my railway fare, and he then gave me 5 s."?—Denny said that when he came back again.

480. Did you and Denny go to Mr. Baker Atkins?—No.

481. Did Denny leave you and go anywhere?—He was about the town all day.

482. Did you go to the "Queen's Arms"?—Yes.

483. Is that in Coventry?—Yes.

484. Did you see Burrows there?—No.

485. Did you see anyone there who told you to go and see James Mann?—No. I never seed Burrows from that day to this.

486. Did you see anyone at the "Queen's Arms" who told you to go and see James Mann?—I seed several there; there were a good many in the kitchen.

487. You have not answered my question?—I seed several.

488. Did anyone tell you to go and see James Mann?—Not in my hearing. Denny went and spoke to two of them, to Jem Mann I think it was.

489. Who told Denny to go to James Mann?—He went of his own accord. James was in the back place.

490. Did you see Denny go and speak to him?—Yes, he went out of the kitchen into the parlour.

491. Did you hear what was said?—No, I did not.

492. You got no money then?—Yes, I had.

493. Did anyone give you any money then?—No.

494. Did

F. Clark.

16 February
1869.

- F. Clark.* 494. Did you go back to Leicester that night?
—No, I went back on Monday.
- 16 February 1869. 495. Did you see Freeman and Parker when you got back to Leicester?—No.
496. You have seen Freeman and Parker since?—Yes, I have been often in their company; he lives in the same house.
497. Did you apply to them for your money to be made all right again?—I wanted to know. I ought to have some as well as the rest.
498. To whom did you say that?—I do not know whether it was Parker or Freeman.
499. What did Parker say?—He said he had got no money and had not heard any more about it.
500. Did you go to the "Talbot" any night, when you saw Green, Denny, Smith, Parker, Wagstaff and others, and did you then say what had taken place with Mr. Kilby?—I do not understand you.
501. Did you at any time, shortly after being at Coventry, go to the "Talbot" and wait till Parker came out of the factory about eight o'clock?—Yes.
502. Did you and others ask Parker for your money?—I did not know there was any money coming till they began to talk, when they said they thought they would be paid for their trouble; they told me on the road back, and going and all, that we should be paid for the trouble.
503. Mr. Justice Willes.] You expected to be paid for your trouble, as I understand you?—They talked as if they had been paid for their trouble.
504. I understood you to say just now that you are expecting to be paid for your trouble in consequence of what had passed in the first instance?—After they told me they expected to be paid, of course I thought I should have some.
505. I dare say it is my fault, but I understood you to say that you had been led to expect from the beginning that you would be satisfied, and it was because of that you expected to be paid for your trouble?—Yes, by what they said, that they should be made satisfied, of course I expected.
506. Mr. James.] Was it on this occasion, at eight o'clock in the evening, when you waited for Parker coming out of the factory, that you and others asked Parker for your money?—Yes, we stopped till he came; he promised to meet us there.
507. Did you, who had not received the money, ask him for it?—Yes.
508. What did he say?—He said he had got no money at first.
509. What then?—Somebody had got out that Wagstaff had had 1*l.*, and then they told him of it; he owned he had a pound; then he said he had 15*s.* a-piece; he says, "I have only for four or five what is in my ward."
510. You say he owned he had got 15*s.* a-piece?—Yes.
511. Is it true that when you were at Coventry Mr. Kilbey wanted to pay your expenses the first time, the polling day?—No, it is not true.
512. "Mr. Kilbey wanted to pay me when at Coventry my expenses, but I refused to receive it, because of the promise made by Burrows at Leicester;" is that true, or an invention out of your own head?—It is an invention out of my own head.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

513. Who is this Mr. Streatley?—A hatter in this town.
514. Mr. Streatley keeps a shop?—Yes.
515. Is he one of Mr. Jackson and Mr. Carter's people?—Yes, what we call a Liberal; at least he is very likely to be, that is what we mean; he is a Liberal.
516. Has he been liberal to you?—Yes, he has.
- Mr. Justice Willes.*] Mr. Jackson and Mr. Carter were the previous members.
- Mr. Huddleston.*] The unsuccessful candidates.
- Mr. Justice Willes.*] Which of them stood first?
- Mr. Huddleston.*] Mr. Jackson; Mr. Jackson was Member, and was unseated on petition. Mr. Carter was the Member at the time of the dissolution, therefore he was the senior Member.
- Mr. Justice Willes.*] Who was in with Mr. Carter?
517. Mr. Huddleston.] Mr. Carter and Mr. Eaton. (To the Witness.) Mr. Streatley is one of Mr. Carter's and Mr. Jackson's strong supporters, is not he?—Yes.
518. He is one of their committee, is not he?—He has something to do with it.
519. He has a good deal to do with it, has not he?—Yes.
520. He is a very active man for them; what is he by business?—He sells hats.
521. How did he come about you?—I suppose he heard the bother; he came to Leicester.
522. And he found you out?—Yes.
523. Did he give you any money?—Yes.
524. How much did he give you?—Five shillings.
525. What for?—He wanted to get summat out of me, he wanted me to tell him summat; I told him I did not know nothing unless they could make it worth my while.
526. What said Mr. Streatley to that?—He says he would make it worth my while.
527. How did he say he would make it worth your while?—He offered to set me up in business.
528. What business?—In my own business.
529. What was your own business?—A gardener and greengrocer.
530. He offered to set you up if you did what?—If I told all I knowed about how I went from Leicester to Coventry to vote.
531. What else did he promise you?—Nothing else.
532. Who took your statement down?—I would not do anything with him and would not tell him anything; he gave me this money, and he asked me if I would think it over, and meet him the next week.
533. After he had promised you to set you up in business he gave you 5*s.*?—He promised me if I would tell what I knowed, what I had to drink, and what money I had, he would set me up in business, and I should be well paid for it when it was over.
534. As he went away you say he gave you 5*s.*?—Yes.
535. To think it over?—To think it over.
536. Did he say what was to be done with the 5 s.?—I do not know what he thought I was to do with the 5 s.; I spent it.

537. Spent it in drink?—Yes.

538. And you thought it over all the time you were drinking?—Yes.

539. Before he gave you the 5 s. you were able to tell him nothing?—Yes.

540. After he gave you the 5 s. you began to tell him something that was true, and something not true?—I told him if he made it worth my while I would see about it.

541. When did he come again?—I did not see him; I promised to meet him next Thursday; but the same night ever since the election, there were three men always over at Leicester, coming round and coming round all manner of corners, pretending they were our party.

542. Who were the three men?—One named Pollard.

543. Who else?—One called Biggs.

544. Who else?—Mr. Streetley's shopman at Leicester.

545. Mr. Streetley's shopman at Leicester, and the other two men came after you?—They came after me night after night, when I was in the public-house where I was; they would stand liquors or beer, and sweep me down, and tell me what a good thing it would be; they would come and treat me.

546. What to?—Liquors; they paid beer for me.

547. What else?—Anything I was a mind to drink.

548. Plying you with liquors?—And pumping me; when they got the beer they pumped me.

549. When they pumped you, truth and untruth came out together?—I mixed up a tale out of my own head.

550. Did you do that to humbug them?—Yes, I saw they were trying to humbug me, and I thought I would humbug them.

551. Did you get any more money from them?—Yes, I had more money.

552. What more money had you from them?—Since the election they came after me night after night to this very day that I saw Mr. Streetley, and he told me what he would do, and I would not give him a decided answer, not for a bit, till he came with 5 s.; then I promised to meet him next week.

553. You say they gave you more money, besides drink; what was that?—This was the same night that these three came after me and got me in beer, quite intoxicated; and they said if I would go (I did not want to go, and I did not know what I was doing) they lugged me off by the midnight train to Rugby.

554. Were you drunk?—Yes; I do not remember going to the train.

555. You found yourself at Rugby in the middle of the night?—Yes.

556. Who was with you?—Smith.

557. Who took you there?—Those three men.

558. Mr. Streetley's shopman, and Pollard, and Biggs?—Yes.

559. What did they do when they got you to Rugby, that was the middle of the night; did they pump you again?—There was only one of them went with me.

560. Who?—Smith; he is a man as they have had to get up evidence on the case, and he works at offices in Leicester.

561. Was he the one that brought you to

Rugby?—Yes; and found me lodgings there next morning.

562. In Rugby?—He paid for my lodgings there.

563. How long did you stay in Rugby?—It was the midnight train, and we got up by about eight in the morning.

564. You were at Rugby at eight in the morning?—We stopped at Rugby all night; we slept at a public-house, and got up at eight in the morning.

565. What did they do then?—They gave me some more drink.

566. How many were with you?—Only this man Smith.

567. He gave you some more drink at Rugby; what did he do then?—I said I should not go; I am not going to tell unless I have something. He says, "Come then, if you tell all you know, you must tell them summat, I will buy you a lot of rabbits to take back to Leicester with you."

568. He said "You must tell them summat;" what did you understand by that?—I was to tell them all I knowed, I suppose.

569. Were you to tell them the truth; did he tell you to tell them the truth or untruth; to make up some story?—What I had heard; I told him one thing and another; they wanted summat.

570. When the man said, "You must tell us summat," did he say that you were to tell him the truth, or make up some story?—I said I would go.

571. Did he say, "You cannot have the rabbits unless you tell us summat, whether it is true or untrue"; did he say so?—Yes.

572. Did he say "You must tell them something, if true or untrue"?—He said I must tell them something; he thought I was going to tell them the truth.

573. Did he say, "What you say you must stick to"?—Yes.

574. Where did they take you to from Rugby?—To Coventry.

575. Were you drunk at Rugby?—I was not what you may call sober; I had been drinking all night.

576. What did they give you to steady your nerves before you left Rugby?—I had some liquors in some coffee.

577. What were the liquors?—Whisky.

578. What time did they get you to Coventry?—About 9 or 10.

579. What did they do with you when they got you to Coventry?—They took me to Mr. Kerby's office.

580. The solicitor's?—Yes; he lives in Little Park-street.

581. What did they do with you when they got you there?—They wanted me to tell what I knew about the affair.

582. Did they promise you anything?—Mr. Streetley promised me, and he promised me if I would tell, he would pay for four dozen rabbits for me.

583. Who said that?—Smith.

584. You went with that; was it under the influence of the four dozen rabbits, the 5 s., and the promise to set you up in business, that you made this statement?—Yes.

585. You have told us that part was true, and part was untrue?—That is the fact.

586. It would be very difficult to say what was true, and what was untrue?—There was some of it true, and some of it was downright falsehood and hearsay.

F. Clark.

1869.

587. Where did you go to from Mr. Kerby's office; was that the time that you signed your statement?—Yes.

588. Did they give you any money then?—No, I had some beer.

589. At Kerby's office?—Yes.

590. Did they ply you with beer while you were giving your testimony?—I had some beer and bread and cheese.

591. Who took down your evidence at Mr. Kerby's office?—Mr. Kerby.

592. Was it he that gave you the beer?—He sent for it.

593. And you had the beer in his office?—Yes.

594. My learned friend says, I forget the bread and cheese; where did the bread and cheese come from, out of Mr. Kerby's larder?—I do not know; I seed it in there.

595. Do you mean that they keep bread and cheese in an attorney's office?—I never was in one before.

596. Did they send for the bread and cheese?—Yes, they sent for it.

597. Were you drinking beer when you gave your evidence?—Yes.

598. Did you see Fox there?—Yes.

599. Was it Fox went out for the beer?—I could not say; it might have been him.

600. Were they pumping you there, to use your own expression?—Yes.

601. How long were they pumping you at Mr. Kirby's office?—I should think I was there two hours.

602. Was anybody present, except yourself and Mr. Kirby and Fox?—Yes; Mr. Streetley was there.

603. The person who had promised you the place, and had given you 5 s.?—Yes.

604. Was Streetley present when you made your statement?—Yes.

605. What became of you after you left Mr. Kirby's office?—I thought I was going to have the rabbits, but I found they would not give them me.

606. You expected to get your four dozen rabbits?—Yes.

607. And you did not?—No.

608. They were not liberal to you then; they had your statement written down, then?—Yes.

609. What did they do with you then?—They told me to go to Mr. Streetley, and see him at his shop.

610. Did you go to Mr. Streetley at his shop?—Yes.

611. What took place there?—He told me to stop a bit, and do all I could for them.

612. To stop a bit and what?—To do all I could for them, and help them in the way of getting up evidence, and he gave me 5 s.

613. That is another 5 s.?—Yes.

614. What else?—That was Friday, the market day. I stopped in the town and spent my money; and towards night I thought there would be some money coming from the same quarter, so I went up to his house.

615. You spent your money in drinking?—Yes.

616. Then you thought there would be some more coming, so you went up to Mr. Streetley's house?—Yes.

617. What took place there?—I told him I had learned who the carriage belonged to they wanted to know; I said I thought it was Twiss's.

618. How long did you stay at Streetley's that night?—It might be a quarter of an hour.

619. Did you get anything more?—Five shillings.

620. Five shillings more?—Yes.

621. That was 15 s.?—Yes.

622. When you took them up the bit of information about who you thought the carriage belonged to, they gave you another 5 s. for that?—Yes.

623. What did you do with that 5 s.?—Spent it.

624. In drink?—Yes; at least I had to live upon it.

625. That was Friday night?—Yes.

626. What became of you on the Saturday?—I was going about all day messing about; I was walking about, doing nothing, in fact.

627. At Coventry?—Yes; and I never went anigh till Sunday night.

628. On Sunday night you went to Mr. Streetley?—Yes.

629. What did you get from him then?—He gave me 1 s. then.

630. That was on the Sunday night?—Yes.

631. Did you stay in Coventry then?—I stayed till Monday.

632. Did you go back to Leicester?—He says, I might stop, and he would see to me; I should not want for anything; I might stop.

633. Who said that?—Mr. Streetley; and I stopped till Monday.

634. Did you go back to Leicester on Monday?—This here young man, one of the t'others, young Pollard, said I was to go back to Leicester.

635. Who paid your expenses back to Leicester?—Young Pollard.

636. What did he give you for that?—He paid my railway fare, 2 s. 2½ d.; he went and got the tickets.

637. Did he give you any money?—No.

638. Did anybody else give you any money on Monday?—No.

639. Did they give you the rabbits?—No, I never had the rabbits.

640. They did not give you the four dozen rabbits?—No.

641. When did you next see anything of the lot?—I was in Leicester; they came almost every day, and wanted to know everything, and all about it.

642. Did they give you any money?—No.

643. Did they give you any drink?—Yes, I had plenty of drink.

644. Every day?—Almost every night.

645. From those three people, Pollard, Bigge, and Smith: when did you have any more money from them?—I did not have any more money off them, not till I had my subpoena. I had 5 s. with that.

646. Is that all the money that you have had from them?—I had 16 s. off Mr. Streetley altogether.

647. Five shillings with your subpoena?—Yes.

Mr. Justice Willes.] That would be from the petitioner.

648. Mr. Huddleston.] Who gave you the 5 s. for the subpoena?—Fox or Cox.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I ask for a business reason. I will tell you presently why I ask that question.

649. Mr.

649. Mr. Huddleston.] Some of this, you say, Denny told you, did he?—Yes.

650. And some you invented?—Yes.

651. And some was true?—And some was true.

Re-examined by Mr. James.

652. Is that which you have told us to-day, upon your oath, true?—Yes.

653. All that you have said to-day is true; that is so, is it?—Yes.

654. Mr. Justice Willes.] Has anybody given you anything for your expenses in coming here beyond the 5 s.?—No, nobody whatever. I came on Sunday night.

655. Were you at work at Leicester when that talk was about coming over to Coventry, and voting, and being satisfied?—Yes.

656. You were at work at Leicester?—Yes.

657. Have you a family?—No.

658. Had you left Coventry then?—Yes, I had been away about six weeks, or two months, before.

659. You had gone to work at Leicester?—Yes, I had a pony and cart.

660. Had you a place to live in in Coventry, if you came over?—Yes, I was living with my brother.

661. Was that your place, or your brother's?—My brother's.

662. I did not quite understand you how long after the election it was that you were spoken to about telling them summat?—It was Thursday week; Mr. Streetley was the first that came to me at Leicester, and he asked me what I knewed about it.

663. When was that?—That was the Thursday week after the election.

664. About a fortnight after the election?—Yes, the 26th of November.

665. The election, I think, was on Tuesday?—The 17th.

666. On the 26th of November, you were spoken to?—Yes.

667. You did come over here to vote?—Yes.

668. And you did vote?—Yes.

669. You came over here expecting to be satisfied afterwards?—I did not hear anything of it till they got talking about it on the road.

670. Were you coming over out of pure generosity, not expecting to be paid for your trouble?—I should have come over if I had walked, because I wanted to fetch some scales and weights.

671. I am not sure I understood you right; I want to know what day it was you had that talk, that you should be made satisfied; that was before the election, as I understand?—That was on the road they were talking about it; it was when we were coming on the road with the carriage.

672. Was Mr. Parker with you, coming along the road with the carriage?—Yes, we were all there, about 23 of us.

673. Mr. Parker was with you coming along?—That was when they began to talk; they said that they had always been paid for out voting, and it should be made right; I did not think it would, but I thought, if they had any, I ought to have some.

674. Mr. Parker was by, and you think he must have heard the talk about your being made satisfied?—Yes, he was in the room; he must have heard it, I should think.

Mr. Justice Willes.] The reason I asked about the 5 s. is this, because it is sufficient for conduct money but not sufficient for his expenses here; he was here yesterday and he must be here to-day; that is two days, and I could not send a warrant for him or the other man, on the amounts tendered to them.

Mr. James.] Will you ask him, my Lord, what room he meant?

Mr. Justice Willes.] I happen to know where he says the room was; he must have his expenses; I do not know whether you want to ask him any further questions, because if so, the petitioners must pay him fairly such sum as is reasonable for his expenses in remaining in Coventry; it is not safe for either of you to let him go just at this moment. (To the Witness.) What I have been saying is not against you, but in your favour; it is necessary that you should remain, certainly, till this part of the case is over; but it is not reasonable that you should remain at your own expense, and I have been stating to the lawyers for the petitioners that they must give you each day a reasonable sum for your expenses to stay here: you must not leave Coventry without express leave from me; you must get up into the box and ask me leave to go; if you go without my leave, you will be subject to be imprisoned.

SAMUEL SMITH, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.

675. You are a voter for this borough, I believe?—No.

676. For this city?—No.

677. Have you a vote?—No.

678. Never?—Yes, previous to the last election I had always.

679. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

680. You had a vote?—Previous to the last election I had.

681. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

682. You have given your statement in evidence to Mr. Kirby the petitioner's solicitor?—Yes, I was drunk at the time.

683. Where did you sleep last night?—Where did I sleep? I don't know exactly; not in Coventry.

684. Will you swear that?—I swear so.

685. That you don't know where you slept?—I will swear I don't know.

Mr. Justice Willes.] Allow me to say one word to you, and I say it really without any feeling of anger against you; you are not in the same condition of life as myself, and therefore I cannot and ought not to form a prejudice against you from your manner; but I have been for many years trying not to say words without a meaning to them; and if your manner, during the short time you have been in the box, is intended to injure the petitioner or to help the respondents, it has precisely the contrary effect, and you had much better apply your mind simply and straightforwardly and truthfully, as is your duty, to answer the questions put to you, for if you do not you will necessarily raise a prejudice against those whom you are anxious to serve.

686. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] Where did you sleep last night?—I don't know; not in Coventry.

687. Where was it?—I couldn't say where it was.

688. Did you walk there?—No; I went in a cab.

689. Who took you?—I don't know; he was quite a stranger to me.

690. What direction did you go?—I should think it was in a London direction.

691. At what time did you come into Coventry this morning?—I came straight here.

692. At what time?—It was about a hour ago, I should say; about one o'clock.

693. Where did you go to?—I came straight here; direct here.

694. By yourself?—Yes, alone.

695. You came straight from the house where you slept?—Of course, I came straight from the house where I slept.

696. Where was that house?—I could not say, I think it was somewhere in Sowe.

697. Have you lived in Coventry for many years?—I have been away from it for many years.

698. What is the name of the village?—I couldn't swear whether it was Sowe or not.

699. Was it a public-house?—No, a private house.

700. What made you go there?—Because the cabman had orders to take me.

701. And you don't know who gave the orders to the cabman?—I don't know whether I do or whether I do not.

702. If you do know, who was it?—I do not know him by name, he was a stranger to me; he had a sort of overcoat or muffler on. I didn't know him and shouldn't recognise him if I was to see him.

703. Did you ask him why you should go to a strange house?—I had a place where I could have stayed at if I had wanted, the "Red Lion," but I didn't choose to stay there. I chose to go away and I did so.

704. Did this stranger meet you in the street?—I went and applied at a Conservative house for a Conservative.

705. What was the name of the Conservative house that you applied at?—Well, at the first house, I don't know the sign of the house.

706. Who keeps it?—I don't know.

707. How do you know that it was a Conservative house?—The Liberals had been keeping me out of Coventry since the election, and I said that I should come and make myself known to them and not deceive them.

708. To whom did you send that message?—To several people.

709. Tell me one?—I don't know; Mr. Hill was one.

710. The gentleman who is the sitting Member?—No.

711. Who is Mr. Hill?—He is a painter and glazier of this city.

712. To whom else did you write?—I forget

now. I will tell you one whom I did write to. I will give you a straightforward answer; Mr. Hill, a painter and glazier of this city.

713. Who else?—I didn't say anyone else.

714. With the exception of Mr. Hill, do you forget the name of the person to whom you wrote?—No, I sent him word I should do no injury to the cause, and I will give a straightforward answer.

715. At the time of the last election where were you living?—I think it was Leicester, either Leicester or Derby.

716. Mr. Justice Willes.] Are you not sure?—I am not sure. I have been knocking about the country for a length of time, some years; about seven years I have been knocking about.

717. Mr. Henry James.] Will you swear upon your oath that you are not certain whether you lived at Leicester or Derby?—I will swear that I am not certain.

718. That is your solemn word upon your oath?—Upon my oath. I am not certain, but I almost think it was Leicester.

719. Were you living at 4, King Richard-road, Leicester?—No.

720. Where were you living?—No. 4, King Richard-road.

721. That is what I said?—I thought you said "14."

722. Were you living there at that time?—I think I was.

723. Have you any doubt that you were at 4, King Richard-road, Leicester?—I did live there some time, but I might have lived there at the time this election was on.

724. What are you by business?—A weaver or anything.

725. You are a weaver?—I have been weaving last.

726. Are you a freeman of this city?—Yes.

727. I believe Leicester is more than seven miles from this city?—It is about 27 miles, I believe, or 26½ I believe, to the best of my recollection.

728. About a week before the last election for the city of Coventry did you see a man named Henry Parker?—Yes, he was used to work for me; I know him quite well, and a particular friend of mine he is.

729. On the Saturday morning before the election did you learn from him that there would be a meeting at the "Talbot"?—Yes, I believe that Mr. Parker told me that there was going to be a meeting along of the election at the "Talbot."

730. When?—On the Saturday night.

731. Did you go there?—Oh, yes, most decidedly.

732. Whom did you see there?—I saw many people.

733. Give me the names of those whom you know?—Sidney Parker, James Freeman, and a lot more; there were about 20 of us.

734. I want the names of those whom you knew?—I did not know many of their names.

735. Will you give me the names of those you do know?—First of all Mr. Cleaver, Mr. Jones, Mr. Smith (that is myself) and Mr. Higham and several others; I cannot tell you all the names.

736. Do you know Frederick Clark; have you been in court whilst the last witness was examined?—No.

737. Do you know a man named Wagstaff?—Yes.

738. Was

738. Was he there?—He was there about five minutes, that is all; he just looked in and wished us “good evening,” and went off.

739. You have mentioned Frederick Jones; was William Greene there?—I don’t know him.

740. Was there a man there who went by the name of “Greene”?—Yes, I don’t know him; he was a stranger to me.

741. John Whitmore?—Yes, he was a stranger.

742. James Ireland?—Yes.

743. Cleaver you have mentioned?—Yes.

744. Henry Parker, Henry Freeman, Samuel Bunny?—I cannot swear he was there; I don’t believe he was there.

745. Herbert Farren?—You must mean Mr. Farren, he was there.

746. Do you happen to know his Christian name?—I will not swear to it, but I think it was “Herbert.” I always called him Mr. Farren.

747. Did you write anything on a piece of paper that night?—No.

748. Did you write anything for the purpose of being telegraphed?—No.

749. Did Freeman say anything about his writing for a Post Office Order for the railway tickets, as he did not like mentioning that in a telegram?—Not to my knowledge.

750. Have you ever said that he did?—Well, I am not aware of it.

751. Is that your signature (handing a paper to the Witness)?—It looks something like it; it looks a great deal like it.

752. What do you think?—I have not read it.

753. But you can read your signature?—I believe that is my name.

754. Will you swear that it is your handwriting?—I could not swear it was.

755. What do you think?—I couldn’t swear it was my writing; I do not think it is my writing, but my name is Samuel Smith.

756. Mr. Justice Willes.] Just look at it. It is a very good handwriting, and you need not be ashamed of it?—It is a great deal like it. There is a letter left out in this. I always put my name in full; this is not Smith. I always put my name in full; that is “S-m-i-h;” I always put a “t” to my name.

757. Mr. Henry James.] On your oath, do you believe that to be your signature or not?—I always put a “t” in Smith.

758. That is not an answer to my question. Upon your oath, do you believe that to be your signature or not?—Well, I don’t think it is.

759. That is your belief?—That is my firm opinion; it is not my writing, because I always write “Smith” in full. Upon my oath, I do not believe I wrote that.

760. Upon your oath, did you not sign those words in the presence of Mr. Kirby and the manager of your master’s works at Leicester?—No; I don’t believe I did for a moment.

761. Then you think it is a forgery?—I think it is a forgery.

762. Did you make a statement to Mr. Kirby?—Well, I had been out lushing and drinking all day—

763. You shall say all that afterwards. Did you make a statement to Mr. Kirby?—Yes, I did, and I was drunk.

764. Was what you said taken down?—I believe it was, to the best of my knowledge.

765. Who were present at the time it was taken down?—Mr. Kirby, and the manager where I work.

766. What is his name?—Wagstaff.

767. Is Mr. Wagstaff the manager?—Mr. Padmore is the manager.

768. Was he present?—No, he was not.

769. Were you yourself present when your statement was taken down?—Who was it? I forget now who it was, but I know it was somebody there.

770. You stated it was the manager of your employer’s works; what is the name of the manager of your employer’s works?—Richard Padmore; he was not there.

771. Who was the person that was there?—He was the foreman, Mr. Benjamin Bark.

772. Was he present?—Yes; he went with me and persuaded me to go.

773. Did you sign a paper in their presence?—Well, I would not swear that I did.

774. What is your belief?—I believe I did not.

775. To the best of your belief, you did not?—Yes.

776. Upon your oath, did you not sign that paper in the presence of Mr. Kirby and that person you have mentioned, Mr. Benjamin Bark?—I don’t think I could have signed it in that way; there is a letter left out.

777. That is not the question; did you or did you not sign this paper in the presence of Mr. Kirby and the manager, Mr. Benjamin Bark?—I believe I signed some paper; they made a pretence of reading it over to me, but it was no use for I was “inoculated.”

778. Why did you tell me then before that you did not sign the paper?—I do not believe I did.

779. Then why did you tell me that you did?—Well, I have a many beliefs.

780. Mr. Justice Willes.] How many?—Well, of course, it is a question for me. If he had asked me in a straightforward way, “Did you sign the paper?” I should have answered the question.

781. Suppose I ask you straightforwardly, Did you sign the paper?—I did sign a paper; but I do not know whether it was that paper, but you will understand that I was tolerably drunk at the time; I was out lushing, and I have signed a many papers since then.

782. Mr. Henry James.] There was a third person present?—Mr. Bark, Mr. Kirby, and me; that was the third person.

783. Upon your oath, was that the paper?—I would not attempt to swear that that was the paper; I would not swear it was or was not; I did not take any notice of it; it is a matter of indifference to me whether it is the paper or not.

784. Did you not at that interview tell those gentlemen that Freeman would write for a Post Office order for the railway tickets, as he did not like the idea of mentioning that in a telegram?—No.

785. Will you swear it?—I told him a many things.

786. Did you tell him that or not?—I might have done so; but is a man answerable for what he does when he is drunk; I might have told him so.

787. Was it true?—No; if I did so it was not true.

788. Assuming that you did so, do you swear that it is untrue?—I swear that it is untrue.

S. Smith.
16 February
1869.

789. Do you recollect saying it?—I do not.

790. But if you said it, it was untrue?—If I said it, it was untrue.

791. Did you know it to be untrue at the time you said it?—I had been kept like a gentleman in Lancashire for a length of time.

792. Did you state what you knew to be untrue in the hopes of getting something for it?—Yes.

793. Intentionally?—Yes.

794. For the purpose of misleading those gentlemen?—Yes.

795. That was your intention at the time?—Yes, as far as I was able to carry it out; I wish I could have done it a little better.

796. What for?—For the sake of getting more coin.

797. You wish you could have told more untruths?—Yes.

798. Was there anything said upon that occasion when you met Parker at the “Talbot” about your being made all right?—What do you mean by “all right?”

799. Never mind. Was there anything said about your being made all right?—Not in my hearing.

800. Will you swear that you never heard it?—I will swear that I never heard it; I might have heard it, but I do not think I heard it; I cannot recollect having heard it now.

801. Mr. Justice Willes.] Is it true that you do not understand what “all right means,” or that you might have heard the words “all right;” or do you swear that you did not hear the words “all right?”—I might have heard it and not recollect.

I shall not repeat my exhortation; it is thrown away upon you. You are determined to do all the harm you can to your friends.

802. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] Was there anything at all said upon that occasion about your being made all right?—Not to my knowledge.

803. Will you swear that?—I will swear that.

804. Have you ever said there was?—No.

805. Did you not tell Mr. Kirby; and was it not taken down that “there was a great talk about our being made right. I understood that the fare was to be paid and loss of time”?—No; I have no recollection of it. I might have told him so; but I have no recollection of having done so.

806. If you did so, was it true or untrue?—Untrue.

807. Was it arranged that you were to go again at eight o'clock on the Monday night?—Yes.

808. Was it told you by Freeman and Parker that they could not promise a sovereign, but that you should be all satisfied?—There was a general talk about whether we should be paid for our loss of time and expenses, and all that. We were wondering among ourselves whether we would be paid for it or not.

809. Was Parker in the room where you were talking?—He was in and out.

810. You were talking about it amongst yourselves?—Yes; to be paid for loss of time. Of course, it is a matter of expense to come over from there, and loss of work.

811. Did you attend there again on the Monday night at eight o'clock?—Yes; I did.

812. About how many persons were there on the Monday night?—Forty or fifty.

813. Was a copy of the register produced by any one?—Yes.

814. By whom?—I do not know who it was produced by; it was on the table when I went in.

815. Were your names called out from it?—No.

816. Were your names ticked off?—There was a list of who was on the register in Coventry on the table, and we gave our names in. Those who intended to vote gave their names in; we got a list of names.

817. You have not seen Frederick Clark to know him?—I do not know Frederick Clark.

818. Was a man named Burroughs there?—I think he was; I would not swear.

819. Was a man named Denny there?—Yes; but he is not a voter.

820. I know he is not; but you will see what became of him; was he there?—He was there, I believe, that Monday night; he was not there on the Saturday night, I am certain; I think he was there on the Monday night.

821. You say that you gave your names in; was it arranged that you should go over in a carriage next morning?—Oh, yes; it was arranged that we should have a conveyance to take us by road.

822. Where were you to meet?—We were to meet under what you call the “Crow Trees” at Leicester.

823. Is that in the Hinckley-road?—No, it is at the bottom of the Coventry-road.

824. Is that on the same road that leads to Hinckley?—Yes; you have to go to Hinckley to get to Coventry.

825. On the Monday night was there a discussion about the money you were to receive for your expenses and loss of time?—Yes, some of them spoke of a lot of money, and some of them spoke of a trifle.

826. Did not some say 1*l.*, others 30*s.*, and others 2*l.*?—Yes, and some five and some ten.

827. Was Parker present at that time?—Yes, he was there.

828. When this was said, what did Parker say?—Parker kept his mouth closed, and never said a word; I never heard him speak a word while I was there.

829. You never heard Parker nor Farren say a word about this?—Not that night; I seen them both there, because one sat on one side of the fireplace and the other on the other side, and I never heard them say a word about it. That is all I know about it, and a little more though.

830. What is the “little more”?—Well, I got drunk.

831. The next morning did you go to this meeting-place in the Hinckley-road?—Yes, I went with them in the conveyance. There was a gentleman lent it them, they said; I believe he was a gentleman; he was just like a gentleman, the footman was, and behaved in a very gentlemanly way; but I got a glass of brandy and water for him, and he would not have it, and so I think he was a gentleman.

832. Did Freeman give you any money?—No.

833. Is this true: “Freeman came to me and gave me 2*s.* 6*d.*, and told me to pay for drink at the first house we stopped at”?—That is not true.

834. Did

834. Did you state that to Mr. Kirby?—I might have done; but if I did, I do not know what I was doing, or it might have been to get some money out of him. I will take my oath he did not give me anything.

835. When you got near to Coventry, were you met near the new church at Foleshill by anyone?—Yes.

836. By whom?—Mr. Arthur Seager.

837. Did he give you anything?—Yes, he gave me a voting card, and I went and voted.

838. Did he give the others voting cards?—Yes.

839. You went and voted for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes.

840. After having voted, did you see a man named Thomas Eavs?—Yes; I went to his house and had a glass of brandy, and paid for it.

841. And you went, I believe, to the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

842. Which is kept by Thomas Eavs?—Yes.

843. Did you see some of the Coventry voters who had been there?—No.

844. None?—No, not one, nor half a one. There had not been one there when I went there.

845. But about half-past four, did you see Herbert Farren and Wagstaff and Ireland there?—I did not; they never was there. Mr. Farren and me went together there, and the others were not there.

846. "I went again about half-past four, and had some more. Herbert Farren, George Wagstaff, James Ireland, and some other persons were there, taking refreshments. I did not pay for anything." Is that true or not?—I will take my oath that they never went to the "Newdegate Arms."

847. Is that true or not?—No, it is not true. If you look again, you will see it is not true.

848. "I went again about half-past four and had some more. Herbert Farren, George Wagstaff, James Ireland, and some other persons were there, taking refreshments. I did not pay for anything?"—You do not say where that is. That is not the "Newdegate Arms."

849. Where is this?—Not the "Newdegate Arms," because I have never been in there with them.

850. Where is this?—I have no idea where it is. They never went there with me.

851. Where did you see these four persons?—I never saw them at all.

852. Where was it, if not the "Newdegate Arms"?—It might have been at Leicester. I have seen them at Leicester many times.

853. Did you know that it was the "Newdegate Arms" that I was referring to?—You said it was the "Newdegate Arms," and I said it was not there; I did not see them there.

854. Allow me to make my confession that you are right. "He took me to Podbury's, in Market-street, and told me to have what was wanted. I had a glass of ale and some beef and potatoes. No other person was there." Is that true?—No.

855. Did you go to Podbury's?—No.

856. Did you say that which I have read to you?—No.

857. Did you say to Mr. Kirby that Herbert Farren, George Wagstaff, Ireland, and some other persons, were anywhere?—Not to my knowledge I did not; I was drunk at the time.

858. We have your signature for that which shows how drunk you were. I believe you left about five o'clock in the evening?—Left where?

275.

859. Coventry?—No; I did not leave so early as that, because I was knocking about late.

860. What time was it when you left?—About ten o'clock, I should think.

861. And at what time did you get to Leicester?—I do not know; I never saw the time.

862. Upon the Wednesday, did you go to the "Talbot"?—Yes.

863. What time of the day was that?—I think it was dinner time.

864. About one o'clock?—Between one o'clock and two o'clock we had our dinner.

865. Was Henry Parker there?—Yes, I think he was, to the best of my knowledge; I believe he was there.

866. Cleaver?—No; Cleaver was at work; he was not there.

867. Samuel Bunny?—I think he was there.

868. George Wagstaff?—He was not there.

869. Will you swear that?—Yes.

870. William Green?—Green was there.

871. James Denny?—James Denny was there.

872. And Clark?—Yes, I believe he was.

873. What did you mean by telling me that you didn't know Clark, and now you swear that he was there?—I couldn't think of him, but he is a little hump-backed chap; I never spoke to him in my life.

874. Do you know a man who went by the name of Frederick Clark?—No, I do not; he goes by the name of "Humpy Clark," not "Frederick Clark"; I never heard the name before.

875. Mr. Justice Willes.] Mr. Clark or Clark?—"Humpy" Clark; he has got a hump on his back, and they call him "Humpy."

876. Mr. Henry James.] Did any of the persons present ask at all how they were going to be paid?—No, there was a talk about whether we should have anything for our loss of time.

877. Who mentioned that subject?—We all did.

878. Did you go there for the purpose of getting it?—Yes.

879. What caused you to go there for the purpose of getting it?—Because we had met there on the Saturday night and the Monday night.

880. How did you happen to be all there together at one o'clock on the Wednesday?—Because we were all at work till one; we went to make inquiries to see if there was to be any money allowed to us for loss of time.

881. To make inquiries from whom?—Anybody that came, expecting to see some one from Coventry, some alderman or something.

882. What made you expect to see an alderman from Coventry?—I expected they would come and pay them.

883. Was any alderman's name mentioned?—No.

884. What makes you fix upon an alderman?—Some big gentleman, some body high in the world.

885. What made you expect some big gentleman high in the world?—Well, we didn't think that they would trust it to a pauper.

886. Had anything ever been mentioned by any one about a gentleman high in the world?—I never heard it mentioned.

C

887. But

S. Smith.

S. Smith.

16 February
1869.

887. But you fixed upon an alderman?—Yes; that is the height of my ambition.

888. Was it you that happened to inquire for Mr. Henry Freeman?—I saw him there.

889. Did you go and search for him, and fetch him?—No.

890. Mr. Justice Willes.] Where did you see Freeman?—At the “Talbot” in Leicester.

891. Mr. Henry James.] Parker was there?—Yes, Parker was there; there was a lot of us; we were all there.

892. You had gone there to see whether you could get your money for loss of time; did you try to get it?—I wanted to know if I was going to be paid; they said we should have something sometime, but we do not know when.

893. From whom did you make the inquiry?—From the men that sat next.

894. Did you make that inquiry from Parker?—From Parker, and Freeman, and Bunny, and Cleaver, and a lot more.

895. Mr. Justice Willes.] This was after the election?—On the Wednesday.

896. Mr. Henry James.] You tell me you did make the inquiry from Parker?—No, I didn’t inquire from Parker more than anybody else.

897. But you did make it from Parker, Freeman, and two others?—Not from two others, Cleaver and Bunny; Parker, Cleaver, Freeman, and Bunny.

898. When you asked Parker for it, what did he say?—He said he had got no money, and he didn’t know anything about it; he said it would be all right sometime, but it didn’t come all right.

899. We have had an account of this conversation before; is this true: “Parker then said, he had got the money for all that voted in Bishop-street ward,” is that true?—Not to my knowledge, nor he never said it to me.

900. Will you swear he didn’t say it?—I will swear he did not to me.

901. Might he have said that in your hearing?—No.

902. Not to anyone in your hearing?—Not to anyone in my hearing.

903. Do you swear that?—I swear it.

904. “I asked him for money; he said he had got 15s. for each of us in that ward.” On your oath was that said?—No.

905. Not to anyone?—No.

906. To Mr. Kirby, in the presence of the manager whom you have mentioned, did you not say these words: “Parker said he had got the money for all who voted in Bishop-street Ward. I asked him for mine; he said he had got 15s. for each of us in that ward”?—I don’t think I did.

907. Will you swear that you did not say so, and sign it?—I don’t think I did.

908. Will you swear that you did not?—Yes.

Mr. James applied that Parker and Denny might be ordered out of Court.

Witness.] I have not seen Parker or Denny these three months since the election; they have been kept out of the way; they have been keeping me out of the road; I have never had any chance of seeing either of them.

909. Mr. Huddleston.] Who have been keeping you out of the road?—The Radicals.

910. Mr. Justice Willes.] Are you quite sure of that?—Yes, I have witnesses to prove it. They have sent me 25s. a week.

911. Mr. Henry James.] Did you not state that if you remained at Leicester your wages were 25s. a week?—No.

912. How much were they?—A guinea.

913. Is this true: did he pay Clark, Cleaver, and yourself 15s. each?—He did not pay me. I do not know whether he paid them.

914. Did you vote in the Bishop-street Ward?—I voted in Hales-street.

915. Is that the Bishop-street Ward?—Yes, it is the Bishop-street Ward.

916. Is this true, that Parker paid Clark and Cleaver and you 15s. each?—He did not pay me; I don’t know what he paid them.

917. Did you see him give any money to anyone?—No; he never had any money; he was always as poor as death.

918. That was before the election?—And he is now; he was the last time I saw him, whenever that was; a week after the election.

919. Did you say it was shabby?—Say what was shabby.

920. Did you say that night or that day, at the “Talbot,” that it was shabby?—Well, I might have done; but I think it was shabby. I think they ought to have paid our expenses for the loss of time, because working people cannot afford to lose their time and come away from one town to another to vote.

921. What do you mean by “shabby”?—They ought to have allowed us something, I think, for the loss of time. I caught a very severe cold and teeth-ache from riding in an open conveyance at night.

922. Did you say to Mr. Kirby, on the occasion when you made your statement, “he paid Clark, Cleaver, and myself, 15s. each. I said it was shabby, it would not satisfy me; I expected a sovereign. He said if that did not satisfy us he would write to Mr. Hutt, senior, who had told him to do so, and he would send an extra 5s. for us each”?—I might have said some of it; I will not swear, but if I did it was untrue; I might have said that and a lot more, but if I did it was untrue. I did make a statement to Mr. Kirby, but I was under the influence of liquor at the time.

923. But this looks pretty coherent?—I did not write that, you will understand.

924. But you might have, you say?—I didn’t write it.

925. Did you or did you not, to the best of your recollection and belief, say it?—Well I have some faint recollection of telling some tales for the purpose of getting sent out of the way for a week or two.

926. Which tales you knew were untrue?—Decidedly.

927. “Parker said we should be sure to have it; I certainly should not have gone up to vote at the loss of a day’s labour, unless I understood that this would be paid for.” Did you say that to Mr. Kirby?—I might have said it, but I would have walked my legs off to come to them, but I should have expected some money.

928. By whom did you expect to be paid for your loss of time?—I should expect the Conservative party to pay me.

929. How long did you remain in Leicester after the election?—I think I went away the last last week before the election to Bury, to Mr. Streightley's, the manager's father.

930. At that time had you seen Parker?—I never saw an individual I knew till Mr. Fox, Mr. Kirby's clerk, came and served me with a subpoena.

931. Before you left?—Yes, I saw him there.

932. How many times did you apply to Parker for your money?—Every time I saw him I dunned him for it, both him and Freeman.

933. For how much?—I did not care how much, but I could not get hold of anything; they would not loose.

934. When did you give the information to Mr. Kirby?—On Saturday night. They came over at about one or two o'clock.

935. And in the presence of your master's manager you made a statement?—They promised to give me plenty of work if I would make a statement.

936. Had you been at work that morning?—Yes; oh, yes.

937. Had you been at work then whilst you were drunk?—This was at night after dark.

938. Had you been at work in the afternoon?—No, I had been drinking all the afternoon.

939. Who gave you the drink that you say made you drunk?—Our manager paid for some and I paid for some.

940. You have been at Bury since?—Yes.

941. How much did you receive a week?—Twenty-five shillings a week, and a little more perhaps; that is what has been sent me.

942. Did you not state that that was what you could earn if you remained at your work?—I could earn more if I was to work.

943. You have been in communication with different persons on the Conservative side?—Yes I have; I wrote as soon as I got there.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

944. Who was the person who you say came to you to ask you to give evidence, and got you to make a statement and say you were drunk?—They were applying to me every hour in the day where I worked, my master and the foreman.

945. Who was your master?—Mr. Archibald Turner, at Leicester.

946. What was he?—He was a red hot Radical.

947. What did this red hot Radical come to you about?—He wanted to know how we had been going on, and he was at me ding-dong from morning till night, first one and then another.

948. Who were the other persons?—The master's brother; they call him the manager and the foreman.

949. Is he a red hot Radical too?—Yes, they are all alike there; I did not have a minute's rest with them.

950. Did they give you any money?—They made a promise that I should have something handsome when it was all over.

951. Did they give you any drink?—Well if a glass of ale would be any drink I might have had that, but that would be about the extent. They would not part; they would not give us any more.

952. Where did you give your statement to Mr. Kirby?—At Mr. George Streightley's establishment in Leicester.

953. Then how did they make you drunk before you made that statement?—Why I went to a public-house opposite to where I work; me and the foreman went there and got drinking, and he persuaded me up.

954. Who persuaded you?—The foreman.

955. Mr. Streightley's foreman?—No, where I worked at; and I personated a man there, as they told me at the time; I don't believe I had, but they threatened to have a warrant out against me, and I should have lost my work and been thrown out of my employment.

956. What were you to do if you were not to have a warrant against you?—I was to be kept well and live in clover.

957. Who told you that?—The Liberals.

958. About those Liberals; they said they would have you up and prosecute you for personation if you did not do what?—If I did not acknowledge I had done something desperate.

959. And if you did acknowledge that you had done something desperate you were to live in clover?—Yes; they were to pay for it, and I was to live in clover.

960. And that was the inducement for you to make a statement which you say is not true?—Most decidedly, and nothing else.

961. Now where was the clover that they took you to live in?—In Bury, in Lancashire.

962. Were you ever at Bury before?—Never in my life before.

963. What took you to Bury?—They took me there.

964. Who?—The Liberals.

965. The dark blues?—The dark blues.

966. Just give me the name of those dark deeds, dark blues I mean?—Yes, Mr. Zachariah Binley; he was a farmer; he used to be a chemist in Coventry.

967. Is he a dark blue?—He is a thorough going dark blue.

968. Is he a red hot Radical?—A thorough going red hot Radical; he came over to Leicester on the Sunday night; he had been running after me all day and I did not get home till late at night, and he was there waiting for me, and he said, "It's all right Smith, come along with me; I will see you all right. We will allow you plenty of money and more than you can get if you will go and keep out of the road."

969. And where did they take you to keep out of the road?—To this place, Bury, in Lancashire.

970. Who took you there?—Why, Mr. Streightley's manager.

971. What became of Zachariah?—He went to bed; I went off by train.

972. Zachariah went to bed; did Mr. Streightley's manager go with you?—Yes, he took me to Bury, in Lancashire, to his father's.

973. Mr. Streightley seems to be everywhere; he is at Leicester, and he is at Bury; what is he at Bury?—He is nothing there; only a post office order used to come every week with his name on.

974. Where did they take you to at Bury?—At Mr. Streightley's manager's father's; he is in business there as a hat manufacturer.

975. Did you do any work there?—Oh, no.

976. When did they take you to Bury to live in clover?—Directly the election was over, and they only brought me back last night. It would be about the latter end of November.

977. Who brought you back last night?—Mr. Lingard, from Bury.

978. Is that Mr. Streightley's manager's father?

S. Smith.

ther?—Yes; he is in business there. They sent two letters and a telegram, that he was to be sure and see me safe here.

979. Have you been living in what you call "clover" ever since?—Yes, ever since that.

980. And had a post office order?—Yes, every week.

981. From whom?—From Mr. Streightley.

982. Were you doing no work?—No work whatever.

983. And what was the post office order for?—Twenty-five shillings, and more when I wanted it.

984. Where did you live at Bury?—I lived at this hat shop; a large shop in the principal street of Bury.

985. At this Mr. Streightley's manager's father's?—Yes.

986. And you had your food besides?—Yes; oh, yes; and a nice comfortable place it was too.

987. You had your food, and lived in the house, and had 25 s. a-week?—Yes.

988. All the time you were there?—Yes.

989. Mr. Justice Willes.] How long were you at Bury?—I think it is about eleven weeks; close on three months.

990. When did you leave it?—Yesterday morning at 20 minutes to 10 o'clock. I went to Manchester, and I booked from Manchester to Nuneaton at 25 minutes to 11; I could not get on to Nuneaton in time, so I booked again by the London and North Western line from Leicester to Coventry.

991. Nuneaton is a long way from Leicester?—It is 18 miles.

992. Then you went to Leicester?—I stopped at Leicester.

993. What time did you get there?—At four o'clock.

994. At what time did you leave Leicester?—At half-past six o'clock.

995. Where did you get to next?—To Coventry. I was to be changed carriage at Nuneaton, and then there was a gentleman waiting at the station, and eight or ten roughs to see me safe.

996. At what station?—At the Coventry station.

997. From Leicester?—Yes.

998. At what hour did you get to Coventry?—At eight o'clock.

999. At eight o'clock in the evening?—Yes. Then I went to Mr. Hatton's at the "Red Lion."

1000. What time did you get there?—I should think five or ten minutes past eight o'clock.

1001. How long did you stay at the "Red Lion"?—Till I could get out; about five minutes; I slipped out as soon as I could get a chance.

1002. Where did you go then?—I went in and seed a man with a large overcoat, as I didn't know.

1003. As you came out of the "Red Lion"?—Yes.

1004. What sort of an overcoat had he on?—A large black overcoat.

1005. Where did you go to next?—He put me into a cab, and sent me off to a place to sleep.

1006. How far from the "Red Lion" was the cab?—Well, it was about five minutes' walk, I should say; about a quarter of a mile.

1007. Did the man tell you his name?—I did not inquire his name; I knew it was all right; I think his name was Johnson; I would not swear that it was Johnson.

1008. What is he?—He told me that there was a bed provided for me.

1009. You have your wits about you, and you are not drunk now, and I warn you as a sober man to mind my words, and to answer my questions, both in respect of yourself and of everybody else who has anything to do with this transaction. What is the man that put you in the cab?—A weaver, I believe.

1010. Give me his name?—It is either Jackson, Williams, or Williamson.

1011. Was that the man with the great coat on?—Yes.

1012. Were you drunk when you got into the cab?—Yes, I was drunk when I arrived in Coventry.

1013. Where did you get drunk?—I called at Leicester and Derby, and had a glass or two there, and I had a pint of rum to start with.

1014. Where did you get drunk?—On the road, coming along.

1015. What places on the road?—I brought a pint of rum with me from Manchester, and I had several glasses before I started in the morning. I think that is enough to make anybody drunk.

1016. You were drunk when you got into the cab?—I was.

1017. When did the man tell you his name was Jackson, or Williams, or Williamson?—I knew him by sight.

1018. And you said just now you did not know him?—I don't know him thoroughly, but I know him by sight; I don't know him, but I believe his name is either Jackson, Williams, or Williamson. I have some slight knowledge of him, but I don't know the man.

1019. You got into the cab; where did the cab go to?—It went to a private house up the London-road.

1020. How far from where you got into it?—I should think about two miles, as far as I could guess.

1021. What sized house?—It was about a two-storey house, a very small house; I daresay three shillings or four shillings a week the rent would be.

1022. Could you find it again if taken there by a policeman?—Yes, I could take a policeman to it.

1023. Whose house was it?—I don't know the man's name. I knew him by sight, but I don't know what his name is.

1024. What is he?—A weaver, I believe; I am not certain whether he might be a watchmaker; I don't know what he is.

1025. What is his name?—I don't know what his name is, but I know where he lives.

1026. Did he tell you his name?—I did not ask him.

1027. Did he tell you his name?—No, he did not.

1028. What did you do when you got to that house?—I went to bed.

1029. At what hour was that?—I think it would be about nine o'clock.

1030. How long did you stay in bed?—Till about eight or nine o'clock this morning.

1031. When you got up what did you do?—I went to Mr. Kirkpatrick's, at the "Pitt's Head."

1032. What is he?—A licensed victualler.

1033. What is his house?—The "Pitt's Head."

1034. At what hour did you get there?—I have have not seen a clock this morning, so I could not say what o'clock it was.

1035. How long did you stay there?—I might have stayed there half-an-hour, or perhaps an hour, and then I was wanted here, and so I came here.

1036. At what time of the day did you arrive here?—I had been here about a couple of hours, I think, before I showed up here.

1037. Why were you not here at 10 o'clock?—They told me that the counsellors would be opening the case, and all that, and I should not be required.

1038. Why were you not here at past 11 o'clock, when the counsel had done the opening of the case?—It might be half-past 11 or 12 o'clock when I came. I made the best of my way here.

1039. Are you willing now to go with a policeman and point out the house where you slept?—Yes.

Mr. Justice Willes directed Serjeant Sheasby to accompany the witness to ascertain particulars regarding the house where he had slept.

[The Witness withdrew.

JAMES DENNY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

1040. WERE you a voter for the last election for this city?—No, not a voter.

1041. Were you at the last election?—In Coventry.

1042. Were you a voter at the last election?—I did vote.

1043. In what name did you vote?—William Denny.

1044. And what is your name?—James Denny.

1045. Have you a brother of the name of William Denny?—Yes.

1046. Where was your brother?—In Liverpool.

1047. Did you intentionally vote in his name and personate him?—I wrote a letter to him, and he said he could not come, and he said I might vote for him.

1048. Did you give your name in at the polling booth as "William Denny"?—Yes.

1049. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Hill and Eaton.

1050. At the time of the last election where were you residing?—In Leicester.

1051. What were you by business?—A scarf weaver.

1052. Were you in Coventry on the nomination day?—Yes.

1053. On the Monday?—Yes.

1054. Did you see Mr. James Kilbey?—No.

1055. Not at all?—I do not know him.

1056. Do you know Mr. Kilbey?—No, I do not know him.

1057. I mean a baker in Bishop's-street?—I know his shop, but I do not know the gentleman.

1058. Did you see him at all?—I did not.

1059. Were you at the "Talbot" on Monday night?—Yes.

1060. Who were present?—Oh, there were 30 or 40, I daresay.

1061. Were those Coventry voters?—Most of them.

1062. Was Parker there?—Yes, he might be.

1063. You know whether he was or not?—I could not say that he was.

1064. But you know Henry Parker?—I do know Henry Parker.

1065. What is he?—He is a weaver.

1066. How long have you known him?—Ever since the election.

1067. Not before?—Not before.

1068. When did you make his acquaintance?—On the Sunday night before the election.

275.

1069. Where did you see Parker on the Sunday night before the election?—I met him in High-street, Leicester.

1070. What did he say to you?—He said, "How do you do?" I said, "How do you do, Mr. Parker."

1071. Then you knew him before?—No, another man was with him, and said he was Mr. Parker.

1072. Who told you to come to the "Talbot" on the Monday?—Parker says, "Will you come down;" and I said, "Yes, I will come."

1073. Was Parker there?—I cannot tell.

1074. What is your belief as to whether he was there?—I did not see Parker there that I know of.

1075. But you did know Parker?—I know him, but I did not know he was there.

1076. What is your belief?—I could not tell whether he was there or not.

1077. Was Freeman there?—Yes, Mr. Freeman was there.

1078. Was a man named Frederick Clark there?—Yes, he was.

1079. Was a man named Samuel Smith there?—Yes.

1080. The man who has just gone out of the box?—I have not seen him since the polling-day; I do not know whether he has been in the box or not.

1081. For what purpose did you go there?—I went to see how many voters there were coming to Coventry.

1082. Was any list read out?—No.

1083. Were your names called out?—No.

1084. You did not answer to your name?—No.

1085. Nor hear anyone?—No, I did not.

1086. In your presence was anything at all said about your being paid for your loss of time, and having that made good to you, and that it should be all right?—No.

1087. You swear that?—I swear that, upon my oath.

1088. You never heard any general talk about that in the presence of Clark and Samuel Smith?—I did not.

1089. You never heard one word of that said?—No, I did not.

1090. By anyone?—No.

1091. Was there anything said about your being made satisfied?—Not in my hearing.

1092. Were there any persons talking together in a low tone?—No, it was all one amongst another, drinking and joking.

1093. And not a word was said about being made made satisfied for the loss of time?—Not in my hearing.

1094. You have told us that you voted in your brother's name?—Yes, I did.

1095. Whom did you see after you had voted; did you see Mr. Kilbey?—No, I told you before that I did not know Mr. Kilbey.

1096. On the next day, or at any time after that, did you come over to Coventry with Clark?—Yes.

1097. What for?—To see the county election.

1098. Was that the only object of your visit?—Yes; I did not go to work that week.

1099. Did you go anywhere in company with Clark?—I went to Kilbey.

1100. Who did you see?—I bought a penny loaf and some bread and cheese; I did not go to see Mr. Kilbey.

1101. Upon your oath, coming over from Leicester, did you go to Kilbey's only for the purpose of buying that loaf?—Yes, and then we had a pint of ale and some bread and cheese.

1102. Did you ask to see Kilbey?—I did not; I never saw the man in my life.

1103. Did you see anybody at Kilbey's?—Only a shopman.

1104. You represent that you went to Kilbey's by accident?—No accident.

1105. You went for the purpose of only getting a loaf?—Yes, I never knew the man in my life.

1106. Did you tell Clark that you could not get any money?—No.

1107. Did you tell Clark that Kilbey had told you that 40 l. had been sent to Parker, at Leicester, and you ought to be paid for that?—I did not.

1108. Did you go to Mr. Seymour's office?—Yes.

1109. Had you any note with you?—No.

1110. Any paper?—Oh, no.

1111. No writing?—No.

1112. Why did you go to Mr. Seymour's office?—I went with Clark.

1113. But what did you go for?—I had no business with Mr. Seymour; it was Clark that went.

1114. But who went in and saw Mr. Seymour?—Clark.

1115. Where were you?—I was outside, in the clerk's room.

1116. Did Frederick Clark tell you that he wanted to see Mr. Seymour?—Yes, he did.

1117. Did you know that Mr. Seymour was an attorney?—Yes.

1118. Did you know that he was agent for Eaton and Hill?—I do not know anything at all about agents; I knowd he was an attorney.

1119. And that he was on the same side with the Conservatives?—Yes, I am aware of that.

1120. What did Clark say to you; did he say "I am going to Mr. Seymour's"?—Yes, he said that.

1121. Did you ask him what for?—Yes, I did.

1122. What did he say?—"To see if I cannot have some money."

1123. What for?—For his vote, I suppose.

1124. Was that after you had been at Kilbey's?—Yes, after I had had the penny loaf.

1125. You keep putting that down my throat; did you and Clark go direct from Kilbey's to Seymour's?—Yes, after having the bread and cheese.

1126. Where was it that Clark said he would go to Seymour's?—Coming along Butcher's row.

1127. You had come over with Clark?—Yes, that morning.

1128. And you had to come over on the voting day with him?—Yes.

1129. Then you went to Mr. Seymour's?—Yes.

1130. Do you state upon your oath that Clark went in?—Yes.

1131. And saw Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

Mr. Henry James stated that Mr. Seymour was an agent of the sitting Members for election expenses.

1132. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] How long was Clark in at Mr. Seymour's?—I think about ten minutes.

1133. Did you stop out in the clerk's office?—Yes.

1134. Were there any clerks in the office?—One.

1135. Did you speak to him?—Yes, I said, "How do you do?" He was a school-mate of mine.

1136. Then he would know whether it was Clark or you that went in and saw Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

1137. When Clark came out what did he say to you?—He told me he had not got any money.

1138. Did he tell you that he had asked Mr. Seymour for some?—Yes.

1139. Where did you go to next?—We walked about for half-an-hour.

1140. Did you tell Clark that Kilbey had given you 5 s.?—No.

1141. You never said so to him?—I never said so to him.

1142. How long have you known Clark?—Twelve years we were playfellows together.

1143. Did you tell Clark to try and get you some money from Mr. Seymour?—No.

1144. Why should Clark have it and you not?—I did not want any money.

1145. When did you go back to Coventry?—I was in Coventry then.

1146. I beg your pardon; to Leicester?—On the Sunday night.

1147. Between the election and the Friday, had you been to the "Talbot" again?—Yes.

1148. When was that?—On the Wednesday after the election.

1149. At what time?—From 12 o'clock to two o'clock I was there.

1150. Was Samuel Smith there?—Yes.

1151. Was Parker there?—Yes.

1152. Was Frederick Clark there?—Yes, he was.

1153. Who else?—Four or five. There might be six or seven, or eight or nine.

1154. Of the voters who had gone to Coventry on the Tuesday?—Most of them; some other voters.

1155. Was Cleaver there?—Not in my presence.

1156. George Wagstaff was?—Not that I know of.

1157. You do not know him?—I know the man, and worked on the next loom to him, but I do not know that he was there.

1158. Do you know that he lost a child?—Ido.

1159. Was anything said about money on that occasion?—No.

1160. On your oath?—On my oath.

1161. Did

1161. Did Parker say he had not money to pay it?—I never heard him.

1162. You were there between 12 o'clock and two o'clock?—Yes.

1163. And not one word was said?—Not that I heard.

1164. Did Parker say anything about the Bishop-street ward voters?—Not in my hearing.

1165. And you mean to say that in your presence, and that of Frederick Clark and Samuel Smith, not one word was said about your being paid or you being satisfied?—Not in my hearing.

1166. I presume you are well aware that Parker gave you no money?—I will swear that no man gave me no money.

1167. Henry Parker has given you no sum of 15 s., or any sum at all?—No sum at all.

1168. You had never a farthing from Parker in your life?—No money from anyone in my life, except the 5 s. on the subpoena.

1169. And you saw Henry Parker give no money to any man?—I never saw him.

1170. Did you see him shut his hand in any one else's, and did you see them putting their hands in their pockets?—No.

1171. Was anything said about Wagstaff having lost his child?—They said it was a bad job he had lost his child.

1172. And nothing was said about 15 s. to you nor in your hearing?—Not in my hearing.

1173. And was never uttered by you?—Never uttered by me.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

1174. Has Mr. Streightley been to you?—Yes.

1175. Where do you live?—At Leicester.

1176. What has Mr. Streightley been to you about?—He has been to persuade me to come to see Mr. Kirby at Coventry several times.

1177. Did he give you anything to drink?—No.

1178. Did he give you any money?—No.

1179. Did you get any money from him?—No.

1180. He saw you at Leicester?—Yes; he sent for me to his shop.

1181. Did you see a man of the name of Bulling?—Not to my knowledge; there was his shopman came, and I did not know what his name was.

1182. You say that this suggestion about money being offered to any of them is positively untrue?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

1183. You say you were at Coventry on the nomination day?—Yes.

1184. Did you come back with anyone?—I came back by the train at night.

1185. Did you see one of Mr. Eaton's sons there that night?—I saw him at the Coventry station; I never saw him afterwards.

1186. You never saw him at the Leicester station?—No, I did not.

1187. Nor in Leicester?—Nor in Leicester.

1188. Mr. Justice Willes.] I cannot quite make out how you got over from Leicester to Coventry on the polling-day?—We came over in a van.

1189. Was Parker in the van?—Yes, he was.

1190. And Clark?—Yes.

275.

1191. What made you come over?—I told you I came over on purpose to vote for my brother, and I went down to my mother's, and a card was left for my brother; I sent him word he was on the register, and he said he could not come, and that I might vote for him..

1192. Where was he living?—At Liverpool.

1193. Had he left Coventry?—He has not voted ever since he has been a freeman.

1194. When did he become a freeman?—Some years ago; maybe eight years ago.

1195. Has he lived in Liverpool ever since?—He has lived in Liverpool ever since.

1196. Is he upon the register although he has lived at Liverpool for seven years?—He is.

1197. What business had he to vote?—He never had voted at Coventry.

1198. How came you to allow yourself to commit the double fraud of representing as a voter a man who had no vote?—I did not know that I was doing any harm; he sent to me to say he could not come over, and said I might vote for him.

1199. Can you read?—I cannot.

1200. Nor write?—No.

1201. Do you think it no harm to tell a lie?—Well, I think it is harm to tell a lie.

1202. Were not you telling a lie when you went up to the poll and represented yourself to be your brother?—Had there been an objection to me I should not have polled.

1203. But people who do not know that they are speaking to a false man cannot object. You say you came over from Leicester to oblige your brother; what were your expenses of coming over and returning?—There was no expense, only what attached to myself.

1204. That is not the question. What did it cost you to come over from Leicester to Coventry and to return?—It might cost three or four shillings, or four or five shillings.

1205. Were you at work at the time?—Yes.

1206. Did you lose your day's work?—Not that day; we were all knocked off in Leicester, being election day.

1207. Did they allow you to go?—That day we all gave over before the election in Leicester.

1208. Did your master allow you to go?—Yes; he gave us a whole day's holiday.

1209. Who is your master?—Mr. Barrington.

1210. What is his business?—A worsted scarf manufacturer.

1211. He let his men go that day?—Yes, he did.

1212. But did he let everybody go, voters or non-voters?—He let them all.

1213. Were you a voter for Leicester?—No.

1214. Did he let all the men go?—Yes; all had a day's holiday throughout the place.

1215. You spent three or four shillings?—Yes, four or five shillings.

1216. Who repaid it to you?—Nobody.

1217. Did your brother pay it to you?—No.

1218. Did you spend four or five shillings for no object except to tell the lie that you were your brother, and the additional lie that your brother had a vote?—Well, that was because I came here to vote.

1219. And you never expect to get the money repaid?—No.

1220. You would not take it if it were offered you?—No.

1221. Your principles are such that you would

J. Denny.

16 February
1869.

J. Denny. not even be repaid the expenses you were at in telling a lie in favour of somebody else?—
 16 February No.
 1869. 1222. Mr. Henry James (through the Court).] On the Monday morning before the nomination day did you receive a post-office order for 5*l.* from Coventry from anyone?—No.
 1223. Nor said you did?—Nor said I did.
 1224. Mr. Justice Willes.] Did you get into this vehicle on the Hinckley road?—Yes.
 1225. Who told you that it was to be there?—There were two or three told me; that was at the meeting on the night; I came away before the meeting was over.

1226. Was that at the “Talbot”?—Yes.

1227. Was Parker by at the time?—Yes, Parker might be.

1228. But was he?—Yes, he was at the “Talbot.”

1229. It was dark when you got into it?—Yes, it was just getting the break of day; they were just putting the lamps out at half-past six.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Henry Parker was called, but did not appear.

THEOPHILUS FOX, recalled; further Examined by Mr. Henry James.

T. Fox. 1230. Did you serve Henry Parker with a copy of the subpoena which you hold in your hand?—Yes.
 1231. When was that?—On the 5th of February.
 1232. Where?—At Leicester.
 1233. What did you give him?—Five shillings.
 1234. When did you see him last?—I saw him this morning.
 1235. Where did you see him?—At the “Golden Cross.”
 1236. Did you request the witnesses there to attend at the court?—Yes.
 1237. What did they say?—The majority refused to attend, but they said when they were called for they would answer. They would not attend.
 1238. How long is it since you were at the “Golden Cross”?—It was at 11 o'clock; and then I certainly saw them at the “White Horse,” and I asked them how they came to change their place.

1239. Had you sent anybody to the “Golden Cross” to look after him?—No; I requested all of them to come into the room this morning, but they refused.

1240. Did you serve that notice of what they would subject themselves to if they refused?—After I requested them to come, they said they should not be outside. They said they should be in the “White Horse.” They first told me the “White Horse,” and they afterwards went to the “Golden Cross.” They refused to come with me; they would not come with me. They are adverse witnesses.

1241. If I were an attorney's clerk (which in many respects would be a more pleasing position to me than my present position), I should have done much more than you did to get those witnesses here; and you must go and do it now.

[The Witness withdrew.]

SAMUEL LORD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

S. Lord. 1242. ARE you a Freeman of Coventry?—Yes.
 1243. Where do you live?—In Birmingham.
 1244. Where in Birmingham?—In Preston-street.
 1245. Did you vote at the last election for Coventry?—Yes.
 1246. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Hill.
 1247. Were you living at Birmingham at the time?—Yes.
 1248. Before you went to vote for Eaton and Hill, did you receive any circular about your vote?—Well I did receive a kind of circular; it was merely a voting card.
 1249. Have you the card here?—No, I have not; I thought there was no necessity.
 1250. What have you done with it?—I have thrown it away; but it was only to solicit my vote.
 1251. Was any name signed to the card?—Well, I don't remember that there was any name whatsoever attached to the card.
 1252. Do you remember the name of Plummer?—

Mr. Huddleston objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Willes over-ruled the objection.

1253. Mr. Chandos Leigh (to the Witness).] Do you remember the name of Plummer on the card? I almost think there was the name of Plummer attached to the card.

1254. How long before the election was that?—It was only a day or two before.

1255. After receiving that card, did you go anywhere in Birmingham to a public-house?—Well, I never went anywhere at all to any public-house till the Monday night.

1256. Do you know a place called “Spital's”?—Yes; I went to “Spital's” on Monday night.

1257. Is “Spital's” a public-house?—It is.

1258. Then you went on Monday to “Spital's,” a public-house in Birmingham?—Yes.

1259. By whom is the house kept?—I believe it is kept by Spital.

1260. It is a public-house in Birmingham, kept by Spital; who did you see when you got to the public-house?—Well, I see Mr. Gwynn and Mr. Barnacle.

1261. Is Mr. Gwynn a Coventry voter?—Yes, I believe he is; I don't know; I expect he is.

1262. Did you see any other man that you knew to be a Coventry voter there?—No, I did not see anyone else.

1263. Do you know a man called Rose?—He came in after.

1264. But

S. Lord.

16 February
1869.

1264. But was Rose there while you were there?—Yes; he came in after.

1265. Then there were Rose, and Gwynn, and yourself there?—Yes.

1266. Do you know a man called Barnacle?—Yes; he was there; this Barnacle was there when I got there.

1267. Did you speak to Barnacle at Spital's?—Yes, I think I did speak to him.

1268. What did you say to Barnacle?—I asked Barnacle, I think, how he was going on; and I asked him where a man named Suddens was; I says, "Where is Mr. Suddens?"

1269. Is that a man called "Jemmy Suddens"?—Yes.

1270. Did Barnacle say anything to you upon that?—No more than that he is not here.

1271. Did you hear Barnacle say, "Cannot I do as well"?—

Mr. Huddleston objected to this line of examination.

Mr. Justice Willes over-ruled the objection.

1272. Mr. Chandos Leigh (to the Witness).—Did not Barnacle say these words, "Shall not I do as well"?—Yes, he said something to that effect.

1273. Was there any talk there about the Coventry election?—I do not think there was any talk at all in the place.

1274. But you say you met Barnacle there, and you met Rose there, and that you met another man there called Gwynn?—Yes.

1275. Did you have any talk at Spital's about going to Coventry the next day?—I had no talk much.

1276. Did you hear it mentioned that the Coventry election would be going on the next day?—Yes. I heard that the Coventry election would be going on, because I received a card, as I stated.

1277. Did you and Rose and Gwynn agree to go with Barnacle to Coventry the next day?—No, we did not agree to go with Barnacle the next day. We agreed that we would meet at Spital's, and all go together.

1278. On the following morning?—Yes.

1279. Was a man named Makepeace there?—Yes.

1280. Is he William Makepeace, a voter for Coventry?—I don't know that; I cannot say.

1281. Did you go there the following morning?—Yes, I went there the following morning.

1282. Whom did you meet there?—I met Barnacle there.

1283. Did you meet Makepeace there?—Makepeace was just going out as I got in.

1284. Rose?—He was not there.

1285. Gwynn?—No, he was not there.

1286. Did you go to Coventry?—Yes, I went to Coventry.

1287. How did you go?—I went by rail.

1288. Who went with you?—Me and Rose and Gwynn and Makepeace.

1289. Did Barnacle go with you?—No.

1290. Who paid your fare to Coventry?—Well, Barnacle gave me 1s. 6½d. to go with. He said he was rather short, he could not afford any more.

1291. Was that all he said, that he was rather short?—Yes, he said he was very short.

275.

1292. Where did he say that?—He said that when he gave it me.

1293. Where was it that he gave you the 1s. 6½d.?—In the street.

1294. At the station?—Walking down Queen-street towards the station.

1295. Did you see him give anything to Makepeace, or to Rose, or to Gwynn?—No.

1296. That 1s. 6½d. is all you saw given?—That is all I saw given.

1297. Did you pay for your ticket out of that 1s. 6½d.?—Yes, that was just what it was taken for. I came third class.

1298. You came third class, and it cost you 1s. 6½d.?—Yes.

1299. When you took your ticket with that 1s. 6½d., had you any money of your own?—Well, I had no money at all, or else I should not have taken it. I had no money to come to vote, and I wanted to come on very particular business, or else I should not have taken it.

1300. When you got to Coventry where did you go to?—Well, we went as far as St. John's Church, and then we went to the committee rooms.

1301. What committee-rooms?—In Bond-street.

1302. Eaton and Hill's committee-rooms in Bond-street?—Yes.

1303. Did you see anybody there that you knew?—Well, I don't remember seeing anybody there I knew.

1304. Did you get any polling cards?—Yes.

1305. Did Makepeace and Gwynn and the other man, Rose, get polling cards there as well?—Me and Mr. Rose got voting cards before Gwynn and Makepeace went there.

1306. Who gave you the polling cards?—That I cannot tell; it was a young man in the committee-rooms. I could not tell you who he was.

1307. Did you go and vote?—Yes, we went and voted there.

1308. Where did you go after you had voted?—We went back to the committee-room.

1309. Did you go anywhere after you had been to the committee-room?—We walked about a bit.

1310. Do you know a man called Jackson?—Yes, I have heard speak of his name. That is all I know of him.

1311. Did you see Jackson in the committee-room?—We see a gentleman as they said his name was Jackson.

1312. In the committee-room?—Yes, in the committee-room.

1313. Did you go anywhere with Jackson?—No, I don't know as I went anywhere with him.

1314. Did you go to the "Newdegate Arms" at all?—Yes, we went to the "Newdegate Arms."

1315. Did you go with Jackson to the "Newdegate Arms"?—I went with Jackson to the "Newdegate Arms" after we had voted.

1316. You say, that after you had voted you went to the committee-rooms and saw Jackson there, and then you went with Jackson to the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

1317. Did you get anything after you had been to the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

1318. What?—I had a glass of liquor to drink with him, and a cigar

D

1319. Did

S. Lord.
1869.

1319. Did you get anything besides drink?—He gave me 10s., and told me to get a bit of summat, to eat, and to get back to Birmingham as soon as I could, for he said he could not give me any more; he said there was no money allowed on electioneering on these occasions. "I don't suppose you will get anything; it is out of my own pocket."

1320 Mr. Justice Willes. What was the meaning of its being never allowed?—Of course that is best known to himself.

1321. You said something about that?—He said, "There is nothing allowed on this occasion."

1322. Mr. Chandos Leigh. Where was it that he gave you the 10s.?—It was at the "Newdegate Arms."

1323. Is that kept by Thomas Eves?—I believe it is.

1324. Is it the Tory house?—Well, it is always reckoned as such.

1325. Do you know Jackson's Christian name?—No, I didn't know that it was Jackson, any more than I heard somebody say that.

1326. You told us that his name was Jackson just now, and that you received 10s. from Jackson?—I said I did not know any more than that his name was Jackson.

1327. Had you known him before?—I did not know him before.

1328. Have you ever seen him since?—I have never seen him since.

1329. Did you see him for the first time in Eaton and Hill's committee-rooms?—Yes; that is the first time I seen him to my knowledge.

1330. What was Jackson doing in the committee rooms when you first saw him after polling?—Well, I do not know that I noticed him doing anything in particular, any more than looking out after the people at the election. I guess that was what he was doing.

1331. Had he any book before him?—No, I never saw no book.

1332. What was he about?—He seemed to be the same as the other people.

1333. Looking up voters?—He seemed to be walking about and looking at the booths.

1334. He took care of you?—No, he didn't take care of me.

1335. Did he take you to the "Newdegate Arms" and give you ale and 10s.?—We didn't have ale at all. I had a glass of brandy.

Cross-Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

1336. How long have you been a voter in Coventry?—Well, I have been a voter now for about eight years.

1337. I believe you have always voted on the Conservative side?—Yes; always.

1338. You are a True Blue—a right True Blue?—Yes, I have always voted for the Tory party.

JAMES WALSGROVE ROSE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

J. W. Rose.

1362. Are you a Watchmaker living at Birmingham?—Yes.

1363. And you are a freeman of Coventry?—Yes.

1364. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

1365. For whom did you vote?—For Eaton and Hill.

1339. What are you by trade?—A watch-maker.

1340. And had you gone over to get work at Birmingham?—I had not gone over to get work at Birmingham; I have got work there for two or three years now.

1341. I suppose you have friends in Coventry?—Well, I have friends in Coventry.

1342. I wanted to know this; I think you say that you wanted to come?—Yes; I did want to come, of course, I should want to come on an occasion like that.

1343. You felt an interest in the cause?—Yes.

1344. When you came over to Coventry you say you went to the committee-room?—Yes.

1345. You say you had not known this man Jackson before?—No.

1346. But somebody told you his name was Jackson?—Somebody told me his name was Jackson.

1347. He was a person, I think you said, going about like others?—Yes.

1348. Were there a good many people in the committee-room?—Yes, there was a good many.

1349. People running in and out?—Yes.

1350. Some people coming for their cards, and some people coming back?—Yes.

1351. A good deal of what there is always at the election time?—Yes, about the same.

1352. And then Jackson, or the person that you call Jackson, took you to the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

1353. Where is the "Newdegate Arms"?—In Hill-street.

1354. I suppose there were a good many people there when you went in?—Yes, there was a goodish many in.

1355. I think you said that you had a glass of drink and a cigar, and that you got some bread and cheese to eat?—I never got any bread nor cheese.

1356. But he gave you 10s., and told you there was nothing allowed on this occasion?—Something to that effect; I think that was the word.

1357. And I think you said that he said that this came out of his own pocket?—Yes, he did.

1358. Then I suppose you paid your own fare back?—Yes, I paid my own fare back.

1359. Did you go back that night?—No, I stopped for a couple of days, because I had to go and see my friends; my father and mother.

1360. Mr. Justice Willes. At what time of the day was the 10s. given to you?—Well, it was towards the afternoon; I think towards two o'clock, it might be, in the day.

1361. At what time in the day did you vote?—Well, I voted about 11 o'clock in the morning.

[The Witness withdrew.]

1366. Did you go to the "Spitals" public-house on the evening before the polling day?—Yes.

1367. Did you see Gwynn, and Barnacle, and Lord there?—Yes, they were there when I got there.

1368. Was there any talk about the election?—Yes, there was a little talk certainly.

1369. What

1369. What was said about the election?—When I got in the place Mr. Barnacle said to me, “Are you going over to vote”? and I said, “I do not know, I am sure”; “Well,” he says, “you had better go with us; it will be all right.”

1370. Did he, when he said it would be all right, say anything else?—He asked me if I would have anything to drink, and I had a glass of ale.

1371. Was anything said about being satisfied when Barnacle said it would be all right?—Well, he said we should be satisfied.

1372. Who said you should be satisfied?—Mr. Barnacle. He told us it would be all right if we went with him when we got there.

1373. That is what Mr. Barnacle said?—He said if we went with him we should be satisfied.

1374. Did any of you say anything to that, did you say what would satisfy you?—No.

1375. Did you go with him the next day?—No, I did not.

1376. Did you go to Coventry at all?—Yes.

1377. With whom did you go?—There was Mr. Lord, Mr. Gwynn, Mr. Makepeace, and myself.

1378. Did you go by train?—Yes.

1379. Who paid for your ticket?—I paid for it myself.

1380. Did you take a single or return ticket?—A single ticket.

1381. Was Barnacle there at the station?—No; I was to meet him in the morning, but the train started earlier than I could make it possible to get there, so I did not trouble to go.

1382. Did you see Barnacle at the train when you started?—He was there.

1383. Did you see Barnacle that morning at all?—Not in Birmingham.

1384. Where did you see him?—In Coventry.

1385. Did you come by a different train from him, or in the same train?—That I cannot say.

1386. Where did you see him in Coventry?—In the town, something like Hertford-street.

1387. Did anybody meet you at the station at Coventry?—No, there was not anybody met us there.

1388. When you got to Coventry what did you do?—Me and Mr. Lord came down the Warwick road together.

1389. Did you go to the committee-rooms?—Yes, we went to the committee-rooms.

1390. Did you get your polling cards there?—Yes.

1391. You and Lord?—Yes.

1392. Did you go and vote then?—We went and voted then.

1393. Did you see Barnacle again before you voted?—Yes, it was before we voted that we saw him.

1394. Where did you see him?—I think it was against the “King’s Head.”

1395. Is the “King’s Head” the head quarters of the central committee for the Tory party here?—We did not go there at all.

1396. Did you see Barnacle in the “King’s Head” yard or in the street?—I think it was in the “King’s Head” yard where we saw him.

1397. Did you go into the “King’s Head” yard at all yourself?—Yes.

1398. Did you go into the committee-rooms at the “King’s Head” yard?—No.

1399. You did not go into the committee-room the “King’s Head” yard?—It was in Bond-street we went in.

275.

1400. Did you see Barnacle before you polled?—Yes. J. W. Rose.

1401. Was it in the Bond-street committee-room?—We did not see Barnacle in the committee-room.

1402. Where did you see Barnacle?—In the “King’s Head” yard.

1403. Is the “King’s Head” the head quarters of the Tory party?—We did not go to the “King’s Head.”

1404. But do you not know from your own knowledge, that the “King’s Head” is the head quarters of the Tory party at the elections?—I have always understood it is their head-quarters.

1405. Did you see him anywhere else except at the “King’s Head” yard?—I do not think I did on that day.

1406. And who gave you your polling cards in the committee-rooms?—Mr. Suddens, I think, was there.

1407. Is that a Mr. James Suddens?—Yes; I believe his name is James.

1408. Who else was there?—There were several gentlemen there.

1409. Did anybody else give you polling cards?—Mr. Foster was there.

1410. Is that Mr. James Foster?—I do not know his Christian name.

1411. Can you tell us anybody else who you saw in the committee-rooms when you got your polling cards, besides Mr. Suddens and Mr. Foster?—Several gentlemen.

1412. Anybody you knew?—A man named Jackson, at least we were told his name was Jackson.

1413. What were they doing besides giving you the polling cards?—We got the polling cards of course.

1414. But what were those three gentlemen doing besides giving polling cards; did you see them giving polling cards to anyone else besides?—No, I do not think they gave anyone else polling cards.

1415. What did you see Mr. Jackson doing?—He was in the room standing.

1416. And Mr. Foster?—He was to take us to vote when we had got the polling cards.

1417. Did he take you to vote?—Yes, he and Mr. Suddens took us to vote, and Mr. Suddens voted at the same time as we did.

1418. Did you leave Jackson in the committee-room when you went with Foster and Suddens to vote?—Yes.

1419. Where is that committee-room; is that the committee-room in Bond-street?—Yes.

1420. After you had polled, did you go back to the committee-room?—Yes, we went back to the committee-room.

1421. Did you see Jackson there?—Yes.

1422. You had left Jackson there when you went to poll, and you saw him again there after you came back?—Yes.

1423. Did he speak to you?—Yes he spoke to us, and I was introduced to him by Mr.—

1424. Did you go with him to the “Newdegate Arms”; who introduced you to Jackson?—I think it was Mr. Suddens who introduced me to Mr. Jackson.

1425. Did he introduce you by name to Mr. Jackson?—No; he said, “This is Mr. Rose, and this is Mr. Lord”; but he was talking to Mr. Jackson then.

1426. Who was talking to Mr. Jackson then?—Mr. Suddens.

J. W. Rose.
16 February
1869.

1427. How did you know it was Mr. Jackson?
—I had been told by Mr. Suddens.

1428. Did he say what his Christian name was?
—No, I did not hear his Christian name mentioned.

1429. And then, if I understand you, he turned round and said, "This is Mr. Rose, and this is Mr. Lord"?—Yes.

1430. After you had been introduced to Mr. Jackson, where did you go to?—We came downstairs, out of the committee-room.

1431. Did you go anywhere with Jackson?—Yes, we went to the public, the "Newdegate Arms."

1432. Did you have anything to drink at the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes, we had something to drink.

1433. Did you pay for it?—No.

1434. Who paid for it?—Mr. Jackson paid for it.

1435. After Jackson had paid for something to drink, did he give you anything else?—Yes.

1436. What did he give you?—Ten shillings.

1437. Where were you when he gave you 10s.?—I was just inside the "Newdegate Arms," just inside the passage.

1438. Then he did not give you 10s. in the room, but in the passage?—In the passage.

1439. Was Lord there at the same time?—We were all together in the place; he was not far from me.

1440. You and Lord and Jackson?—Yes.

1441. Did Jackson say anything when he gave you this 10s.?—He asked me if we would have any refreshments, as we had come. He said, "I am sorry there is nothing allowed on these occasions, but put this in your pocket; take this, and get yourself something."

1442. You told us he had given you something to drink before that, and paid for it himself?—Yes, this was after.

1443. After he had given you the 10s.?—We had voted then.

1444. But you told us that before he gave you the 10s. he had given you something to drink, and had paid for it himself?—This was at the time.

1445. Did you get something to drink, and pay for it out of the 10s.?—Yes, we got something to drink, and paid for it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

1446. What was it you had to drink at the "Newdegate Arms"?—I think we had a drop of brandy each.

1447. At what time did you get over from Birmingham?—I think we started by the quarter-past —.

1448. That is not the question; I am asking you what time did you get over from Birmingham?—I think about a quarter-past nine in the morning.

1449. And I suppose soon after that you voted?—It was not such a great time after we came into the town that we voted.

1450. You went to get your polling-cards, I suppose, in order that you might know your number on the register?—Yes.

1451. At what time were you at the "Newdegate Arms"?—I should think it was about dinner time, between one and two o'clock, so far as my recollection serves me.

1452. With Lord?—Yes.

1453. You did not know Jackson before then?—I could not say that I did know him.

1454. What did you do with your 10s. which you say you got?—Of course a part of it paid our expenses back home, and with part of it we went to get refreshments.

1455. Did Lord and you keep together all the rest of the day?—Yes, we kept together all the rest of the day.

1456. Who found you out at Birmingham?—There was no one found me out at Birmingham; but I knew perfectly well I had a vote —.

1457. Who subpoenaed you to come here to give evidence in this matter; had you seen Mr. Streightley?—No.

1458. Did anybody come over to Birmingham to take your evidence?—Yes, several people came to us.

1459. Was your evidence written down?—Not that I am aware of.

1460. By nobody?—No.

1461. At no time by Mr. Kirby's clerk?—There was a little said.

1462. But when was that little said?—It would be some time ago now.

1463. But here at Coventry or at Birmingham?—Several people came to see us at Birmingham, but we did not know who they were.

1464. From Mr. Kirby?—We did not know who they were; we did not see them; we were not allowed to see them.

1465. Did you see Fox, Mr. Kirby's clerk?—Mr. Fox was the person that served the subpoena.

1466. When was the subpoena served?—Yesterday week.

1467. Had you made a statement to anybody before that?—I had made a little statement.

1468. To whom?—Mr. Fox was one.

1469. Not the big statement that you have made to-day?—No.

1470. A different statement from what you have made to-day?—It was not very different.

1471. It was not quite as good a statement?—I could not say.

1472. But will you tell me whether it was a different statement from what you have made here to-day?—I do not think it was.

1473. It was not the same?—It was nearly the same.

1474. I thought you said it was a little statement?—Well, it was little.

1475. Therefore it was not so big as it is to-day; that is so, is it not?—I do not suppose I had so much.

1476. Was it so big a statement as that you have made to-day?—Possibly it might have been.

1477. Did Mr. Fox give you anything to drink?—No.

1478. Nothing?—No.

1479. Did not you have anything to drink in Fox's presence?—I think we had a little to drink.

1480. Where?—It was in a public-house in Catherine-street.

1481. What public-house?—I cannot remember the name now. Newton, I think, is the name of the man that keeps it.

1482. Was Lord with you?—Yes.

1483. What was it that you had to drink?—I think it was some ale.

1484. Who paid for it?—I paid for one lot.

1485. How

1485. How much did you pay for?—Three glasses, I think.

1486. How many lots were there?—About two lots, I believe.

1487. Who paid for the other lot?—I do not know whether Mr. Lord paid for it, or Mr. Fox; I paid for one lot.

1488. Fox had come over to take your evidence; why did you pay for it?—We did not want anything to drink at all.

1489. How long were you in the public-house with Fox?—About 10 minutes, perhaps; not longer.

1490. How much did you pay yourself?—About sixpence.

1491. What did Fox pay?—I suppose he paid the same.

1492. Did he?—I could not swear he did.

1493. Do you believe he did?—Yes, I believe he did.

1494. Did you see Mr. Streightley?—No.

1495. Was anybody with Mr. Fox when he came over?—Yes; there was another man with him, but I do not know his name.

1496. Was it a tall man with grey whiskers?—No.

1497. Did he pay for anything to drink?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

J. W. Rose.

1498. When this statement was made about which Mr. Huddleston has asked you, was a man called Lord examined at the same time, and did he make a statement at the same time?—Yes.

1499. Is that “J. W. Rose” your handwriting (handing a paper to the Witness)?—Yes.

1500. Mr. Justice Willes.] Why did you come from Birmingham to vote?—I did not have a voting card sent to me at Birmingham; I have got a home in Coventry, and they did not think it necessary to send a voting card to me.

1501. But why did you think it necessary to come and vote here, as you are not residing here?—I was not at the time the election took place, but I had been previously.

1502. You had ceased to reside long before?—Yes.

1503. Why did you come here to vote?—I had a vote; I had a correspondence with my father, and I had a card sent me soliciting my vote, but he did not think it was worth while to send me the card.

1504. Did you come intending to be at your own expenses?—No, of course we heard that the railway fare—

1505. Was it what Barnacle said to you that produced that impression?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM GWYNN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

1506. ARE you a voter for Coventry?—Yes.

1507. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

1508. For whom?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

1509. Where do you live?—At Coventry, but my work is in Birmingham. My house and family are in Coventry.

1510. Have you a residence in Coventry?—Yes.

1511. Had you at the last election?—Yes.

1512. Did you go to the “Spitals” public-house on the evening before the polling day at the last election?—Yes, I think I was in there; I have business in the town, and I do sometimes call in there.

1513. Did you see Lord and Rose and Makepeace there?—I saw Lord, but I did not see Rose.

1514. Did you see Makepeace?—I think he came in, but he did not stop long.

1515. Did you see a man named Barnacle there?—There was a Barnacle, but I did not know him; but I was told he was Mr. Barnacle.

1516. Did you see a man called Suddens there?—No.

1517. Was there any talk while you were there about the election?—It was all talk about the election.

1518. What was said about the election?—I cannot tell you anything particular that was said about it.

1519. Was anything said about being all right, or being satisfied?—I never heard those words made us of.

1520. Was anything said about your expenses being paid if you went to vote?—No.

1521. Were these words said, “You had better go with us, it will be all right”?—I never heard anything of the sort.

275.

1522. Did you hear the words, “You will be satisfied,” used?—No, nor anything of the sort.

1523. Did you hear anything about the payment of expenses?—Not anything.

1524. Did you yourself say anything about your expenses being paid?—No.

1525. Did you go the next day to the station?—I went the next morning to the station.

1526. With whom did you go?—I went by myself.

1527. Did you see Barnacle there?—No.

1528. Did you go to Coventry?—Yes.

1529. Who paid?—I paid myself.

1530. Had you a single or return ticket?—Had a single ticket.

1531. What did you pay?—One shilling and sixpence, I think.

1532. Did you go third class?—Yes.

1533. Did you go with the last two witnesses, Lord and Rose?—Yes.

1534. In the same carriage?—Yes; they were on the platform when I got there.

1535. Had you any other money besides the 1s. 6½d.?—Yes.

1536. What had you?—I am sure I could not tell you what I had in my pocket; I never counted.

1537. Try and remember what money you had in your pocket besides the 1s. 6½d.?—I am sure I could not tell you.

1538. Had you any gold?—No.

1539. Had you any silver?—Yes.

1540. Tell us about how much you had when you paid the 1s. 6½d. for your ticket to Coventry?—I cannot tell you so fine as that.

1541. Was it 10s.?—I do not think it was.

1542. Was it 5s.?—I do not think it was.

1543. Was it 3s.?—I could not tell you.

1544. But out of that money did you pay the 1s. 6½d.

D 3

W. Gwynn.

W. Gwynn. 1 s. 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to go to Coventry with a single ticket?—Yes.

16 February 1869. 1545. When you got to Coventry, did anyone meet you at the station?—I am sure I forget whether they did or not; perhaps I can explain it if you will allow me; on the Sunday previous to the election I had the misfortune to bury my wife, and consequently I was obliged to come to Coventry, whether it was an election or not. It brought me here, and I was obliged to come, whether the election was there or not.

1546. Did you go to Coventry and poll?—I did.

1547. After that did you get any money at all?—No.

1548. Did you see a man called Eves?—No, I do not think I saw any of the Eveses.

1549. Do you know Thomas Eves, the landlord of the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes; but I don't know whether I saw him that day.

1550. How long did you stay in Coventry?—I came back the next morning.

1551. Where did you sleep that night?—At my own house.

1552. Who paid for your ticket back?—I paid for it myself.

1553. Out of the money that you had?—Yes.

1554. Out of the 1 s. 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.?—I had more money than 1 s. 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., but I cannot tell you what money I had in my pocket.

1555. Did you receive any money from Tom Eves?—No.

1556. Or from James Eves?—No.

1557. Or from any of the witnesses?—No.

1558. Or from anyone else?—No.

1559. Did you ever receive 18 s. from anybody?—No.

1560. Do you know Rose and Lord?—I do.

Mr. Justice Willes intimated that he thought the examination had proceeded far enough on these points.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

1561. Is there any pretence for saying that Barnacle said to the last witness, in your presence, that he would be satisfied if he came over and voted, or anything of that sort?—I could not tell you.

1562. You did not hear anything of the sort?—No.

1563. Were you in the room at the time?—I do not know. I was in too much trouble to attend to anybody's conversation.

1564. You never heard anything of that sort said?—No, I did not.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS HAMMERTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

T. Hammerton. 1565. ARE you on the register of voters for this city?—Yes.

1566. At the last election for whom did you vote?—For Messrs. Eaton and Hill.

1567. Where were you residing at that time?—At Dudley, in Worcestershire.

1568. What are you by business?—A paper-hanger generally, and in a general work.

1569. On the Friday before the polling-day, did you receive a circular letter from the chairman of Mr. Eaton's and Mr. Hill's committee?—Yes.

1570. Were you on the Bishop-street ward?—Yes.

1571. Who was the person from whom you received the circular?—I received it from the post-office.

1572. Who signed it?—The chairman of the Bishop-street ward.

1573. Do you know the name?—There was no name.

1574. Did you return that to the committee-rooms here, accompanied by a letter?—I did.

1575. On the Monday did you receive a reply?—I did.

1576. What became of that letter?—I preserved it for some time, but not hearing anything further about this petition, I burnt it.

1577. From whom did that letter purport to come?—The same party as before.

1578. Was it in print?—It was in print.

1579. What was in it?—Requesting my vote and interest for Messrs. Eaton and Hill.

1580. Requesting you to go where?—To Coventry.

1581. Was any place mentioned for you to go to?—Yes, the "Stag," in Bishop-street.

1582. Was that in print or in writing?—In writing.

1583. Was anything else upon it?—It enclosed a card.

1584. But did it say anything about what you were to do when you got to the "Stag," or anything of that kind?—No.

1585. The circular letter was asking for a vote, but I believe there was a mistake in your name?—Yes; it was directed "Stephen Hammerton," instead of "Thomas."

1586. And when you wrote back you got a corrected card sent to you?—I did.

1587. Then you were directed to go to the "Stag"?—Yes.

1588. Did you receive a telegram from Mr. Edward Rice?—I did.

1589. Have you kept that?—I had it until about a week ago.

1590. In consequence of that telegram, did you come to Coventry?—Yes, I did.

1591. On what day was that?—On the Monday night; the nomination.

1592. I believe you arrived at about 10 o'clock at night?—I did.

1593. Did you see Mr. Rice?—I met him on Burge's.

1594. Is that a place?—It is a street.

1595. Did you go with Mr. Rice to the "Stag"?—I went by myself after speaking to him; he told me to go up there; he came there afterwards.

1596. Did he tell you what you could have?—He told me to get any refreshments I required; it was all right.

1597. Did he say anything to you about Mr. Kilbey?—He told me Mr. Kilbey would see me.

1598. Did he tell you who Mr. Kilbey was?—I knew him personally; he said, "You will be well done by now, for Mr. Kilbey is our head man."

1599. Did you have what you required to eat and drink at the "Stag"?—I did.

1600. While you were there, did Mr. Kilbey come come into the room?—About half-an-hour afterwards.

1601. Did he ask you if you had any refreshments?—Yes.

1602. What did you say?—I said, "Yes."

1603. What did he say to that?—He said, "It was all right; I would have what I required."

1604. The next morning, I suppose, you had your breakfast?—Yes.

1605. And the next morning, did you poll for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes.

1606. Did you go back to the "Stag"?—I did.

1607. Was there drinking going on there then?—Yes, the usual drinking at election times.

1608. Did you drink?—I had a little beer.

1609. Did you pay for it?—No.

1610. Did you remain at the "Stag" the whole of the day?—I did, till half-past eight o'clock on Wednesday morning.

1611. Did you apply to Mr. Rice, and also to the landlord of the "Stag," James Hopkins, to pay you for loss of time?—I mentioned it to Mr. Rice, and they told me to see Mr. Kilbey.

1612. Did you go to Mr. Kilbey?—I did on the Wednesday morning.

1613. What did you say to him?—I said, I was bound to leave my employment; and he said, "What will satisfy you?" and I said, "The ordinary charges or expenses;" and he said, "Will a sovereign satisfy you?" and I said, "Yes;" and he gave it to me, and I went away.

1614. Mr. Justice Willes.] Was this Kilbey?—Yes.

1615. Mr. Henry James.] Did you tell him at that time what refreshment you had had to get?—I did.

1616. What did he say?—That it was "all right."

1617. During the time that you were at the "Stag," did you pay for anything at all?—Occasionally, when friends or acquaintance came in I wished to pay; but when I asked the landlady to fill the jug, I offered to pay on several occasions, but she said, "No, I might pay for a jug or two for my friends, but not for myself."

1618. What is your fare from Dudley to Coventry?—Second class, 3 s. 6 d.

1619. Did you take a return ticket?—I took two singles.

1620. So that you paid 7 s. for your railway fare?—Yes.

1621. Were you put to any other expense besides that?—Sixpence for an omnibus.

1622. What do you earn in a day?—I had 5 s. now, and 5 s. then.

1623. Did you pay two omnibuses?—No, I walked back.

1624. Mr. Justice Willes.] Do I correctly understand that your own personal expenses at the "Stag" were paid for you, and that you had a sovereign given to you?—Yes.

1625. Have you a house in Coventry?—Just previous to then I had. I was not residing in Coventry at the time of the election. I had removed.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

1626. What are you?—I cannot describe exactly what I am; but I work just one thing; 275.

and as one trade falls back I fall back, and take up with another.

1627. What are you?—Well, I generally follow paper-hanging and bill-posting.

1628. Were you a witness on the petition against Mr. Jackson?—I was subpoenaed as one; but that is quite irrelevant to the case.

1629. It is a little about the paper-hanging that I want; did you hand a document in there, professing to be signed by 12 persons who had voted for Mr. Jackson, and who said that their expenses had been paid for Birmingham?—From Birmingham you mean?

1630. Did you admit that those signatures were forged?—No, never.

1631. Were they true signatures?—As far as I knew the parties. I must explain that if parties come and personate another party, and say, "I am so-and-so," I cannot go against that.

1632. Then, did parties come and personate the names of voters, and did you put their names down on the list. No; seven or eight of them wrote it themselves.

1633. And the others?—The others personated them of course.

1634. And you handed it in to the committee to show that those were persons who came from Birmingham to vote for Mr. Jackson?—Yes.

1635. Did the chairman say you ought to be committed?—What chairman?

1636. Of the committee?—I never saw him.

1637. Were you ever in the committee-room?—Yes, once.

1638. Did they send you out immediately afterwards?—No.

1639. Did you keep out of the way at first at the committee-room?—No.

1640. Did you tell Mr. Chew's clerks that all the signatures were forged?—No, I did not.

1641. Did you not hear that the chairman had stated that if you came in to give evidence you would be committed, and did you not go into the lobby?—Certainly not. I never heard that once.

Mr. Henry James objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Willes overruled the objection.

1642. Mr. Huddleston (to the Witness).] What did you go up to prove?—The parties had been bribed by Mr. Jackson's party.

1643. Then you were on the other side then?—It does not matter which side I was on.

1644. You went up to London to prove that parties were bribed by Mr. Jackson?—Yes.

1645. You had a list of 12?—I had a list of 32.

1646. Did you have a list of 12 persons who you said admitted that they had received money from Mr. Jackson?—No.

1647. Had you a list?—Yes.

1648. Of how many?—Of 31 or 32.

1649. Were there signatures to it?—To about 12 or 14; I saw all the others.

1650. How many were there that you did not see sign it?—I saw all those 12 sign, or those that personated them.

1651. Then you saw all the 12 sign, or those that personated them?—I said before that there were some three or four that I found out afterwards did personate others.

T.
Hammerton.
16 February
1869.

1652. Why were you not called as a witness?—I did not know; I was there the whole day.

1653. Did somebody say that you had better go into the lobby, or else you will be committed?—No; no one said so to me.

1654. Did you stay in the lobby all day?—No.

1655. On the Saturday?—On the Thursday; I was in bed till half-past 12, and Mr. Barr, the attorney, sent a man to me and he said, "You will not be required;" and I says, "Look at my leg, I am not fit to go across;" and he says, "You had better go to the hospital with it;" and I did go to the hospital with it, and I had it cut in two or three places.

1656. Just let me know something about you; do you live at Dudley Port?—Yes, I have a shop there; I live in Wolverhampton-street now.

1657. Did you receive a letter, signed by the chairman of Jackson and Carter's committee in December last, requesting information respecting your expenses at the previous election?—I do not recollect.

1658. You knew it was a nice little bit of Radical impudence, was it not?—You may call it what you like.

1659. Did you receive, on the 9th of September 1868, a letter signed by the chairman of Jackson and Carter's committee, dated "Castle," requesting information of who paid your expenses and loss of time in coming to the poll?—I cannot recollect.

1660. Well, if you did receive it, was not it a nice little bit of Radical impudence?—I cannot tell what you may call it.

1661. What do you call it?—If I had received such a letter as you suppose, I should have called it a proper inquiry, and not a bit of impudence.

1662. Did you reply that you came at your own expense, and would do so again, as long as a Conservative was in the field against them?—I did come at my own expenses before.

1663. Did you reply to that effect?—I cannot say I am sure.

1664. Tell me whether that (handing a paper to the Witness) is your handwriting?—Yes; I believe it is.

1665. Listen to this: It is addressed to William Lynes, Esq., Barr's Hill, Coventry, "10th December,—Dear Sir, I humbly hope you will excuse my freedom in writing to you; my daughter wrote to me yesterday stating that the Radical demagogues intend to lodge a petition against the return of our respected Members. I hasten to inform you that there is one Joseph Cooper acting in our ward, and he was always a Dark Blue before; and I am informed he came over on purpose to obtain evidence against us, and I know he is capable of doing and swearing anything. The said J. Cooper was in Birmingham last March, and followed me and the witnesses about, abusing me and endeavouring to persuade them not to go at the instigation of Stephen Knapp. I hope you will see Mr. Kilbey respecting this, as I come into Dudley every day or so. Every communication will find me at 52, Wolverhampton-street, Dudley. I beg to remain your humble servant, Thomas Hammer-ton.—I have just had a letter signed by the chairman of Messrs. Jackson and Carter's committee, dated 'Castle,' the 5th December, requesting information who paid my expenses and loss of time in coming up to the poll; a nice little bit of Radical impudence; I shall reply that I came at my own, and will do so again, as long as a Conservative is in the field against them." That is your letter, is it?—I believe it is.

1666. Have you any doubt about it?—No.

1667. Just look at that (handing another paper to the Witness), and tell me whether that is your signature?—I believe it is.

1668. Have any doubt about it?—No; I have no doubt about that at all.

1669. Did you get a dinner, and wine and cigars, out of the Liberals?—Yes, I had.

1670. For your evidence?—I should like another of the same sort to that.

1671. Did you threaten to kick them out of Dudley?—Yes.

1672. That is the reason they brought you here, I suppose?—I should like them sent to their own places.

1673. How many visits did you have from the "illiberals" of Coventry?—A couple.

1674. Were there not three?—There were two visits, but three on the last occasion; but they finally began to find that out; I found that out by their conversation, and that is the reason why I threatened to kick them out of the place.

1675. How many hours were you with them at the "Bush Hotel"?—Two or three hours, I daresay; that was to find out what their intention was.

1676. Did you tell them that you had paid your own expenses?—Yes; I had money of my own to come with, but I was not going to tell them the plain truth.

1677. You did not tell them the plain truth?—No, because I found, as I told you before, that they were not authorised to inquire; they ought to be told lies when they come on the decoy.

1678. Did you tell them lies as you thought they ought to have been treated that way?—Of course I did.

1679. Now just tell how many lies did you tell them; you are the gentleman that it was not safe to trust till to-morrow morning?—Indeed!

1680. How many lies did you tell?—Do you think I carry a pen and ink and a sheet of paper with me to put them down.

1681. How many lies did you tell them, within a few hundreds?—None at all.

1682. I thought you told me you did?—One or two; I should do it again if they came again, or you either.

1683. When they come there on decoy you tell them lies?—Yes.

1684. Mr. Justice Willes.] You had better not practice that in court, because you will find it rather a dangerous game?—I am here to speak the truth, and I am bound to do it.

1685. Mr. Huddleston.] Were you on the decoy when you were in London?—Certainly not.

1686. You, of course, are not a decoy now?—No, certainly not; I came here to give to his Lordship what I received for my expenses, and what more do you require?

1687. What were the lies you told them?—Just what I told you before.

1688. What was that?—That I paid my own expenses with my own money, because it was money that I worked for.

1689. Then it was not a lie?—No, it was not from any party here; I did not receive it until after the election was over.

1690. Did

1690. Did you not tell him that you never had any money at all?—No, I did not.

1691. Did you not tell him that you never had any money?—In a general conversation I could not tell whether I did so or not.

1692. Do you not believe that you did say so; you know they came “on the decoy”?—No, I do not; I cannot remember it.

1693. Will you swear that you did not?—I could not swear that I did or did not.

1694. You told us that you told them lies because they came on the decoy; how was it you changed your mind afterwards and told them the truth; was that after the dinner and cigars?—I did not see them afterwards.

1695. Then, how came you to come here?—Now?

1696. Yes?—Because a gentleman came down there and served me with a subpoena.

1697. What did he give you with the subpoena?—Three shillings and sixpence.

1698. He promised you more, of course?—No.

1699. You expected more?—No.

1700. And you come here in the pure interests of truth?—I came here to speak the truth.

1701. You come here in the pure interests of truth, although they are people who have Radical impudence and are illiberals; is that so?—You say so, apparently.

1702. You say so, and that they are a damned party. “I have had three visits from the illiberals of Coventry and one from Birmingham respecting my coming up at the last election; I was three hours with them at the “Bush Hotel,” and dined with them and took my grog, &c., and in answer to their queries I told them boldly that I had paid all my expenses; and if I had not, their damned party should not know for 1,000 l. I take this liberty to satisfy you and your party that I am firm, as I had heard they had boasted I was coming up; but no go; I think I tricked them nicely to get a good dinner and wine and cigars, &c., and then threatened to kick them out of Dudley. If our worthy Members are unseated, I hope we shall have two others, and will come up and serve them.” (I should think nobody would like you to come up and serve them.) “Please tell William Lynes, Esq., the case, and having disposed of this, your obedient servant, Thomas Hammerton.” One was a close neighbour of yours; one of the people whom you say would be damned is a close neighbour of yours, and probably he will be hereafter.—

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

1703. To whom was that last letter written?—To Mr. Kilbey.

1704. That is the gentleman who gave you the pound?—Yes, it was partly written for the purpose of deceiving him.

1705. It was in March 1868 that the inquiry took place in London?—In March 1868.

1706. Were you employed then by the Conservatives to get up evidence?—Yes.

1707. Did they pay you for that?—No.

1708. Did you obtain evidence?—I did.

1709. Did you obtain the signatures of persons to a document representing that they had been paid for coming from Birmingham to Coventry?—Yes.

1710. Do you know of any one person whatever, whose name was improperly put to that document?—Afterwards I found out that a person named Merry had very much the appearance of Thomas Yardley, and had personated him in my presence, I knowing Yardley only from boyhood.

1711. Did you know at the time that this person was not Yardley?—I did not; I believed him to be Yardley.

1712. And you believed that document to be genuine?—I did.

1713. And you went up to London, and that document was handed in?—Yes.

1714. Upon your oath, is what you have stated to-day about Kilbey having given you a sovereign, true?—It is perfectly true, and moreover, he was in the room behind this, this afternoon, and I told him that I had come here to speak the truth, and I should speak nothing but the truth.

1715. Mr. Justice Willes.] You seem to have strong patriotic feelings which led you to vote for one party?—Yes, I voted for one party for a considerable time.

1716. You have strong patriotic feelings which induced you to do so, is that so?—I believe it is generally, but sometimes allies will behave in such a way to you that you sometimes get a little disgusted with them, breaking their word, and such like. They get the work done, and then they treat us scurvily, as I have been treated on different occasions.

1717. By whom?—Different parties that employ me.

1718. On what side?—On the Conservative side more than the other, but both sides act badly towards the working bees.

1719. Is that the reason you threw a quantity of dust in their eyes in these letters?—It is partly a concoction, in order to deceive a certain party.

1720. You seem to have voted for them at the election, but you have read two letters throwing a quantity of dust in their eyes, if your evidence be true; how do you account for that?—I had made up my mind to perform certain things, and always do as far as I can, and I determined to concoct a letter and send it up to a party or two. In March, when Mr. Jackson was returned, I voted for him, because some parties of the opposition had ordered me to leave the committee-room. They was drunk and disorderly, and I spoke to the chairman to put them out, and he would not do it; so I went away and saw two or three persons on the opposite side, and I went and voted for Mr. Jackson from personal pique, and not from interest.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Huddleston applied for further particulars as to the witnesses to be called.

Mr. Henry James stated that he would give further particulars, on the condition that the names were kept secret until tomorrow.

Serjeant WILLIAM SHEASBY, Sworn; and Examined.

- Serjeant
W. Sheasby.
16 February
1869.
1721. Mr. Justice Willes.] Did you go with the witness, Samuel Smith?—Yes.
1722. Did he point out a house?—Yes, he did.
1723. What house is that?—John Oughton's, the "Rose and Woodbine" public-house.
1724. Do you know anything of him?—I do not.
1725. Is it within the borough?—It is out of the borough; it is two miles from here.
1726. Out of the Parliamentary borough?—Yes, it is a mile out of the borough.
1727. How far does the Parliamentary borough extend?—It is out of the municipal boundary, but it is in the Parliamentary boundary.
1728. The person that has that house, I suppose, would have a vote?—Yes.
1729. Did you make any inquiries as to the man in the great coat?—Yes, I asked the landlord if the witness Smith slept there last night; he said, "Yes, he did," he came in between 9 and 10 o'clock. I asked him another question; I said, "Was he drunk or sober"? He said he had been drinking, but he was not to say drunk.

1730. Did you make any inquiries about the man in the big greatcoat?—I asked him if there was anyone else came with them. He said, "No, I never saw anyone with him; he came into the kitchen by himself." He said he heard a vehicle, but no one else came into the house.

Mr. Henry James stated that the number on the register of John Oughton was 7,800, and that he voted for Messrs. Eaton and Hill.

[The Witness withdrew.

HENRY PARKER, Sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

- H. Parker.
1731. Do you live at Leicester?—Yes.
1732. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.
1733. Mr. Justice Willes.] The Court was kept waiting for a considerable time to examine you. If you had been here as you ought to have been, you would have been examined and got away long before; but in consequence of your staying away, you come at this late period of the evening, when the light is failing, and when your examination cannot be concluded; the result is that you must remain in Coventry, and you must attend punctually, at five minutes before ten o'clock to-morrow morning, in this court. How much do you get to come here?—Nothing at all.

1734-5. How much did you get with your subpoena?—Five shillings.

That is something; a great many 5s. would make a large fortune.

Mr. Justice Willes directed that a reasonable sum should be paid to the Witness for his expenses.

To the Witness :—

[Adjourned to To-morrow, at Ten o'clock.

Wednesday, 17th February 1869.

HENRY PARKER, called again; Examined by Mr. James.

1736. WHEN did you come to Coventry?—
I came on the polling-day.

1737. Just now, for the purpose of this petition?—On Saturday night.

1738. Where have you been living?—In Leicester.

1739. I mean since you have been in Coventry?—At my sister's, at Crossley.

1740. Have you seen Mr. Dews?—No.

1741. Have you been to Mr. Dews' office?—No.

1742. Nor anyone from Mr. Dews?—No.

1743. No clerk?—No.

1744. Has your evidence been taken down by anyone?—No.

1745. Have you made no statement to anyone since you have been here?—No.

1746. No statement at all?—Yes.

1747. To either side?—Yes.

1748. Do you mean that you have or have not?—No, I have not.

1749. How long had you been living at Leicester before the last election?—About four months.

1750. You had ceased to reside in Coventry?—Yes.

1751. Had you ever voted before?—Yes, at the Coventry election.

1752. As a Conservative?—Yes, several times.

1753. And you were known to be a Conservative?—Yes.

1754. Do you know a person of the name of Burrows?—Yes.

1755. What is he?—I saw him on the nomination night; I never saw him in my life before.

1756. Did you receive any communication from anyone at Coventry shortly before the election?—No.

1757. No letter?—No letter.

1758. No telegram?—No telegram.

1759. And no one came to speak to you?—No one came to speak to me.

1760. Did you see Freeman?—Yes, I have seen Henry Freeman.

1761. Was that before the election?—After the election.

1762. Never before?—Never before.

1763. Will you swear that?—Yes.

1764. Never before the polling day at Coventry had you seen Henry Freeman?—Never before the polling day had I seen Henry Freeman.

1765. You will swear that you had never seen him?—Yes.

1766. When did you first see him?—On the polling day.

275.

1767. Where?—At Leicester.

1768. That would be in the morning?—Yes.

1769. That, you say, is the first time you saw him in your life, to your knowledge?—Yes.

1770. Do you know Frederick Clark?—I saw on the polling day, and I believe I saw him on the Sunday night that the election was on the Tuesday.

1771. Did you tell him there was to be a meeting at the "Talbot Inn"?—Yes, I believe I did.

1772. When did you tell him that?—On the Sunday night.

1773. What caused you to tell it him?—We were going down to get two or three voters. I only knew him; he told me knew Denny; he told me he knew the voters.

1774. Who told you there was to be a meeting at the "Talbot Inn," or who fixed upon the "Talbot Inn"?—I do not remember anyone telling me.

1775. Was it you that fixed upon it?—No.

1776. How came you to tell Clark that there would be a meeting at the "Talbot Inn"?—I heard so.

1777. From whom?—I cannot remember from anybody.

1778. You say you heard so; from whom did you hear it?—I do not remember.

1779. Was it somebody at Leicester?—Yes, it was somebody at Leicester.

1780. A man or a woman?—It was a man.

1781. Where was the man when he told you?—At the "Talbot."

1782. Had you known the man before or was he a stranger?—I did not know the man before.

1783. Have you known him since?—No.

1784. Have you never seen him since?—Not to my knowledge.

1785. Was he a perfect stranger to you?—Yes.

1786. Did not you ask him who he was?—No.

1787. What do you mean by saying you recollect who it was, if you never knew who it was?—I did not know him.

1788. You have not forgotten him, then?—No.

1789. He was a stranger to you, so you have not forgotten him?—Yes, I have forgotten him; at least, I never knew the man's name.

1790. Or knew him by sight before?—No, I never knew him by sight before.

E 2

1791. When

H. Parker.

1869.

H. Parker. 1791. When the stranger told you something about the "Talbot Inn," what did he say to you?—That there was going to be a meeting there.

1792. For what purpose?—On the election.

1793. For Mr. Eaton's and Mr. Hill's voters?—Yes.

1794. Did he tell you to do anything?—No.

1795. Did you ask him whether you should do anything?—No.

1796. But there was to be a meeting; what made you tell other people to come to the meeting?—Because I was interested in the cause. I was a Conservative in heart, and always took great interest in it; at least I voted several times, and I have always been a strong Conservative. I would almost sacrifice my life for the cause at any time. I never had any pay in my life for anything of the kind.

1797. That was the reason?—Yes.

1798. To whom did you make the communication; whom did you tell to come to the "Talbot Inn"?—I told Clark to come.

1799. Anyone else?—No.

1800. Smith?—No.

1801. Neither Smith?—No.

1802. Nor Denny?—No.

1803. Nor Wagstaff?—No.

1804. Clark was the only person you told to come?—Yes; the parties that worked in the shop at Turner's all agreed to vote for the Conservative cause.

1805. Did you go to the "Talbot" on Monday evening?—Yes.

1806. How many were there?—I should think there was a score.

1807. Was Burrows there?—Yes.

1808. Were any names called out from a register?—Yes.

1809. Who did that?—Burrows.

1810. What is Burrows?—I do not know what he is.

1811. Is he a working man?—I have seen him once; I could not tell what sort of a man he is; he seemed like a stout man.

1812. Is he a working man or a tradesman?—He is a tradesman.

1813. Keeps a shop?—No, I think not; I did hear say that he was manager over an elastic factory.

1814. Can you tell me over whose elastic factory?—I cannot.

1815. When the register was read over; was any arrangement made about voters coming over to Coventry?—We were to meet in the morning.

1816. Where?—On the Hinckley-road.

1817. Did anybody who was there say anything at all about the men being satisfied?—No; not that I know of.

1818. Be careful; was anything said about the men being satisfied, or made satisfied?—No.

1819. Not a word?—Not a word.

1820. That you swear?—Yes.

1821. Or anything like the term that it should be made all right?—No; there was nothing mentioned.

1822. By anyone?—By anyone.

1823. You were there for some time?—I went home early?—I was away a little after eight o'clock.

1824. How long did you stop there altogether?—I should think an hour and a quarter.

1825. Upon your oath, during that hour and a quarter, were not those words, or words to that effect about the men being satisfied or made all right, used?—No, it was not.

1826. Do you mean to say that no one made inquiry about it?—No one made any inquiry in my hearing; not to my knowledge.

1827. Could you have forgotten it?—No, I should not have forgotten it.

1828. It would have made an impression upon you?—Perhaps it would.

1829. You swear positively, after what we have heard, that not a word of that kind was said?—I will.

1830. You have been at Coventry at previous elections?—Yes.

1831. You came to Coventry the next day?—Yes.

1832. Who did you see; when you came to Coventry did Arthur Seager meet you at Foleshill?—No.

1833. Did you get voting cards from the men at a short distance from Coventry?—I met a man; I took my own voting card.

1834. Who was that man?—I do not know.

1835. Do you know Arthur Seager?—No.

1836. Then why do you tell me it was not he?—I did not.

1837. I asked you whether Arthur Seager met you, and you said no?—I said I did not know the man.

1838. Your first answer was, "No it was not Seager;" do you know him?—I do not know the man.

1839. Should you know the man if you saw him?—Perhaps I might; that is the only time I saw him in my life.

1840. He was a stranger?—Quite a stranger.

1841. Was he a working man, or had he got a black coat on?—He had got a black coat on.

1842. Did he give you and others voting cards?—Yes.

1843. To poll you?—Yes.

1844. Did you have any conversation with him?—I walked with him a little way along, but I cannot remember what we said.

1845. He was a stranger to you; what did you then talk to him about?—I cannot remember talking of anything particularly; he said we were a majority; that was what he said.

1846. Was anything said then about the men being made all right?—No.

1847. Or being satisfied?—No.

1848. Not a word?—Not a word.

1849. That you could not have forgotten, you know, if it was said. You came to Coventry; where did you go to?—To my sister's, at Newfield.

1850. You polled?—Yes.

1851. After you voted, where did you go to?—I came home; we went and had a pint of ale. I went to the "Bull's Head," and had a pint or two of ale.

1852. Who did you see; did you see Kilby that day?—No.

1853. Do you know him?—I have seen the man since he has been pointed out to me.

1854. You never spoke to Mr. Kilby in your life?—Yes.

1855. When, you say, he was pointed out to you?—Not at the election time: they have said, "That is Mr. Kilby," when I have been passing.

1856. What was the use of a person saying, "That is Mr. Kilby," if you knew him?—I never exchanged exchanged a hundred words with him in my life.

1857. Do you swear you never spoke to Mr. Kilby?—Yes, I have spoken to Mr. Kilby.

1858. You know him well enough?—No.

1859. Did not you know him when you spoke to him?—Yes.

1860. If you know him when you speak to him, what do you want people to point him out for?—That was before-time.

1861. When was that, that he was pointed out to you?—Six months ago, it might be.

1862. Before the election?—Yes.

1863. Have you seen him since that time that he was pointed out to you?—No.

1864. When had you that conversation with him?—Before that.

1865. If you had that conversation with him before that, for what purpose was he pointed out to you?—I went to him when he was pointed out to me, and I had a few words with him.

1866. What about?—I cannot remember.

1867. A sacrifice of your memory as well as your life you are making now. What did you talk to Mr. Kilby about?—I did not talk to Mr. Kilby particularly about anything, no matter particularly; it would be six months.

1868. Six months ago he was pointed out to you as Mr. Kilby; what did you talk to Mr. Kilby about?—Nothing particular as I know of; I cannot remember.

1869. Why did you go and speak to Mr. Kilby?—I cannot remember the words that were spoken.

1870. Give me the subject?—We had no subject at all.

1871. Give me the object if you prefer it. Why did you go to Mr. Kilby, and what did you say to him?—I do not remember anything passing, not a word. I cannot remember the words.

1872. You spoke to him and talked to him upon something, what was that something?—I cannot remember it.

1873. Upon your oath you say you do not recollect why you spoke to him, or upon what you spoke?—I do.

1874. You have forgotten it?—I have forgotten it.

1875. You had not known him before?—No.

1876. You went and spoke to this person a perfect stranger?—He was pointed out to me; they said, "He is Mr. Kilby."

1877. He is a baker, why did you speak to a baker?—I had nothing particular to speak to him about.

1878. Why did you go and speak to him?—I do not know the reason why I went.

1879. A person was pointed out to you in the street who was a perfect stranger to you. Why did you go and speak to that person?—I do not know, I do not remember.

1880. Had you ever any business with him before?—No.

1881. Did you know anything about him?—No.

1882. Then why did you go and speak to this stranger?—I do not remember.

1883. Is it your habit if a person is pointed out to you in the street, to go and speak to him?—Nothing particular; there was no words on account of electioneering.

1884. You recollect it was not about electioneering, do you?—No; I recollect there was nothing passed of that kind, but I do not recollect what it was on.

275.

1885. You do recollect that?—Yes.

1886. Your memory is improving a little; you do not recollect what it was you said?—I am not likely to recollect, it is six months ago.

1887. How do you recollect it was not on electioneering, if you do not recollect the words?—I know these words was not mentioned.

1888. If you can recollect what was not said, you also may be able to recollect a little of what was said?—No, that is all I can remember. I do not remember anything more, I only know there was nothing of that kind.

1889. Can you recollect whether it was about business?—I cannot remember.

1890. Was it about politics?—I cannot remember anything about it.

1891. That you say positively upon your oath?—Yes.

1892. How many times have you spoken to Mr. Kilby?—I have never spoken to him before or since.

1893. You have only seen him probably once?—Yes.

1894. And only spoke to him once?—Yes.

1895. Where did you speak to him?—Somewhere about the Cross, in the street.

1896. How long were you speaking to him?—About five minutes.

1897. And alone?—No, there were two or three more.

1898. Who were they?—I cannot remember.

1899. Who were they?—I cannot remember.

1900. Were they the people who pointed him out to you?—No.

1901. Who was it that pointed him out?—I do not know.

1902. Was it a stranger who pointed him out?—Yes.

1903. A stranger pointed him out to you; had you ever seen the stranger before?—No.

1904. So the stranger came up to you and said, "That is Mr. Kilby"?—Yes, as he was passing by, and said, "That is Mr. Kilby," as I was going by.

1905. The stranger passing by said, "That is Mr. Kilby," and then you went and spoke to him about something you do not recollect?—Yes.

1906. What sort of man was the stranger?—I cannot remember what sort of a man. He was just passing by; he said, "That is Mr. Kilby." I went over to him. I did not know the man. He was going by.

1907. One stranger points out to you another stranger, and you go and speak for five minutes to the second stranger without knowing what it is about?—Yes; it is a long while since; I cannot remember.

1908. What sort of looking man was the stranger who pointed him out to you?—I cannot remember.

1909. You have never seen that stranger since?—No.

1910. Did you see either of the Mr. Eaves's on the polling day?—No.

1911. How long did you stop in Coventry?—I went back at night.

1912. With the same man you had come with?—Yes.

1913. And you got home late to Leicester?—Yes.

1914. Did you go to the "Talbot" the next day?—Yes.

1915. What for?—I went and had a pint of ale there.

1869.

1916. Was that the only object?—Yes.
1917. Was any appointment made with any man to come there?—No.
1918. What time of day were you there?—About one.
1919. Who were there at the time you were there?—I do not remember who were there.
1920. Was Frederick Clark there?—I do not remember.
1921. Will you swear that upon your oath?—Yes.
1922. Was Smith there?—I cannot remember.
1923. Was Denny there?—I do not remember seeing him there.
1924. Was George Wagstaff there?—I do not remember.
1925. Or a man of the name of Cleaver?—No, I have never seen him there.
1926. Give me the name of one person who was there, one of the Coventry voters?—I cannot remember seeing anybody there.
1927. That you swear?—Yes.
1928. You have forgotten every one?—Yes.
1929. That is not six months ago?—No.
1930. And you do not recollect one person who was present?—No.
1931. Not one?—No.
1932. Do you recollect what you talked about?—No.
1933. Not a word?—Not a word.
1934. The whole scene as to who was present?—I did not exchange any words with any one.
1935. You did not speak?—I went and had a pint of ale, and came out; I had nothing to do with the affair.
1936. You did not speak whilst you were there?—I must have spoken; I cannot remember who I did speak to.
1937. You say you had nothing to do with the affair; what affair?—Election affairs.
1938. You had come over and voted?—Yes.
1939. You had something to do with that affair; what did you mean by saying you had nothing to do with the affair?—I had nothing to do with the affair any more than voting.
1940. Had anybody anything to do with the affair?—Not to my knowledge.
1941. What do you mean by the word “affair”?—Taking an interest in it.
1942. You did, even to the sacrifice of your life?—I took an interest in it so far, I was willing to support them as far as I could.
1943. You had something to do with the affair in that sense; when you used just now the word “affair,” did not you mean the satisfying of those men?—No.
1944. Upon your oath, was anything said at that time about men getting their money?—No.
1945. Did not you tell them you had no money for them?—No.
1946. Did not you tell them you could not pay them anything?—No, I never mentioned nothing; it was nothing to do with me.
1947. Did George Wagstaff have any money from you?—No.
1948. Not a farthing?—Not a farthing.
1949. Did you lend him 5s. after his child died?—No.
1950. Did Frederick Clark ask you for any money?—No, I do not remember that he ever did.
1951. Will you swear he did not?—Yes.
1952. Could you have forgotten that; you have forgotten the conversation in the street with

Mr. Kilby, and you have forgotten who were present at this meeting; will you now swear that that was not asked from you?—Yes.
1953. Your memory is quite good?—I will swear it was not asked from me.
1954. Is your memory quite good upon that subject?—I can remember that that was not asked of me.
1955. Not by Clark?—Yes.
1956. Clark was not there, was he?—I do not know; I do not remember him being there.
1957. You have sworn positively that Clark did not ask you. Was Clark there or not?—No, I did not see him there.
1958. Is that the reason you swear he did not ask you?—Yes.
1959. Did Samuel Smith ask you for any money?—No.
1960. Nor Cleaver?—No.
1961. Did you say you had got the money for the Bishop-street Ward then?—No, I never said anything of the kind.
1962. Was no complaint made that they had not been paid or satisfied?—No.
1963. From first to last you never had any suggestion made to you that they should be paid for their loss of time?—No.
1964. By anyone?—No.
1965. That you swear, with all its consequences?—I will.
1966. Did Denny never apply to you for any money?—No.
1967. There was never a suggestion made to you that the men were complaining, by anybody, till you came here?—No, they never complained to me.
1968. You never heard that they were complaining from anyone?—No.
1969. The first time you heard of it was when?—I never heard of it at all.
1970. You had never heard of it till you came into the box?—Yes, I had.
1971. When did you first hear that they were complaining?—I never heard at all.
1972. Till you came into the box?—No.
1973. Why did you tell me you had heard of it; you said, “Yes, I had heard of it.” You tell us, till I had put these questions to you, you never heard of it at all?—I have never received a farthing, or paid a farthing away. I know nothing at all about the matter; upon my oath, I know no more about this job than nothing at all.
1974. Mr. Justice Willes.] How did you come over?—I came over by a cab, by a vehicle.
1975. Mr. James.] Do you persist in saying that until I had put these questions to you, you never heard that the men were complaining that they could not get paid?—Yes.
1976. This takes you by surprise?—I never heard of it till you told me.
1977. You have been in Coventry all day yesterday, and all last night, do you mean to say you never heard it alleged that you paid these men?—Yes.
1978. You never heard of it till I put these questions to you?—I heard it outside that they accused me.
1979. When did you hear that; when you were here yesterday?—I never heard of it before the election.
1980. Did you hear of it after the election?—No, not till we came here; not till I came here yesterday.
1981. Have

H. Parker.

17 February
1869.

1981. Have you been over to Coventry since the election?—I came once or twice.

1982. When was that?—About a fortnight ago; I came to see my mother; she was very ill.

1983. Did you see anyone else?—I have seen several; I have seen several of my friends; I went to all of them.

1984. Did you see anybody about election matters?—No.

1985. Did you go to Mr. Dews's office?—No.

1986. Did you see either of the Eaves's?—No.

1987. Did you see neither of the Eaves's?—No.

1988. Have you seen no one at all since the election about this matter?—No.

1989. Did you speak to Samuel Smith yesterday as he left the box?—No, he passed me by just as he left the box.

1990. Did he speak to you?—No.

1991. Will you swear that?—Yes.

1992. Did he not use these words to you in the presence of two telegraph clerks; "Do not you split"?—On my oath he never did.

1993. Did he not use these words to you; "Do not you split"?—He never did; he never spoke a word to me.

1994. Also did he not say to you as he passed outside, "Stick to them, Harry, we shall do them"?—He did not.

1995. What do you work at at Leicester?—Elastic weaving.

1996. In a factory?—Yes.

1997. How are you paid, by the piece or by wages?—By the piece.

1998. Did you go back to your employment after the election at Coventry?—Yes.

1999. When did you go back to your work again?—I went on the Wednesday afternoon.

2000. To work?—Yes.

2001. How long did you stop on?—Something like a week.

2002. For three weeks after the election did you work more than half a day at your work?—Yes.

2003. For the fortnight next after the election did you work more than one-half day?—I was turned off my work in the week after the election, and I believe I had about two or three half days after the election; after the Wednesday.

2004. How did you support yourself after that?—By my children and wife.

2005. You did not work?—No, I had no work to do; my wife and children got the amount of 1 l. in the week, and I was obliged to sell an engine for a little money. I think it was the amount of 3 l. 5 s. to support us, with the children, and what they got as well.

2006. You have had no money from Coventry?—No.

2007. Not a farthing?—No. (The Witness referred to a paper which was handed to Mr. Huddleston).

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2008. You were working for a Mr. Turner?—Yes.

2009. We heard him described yesterday as a red-hot Radical?—Yes.

2010. After you voted for the Conservatives of Coventry, he turned you about your business?—Yes; he said he would not have me about his ground any more; he knew I spoke my mind in a general way at Coventry, and knew I was a man very true to the cause, and he did not like me. I spoke my mind to the foreman and several of them, and he turned me off at a minute's notice; he told me that he would not have it.

2011. Was that the reason you were obliged to sell your machine, to support your wife and family?—Yes.

2012. This is the machine you sold (referring to the paper)?—Yes.

2013. That is dated the 31st of December?—Yes.

2014. You say you went back the same day?—The day after.

2015. Was that in the same vehicle?—I went back in the same vehicle.

2016. I think you said you never paid any money, or received any money, or anything of the sort?—Yes; I never did.

2017. Mr. Justice Willes.] How many men came over in the vehicle?—I think 22.

2018. Were those men living at Leicester?—Yes.

2019. What did they come over for?—To vote.

2020. Were they all of a side?—Yes.

2021. Every one?—Yes.

2022. How many men went back in the vehicle?—I cannot tell you; some of them stopped at Coventry; there might be a matter of 18.

2023. Who were the men who did not go back?—I cannot remember the men who did not go back; I know there were two or three who did not come back.

2024. Cannot you remember the name of anyone who did not go back in the vehicle?—Only Whitmore.

2025. Who is he?—One of the voters.

2026. What is he?—An elastic weaver.

2027. Where does he live?—His home is in Coventry; I do not know where he lodges.

2028. Where does Kilby live?—I do not know.

2029. Were you ever at his house?—No.

2030. Where was it you spoke to him?—Up the Cross.

2031. How came you to speak to him?—I had got nothing to speak to him. A man says, "There is Kilby." I went over to him. I cannot remember what passed; I cannot remember any conversation.

2032. Had you seen him before?—Not to my knowledge.

2033. Did you know his name when you saw him?—Yes, I knew his name when I saw him.

2034. Did you know his name before the person said "That is Mr. Kilby"?—I had heard of him.

2035. Heard of him as being what?—Nothing particular; only I knew he was a baker.

2036. How came you to go and speak to him?—I had no particular business; I do not know how I went over to him. We spoke, and had five minutes' conversation. It is about six months ago; I cannot remember what it was.

2037. How long was it before the election?—About three months; I should think three or four months.

2038. It seems odd; I wish you would explain it, if you can?—I cannot remember; it had nothing at all to do with the election.

2039. Do you go up to speak to every baker?—It happened accidentally, as I was coming by.

2040. You do not listen to the question: do you

H. Parker. you go up and speak to every baker whom you do not know, but whose name happens to be mentioned in your presence?—No, it happened so I did; but I do not know what was the cause of it; I cannot remember.

17 February
1869.

2041. Where does Kilby live?—I do not know.

2042. You are sure you do not know now?—Yes.

2043. Nor where he is to be found?—No.

2044. You have no idea?—No idea.

Mr. JAMES INCE, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.

Mr. J. Ince. 2045. WHAT are you in connection with the telegraph office?—Telegraph clerk; clerk in charge at Coventry.

2046. Do you produce any telegram to London from Mr. Seymour; first give any from Mr. Seymour, whether to Leicester or London?—I have one or two from Mr. Seymour, but I have instructions from our secretary not to let those papers leave my hands.

Mr. James.] You must address yourself to his Lordship.

Witness (addressing his Lordship).] I have instructions not to let these papers leave my hands, and to answer no questions, unless I am authorised by you.

Mr. Justice Willes.] The secretary has no such power; the only people who can refuse to answer questions are attorneys, and, of course, counsel, who would stand on the same footing for a stronger reason. I do not enter into any question whether another class is or is not privileged. I do not choose to introduce matter that is doubtful; but with the exception, perhaps, of people in Government offices as to matters of State, and counsel and attorneys, I do not know of any class that is privileged. On another class a question might arise. I do not mention it here; but it is quite clear that telegraph companies are not privileged.

Witness.] Then I am authorised by you to hand these papers to counsel?

Mr. Justice Willes.] From what you have stated has passed with the secretary, it is quite clear that his attention has been called to the subject, and he has sent you to represent him, and I must address you exactly as I would address the secretary. If you had come here without having seen the secretary, I might have said send the secretary, and I would not have put the responsibility upon you; but as the secretary told you you were not to produce them unless the Court required it, I do not think I compromise you at all by saying to you, as I would have said to the secretary, you are bound by law to produce them. If you did not produce them, in point of fact, everybody connected with the telegraph company who could lay his hand on the papers would be subject to be brought here, and to be punished for not producing them.

2047. Mr. James.] Will you produce a telegram from Seymour to Burrowes, if you have one?—

2048. Mr. Huddleston.] Have you brought Mr. Kirby's telegrams too?

Mr. James.] You can subpoena him, and ask him that question if you like hereafter.

Witness.] I cannot let them leave my hands.

Mr. Justice Willes.] That will involve a great deal of walking about. You will first have to walk to Mr. James, then you will have to walk to Mr. Huddleston, and then to me. It has been expressly ruled, as I understand from the reports, by Mr. Justice Keogh in the Dublin case, with the approbation of the profession, that telegrams are not privileged.

Mr. Huddleston.] I make no objection to that, my Lord.

Mr. James.] This is a telegram signed by Arthur Seymour, Coventry.

Mr. Huddleston.] Will you let me see it first (it was handed to Mr. Huddleston)?

2049. Mr. James.] "Arthur Seymour, Coventry, to Burrowes, Abbey Mills, Leicester. Friend coming by the 3.50 train from here." This is Arthur Seymour, who is the returned agent of the sitting Member. That is dated "November the 16th," the nomination day. (To the Witness.) Have you any others from Seymour?—There is another here (handing it to Mr. James).

2050. Mr. James.] This is another from the same to the same: "Arthur Seymour, Coventry, to Burrowes, Abbey Mills, Leicester." The date I read to be November the 16th, though it looks something like the 14th. "We are sending over to-day a friend; will call upon you in the afternoon." (To the Witness.) Have you any telegrams received at your office; first from Freeman, of Leicester, to Eaves, of Coventry?—There is one here.

Mr. James (handing it to Mr. Huddleston).] Do you object to that?

Mr. Huddleston.] It is not signed.

Mr. James.] Freeman, of Leicester, to Eaves, "Newdigate Arms," New-street, Coventry.

Mr. Huddleston.] It is not signed by anybody at all; it is in the hands of any person connected with the other party to play a trick of that sort.

Mr. Justice Willes.] The only question at present is, whether it is to be admitted as part of the evidence; as I understand, Freeman was one of the persons spoken to by one of the witnesses as having been at the Hinckley-road.

Mr. Huddleston was heard in support of his objection to the telegram being put in, it having no signature.

Mr. Justice Willes ruled that it might be admitted as one of the circumstances of the case.

Mr. James.] It is dated the 14th of November

venber 1869, from Freeman, of Leicester, to Eaves, "Newdigate Arms," New-street, Coventry: "Twenty-five or more coming; send a register by last train to-night, in care of guard; I will meet him."

Mr. Justice Willes.] This is the Saturday?

2051. Mr. James.] Yes. (To the Witness.) Have you a telegram from a person of the name of Hooper, London—I do not know the date—to Hedger, Coventry?—Yes 2052. Will you tell me the date of that?—November the 17th (handing the same to the learned Counsel).

Mr. James.] This is from H. E. Hooper, 17, Warwick-street, Regent-street, to Hedger, Broad-gate, Coventry.

Mr. Huddleston objected to the reception of this as evidence, the name of Hooper never having been mentioned, and the name of Hedger only having been mentioned in the opening speech of Mr. James.

Mr. Justice Willes.] This relates to the London men, I suppose?

Mr. James.] Yes.

Mr. Justice Willes.] We had better have that presently; it is not admissible at present.

2053. Mr. James (to the Witness).] Have you one from Leicester addressed to Mr. Clare, Coventry?—Yes (handing the same to the learned Counsel).

2054. Mr. James.] I find that refers to a private business matter. (To the Witness.) Have you a telegram from a person of the name of Woodward to Mr. Eaves, of the "Newdigate Arms"?—That is a private matter also (handing it to Mr. James).

Mr. James.] I see this is addressed to a lady.

Mr. James proposed to ask the witness questions with reference to the conversation he had overheard between Parker and Samuel Smith, in contradiction of Parker's evidence this morning.

Mr. Huddleston objected to such questions being put to the witness.

Mr. Justice Willes held that the questions might be put, stating that the rule was that where you have an adverse witness you may cross-examine him, and where you may cross-examine you may contradict.

2055. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] Were you present here, in court, yesterday?—I was in the ante-room, waiting to be called in.

2056. Did you hear anything said by that man, Samuel Smith, to the witness, Henry Parker?—Yes; I heard him say, "Do not you split."

2057. Who said "Do not split"?—The witness that just left the witness-box, to Parker.

2058. What else did he say, if anything?—I didn't hear anything else; there was something else said. There was myself and the other telegraph clerk there waiting in the ante-room; and the clerk, Mr. Dalgleish, I believe, was there.

2059. Are you quite sure that you heard those words then?—I am quite sure that I heard him say "Do not split."

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2060. Have you a telegram there from Mr. Kirby, to some people at Leicester?—No.

2061. Nor Fox?—No.

2062. Have you brought all the telegrams?—No; I have only brought a few that were specially called for and specified.

2063. You have only brought those that you were directed to bring?—Yes.

2064. By whom?—I was subpoenaed by Mr. Kirby, and I sent the subpoena to my superintendent.

2065. I don't find any fault with you; did Mr. Kirby direct you what telegrams you were to bring?—He directed to the secretary.

2066. And therefore you have only got those?—I have only got those.

2067. And therefore you have not all the telegrams that came?—Oh no.

2068. My learned friend says there were thousands; is that so?—There were only 11 telegrams.

2069. Where was it that you were standing yesterday?—In the ante-room here, close to here; the room between here and the witness-room. I was expecting to be called in every moment, but unfortunately I had left a minute or two, and another witness was called in, and I was waiting there expecting to be called in.

2070. Do you know Parker?—I have heard his name called, and he had been in once or twice, that was all.

2071. But as the man passed by he said something?—As he passed by I became an unwilling witness to what he said.

2072. Then he passed on?—Then he passed on.

2073. It was done almost as quickly as I am speaking to you now?—Oh yes, just as he was passing.

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

2074. Are you quite sure he said that?—Yes, I am quite sure he said, "Do not split"; I believe he said something else, but I did not hear it all; I would like to have the telegrams.

2075. They are in safer custody than your own.

Mr. Justice Willes said that documents given in evidence would remain in the custody of the officer of the court until the trial closed.

[The Witness withdrew.

EBENEZER SMITH, sworn; Examined by Mr. H. James.

2076. ARE you a Clerk at one of the telegraph offices here?—Yes.

2077. Do you produce any telegram addressed to a man of the name of Hammerton, at Dudley?—
275.

—Yes; our company have a very strong objection to producing them.

2078. Mr. Justice Willes.] I will hear anything that you have to say in addition to what the other witness has said?—They have a very strong objection to producing them, as they are considered strictly confidential.
F the

2079. You were not told not to produce them if the judge bade you, I suppose?—Oh, no.

2080. If you were I should have required the secretary, and if he made that objection I should have required all the directors to come here in turn, and I should have been obliged to deal with all the superiors at the end if they did not produce them; but as you represent the company, I must tell you that the law obliges you to produce them?—

2081. Mr. Henry James.] This is a telegram of November 16th, 1868, signed James Kilby, from Eaton's Committee, Hales-street, Coventry, to Mr. Thomas Hammerton, 21, Cross-street, Gads-lane, Dudley: "Come by the first train to 'Stag,' Bishop's-street." (To the Witness.) Were you present here yesterday?—I was.

2082. Were you in company with Mr. Ince, the last witness, in the room outside, as Samuel Smith, the witness, left the box?—Yes.

2083. Did you hear him say anything to Henry Parker?—I heard him say, "Don't you split."

2084. Did you hear anything else said?—There was not time, as Henry Parker was about going into the witness-box.

2085. Smith went out, and Parker came in?—Yes, just as I passed, he came in.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2086. As they were going one passed the other?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

2087. These appear to be duplicates?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN WILES, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

J. Wiles.

2088. ARE you on the register of voters for this city?—Yes.

2089. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

2090. For whom?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

2091. Where were you at the time of the election?—In London.

2092. Were you at work there in employment?—Yes.

2093. How long had you left Coventry?—It might be six or seven months.

2094. You were permanently residing in London, then?—Yes, my wife and family were in Coventry.

2095. Did you have any communication from anyone before the election about coming to Coventry?—No, I had a letter from my wife.

2096. You had a communication from your wife? Yes.

2097. Was it in consequence of that, that you came?—Not on that business; I was sending my "misses" post-office orders from London, and never received any answer back again, and I thought there was something wrong.

2098. Is your "misses" your wife?—Yes.

2099. You had a letter from her?—Yes.

2100. Then that was all right; did you have any communication from anyone else except your wife?—No.

2101. Nor saw anybody in London?—No.

2102. Did you have a circular or card?—No.

2103. You came to Coventry, and you voted?—Yes.

2104. After voting, did you receive any money from anyone?—No.

2105. Do you know a man of the name of Moore?—Yes.

2106. Have you seen him?—I see him the day after the election.

2107. Who is he?—I see Moore the day after the election.

2108. And who is he?—I told him I was going to London that day after the election; "Well," he says, "it wants some money to go back with." "Well," I says, "I should like some." "Well," he says, "I dare not give you any—I will give your wife some;" and I thought of course he had some; afterwards I went to see my wife, and he never gave her any at all.

2109. Who is Moore?—He is a watchmaker, I believe; that is all I know about him.

2110. Where does he live?—At Mote-street.

2111. Did you meet him by accident?—I met him by accident on the morning of the election.

2112. Who first spoke about the money; you to him, or he to you?—It was him to me.

2113. Tell me again what he said?—He asked me if I wanted any money to go back to London; I said, "I should like some." "Well," he says, "I dare not give you any—I will give your wife some;" and of course I thought it was all straight.

2114. When did you go back to London?—Well, I think it was the Thursday morning.

2115. You have stated that you went to your wife, and made some application to her; was that before you left?—That was on the Wednesday.

2116. Is your wife in Coventry now?—Yes.

2117. Was there any amount mentioned at all by him to give you?—He said I should have 50 s.

2118. Moore mentioned that your wife should have 50 s.?—Yes.

2119. Before mentioning that amount, did he ask you what your expenses had been, or anything of that kind?—No, he never inquired that at all.

2120. But he fixed that sum?—He fixed that sum.

2121. Your wife is in Coventry now?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2122. What were you doing in London?—Dyeing.

2123. You are a dyer by trade?—Yes.

2124. Were you on a job then?—I worked there.

2125. And your wife and family were living in Coventry?—In Coventry.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM TOONEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

2126. You are a voter for this city, I believe?
Yes.

2127. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr Eaton and Hill.

2128. Where were you living at the time of the election?—In London.

2129. I believe your wife was in Coventry?—Yes.

2130. At any time in the day before the election, did you receive any communication from her?—That would be on the Monday; no.

2131. You thought it was Monday; at any time shortly before the election?—Any more than I sent weekly; I used to send communications weekly; sending my wages.

2132. That would be from you to her; I am asking from her to you?—Respecting the election?

2133. I have no right to ask you that, but did you have any communication from her?—She used to write back just to say about the family, and that was all.

2134. You had no telegrams shortly before the election?—No; only from her.

2135. You had a telegram from her?—Yes.

2136. When was that?—That would be on the Monday, the nomination day, on the Monday evening.

2137. I may have misunderstood you, but I understood you to say just now that you had not a communication from her on the Monday?—I got on the Monday a telegraphic message.

2138. Did you have it on Monday?—On Monday evening, I did.

2139. Have you kept that paper?—No.

2140. When did you leave London to come and vote?—The same evening.

2141. The same evening that you received the telegram?—Yes.

2142. And I suppose you were going to Coventry on the Monday night or Tuesday morning?—The Monday night.

2143. Then on the Tuesday you voted?—Yes.

2144. Have you received any money since?—Well, I did receive money.

2145. What?—I received 2*l.* 10*s.*

2146. From whom?—A man named Moore.

2147. Do you know his Christian name?—I think it is "John."

2148. Where does he live?—I don't know exactly where he lives, but I saw him in the street.

2149. Do you know whether he is a watch-maker?—I think he is.

2150. What took place between you and him before he gave you the 2*l.* 10*s.*?—He says, "I suppose you want to go back to London." I says "Yes." He says, "I suppose you could do with a bit of money to go with." And I says, "I could."

2151. What then?—He says, "I will come to you."

2152. Did he come?—Yes.

2153. When was that?—A few minutes after.

2154. Where did he come to?—To the "Rose" public-house.

2155. Did you tell him you would meet him at the "Rose"?—No, he told me to go in.

2156. Then he gave you 2*l.* 10*s.*?—Yes.

2157. Did he ask you what it had cost you to come?—No.

275.

2158. And he said nothing more than you W. Tooney.
have told us?—No.

2159. What did it cost you to come?—Well, I 17 February 1869.
paid 12*s.* 3*d.* to come.

2160. And how much to go back?—Eight shillings.

2161. And when did you go back?—On the following Thursday.

2162. I suppose you were at home with your wife and family whilst you were here?—Yes, in Coventry.

2163. Did you see or receive any communication at all from Mr. Hedger, whilst you were here?—No.

2164. Did you know him?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2165. Where did you give your evidence; who took your evidence down; Mr. Kirby's clerk, Mr. Fox?—No; Mr. Micklewright, I think.

2166. Do you know who Mr. Micklewright is?—I believe he is a lawyer.

2167. Did he call himself a "commissioner"?—He did not say what he was.

2168. Did he give you anything?—He gave me 2*l.* as conduct money.

2169. When was that?—When I gave my evidence.

2170. But how long ago was it that Micklewright gave you that 2*l.*?—I think it was about the 1st of February.

2171. It was before you were subpoenaed?—Yes.

2172. Was that all you have had from Micklewright?—He gave me 5*s.* last night to get something to eat.

2173. Did you receive any money from anybody to come here as a witness?—No; that is the only money that I had from Mr. Micklewright, and he paid my fare; young Mr. Micklewright.

2174. He gave you 2*l.*, and young Mr. Micklewright paid your fare?—Young Mr. Micklewright gave me 2*l.*, and he paid my fare besides that to come down.

2175. Did he give you anything to drink?—Yes; we had one glass of porter at the Euston Station, and one glass of ale at Rugby.

2176. But I mean when he was taking your evidence?—Yes, we had some porter.

2177. While they were taking down your evidence?—Yes; we had some porter.

2178. While they were taking down your evidence?—Yes.

2179. Was it taken down in a public-house?—No; at Mr. Goddard's, the foreman, where I worked.

2180. And then they sent out for some drink?—Yes.

2181. While your evidence was being taken?—Yes.

2182. Did Micklewright promise you anything for giving your evidence?—Yes.

2183. What did he promise you?—He said that if I would come and give my evidence, he would allow me 10*s.* a day.

2184. Anything else?—He would pay all my expenses besides.

2185. Did he say you would be punished if
you

W. Tooney.
 17 February
 1869.

you did not?—He said I had better speak the truth as near as I could, and I have.

2186. But did he say that you would be punished if you did not?—Yes.

2187. Did he say that you would be prosecuted if you did not come?—Oh, yes.

2188. He said you would be prosecuted if you did not come?—Yes.

2189. Did he say how much you would get if you did not come?—He said I was liable to two or three months.

2190. 'Two or three months' what?—Imprisonment.

2191. You were liable to two or three months' imprisonment if you did not come?—Yes.

2192. And you would get 10 s. a day and your expenses if you did?—Yes.

2193. As I understand, you came and you voted for Eaton and Hill. At what time did you vote for Eaton and Hill?—I think it was about 10 o'clock in the morning, or a little after.

2194. When was it that you saw this man Moore?—The next day.

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

2195. Did Mr. Micklewright say anything to you about your telling the truth?—Yes; he said he hoped I should tell the truth.

2196. Have you done so to-day?—Yes.

2197. Had you been in communication with Mr. Dewes or any one since you have been here?—Yes.

2198. The gentleman who is sitting 'here'?—Yes.

2199. When did you go there?—Yesterday.

2200. To his office?—No.

2201. Where did you see him?—At the "King's Head."

2202. Did you make any statement to him?—About the same.

2203. About the same that you have told us to-day?—Yes.

2204. Did you send for him, or did he come to you?—I wished to go and see him. I went up there, and I see him a-coming, and I said, "I want to see you," or something of that kind, and I went into the room to him.

2205. At the "King's Head"?—At the "King's Head."

2206. And you made the statement to him which you have made here to-day?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ADELAIDE TOONEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

A. Tooney.

2207. WHAT is your Christian name?—Adelaide Tooney.

2208. You are the wife, I believe, of the last witness?—Yes.

2209. At the time of the last election you were resident in Coventry?—Yes.

2210. And he was in London?—Yes.

2211. We hear that on the nomination day, the Monday, you telegraphed to your husband?—Yes, I did.

2212. What caused you to do that?—Well, I wished him to come down.

2213. That is natural enough, but did anybody call upon you?—Yes, a gentleman called, and I asked him what his name was, and he said, Mr. Westropp.

2214. Had you ever seen him before?—No, not that I know of.

2215. What did Mr. Westropp say to you?—He asked me if my husband—

Mr. Huddleston objected to the last question.

Mr. Justice Willes overruled the objection.

2216. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] When was it that Westropp called upon you?—The day before the polling day.

2217. What did Mr. Westropp say to you?—He asked me if my husband was come, and I said he was not. He said, "Why not telegraph for him?" and I said, "Do you think he would come?" and he said, "Yes." He says, "I should telegraph for him," and I did so.

2218. Your husband was earning weekly wages, was not he, in London?—Yes.

2219. Was anything at all said to you about his expenses?—No.

2220. Did you ask anything about how he was to be paid?—No.

2221. Simply that you were to telegraph?—That I was to telegraph.

2222. You have not seen Mr. Westropp since, I suppose?—No, I have not.

2223. That was all that took place?—That was all that took place.

2224. And you followed those instructions, or at least that conversation, and telegraphed?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN SHUTTLEWORTH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

J. Shuttleworth.

2225. WHERE do you live?—At Atkin-square, in Coventry.

2226. Are you a voter for Coventry?—Yes.

2227. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Eaton and Hill.

2228. Before you voted, did anybody come to canvass you for your vote?—Yes, they came.

2229. Did Mr. Eaton come himself?—They both came; Mr. Eaton, Mr. Hill, and Mr. Odell, and Mr. Mann, and others that I did not know.

2230. Is that a Mr. James Mann; is his Christian name James?—Yes.

2231. Does he live in Little South-street?—I think he does.

2232. Did they come together on that occasion; Mr. Hill and Mr. Odell, and Mr. Mann, and the other party?—Yes.

2233. Did they come in a party together?—Yes.

2234. The two candidates came, Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes.

2235. How long before the polling day was that?—On the Wednesday before the election, about one o'clock in the day.

2236. Were

2236. Were you asked for your vote then?—Yes, they ax'd me for my vote.

2237. Who asked you?—Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton, and I told them I had not promised it to anyone.

2238. When you told them that you had not promised it to anyone, what did they say?—They just asked me for my vote, and I said I had not made my mind up.

2239. On the next day, Thursday, did anybody come to you?—Yes.

2240. Who?—Mr. Mann and another gentleman; I do not know the other gentleman.

2241. Is that the same Mr. James Mann who came the day before with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes.

2242. At what time was that?—It was in the afternoon, between three and four, about half-past three.

2243. Did Mr. Mann say anything about your vote then?—Yes, he ax'd me if I had made my mind up, and I said I had not; I was no nearer than I was when they came the day before.

2244. On the next day, Friday, did anybody come to you?—Yes.

2245. Who?—Mr. Mann.

2246. Mr. Mann again?—Yes.

2247. What happened on the Friday, when he came to you?—He ax'd me again, and I told him I had not made up my mind yet; but he would give me half-a-sovereign when the election was over.

2248. Mr. Mann said he would give you half-a-sovereign when the election was over?—Yes.

2249. Did he name any other sum of money besides the half-sovereign?—He said he could help me to half-a-crown the next day, Saturday.

2250. And he said he would give you half-a-sovereign when the election was over?—Yes.

2251. Did he come again on the Saturday?—Yes, at about half-past three o'clock.

2252. Were you alone when he came on the Saturday?—Also my wife, Elizabeth Shuttleworth, was in there.

2253. What happened when he came on the Saturday?—He came in, and he nudged me on the shoulder to go into the back kitchen, and I went into the back kitchen with him, and he closed the door and put the door to, and gave me half-a-crown.

2254. And when he nudged you and took you into the back kitchen, did your wife go with you, or did you go alone?—I went along with him alone.

2255. When he gave you the half-crown in the back kitchen did he say anything about any other money?—He said he would give me half-a-sovereign when the election was over.

2256. On the Monday, the nomination day, did you see Mr. Mann again?—He came to our house on the Monday morning just before eight o'clock, and he said he had not got a card for me with the right number, but he said he would send one up on the Monday morning.

2257. Did he then go, after telling you that?—Yes.

2258. The next day you told us that you polled for Eaton and Hill?—Yes.

2259. At what time did you poll?—About 11 o'clock.

2260. On the following day, Wednesday, did you see Mr. Mann, the day after the polling?—Yes, he came to our house at six o'clock at night.

275.

2261. Were you alone when he came to your house?—Yes.

2262. When he came to your house did he do or say anything?—He came in and after a few words he gave me the half-sovereign.

2263. Where did he give you the half-sovereign?—In the house.

2264. When he gave you the half-sovereign did he say anything?—He said that I was not to say anything to anyone.

2265. Was that all that he said?—He said that if I was to say anything, I should get perhaps three months, both of us.

2266. Did you do any election work?—No.

2267. Since this Petition have you seen Mr. Dewes?—Yes.

2268. Where did you see him?—Me and a man of the name of Mr. Greenway, he came to the workhouse, and he came from there to the "King's Head."

2269. Did you see Mr. Dewes at the "King's Head"?—No, he was not there, and they told us to go from there into Hay-lane to Mr. Dewes's office.

2270. Who told you that?—A man from the "King's Head."

2271. Did you go to Mr. Dewes's office?—I went to Mr. Dewes's office.

2272. Did you see Mr. Dewes at the office?—Yes, after waiting there a while.

2273. Did you say anything to Mr. Dewes or did Mr. Dewes say anything to you when you saw him at his office?—He did not say much to me; he was talking to this man Greenway that was along with me.

2274. Did you hear what Mr. Dewes said?—I did not; I did not hear particularly what he said.

2275. Did you write or sign anything at Mr. Dewes's office?—Not then.

2276. Did you write or sign anything at that time anywhere else?—At night.

2277. Where?—They told us to go from there and go the back way, me and this Greenway and another man, we had to go the back way to a public-house in Bailey-lane.

2278. Who told you that?—They told this Greenway who was along with me.

2279. Who told this Greenway?—I do not know.

2280. Were you told to go along this back way at Mr. Dewes's office?—Yes.

2281. Did you go up that back way with Greenway?—Yes.

2282. Did you go to this inn?—We went to this public-house.

2283. Did you have anything at this public-house?—Yes.

2284. What?—We had some steak and some ale.

2285. You and Greenway?—Yes, and another man was along with us.

2286. How long were you at this public-house?—They kept us waiting till eight o'clock at night.

2287. What time did you go there?—I think it was about nine or half-past nine in the morning.

Mr. Justice Willes intimated that he considered that this would more properly come out in re-examination.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2288. You do not mean to say that you saw this

J. Shuttleworth.
17 February
1869.

J. Shuttleworth. this gentleman (pointing to a person in Court)?—
He was in the office.

17 February 1869. 2289. You don't mean to say that you saw this gentleman, Mr. Dewes, and spoke to him?—
Not spoke to him exactly; Greenway was the person.

2290. Did not Mr. Dewes decline to have anything to do with you, you know what I mean?—
(The Witness hesitated.)

2291. Was not that so; did not Mr. Dewes say that he would have nothing whatsoever to do with you?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2292. Do not look from me there and from there here, but answer the question?—(After some hesitation.) I don't know no more than what this man was saying.

2293. Did not Mr. Dewes say, "I will have nothing to do with you"?—I did not hear him say that.

2294. Did not they tell you at Mr. Dewes's office that Mr. Dewes had sent to say that he would have nothing to do with you?—I did not hear him say that.

2295. You went to Mr. Dewes's office?—Yes.

2296. You did not speak to Mr. Dewes?—He came into the office, and me, and this Greenway, and another man, we was together.

2297. And he would not speak to you?—He did not speak to me exactly, he spoke to Greenway and the others.

2298. Just recollect now, did he not say he would have nothing to do with you?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2299. Did he not say so?—Well, I do not know.

2300. Did he not say in your presence that he would have nothing to do with you. Now, answer that question, you can?—I cannot say, I am sure, whether he said he would have nothing to do with me or not.

2301. Did he not say, when he came into the office, and you were there, "I will have nothing to do with him," and "go away"?—I did not hear him say that.

2302. Did not Mr. Dewes come into the office, and when they said "Shuttleworth is there," did he not say "I have nothing to do with you," and walk out. Was not that what took place?—
(The Witness hesitated.)

2303. Why do you not answer me?—This Greenway that was along with me, and this other, said that we should have to go from there.

2304. I am not asking you about Greenway, I am asking you about Mr. Dewes. Did not Mr. Dewes come into the office, and did not somebody say, "There is Shuttleworth," and did not Mr. Dewes say, "I will have nothing to do with you," and go through his office, and 'go away. Was not that what took place?—I do not remember his telling me that he would have nothing to do with me.

2305. Will you swear that he did not?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2306. Will you swear that he did not say so?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2307. Why do you not answer the question, it is a very simple thing that I put to you?—I do not remember hearing him say that he would not have anything to do with me.

2308. Will you swear that Mr. Dewes did not come into the office, and upon your name being mentioned, say, "I will have nothing to do with you," and walk through the office?—Well, if he did say so, I did not hear him.

2309. However, you had no conversation yourself with Mr. Dewes?—No.

2310. Do you know Mr. Pears?—Yes.

2311. Who is Mr. Pears?—He lives at Allesley.

2312. What is he, is he a Dark Blue?—I don't know, I am sure.

2313. Is he a Liberal?—I believe he is; I have been told so.

2314. Have you had any money from him?—Yes; he gave me 10 s.

2315. Only 10 s.?—Only 10 s.

2316. Will you swear that?—Yes; last Christmas.

2317. Will you swear that he gave you no more?—He has given me no more.

2318. You will swear that?—Yes.

2319. Four pounds?—No, he did not give me 4 l.

2320. Has he promised it you?—No; he has not promised.

2321. Who has, then?—No one has promised it me.

2322. Do you mean to say that you have not been promised 4 l. from Mr. Pears?—No; Mr. Pears never promised me 4 l.

2323. Has anybody promised you that Mr. Pears should give you 4 l.?—(After some hesitation.) No.

2324. Be cautious now. Has anybody promised you that Mr. Pears should give you 4 l.?—He never promised me 4 l.

2325. I know you say so, but has anybody told you that Mr. Pears would give you 4 l.?—I don't know as anyone has.

2326. Will you swear that they have not?—
(The Witness hesitated.)

2327. Will you swear that they have not?—
(The Witness hesitated.)

2328. Come now, answer that question. Has anybody told you that Mr. Pears would give you 4 l.? Why do you not answer the question? I will keep you there until you do answer it one way or the other?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2329. Come now, out with it?—I had spoken to him about the gift.

2330. I am asking about the 4 l. Was anything said about the 4 l., and do not let me have any mistake about that; did you speak to Mr. Pears about the 4 l. Don't put anything else upon me?—(After some hesitation.) I axed Mr. Pears about it, and he said he would do what he could when the time came about the 4 l.

2331. Mr. Pears said he would do something when the time came about the 4 l.?—Yes.

2332. Did Mr. Pears tell you that?—He said he would speak to a gentleman about it.

2333. Was that because you had asked him for the 4 l.?—I just named to him about it.

2334. What did you name to him about it?—About the 4 l.

2335. Did you tell him you were going to be a witness?—No.

2336. Had he asked you to give evidence?—No.

2337. Had he spoken about your evidence?—No; this was before the election.

2338. But I am speaking about your evidence, have you seen Mr. Pears since the election?—No.

2339. Not at all?—Not to speak to him.

2340. Mr. Pears before the election had said he would speak to a gentleman about the 4 l.?—Yes.

2341. Had

2341. Had Mr. Pears canvassed you for your vote?—No; it was about the 4^l.

2342. Had Mr. Pears asked you for your vote before the election?—No; not in connection with my vote.

2343. Do you mean to swear that?—I went to him to see if I could get work, but he said I could not, I could not have a job.

2344. You could not have a job where?—At the election.

2345. You went to Mr. Pears to see if you could get a job at the election, 'did you?—Yes.

2346. And Mr. Pears said you could not?—He said it would hinder me from voting.

2347. Was it then that you spoke to him about the 4^l?—I believe it was then. No; I think it was a little before that.

2348. Which do you mean?—It was a day or two before that.

2349. Then, did you ask him if he could get you 4^l?—He asked me if I had had a gift, and I told him I had not.

2350. Well?—He said that he would name it to a gentleman.

2351. How came you then to go to Mr. Pears to ask him about it?—I went then to see if I could get something to do.

2352. But how came you to go to Mr. Pears at all; you knew that he was a supporter of Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson, did you not?—Well, I was told that he was a Liberal.

2353. Was that the reason you went to speak to him?—(After some hesitation.) Yes.

2354. You not having made up your mind in which way you would vote?—No.

2355. And you wished to know something about the 4^l, I suppose, before you made up your mind how you would vote?—No.

2356. Then what made you go up there about that particular time. You heard he was a Liberal, and you had not made up your mind about the vote, and you thought you would go up and ask him how you could get a gift; I suppose you wanted to know how things stood before you did vote?—No; it was not for that.

2357. What did you go up for then, was it for fun that you went up?—No.

2358. Was it in the hope that you would get the gift?—I thought I should perhaps get something to do, as I had no work.

2359. Something to do at the election?—Yes.

2360. Did Pinches and Fox, Mr. Kirby's clerk, come to you?—Yes.

2361. Did they tell you that if you did not come and give evidence, you would go to gaol?—No; they did not tell me that.

2362. Did they tell you anything about going to gaol?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2363. What did they tell you about going to gaol; did they tell you anything about going to gaol?—I do not know that they did.

2364. Will you swear that they did not?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2365. Did not Mr. Fox tell you something about going to gaol?—(The Witness hesitated.)

275.

2367. If you did not, that you would go to gaol?—No; they did not say anything about that.

2368. Nothing at all about going to gaol?—No.

2369. Where does Mr. Pears live?—He lives at Allisley.

2370. Did you meet Mr. Pears near to the Allisley gate?—Yes.

2371. Did Mr. Pears ask you if you had never had a gift?—Yes; I told him that I had not.

2372. When was it that you met Mr. Pears near the Allisley gate?—It was before the election.

2373. When?—About two days or so.

2374. About two days before the election you met Mr. Pears at the Allisley gate?—Yes.

2375. And Mr. Pears asked you if you had never had a gift before?—Yes.

2376. What did you tell him?—I told him that I had not.

2377. What did Mr. Pears say to you upon that?—He said he would speak to a gentleman.

2378. About what?—Getting me a gift.

2379. Four pounds?—Yes.

2380. Who was the gentleman he was to speak to?—(After some hesitation.) Mr. Hands.

2381. Who is Mr. Hands, is he a Liberal?—Yes.

2382. Is he one of Mr. Jackson's and Mr. Carter's committee?—I am not sure; I do not know.

2383. What do you believe about it?—I do not know.

2384. Did he say anything about getting your name put down?—No.

2385. What else did he say after that?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2386. What did he say next?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2387. What did he say more?—He did not say anything more; that is all he said.

2388. Did he ask you which way you were going to vote?—No, he did not ask me.

2389. Did he ask you if you had made up your mind?—He did not ask me which way I was going to vote.

2390. But did he ask you which way you had made up your mind?—No; he did not ask me that.

2391. Did he say nothing about your vote?—No.

2392. Will you swear it?—I will swear it; he did not say anything about it.

2393. You did not say anything to him about the way you were going to vote?—No.

2394. Did you never say anything to Mr. Pears about the way you were going to vote?—No.

2395. Did he never canvass you?—No.

2396. Who canvassed you for the Liberals?—We were away out of the town when they came round.

2397. Do you mean to say that you never saw anybody from the Liberals?—Canvassing?

2398. Yes?—No.

2399. Did you see anybody from the Liberals not canvassing?—Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill came round to me.

2400. I am speaking about the Liberals?—We were out of town when they came round.

2401. Did you see them when you were in the town; do you mean to say that the Liberals never canvassed you?—No, they never canvassed us; they never canvassed me.

2402. That you swear?—Yes.

2403. Do you mean to swear that?—Yes.

2404. Do you mean to swear that the Liberals never canvassed you?—Canvassed?

2405. Yes; come now, be cautious; do you mean to swear that the Liberals never canvassed you?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2406. Why do you not answer the question?—I do not rightly understand it.

2407. You do not understand what “canvassing” means?—I never had a vote before in my life.

2408. That is not an answer to my question; you knew perfectly well what “canvassing” meant when you said that Mr. Eaton, and Mr. Hill, and Mr. Odell, and Mr. Mann came and canvassed you; I ask you who came and left the Liberal card; who came and canvassed for the Liberals?—We had never a card, as I remember, for the Liberal side.

2409. Do you mean to say that nobody came and asked you for your vote for the Liberals?—But we were not at home.

2410. Never mind about being at home; did they come and ask you out, or anywhere else; did you see anybody from the Liberal side to ask you for your vote?—No, not after we came back; they never came to our house at all after we came back.

2411. Did they come before you went?—We were away when they came round.

2412. Did anybody from the Liberal side come before you went?—When we went.

2413. Before you went?—We were away above a week.

2414. Where were you?—At Crewe.

2415. What were you doing at Crewe?—We went to see a relation.

2416. Do you mean to say that you never saw anybody from the Liberal side at all before the election?—No.

2417. And that you swear?—Yes.

2418. Do you mean to swear that nobody from the Liberal side came to you?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2419. Is that so; will you venture to swear that nobody from the Liberal side came to see you?—(After some hesitation.) We did not see anybody from the Liberal side.

2420. Whom do you mean by “we”?—Me and my missis.

2421. You mean to swear that neither you nor your missis ever saw anybody from the Liberal side?—We did not.

2422. When did you say it was you first saw Mr. Mann?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2423. When did you say it was that you saw Mr. Mann first?—When they came round.

2424. That does not answer my question; when was it; what day?—On the Wednesday before the election.

2425. You were examined, you say, by Mr. Fox?—I do not know that I was.

2426. Mr. Kilby’s clerk, or was it Mr. Micklewright that examined you?—Yes.

2427. And you say that it was on the Wednesday; what time in the day was it?—About one o’clock in the day.

2428. Who was present when you say that Mr. Mann said that he would give you half-a-sovereign on the Friday?—No one only myself.

2429. No one was present on the Friday when you say that Mr. Mann said that he would give you half-a-sovereign?—No.

2430. On the Saturday, when you say he gave you half-a-crown, was anybody present?—My missis, my wife, was in the house.

2431. Was she present when you say he gave it?—She was in the house by the fire—

2432. That is not the question I ask you; the house may be a large one or a small one; I ask you distinctly, do you mean to swear that she was present?—She was present.

2433. In the room?—We went in the kitchen.

2434. Then was she in the kitchen?—No.

2435. Did she see the half-crown given to you?—No.

2436. Then you say Mr. Mann and you went into the kitchen and shut the door?—Yes.

2437. Who shut the door?—He put the door to.

2438. Who did?—Mr. Mann.

2439. And closed it?—Yes.

2440. So that it was quite close?—No, not quite close, nearly so.

2441. But he closed the door, I suppose, to prevent people hearing what was going on?—He did not put it quite close.

2442. Did he leave it open?—It was partly open and partly shut.

2443. So that anybody could hear what took place in the other room?—He said nothing no more than he gave me half-a-crown.

2444. He said nothing?—No, not then.

2445. Then when he gave you the half-crown he did not speak?—No, not till we came into the house.

2446. But when he went into the kitchen and closed the door, as you say partly, and gave you half-a-crown, he did not say a word?—Not then.

2447. Then when he came out of the kitchen what room did he come into?—He came into the house.

2448. Does the kitchen open into the front room?—The kitchen opens into the house.

2449. Is that the front room; does the “house,” as you call it, open into the street or passage?—The house opens into the street.

2450. He came in there and then went out?—Yes.

2451. You say it was on the Wednesday that he gave you the half-sovereign?—Yes; after the election was over.

2452. What time?—At about six o’clock at night.

2453. And you were alone?—Yes.

2454. Nobody with you?—No.

2455. And nobody saw it?—No.

2456. Which Mr. Mann do you say this was?—Mr. James Mann.

2457. Had you known him before?—No.

2458. I suppose you have spoken to your wife about this?—Oh yes.

2459. I suppose you have often talked this over with your wife?—Sometimes.

2460. Often?—Not very often.

2461. How often?—Once or twice; two or three times.

2462. Did you and your wife talk about coming to give evidence here?—No.

2463. Never?—No.

2464. Have not you and your wife talked about coming to give evidence?—No.

2465. Did you and your wife last night, speak about this; about coming here as witnesses?—We knowed we should have to come.

2466. Did you speak about it; did you say to your your wife last night, "Now you know we have got to be examined to-morrow;" did you speak last night about your going to be examined as a witness to-day?—Well, we did not say but very little about it.

2467. Did you say something about it?—I do not think as we hardly named it after we got home.

2468. You meant to say that you did name it but did not say much about it?—No.

2469. What did you say to her?—We knowed we should be examined.

2470. Did you speak to her, or did she speak to you?—I did not say anything to her much about it.

2471. We will judge whether it was much or not; what did you say to your wife last night about it?—I did not say anything, only I said we should have to go again to-morrow.

2472. What did she say to that?—Oh, she said we should.

2473. Anything else?—That was all, I think.

2474. Nothing more?—No.

2475. You said to her, "We shall have to go again to-morrow;" she said "We shall"?—Yes.

2476. Did you speak about it this morning to her at breakfast?—We hardly said anything.

2477. You hardly said anything; that looks as if you said something; what was it that you said this morning?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2478. Why do you not answer the question?—I am sure I do not know as we did say anything.

2479. Will you swear that you said nothing to her this morning about coming here as a witness?—I do not think I hardly named it.

2480. Will you swear you did not name it to her this morning, about your coming here as a witness?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2481. You cannot recollect whether you spoke to your wife this morning about it; did you speak to her this morning about it?—I hardly spoke at all.

2482. "Hardly," means you did some little?—We were saying we shall have to come again.

2483. To your wife?—That was all that was said.

2484. What did she say to that?—She said we should.

2485. That was all?—Yes.

2486. Nothing more?—That was all.

Re-examined by Mr. James.

2487. You do talk to your wife a good deal, sometimes?—Sometimes I do.

Mrs. SHUTTLEWORTH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

2502. ARE you the wife of the last witness, John Shuttleworth?—Yes.

2503. On the Wednesday before the polling day, do you remember some gentleman coming to canvass your husband for his vote?—Yes.

2504. Who came to canvass your husband for his vote?—Mr. Hill, Mr. Eaton, Mr. Odell, Mr. Mann, and Mr. Bolton, and there might be one or two more; I cannot remember.

2505. Do you know Mr. Odell's Christian name?—No.

2506. Do you know where he lives?—No, I do not.

255.

2488. Do you know Mr. Pears to be a magistrate of this county?—I do not know that he is.

2489. Do you know a charity called Sir Thomas White's Charity?—Yes.

2490. Are there gifts from that charity, some of which are called loan gifts, amounting to the sum of 4*l.*, or a gift given to different people of certain ages in different parts of the country?—In Coventry?

2491. I believe a person cannot have it —

Mr. Huddleston.] I must ask you not to lead your witness.

Mr. James.] We have sent for Mr. Pears.

Mr. Justice Willes.] That is enough to indicate what you mean to bring forward.

2492. Mr. James.] Did Mr. Pears ever offer you a farthing, or say a word to you about your vote?—No.

2493. When you applied to him (my learned friend has said something about 4*l.*), was that in relation to the gift of Sir Thomas White's Charity?—No.

2494. You used the word "gift;" what gift did you refer to?—I referred to the 4*l.*

2495. What is that gift of 4*l.*; from whom does it come?—I do not know.

2496. Do other people have gifts of 4*l.* in Coventry?—Yes.

2497. Was it on the subject of that gift that you spoke to Mr. Pears?—Yes.

2498. Will you give me the name of the gentleman Mr. Pears said he would speak to about it; you said that Mr. Pears said he would speak to a gentleman; what was that gentleman's name?—Mr. Hemans.

2499. Do you know, or did Mr. Pears tell you, that that gentleman is a trustee of Sir Thomas White's Charity?—Yes.

2500. Do you repeat again, and say positively that Mr. Mann did give you those two sums?—

Mr. Huddleston.] This summing up my learned friend adopts to every witness.

Mr. Justice Willes.] Mr. Baron Martin I know objects very much to this sort of re-examination.

Mr. James.] I have the greatest respect for Mr. Baron Martin, and I will desist if he thinks it wrong.

Mr. Justice Willes.] From personal experience of its ill effects. I will say no more.

2501. Mr. James (to the Witness).] Have you told us the truth to-day?—Yes.

J.
Shuttleworth.
17 February
1869.

Mrs.
Shuttleworth.

2507. Do you know Mr. Mann's Christian name?—James.

2508. Do you know where he lives?—Little South-street, East-street.

2509. When did they come?—About one o'clock in the day.

2510. When they came, what did they do?—They asked him if he could favour them with his vote, and he said he could not promise it.

2511. Who asked him that?—Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton, I think; he said he would think about it; they said he perhaps would think about it; they says, "You will think about it."

G

2512. What

Mrs. Shuttleworth. 2512. What did your husband say when they said, "You will think about it"?—He said, "There is plenty of time for that," or something of that.

17 February
1869.

2513. After that, did you see any of that party again?—Not till Saturday, I did not see them.

2514. Who called on Saturday?—Mr. Mann.

2515. What time?—About two o'clock in the afternoon.

2516. Was that the same Mr. Mann who came with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes.

2517. What happened when he called?—He came in and had some cards or something in his hand; he called my husband to him; he had some cards; there was a wrong number, he said; he had not got his card with him, and he said he would send it.

2518. After speaking to your husband about this card, did he do anything?—He touched him on the shoulder and called him into the back kitchen and shut the door.

2519. Did you go into the back kitchen with them?—No.

2520. Nor did you hear what passed in the back kitchen?—No.

2521. On the nomination day, did anybody call?—Mr. Mann came before breakfast, and I think he asked him if he had his voting card; he said he had not, and he said he would send it.

2522. You told us about Wednesday, your being at home, and Saturday your being at home; were you at home Thursday or Friday?—No, I was not; and I do not know what my husband told him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2523. Were you at home on the Monday, the nomination day?—Yes, before breakfast, I was.

2524. During the daytime?—No.

2525. Then what took place about the wrong card you say took place on Saturday?—Yes.

2526. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

2527. And not on the Monday?—Not on the Monday.

2528. You could not hear what took place in the kitchen?—No.

2529. How was that?—I did not try.

2530. Women do not happen to have curiosity at Coventry, then; if you had tried you could not have heard with the door between you?—I should have heard without trying; he told me.

2531. You did not try to hear?—No.

2532. Did you hear voices?—Yes.

2533. In the kitchen?—Yes.

2534. While you were in the house, what you call the house, would you have heard the voices of people talking in the kitchen?—Yes.

2535. How long did you hear the voices; you had not the curiosity to listen, but how long did you hear the voices?—Not many minutes.

2536. You could not distinguish what was said?—No.

2537. You heard one voice saying something, and another voice answering it?—Yes.

2538. I mean there was no mistake about it?—No.

2539. I suppose your door is not a very strong door, is it; you can hear through it?—It is the same as the rest of doors.

2540. Voices will come through the keyhole or under the door?—No; I did not try to hear whether it would come through the keyhole or under the door.

2541. The door was shut?—It was pushed close.

2542. As close as it would go?—I do not know; I did not notice it.

2543. It was pushed close to?—Yes; it was to.

2544. But, nevertheless, though pushed closed to, you could hear the voices of people speaking in the kitchen?—I could hear them speaking; I could not hear what about.

2545. I daresay, if the truth were known, you and your husband have been talking this over a good many times?—We did not talk anything about it; he told me what he had said.

2546. I want to know whether you have been speaking to your husband about this; did you talk to him last night about it?—I do not know whether I said it to him last night; I said a good many things.

2547. Did you talk to him about coming to the trial?—No, I did not.

2548. Not a word?—No.

2549. Did not he say you would have to come here to-morrow?—I knowed we should; he had no occasion to say so.

2550. Are you sure he did not say you would have to come here to-morrow?—I am sure.

2551. Did not he say it that morning at breakfast?—No; he did not say anything about it.

2552. Will you swear he did not say last night anything about coming here to-morrow, nor this morning anything about coming here to-day?—No.

2553. Nor you to him?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. James.

2554. You say that your husband told you what he had said?—Yes.

2555. When did he tell you that?—On the Thursday after Mr. Eaton had been round.

Mr. Huddleston.] This does not arise out of my cross-examination.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I will reserve my opinion upon this case until I hear some more about Mr. Mann.

JOSEPH VILLIERS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

J. Villiers. 2556. WHERE do you live?—No. 2, Cockstreet, Coventry.

2557. You are a freeman and voter for the city of Coventry?—Yes.

2558. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

2559. Before you voted for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, did you see anybody about the election?—Yes; Mr. Johnson.

2560. Mr. Johnson, I believe, is the Liberal ward manager?—Yes.

2561. Did you see anybody after that on the other side?—Yes.

2562. Who?—Mr. James Mann.

2563. When?—About the 18th of October.

2564. Did you say anything to Mr. Mann?—No; he spoke to me first.

2565. What did he say?—He hoped I was not going going to support the Liberal party, as they heard I was going to do it.

2566. Was he alone at that time?—Yes.

2567. Where did you see him?—At the top of Mill-lane.

2568. Was that all that passed between you and Mr. Mann?—Yes.

2569. Is that James Mann, of Little South-street?—Yes.

2570. Did you see Mr. Mann again after that?—Yes; on the Tuesday following.

2571. Where did you see him then?—At his own house.

2572. Did you go to call upon him?—Yes; he told me to call upon him.

2573. When you called on him, what did you say to him?—I asked him if there was anything to do, and he said “No;” he gave me a shilling to go on with.

2574. When you said “Is there anything to do,” what did you mean by “anything to do”?—Any work.

2575. Work about what?—About the election.

2576. Do you know, of your own knowledge, what Mr. Mann had to do with the election?—He was always supposed to be a ward manager.

2577. On which side?—The Conservatives.

2578. What ward?—The Gosford-street ward.

2579. You asked him if you were to have anything to do; what answer did he make to that?—He said he had nothing for me to do; he would give me a shilling to go on with.

2580. Did he give you a shilling?—Yes.

2581. Did you see Mr. Mann again after that?—Yes.

2582. Where?—At his own house.

2583. Did he ever come to your house?—Yes.

2584. When did he come to your house?—He came to my house, I think, about the 9th of November, the Saturday following the municipal election.

2585. Did he say anything to you when he came to your house?—He said he brought me 5s., and that there was nothing for me to do.

2586. Who did he give the 5s. to?—To my wife.

2587. In your presence?—Yes.

2588. What was it in, shillings or half-crowns?—Two half-crowns.

2589. Did he say anything to you at the time?—He said that was all as he could do for me then, and he asked me where a person of the name of Taylor lived; where he was going to.

2590. Do you know Taylor?—Yes.

2591. Is Taylor a voter?—Yes.

2592. What did you say when he asked you where Taylor lived?—I told him over the road; he asked me to show him, and I went and showed him.

2593. When you went to show him where Taylor lived, did he say anything to you on the road?—Yes; he said “You can knock at the door, and as soon as you have knocked you can go away, so that nobody shall see you.”

2594. Did he say anything else?—No; not then.

2595. Afterwards, did he say anything else about Taylor to you?—Yes; I have taken him a shilling several times since then.

2596. Who gave you a shilling to take to Taylor?—Mr. Mann.

2597. When?—On the Tuesday following the Saturday.

275.

2598. You say several times; what other shillings has he given you?—On the Thursday following the Tuesday, he gave me another to take to him.

2599. On the Tuesday and the Thursday; any other time?—No.

2600. Did you go to Mr. Mann’s house afterwards?—Yes; on the Saturday following the Thursday.

2601. What time was that?—About eight in the morning.

2602. Did you speak to him?—Yes; I asked him if there was anything to do, and he said no, only I was to go down to the committee-room if the committee-room was now open; that was the Saturday before the election.

2603. Before that Saturday, on the Tuesday in the week before the polling, did you go to Mr. Mann?—Yes.

2604. What happened then?—He said there was nothing then for me to do.

2605. What time did you go to Mr. Mann?—About nine in the morning.

2606. What did he say then, on the Tuesday?—He said there was nothing for me to do, and he gave me a shilling then.

2607. Did he say anything to you about the committee-room then?—He said it would be open in the course of a few days, and he would see what could be done.

2608. Did he give you a shilling for yourself?—Yes.

2609. Did he give you any other money?—No.

2610. When did he give you the money for Taylor?—On the Tuesday following.

2611. Did you see Mr. Mann canvassing again?—Yes.

2612. What day was that?—On the Tuesday.

2613. Where?—In East-street.

2614. Who was with him?—Mr. Mann, Mr. Atkins, a man of the name of Brown, Mr. Eaton, Mr. Hill, and several more.

2615. Mr. Eaton, Mr. Hill, and Mr. Brown; what Mr. Brown is that?—He is the ward manager of the Gosport-street ward.

2616. Do you know his Christian name?—John Brown.

2617. What street does he live in?—South-street.

2618. Now, the Saturday you were telling us about before, when you called at Mr. Mann’s house, what happened then?—I went to Mr. Mann’s house on the Saturday morning, about eight o’clock; he told me I might go down to the committee-room; I went down and stopped there till two o’clock, and no one ever came.

2619. What committee-room?—The Conservative committee-room.

2620. Where?—The corner of South-street.

2621. Did anybody come into the committee-room after two?—Mr. Mann came in, and called me on one side, and gave me 5s.; he said there was nothing to do, and I was to come on Monday to go to the nomination.

2622. Mr. Mann gave you, you say, 5s.; was that in the committee-room?—Yes.

2623. Had Mann anything in his hand?—No.

2624. Did you ever see anybody with books?—I saw Mr. Brown with one.

J. Villiers.
 17 February
 1869.

2625. Did you ever see Mr. Mann with a book in his hand?—No.

2626. When Mr. Mann gave you 5 s., was anybody else present?—No.

2627. Did you go to the committee-room again after that?—Yes; on the Monday morning.

2628. Was that the day of the nomination?—Yes.

2629. Who did you find at the committee-room when you went there; in the first place, when did you go?—About eight o'clock.

2630. Mr. Huddleston.] When was this?—

2631. Mr. Leigh.] The nomination day. (To the Witness.) Who did you find when you got there?—I saw Brown and Atkins.

2632. Did you see Mann there then?—No.

2633. Is that the same Brown you mentioned before, John Brown?—Yes.

2634. Did Mann come in whilst you were there?—Yes.

2635. What time did he come in?—About nine.

2636. Was that the same Brown you saw with a book in his hand?—Yes.

2637. You say Mann came in about nine; when Mann came in, did he say anything?—We was to go to the nomination.

2638. How many of you were there when Mann came in?—Eight or nine of us.

2639. Did you go to the nomination?—Yes.

2640. Did you go anywhere first before you went to the nomination?—I went into the "Brewers and Bakers" public-house.

2641. Did you go there of your own accord, or were you taken there?—I was told to go there.

2642. Who told you?—The man left in charge of the committee-room.

2643. Who was that?—Smith.

2644. Walter Smith?—Yes.

2645. He is a non-voter?—Yes.

2646. Did you have anything to drink there?—Yes.

2647. What?—Hot ale.

2648. Did you pay for it?—No.

2649. Who paid?—I do not know.

2650. Was there anybody else having hot ale besides you?—Yes.

2651. How many?—There might have been 20.

2652. Did you know any of them?—Yes.

2653. Did you know any of them were voters?—Yes.

2654. You say 20 were there at the time; were they all having hot ale?—Yes.

2655. Did you see anybody pay?—No.

2656. Where did you go after that; did you go to the nomination?—Yes.

2657. After the nomination, did you go back to the committee-room?—Yes.

2658. After that did you go to another public-house?—Yes.

2659. The "Pitt's Head"?—Yes.

2660. What was going on at the "Pitt's Head" when you got there?—There were four or five quarts of ale on the table, and there was 20 drinking beer.

2661. Were they voters?—Yes.

2662. Did you know them?—Yes.

2663. What were they having?—Beer.

2664. Had you any beer?—Yes.

2665. Hot ale or cold beer?—Beer.

2666. How many glasses?—Five or six.

2667. Did you pay for them?—No.

2668. Did you see anybody pay?—No.

2669. Do you know a man of the name of Docker?—Yes.

2670. What is his Christian name?—James.

2671. Is he a voter?—No; I believe not.

2672. Did he say anything?—Yes; he said he could afford to spend a pound or two.

2673. Did he order anything after he said he could afford to spend a pound or two?—He ordered one half pint of gin.

2674. Any ale?—No.

2675. Did you see Mann again?—Yes.

2676. Where did you see him?—At the committee-room.

2677. What was he doing?—He was upstairs, and there were several books on the table, and there were several more with him.

2678. Was he sitting at the table or standing up?—Sitting down.

2679. What committee-room was that?—The Conservative committee-room in South-street.

2680. What was he doing; was he doing anything with the books?—He had got a book in his hand; I did not see what he was doing.

2681. Had he a pen or pencil?—He had a pen.

2682. Did you see what the book was?—No.

2683. Did you see Mann again after that?—Yes.

2684. When was that?—On the following morning.

2685. Was that before or after you voted?—Before.

2686. What time?—About a quarter to eight.

2687. Where?—At the Conservative committee-room, South-street.

2688. What did you say to him?—He asked me whether I had been to poll; I told him no; he told me to go and poll directly.

2689. Did you poll?—Yes.

2690. After that?—I went back to the committee-room.

2691. Did you see him again?—Yes.

2692. Did you say anything to him?—I went to him about two o'clock; I asked when they would settle; he said they would settle the next day.

2693. Did you see him the next day?—Yes.

2694. Where?—At the "Pitt's Head."

2695. The public-house?—Yes.

2696. When you saw him at the "Pitt's Head," did he say anything to you?—He said to me I may as well pay you now, and he gave me half-a-sovereign.

2697. When he gave you the half-sovereign at the "Pitt's Head," did he say anything?—He said I was not to change it nowhere about here; I was to go straight home with it, else they would know.

2698. In the middle of December, did your wife tell you something?—Yes.

2699. She made a communication to you?—Yes.

2700. Did you do any work about the election?—I only fetched the state of the poll down from the "King's Head."

2701. What day was that?—On the polling day.

2702. Before the polling day did you do any work?—No.

2703. Mr. Justice Willes.] From whose hand did you get 5 s.?—

Mr. Huddleston.] From Mann's.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2704. All this money you are talking about you say you got from James Mann?—Yes.

2705. What for; doing nothing?—Yes.

2706. As a bribe for your vote?—Certainly.

2707. No mistake about it?—No.

2708. What did you have for giving your evidence?—Nothing at all.

2709. Not a sixpence?—Not a sixpence.

2710. What do you expect?—I do not expect anything.

2711. It is to clear your conscience?—Yes, certainly.

2712. To get rid of the oppressive weight upon your conscience of having taken a bribe, and you come to make a clean breast of it?—Yes.

2713. That is a subject of contrition?—Yes.

2714. And of pure principle?—Yes.

2715. You are shocked now at the notion of having taken a bribe?—I promised Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson, and they came to me and bribed me afterwards.

2716. It is contrition?—Yes.

2717. Is your name Joseph Villiers?—Yes.

2718. Will you be kind enough to tell me is that your handwriting (handing a paper to the Witness); is that your signature?—Yes.

2719. Were you examined by Mr. Dews?—No.

2720. Were you examined by Mr. Dews' clerk?—No; I went to Mr. Dews' office.

2721. Did you say this; you are Joseph Villiers, Cock-street, Coventry, mason?—No, I think not.

2722. Weaver, I mean?—Yes.

2723. He took down what you said?—I did not say anything.

2724. Did you say, "I am a voter"?—Yes.

2725. You did say something; "I am a voter, and at the last election I voted for Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton"?—Yes, I did.

2726. Did you say, "I declare I did not receive any money or bribe for doing so"?—No, I did not.

2727. "The agents for the petitioners have been trying to make me say I did; 2nd February 1869, Joseph Villiers;" that is the gentleman; you signed that?—Yes.

2728. Was it read over to you?—No.

2729. That you swear?—Yes.

2730. You are a weaver?—Yes.

2731. And the subject of contrition; have you had anything else to atone for besides taking a bribe?—No.

2732. Nothing that weighs upon your conscience?—No.

2733. Have you ever been in gaol?—Yes.

2734. That does not weigh upon your conscience at all?—No.

2735. For theft?—No, not for theft.

2736. For what?—For what I was not guilty of.

2737. What was it they said you were guilty of?—They did not say I was guilty at all.

2738. Did they give you three months for nothing?—I did not get three months.

2739. How much did you get?—The time the magistrates gave me; I was not guilty.

2740. How much did they give you?—Two months.

2741. Hard labour?—I do not know what hard labour is.

2742. What did they give you two months for?—It was termed embezzlement.

2743. For receiving your master's money and putting it into your own pocket?—It was not in the shape of doing that.

2744. Was it because they said you had taken your master's silk?—They did say so.

2745. And they found you guilty of it?—Yes.

2746. And they gave you two months?—Yes.

2747. And you served it out?—Yes.

2748. And you are not ashamed of it?—No.

2749. You are quite innocent?—Yes.

2750. Is that the only time you have been in gaol?—The only time.

2751. How long is that ago?—Eighteen months, or two years; I do not recollect.

2752. It is so long ago that you cannot recollect?—No, not the exact date; I daresay it is going on for two years.

2753. It has not made the least impression upon your mind?—Not the least, because I was not guilty.

2754. They said you were?—I know my own conscience; I know I was not.

Re-examined by Mr. James.

2755. You are a weaver, and, I suppose, entrusted with silk by your master?—Yes.

2756. Is there sometimes a large quantity of waste silk?—Yes.

2757. Was it in relation to detaining some of this silk that you were charged?—Yes.

2758. Is it true that you had taken that or not?—I had not taken it.

2759. How came you to go to Mr. Dews' office?—There was a man named Taylor who had come to my house and said he wanted me to take a walk up and down; he brought me up to the church; he said, "Stop here, I have got to see a chap." We stopped there half-an-hour, and James Mann came up; and as soon as he came to me he says, "You have been among these Liberals; you must not go to say anything; come this road;" he took me down to Mr. Dews' office. I went into Mr. Dews' office, and Mr. Dews was there, and Mr. Mann said, "They had been at him, but I hope he will not say anything."

2760. Was Mr. Dews present?—Yes; Mr. Mann said, "The agents have been to him to try to bribe him," and Mr. Dews wrote it down. Mr. Mann told me, before we went in, we should get 2 s. 6 d. a piece.

2761. Who?—Me and Taylor.

2762. For what?—For going in and telling that.

2763. Who is Taylor?—He is a watchmaker.

2764. You had promised Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson to vote for them?—Yes, I had.

2765. What caused you to break that promise?—Because Mann came to our house and left some money.

J. Villiers,
17 February
1869.

ELIZABETH VILLIERS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

E. Villiers. 2766. ARE you the wife of the last witness?
 17 February —Yes.
 1869. 2767. Do you remember James Mann coming to your house?—Yes.
 2768. When?—Saturday, the 9th of November.
 2769. Before the election?—Yes.
 2770. Mr. Justice Willes.] What day of the month?—I do not know whether it was the 9th or no; it was either the 7th or 9th; I will not be sure which.
 2771. Mr. Leigh.] Did he say anything?—
 Yes, he asked whether my husband was in at the time.
 2772. Did he say anything, in your presence, to your husband?—No.
 2773. Did he say anything to you?—No, only he gave me 5s.
 2774. What was the money in?—Two half-crowns.
 2775. When he gave you the 5s., what did he say?—He asked where Mr. Taylor lived, and my husband went and showed him; he asked where Mr. Taylor lived, and my husband went and showed him; that was all that passed.
 2776. Did he say anything to your husband when he gave you the 5s.?—He said that was because they had not got nothing to do.
 2777. Did you see Mr. Mann again after that?
 —No, I did not.
 2778. Did anybody else call upon you before the election?—No.
 2779. Did you yourself ever see either Mr.
 Eaton or Mr. Hill?—Yes, on the Saturday before the election.
 2780. Whom did you see?—Mr. Eaton; Mr.
 Hill was not with him.
 2781. Was anybody with Mr. Eaton?—Yes.
 2782. Mr. Huddleston.] When did she see
 Mr. Eaton?—The Saturday before the election.
 2783. Mr. Leigh.] Was anybody with Mr.
 Eaton?—Yes, but I do not know the gentleman's name.
 2784. Do you know anybody of the name of Patteson?—Yes, I think he was one, but I am not sure; I did not take no notice.
 2785. Do you know that gentleman's, Mr.
 Patteson's, Christian name?—No.
 2786. Do you know where he lives?—In Ford-street.
 2787. What is he?—He is in Mr. Hart's warehouse.
 2788. What happened when Mr. Eaton called with the other gentleman whom you say you did not know?—Nothing; Mr. Eaton asked me whether my husband was a freeman; I said,
 "Yes, sir."
 2789. Did he say anything else?—He asked me who he would go for. I told him he would go for Mr. Eaton.

2790. After the election, did you see Mr.
 Mann again?—No.

2791. Have you not seen Mr. Mann from the time of the election up to now?—No.

2792. Think; you say you have not seen
 Mann since?—No; I know nothing else, only what he said on the Saturday when he gave me the 5s.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2793. Whereabouts do you live?—In Cox-street.

2794. Have you seen Mr. Fox?—No.

2795. Who have you seen from Mr. Kirby's office?—I do not know the gentleman's name.

2796. Mr. Pinches?—Mr. Pinches was one;
 I do not know the man who came with him.

2797. A tall man, with grey hair?—No, he was not.

2798. Was there somebody with him?—No; that old gentleman was not with him.

2799. Who was with Mr. Pinches?—I think
 Mr. Kirby's clerk.

2800. Was it Mr. Fox?—I do not know the gentleman's name.

2801. Did you have anything to drink?—No.

2802. Was nothing to drink brought in?—
 No.

2803. Did they give you any money?—No.

2804. Or promise you any?—No; he never gave me any.

2805. What did he give your husband?—
 Half-a-crown I think it was.

2806. Who gave your husband half-a-crown?
 —I did not know which it was.

2807. One of them, was it?—Yes; I know nothing only what I have told you, that which happened on the Saturday; I know nothing else at all.

2808. You do not want to tell anything else?
 —I do not know anything else; I never asked my husband any questions at all.

2809. A gentleman, you say, gave your husband half-a-crown?—I think so.

2810. Did he give you anything to drink?—
 No.

2811. Do you know what he did with the half-crown?—No, I am sure I do not.

2812. The 7th or the 9th of November was it?—I do not know whether it was the 7th or the 9th.

2813. Why did you say it was the 9th?—I did not pay any notice.

2814. Who told you it was the 9th, did Pinches?—No, I invented it my own self; I know it was the Saturday after the municipal election.

2815. Did you look into the calendar to see that it was so?—No, I did not.

JOSEPH WALE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

J. Wale. 2816. How old are you?—Eighty.
 2817. Are you a voter of Coventry?—Yes.
 2818. Where do you live?—In Little Park-street, No. 20.
 2819. For whom did you vote at the last election?—It was the first vote I ever had.

2820. For whom did you vote?—Eaton and Hill, 2821. Did anybody canvass you for your vote?
 —Yes.

2822. Who?—Mr. Clare and other gentlemen; I told them I had not made up my mind, and they went away.

2823. When

*J. Wale.*17 February
1869.

2823. When was that?—I do not remember the day; it was a good many days before the election took place.

2824. Who is Mr. Clare?—A shoemaker; he lives in Much Park-street, somewhere.

2825. Did you see anybody else besides Mr. Clare?—Yes, there was another young man came along with him, Hollins.

2826. Did he come along with Clare?—Yes.

2827. What happened when Hollins came with Clare?—He asked me who I should vote for.

2828. Where was that that he asked you that?—I was going up to Little Park-street.

2829. What did you say?—He said I had better come on their side.

2830. Eaton and Hill's side?—Yes.

2831. Anything else?—Hollins took me to his house, and he says, "Here is some tea and sugar for you, and here is a shilling." I live across the way, and I took it to my wife; and as soon as she saw it, she took it back.

2832. Did he ask you, at that time, anything about your vote?—He said I had better vote Eaton and Hill's side.

2833. You say your wife took it back again?—Yes.

2834. Did she take all back again?—She took the tea and sugar, and there was the shilling; when I put it on the table she did not see the shilling; she took the tea and sugar back, and when she came back there was a shilling on the table.

2835. How much tea and sugar was there?—Two ounces of black tea, they tell me, and two little papers of sugar, about a pound each, in brown paper.

2836. Tell us about the tea and sugar; you say she took it back; did she take it back, or did you take it back. My wife took it back.

2837. Who kept the shilling, your wife or yourself?—The shilling was on the table when my wife came back; after she took back the tea and sugar, it was lying on the table then.

2838. What became of the shilling?—We used it in the house.

2839. Did you see Hollins again after that?—Yes.

2840. Where?—He called me into his house, opposite to where I live.

2841. Where does he live?—In Little Park-street.

2842. When he called you to his house, did he say anything?—He said my wife was a silly for bringing the tea and sugar back again; he says, "I suppose you will vote on our side."

2843. Anything else?—I said I thought I should.

2844. What time did you poll?—About 9 o'clock in the morning.

2845. Did anyone come to you on the polling-day?—Yes; a young man fetched me; he took me by the arm to the poll.

2846. Do you know who the young man was?—They tell me his name was Haines, but it is wrong; his name is Pritchett who fetched me.

2847. Do you know Prichard now?—Yes.

2848. Where does he live?—Opposite to where I live; he wears a billycock.

2849. He lives opposite to you?—Yes.

2850. What did he do; he came to you on the polling-day; what time did he come?—About a quarter before 9.

275.

2851. Did you go anywhere with him?—He took me by the arm, and took me to the polling booth.

2852. After you had polled, what happened?—After I had polled, he says, "We will make you amends;" and they took me to the committee-house, and gave me a chair to sit down on; and when I sat down in the chair I felt something twitched my back; I put my hand behind, and it was a bit of paper; and when I got home I looked at it, and it was 2s. and 3s. in money.

2853. Where was it you felt something behind your back?—In the committee-room; it was Pritchett brought me back to the committee-room, the same man who took me.

2854. Who brought you back from the poll to the committee?—His name was Pritchett, I believe.

2855. What committee-room was it?—In Little Park-street.

2856. Were there any other people in the committee-room at the time you felt this paper put into your hands?—There were several people in the committee-room; they said, "Take a chair, and warm yourself."

2857. Could you see who put that paper into your hands?—No; there was a twitching at my back, the door opened, and I felt something at my back, and when I put my hand behind, there was a little bit of paper.

2858. What did you do with the 5s.?—I laid out 2s. 6d. for shoes being soled and heeled, and the rest we used in the house for coal and something to eat.

2859. Did you show the money to your wife?—Yes.

2860. Did you give her any of it?—I laid it on the table, and she looked at it.

2861. Mr. Justice Willes.] What did she do?—She looked at the money I put on the table, and left it there. Then I went off and paid 2s. 6d. for shoes being soled and heeled, and the other was for something to eat, and coals.

2862. What day was this?—The polling day.

2863. The day you put it on the table?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2864. You took the money, and put it on the table, did you?—Yes.

2865. You did not like to touch it, I suppose?—I took 2s. 6d. for shoes.

2866. You took 2s. 6d. of it?—Yes; the rest we used in the house.

2867. When you got the money in the committee-room, did you take the same money you got in the committee-room and put it on the table?—Yes; the money they gave me at the committee-room I took home, and put it on my table.

2868. It was that same money that you took to pay for your shoes?—Yes.

2869. You did not change it?—No.

2870. You did not get any change?—No.

2871. That you are sure of?—Yes.

2872. You did not change the money from the time you got it from this mysterious man behind your back, till the time you paid it to the shoe-maker?—I did not.

2873. What was it you took off the table when

J. Wale.

17 February
1869.

when you put it before your wife?—I took 2s. 6d.; I took the 3s., and left the 2s. 6d. on the table.

2874. Then you had got 5s. 6d.?—No, it was 2s.; I took 3s., and then there was 2s. left behind me.

2875. You said just now it was 2s. 6d.?—It was 2s.

2876. You said you had not changed it?—I changed it when I got to the shoemaker's.

2877. You told me it was the same money that you took, and you did not get any change; you said you took the 2s. 6d. off the table; who was the shoemaker?—He lives in Bishop's Park-street.

2878. He has got a name; what is his name?—I do not know his name; he is a stranger to me.

2879. He had a pair of shoes for you?—Yes, to sole and heel for me.

2880. When did you take them there?—Two or three days before that time.

2881. And you do not know his name?—No, I do not know his name now.

2882. Who do you say was the man who took you to what you call a committee-room?—His name is Pritchett. I telled a story about Haines; I said Haines took me, but it was Pritchett.

2883. Why did you tell the story?—I forgot.

2884. You forgot what the man's name was?—Yes.

2885. And you gave him a name of your own invention?—His name is Pritchett.

2886. Why did you call him Haines?—There was a person said his name was Haines as took me.

2887. Who told you his name was Pritchard?—A person who lives in the same yard.

2888. Who?—I do not know the person's name.

2889. You do not know who the shoemaker is, and you do not know the person's name; who told you his name was Pritchett. Who was the person who told you his name was Haines?—I cannot say, somebody who lived in the same yard.

2890. Who were present when you say you got the 5s.?—There were many gentlemen in the committee-room.

2891. Give me the names of any?—Hollins was there for one.

2892. Will you swear that Hollins was there?—I believe he was.

2893. Do you believe he was? Will you swear he was there?—I could not swear that Hollins gave me the money.

2894. Who do you say was there?—A great many gentlemen were there.

2895. Give me the name of anybody?—I do not know their names.

2896. You cannot give me the name of any one?—No; I went and warmed myself.

2897. You cannot give me the name of anybody?—No.

2898. You did not know that you were going to get anything?—No.

2899. Nobody promised you anything?—This man who took me to the poll said he would give me something at the committee-room.

2900. Nobody said to you anything before you polled about it?—No.

2901. You cannot tell me any person who was present at the committee-room?—No.

2902. Who took down your evidence; was it Mr. Fox?—Mr. Mickelwright, I think.

2903. Commissioner?—Yes.

2904. He told you he was Mr. Commissioner Mickelwright?—Yes.

2905. From London?—He is a very tall gentleman.

2906. Did he tell you he was Mr. Commissioner Mickelwright?—No.

2907. Was your wife present when he came?—In the house.

2908. Was she present when you gave him your evidence?—Yes.

2909. What did he give you?—He gave me 2s. after he took my deposition down.

2910. No more?—No more; that was when he took my deposition down.

2911. Did he give you any more?—He came again a second time, and he took the wife's evidence down.

2912. What did he give you then?—A shilling.

2913. What did he give your wife?—A shilling.

2914. Did you get no more from him?—No.

2915. Have you had no more at all?—No.

2916. Not from any of them?—No.

2917. Did he give you anything to drink?—No; if he had asked me I would not have had it.

2918. Are you a teetotalter?—No.

2919. Did he give your wife anything to drink?—No.

2920. Nothing at all?—No.

2921. You say you came to Mr. Hollins; has Mr. Hollins been in the habit of giving you relief?—No.

2922. Never before?—No.

2923. You swear that?—Yes.

2924. Do you swear upon your oath that he never gave you anything before?—Never.

2925. How many years has Hollins known you?—Ten or a dozen, I should think.

2926. Did you ask Hollins for relief?—Not to my knowledge I did not.

2927. Did you say you were in a very bad way?—No.

2928. Do you mean to say you never told him that you were badly off?—I did not.

2929. Were you badly off?—I was not very well off.

2930. Did not you tell Hollins so; did not you go to Hollins and say you were very badly off, and ask him to give you some relief?—I never asked Hollins for such a thing.

2931. Where does Hollins live?—He lives opposite to me.

2932. Do you mean to say Hollins never gave you anything before?—Never.

2933. You say your wife took back the tea and sugar to Hollins; had your wife been drinking?—No, thank God she is not a drunkard.

2934. Had she been drinking?—No.

2935. She did not see the shilling?—No.

2936. Was it on the table?—Yes, it lay under the two ounces of tea.

2937. When she took up the two ounces of tea she could not see it?—We went off in a bit of a passion, and said she would not have it.

2938. What is Hollins?—A carpenter by trade.

2939. And lives opposite to you?—Yes.

2940. You did keep the shilling?—Yes.

2941. You

2941. You did not take the shilling back?—No.

2942. You spent the shilling?—Yes, but not in drink, in eating.

2943. Who spent it, you or your wife?—My wife.

2944. You had nothing to do with it?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. James.

2945. You say that your wife did not see the shilling. When she came back did she then have the shilling?—When she came back she saw the shilling. I said, "You had better not take it back again," and she went and bought a hundred of coal.

2946. You say that your wife was in a pet or passion and took back the sugar and tea, and the shilling was spent in a hundred weight of coal?—Yes.

2947. You say Pritchard wears a billycock hat; can you point out where he lives?—At the back of Mr. Hollins; in a big yard behind Mr. Hollins.

2948. If you were asked to show anyone, could you show where he lived?—I could show them the yard.

2949. Where Pritchard lives?—Yes.

J. Wale.

17 February
1869.

MARY WALE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

2950. ARE you the wife of the last witness, Joseph Wale?—Yes.

2951. Do you remember at any time your husband bringing some tea and sugar home?—Yes.

2952. When was that?—I think it was a few days before the polling-day.

2953. Did he tell you something; did he make a communication to you?—No.

2954. Did he say nothing to you when he brought the tea?—No.

2955. How much tea was it?—It was rather a dispute whether it was two pounds or two half-pounds, but it was two packets of sugar. It was two ounces of tea.

2956. How much sugar?—They called it packets; it was either half-pounds or a pound.

2957. When he brought the tea and sugar home what did you do?—I took it back and told him.

2958. Whom did you take it back to?—Mrs. Hollins.

2959. Where does she live?—Opposite where we live. I told her I never wanted any yet, and hoped I never should, and I would buy a penny-worth of each first.

2960. Was that all you said?—Yes; she said she hoped I never should want it.

2961. When you took the tea and sugar back, did you see any money?—I did not at the time.

2962. Did you afterwards?—Yes, there was a shilling.

2963. Where did you see the shilling?—I think on the table.

2964. In your house?—Yes.

2965. Will you tell us what became of that shilling?—It was spent in the house; it went with my other money and was spent in the house.

2966. Before this had anybody come about the election to your house?—Yes.

2967. Who?—Mr. Clare came a time or two.

2968. Who is Mr. Clare?—One of the agents I think.

2969. Do you know where he lives?—In the High-street; my husband says if he met him he should not know him.

2970. Do you know Mr. Clare?—I know him by sight.

2971. How often did Mr. Clare come?—Twice. I would not tell him where my husband was; he never saw my husband; I did not tell him where my husband was.

2972. Was anybody else with Mr. Clare when he came?—I think the second time he came there was.

2973. Do you know who the other people were with Mr. Clare?—I do not; there was only one, if there was any more.

2975.

2974. Do you remember the polling day?—Yes.

2975. Did your husband go alone or with anyone else to the poll?—A man fetched him.

2976. Did you know who the man was?—They say the man's name was Pritchett; there is rather a mistake in the name; the right name is Pritchard, they say.

2977. Do you know Pritchard?—No.

2978. What time was it?—About half-past eight.

2979. How long was your husband away?—About half an hour.

2980. Did he come back alone or with anybody?—He went to the committee-room.

2981. Did he come back alone?—Yes.

2982. You did not go with him to the poll?—No.

2983. Did he show you anything when he came back?—Yes, he had a florin and three shillings.

2984. Do you know whether when your husband went to the poll he had any money with him?—I know he had not, because he never keeps any money; it is me that keeps the money.

2985. Will you tell us what became of the florin and three shillings?—It was spent in the house; I put it with my other money, and it went into the house.

2986. Mr. Justice Willes.] How much was spent in the house?—I do not know; I put it with the other money, and I bought what was required.

2987. Mr. Leigh.] You put it with your other money?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

2988. You say you took this money and put it with the rest of the money, and it went into the common fund of the house?—Yes.

2989. You had the 5s.?—Yes.

2990. The whole of it?—Yes.

2991. I suppose it was spent for butcher's meat, and sugar, and potatoes?—Anything that was required.

2992. You did not expend it in luxuries?—No.

2993. You did not buy a bonnet with it?—No.

2994. Or gloves?—No.

2995. Or boots?—No.

2996. Or shoes?—No.

2997. Your husband did not spend it in follies?—No, he did not have it to spend.

H

2998. He

- M. Wale.* 2998. He did not buy a dark blue tie, for instance?—No.
- 17 February 1869. 2999. Or a pair of gloves?—No.
3000. Nor a pair of boots?—No.
3001. Or get his boots mended?—Yes, he had that done.
3002. You gave him the money to get it done, did you?—I do not know; it may have been taken out of the other money; I do not know what money it might have been; it was with the other money; I do not know whether it was that money or the other money.
3003. You say that you put it with the other money; it was a florin, and not two shillings?—Yes.
3004. When your husband came back with the money did he give it you?—Yes.
3005. Where did he give it you?—In the house.
3006. Had you your purse with you at the time?—I do not carry a purse.
3007. Where do you carry your money?—In my pocket.
3008. Did you put it in your pocket?—Yes.
3009. How did he give it you?—I do not know whether he put it on the table or put it in my hand; I do not know whether he gave it me out of his hand or put it on the table.
3010. Whichever he did, you put it in your pocket?—Yes.
3011. The whole of it?—Yes.
3012. With the rest of your money?—Yes.
3013. Do you keep accounts?—No, I do not keep accounts.
3014. You had some other money in your pocket when you put it in?—Yes.
3015. I daresay they have given you something for giving your evidence, have not they?—I am sure I do not know.
3016. You do not recollect?—No.
3017. Do you mean to say they have not given you any money?—I am sure I do not know anything about it.
3018. We are getting on very well together; did Mr. Commissioner Mickelwright come?—Yes.
3019. Did not he give you any money?—I am sure I do not recollect anything about it; I cannot recollect anything of that.
3020. Perhaps you will swear he did not?—I do not recollect anything about it.
3021. You have a bad memory?—Yes.
3022. He gave you 5s., did not he?—I am sure he did not.
3023. Did he give you half-a-crown?—No.
3024. Two shillings?—No.
3025. One shilling and sixpence?—No.
3026. A shilling?—No. I am sure I do not know anything about it.
3027. Did he give you half-a-crown?—No.
3028. Did he give you 1s.?—I am sure I cannot remember now.
3029. You said that he did not; is that true or false?—I cannot tell.
3030. You have sworn that he did not give you 1s.; is that true; did not he give you 1s.?—He might have given me one, but I am sure I cannot call it to mind.
3031. You have sworn he did not?—I cannot call to mind which way it was.
3032. If you swore that he did not give you 1s., you cannot say whether that is true or not?—No.
3033. Did he give your husband any money?—I am sure I cannot tell at all.
3034. You do not recollect?—No.
3035. How often was your husband examined?—I am sure I do not know; I cannot tell.
3036. When your husband showed you in the first instance what he had got, there were two ounces of tea and two half pounds of sugar?—Half pounds or pounds; we was not certain which it was.
3037. Was it large?—I am sure I do not know. I was so angry I did not know hardly what it was; I was so angry I hardly knew what size they were.
3038. When you came back and found the shilling, were you equally angry then?—Yes.
3039. And you put the shilling into your pocket?—I do not know where I put it.
3040. Why did you not take it back?—I did not know anything about taking it back, because I thought he would be continually giving us something. I thought if I took the tea and sugar back, it was quite sufficient for him to prevent his doing it again.
3041. Why did not you take the shilling back?—I did not find it at the time.
3042. When did you take the tea and sugar back?—Some time that day.
3043. Was it in the afternoon?—I do not know, I am sure.
3044. How long after you took the tea and sugar back did you find the shilling?—I cannot say.
3045. Three or four hours?—I cannot say, I am sure; I do not remember.
3046. Did not you find it on the table immediately after you came back?—No.
3047. That is quite clear?—Yes.
3048. Immediately after you came back, you did not find the shilling?—I did not notice it was there.
3049. Did not your husband call your attention to it?—No, for I was so angry, and I took the tea and sugar back.
3050. When did you first know of the shilling; when your husband gave it to you?—He did not give it to me, I think; I cannot exactly call to mind now about it.
3051. You cannot tell when it was your husband gave the shilling to you?—Not the shilling.

Re-examined by Mr. James.

3052. What is your age?—Sixty-one.
3053. Does your husband wear shoes or boots?—Boots.
3054. Had the pair of boots been soled or mended?—One.
3055. One boot?—Yes.
3056. Did he pay for that boot being mended?—It was paid out of the money; I cannot say whether it was that money or the other money I had.
3057. Did you give him the money to pay for it?—I gave him the money to pay.
3058. After he had given you the 5s.?—I put the money in my pocket with the other; I cannot say whether it was that or the other.
3059. It was after he had given you the 5s.?—Yes.
3060. Mr. Justice Willes.] What did the mending of the boot cost?—Half-a-crown, I think.

JOHN ROADNIGHT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

J. Roadnight.

3061. WHERE do you live?—At the top of Dod-lane.

3062. Are you a voter?—Yes.

3063. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton.

3064. Do you know Pritchard?—Yes.

3065. Do you know his Christian name?—No.

3066. Where does he live?—In Little Park-street.

3067. Before you voted for Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton, did you see Pritchard?—Yes.

3068. How long before?—Three weeks.

3069. Where did you see him?—In Little Park-street.

3070. Where were you coming from when you met Pritchard?—Out of Mr. Kendrick's house.

3071. Is Mr. Kendrick the relieving officer?—Yes.

3072. What had you been to Mr. Kendrick for?—For a little relief.

3073. Did you say anything to Pritchard?—No, he came up to me and says, "You are just the man as I was coming to;" just like that.

3074. Was that all?—Yes.

3075. Did you tell him where you come from?—Yes, I told him where I had been; to Mr. Kendrick's.

3076. Did you tell him what you had been there for?—Yes, I told him for a little relief.

3077. After he had said that to you, did he take you anywhere?—Yes.

3078. Where?—He took me to his house.

3079. What happened at his house?—I had some tea.

3080. Did you go anywhere else for Pritchard?—Yes.

3081. Where?—To Mr. Clare's.

3082. Where does Mr. Clare live?—In High-street, I believe.

3083. What is he?—He has a boot and shoe shop.

3084. Did you see Mr. Clare when you went to his house with Pritchard?—Yes, I did.

3085. Did Mr. Clare speak to you?—Yes.

3086. Will you tell us what Mr. Clare said to you?—I came out, and he followed.

3087. Mr. Huddleston.] Who did?—Mr. Clare did.

3088. Mr. Justice Willes.] Was Pritchard with you then?—Yes, he came with me.

3089. Mr. Huddleston.] To where?—Down Little Park-street.

3090. Mr. Leigh.] Did Mr. Clare and Pritchard and you go anywhere in Park-street?—Yes.

3091. Where?—To Mr. Brown's.

3092. Who is Mr. Brown?—He is a baker by trade, I believe.

3093. Did you get anything from Brown?—Yes, I got two loaves and a pound of lard and two ounces of coffee.

3094. Anything else?—Yes.

3095. What?—When I came out of there Pritchard went and fetched me two pounds of mutton at the butcher's next to the shop, about a dozen doors down past.

3096. Did you know Mr. Clare and Pritchard before?—No, I did not.

3097. Had they ever given you relief before?—No, never in the world.

3098. Did you see Pritchard after that?—No, I did not; not the same night.

275.

3099. Did you see Pritchard any time after that, between that and the election?—Yes.

3100. When?—He came down next morning to me.

3101. Were you at home?—Yes, me and my wife.

3102. Mr. Huddleston.] After the election?—

3103. Mr. Leigh.] No, the following day; this would be the Saturday. (To the Witness.) What happened then?—He came to my house and gave me 1s.

3104. Mr. Huddleston.] Pritchard did?—

3105. Mr. Leigh.] After that did you go to Mr. Clare's shop?—After that?—Yes, I did.

3106. When?—On the Monday.

3107. When you went to Mr. Clare's shop did you see Mr. Clare?—Yes.

3108. What did you say to Mr. Clare, or what did he say to you?—He knowed I was out of work; at the same time I said as I was out of work.

3109. What passed on that occasion?—He said, "I will find you a job to deliver some bills out."

3110. Did he give you any bills to deliver?—Yes.

3111. Did you look at the bills?—I could not read them; I looked at them.

3112. Did he say what the bills were about?—No.

3113. What did you do with the bills?—He told me to go and distribute them.

3114. Did you distribute them?—Yes.

3115. How many were there?—I cannot tell you exactly; I should think there was 300 or 400.

3116. How long were you at work distributing those bills?—About three weeks before the election.

3117. How long were you at work?—From about 11 in the morning till about 4 in the afternoon.

3118. Did you go back to Mr. Clare after you had distributed the bills?—Yes.

3119. What happened then?—He paid me for my day's work.

3120. How much?—One shilling and sixpence to 2s. a day while I was there for him.

3121. On that day did he give you anything?—One shilling and sixpence he gave me and 2s.

3122. Mr. Justice Willes.] The same day?—No, 2s. the first day.

3123. Mr. Leigh.] The first day when you went back to him?—Two shillings.

3124. Did he say anything when he gave you the 2s.?—No, he did not.

3125. Did you go up to Clare's?—He told me to look in again in the morning.

3126. Did you look in again in the morning?—Yes, I did.

3127. And did you distribute any more bills?—Yes, I distributed some more bills.

3128. Each day up to the time of the election?—There was a day or two betwixt when I did not do anything at all.

3129. How many times did you distribute bills for Mr. Clare?—I should think about 9 or 10 times.

3130. After you distributed them, were you paid or were you not paid?—

H 2

3131. Mr.

17 February 1869.

J. Roadnight.

17 February
1869.

3131. Mr. Justice Willes.] Did I catch you rightly, nine or 10 times?—Yes.

3132. Did you mean nine or 10 days?—Yes.

3133. Mr. Leigh.] You have told us you went to Mr. Clare's shop afterwards; how many days did you work for Mr. Clare after the first time?—I should think about 10 days.

3134. Were you paid anything for the other 10 days?—Yes, I was paid 1 s. and 1 s. 6 d. each day.

3135. Who paid you?—Mr. Clare, out of his own till.

3136. When did you leave off distributing bills?—Just before the nomination.

3137. Were you ever canvassed for your vote; did anybody ever ask you how you were going to vote?—Mr. Clare asked me; he said to me, he says, "You know who you vote for;" and I says, "Yes, Hill and Eaton," I said, "of course."

3138. Did you ever see Mr. Hill or Mr. Eaton; did they ever ask you for your vote?—No, they did not.

3139. Were you employed at all during the nomination or polling days?—Yes, I was employed for them, but I did not do anything that day.

3140. Who employed you?—Mr. Clare.

3141. What did you do on the nomination day?—I did not do anything, though I was set down for it.

3142. What do you mean by "set down for it"?—Set down to do the work, but I did not do it.

3143. Who set you down?—Mr. Clare, I believe.

3144. When did he set you down?—I told him just before the nomination, if he could find me two days' work.

3145. Will you repeat that again a little louder?—I told him I should want two days' work.

3146. Where did you tell him that?—In his own house.

3147. When you said you should want two days' work, what did he say; did he say anything?—He said all right.

3148. Did he write anything or not, at the time?—No, he did not at the time.

3149. Was the nomination day one of the days you were down for work?—Yes.

3150. And you did nothing?—Yes.

3151. What did you do; nothing?—I looked about, that is all.

3152. Did you go into any public-houses?—I did so, of course.

3153. Will you tell us any public-houses you, of course, went into?—I went into the "Dog" on the nomination morning.

3154. Do you know a house in Palmer-lane called Parker's coffee-house?—Yes.

3155. Did you go there on the nomination day?—Yes.

3156. Did you have anything to eat and drink there?—Yes.

3157. Did you pay for it?—No.

3158. Was anyone there besides yourself?—There were several voters there; I cannot say who they was.

3159. Did you see any money paid?—No.

3160. Were the voters having anything to eat and drink?—Yes.

3161. What was the drink?—Ale.

3162. Did you see how much there was?—I saw there was a two-gallon bottle.

3163. What time did you poll?—About half-past nine; I think something like that.

3164. Where did you go after you had polled?—I could not say.

3165. Did you go into any public-houses that day?—No, I do not believe I did.

3166. Did you go into the committee-rooms that day?—No.

3167. Did you go to the committee-room after it was shut up?—Yes.

Mr. Huddleston.] You must not lead the witness.

3168. Mr. Leigh.] Very well, you say you did not go to the committee-room that day?—No, I did not.

3169. Did you see anybody on the evening of the polling day?—Yes.

3170. What time?—About half-past four.

3171. Did you know the person?—Yes.

3172. Who was it?—Mr. Clare.

3173. What happened when you saw Mr. Clare at half-past four?—He gave me 2 s.

3174. On the polling day?—Yes.

3175. After that did you see anybody?—No, I saw nobody after that.

3176. Did you go to the Park that evening?—Not that evening, I did not.

3177. Did you go to the Park at all?—Yes.

3178. When?—The Thursday after the polling day.

3179. What made you go to the Park?—They came and fetched me out of the public-house.

3180. Who came and fetched you out of the public-house?—A voter; I could not swear to him now.

3181. Do not tell us what he said, but in consequence of what he said did you go to the Park?—Yes.

3182. One word about the public-house; what had you been doing at the public-house?—I got some beer.

3183. Did you pay for that beer?—No.

3184. Were there other people there?—Yes.

3185. Voters?—Yes.

3186. What beer was there going on there?—There was quarts came in; I could not say how many quarts there was.

3187. How many voters were there there that you knew?—Eight or nine.

3187*. Mr. Huddleston.] Is this the Thursday after the polling day.

3188. Mr. Leigh.] Yes. (To the Witness.) Did you see any money paid by them for the beer?—No, I did not.

3189. You told us that in consequence of what the man whom you did not know told you, you went to the Park; did you see anybody at the Park?—Yes, I saw Pritchard.

3190. Is that the Pritchard you have spoken of before?—Yes; the same man.

3191. Of Little Park-street?—Yes.

3192. What time was it?—About eight o'clock at night.

3193. Was there anybody else besides Pritchard?—Yes, there was somebody else; I could not say who he was.

3194. Tell us what happened?—He gave me 10 s.

3195. Who?—Pritchard.

3196. After he had given you 10 s., what happened?—I went straight home.

3197. Did he say anything to you at the time?—No, he said nothing to me at the time; he popped popped it into my hand; he asked me if I had any tobacco; I said "No."

3198. Tell us all that passed?—He asked me whether I had any tobacco. I said I had not; and then he popped it into my hand.

3199. What was the 10s. in; what was the money?—In gold.

3200. Where is this park?—Again Park Gate.

3201. Is it far from Coventry?—No; it is not far from Coventry.

3202. Were there other people about, besides you and Pritchard?—Yes; there were others. I could not swear to them.

3203. Were there other people about besides yourself and Pritchard?—I don't believe there were.

3204. Besides the party that you have told us of, were there any other people about?—I don't believe there was.

3205. Have you been since that to Mr. Dewes's office?—I did go.

3206. When did you go to Mr. Dewes's office?—When did I go; about a month ago.

3207. Who took you to Mr. Dewes's office?—A man of the name of Suddens.

3208. Do you know his Christian name?—John, I believe.

3209. Do you know whether his Christian name is John or James?—I will not swear to it.

3210. Do you know where he lives?—He lives in Spon-street.

3211. What is he?—What is he; he is a dyer, I think.

3212. Where did Mr. Suddens take you from Mr. Dewes's office?—Out of the Cross.

3213. Is that Cross, Cheaping?—No, the Golden Cross.

Mr. Justice Willes said he thought this would come better in re-examination.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3214. You went to Mr. Dewes's office, did you?—Yes.

3215. With Suddens?—Yes.

3216. And you made a statement there?—Yes, I did.

3217. And it was taken down?—Yes.

3218. And read over to you?—Yes.

3219. This is your mark; "J. Roadknight"?—Yes.

3220. Listen to this: "John Roadknight, of Coventry" (I suppose the date is the 11th of December), "1, Court 5, house, Dog-lane, says, I am on the register for Little Park-street. I voted at the last election for Eaton and Hill. I got nothing for doing so"? Is that true?—That is untrue.

3221. And you knew it was untrue, when you told Mr. Dewes so. Come, stand up, sir, and speak out. Did you know it was untrue?—(The Witness hesitated.)

3222. Did you know it was untrue, when you said so?—Well, I said it to keep others quiet.

3223. Well then, you did say that you got nothing for doing so?—Yes.

3224. That was untrue?—Yes.

3225. On Friday last, the 4th instant, John Pinches, and Mr. Kirby, the solicitor, called upon me at my house about 10 in the morning? Is that true?—Yes.

3226. "Kirby asked me what I had for my vote;" is that true?—Yes.

3227. "I said nothing." You said that?—Yes.

3228. "Kirby asked me what I had for my vote;" is that true?—Yes.

vote." Is that true; you have sworn it just now, J. Roadknight, you know?—(The Witness hesitated.)

3229. Perhaps you would like to swear that it is not true; it is perfectly indifferent to me. Is it true?—(The Witness sighed.)

3230. Having delivered yourself of that sigh, will you answer the question, is it true?—No.

3231. Then it is a lie; you have sworn on your oath that it was true, that Kirby asked you what you had had for your vote; that is a lie, is it; do not let us mince matters about it; it's a lie, is it?—(No answer.)

3232. Come, speak out; is it a lie; it is a simple question?—Yes, it is untrue.

3233. You object to the word "lie"; it is untrue; you did not know it was untrue when you said it?—That is untrue.

3234. And you knew it was untrue?—Yes.

3235. When you said it just now?—Yes.

3236. Then it is a lie. I will not bandy definitions with you: "Kirby asked me what I had for my vote. I said nothing"; did you say so; did you tell Kirby so?—Kirby?

3237. Yes; did you tell Kirby so?—(No answer.)

3238. You have not been ashamed of all that you have said before; did you tell Kirby so?—I told Kirby I said so.

3239. Did you tell Mr. Dewes that Kirby had asked you what you had for your vote, and you said "Nothing"?—Yes; I said I had nothing then.

3240. Did you tell Mr. Dewes that when Kirby asked you for your vote, you said you had nothing?—Mr. Kirby ask me for my vote?

3241. Attend to this; when you were at Mr. Dewes's office, and it was written down, did you tell Mr. Dewes that Kirby had asked you what you had for your vote, and that you said "Nothing," and that that was the truth?—That is untrue.

3242. Did you say so?—Yes.

3243. And it is a lie?—Yes.

3244. Did you tell him that Kirby said, if you did not tell him he would summon you?—Yes.

3245. Did Kirby tell you that?—Kirby? No.

3246. Did you tell Mr. Dewes that Kirby did say that to you?—(After some hesitation) Yes.

3247. Is that a lie?—That is the truth.

3248. Is it the truth, then, that Kirby did say he would summon you?—(No answer.)

3249. Is it the truth that Kirby did say, that if you did not tell him he would summon you?—(No answer.)

3250. Is that true?—(No answer.)

3251. Why do you not answer the question?—I cannot.

3252. Why cannot you; is it because you are telling untruths?—No.

3253. You do not want to tell any more untruths, do you?—I have told the truth.

3254. Do you want to tell any more untruths?—I am speaking the truth; I have told you all that I know, and that is enough.

3255. No, that is not half enough for me. You have told me a great many untruths. Did you tell Mr. Dewes that Kirby had said that if you did not tell him he would summon you?—I do not understand that.

3256. Oh yes you do; did you tell Mr. Dewes that Kirby had said that if you did not tell him he would summon you?—Yes, I told Mr. Dewes that.

3257. Was it true or false?—It is untrue, that is.

H 3

3258. Then

J. Roadknight.

17 February
1869.

*J. Roadnight.*17 February
1869.

3258. Then that was untrue that you told Mr. Dewes. Did you tell Mr. Dewes that you had told Kirby that they might summon you; that they could not get more than the truth?—I did.

3259. Did you say so to Kirby, that they might summon you?—No, I said so to Dewes.

3260. Then that was untrue that you had said to Kirby?—Yes.

3261. Did you tell Mr. Dewes that on Monday last the same parties came again, and threatened again to summon you if you did not tell them what you had?—Yes.

3262. Was that true or false?—False.

3263. Did you tell Mr. Dewes that you made the same reply as you did on Friday?—Yes, I told him that was false.

3264. And that was false too?—Yes.

3265. Did you then tell Mr. Dewes that you could swear that you did not receive anything for voting?—Yes.

3266. And that was a lie too?—Yes, I told you so.

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

3267. Who went with you to Mr. Dewes's office?—A man named Suddens.

3268. Was any money given to you?—Yes.

3269. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Dewes.

3270. What did Mr. Dewes give you?—He did not give it to me; he gave Mr. Suddens a note to draw half-a-crown of a clerk.

3271. Whose clerk?—Mr. Lawyer Dewes's clerk.

3272. And what was Suddens to draw half-a-crown for; was that for making the statement?—Yes.

3273. That you had signed?—Yes.

3274. How much did you have of the half-crown?—Two shillings.

3275. What became of the other 6 d.?—I paid for a quart of ale.

3276. Out of the half-crown that Mr. Dewes had given?—Yes; he changed a sovereign.

3277. Who did?—Mr. Suddens.

3278. You have used the name of Mr. Kirby; do you know Mr. Kirby; is this the gentleman here (pointing to a person in Court) that came to you, or another person?—As came to me?

3279. Yes; did you ever speak to this gentleman, or was it somebody else?—No, I never spoke to him.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARY ANN ROADKNIGHT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

*M. A.
Roadnight,*

3280. ARE you the wife of the last witness?—Yes.

3281. Do you remember the election time?—Yes.

3282. Before the election did your husband bring home anything?—Yes.

3283. What?—Two big loaves and a pound of lard, two ounces of coffee, and two pounds of mutton.

3284. How long before the election was that?—Three weeks.

3285. What time of the evening was it when he brought home those things?—I believe it was about six o'clock.

3286. How long had he been out?—I don't know, for I was out all that day, and he was at home when I got home.

3287. Did anybody call upon your husband at the time?—Not that I know of.

3288. After that; between that time and the election?—There was a man came on the next day, and that was on the Saturday, and gave him a shilling.

3289. Do you know who that man was?—His name was Pritchard.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3290. About that time, I think, your husband had been to Mr. Kenrick?—That was before the election; it was before he had the things that he went to Mr. Kenrick's.

3291. Mr. Kenrick was the relieving officer?—Yes.

3292. And you were in great distress?—We were at that time.

3293. You had no food at that time?—We had when he came in; but he didn't ask us anything, and I didn't like to tell him.

3294. At the time your husband went up to Kenrick?—Not at the time he went up he had not.

3295. When your husband went up to Kenrick he went to get relief?—Yes.

3296. At that time had you any food in the house?—We had not a bit of anything in the house.

3297. Nor the means of buying it?—No; it was the next day after as we had the things.

3298. Was that the day you had some loaves, and some lard, and some coffee, and some mutton?—Yes.

3299. And that was brought home to you the day that your husband went up to Mr. Kenrick?—Yes.

3300. And at that time you had nothing in the house?—No.

3301. Your husband was out of work, was he not?—Yes; we were both out of work.

3302. What are you yourself?—I pick up.

3303. That is in the weaving?—Yes.

3304. Are you at work now?—Yes; I have got work now.

3305. For whom?—Mr. Rogers, in "The Butts."

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOSEPH HORSFALL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

J. Horsfall.

3306. WHERE do you live?—In High-street.

3307. Are you a voter?—Yes.

3308. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Hill and Heaton.

Mr. Huddleston objected that there was no notice of this man's name in the particulars.

Mr. Henry James apologised for having by inadvertence omitted the name of this witness from his opening speech.

Mr. Justice Willes directed that the witness should be called at a later period.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JANE BARTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

3309. ARE you the wife of Henry Barton?—Of William Henry Barton.

3310. He had a vote, I believe, at the last election?—Yes, he had.

3311. What is he by business?—He is a ragman.

3312. Do you know a man of the name of John Brown, a ragman?—Yes.

3313. Did he call upon your husband before the election?—Yes.

3314. Did he say anything about the vote?—Mr. Brown?

3315. Yes?—Yes, he came in; and he asked my husband whether he would vote on his side. My husband said “Yes,” and then he took him to Mr. Clare’s, on some business, but what, I cannot say; but when my husband came in he told me it was to get some money.

3316. We must not have what your husband told you. Did you hear Brown say anything about any money that your husband could have?—Oh yes.

3317. What did he say?—He said he could get him 10*s.* for his father and himself; 10*s.* on each side; 10*s.* a piece.

3318. What is your husband’s father?—Thomas Barton, in the same trade.

3319. Did you hear what your husband said in reply to that?—Yes.

3320. What was it that he said?—He said that he would be satisfied with 10*s.*, and Mr. Brown asked him whether he would give him one out of it, and he said yes, he would; he would give him two if he wished it.

3321. Did you ever see this lady, Mrs. Hedger, or is it another Jane Barton?—There is never another Jane Barton.

3322. Did anyone call upon you before the polling-day?—Yes, my husband said it was young Mrs. Hedger, but I didn’t know the lady.

3323. Did anybody call to canvass you?—Yes; Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton, Mr. Hedger and Mr. Markham.

3324. What was said at that time to your husband about his vote, and what reply did he make?—My husband said he would vote, but he couldn’t afford to lose his time.

3325. What answer was made to him, and by whom was the answer made?—I shouldn’t like to say whom the answer was made by, but the answer was, “Never mind, don’t put yourself about, you shall be seen to,” by either Mr. Hill or Mr. Eaton, but which I could not be certain.

3326. Just tell us again what passed?—Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton asked for his vote, and he said he would vote for them, only he couldn’t awhile to lose his time, and he said, “Don’t put yourself about, you shall be seen to,” but I couldn’t swear which.

3327. Mr. Justice Willes.] Was it Mr. Hill or Mr. Eaton who said that?—I shouldn’t like to say; it was one of those two.

3328. Mr. Henry James.] After those gentlemen had left, did Mr. Hedger remain behind?—Mr. Hedger remained, I daresay, 10 moments.

3329. Did he talk to you?—Yes.

3330. What about?—About my work; he said it was a shame I should work at that price, for he gave 16*d.* a piece, and mine was but 10*d.*

3331. What work was it you were upon?—Needlework. J. Barton.

3332. At that day had you pawned your wedding ring?—Yes; I pawned it for 1*s.* 6*d.* 17 February 1869.

3333. Did you show the ticket to Mr. Hedger?—Yes; I gave it into Mr. Hedger’s hands, and he took it and read it.

3334. What did he say?—He says, “Never mind,” he says, “I will see u’m all right;” and then at night he sent his son’s wife with 5*s.*, wrapped in a piece of paper; that was on the 12th of November.

3335. Do you know where this Mr. Hedger lives?—He lives in Broadgate.

3336. Did the lady come to your husband’s house?—Yes; she came about seven o’clock at night.

3337. What did she say?—She rapped at the door, as I sat at work, and she says, “Is your father at home?” and I says, “No, ma’am, I think you have made a mistake.” She said, “No, I have not; this is William Henry Barton’s, is it not?” and I said, “Yes, ma’am.” Then she says, “Where is he?” and I called him downstairs, and she says, “Here, a friend sent you this to go on with.”

3338. Did you see what it was?—Yes; it was 5*s.* lapped up in a piece of paper; he gave it to me straightway.

3339. Was anything at all said about your husband’s father?—My husband says, “Do you want my father, ma’am?” She says, “Yes,” and he said, “I will show you where he lives.” He took her to the door and she rapped at it, and he came away.

3340. On the Wednesday night after the polling day did anyone else come in?—Yes; the old gentleman’s wife brought my husband 8*s.*; at least it was 7*s.* and two sixpences.

3341. Please be rather more definite about that old gentleman?—Well it was Mr. Hedger.

3342. This was on the Wednesday?—Yes, the Wednesday after the polling, which was on the Tuesday.

3343. What took place then?—She rapped at the door and she asked whether that was William Henry Barton’s, and I said “Yes ma’am, won’t you walk in?” “No,” she says, “I want to speak to him.” She went to the door, and she gave him 7*s.* and two sixpences.

3344. Did you see this?—Yes, he brought it to me straight away; he never went out of the door at all.

(Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.)

3345. To whom was it that she gave the 7*s.* and the two sixpences?—My husband.

3346. You are the Jane Barton of whom there is not another in existence?—Oh, I should not like to say there was never another in existence. There is never another in our house.

3347. Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill both came there, did they?—Oh yes.

3348. One of them said—Let us see, what was it, just repeat it again?—One of them asked my husband for his vote. My husband says, “Yes, I will willingly vote for you, only I cannot awhile to lose my time;” and then one of them says, “Don’t put yourself about, you shall be seen to,” but which I would not swear.

H 4

3349. But

J. Barton.
 17 February 1869. 3349. But whoever said it, the other must have heard him?—They was both there, and the other must have heard him.
 3350. You are quite sure about that?—Certainly.
 3351. I daresay the other, whoever he was, nodded?—I cannot answer for that.
 3352. Your husband is here, I suppose?—Oh yes.
 3353. What did you have for giving your evidence?—Nothing at all.
 3354. You do not expect anything, I suppose?—No, we do not.
 3355. Has your husband had anything?—Not that I am aware of, for I had to leave him the very next night, or perhaps I should have been killed.
 3356. Where have you been since?—At my mother's aunt's.
 3357. You have had nothing at all?—No, I had nothing; I had a shilling with my subpoena.
 3358. When did you get that?—When I had my subpoena.
 3359. From whom?—Mr. Micklewright brought that.
 3360. Did he give you anything at that time?—No, he did not.
 3361. Where is your husband?—Well he is in the committee-room or the witness-room.
 3362. He was present when Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill said this?—Oh yes.
 3363. First of all, what was the money; Mr. Hedger, you say, did not give you anything himself?—No, he did not.
 3364. He sent Mrs. Hedger with 5 s.?—He sent his son's wife with 5 s.
 3365. I suppose your husband was present?—My husband received it.
 3366. What did he do with it?—He gave it to me.
 3367. He did not keep any of it himself?—No, he did not.
 3368. Then you took possession of the whole of the 5 s., did you?—Yes, I had the 5 s.
 3369. What was it in?—Five shillings.
 3370. Was it in two half-crowns?—No, it was in five shillings.
 3371. Five separate shillings?—Yes; five separate shillings.
 3372. And you received it and put it into your pocket?—Yes.
 3373. What did you do with it?—I bought a stone of flour for one thing.
 3374. You spent it in the house?—Yes.
 3375. Afterwards another Mrs. Hedger brought you 8 s.?—She brought seven shilling pieces and two sixpences.
 3376. Did she give that to you?—Yes.

3377. Was your husband present when she gave it to you?—She gave it to him; she did not give it to me.

3378. Did the other Mrs. Hedger give the 5 s. to him?—Yes.

3379. Then as soon as ever he got it he gave it to you?—Straightway.

3380. Did you put that into the house?—Yes, I laid it out on the house.

3381. He had none of that either?—No, he did not.

3382. I suppose, if the truth were known, you and he have never spoken about the evidence you were going to give?—Well, I do not know about that; I spoke about it, or else I should not have been here, I suppose.

3383. To your husband?—No, not to my husband, for I never saw him this last fortnight at all.

3384. But have you spoken to him about it?—Not since I had the subpoena I have not.

3385. Have you ever spoken to him about it?—No I never did, that I am aware of.

3386. You could not have spoken to him without being aware of it?—Then I have not spoken a word to him about it.

3387. You have not said a word to him about it?—No, I have not.

3388. Not about your evidence?—No, I have not.

3389. Have you not said to him, "They will ask us what we did with the 5 s."?—No, I have not.

3390. And you did not say, "They will ask what we did with the 8 s."?—No, I did not.

3391. Nothing of the sort?—Nothing of the sort.

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

3392. You say you have not been with your husband for the last fortnight?—No, I have not; I never clapped my eyes on him for the last fortnight.

3393. Has there been any quarrel between you?—Yes.

3394. Was that about giving information here?—Yes.

3395. Your husband voted for Eaton and Hill?—Yes.

3396. And he quarrelled with you about giving information?—Yes.

3397. Do you know whether your husband has been to Mr. Dewes's office or not?—I do not.

3398. Mr. Justice Willes.] Who did you say was with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Mr. Markham and Mr. Hedger.

[The Witness withdrew.

ELIZA HAYWARD was called, but did not appear.

THOMAS NEALE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

T. Neale.
 3399. ARE you on the register of voters for this borough?—Yes.
 3400. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Carter and for Mr. Jackson.
 3401. What are you by business?—A labourer.
 3402. Where do you live?—At Brickhill-lane, No. 16, Coventry.
 3403. Were you canvassed before the election for Mr. Eaton and for Mr. Hill; did some persons come and ask you to vote for these gentlemen?—Yes, they did.

3404. Who were they who came?—Well, I did not see them all as come the first time, but I know one of them; that was Mr. Linnett.

3405. Did Mr. Linnett come with Mr. Eaton when that gentleman canvassed you?—Mr. Eaton did not come to my house whilst I was at home.

3406. You

T. Neale.
17 February
1869.

3406. You met him in the street, I think?—Yes, I did.

3407. Who was with Mr. Eaton then?—There was Mr. Linnett, and there was three or four more, but I could not say who they were.

3408. Do you recollect when Mr. Eaton asked you for your vote in the street, was anything said by any one?—Well, there was one of them met me; I believe it was Mr. Linnett; and he said, "This is Mr. Neale," to Mr. Eaton; and Mr. Eaton he put his hand on my shoulder, and he shook hands with me and some one else, and they asked me if I would oblige him with my vote; and I said I thought not.

3409. You are quite sure that Mr. Linnett was with Mr. Eaton when he canvassed you?—Yes, he was.

3410. Do you remember on the Monday night any one calling upon you?—On the Monday night there was Mr. Linnett and Mr. Charles Fawson.

3411. At what time of the evening was it on the Monday night that they called?—I believe between eight and nine o'clock.

3412. What was said to you by Mr. Linnett, or any one?—My wife was locking the door, and there was a rap came at the door, and she answered the door, and my misses says, "If you had been a bit later we should have been gone to bed." They said, "You go to bed very early," and she said, "Yes, we get up early in the morning;" and they said, "Well, Mr. Neal, have you made up your mind to vote for the Light Blues?"

3413. Do you recollect who said that?—That was Mr. Linnett.

3414. What was said after that?—Mr. Fawson and Mr. Linnett both said, "You cannot do better." "Well," I says, "I don't know." Mr. Linnett turned round to me, and says, "Mr. Neale, it will be as good as a week's work in your way." My wife speaks up, and she says, "What do you call a week's work?" He says, "He doesn't earn a sovereign, does he?" My wife says, "No, sir." He turns round to me, and says, "Mr. Neale, I will give you that sovereign."

3415. What reply did you make to that?—"Well, sir," I says, "I have not made my mind up yet, but," I says, "I shall see." "Well," says he, "Get up to-morrow, the first thing, and give your vote."

3416. Was that all that took place?—Well, he asked if I had any objections to his eating a bit of food in the house. He said he had been running about all the day. Mr. Linnett did. We said, "Oh, no," and he said he had been running about all day, and he hadn't had a thing to eat; and he ate his food, and he said, "Well, Mr. Neale, I hope you will give us your vote." "Well, sir," I said, "I will see in the morning," and they said, "Good night," and away they went.

3417. And you voted for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—I voted for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

3418. Are you quite sure that this statement about the sovereign took place?—Yes; I have not come here to tell untruths.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3419. Your wife was present all the time, was she?—Yes.

3420. What day was it on which you saw Mr.
275.

Eaton and spoke to him in the street?—Well, I cannot say what day it was, I am sure, but it was a week before the election.

3421. But on what day in the week was it?—Well, I did not keep account.

3422. I wrote down what you said, "One of them said, I believe it was Mr. Linnett?"—Yes, Mr. Linnett was with him, I know.

3423. Why did you say you believed it was Mr. Linnett?—It was Mr. Linnett as was with Mr. Hill.

3424. But you said, "I believe that it was Mr. Linnett?"—I know it was him.

3425. You have no doubt about it?—No.

3426. Did you know Mr. Linnett before?—I never knew him till the time as he came canvassing to my house.

3427. Do you know Mr. Fawson?—I know him.

3428. Was Mr. Fawson with Mr. Linnett at the time you say Mr. Eaton was there canvassing you in the street?—No, he was not; he only came to my house once.

3429. And you say Mr. Fawson was present when this conversation took place about your vote?—Yes, on the Monday night.

3430. Who took your evidence for Mr. Kirby?—Well, I cannot tell you the gentleman's name particularly.

3431. Who asked you to vote for Carter and Jackson?—Who asked me?

3432. Yes?—No one.

3433. Nobody canvassed you at all?—Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson did come round at dinner time, and asked me if I had promised my vote, and I said, No, I had not promised it to any one yet; but if I do vote for either, I says, "I will vote for Mr. Carter and Jackson."

3434. Mr. Micklewright did come and take your evidence, did he?—Yes, he did.

3435. Did he give you anything?—He gave me a shilling.

3436. Nothing more?—No.

3437. Was your wife present?—Yes.

3438. Did he give her anything?—No, at least he gave it to my wife; he did not give it to me.

3439. Did he take your wife's evidence?—Yes.

3440. And he only gave you a shilling between you?—He gave us a shilling.

3441. Nothing else?—Not at the house.

3442. Where else?—We went to the office, and I had a shilling there.

3443. Did your wife go to the office with you?—Yes.

3444. Did she have anything?—She had a shilling there.

3445. She had?—He gave it to her.

3446. It was only one shilling for both of you?—Yes.

3447. Have you had any more than 2 s.?—No more than 2 s.

3448. Nothing more?—No.

3449. Was anything promised?—No.

3450. You were not promised anything?—I was not promised anything at all.

3451. Did you have any drink?—No, not a glass of anything.

3452. You mean Mr. Linnett and Mr. Fawson?—Mr. Linnett and Mr. Fawson.

3453. I dare say that you and your wife must have been talking over this evidence, have you not?—Well, we know'd we had got to come to speak the truth, and we was not going to say any more.

I

3454. And

T. Neale.
17 February
1869.

3454. And you have talked it over, and prepared the evidence which you were each going to give?—To be sure we have.

3455. How often, do you think?—I could not say how often, I am sure.

3456. But three or four times, I suppose?—I dare say it might have been three or four times, I have not kept account.

3457. Probably last night or this morning was the last time?—I do not know that it has been mentioned either yesterday or to-day.

3458. But was it mentioned last night or this morning?—It was mentioned before.

3459. But yesterday or to-day?—No, we never mentioned it either yesterday or to-day.

[The Witness withdrew.]

CAROLINE NEALE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

C. Neale.

3460. ARE you the wife of Thomas Neale?—Yes.

3461. Do you know Mr. Fawson?—Yes.

3462. I believe he was once your landlord?—He was.

3463. Before the election did Mr. Linnett call once, or more than once, at your house?—A good many times.

3464. Was your husband at home on those occasions, or not?—Yes.

3465. On the evening of the nomination day, the Monday, did any one call on you?—Yes.

3466. Who called?—Mr. Linnett and Mr. Fawson.

3467. At what time in the evening?—Between 8 o'clock and 9 o'clock; we was just-a-going to bed.

3468. What was said?—A rap came at the door, and I answered the door, and I said I was just-a-going to bed; so he said, "You go to bed very early"; I said "Yes, we get up very early." He said, "Mr. Neale, have you made up your mind to vote for the Light Blues", he said, "No, he thought not."

3469. Mr. Justice Willes.] Which of them said that?—Mr. Linnett; he said "No, he thought not; and he said "It will be more than a weeks' work in your way if you do". Mr. Fawson said, "Yes, I am sure it will"; I said "What do you call a week's work"? Mr. Linnett said "He does not earn a sovereign, does he," and I said "No, I wish he did." He turned round and he said, "Mr. Neale, I will give you a sovereign if you will vote for the Light Blues," he said "I do not know, I will see in the morning." That is all I have got to say, gentlemen.

3470. You say that is all you have to tell us; is what you have told true?—That is so.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3471. I daresay you will not mind telling us over again?—No; if you will wait a bit.

3472. Go on then?—Between eight o'clock and nine o'clock a rap came to my door, and I answered the door, and he said, "Is it Mr. Neale?" and I said, "Yes, a few minutes later we should have gone to bed." He said "You go to bed early;" I said, "Yes, because we get up early." He said, "Well, Mr. Neale, have you made up your mind to vote for the Light Blues?" he said he thought not; he said, "You could not do anything better, it will be a week's work in your way." I said, "What do you call a week's work?" and he said, "You do not earn a sovereign." I said, "I wish he did;" he turned round and said, "I will give you a sovereign."

3473. And that is all you have got to say?—That is all I have got to say.

3474. You have told that tale so well, twice, exactly in the same words, that I should not be surprised if you had not been telling it over to your husband?—Perhaps I have, but I could only tell the truth. You do not want me to tell untruths; I took my oath; I am come here to tell the truth, and I took my oath.

3475. You do not want me to enter into a war of words with you. I daresay you have told that story, or that tale we will call it, over to your husband in the same words?—That is all I have to tell you.

3476. You must answer it, you know?—I have answered it.

Mr. Justice Willes directed the witness to answer the questions put by the learned counsel.

3477. Mr. Huddleston (to the Witness).] I daresay, now, you have told that tale over to your husband often?—I did not want no telling, and he did not want no telling.

3478. Did you tell it to your husband?—He did not want any telling.

3479. But did you tell it to your husband?—He did not want any.

3480. Do you think that I could induce you by coaxing you, to answer me; now let us see, have you talked over this matter with your husband?—We did not want any talking over.

3481. Then you have not?—I do not know; we might, perhaps, speak about it.

3482. You have then?—Yes, I daresay we did.

3483. Did you tell it him last night?—No, I did not.

3484. Perhaps I am wrong; this morning then?—Nor yet this morning.

3485. When did you tell him last?—I do not know.

3486. Perhaps you never told it him?—Yes, I have, I daresay.

3487. When?—I do not know when.

3488. You learnt it by heart, did you not?—No, I did not; it was already said to me.

3489. Who said it to you?—Mr. Linnett and Mr. Fawson.

3490. And you did not repeat it since that day?—Oh, yes.

3491. To whom did you repeat it?—Why, to ourselves.

3492. Yourself and your husband?—Yes.

3493. Have you gone over it together so that you might not make a mistake?—Oh, no; we did not want to make no mistakes in the truth.

3494. But that you might not make a mistake have you repeated it to each other?—Well, I could not say that.

3495. But have you; you can answer that question?—I have said, I knowed what they said, and he said the same; he knowed what they said.

3496. Did you say that to him "I know what they said," and then did he say to you "I know what they said"?—Yes.

3497. Did

3497. Did he tell you what they said?—No.
 3498. Did you tell him what they said?—No.
 3499. Then you did not talk about it, did you?
 —No.

3500. How much have you had for giving your evidence?—Nothing at all, and nothing I want.

3501. Nor your husband?—No, nor my husband.

3502. You had nothing with your subpoena?—Oh, yes, we had a shilling with it.

3503. What, a shilling each?—Yes.

3504. How many times were you examined?—Twice they came to our house.

3505. Mickle Wright?—I do not know the name.

3506. A tall man with grey whiskers?—Yes, I believe he had grey whiskers.

3507. Did he take your husband's evidence down?—Yes.

3508. And gave him a shilling?—Yes.

3509. And then he took your evidence down?—He never gave me a shilling then.

3510. Did he give the shilling to your husband?—He gave me the shilling.

3511. He gave you a shilling then?—Yes.

3512. Then what did he give your husband?—Nothing at all.

3513. Then you went to the office?—Yes.

3514. What did you have then?—He gave me a shilling.

3515. What did he give your husband?—Nothing at all.

3516. Who got the money then?—He gave me the money.

3517. And you kept it?—Yes.

3518. Did you know Mr. Fawson before?—Yes, I should think I did, seeing he was my landlord.

3519. You have known him quite well?—Yes, I did.

The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Henry James stated that he proposed to withdraw Thomas Wareham's case.

JOHN CLARIDGE, was called; but did not appear.

WILLIAM HOLT, was called; but did not appear.

ELIZABETH MAYNE, was called; but did not appear.

WILLIAM MAYNE, was called; but did not appear.

RICHARD KILPACK, was called; but did not appear.

JAMES EVERETT, was called; but did not appear.

ELIZA HAYWARD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

3520. WHAT is your husband's name?—John Hayward.

3521. Where does he live?—No. 2, St. Agnes lane.

3522. In what ward is that?—Cross Cheaping.

3523. Did he vote at the last election?—Yes.

3524. Mr. Huddleston.] Did you go with him?—No.

3525. Mr. Chandos Leigh.] For whom did he vote?

Mr. Huddleston objected that this case was not correctly and specifically mentioned in the bill of particulars.

Mr. Justice Willes directed the counsel E. Hayward. for the petitioners to give to the counsel for the respondents the name of the person, the number on the register, and the place, and to proceed with the rest of their case, so as to allow the respondents time to inquire as to the case, but he said he could not refuse to accept the evidence.

Mr. Henry James said he did not attach much importance to the case, and he would withdraw it.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN CLARIDGE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

3526. WHERE do you live?—At Cock-street.

3527. Are you a voter for Coventry?—Yes.

3528. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Jackson and Mr. Carter.

3529. At what time of the day did you vote?—Well I cannot exactly say to a moment: I believe somewhere about half-past three.

3530. Did anybody come to you before you voted?—Yes, several.

3531. Do you know a man called Cook?—Yes, he came, and another young man.

3532. What is Cook?—I don't know.

3533. Do you know what his christian name is?—I do not.

3534. What time did Cook come?—I think it was somewhat towards 10 o'clock.

3535. Did Cook say anything to you when he came?—Yes.

3536. What did he say?—He asked me how I was going to vote, and I told him I did not think I should vote at all. He said, 10 s. would do me good; I told him, I did not think I should poll at all, I suffered so much from electioneering. He said, "You know the Liberals have got no money."
 275.

3537. Did he say anything else after he had said this?—No.

3538. Mr. Justice Willes.] Did he say 10 s. would do you good?—Yes.

3539. Was it after that that he said "the Liberals have no money"?—Yes.

3540. Mr. Chandos Leigh.] Was anybody else with him?—Yes, a young man; and he ordered this young man to put my name down, but what he put down of course I could not see.

3541. Did anybody come in at the time that Cook and the young man were there?—Yes, a labourer of the name of Lack came in, and I went out down street with him.

3542. Did you go to the poll with him?—No; he came for me to go to the poll, but he was going to Canterbury-street, and he thought I had got

J. Claridge.

J. Claridge. got to go to the same, and we went into the "Bear," in New-street, and there he left me to go to the poll.
17 February 1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. Gates.

3543. What time was it then when you did go to the poll?—About half-past three o'clock in the afternoon. They came teasing me; I did not think about polling at all, but they came teasing me one after another.

3544. Did Lack take you to poll?—No, he took me down street, but he had to go to Canterbury-street.

3545. Who did take you to the poll?—I met a neighbour of the name of Cooper, and I says, "I want to go across to poll," and he says, "I will take you then," and he took me.

3546. How long beforehand had you promised your vote to Carter and Jackson?—I never promised my vote at no time; never to no one.

3547. And you went and voted for Carter and Jackson without having promised?—I never do promise.

3548. Had you seen Cook at all before?—No.

3549. I suppose you did not see him in the morning, did you; you cannot see very well?—No, I cannot see at all; God Almighty took my sight away.

3550. Did you know his voice?—No, he was a stranger to me.

3551. What made you say his name was Cook?—Because I heard his name was Cook.

3552. By whom were you told?—By Mr. Eve, that works in the same shop.

3553. Were you at the shop working when he came to you on the polling day?—No, it was a shopmate of his'n that told me his name.

3554. And you had not had any visits at all from him beforehand?—No.

3555. Was Lack present when Cooke spoke to you?—He was in the house.

3556. But was he in the same room?—He was talking to my daughter.

3557. Lack was talking to your daughter whilst Cook was talking to you; was that it?—Yes.

3558. Was there another person came in with Cooke?—No.

3559. Then did Cooke come alone?—There was another with Mr. Cook.

3560. Somebody came in with Cook and talked to you?—Yes.

3561. And was Lack in there before, or did he come in afterwards?—Lack came in afterwards.

3562. And then, I suppose, Cook had a little conversation with you before Lack came in?—Yes.

3563. And then Lack went and talked to your daughter till they went out?—We all went down street together; Mr. Lack and my daughter and grand-daughter.

3564. Did your daughter come with Lack too?—No, she did not; she came over with a neighbour.

3565. Then Cook and this other man who came with him and you and Lack all went out together?—I think Mr. Cook and his companion went out first.

3566. They went off first by themselves?—Yes.

3567. And then you went up with Lack?—Yes.

3568. Who is Lack?—He is a cordwainer and lives in New-street.

3569. I suppose he is a supporter of Carter and Jackson's?—Yes.

3570. Then you left the house with him?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM HOLT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

W. Holt. 3571. ARE you a voter for this city?—Yes.

3572. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Carter and Jackson.

3573. What are you by business?—Anything.

3574. What do you do most for it; what do you generally work at?—In labour.

3575. Do you know a person of the name of Mr. Joseph Brown, of Spon-street?—Yes.

3576. Is he your landlord?—Yes.

3577. Did he at any time call upon you?—Yes.

3578. What day was it that he called?—I don't know exactly. The day before the election, I think it was.

3579. What did he say when he first came in?—He asked me for some rent. I told him that I had none.

3580. Then did he say anything to you about your vote?—He asked me for my vote, and I told him that I had promised it.

3581. For whom did he ask it?—For Eaton and Hill.

3582. Your told him you had promised it to them?—I had promised it to Carter and Jackson, and I told him so.

3583. What did he do or say?—He put a sovereign between his fingers, and asked me if that was any use to me.

3584. How did he hold his hand?—In that direction (describing the same).

3585. What did you say was between his fingers?—A sovereign.

3586. What did you say in reply?—I told him, No, I could not. He said, "Would another be of any use to you?" I said, "No, sir." He said, "Could I see you at my house at six o'clock at night?" I said, "Yes;" but I did not go, and I didn't see the gentleman that afternoon. There was no more passed between us.

3587. You did not have any money from him, and you voted the next day for Carter and Jackson?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3588. What are you in politics?—A Liberal.

3589. Have you voted Liberal before?—No, this is the first time.

3590. For whom are you working?—For any one that will give me a job.

3591. In what?—In either horse-breaking—

3592. Horse-breaking, did you say?—No, horse-breaking.

3593. You have something to do with the horse, have you; what are you by profession?—Anything; I turn my hand to anything, to any sort of trade almost.

3594. But

3594. But principally to the horse?—Yes.
 3595. Have you been a groom?—Yes.
 3596. And a farrier?—No, I am no farrier.
 3597. A groom?—Yes.
 3598. Out of place?—Yes; at least, I do a day's work when I can get one.
 3599. You were out of work at the time?—No, I was not out of work at the time.
 3600. You had no rent you say?—No, I had no rent.
 3601. Who canvassed you for Carter and Jackson?—I do not know, I was not at home when they brought the card.
 3602. Who asked you to vote for Carter and Jackson?—That was my principles to do so.
 3603. I know, but who asked you?—Well, that was my principles.
 3604. Did anybody ask you to vote for Carter and Jackson?—No; Carter and Jackson went to my house, and asked me for my vote.
 3605. But did anybody else ask you to vote for Carter and Jackson?—No.
 3606. Who took you up to the poll?—Sir?
 3607. You have heard the question. Just answer it, will you?—I had to poll at the church.
 3608. Who took you up to the poll?—I went up with a gentleman or two.
 3609. Give me the name of the gentleman or two?—Mr. Kelly, I believe that was the gentleman, in Spon-street. I believe I went up with him.
 3610. Did you have anything to drink?—No.
 3611. Did you have any money?—No.
 3612. Nor for giving your evidence?—Sir?
 3613. You did not hear what I said. Did you have any money for giving your evidence?—No, not the least.
 3614. Not the slightest?—No.
 3615. Who took your evidence down?—I had taken my card down with me; I do not know who had taken my evidence.

 3616. Did not a gentleman from Mr. Kirby's office examine you?—No.
 3617. Then you never gave your evidence, and it was never written down, was it. Do you mean to swear that what you said to day was not written down?—Yes, it was written down.
 3618. By whom?—I don't know the gentleman.
 3619. Was it a gentleman from Mr. Kirby's office?—Yes, I believe it was.
 3620. Did he give you any money?—No.
 3621. Nothing at all?—No.
 3622. Be cautious. Will you swear he never gave you any money?—No, I had no money.
 3623. None at all?—No.
 3624. Had you no money with your subpoena?—(After some hesitation) Yes, I had one shilling.
 3625. And nothing more?—Nothing more.
 3626. Why did you not say before that you had the shilling?—I did not understand.
 3627. I should like very much to know when did you get your subpoena?—I don't know the day, I am sure; I have had it five or six days. I don't know the day.
 3628. Who was it gave you your subpoena?—Mr. Pinches.
 3629. For whom have you been at work since?—For a great many gentlemen.
 3630. Can you give me any name?—Perhaps half a day at one, and half a day at another.
 3631. But you have no regular work?—I have no regular work.

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

3632. You have had no money but this one shilling, have you?—No money.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ELIZABETH MAYNE, was called; but did not appear.

RICHARD KILPACK, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

3633. ARE you a voter?—Yes.
 3634. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Carter and for Mr. Jackson.
 3635. Where do you live?—No. 3, Tower-street.
 3636. Were you canvassed for your vote?—Was I?
 3637. Yes?—I was solicited.
 3638. Were you solicited by the Light Blues; the Tories?—Yes.
 3639. When?—On the 13th of November.
 3640. Who called upon you?—Mr. Ashton.
 3641. Who is Mr. Ashton?—He is the secretary of the Conservative Working Men's Club, he told me.
 3642. What time did he call upon you?—About 25 minutes, or half-past six o'clock; I cannot tell to five minutes; I did not notice it.
 3643. When he called, what did he say?—He said he had come to solicit me for my vote for Mr. Hill and Eaton.
 3644. What answer did you make?—I said, No, I could not promise any one.
 3645. Tell us all that passed at that interview with Mr. Ashton if you please?—I told him I thought of going away after work the next day; I had been at work seven weeks, and he said I should not go away this side Tuesday; it was such a short space of time between now and Tuesday. R. Kilpack.

3646. You told him you were going away?—I told him I thought of going away the next day.

3647. What did he say to that?—He said I should not go away this side Tuesday; it was such a short space of time; I said I did not know.

3648. Did he say anything besides that you should not go away this side Tuesday?—He said, "You had better make up your mind to-night," and I said, "No, I cannot." Before he left, he says, "You had better make up your mind to-night." I said, "No;" he says, "Make it up in the morning;" I said, "I will;" he says, "Come down to me, at nine o'clock in the morning to the Conservative Working Men's Room, in the Burges." I made my mind up, and I did not go.

3649. Did you tell him you would go?—Yes; I told him I would go, and I did not go because I made my mind up not to go.

3650. Did you see him again?—He never came to me after.

3651. Was that all that passed?—That was all that

R. Kilpack.

17 February
1869.

that passed, and then he came away in about ten minutes or a quarter of an hour.

3652. What took place when he came again?—He came in the next time without rapping at the door, and he said, "I have come back again; I cannot rest; I feel heartily sorry for you; you have got such a family of small children; 'Now,' he says, 'If you will vote for Mr. Hill and Eaton I will see to you and your family all through the winter.'" I thought it was a good offer, but I says "No, I cannot promise." Then, in a short space of time, he says, "There is a great many gifts to be given away after Christmas, and I will see that you have some if you vote for Mr. Hill and Eaton;" I says, "No, I cannot promise." He stood a short space again, and he put his hand in his pocket, and he pulls out a shilling, and he says, "I will give you this shilling out of my own pocket." I did not want money off one party, and to vote for another. He says, "I will give you that shilling out of my own pocket," and he laid it on the table.

3653. Was that all that passed?—That was all that passed; about all.

3654. After the election, did you see a man called Grimsley?—Yes.

3655. Who was Grimsley?—His name is James Grimsley.

3656. When this took place about seeing your family through the winter, was there any mention as to work that you were to have?—I forgot that; the said he would give me two or three days work connected with the election. He did say that, Mr. Ashton did, before he left.

3657. Is Grimsley a voter; do you know him?—Yes, I know him; I believe he is a voter.

3658. Did Grimsley come to you after the election?—Yes, he came to my house.

3659. How long after the election was that?—Well, I cannot say; I forget now; I cannot say, justly.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3660. Did you ever vote before?—No.

3661. Who canvassed you for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson, or Mr. Jackson and Mr. Carter?—Mr. Jackson and Mr. Carter came themselves.

3662. Who took you up to the poll?—Why, I went across the street with a man of the name of Hammerton, I believe.

3663. Hammerton took you up to the poll, did he; the gentleman that distinguished himself here yesterday?—Oh, no.

3664. You are ashamed of him?—The same name, but not the same man.

3665. You would not have anything to do with him; you say Mr. Ashton told you to come the next morning to the Conservative Working Men's Club?—Yes, to the Conservative Working Men's Club on the Burges; that was what he said.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES EVERETT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

J. Everett.

3666. WHERE do you live?—I do not know what you say; I do not, indeed; I want to answer right. I will speak to anyone that I can hear, but I cannot to anyone that I cannot hear.

3667. I ask you where you live?—In Henry-street, No. 16.

3668. Are you a voter?—Yes.

3669. For whom did you vote at the last election?—I voted for Mr. Carter and Jackson.

3670. How old are you?—Seventy-seven; my birthday is in June.

3671. Do you know John Ashton?—I do.

3672. What is John Ashton?—John Ashton, I believe, is the secretary to the Conservative Club, or what they term it; I do not know what they may term it.

3673. Did you see John Ashton before the election?—I did twice.

3674. How long before was the first time you saw him?—Well, I believe the first time was about three weeks previous to the election, but the last time I think was about a week before the election.

3675. What took place the first time that you saw John Ashton?—The same as the last; he says if I should come on their side, he would find me four days work at 5 s. a day, and that is all I have got to say.

3676. Mr. Justice Willes.] What did he say he would give you the four days' work for?—He did not say what for, but if I would come on their side to serve on the Conservative party, I expect he said he would find me employment for 5 s. a day for four days' work; but what the work were, I did not understand that. He did not say that, and I do not know.

3677. If you would come to serve on the Conservative party?—He wished me to serve on the Conservative party, but I did not, and I did not intend to.

3678. Mr. Chandos Leigh.] You say you saw him twice; where did you see him on those occasions?—The first time I saw him, that he made mention of those words, was in the street that led up to Butchers-row; I forget the name of the street; a new building.

3679. Where was the second time?—The next time, I believe, was on the Burges, close to the Conservative place of his'n.

3680. What do you mean by the "Conservative place"?—It is a place where they meet at, those Conservative parties.

3681. The Working Men's Association?—I do not know what it is termed; I cannot say, but they call it the "dark entry"; the Conservative affair. I do not know any more about it, than that I have never been, and I cannot answer any more, but what I say is correct and true, and I can say no more and no loss.

[The Witness withdrew.]

GEORGE BROWN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

G. Brown.

3682. WHERE do you live?—At Red-lane.

3683. Are you a voter?—Yes.

3684. For whom did you vote at the last election?—No one.

3685. Were you asked to vote for anyone?—No, I was not here.

3686. Before the election, did you see anybody about your vote?—Not personally.

3687. How

3687. How did you see anybody, if you did not see anybody personally?—Well, Sir, I see this only by conversation, and I did not promise my vote to anyone.

3688. Do you know a man of the name of Bardon?—Yes.

3689. Did you see Bardon before the election?—Yes.

3690. What is Bardon; what is his Christian name?—I believe John.

3691. Do you know what he is?—I do not.

3692. Where did you see John Bardon?—In Coventry.

3693. Had you any conversation with John Bardon about your vote?—Well, I cannot positively say.

3694. Will you swear you had not?—No, I will not swear that.

3695. Was anything said by John Bardon to you about Manchester?—Yes.

3696. What was said by John Bardon to you about Manchester?—As nearly as I can recollect, on the Thursday previous to the election, I received money from Manchester to pay my fare down there, independent of electioneering whatever. I was promised if I stopped till Tuesday, that I should have something for my time, and to go down.

3697. Where; to Manchester?—He did not say where.

3698. Who promised you that?—The man.

3699. What man?—Bardon.

3700. Had you said anything to Bardon about voting before?—No.

3701. What answer did you make to Bardon when he made you this promise?—I said I could not stay.

3702. Did you go to Manchester?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3703. You have an impediment in your speech, have you not?—Yes.

3704. You got some money from Manchester, did you?—Yes.

3705. Are you a voter in Manchester?—No, in Coventry.

3706. You got some money from Manchester to take you to Manchester?—Yes, independently of all things whatsoever.

3707. Independent of all election matters?—Yes.

3708. You intended to go to Manchester?—Yes.

3709. And you did go to Manchester?—Yes.

3710. Bardon said if you stopped you might have your time?—Yes.

3711. After that you might go to Manchester?—Yes, I went down.

3712. Was that the word he used, "your time"?—I cannot positively say that was the words.

3713. You did not pay much attention to them, because you went off to Manchester?—Yes.

3714. And did not heed what he said?—No.

3715. Were you going to work at Manchester?—Yes; I worked there a week.

3716. And you wanted to get off to your work?—Yes.

3717. And did not bother about what he said, or anybody else?—I did not.

G. Brown.

17 February
1869.

WILLIAM JONES, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.

3718. You have lost your sight, I believe?—Yes, I have.

3719. You have a vote for this city, for Coventry?—I voted for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

3720. Do you do any work?—I carry out fish about the town.

3721. You live in Gosford-street?—I do.

3722. Do you recollect on a Wednesday, a fortnight before the election, anyone calling upon you?—Brown and Mann; I did not know Mann when he came in, till I was told who he was after.

3723. Who told you who it was?—I heard Brown call him Mann, then I inquired if he was.

3724. You did not hear any Christian name given?—I only heard him call him Mr. Mann.

3725. Who is Mr. Brown?—Mr. Brown was a chemist, he had been a chemist in Coventry; I knew him for years.

3726. Mr. Justice Willes.] Is that George Brown?—I do not know whether his name is George, he was a chemist.

3727. Where does he live?—He went to live in Hill-field.

3728. Was his Christian name Joseph?—I do not know his name,

3729. Mr. James.] What was said to you by either of these gentlemen about your vote?—When Brown came in he says, "Good morning to you, Jones;" I says, "Good morning to you, Mr. Brown;" he says, "I want to speak to you Jones;" he sat down, and I sat down; he says, "Jones, I want to ask you a favour, to serve my friends Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill." I said, "Mr. Brown I will not promise you anything of the kind, I will promise no one;" he then said, "I see how it is, you sell fish for those parties who are opposite against us, and you are afraid of offending them;" I directly told him I was not afraid of any of them, for they had never put the question to me to serve them; he said, "It will not take much to start you a basket, a pound or two would start you with a basket, and then you can go and buy fish at best hand; will not it be better for you?" I told him I would do nothing of the kind.

3730. Was anything else said?—He asked me to go and have a glass of ale; I refused it; he said, "It has nothing at all to do with the election, Jones, whatever. I said, "Well, Mr. Brown, I will not go." "Well," he says "It is nothing to do with the election, you and the old lady can have it at home." I said, "I am much obliged to you," and he gave me three penny bits.

3731. Did you ever see Brown again at any time with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Brown spoke to me when Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill was together; they asked me for my vote. He says, "You have a vote, would you oblige me;" I said, "I cannot, I will not promise any."

3732. Where was Mr. Eaton?—Across the street from the left hand side, going my way on the right hand side of my way.

3733. He was with Mr. Eaton?—Mr. Brown spoke to me; and Mr. Hill spoke to me; I believe Mr. Atkins was there, but he did not speak to me.

3734. Mr. Eaton and Mr. Brown spoke to you?—Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill both spoke to me.

W. Jones.

*W. Jones.*Cross examined by Mr. *Huddleston.*Re-examined by Mr. *James.*17 February 1869.

3735. Your evidence was taken down, was it?
—I believe it were.

3736. All you spoke of was a basket of fish, was it?—I did not speak of a basket of fish.

3737. You say Brown spoke to you about a basket of fish?—Yes.

3738. Not a load of coal?—Yes, he did.

3739. Did you say you saw Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—No, I spoke to them, I could not see them.

3740. How did you know it was Mr. Eaton or Mr. Hill?—I was told it was Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

3741. Who told you?—People in the street.

3742. You had never seen them before?—I never saw them in my life.

3743. Probably you had never heard them before?—Not to my knowledge.

3744. Had you heard of Mr. Brown before?—Yes, I knew Brown many years.

3745. Where was it Brown said, "It is nothing to do with the election"?—When he asked me to go to the "Oak" to have a glass of something to drink; I said, "Thank you I will not." He said, "It has nothing at all to do with the election, Jones, if you have a glass."

3746. Brown said that?—Yes; I refused. He said, "Well, you and the old lady will take a glassapiece at home; it is nothing to do with the election."

3747. And you and the old lady did take a glass of ale at home?—Yes.

3748. And it had nothing to do with the election?—No.

ANN JONES, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.A. Jones.

3757. ARE you the wife of William Jones?—I am.

3758. Do you recollect being present when Mr. Brown and another person called upon your husband?—I was some part of the time, but I was very unwell.

3759. During part of the time that you were there what did you hear said?—He offered Mr. Jones a load of coals if he thought proper to have them.

3760. Who said that?—Mr. Brown; he offered Mr. Jones a load of coals; he could have it that day or the next.

3761. Did you hear anything at all said about this vote?—I was busy, and I could not say that I did, without telling you a story.

3749. You told my learned friend that something was said about a load of coal; he did not pursue the inquiry; what was said about a load of coal?—When Mr. Brown asked me to serve Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill I told him I could not. I said, "I have friends on both sides." I forgot it when I first began. I said "I have friends on both sides. I get a load of coals sometimes." He said, "Would not you like a load of coals now;" I said, "Of course I should." He says, "I will set you down a load of coals, and you can have it either to-day or to-morrow." I said, "Do not you set down anything of the kind, Mr. Brown, for I will not have it;" that was the first commencement.

3750. Before the fish basket?—Yes.

3751. Then he spoke to you about the fish basket?—Yes.

3752. Was anybody present besides Mr. Brown?—Mr. Mann and my wife was there.

3753. What is your wife's name?—Ann.

3754. Is she here?—Yes.

3755. You say the gentlemen you call Eaton and Hill, persons told you were Eaton and Hill. What did those gentlemen say to you?—They asked me for my vote; they said, "Jones, you have a vote this time, can you oblige me?"

3756. Did one of them say, "Can you oblige me; will you give it to us this time"?—I says, "No, I cannot; I will not promise anyone."

3762. Are you quite sure you heard the offer of coals?—I did.

3763. Do you know who it was who was with Mr. Brown?—It was the first time I ever saw the young man. I do not think I should know him again.

3764. You do not know who he is?—I heard his name mentioned. I think his name is Mann, but I do not know.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3765. But you do recollect that he said that he was to have it that day or the next?—Yes.

3766. Either that or the next day?—Yes.

3767. Either that day or the next; you recollect that?—Yes.

THOMAS MILLINER, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.T. Milliner.

3768. YOU are a voter for this city?—Yes.

3769. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

3770. I believe you are a weaver by business?—Yes.

3771. Upon the 9th of November did anyone call upon you?—Yes.

3772. Who called upon you?—Mr. Priest and Mr. Cook.

3773. Do you know Mr. Priest's Christian name, or what he is?—His name is John Priest.

3774. Where does he live?—In Gilbert-street.

3775. What is Mr. Cook's name?—Thomas.

3776. What is he?—A weaver.

3777. What did they say to you about your vote?—They called me outside the door and they asked me whether I would go with them four or five days.

3778. Had they mentioned first anyway they wanted you to vote before they said that?—No, they did not say anything about it.

3779. They said would you go with them. What else was said?—I told them I would not.

3780. Did they say what you would get if you went with them four or five days?—Yes, he said he could give me 5 s. a day.

3781. When you said you would not go with them, what did they say in answer to that?—They said I had got my wife and family to consider, and and they thought four or five days' work would be better for me than doing nothing at all.

3782. What did you say in reply?—I told them I would not have anything at all to do with it.

3783. When you said that, did Priest say anything about going outside your door?—That was outside the door.

3784. Did he say what you would have to do for your 5 s. a-day, or anything of that kind?—No.

3785. Did he say nothing more?—Yes; I told him I would not go out for either party, and then he said, If I would not go out, if I would depend upon him, they would give me 5 s. a day without going outside the door at all.

3786. Will you repeat that; you say Mr. Priest said, "If you would go out he would give you 5 s. a day"?—He asked me whether I would go out, and I told him No, I would not; and then he said, If I would not go out, if I could depend upon him, he would give me 5 s. a day without going out at all.

3787. Did they then say anything to you about having something to drink?—Yes; Mr. Cook asked me if I would go down the street, and have a pint or two of drink.

3788. What did you say?—"No;" I said I would not be bought for neither money nor beer.

3789. What did they say in answer to that?—They left me, and bid me "good night."

3790. And you voted for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3791. He asked you to go down and have a glass?—He asked me if I would go and have a pint or two of ale.

3792. And you did not go?—No.

JOSEPH HARRIS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

3793. WHERE do you live?—In Vernon-street.

3794. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

3795. Do you know a Mr. Ball, of Gilbert-street?—Yes.

3796. Do you know Mr. Clark, of 24, Bernard-street?—Yes.

3797. Did you see them during the election?—Yes.

3798. When?—On the nomination night.

3799. What time?—Between 8 and 9.

3800. Where did you see them?—At the top of the town.

3801. Tell us what happened when you saw Mr. Ball and Mr. Clark on the nomination night?—Mr. Ball and Mr. Clark came up to me; they says, "You are the man I have been looking for." I said, "What have you been looking for me for?" and Mr. Ball says, "You are going to give us one this time, are not you?" I says, "I am going t'other way." Mr. Ball says, "Non-sense; you are going to be one with us." I says, "I am not," I says, "because I promised Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson; I do not mean to fly from my word." He then asked me whether he should take down that I would serve him, and I said, "No; I would vote as I intended to do;" and he asked me whether he should see me again; I told him it would be useless him doing so, because I did not intend serving him; then he asked me what I wanted; I says, "Nothing at all."

3802. Was anything said about work?—Yes, he did ask me; he says "Shall I put you down for two or three days' work?" I said, How could he do that when it was polling day to-morrow? He says, "We will make that all right."

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3803. Where was it you saw Mr. Ball and Mr. Clark?—At the top of the town.

3804. Whereabouts in the top of the town?—Again the booth.

3805. Were there a number of people about?—No.

3806. Nobody at all?—There was some passing by.

3807. Was it nomination day or polling day?—It was nomination night.

3808. You had forgotten about the day's work till my learned friend put it into your mouth?—I had forgotten it just then.

3809. You paid so little attention to it that you forgot it till my learned friend reminded you of it?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. James.

3810. Reminded or not, are you quite sure that Mr. Ball said those words to you about putting you down for two or three days' work?—Yes.

3811. Is all you have told us to-day also true?—Yes.

3812. Mr. Justice Willes.] I understood you to say you had talked of serving before Mr. Ball said anything about three or four days' work; that you could not serve them; what did you mean by "could not serve them"?—I told them I did not intend serving them; I meant serving Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

3813. Did you mean voting?—Yes, voting.

1869.

The Witness Denny having made an application to be allowed to go, and Counsel on each side having stated that they did not require to put any further questions to him, he was told that he need not longer remain.

Mr. James stated that he would hand in a list of Witnesses, in order that his Lordship's opinion might be taken as to whether they might leave the town or not.

Mr. Justice Willes stated that with respect to the Leicester voters, it appeared to him that there was a prima facie case requiring an answer.

ELIZABETH MAYNE, sworn ; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

E. Mayne.

3814. ARE you the wife of William Mayne ?
—Yes.

3815. Where does he live ? — Wells-street, Coventry.

3821. Where does he live ? — In Wells-street.

3822. What is he ?—A plush weaver.

3823. Did you see him at election time ?—Election morning.

3824. What time ?—About 10 o'clock.

3825. Were you alone when you saw him ?—I saw him ; after I saw him my husband saw him ; he asked to see my husband.

3826. When you saw him first of all, what happened ?—He says, "Where is your husband ?"

I says, "Very ill in bed ;" he says, "Is not he able to get up ?" I says, "No, Sir." He says, "Well, if you will get him up, and let him go along with me, there shall be a bit of gold for him ;" I says, "No, not for all the gold you can find ; he is not going ;" then he says to me, he says, "Can I see him ?" I says, "Yes, he is upstairs in bed," and with that he went upstairs.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3827. You say that Smith came to you ?—Yes.

3828. Was anybody with him ?—No.

3829. Nobody ?—No one was with him.

3830. Was any one near him ?—I saw no one with him ; he came right into the house ; but there was no one with him that I saw.

3831. Was there anybody outside ?—No.

3832. Nobody at all ?—No.

3833. Mr. Justice Willes.] Who is this Smith ?
—John Smith, a plush weaver.

3834. A neighbour of yours ?—Yes.

3835. Does he live in Coventry now ?—Yes.

3836. Mr. Leigh.] She mentioned Wells-street ?—Yes, Well-street.

EDWARD JACKSON, sworn ; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

E. Jackson.

3837. WHERE do you live ?—Bruard-street.

3838. What are you ?—A weaver.

3839. Did you vote at the last election ?—Yes, at many elections.

3840. For whom did you vote at the last election ?—Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

3842. Where does he live ?—In St. Nicholas-street, Rudford-road.

3843. What is he ?—Coal dealer.

3844. Did you see him during the election ?—Yes, several times.

3845. Tell us one of the times you saw him during the election ; the first time that you saw him ?—I saw him on the 30th of October, about 11 at night ; he came and asked me which way I intended to vote.

3846. Was he alone ?—No, he had a man with him.

3847. Did you know who the man was ?—I did not ; not at that time.

3848. Do you know now ?—Yes, I knowed a day or two after.

3849. Who was he ?—A man of the name of Wheeler.

3850. Where does he live ? — In Bishops-street.

3851. When you saw Smith and Parker together, what happened ?—He asked me how I was.

3852. Mr.

3852. Mr. Huddleston.] Who did?—Smith; he said, “He had been very sorry for me a long while;” he said, “I could not go on like I was;” I said, “I could pay my way, and go a bit respectable; I had not got in debt now;” he said, “But you cannot do as you used to do;” I said, “No, I have not the last few years.” He said, “It is the confounded treaty caused all that;” I says, “I do not believe that, sir.”

3853. Anything else?—He began then and asked me who I meant to serve; I said, “I did not know, I had not had anything to do with it, for I had not been amongst any of them;” he says, “You are not going to serve Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson, I think;” I said, “I daresay I shall;” he said, “If you do you will get another 10 years’ treaty put on you;” I says, “I do not know about that, sir.” He says, “You may depend if you send such men as Jackson and Carter to Parliament, they will pass another 10 years’ treaty upon you;” I said, “I cannot believe that at all; I do not consider that the treaty has done us any injury.” So he said he should like to convert me to poll for Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton; I said, “That I never shall.” It passed off; a few more words; I cannot exactly say what; I daresay we were together a quarter of an hour or 20 minutes. He put another man on to me on the Tuesday.

3854. Before we come to that, did he say anything else upon that occasion?—Not particular, not then.

3855. What was the “not particular” that he said?—I could not say further, than he said he was very sorry for me and for my wife; he had known her all his lifetime.

3856. Did he say anything about work?—

Mr. Huddleston.] Do not lead him.

(Witness)—He said if I wanted three or four days’ work, if I came to him I could have it.

3857. Mr. Justice Willes.] Why was he very sorry?—For my losing my wife.

3858. Mr. Leigh.] Did you see him again after that?—Not till the Friday before the nomination; not to my knowledge.

3859. Do you know a man called Hunt?—Well.

3860. Do you know his Christian name?—Samuel.

3861. Where does he live?—In Well-street.

3862. What is he?—A weaver by trade; but he does not follow it.

3863. Did you see Samuel Hunt?—Yes, on the Tuesday following, the 30th of October.

3864. Did he say anything to you?—Yes.

3865. What did he say?—He came and asked if I had seen the man; I said, “No, I have not seen him this morning.” He said, “He wants to see you;” I said, “What for.” He hummed and ha’d a minute or two. He says, “Have you told John Smith you wanted some work;” I says, “No, I have not told John Smith anything of the sort.” He says, “Have you seen John Smith;” I says, “Yes, I saw him on Saturday night.” He says, “That is all right; there are a thousand bills to be delivered, and 600 of them are now ready in Wells-street; if you like to go and take a share you can.” He says, “You may as well go and get two or three pounds as nothing from them others.” He called them a word; I do not whether it would be prudent to mention it; he said they would not give me anything; he said, “Those b——s will not give you anything;” I says, “I do not expect they will.” He says, “You are to blame for standing in your own light; you may as well get two or three pounds as not; two or three pounds will do you good after the election is over; you have got to live as well as you have now.” “I know that,” I says, “but I cannot consent to it.”

E. Jackson.

1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3866. Were you in work at the time?—No.

3867. It was true that you had lost your wife, was it?—Yes, a few months before.

3868. What have you been yourself, when in work?—A weaver, as long as I could get anything to do.

3869. Then the weaving trade became very bad in this place?—Yes.

3870. Had you a loom of your own?—Yes.

3871. Were you obliged to sell it?—No.

3872. Did you sell it?—No, I lost it at last.

3873. How do you mean you lost it?—Because I could not pay my rent.

3874. The loom was your own?—It was fixed in the house.

3875. And you could not pay the rent, and so it was distrained upon?—He put it in for what rent I owed.

3876. Because you were thrown out of work?—Yes.

3877. Rightly or wrongly, the man attributed that to the French Treaty of 1860?—Yes.

Mr. Justice Willes.] That was all fair argument, there was not nothing in that.

DINAH WARR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

3878. ARE you the wife of John Warr?—Yes.

3879. Where does he live?—In Sherborne-street.

3880. Is he a voter?—Yes.

3881. Do you know a man called Thomas Burr?—Yes.

3882. Where does he live?—In Sherborne-street.

3883. A neighbour of yours?—In the next yard.

3884. Did you see him at the election time?—Yes.

3885. When?—On the Monday afternoon, between four and five, he came to our house.

275.

3886. What Monday?—On the nomination day.

3887. What time?—Between four and five in the afternoon.

3888. Did he say anything to you?—He came to my house, and asked me where my husband was, and I told him, on duty. He asked me if I knew which way he was going to vote; and I said, for Jackson. Then he asked me if I thought he would vote for Eaton, as he said he could take him to a gentleman where he could have 1*l.* or 30*s.*; and if my husband would vote for Mr. Eaton, he wished him to go early in the morning, and he would take him to the gentleman; but he would not mention the gentleman’s name.

D. Warr.

D. Warr.
18 February
1869.

3889. What duty was your husband on?—He was one of the police; he was a special constable.

3890. Did you see him again after that?—Yes, he came to my house again, about nine; my husband was not come home; then he repeated nearly the same words as he did in the afternoon.

3891. Was he alone both times?—Yes.

3892. Were you alone?—Yes.

Mr. Justice Willes.] Ask what Burr is.

3893. Mr. Leigh.] What is Thomas Burr?—A weaver.

3894. A weaver in Sherborne-street?—Yes, in a court in Sherborne-street.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3895. What is your husband, Dinah?—He is a dyer's labourer.

3896. What was he then at the election time?—He was for Mr. Jackson.

3897. What was he in the way of business; a policeman?—Yes; a special constable, while the election lasted.

3898. Who put him on?—I cannot tell you who.

3899. Who put him on?—He was put on.

3900. Who put him on; the Dark Blues?—Not that I know of; I do not know that it was the Dark Blues.

3901. He was out of work, was not he?—He was not out of work.

3902. Before he was made a special he was out of work, was not he?—No; I have said all I know, and I have spoken the truth, and I do not wish to say any more.

3903. What was he by trade?—A dyer's labourer by trade.

3904. Was he working for anybody at that time?—Yes, for Townsend, in West Orchard; he has worked there a long time.

3905. That time he was working in the dyeing business, do you mean to say that; do you mean at the election time he was working at Townsend's?—Yes.

3907. What did he get paid as a special constable?—I do not know what he was paid; I did not see him paid; I do not wish to say anything that is not true.

3908. Do you mean you do not know what his payment was; what he got paid as special constable?—I do not know, because I did not see it.

3909. Do you mean to say you have no idea?—I have no idea at all.

3910. You have no idea what he got paid as a special constable; do you mean to tell us that?—I did not see him paid.

3911. That is not an answer?—I could not say what he was paid, because I did not see him him paid.

3912. Do you mean to tell me that you had no idea what your husband got paid as a special constable?—I do not; I did not see him paid.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I forget how he voted.

Mr. Leigh.] I am going to call the husband.

JOHN WARR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

J Warr.

3913. ARE you the husband of the last witness?—Yes.

3914. How did you vote at the last election? For Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

3915. Do you know Thomas Burr?—Yes.

3916. Did you see him at the election time?—Yes.

3917. When did you see him?—On the Monday morning.

3918. Nomination morning?—Yes.

3919. What time?—Just before 9 o'clock.

3920. Where did you see him?—At the top of Sherborne-street; about 100 yards from the top.

3921. Did you have any talk with him?—He asked me how it was this morning, and what road I was going. I made the answer, and says, "I am going the right road." He says, "What road is that—the dark blues?" I says, "The way I always are." I left him at that, and did not say anything more.

3922. Did you see him again?—Yes, I saw him just after I had polled, on the Tuesday, a few minutes before two o'clock. He says, "Have you done it?" I says, "Yes, and it is all right." He says, "Well, you are very much to blame. I think you might as well have had the money." That is all he said; it passed off at that.

3923. We have heard about your being a special constable?—Yes, I was a special constable.

3924. Who put you on as special constable?—Mr. Norris.

3925. The superintendent of the police at Coventry?—I was summoned to appear at the police station.

3926. Is Mr. Norris the superintendent of police at Coventry?—I think he is.

3927. You went up to the police station, and saw Mr. Norris, by summons; where were you put on as special constable?—At the police station.

3928. Where did you watch as special constable?—In the town of Coventry.

3929. When?—At the nomination morning.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3930. The recommendation is given to the chief constable, and then he summons you to be put on; that is it, is it not?—I do not know how that was, I was summoned.

3931. Did you apply to anybody to get you put on?—No.

3932. You never said anything to anyone?—I never said anything to anyone.

3933. Were you in work at the time?—No.

3934. You were out of work?—No; I was not out of work, but I was not at work at the time I had the summons; we were working short time.

3935. How long had you been working short time?—I do not know exactly how long we had been working short time.

3936. About how long were you working short time?—Perhaps I might be losing a day a week.

3937. What were you paid as special constable?—Three and sixpence a day.

3938. Did

3938. Did you take the money home to your wife to spend in the house?—Yes, exactly so.

3939. Did you give it to your wife?—No, I did not give it to my wife.

3940. You told her what you got?—Certainly I did.

3941. You told her what you got a day; 3s. 6d.

a day?—Of course she knew what I got when I told her what I got.

3942. Mr. Justice Willes.] You consented, I suppose, to be a special constable?—Yes; when I was summoned, of course.

3943. Not “of course,” because you had a right to object, but you did not object?—No.

J. Warr.

18 February
1869.

ALFRED PAYNE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

3944. WHAT are you?—A silk dyer.

3945. Where do you live?—In Howes-yard, Spon-street.

3946. Is that a dyers' yard?—Yes.

3947. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

3948. For whom did you vote?—For Jackson and Carter.

3949. Do you know a man called Charles Eaves?—Yes.

3950. What is he?—A watchmaker.

3951. Where does he live?—In White-street, I believe.

3952. Did you see him about the election time?—I see him some time before the election.

3953. How long about before?—Three weeks or a month.

3954. Did he speak to you, or did you speak to him?—I went to his house to ask if he wanted some baits. I have been in the habit of catching baits for pike fishing. He said no, he had got no place to keep them. He says, “Have you any vote?” I says, “Yes, sir, I believe I have;” and he says, “You have been very short of work, have not you?” I says, “Yes, I have;” he says, “A few days' work would do you good, would not it?” I says, “I daresay it would;” he says, “I can put you down for four or five days' work, if you will vote for Hill and Eaton;” I says, “I cannot promise you.”

3955. Was there any sum mentioned?—Five shillings a day.

3956. Was that all that was said?—That was all that was said. I said I could not make up my mind; he says, “Consider, and make up your mind;” I says, “I will, sir.”

3957. Did you see him after that?—I never see him at his house again. He came down to my house to canvass me for my vote, some time after; there were three or four who came with him. He says, “I have come to solicit you for your vote for Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton;” I says, “I cannot promise you.”

3958. Can you tell us who were the three or four that came with him?—No.

A. Payne.

Cross-examined by Mr. Gates.

3959. Were you in work at the time, three or four months before the election?—No; I was in work, but I was losing time.

3960. You were working short time?—Yes.

3961. Did you say that you are a dyer?—A silk dyer.

3962. Who were you working for at that time?—Mr. John Howe.

3963. Have you known Mr. Eaves a long time?—I have known him now several years.

3964. And you went to him, not about election matters?—Not the least about the election; I did not think about it.

3965. This was in the summer?—No; about the latter end of September.

3966. You told us that it was three or four months before the election?—No; three or four weeks.

3967. At the latter end of September?—Yes; it might be the beginning of October.

3968. You were not astonished at being asked if you would like to have four or five days' work?—I asked him if he wanted some baits.

3969. You were not astonished at being told that you could have four or five days' work?—I was not astonished.

3970. You say you do not know who called upon you with Mr. Eaves afterwards?—I did not know them.

3971. You told him that you were going to vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—I told them that I had not made my mind up.

3972. When did you make up your mind?—I made up my mind at the election.

3973. On the polling day?—Yes.

JOHN LAMB, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.

3974. You have no vote for this borough?—No.

3975. Are you a weaver, living in Vernon-street?—Yes.

3976. Have you a brother of the name of James Lamb?—Yes.

3977. He has a vote, I believe?—Yes.

3978. Do you know a man of the name of Mason?—Yes.

3979. What is his christian name?—Jeremiah.

3980. On the Saturday, about a fortnight before the polling day, did a young man speak to you?—Yes.

3981. Did you know who he was?—I knew him by sight; I had seen him before.

3982. Did he say anything to you about Mason wishing to see you?—Yes.

3983. In consequence of what he said did you go and see Mason?—No; Mason came to my house.

3984. When was that?—On Wednesday, the 4th.

3985. That would be the Wednesday week before the polling day; I believe he stopped there with you some time, did he not?—Yes.

3986. In the course of that conversation did he say anything to you, as to whether you had a vote yourself?—Yes.

3987. What did you tell him?—I told him I had not.

3988. Did your brother, James Lamb, then come into your house?—My brother came shortly after Mason came.

3989. After he had left, did Mason say anything

J. Lamb.

- J. Lamb.* thing to you about his vote?—Yes; he asked me if he had one, and I said “Yes.”
- 18 February 1869. 3990. Did he say anything more?—Yes; he said, “Which way would he vote?” and I said, I expected contrary from him.
3991. What did he say then?—He told me to see him, and tell him to alter his mind; he told me to try to persuade him to do so.
3992. Did he say anything else about what he could do?—He said he could do a little for him, to help him.
3993. Did he say to what extent?—A pound, or two or three.
3994. Did he, or not, tell you to let your brother know that?—Yes.
3995. Did you go that evening and tell your brother that?—Yes, I did; I told him I would name it to him.
3996. Do you know the Conservative committee-room in Yardley-street?—Yes; I do not know who formed it.

JAMES LAMB, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.

- J. Lamb.* 4005. ARE you a voter for this city?—Yes.
4006. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.
4007. I believe you are a weaver by trade?—Yes.
4008. You have a brother, John Lamb?—Yes.
4009. Did he come to you at any time before the election and mention to you the name of Mason?—Yes.
4010. When was that?—On the 4th of November, in the evening.
4011. In consequence of what he said to you, did you go and see this Mason?—Yes, I did.
4012. Is that Jeremiah Mason?—Yes.
4013. Did you go to his house?—Yes, I did.
4014. What took place between you in the first instance; what did he say to you, or you to him?—I went about one o'clock in the day; I rapped at the door, and Mason came to the door; he came outside the door, and I asked him if he would buy a set of sleighs; he said he did not want them just then; and I then asked him what about the other matter which he named to my brother, and he said, come to his house in the evening at six o'clock; I did so.
4015. Did Mason then tell you to come to his house?—Yes.
4016. Where were you speaking to him then?—Outside his own door.
4017. When you were speaking about the sleighs?—Yes.
4018. Was it the same house you were to come to at six o'clock?—Yes.
4019. Did you go down again at six o'clock in the evening?—Yes.
4020. What took place between you and him then?—We had a little conversation, and I let him to know the business I came on was the same as the morning, and he said he thought he could get me 1 l. or 2 l. for four days' work.
4021. Was anything at all said at that time about your vote?—There was nothing direct, but I said, “If I were to do anything I should think no more about 1 l. or 2 l. than I would about a penny piece. I said if I had done anything it would be such a sum as would take me out of the town to start me in a little business; and he asked me what that would be, and after some hesitation I

3997. Upon the polling day, did you see Mason at all?—I saw him close to the committee-room.

3998. Did you see him going in and out, or not?—I do not think I saw him going in and out, but I have seen him near to it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

3999. This man, Mason, you say, came to you, and your brother James came in?—Yes.
4000. Did he say anything to your brother James when he came in?—Not about his vote.
4001. Did he speak to him?—Yes.
4002. What did he speak to him about?—Ordinary business.
4003. What was the ordinary business?—About trade; the position of the town, and many other things.
4004. He discussed the thing?—Yes.

replied, 5 l.” he said he would see about it; and after some further conversation he says, “Let this be simply a question of sleighs;” and after that he told me whatever I done to be late at the poll.

4022. Those sleighs are part of the loom, are they not?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

4023. That is what you considered you would like to have, 5 l., to take you out of the town?—Yes.
4024. You were prepared to take it if you could get it?—I thought of doing so.
4025. Did you try it on on the other side?—No.
4026. You would scorn to take 5 l. from Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—I was not offered it.
4027. But you would have scorned to have taken it. You know that you fixed your own price; you fixed 5 l. You said you deliberately considered you would like to have some thing to take you out of the town; you named 5 l.?—The subject was named to me. I did not seek for it.
4028. You put your own value at 5 l.?—Yes, then and there.
4029. Did you make the same offer to the other side?—No, I had no offer, and made no offer; the offer came from them. I did not make the offer.
4030. You fixed your price at 5 l.?—Yes.
4031. Did you put yourself up to auction on the other side?—No, I did not put myself up.
4032. You did not get 5 l. for voting for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—No, nor five pence.
4033. That you did on pure principle?—
4034. Did you see Mason at any time with your brother?—Yes; I saw him on the morning of the 4th of November; that was the Wednesday previous to the election.
4035. In your brother's house?—Yes.
4036. In your presence?—Yes.
4037. Did you talk to him?—Yes; we had a general chat together.
4038. About your vote?—No.
4039. He did not say a word about the election?

tion?—No; nor I did not know that he came on that purpose.

4040. You took care to avoid that subject?—No.

4041. Have you seen Mickleright?—No, I have not; I do not know him.

4042. Who took down your evidence?—I do not know the gentleman's name, but I believe the gentleman's name is on the back of the subpoena.

4043. Was he a tall gentleman, with grey whiskers?—Yes.

Mr. James stated that he would strike Alfred Poole's name out of the list.

JAMES GREENWAY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

4044. WHERE do you live?—I lived in Henry-street when I put my hand to the paper before you, but I have shifted my residence since then.

4045. Where do you live now?—I live now in—what is that place? it is very near facing the Bar.

4046. Is that in Coventry?—Yes.

4047. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

4048. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton. It is Chantry-place where I live. I could not justly think of it at the time.

4049. Had you promised Messrs. Eaton and Hill before?—No.

4050. Had you promised anybody to vote for them?—I met a man of the name of Mr. Hunt, and he says, "Well," he says—

4051. Before you tell us about Mr. Hunt, tell us this; before you met Mr. Hunt, had you promised to vote for anybody?—No.

4052. Had you been canvassed by Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—No.

4053. You say that you saw Mr. Hunt; what is his christian name?—Samuel Hunt.

4054. Do you know where he lives?—In Wells-street.

4055. When was it you met Samuel Hunt?—About a month before the election.

4056. Did you know Samuel Hunt before?—Yes, for several years.

4057. Had you seen him before at election times?—Yes; this was a month before the election; I should say it was three weeks or a month.

4058. Will you tell us what took place between you and Samuel Hunt?—He said to me, "Well," he said, "what do you think of doing this time?" I said, "Well, I do not know." I said I did not know but what I should give Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill a vote. He says, then, "Would I have any objections of delivering a few bills." I said, "No, I was out of employment, and I should be glad of a job; I had been out some time; and he said, "Well," he said, "you had better go," he says, "to —." I forget the name of the place now, but where the Conservatives sat, the Conservative room, and then he says, "You can have a few to distribute out." I went there.

4059. When did you go there?—On the same day; this was three weeks or a month before the election.

4060. Did you see anybody when you got to this place?—Several.

4061. Where is this place?—It is the Conservative Club, or something of that, is the title of it; down the Cross.

4062. Whom did you see when you got there?—I saw several I did not know. I saw Ashton at the book.

4063. Did you know Ashton before?—Yes; I had seen him several times.

4064. Do you know where he lives?—No.

4065. Do you know his christian name?—No. I am not so much acquainted with the man, but I have seen him many times.

4066. What was he doing at the book?—He was putting several names down that was to deliver bills, that had been there before me.

4067. Did you see anybody else there beside yourself?—Several.

4068. People you knew?—No; I knew them by features but not by name.

4069. Do you know whether or not they were voters?—I expected they was.

4070. You did not know; what did Ashton do; did you speak to him?—Yes. I asked him whether there were any bills which I could deliver out, as I had come on that purpose. He said there were so many before me I could not have any then, but I might come at ten o'clock in the morning. He entered my name then in the book. I see him enter several other names in a largeish book. I then went home, and I went in the morning, and he said, "Well, there were no fresh ones come in yet, but if I went to Mr. Hunt he would see to me;" so I went to Hunt's house in Wells-street.

4071. Was that the same Mr. Hunt that you saw before?—Yes. He said, "Well, you had better come at two o'clock in the afternoon, and then there will be some for you to deliver." I went at two o'clock, and he gave me 50; I asked him where to take them to.

4072. Fifty what?—Fifty speeches; 50 of Messrs. Eaton and Hill's speeches. I asked him where I was to deliver them, and he said he thought I had better go to Arnold's-lane and that district; so I went and done so; after I went back he gave me 50 more, and I went and delivered them up the Radford-road, and when I went back I found him, with a little trouble, in the street, and asked him if he was going to pay me for what I had done.

4073. Did he pay you?—Yes.

4074. What did he give you?—One shilling for 100 bills. I then asked him whether there was any more work to be done; well, he said, he did not know, I might call in the morning; I went in the morning, and he gave me 50 more; he said as there was a man as was to have come to deliver them, and had not been, I might have them in his place; then I said I suppose there is no more to deliver, only these 50, and he said he thought not.

4075. Mr. Justice Willes.] What does it all come to?—

4076. Mr. Leigh.] Did you deliver bills?—Yes.

4077. Were you paid for it?—Yes.

4078. What were you paid?—One shilling for the two first fifties.

4079. What were you paid afterwards?—Sixpence for another 50, before I delivered them, so that I need not give him any further trouble.

4080. Did anything else pass?—Several things.

J. Lamb.

18 February
1869.

J. Greenway.

J. Greenway. 4081. Mr. Justice Willes.] It is 1 s. 6 d. for delivering 150 bills.

18 February 1869. 4082. Mr. Leigh.] Do you know Mr. Kilby?—Yes.

4083. Did you see him afterwards?—Yes, I asked Mr. Hunt whether there was anything else to do, and he said, “Not at delivering bills;” but, he said if I went to Mr. Kilby’s he would find me a job.

4084. Did Kilby find you a job?—Yes.

4085. Where does Kilby live?—At the bottom of Wells-street; he is a master baker.

4086. Did he find you a job?—Yes; I went over at night.

4087. What was the job?—Digging taters up.

4088. Whose potatoes?—They were hisn; I went to the place to get ’em up to his house.

4089. Were you alone digging up the potatoes, or were there others employed in it with you?—There were two more, and there was an Irishman with us that made a fourth; I do not know whether he had a vote or not.

4090. Were the other two voters?—Yes.

4091. Mr. Huddleston.] What were their names?—I asked him who was to go with me, he said “One is named Bobby Green, and the other Jack the Stockinger,” those were the words he said to me.

Mr. Justice Willis.] I wish you would get out how much was done, and how much was paid for it, and then I will guess, as well as I can, whether it was colourable, or whether it was a bribe.

4092. Mr. Leigh.] How many days did you and Jack the Stockinger and Bobby Green, the Irishman, work?—Three days.

4093. What amount of potatoes did you get up?—As far as my knowledge would allow me, I should say there were eight good bags full.

4094. How many days did you work?—Three days, four of us.

4095. How long on each day?—I should think eight hours a day, seven or eight; seven hours.

4096. What were you paid for it?—I received for the three days,—each morning we had one shilling, two mornings out of three we had a shilling, and about three pounds of ham and a loaf with us; three mornings we had ham and a loaf, but two mornings we had a shilling each.

4097. How long before the election was this?—I should say three weeks, or something like that; I cannot say to a day or two.

4098. Mr. Justice Willis.] On the third morning, what did you have?—The third morning we had nothing, not a shilling, only the ham and bread, and on the third night we were paid up.

Mr. Leigh.] I will not carry this witness further.

4099. Mr. Huddleston.] Where you dug your potatoes was four miles off?—Yes.

JOHN HALL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

J. Hall. 4100. You have no vote; I believe you are not a voter?—No.

4101. You are a weaver, living in Locker’s-lane, Foleshill?—Yes.

4102. On the Sunday before the polling day, did you meet James Barnacle anywhere?—Yes.

4103. Where was that?—In Locker’s-lane.

4104. Was anyone with him?—Yes.

4105. Who was with him?—I don’t know who it was that was with him.

4106. Was there one, or more than one other person with him?—No, there was only one.

4107. Did Barnacle say anything to you?—He told me to come to Coventry early on the Tuesday morning to the polling.

4108. Did he say where to?—Down to the “Newdegate Arms.”

4109. Did he say what he wanted you for?—No.

4110. Did he tell you anything you were to do, or anything of that kind?—No.

4111. Did you go to the “Newdegate Arms” on the Tuesday morning?—Yes.

4112. At what time?—At about a quarter to eight o’clock.

4113. When you went there, whom did you see?—I seen a score I should think.

4114. Did you see Barnacle there?—He was not there when I got there.

4115. Did you see him there afterwards?—Yes.

4116. Do you know a man of the name of Charles Sedgley?—Yes.

4117. Was he there?—He was not there when I went, but he came soon after.

4118. And also a man of the name of James Dalton?—No, not James Dalton, John Dalton.

4119. Did you have anything there to eat or drink?—Yes.

4120. What did you have?—Beef and bread, and a sup of beer.

4121. Were there other persons eating and drinking too?—Yes.

4122. Did you pay for anything?—No.

4123. Did you see any others pay?—No.

4124. Did you hear anyone order the ale?—No.

4125. Did you hear Barnacle order any?—No.

4126. Did Barnacle go into the parlour at all?—Not that I know of.

4127. Did you go anywhere in any room with Barnacle?—No.

4128. Did Barnacle give you a voting card?—I don’t know who it was gave me; I was drunk; they had got me drunk.

4129. Did you get any card from anyone?—I got one from some one.

4130. Was it in the “Newdegate Arms”?—Yes.

4131. Do you not know who that was?—No.

4132. You have given your evidence; was it, or was it not, this man Barnacle who told you to go down there, just think, now?—What?

4133. That gave you that card?—I don’t know, I was drunk.

4134. Whoever gave you the card, what directions were given you when it was given you?—To go down to the booth and to vote.

4135. In whose name?—It was on the card. I don’t know whose name it was.

4136. Do you know the name of John Dyce?—No, I do not know anyone named John Dyce.

4137. But you have heard that name before?—I might have done so; I don’t know whether I did or not.

4138. Was not that the name that was on the card?—I don’t know the name that was on the card.

4139. Did

4139. Did you go to the booth?—Yes.

4140. What did you do when you went to the booth?—They told me to go and try to vote, and I went.

4141. When you came to the booth, did you put the card down before anyone?—Yes.

4142. Were you asked your name?—No.

4143. Will you tell in your own way what took place when you tried to vote?—I gave my card and they asked me who I was going to vote for, and I said "Eaton and Hill."

4144. What was said then?—They asked me if I would take my oath; I says "No;" he says "Then book it."

4145. Did you hear a man say there, "John Dyce is in America"?—No, not that I know of.

4146. Did anyone object to your voting on any ground?—Yes.

4147. On what ground?—At the booth.

4148. Did anyone object for any reason; what reason was given for the objection?—Because I would not take my oath.

4149. Take your oath to what?—I don't know.

4150. You have given your evidence and you have said "I got inside; I went up to the man who had the book and gave him the card, and he asked me what my name was; I said it was on the card; the man on the right hand said 'John Dyce is in America.'"

4151. Mr. Justice Willes.] Are you a voter?—No.

Mr. Justice Willes said that it was plain that the witness was taken to the "Newdegate Arms," and that somebody wanted him, not being a voter, to go and vote.

4152. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] You told us that somebody used the expression "Hook it;" I presume you left the booth, and that you came away?—Yes.

4153. And pretty quickly probably?—Yes.

4154. Did you go back to the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes, I did go back.

4155. Did you see Barnacle there then?—No.

4156. That you swear?—Yes.

4157. "Barnacle then came in;" did he come in while you were there?—When I went back.

4158. When you went back did Barnacle come into the "Newdegate Arms"?—Dalton came into the "Newdegate Arms," not Barnacle; I did not see Barnacle after I went to try to vote.

4159. Did you ask any one to pay you?—I asked the man who gave me the card.

4160. Who was it?—I do not know.

4161. Was he a stranger to you?—Yes.

4162. What did you ask him for?—I asked him who was going to pay me, and he said I should have nothing.

4163. Did he ask you if you voted?—Yes.

4164. Did you tell him no or yes?—I told him I was refused.

4165. Then did you ask him to pay you?—Yes.

4166. Was that the same man who had given you the card?—Yes.

4167. Had he promised you any money?—No.

4168. Was no sum of 10 s. mentioned?—No.

4169. Before you went to poll, you said "Barnacle then went into the parlour and beckoned me to go in; I did so; there was a short stout man there that I did not know; Barnacle gave me a card and said, you must take this down to the booth and give them this card, and if you vote I will give you 10 s.;" is that true?—No.

275.

4170. Did you state that at any time?—If I stated anything it was when I was in beer, then they got me to do it.

4171. This does not look as if it was spoken by a drunken man; as a fact have you stated this that I have read to you?—I do not know that I have.

4172. Will you say that you have or have not?—I could not say.

4173. What is your belief?—I could not believe anything about it.

4174. Does your memory fail you?—I know it aint my writing for I cannot write.

4175. But I asked you what you said came out of your word of mouth; you can speak you know?—Yes, I can speak.

4176. Did you say those words?—I don't know as I did.

4177. Did you say anything like them?—No; I don't know what it is.

4178. You heard me read it to you; let me read it to you again, "Barnacle gave me a card and said, 'You must take this down to the booth and give them this card, and if you vote I will give you 5 s.; if they ask you any questions, say Hill and Eaton. If they ask you to take your oath, say No, you will not.'" Is that true or not?—No.

4179. Did you state that as being true?—I don't know whether I stated that or no; I cannot remember stating anything.

4180. You cannot remember stating anything?—No.

4181. Did you ever make a statement?—I do not know.

4182. That you swear?—What?

4183. That you do not know if you ever made a statement?—Yes.

4184. To any one about this matter?—To anyone.

4185. You mean that you do not know that you ever made a statement to anyone?—No.

4186. Did no gentleman come to you?—After the election?

4187. To ask you about this matter?—After the election was over?

4188. Yes?—Yes.

4189. Did you make any statement to him?—He paid for some beer.

4190. Did you tell him anything?—No.

4191. You told him nothing?—No.

4192. That you will swear?—He said, if I didn't make a clean breast I should get six months, and very likely two years.

4193. Did you make a clean breast of it?—No.

4194. You told him nothing?—No; it was Parker, and I never told Parker nothing about it.

4195. You met Barnacle on this Sunday; how was it known to anyone; have you told anybody that?—I did see Barnacle.

4196. But you said you had never told anyone, or made any statement to any one?—No; not that I know of.

4197. Do you recollect putting your mark to a paper; just see if that is your mark (handing a paper to the Witness)?—I don't know whether I put it here or no.

4198. Did you put it anywhere?—I couldn't say.

4199. Do you recollect using pen and ink, and making

making a mark with it?—I don't recollect using a pen and ink; I cannot write.

4200. But you can make your mark you know; upon your oath, did you or did you not put your mark to a paper?—I could not say.

4201. Do you mean that you may have forgotten it?—I could not say; I do not know.

4202. But why cannot you say?—Because I don't know.

4203. Did you ever put your mark to a paper?—Not that I know of.

4204. Here are two documents; I have given you one; look at the other (handing another paper to the Witness). On the 5th of February, within 10 or 11 days, upon your oath did you not put your mark to a paper; be careful before you answer?—Not as I know of.

4205. Do you mean to tell me that you may have forgotten, within 11 days, putting your mark to a paper?—I couldn't say; I could not swear.

4206. I do not ask you to swear whether that is your mark; but did you or did you not put your mark to any paper within the last fortnight?—Not as I know of.

4207. May you have forgotten it?—I don't know, I am sure; I should think if I had put it to it I should not have forgotten it.

4208. Then you believe that you did not put your mark to any paper?—I believe I did not.

4209. Upon your oath, in the presence of this person, did you not put your mark to a paper?—I could not say.

4210. Have you seen this person (pointing to a person in the Court)?—Yes.

4211. Did you say anything to him?—Not that I know of.

4212. Did you see him without speaking then?—I had bade him good morning, or something like that.

4213. Did he not ask you about the election, and did you not put your mark to a paper in his presence?—I could not say.

1214. But you do not remember whether you signed a paper in his presence on the 5th of February?—No.

4215. Could you have forgotten it?—I should think I should not have forgotten it if I had put it there.

4216. Do you wish us to believe that you may have put your name to a paper on the 5th of February and have forgotten it?—No; I don't know.

4217. Do you mean that you might have put your name to a paper on the 5th of February and have forgotten it?—I don't know whether I put it to it if I done it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

4218. You said, if I recollect rightly, that a gentleman came and paid for some beer, and said that if you did not make a clean breast you should get six months, and perhaps two years; who was the gentleman that said that?—John Parker.

4219. Who is John Parker?—He was on the police force.

4220. What is he?—I suppose he is pensioned off now.

4221. Is he one of the Carter and Jackson party?—Yes.

4222. How much beer did he give you?—Well, I dare say three or four pints.

4223. Was that the only time he came to you?—No, he has been above once or twice; three or four times.

4224. Has he given you drink upon each occasion?—No.

4225. Did he ever give you any drink besides that one occasion?—No.

4226. When you went to the booth to vote you say that somebody objected to your vote?—Yes.

4227. Was that person a Mr. Blencarn?—I could not tell his name. He sat at the back.

4228. Was it not Mr. Blencarn the Conservative agent who objected to your vote?—I could not say who it was.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM SEDGLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

W. Sedgley.

4229. You have no vote, I think?—No.

4230. Are you a labourer living in Locker's-lane?—Yes.

4231. On the morning of the polling day did you go to the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

4232. Is that an inn that is kept by a man of the name of Thomas Eves?—Yes, I believe so.

4233. Had you seen any one that told you to go; did you go of your own mind?—I went of my own self.

4234. Did you see a man of the name of Barnacle?—I did see him.

4235. Had you any breakfast there?—Yes.

4236. Did you pay anything for it?—No.

4237. Were there other people eating and drinking?—Yes.

4238. Did you see anything paid by them?—No.

4239. Was there a man there whose name you did not know?—There were several men there whose names I did not know.

4240. But, after your breakfast, did one of the persons who had been there speak to you?—Yes.

4241. Do you know that man or not?—I do not know him.

4242. But you had seen him in the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

4243. Had he been sitting down at the table?—Yes; he had some victuals.

4244. Whilst Barnacle was there?—Barnacle was not in at the time.

4245. Did Barnacle come in afterwards or before?—He came in and out all the time, but he was not in at the time we were eating and drinking.

4246. Was anything given to you first?—No.

4247. Any voting card?—Yes, I had a voting card.

4248. From whom?—A man in the street.

4249. Had you seen him in the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

4250. What did the man set you to do?—He axed me to go and vote, and if I did vote he would give me ten shillings.

4251. In what name were you to vote?—I forgot the name now.

4252. Was it the same name as was on the card?—Yes.

4253. You have forgotten that name?—Yes.

4254. What did you do?—I went into the booth, and give my evidence what I was to do, and they took the card off me, and looked at it, and he said, "Why that man is at London; hook it," he says.

4255. Do

4255. Do you know who it was that said that the man was in London?—A man that had a long paper in his hand with all the names on.

4256. Was he the person to whom you gave the card, or the man sitting on the right hand or the left?—On the left hand.

4257. Then he said, "That man is in London," and he told you to leave?—He told me to hook it.

4258. You did not wait long there, I suppose?—No, I came straight out directly.

4259. Did you go back to the man?—Yes.

4260. Did you try to get anything from him?—He never give me a farthing.

4261. Did you ask him for anything?—No; I was to have ten shillings if I voted, and nothing if I did not.

4262. You did not vote, and you did not get anything?—No, I did not.

4263. Mr. Justice Willes.] What did you say the man's name was?—I do not know the man's name; he was a stranger. It was in the street that the man gave me my card.

4264. Did you see the man that gave you the card speaking to Barnacle?—No, I never seed him speaking to Barnacle at all.

4265. Was the man who gave you the card in the place where you breakfasted?—Yes.

4266. Was Barnacle in there at all?—Barnacle was in and out.

4267. For whom were you going to vote?—I forget the names who it was. W. Sedgley.

4268. Was it Mr. Jackson and Mr. Carter?—Oh! yes. 18 February 1869.

4269. Was it Carter and Jackson, or Eaton and Hill?—It was for the light blues as I went to vote for; I do not know what the names are.

Mr. Justice Willes said he was of opinion that it might be laid in the petition that an agent of the Member has got voters personated, and that that, if established, would be sufficient fraud at the common law to set aside the election.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. James withdrew the case of Edward Connor, stating that he had no reasonable hope of making out the agency in that case.

Mr. Justice Willes intimated that a case of general corruption might be made out without agency.

Mr. Henry James proposed to call Joseph Horsfall.

Mr. Huddleston objected that the information directed yesterday to be given with regard to this witness, had not been given.

Mr. Henry James argued against the objection, and it was overruled.

JOSEPH HORSFALL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

4270. WHAT are you?—I am a linen weaver by trade.

4271. Where do you live?—In High-street.

4272. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Hill and Eaton.

4273. Do you know a man called Thomas Jackson?—Yes.

4274. Did you see him at the election time?—Yes.

4275. When did you see him?—I saw him on the morning of the week before the election took place, on the Monday morning.

4276. Where did you see him?—In Yardley-street.

4277. Did you speak to him?—Yes.

4278. Will you tell us what took place between you and Jackson then?—Yes; Mr. Jackson said to me, he says "Horsfall," he says, "I hear you are in very great distress"; I says "Yes I am"; he says "If you will support me I will use my endeavours to get you some work at the factory"; I said "Well, sir, on those grounds I will"; and he told me to see him on the Saturday night; I saw him.

4279. On the Saturday night?—Yes.

4280. Where did you see him?—I saw him in the committee-rooms in Yardley-street.

4281. Whose committee-rooms?—Mr. Hill and Eaton's.

4282. Did you know where Thomas Jackson lived and what he was?—He was a watchmaker by trade.

4283. When you saw him at Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill's committee-room in Yardley-street, what happened there?—He was talking to some gentleman there.

4284. Did you know the gentleman he was talking to?—No, I did not; I have been a Liberal all my lifetime until this last election.

4285. Have you voted at elections before?—

275.

The first vote I had was at Peel's election, and I voted for the Liberals up to the last time. J. Horsfall.

4286. And you voted this time for the Conservatives?—Yes.

4287. What happened in the committee-room?—Well, I cannot exactly say what happened, because they were talking very low to themselves.

4288. Was anything said to you?—No, there was not.

4289. Was anything given to you?—Yes, there was half-a-crown given to me on the Saturday night.

4290. Where was that given to you?—In the street.

4291. Who gave it to you?—Jackson.

4292. Did he say anything when he gave you the half-crown?—No, he did not.

4293. Did you see him again?—Yes.

4294. When?—I saw him again on the Monday morning.

4295. What happened then?—I had some bills to deliver, and I delivered them, and he gave me a shilling.

4296. Was this the first work that you had done for him?—Yes, it was.

4297. Had you done any work for him when he gave you the half-crown?—No.

4298. How many bills did you deliver?—I dare say there might be 30 or 40.

4299. Do you know a public-house called the "City Mill Inn"?—Yes.

4300. Did you go there at the election time?—Yes.

4301. With whom did you go there?—Thomas Jackson's son, Thomas.

4302. What day was that?—That was the nomination morning, on the Monday.

4303. Did you have anything to drink there?—Yes.

4304. What?—I had some gin hot.

L 2

4305. Did

J. Horsfall.

18 February
1869.

4305. Did you pay for it?—No, I did not.

4306. Who paid for it?—Thomas Jackson's son paid for it; I saw him.

4307. Were there any other people there besides yourself?—Yes.

4308. Do you know of your own knowledge whether they were voters or not?—Well, I believe they were voters.

4309. How many?—I dare say there might be eight or nine.

4310. Were they having anything?—Yes, they had some gin hot, the same as I had.

4311. Did you see any of them pay for this gin hot?—No, I did not.

4312. Did you see anybody pay for any?—I saw Mr. Jackson put down a shilling as I came in.

4313. Do you mean Jackson or Jackson's son?—I mean his son Thomas; his son's name is Thomas.

4314. How much gin hot did you see consumed?—I daresay 10 quarts amongst the lot of them.

4315. How long were you there?—I was there about an hour and a half.

4316. Did you go after that to the nomination?—Yes.

4317. Did any of those other people go to the nomination with you, or did you go alone?—I went alone, because I would not be seen with them.

4318. After you left the nomination did you meet anybody?—Yes.

4319. Whom did you meet?—I met two young men.

4320. Do you know a man of the name of Downing?—Yes.

4321. What is he?—He is a gentleman I believe; he do not do any work.

4322. Do you know his Christian name?—His name is William Downing I believe, on the Stoney Stratford-road.

4323. Where did you meet him?—I met him against where Dr. Jessel lives, just before you get to the mill, to Mr. Robins's mill.

4324. Did you have any conversation with William Downing?—He came to me and he says, "We shall win the nomination."

4325. Anything else?—Yes.

4326. What?—He gave me half-a-crown.

4327. Did he say anything when he gave you the half-crown?—No, he did not.

4328. Was anything said about your vote?—No, not then.

4329. But when was anything said about your vote?—It was said about my vote on the Thursday, as I had the half-crown on the Saturday night.

4330. Who said about your vote, then?—Why, Mr. Jackson.

4331. Tell us what he said?—He told me that if I would vote for Hill and Eaton he would give me some money.

4332. Mr. Justice Willes.] How much?—He told me he would give me 10s. after the election was over.

4333. Mr. Chandos Leigh.] Was that before or after he gave you the half-crown?—After. He told me he would get me work at the Lustock Factory if I would vote for him, and he would take me down to the Lustock Factory.

4334. Did you go to this committee-room again in Yardley-street?—Yes.

4335. When?—I went there on the Monday morning, and on the Tuesday morning.

4336. Was the Tuesday morning the polling day?—Yes.

4337. What time did you go there on the polling day?—I went there about nine o'clock in the morning.

4338. Who were there then?—It was full of men and gentlemen.

4339. Could you tell us any of the people who were at the committee rooms in Yardley-street?—Mr. Downing was there.

4340. Did Mr. Downing do or say anything there?—He was taking down names as they came from the booth.

4341. What did he take them down on?—He took them down on a sheet of paper.

4342. Was he sitting down?—He was sitting down.

4343. How long were you there?—I was there about a quarter of an hour.

4344. Did you do any work on the nomination day or on the polling day?—No, I did not.

4345. Did you go back to the committee rooms again that day?—Yes.

4346. Who was there then?—Mr. Downing, the same as he was when I was there first.

4347. What time was that?—It was about half-past 10.

4348. What was Mr. Downing doing then?—He was writing, the same as he was before.

4349. Do you know a place called the "Swanswell Tavern," Mr. Russell's?—Yes.

4350. Did you go to the "Swanswell Tavern" at all?—Yes.

4351. Who took you there, or did you go by yourself?—Mr. Jackson took me there.

4352. When did you go there?—I went there on the Friday morning.

4353. After the election?—After the election.

4354. You say Mr. Jackson took you there?—Yes.

4355. Is that Mr. Jackson, senior, or Mr. Jackson, junior?—It was the elder one.

4356. How did he come to take you there?—He took me there to give me my money.

4357. Where did he call for you?—He told me to come down to his house, and I went down.

4358. When did Thomas Jackson, senior, tell you to come to his house?—He told me on the Thursday afternoon, when I saw him, to come down to his house on the Friday morning.

4359. You went to his house, you say, on the Friday morning?—Yes.

4360. When you went to his house, did you see him?—Yes.

4361. Had you any conversation with him then?—No; because there was a gentleman with him there, talking to him, and he came out.

4362. Will you tell us what he did?—He took me with this gentleman, and took me into Mr. Russell's, and gave me 10s., but what passed between him and this gentleman I cannot say.

4363. Who gave you the 10s.?—Mr. Jackson.

4364. Where did he give it you?—He gave it me in Mr. Russell's.

4365. At the "Swanswell" Tavern?—Yes.

4366. Whereabouts at the tavern did he give it to you?—It was in the parlour.

4367. What time of day was it?—It was about 11 o'clock in the morning.

4368. Did he give you anything to drink at the time?—Yes, I had half-a-pint of ale.

4369. Did he say anything when he gave you the the 10s.?—Yes, he told me not to say nothing at all about it.

4370. Up to that time had you done any work except what you have told us?—No, I had not.

4371. Mr. Justice Willes.] Not the bills?—No, only the bills; I delivered them.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

4372. What are you by trade?—A weaver.

4373. For whom are you working now?—I am working for Mr. Newark.

4374. How long have you been working for Mr. Newark?—This nine weeks.

4375. Who took your evidence down, Mr. Fox or Mr. Micklewright?—Mr. Micklewright took my evidence.

4376. When did he take your evidence?—He took it down at night.

4377. How long ago?—Just after the election had taken place.

4378. How long before you were engaged by Mr. Newark?—I was walking about, I had no work for 16 weeks before that.

4379. How long after that were you engaged by Mr. Newark?—After the election took place?

4380. Yes?—I have been with Mr. Newark nine weeks.

4381. What were your wages when you were a weaver?—I worked piece-work, and had what I got.

4382. Do you work piece-work for Mr. Newark?—No.

4383. What do you get at Mr. Newark's?—I have 9s. a week.

4384. Nothing more?—No.

4385. No piece-work?—No, mine is day-work now.

4386. Nine shillings a week?—Yes.

4387. And you work at the weaving with him?—No.

4388. What do you work at?—I am a weaver by trade, but I work for Mr. Newark at wood turning now. I do not work at weaving.

4389. Had you ever been working for a wood turner before?—No, I am a labourer.

4390. Has Mr. Newark paid you as much as 25 s. a week?—No, never in his life.

4391. Is Mr. Newark a dark blue?—Yes, he is a dark blue.

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

4392. I understand that you had been out of work as a weaver some time before the election?—Yes, 16 weeks.

4393. For nine weeks you have been working for Mr. Newark?—Yes.

4394. Has Mr. Newark in any way asked you to say anything that is untrue, or to make any statement here that is false?—No.

4395. Has he had anything to do at all with your being employed at the election or what you have stated here?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

EDWARD CONNOR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

4396. You are a voter, I believe, for this city?—Yes.

4397. And at the last election did you vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—I voted for both of them.

4398. What are you by trade?—A brush-maker.

4399. On the Sunday before the polling day at the last election were you at the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

4400. What time of the day did you go there?—Just before 12 o'clock.

4401. Was there a person there amongst others of the name of George Roe?—Yes.

4402. Did you also on the same afternoon go to the "Windmill Inn"?—Yes.

4403. Did you also see George Roe there then?—Yes, I did.

4404. Did he say anything to you about your vote?—Yes.

4405. On whose side was he; for whom did he speak?—He wanted me to vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

4406. On the nomination day were you at the "Suffolk" wine vaults?—Yes, I was.

4407. Was George Roe there then?—Yes, he was.

4408. Did he then also ask you to vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes, he did.

4409. On the morning of the polling, between 9 and 10 o'clock, did you go to the booth in Spon-street?—I did.

4410. I believe there was a crowd of voters and you could not poll at the time?—Yes.

4411. Whilst you were there, did George Roe come up to you?—Yes, he did.

275.

4412. What did he say to you?—He asked me if I had voted first, and I said, "No," and then he asked me to go to the "Suffolk."

4413. Did you go?—Yes; he asked me to have a glass of ale and we had a glass of ale.

4414. Whilst you were going did he ask you to vote for anyone?—He asked me to vote for Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton.

4415. What did you tell him?—I told him no. I had promised to vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

4416. Did you then leave those "Suffolk" vaults, and did you go to the polling booth?—I went down against the booth with him.

4417. Did you see there a man of the name of George Hands?—Yes, I did.

4418. Did you hear anything pass between George Hands and Roe?—Hands told Roe to see to him.

4419. At the time Hands said "See to him," did he point in any direction?—Up to the "Newdegate Arms."

4420. Did Roe come then to you and say anything to you?—He told me I could have a sovereign.

4421. Did you walk in any direction with him?—Up Hill-street.

4422. Was that the direction of the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

4423. As you were walking up the street, did he say anything to you?—He told me I could have a sovereign.

4424. Did he say for what?—For voting for Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton.

4425. What did you say to that?—I said, "No."

L 3

4426. Did

E. Connor.

J. Horsfall.

18 February
1869.

E. Connor. 4426. Did you go into the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes; I did.
 18 February 1869. 4427. I believe you had one glass of ale which Roe called for, and paid for?—Yes; I had a glass of ale.
 4428. In the "Newdegate Arms," again was the sovereign mentioned?—It was.
 4429. What did he say in the "Newdegate Arms"?—He asked me to vote for Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton, and I said, "No".
 4430. I believe you gave a reason why you did not wish to vote for Mr. Hill?—Yes.
 4431. I believe you had refused to vote for Mr. Hill; and then did Roe suggest anything to you as to voting one and one?—He says, "Well, if you will not support Mr. Hill, support Mr. Jackson and Mr. Eaton."
 4432. At that time, did you see Mr. Eaton pass by?—Yes; I did.
 4433. What became of Roe?—He went out and left me there, and I came away.

4434. You do not say for a moment that Roe spoke to Mr. Eaton, or anything of that kind, but he went out into the street?—Yes; he went out into the street.
 4435. When Roe went out, did you go up to the booth and vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—Yes; I did.
 4436. Mr. Justice Willes.] You are sure Roe said he would give you the sovereign?—He told me I could have one.
 4437. He did not produce it?—No.
 4438. But he said you could have one if you voted for Eaton and Hill?—Yes; he did.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Henry James said that Mr. Pears was in court, and that probably it was due to him that he should have the opportunity of making a statement in reference to the cross-examination of Shuttleworth yesterday.

ABIJAH HILL PEARS, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

A. H. Pears, 4439. I BELIEVE you are in the Commission
 Esq. of the Peace for this county?—I am.
 4440. For how many years have you been so?—About 10 years, I think.
 4441. I believe you have been exceedingly unwell, and have come here to-day from your sick room?—Yes; I did not leave home until I heard this morning what took place here yesterday.
 4442. Do you know a man of the name of John Shuttleworth, a weaver?—Not personally; I find I have his name upon my list as a recipient of 10 s. of St. Thomas's Charities.
 4443. You say you do not know him personally; but you have looked, and you have found his name on a list?—Yes.
 4444. He is a weaver, living on Gosford Green?—He is a dyer, I believe.
 4445. Is there a charity called Sir Thomas White's charity?—What is called the "Gift" is Sir Thomas White's Charity.
 4446. To whom is that 4 l. given?—To householders, having been resident two years.
 4447. Was that charity the bequest of Sir Thomas White?—Yes; it comes out of Sir Thomas White's Charity Fund.
 4448. Has it been in existence for a long time, or is it recent?—A very long time, I believe. I do not know exactly the date.
 4449. Before your time?—A long time.
 4450. I believe it is given to certain persons, householders in Coventry?—The recipient must be a householder for two years, and he can only receive it once in 15 years.
 4451. Mr. Justice Willes.] The real question is, whether you, in relation to Shuttleworth, ever abused either your power or your influence in respect of getting votes for the Coventry election?—Never.
 4452. Mr. Henry James.] Did you ever ask Shuttleworth at any time in relation to this charity, or say one word to him about his vote?—Never; I gave it to him as an object of charity. I know nothing about his political feelings at all.
 4453. Was it a 10 s. gift he had?—A 10 s. gift.
 4454. When?—Last St. Thomas's Day.

4455. That is since the election?—Yes; the 21st of December.
 4456. Was one word said at that time about his vote or evidence?—Not one.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

4457. You take an active interest in politics?—Well, I have for 50 years.
 4458. And it is pretty well known that you are what they call a dark blue?—It is.
 4459. And you are one of the trustees of Sir Thomas White's charity?—Yes.
 4460. And the 10 s. is one gift, and the 4 l. is another, is it not?—It is, and the two are quite distinct.
 4461. Are they both in your gift?—Both in my gift; partly with other trustees.
 4462. You have a considerable influence in it?—Well, I have a certain portion; the same as all the rest; not more.
 4463. How many trustees are there?—Thirteen, I think.
 4464. Do they take it in turns to give the money?—At the time that the distribution takes place each trustee has a certain number.
 4465. Each trustee would have so many 10 s. or so many 4 l. to give?—Yes.
 4466. How many of those would fall to your share?—We have just distributed now the 4 l. gift, and I think I had 23 to nominate; but out of that 23 only two are my personal nominations; all the rest were recommendations.
 4467. I assure you I do not mean to impute anything to you; I am quite satisfied with what you have said, that you did not do it to influence the man at all.

Mr. Justice Willes remarked that every person who has a control over charitable gifts has an influence of which he cannot rid himself.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Henry James stated that the surgeons at the hospital did not think it prudent to allow William Mayne to attend the court, and that therefore he would now proceed to the cases of treating and the proof of agency.

CHARLES FELLOWES, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

4468. WHERE do you live?—At Radford.
 4469. Near Coventry?—Yes.
 4470. How near?—About a mile.
 4471. Are you a voter?—Yes.
 4472. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Carter and Jackson.

Mr. Huddleston objected that the names of the public-houses at which the treating took place had not been supplied to the counsel for the respondents.

Mr. Justice Willes remarked, that in some points the present particulars were needless, and that on others they needed to be much more stringent; but that he had not yet observed any inconvenience in this case, and that he would adjourn to any period that might be necessary for Mr. Huddleston's convenience; but that at present he would proceed with hearing the evidence.

4473. Mr. Chandos Leigh (to the Witness).] Do you know the "Grapes" public-house at Radford?—Yes.

4474. When were you at the "Grapes" public-house?—On the 10th of November.

4475. At what time were you there?—At about half-past nine.

4476. In the morning or in the evening?—In the evening.

4477. What did you do when you got to this public-house?—I went in and called for a glass of ale.

4478. Did you see anybody there?—Yes, the room was full of women.

4479. Did you see any voters there?—Yes, Mr. Bagshaw.

4480. After you had been there a short time did anybody come in?—Yes.

4481. Who came in?—Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton.

4482. Was there anybody with them that you knew?—Yes, Mr. Kilbey and Mr. Smith.

4483. What Kilbey was that?—It will be the baker.

4484. Is that James Kilbey?—Yes.

4485. And what Smith?—John Smith, a coal merchant. C. Fellowes.

4486. Do you know where John Smith, the coal merchant lives?—In St. Nicholas's street. 18 February 1869.

4487. What happened when this party came in?—Mr. Eaton shook hands with Mr. Bagshaw, and also with myself, and Mr. Hill the same.

4488. After that did you go into the parlour?—No.

4489. What happened after that?—We went into the parlour, all the men, and then Mr. Bagshaw and me remained by our two selves in the bar.

4490. After that what took place; did the party leave?—They were in there for some few minutes, and they came in again, and Mr. James Kilbey came and went to Mrs. Henson, the landlady, and said something to her, but I could not say what.

4491. Did Mr. Kilbey go after that?—Yes.

4492. After Kilbey left had you a conversation with Mrs. Henson, the landlady?—Yes.

4493. Do not say what it was; I do not ask you that. After that what happened; was there any drink, or anything?—Yes, she called me, and said that Mr. Kilbey had ordered—

4494. I do not ask you for that. What happened after Mrs. Henson spoke to you?—They had drawn beer, and took it into the parlour.

4495. Who drew the beer?—She drew some, and the son drew some, during the time I was there.

4496. How much did you see drawn yourself?—I cannot say how much.

4497. Can you say about how much?—Several small jugs.

4498. Where was this beer taken to?—Into the parlour.

4499. Who were in the parlour?—I could not say.

4500. Did you go in yourself?—No, I did not.

4501. Mr. Justice Willes.] How much did you have altogether?—I did not have any.

[The Witness withdrew.]

DAVID BAGSHAW, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

4502. WERE you at the "Grapes," public-house, on Tuesday evening, the 10th of November?—Yes.

4503. Are you a voter?—Yes.

4504. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Carter and Jackson.

4505. Were you there when Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill came in?—Yes.

4506. And Mr. Kilbey, and Mr. John Smith?—Yes.

4507. Did Kilbey and Smith come in with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes, not all together, but there was two conveyances. I will not say as to their all coming in together, but they was in the house all together.

4508. Were you there when Mr. Kilbey spoke to Mrs. Henson?—Yes.

4509. Did you hear what passed?—No, I did not.

4510. Do not tell us what he said; but after 275.

that, did Mrs. Henson say anything to you?—Yes. D. Bagshaw.

4511. What happened after she had said something to you?—There was an order given to supply people with—

4512. Did you hear the order given?—I did not.

4513. Did you see any beer taken into the parlour?—Yes.

4514. Will you tell us, please, what you saw?—I saw several large jugs of ale taken in; and spirits was ordered and taken in.

4515. Were you in the parlour yourself?—No, I was not.

4516. How much did you see sent in?—Well, I cannot say what amount.

4517. Was your wife, Jane Bagshaw, there?—No.

4518. Did you enter any beer in a book afterwards?—Not on that night; I did not.

L 4

4519. When

D. Bagshaw. 4519. When was it that you did?—That was on the nomination day.
 18 February 4520. Were you again at the “Grapes” on the nomination day?—Yes.
 1869. 4521. Did you go with your wife then?—Yes.
 4522. What time was that?—Well, I cannot exactly state the time; it was getting towards dusk; about four o’clock, I should say, or something about that.
 4523. Did you see any people there?—When we first arrived, I believe there was only one man there. After we had been there some considerable time, there was a number of persons came in.
 4524. Did you know them?—I know’d several of them.
 4525. Were those that you knew voters or not?—Three or four I knew were voters.
 4526. Did you see any beer drunk there?—Yes.
 4527. Who brought the beer in?—Well, there was an old gentleman of the name of Cooper brought some in, and my wife took some in.
 4528. Is that a man called Joseph Cooper?—I cannot tell his Christian name.
 4529. How much beer was taken in?—While I was there there was several large jugs of ale came in; but, as for the amount, I cannot state it.
 4530. How long were you there?—I was there, perhaps, a couple of hours, or two hours and a half.

4531. Did you see anybody pay for it?—No, I did not.

4532. Did you drink any beer then?—I drank with them several times; people that knew me asked me to drink.

4533. Did you pay for any beer?—My own.

4534. Did you see anybody else pay?—I did not; only the party that was with me paid for his own the same as I did. We was drinking together.

4535. Did you enter any beer that night?—When I was coming out of the house I was called into the bar; they was making an entry in a book at the time I was coming through.

4536. Had you any beer to drink that night yourself?—Yes, what I paid for; and I certainly drank with one or two men that I was acquainted with who asked me to drink with them.

4537. Mr. Chandos Leigh.] Did you make any entry in a book?—Yes.

4538. What did you enter?—I simply made a mark for two halves, to represent two half gallons of ale.

4739. Mr. Justice Willes.] What day was this?—That was on the Monday, the nomination day, in the afternoon.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOSEPH BONHAM, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

J. Bonham. 4540. WERE you in the “Grapes” at Radford on the nomination day?—Yes.
 4541. Did you see Mr. Bagshaw and other people there?—Yes.
 4542. Did you see any beer drunk there?—Yes.
 4543. How much?—Well, I could not swear how much, but there was a many jugs; I should think about half gallon jugs kept coming in time after time.
 4544. Did you pay for any beer yourself?—Yes.
 4545. Did you see others pay?—Yes, I saw a man pay when I first went in; he had a pint of ale, but he left before the big jugs came in.
 4546. Did you see the big jugs paid for?—No.
 4547. Were there any people that you knew there amongst the people present?—Yes.
 4548. How many people were there there altogether?—When we first went in, the place was empty; but before we left, the kitchen was full.

4549. Do you know any of them?—Yes; I know a man named Clay and a man named Cramp.

4550. Were they voters?—I do not remember Clay.

4551. Was Cramp a voter?—Yes.

4552. You know nobody else?—No, I did not know anybody else.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

4553. Did you ever go into a beer-house without seeing beer?—Well, that is rather an awkward question to ask a man: yes, I have been into a beer-house, and not seen beer.

4554. That was a teetotal beer-house?—I have been into my cousin’s, and not seen any beer.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOSEPH COOPER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

J. Cooper. 4555. WHERE do you live?—At Radford.
 4556. Are you a voter?—I am.
 4557. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Eaton and Hill.
 4558. During the election time did a Mr. William Eves call upon you?—He did.
 4559. Who is Mr. William Eves?—He is a cattle dealer at Radford.
 4560. What did Mr. Eves say to you?—He said that he had been appointed—

Mr. Huddleston objected that this was a case as to which particulars had not been given.

Mr. Chandos Leigh stated that he proposed to prove the agency of Mr. Eves.

Mr. Justice Willes said that the cases of treating which had hitherto been brought forward had made no impression at all upon his mind.

4561. Mr. Chandos Leigh.] You say you saw William Eves?—Yes.

4562. What did he say?—He said he was appointed pointed as a canvasser, and he appointed me under him, and he wished to take a man to act.

Mr. Justice Willes.] Agency cannot be proved by hearsay; it must be proved by other evidence than that.

4563. Mr. Leigh.] Did you go with Eaves anywhere?—Yes, I went with him to Mr. Kilby.

4564. What did Mr. Kilby say?—Mr. Kilby gave me two books.

4565. What Kilby is that?—I was appointed, along with Eaves, to go round.

4566. What Kilby was that?—Kilby, the baker.

4567. James Kilby?—Yes.

4568. You went with him to James Kilby?—Yes.

4569. Did Kilby give you anything?—A book and a pencil.

4570. What did you do when you got the book and the pencil?—He told me to go round, and do the best I could, and work for the canvassing.

4571. Did you go round and canvass?—I did.

4572. Did you make a return of your canvass to anybody?—Yes.

4573. To whom?—To Mr. Eaves, first; and then I went from Eaves and took the book to Mr. Alderman Lyne.

4574. Where did you make the return to Mr. Eaves?—At Radford.

4575. Is that the William Eaves you spoke of before?—Yes.

4576. Were any returns made to Mr. Kilby?—Mr. Lynes said he could not do it then, but he would look over the book and return the book to Mr. Kilby the next day.

4577. You made no returns yourself to Mr. Kilby?—No.

4578. Did you receive any circulars from Mr. Kilby?—I did.

4579. When did you receive any circulars from Mr. Kilby?—I think the next day; it was in the course of a day or so.

4580. Had you to deliver those circulars?—Yes.

4581. Was one of those circulars addressed to yourself?—It was.

4582. Did you open it?—I did.

4583. Have you got it here?—I have not got it with me.

4584. What was it?—

Mr. Huddleston.] I object to it.

Witness.] One was a card soliciting my vote for Eaton and Hill, the other was a small paper with my address.

4585. Did you ever receive any polling cards to deliver?—Yes.

4586. From whom?—I went to Mr. Kilby for them; he sent me up to the committee-room at the "King's Head" for polling cards.

4587. Did you go to the committee-room at the "King's Head"?—I did.

4588. Did you deliver the polling cards to different voters?—I did.

4589. Did you go to the "Bull's Head"?—I did.

4590. When was that?—On the day that Mr. Eaton and Hill came in.

275.

Mr. Huddleston.] I have no "Bull's Head."

J. Cooper.

18 February 1869.

4591. Mr. Leigh.] Very well; I will pass over that. (To the Witness). Were you at the "Grapes" at Radford?—I was.

4592. When were you at the "Grapes" at Radford?—The same night that Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton came over there to make a speech.

4593. The same night that Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill came?—Yes.

4594. What happened on that night?—I came somewhere about half-past nine; I asked Mr. Kilby how it was the gentlemen were so late; Mr. Kilby said they had to go to the theatre.

4595. Did you go to the "Grapes" that night?—I did.

4596. What did you see at the "Grapes" that night?—A quantity of people; the house was full.

4597. Were any of them voters?—They were almost all voters.

4598. Did you know any of them?—Yes.

4599. Tell us any you know?—Atkins of Radford, a voter, and Mr. Eaves was there, and several more I knew.

4600. Did you see anything given there?—Yes.

4601. What?—Plenty of drink, both liquors and ale, as much as they minded.

4602. Did you see anybody pay for it?—Nobody paid for it.

4603. Did you have anything yourself?—I had some liquors myself.

4604. Did you pay for it?—No, I did not.

4605. Did anybody come there whilst you were there?—The gentlemen there.

4606. Who came?—Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill came there.

4607. Was anybody with them?—Mr. Kilby.

4608. Did Kilby come with them?—He did.

4609. What happened when Mr. Eaton, and Mr. Hill, and Mr. Kilby came?—I asked him about how it was they were so late.

4610. Were any speeches made?—Yes.

4611. Who made the speeches?—Mr. Eaton first and Mr. Hill after.

4612. Did they go after that?—They did.

4613. Did Mr. Kilby remain behind?—Not many minutes.

4614. What happened after that?—After that there was plenty came in; the young man at the "Grapes" came in and told us we might go on, there was plenty for us to go on with.

4615. Did you see any money paid after that?—No.

Mr. Justice Willes.] Will you ask him whether this drinking went on whilst Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill were there, and were speaking, or whether it went on before or after.

4616-7. Mr. Leigh.] You say there was drinking when you first went in; did that drinking go on when Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill were there?—Yes, and after; to 12 o'clock.

4618. Did you go to the "Grapes" again after that?—That was the only time that night.

4619. Were you at the "Buck and Crown" at all?—I did call in.

4620. When was that?—The same night.

4621. Where is the "Buck and Crown"?—At the top of Radford, about a quarter of a mile beyond the "Grapes."

M

4622. What

J. Cooper.

18 February
1869.

4622. What happened at the "Buck and Crown"?—They was having both beer and liquors there.

4623. How was the liquor brought in?—The liquor was brought in in glasses.

4624. Who brought it in?—Sometimes the landlord and sometimes the landlord's wife, and sometimes the daughter.

4625. What time was this?—I did not get there till between 11 and 12, and I left soon after; I did not stop any longer.

4626. What happened whilst you were there; did you see Kilby there?—I did not; they was coming away when I met them; they had come away when I went up.

4627. Did you see Eaves there?—No.

4628. Did you ever meet Eaves at the "Buck and Crown"?—Many times.

4629. Did you ever go to supper at the "Buck and Crown"?—Yes.

4630. When was that?—That was before the other.

4631. How long before?—I cannot say exactly, but I should say a fortnight or three weeks.

4632. What happened when you went to this supper at the "Buck and Crown"?—I had been round on canvass that day.

4633. Were you invited to the supper?—Yes.

4634. Who by?—William Eaves.

4635. Tell us what happened when you went there?—We went in; there was a good supper, a leg of mutton, a leg of pork, and a round of beef for supper.

4636. Did you have anything to drink with it?—Yes.

4637. What had you to drink?—I had some ale.

4638. How many sat down to this supper?—I think somewhere about 52, I am not certain to one or two; I counted somewhere about 50 or 52.

4639. Did anybody pay for the supper?—Nobody.

4640. Did you pay for anything there?—No.

Mr. Justice Willes.] The next question is who made a present of it?

4641. Mr. Leigh.] Who made a present of the supper?—Mr. Kilby, I expect; Mr. Kilby sent it in his cart.

4642. Did you see it come?—Yes.

4643. Was Mr. Kilby there himself?—Yes, he was; he was chairman.

4644. Who was vice-chairman?—A man named Jones.

4645. Mr. Jones, of Radford?—Yes.

4646. Do you remember any of those people who were present there; give us the names of any you remember?—There was Atkins, myself, Eaves, and Pincham; Toocamp.

4647. Were they voters?—Yes.

4648. After the supper was over, what happened?—When the supper was over and the cloth was drawn, they drank toasts, and Mr. Kilby said he was obliged to leave, he could not stop any longer that night; but he left them two half crowns; five shillings on the plate.

4649. Were any speeches made before he left?—Yes.

4650. Who made the speeches?—Mr. Kilby spoke first, I think, and many others.

4651. You need not tell us the speeches at length, but what were they about?—They were drinking Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton's good health.

Mr. Justice Willes.] You have challenged Mr. Kilby; that is all you want, I suppose, you have challenged the two Members who will, I suppose, be called necessarily, and you challenge Mr. Kilby.

Mr. Huddleston.] Quite so, my Lord.

4652. Mr. Leigh.] Do you know a Mr. Ashton?—I do.

4653. Did you see Mr. Ashton about the election time?—I did.

4654. What is his Christian name?—I am not certain whether it is John or William; it is one or the other.

4655. Do you know what he is?—I think he is a weaver by trade; he is secretary to the Working Man's Conservative.

4656. To the Working Man's Conservative Association?—Yes.

4657. Did Mr. Ashton employ you at the election time?—Yes.

4658. What did he employ you to do?—To deliver bills out.

4659. What bills did he give you to deliver?—Mr. Eaton's and Mr. Hill's address.

4660. Where was it he gave you those bills or addresses?—At the Conservative room.

4661. Did he pay you anything for delivering them?—Yes.

4662. What?—Five shillings to 6s. altogether.

4663. Did you deliver the circulars?—I did.

4664. Did you deliver any at Bishop's-street ward?—I did.

4665. Did you deliver any to Kilby?—No; I do not know that I did.

4666. Do you know John Smith?—Yes; them was circulars for a meeting of a committee that night.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

4667. One or two questions; you seem to me to have been going hard at it for the Light Blues?—I went according to my orders.

4668. Are you giving your evidence according to your orders now?—No, on my own account; I am speaking the truth.

4669. You have turned Dark Blue now?—No, I do not know that I have.

4670. When you were in the "Grapes," did you see Mr. Fellows there?—I did.

4671. Did you see him pay for his drink?—No, I did not see him pay for any drink; he might pay for it; I did not see him.

4672. You saw Mr. Bagshaw there?—I do not know him.

4673. A big man with a large beard?—I do not know the gentleman.

4674. You did not see him pay?—No; I do not know him, I can assure you.

Mr. Bagshaw was requested to step forward.

4675. Look at that gentleman?—I do not know the gentleman; I see him there, but I do not know whether he paid, or whether he did not.

4676. You did not see him pay for anything?—I do not know that he did not.

4677. Was this the registration supper, of people who had been at work at the registration?—Nothing of the sort.

4678. Did

4678. Did they propose your health, Joey Cooper?—Very likely they might.
 4679. Did you make a speech?—No.
 4680. Did not you get on your legs?—Yes.
 4681. Were you so drunk that you could not stand?—No, nothing of the sort.
 4682. Did you ever work for Mr. Downing or Mr. Dowling?—No.
 4683. Are you sure of that?—Yes.
 4684. Ashton is a weaver?—Yes.

4685. A poor man?—Yes.
 4686. This Mr. Eaves, whom you spoke of, is not the Mr. Eaves of the “Newdegate Arms”?—No.
 4687. He is no relation?—Not that I know of.

J. Cooper.
 18 February
 1866.

Re-examined by Mr. Leigh.

4688. You say, not that you know of?—No.

JOHN WOODFIELD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

4689. Do you live at Witley?—Yes.
 4690. Are you a helper in the stables at Witley Abbey, Mr. Peters's?—Yes.
 4691. Are you a voter?—Yes.
 4692. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.
 4693. Did you go to the “Seven Stars” public-house at Willenhall before the election?—Yes.
 4694. Were you invited there?—Yes.
 4695. Do you know the person who invited you?—I do not.
 4696. Did you go there between eight and nine in the evening?—Yes.
 4697. Who did you go with?—In company with Mr. Eaton; we went from Witley.
 4698. The Mr. Eaton you mean is Mr. Ishmael Eaton, a voter, who you were working with, not the Member?—Yes.
 4699. Did you see the person who invited you at the doorway of the inn?—Outside the house.
 4700. When you went in what did you find?—A number of people were there; there were three or four jugs on the table, and a glass or two of gin-and-water.
 4701. Did you know anybody there?—Yes.
 4702. Will you tell us anybody there was there?—Mr. Darlinson, Mr. Jackson, and Mr. Greenway, Mr. Garner, and several gentlemen; farmers' labourers.
 4703. Were they voters?—Not all of them.
 4704. Any of them?—I do not think they were, only Eaton.
 4705. And yourself?—Yes.
 4706. What Jackson was this?—He lives opposite the Abbey; he is a neighbour of Mr. Peters.
 4707. Mr. Jackson of Witley?—Yes.
 4708. Did you have anything to drink there?—Yes.
 4709. What?—Two glasses of gin-and-water.
 4710. Did you pay for it?—No.

Mr. Justice Willes.] Ask him who made him a present of it?

4711. Mr. Leigh.] Who made you a present of it?—Mr. Darlinson paid for one, and I believe Mr. Jackson paid for the other.
 4712. Did you see anybody else pay for anything?—No.
 4713. After you had been there some time did Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill come there whilst you were there?—Yes.
 4714. Who came with them?—Mr. Fulwell.
 4715. Who is Mr. Fulwell?—He belongs to Witley; the same house that Mr. Darlinson lives at.
 4716. Did they make speeches there, Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—They delivered a short speech.
 4717. Was it in the room where the drinking was going on?—Yes.
 4718. Did the drinking go on whilst they were there?—No.
 4719. Did it go on after they left?—I left when they did.

J. Woodfield.

Cross-Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

4720. You say that you saw Mr. Darlinson pay for it?—Yes.
 4721. How much?—I believe it was three-pence.
 4722. Did you see the money?—No.
 4723. How do you know he paid for it?—He told me he paid for it.
 4724. Did you see Mr. Jackson pay for it?—No, I did not.

Mr. Justice Willes.] It is the most shadowy evidence I have yet had, and I have had several cases; there is no suggestion of general drunkenness. This is a Tory supper three weeks before the election, which is sought to be put upon the Members. Be it so that Kilby was an agent, and that those people had not promised before, one must have some moderation in one's ideas of purification.

CHARLES CENDALL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

4725. Do you live in Peel-street?—Yes.
 4726. Are you a voter?—Yes.
 4727. How did you vote at the last election?—I voted for Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton.
 4728. Did you go to the “Three Horse Shoes” at all at Foleshill?—Yes.
 4729. Was that on the polling morning?—Yes.
 275.

4730. What time?—About nine o'clock.
 4731. Did you go alone or with anybody else?—There was two more with me.

C. Cendall.

Mr. Huddleston.] I have been looking rather carefully at this list that my learned friends have given me, and I see no “Three Horse Shoes.”

C. Cendall.

18 February
1869.

Mr. Leigh.] The list is in my learned friend Mr. James' handwriting, and he has put it down "Three Horse and Shoes."

Mr. Justice Willes.] I wish Mr. Leigh would come to something material, and I wish Mr. Huddleston would not take objections. If Mr. Leigh continues tendering evidence which is not material, and if Mr. Huddleston keeps taking objections I shall never get away from Coventry.

4732. Mr. Leigh (to the Witness).] Did you go with any other voters to the "Three Horse Shoes"?—No.

4733. Do you know a man named Marsden?—Yes.

4734. Is he a voter?—Yes.

4735. Did you meet him there?—No, we both went down together.

4736. Do you know a man called Spicer?—Yes.

4737. Is he a voter?—Yes.

4738. You breakfasted there?—Yes.

4739. What did you have?—Boiled leg of mutton, roasted shoulder, potatoes and vegetables to it.

4740. How many had breakfast there?—About 25, from that to 30

4741. Was anything paid for the breakfast?—Yes.

4742. What was paid for the breakfast?—Sixpence.

4743. Sixpence a-piece?—Yes.

4744. Had you anything to drink for that?—Some coffee, that was all.

4745. Did you poll afterwards?—Yes.

4746. How did you get to the poll?—We rode.

4747. How did you ride?—In a van.

4748. Whose van was it?—Mr. Gragnought's.

4749. Did you pay for your ride in the van to the poll?—

Mr. Justice Willes.] What is your agency in this case? The question arises whether you can or cannot supply 30 people with breakfast at 6*d.* a head, off boiled leg of mutton, roast shoulder, and potatoes and coffee.

Mr. Leigh stated, that in the absence of Mr. James, he would exercise his discretion by not calling any more of these Witnesses to treating.

Mr. Justice Willes.] Cooper did prove something with respect to agency, the other people proved nothing more than that so much drinking, and so much eating went on, without apparently anything criminal about it. I think if it were shown that a person, who had promised Carter and Jackson, was induced to go to one of those parties to eat and drink there, it would be a very strong case, no matter how small the quantity was; but where you simply show that people who have always been on one side, have eaten with others upon that side to an extent, which it appears to me, would not warp the conscience of a man of ordinary constancy, I do not think you prove anything at all.

Mr. Leigh.] I will now go to the proof of agency.

GEORGE WALLIS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Leigh.

G. Wallis.

4750. WHAT are you?—A freeman of the City of Coventry.

4751. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Hill and Eaton.

4752. Do you know a man called Frederick Cotten?—Yes, he came to my father's house on the polling day, and called my father up, and asked where I was.

Mr. Huddleston.] Wait a minute, we cannot have that.

Mr. Leigh.] Cotten is one of the people we mentioned as an agent.

Mr. Huddleston.] You cannot prove agency by what people say themselves.

4753. Mr. Leigh.] Did you go with Cotten anywhere?—I did not.

4754. Who took you to the poll?—I went with my brother-in-law to vote.

4755. Who canvassed you for your vote?—I was not canvassed at all, I was out of town.

Mr. Huddleston.] Cotten's name has never been mentioned in the transaction.

Mr. Leigh.] That is my first witness for agency. The fact is this: we had a lot of treating witnesses ready, and as they are not now going to be called, we have not our agency witnesses ready.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I think I must say this. I intend now adjourning for the ordinary period, but when I come back I shall expect the witnesses to be regularly called, and if they are not called, I must call upon you to close your case. It is the universal practice of Committees, and it is the principle upon which all judicial tribunals must act at some time or other, and I think the time will come when we return.

[The Court adjourned for the usual period.]

Mr. James.] In relation to John Ashton, I wish to call your Lordship's attention to what appears in the vouchers of Hill and Eaton's accounts: "Paid John Ashton for folding, directing, and delivering 5,700 bills and newspapers, 5*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.*" Then there is, "October the 1st—Paid Ashton for folding, directing, and delivering about Stoke, Foleshill, and Radford, 7,000 political catechisms, 4*l.* 3*s.* 5*d.*" I should say that those do not purport to be payments direct, but they are payments in bills.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I shall find those among the accounts?

Mr. James.] Yes.

Mr. Justice Willes.] He was employed to deliver the addresses and political catechisms.

Mr. James.] Seven thousand of them.
Mr.

Mr. Justice Willes.] What was the date of the employment?

Mr. James.] November the 5th, and October the 1st.

Mr. Justice Willes.] What was paid him?

Mr. James.] On the 1st date, November the 5th, 5*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.*; and on October the 1st, 4*l.* 3*s.* 5*d.* Those do not appear to have been direct payments; but in the vouchers sent in from persons, those appear to have been paid.

Mr. Huddleston.] I do not find it in the accounts.

Mr. Justice Willes.] You shall say so by-and-bye.

Mr. Huddleston.] I cannot consent to that being taken upon your Lordship's notes.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I only attend to the shorthand writer's notes.

Mr. Huddleston.] I find the only account relating to Ashton is, "Disbursements, 2*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.*"

Mr. James.] I stated that I referred to the vouchers sent in.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I read the shorthand writer's notes before deciding.

Mr. James.] Now I go to James Kilby.

G. Wallis.

18 February
1869.

HENRY JAMES BECK, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.

4841. Who were with them at the time?—Mr. Atkins and Mr. Bolton.
4842. Which Atkins is that?—The baker.
4843. Was James Mann there?—Yes.
4844. I believe you told them you thought the Conservative party ought not to have petitioned against Mr. Jackson?—Yes.
4845. Did one of those gentlemen, Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton, ask you if you had read their speeches?—Yes.
4846. Which of them said that?—Mr. Hill.
4847. Did Mr. Hill then ask anyone to get one of the speeches?—Yes.
4848. Who did he ask?—I do not know that he asked anyone in particular; but Mr. Mann replied, and told him he had not one with him, but he would fetch me one in a few minutes.

4849. Did Mann then go out?—Yes.
4850. And did he bring you back a speech?—Yes.

4851. And did you read it?—Yes.
4852. And you voted for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

4853. I believe Mr. Hill said if you had read the speech you would find that Mr. Ferrand petitioned, and not the party?—Yes, Mr. Hill told me that at the time.

4854. That was the speech he sent for?—I do not know.

4855. Did you read the speech?—Yes.

4856. I hope it did you a good deal of good?—It did.

Mr. James.] In relation to this proof of agency, I would refer your Lordship also to the evidence of John Shuttleworth.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I have made a note as to several persons.

Mr. WILLIAM EDWARDS EBURNE, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.

4857. ARE you a voter for this borough?—No, I am not.

4858. Do you know a person of the name of James Suddons?—Yes, intimately.

4911. Did you vote for Mr. Jackson?—Yes.

4912. Do you know Mr. Thomas Jackson, the elder, of Nelson-street?—Yes.

4913. Did Mr. Jackson ever canvass you when he was by himself, in the first instance?—I met him in the street.

4914. Did he ever ask you to vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—He asked me.

Mr. Huddleston.] I object to this; this is what Mr. Jackson said.

Mr. Justice Willes.] It is an act.

4915. Mr. James.] Did he ask you to vote for Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton; did Thomas Jackson, the elder, ask you to vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes, and Mr. Pollard.

4916. He gave you something to drink, also, I believe?—Yes.

4917. After he had asked you to vote for this gentleman, did you see Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton?—Yes.

4918. Was this Thomas Jackson with him?—Yes.

4919. Was John Priest also with them?—Yes.

4920. Did you see them going from house to house?—Yes.

Mr. Huddleston.] I must ask you not to lead this witness; you must ask what was done.

EMMA OUGHTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.

E. Oughton.

4921. ARE you a married woman?—I am a married woman.

4922. Do you know a man of the name of Linnet?—Yes.

4923. What is his christian name; is it John Linnet?—I believe it is.

Mr. Huddleston.] How do you know that? I must request my learned friend not to lead his witnesses; he puts into the mouth of the witnesses the christian name of the man.

4924. Mr. James.] Do you know a man of the name of John Linnet?—Yes, I do.

Mr. Huddleston.] I object to that.

Mr. Justice Willes.] She says "John,"

I believe; there never was more than one man in this world who knew all the names; he knew by giving them himself; you must form your belief as to names upon hearsay.

4925. Mr. James.] Have you ever seen him with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—No.

4926. Did you see Linnet at all shortly before the election?—I saw him on the same day as the polling was.

4927. Where was that?—In the park.

4928. With whom was he at that time?—He was alone with Robinson.

4929. Who is Robinson?—He was one as had been to poll.

JAMES SWIFT, sworn; Examined by Mr. James.

J. Swift.

4930. ARE you a voter for the city?—Yes.

4931. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

 day, did two men, James Suddons and James Barnaele, call upon you?—Yes; about that time.

5033. Had one of them a book in his hand?—
 One of them had.

5034. You do not recollect which, I believe?
 —I do not recollect which.

5035. Did you see whether they went to other houses, or whether they came only to your house?
 —They only came to mine at that time.

5036. Shortly

5036. Shortly before the election, did James Barnacle call upon you again?—Yes.

5037. Did he bring anything with him?—He brought me a voting card.

5038. That, I believe, is the envelope (producing the same) that it was taken out of?—Yes.

5039. Did you see whether he had other envelopes and other cards in his hand at the same time?—Yes; and I thanked him for mine.

5040. He did not thank you for your vote, I believe?—No, I told him it was no use before; the first time he came.

W. Adams.

18 February
1869.

EDWARD KING, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

5041. ARE you an elector of this city?—Yes.

5045. Upon Thursday, the 12th of November, did you see Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton canvassing?—Yes.

5046. Who was with them at the time?—Mr.

Daniel Hunt Clare, Mr. Hollins, and Mr. John Ward, and other gentlemen that I don't recollect.

5047. Did you see Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton with those gentlemen going from house to house?—Yes.

5048. Do you know the handwriting of Daniel Hunt Clare?—No.

E. King.

[The Witness withdrew.

JAMES KILLEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

5049. ARE you an elector of this city?—Yes.

5050. For whom did you vote?—For Messrs. Carter and Jackson.

5051. Do you know a man of the name of William Eves?—Yes.

5052. Have you seen him at any time with Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton when they were canvassing?—Yes.

5053. When and where did that occur?—In Abbot's-lane, on the day of the nomination, between one and two o'clock.

Cross-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

5054. Where was Mr. William Eves when you saw him?—By the side of Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton.

5055. On the footway?—On the footway in Abbot's-lane.

5056. Were there a good many other people there?—No, there was not.

5057. How many others?—There was Mr. Hill, Mr. Eaton, Mr. Eves, and a man of the name of Roe together. There was persons going backwards and forwards at the time.

J. Killen.

Re-examined by Mr. Henry James.

5058. What Roe was that?—He was a man living in the neighbourhood that canvasses that district.

5059. Do you know his Christian name?—I cannot say what his Christian name was.

5060. Where does he live?—He lives in Stephen-street.

[The Witness withdrew.

HARRY NICHOLLS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

5061. ARE you an elector of this city?—Yes.

5062. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson.

5063. Do you know Mr. Thomas Jackson the younger?—Yes.

5064. I believe he is a watchmaker?—Yes.

5065. And you also know John Priest, of Gilbert-street, weaver?—Yes.

5066. Did they at any time canvass you together?—Yes; about 10 days before the election.

5067. For whom?—For Mr. Hill and Eaton.

5068. Was there another person there, a Mr. Higginbotham?—Yes.

5069. Had he a canvassing book?—Yes.

5070. Had those gentlemen voting cards?—Mr. Higginbotham had the voting cards as well.

5071. But Mr. Priest and Mr. Thomas Jackson, the younger, were with Mr. Higginbotham?—Yes.

5072. Had you a card given you?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Henry James inquired whether the agency of Mr. Alfred Seymour was admitted.

275.

Mr. Huddleston stated that he had already admitted the agency of Mr. Alfred Seymour.

H. Nicholls.

Mr. Henry James called attention to the fact, that as to the items in the accounts rendered, commencing "Ready money payments for hire of room, canvass, and polling, and making house-roll of voters, directing, and distributing, and soliciting voting cards, &c., and for canvassing, and canvass books;" as to the item, "agents, poll and check clerks, and messengers at booths, and writing clerks, messengers, and door-keepers;" and as to the item, "Miss Sabin, for use of hotel, refreshments for agents, poll and check clerks, and writing clerks, and messengers;" no vouchers or detailed statement had been delivered according to the Statute. He then stated that that was the case for the Petitioners.

Mr. Huddleston requested that the Witness, Theophilus Fox, should be re-called.

Mr. Henry James stated that Fox was not at present in court, but that he should be ready to be examined at any time.

H. Nicholls.

18 February
1869.

Mr. Huddleston inquired whether Mr. Henry James would admit that Wagstaff, Farren, Cleaver, Ireland, Freeman, Makepeace, Jones, and Green had been brought here by the Petitioners, and discharged from their subpoenas, and sent home.

Mr. Henry James stated that the persons named had been in Coventry on subpoena, but that he was not aware whether or not they had been sent back.

Mr. Huddleston was heard to open the case for the Respondents.

HENRY WILLIAM EATON, Esq., a Member of the House of Commons, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

H.W. Eaton,
Esq., M.P.

5073. You are one of the Sitting Members for the city of Coventry?—I am.

5074. And I believe you have represented that city in Parliament for the last three Sessions?—I have.

5075. You first stood, I think, for Coventry in June 1865?—I did.

5076. That was on the vacancy occasioned by the death of Sir Joseph Paxton?—Yes.

5077. You were then, and have been since, connected with the principal staple trade of the city?—I have for 35 years.

5078. The silk trade?—The silk trade.

5079. At that election, I believe, you were opposed by Mr. Mason Jones, and you had a majority of nearly 300?—I had.

5080. And then the constituency was very much smaller than it is at present?—Yes, it was a little under 5,000.

5081. At the general election in August, I believe, you were again a candidate with Mr. Morgan Treherne?—I was.

5082. And you were opposed by Mr. Flowers and Mr. Jones, and were then elected?—I was.

5083. And at that election you were returned at the head of the poll?—I was, and by a similar majority, I think.

5084. Mr. Treherne died, I think, in the autumn of 1867, and there was a contest between Mr. Bousfield Ferrand and Mr. Jackson?—Yes.

5085. Mr. Jackson was successful; was unseated on petition; there was a new election, and a contest between Mr. Carter and Mr. Hill; Mr. Carter was successful, and Mr. Carter sat till the end of the Session?—Yes.

5086. In the year 1868, this last year, you again contested the city in the Conservative interest?—I did.

5087. The constituency, as we heard, was then increased by nearly 3,000, amounting to 7,925?—Yes.

5088. At that time Mr. Hill was your colleague?—He was.

5089. I believe at the time that the dissolution of Parliament took place Mr. Hill was not a candidate?—He was not.

5090. I believe he declined to stand?—He did.

5091. And you and he, I believe, came into the town on the 26th of October?—On the 26th of October.

5092. Your opponents had had the advance of you by a week, I think?—They had.

5093. Mr. Seymour was your paid agent?—He was.

5094. Was there any other paid agent but Mr. Seymour?—None.

5095. What directions did you give to Mr. Seymour with reference to the conduct of the election?—I gave most positive instructions that no illegal practice whatever should be resorted to.

5096. And we understand that the contest took place, and you and Mr. Hill were elected by the majorities which I have already mentioned?—Yes.

5097. We have had the returned expenses; have there been any more expenses paid than those which have been returned?—None.

5098. Had you any knowledge whatsoever of any corrupt practice?—None whatever.

5099. Did you in any way sanction or recognise anything of the sort?—Nothing of the sort.

5100. Have you paid or received any demands for anything beyond the returned amounts?—None whatever.

5101. Did you know (or did Mr. Hill attend to that) of the Leicester voters?—Mr. Hill and myself spoke about it, in the presence of Mr. Seymour, several times.

5102. At that time what was your position with reference to promises?—What I said to Mr. Seymour was this: "It is surely unnecessary to have those voters over; we have now a recognised majority of 160, surely they are not necessary."

5103. Did you hear Mr. Hill give the directions about the manner in which the Leicester voters should be brought over?—Certainly.

5104. What were the directions which he gave?—Mr. Hill and myself, in the presence of Mr. Seymour, said, that we could not bring those voters over at any cost or at any expense, nor could we provide any conveyance for them or pay them for their day's work, or give them anything to eat or drink on the way.

5105. That was said by Mr. Hill in the committee-room publicly, and directions were given to that effect?—It was said to Mr. Seymour by Mr. Hill and by myself; we were all there together.

5106. And those instructions were given?—They were.

5107. Had you a carriage at that time at Leicester?—No, my carriage was in Hertfordshire. I said, "If it is necessary to get a carriage I will send for my coachman and horses and carriage, and send it to Leicester."

5108. They said it was a gentleman dressed up in uniform; it was your own coachman, I believe?—It was my own coachman.

5109. Did you hear directions given that they should be taken up out of the town at Leicester and put down out of the town at Coventry, on purpose that they might not be brought near a public-house?—I did; they were not to be taken up at any public-house, or taken to any public-house.

5110. You gave directions that no payment of any kind was to be made to them?—Distinctly.

5111. And do you believe that those instructions have been carried out?—I do.

5112. Have you the slightest reason to suspect or know that those voters had one single sixpence?—Not the least in the world.

5113. There was a girl, of the name of Jane Barton, examined; did you see a black-eyed girl, girl, or a girl whose eyes were black, in the witness-box yesterday?—I did.

5114. She said that you canvassed her husband with Mr. Hedger and Mr. Markham, and that her husband said he would vote, but could not afford to lose his time; and that either you or Mr. Hill said, "Do not put yourself about, you shall be seen to"; did you say anything of the sort?—Certainly not.

5115. There was something said, I think, about your being present at Radford, when some treating or beer, or something of that kind was going on; do you know anything of that?—Nothing at all.

5116. Did you in any way sanction any beer or meat, or refreshments of any sort, being given to voters?—Never.

5117. I believe you earnestly desired to follow the provisions of the Act of Parliament, and you had before your eyes the folly of not doing so in the petitions which had been previously presented?—I did all I possibly could against giving anyone anything to eat or drink.

5118. That is the painful necessity which is placed upon candidates for seats in Parliament now?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

5119. You say that Mr. Alfred Seymour was your only paid professional agent?—Yes.

5120. Had you other professional gentlemen assisting you in the course of your election?—No, none whatever.

5121. I don't mean paid for their services, but had you other solicitors who volunteered their services and assisted you?—I don't know that there were any services rendered; but Mr. Twist called occasionally upon me, and Mr. Dewes called.

5122. Are you aware that your agent for election expenses was a clerk of Mr. Dewes?—No, I was not; I think not.

5123. Who is your agent?—A Mr. Neale, a farmer.

5124. Is he the father of Mr. Dewes's clerk?—I really do not know; I didn't know that Mr. Dewes had a clerk of the name of Neale.

5125. Do you know that his son is an articled clerk in Mr. Dewes's office?—No, I do not.

5126. Do you know young Mr. Neale?—I don't think I do.

5127. Were you consulted as to who should be your agent for election expenses?—No.

5128. Who selected him?—Mr. Hill and myself; he has acted before with me.

5129. Whoselected Mr. Neale?—Mr. Alderman Lynes introduced him to me.

5130. Would it be Mr. Seymour who would furnish to him all accounts of all your expenses?—I should think so.

5131. There would be no one else to whom he could apply for an account, but to Mr. Seymour, I presume?—Certainly not.

5132. He would be responsible to you, of course?—Certainly.

5133. And he would be your agent for that purpose; did you take a sufficiently active part in your own election to know on what system it was managed?—Certainly, I did.

5134. Was it divided into ward districts?—Yes.

5135. Had you ward managers?—There were ward managers, certainly.

5136. Had you district committees in each ward?—No, I do not think so. There were no committee-rooms or anything of that kind.

5137. When you say ward managers, may I ask you to explain, first, how many ward managers there would be?—I think there are 11 wards, and in each of those wards there was a ward manager.

5138. Only one?—There is a chairman and a deputy chairman, and two or three others of that sort.

5139. Were they chairmen and deputy chairmen of any body?—I don't know, they went about canvassing with me.

5140. When you say "chairmen" and "deputy chairmen," that conveys to my mind (perhaps erroneously) that they would take the chair on some occasions?—I only know that they are always called chairmen and deputy chairmen of those wards.

5141. Did you not also learn that there was a body over which they were chairmen and deputy chairmen?—I did not, indeed.

5142. Then all you had in each ward apparently was a gentleman who took the chair opposite a deputy chairman?—Exactly; they were merely called so. There were meetings in those wards.

5143. From whom could I get a list of those ward managers?—I should think Mr. Seymour would give them to you.

5144. Do you know them?—I think most of them; I have generally canvassed each ward with them.

5145. Is Mr. Kilbey a ward manager?—I think he is, but I really could not tell of what ward.

5146. Mr. James Kilbey?—Yes, I believe it is Mr. James Kilbey.

5147. Is Mr. Daniel Hunt Clare a ward manager?—Yes, I think so.

5148. Was Mr. James Mann a ward manager or deputy ward manager?—I think so.

5149. I will not trouble you to go through all those, but probably a list could be obtained, I presume?—Certainly.

5150. Do you know a Mr. John Askton of the Conservative Working Men's Association?—I do not, not to my recollection at the moment.

5151. Do you know a man of the name of Ashton?—I do not.

5152. He seems to be employed in folding bills and sending out bills?—I do not know him.

5153. You know Mr. Thomas Jackson, I presume; there are a father and son?—I do not know them at all.

5154. Do you know a man of the name of John Moore, a watchmaker?—No.

5155. Probably you can obtain a list of ward managers?—I will get a list from Mr. Seymour.

5156. Probably Mr. Seymour would know much more about the organisation than yourself?—Much more.

Mr. Justice Willes.] It is rather material to know with which of those persons the witness came into contact so as to recognise them, but they can be ticked off, because this affects the question of agency.

5157. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] It has been mentioned by your learned counsel, that one of your sons was at Leicester; will you give me his Christian name, if you please?—Henry.

5158. He is here, I believe?—He is here.

5159. You have mentioned the name of Alderman Lynes; is he a director of the Coventry Union Bank?—I think he is.

N 3

5160. And

H. W. Eaton,
Esq., M.P.

18 February
1869.

5160. And I believe there is another gentleman, Mr. Alderman Wyley, who is also a director of that bank?—I think so.

5161. Did those gentlemen, both upon this and previous elections of yours, render you their support?—They always voted for me.

5162. They were, with deference to others, the leaders or amongst the leaders of the Conservative party here?—They were amongst them.

5163. They also, I believe, take a somewhat active part in the management of the bank as directors, do they not?—They do; that is to say I have heard so, I have no other knowledge than that I believe they do. I have no connection with the bank, I am not a proprietor or anything of that sort.

5165. Did you learn from Mr. Rotherham that he had given his cheque by way of security to the bank, to be drawn against for a certain amount?—Certainly not.

5166. Probably it will be more convenient and better in every way if we just take what you did learn?—Merely that Mr. Alick Rotherham had a claim against Mr. Hill, and he came up to consult me about it, and I said, "You had better see Mr. Hill on the subject." That is all I know about it.

5167. For moneys advanced by Mr. Rotherham?—I do not know what it was for. I did not know that it was for moneys that he had advanced.

5168. You have told us that Mr. Rotherham came to consult you?—Yes; he said that he had a claim against Mr. Hill.

5169. Therefore, I presume, you went into the subject with him?—I did not, indeed, more than that.

5170. Do I understand you that all he said was that he had a claim against Mr. Hill?—Yes. He mentioned the amount, I believe.

5171. What was the amount?—I think it was about 800 l.

5172. Was that in relation to the election of March 1868?—I should think it was; it must have been.

5173. For moneys advanced by Mr. Rotherham?—I do not know whether he had advanced the money or not.

5174. Mr. Justice Willes.] Did you state that you had heard that Mr. Rotherham had given the security?—He had a claim. I did not know of any security.

5175. Mr. Henry James.] Did you learn whether Mr. Rotherham paid the money to the bank, or had paid it in any other direction?—I know nothing whatever about it.

5176. I hope you will not misunderstand my words?—Not in the least.

5177. Have you told us now all you know from your communications with Mr. Rotherham?—Everything that I know.

5178. When was that communication made to you?—I should think it must have been some short time after the March election of 1868, on Mr. Hill's election.

5179. Mr. Hill did refuse in the first instance to come forward, or at least he did not come forward as your colleague, until late in the day, I believe?—He did not. There were peculiar reasons which, I have no doubt, he will explain.

5180. When was it arranged that Mr. Hill should come forward?—I think a week or 10 days before we came down here together.

5181. Did you make any inquiry to learn whether that sum claimed had been discharged?—No.

5182. You have stated that you have paid no sum beyond the amount that is returned?—None whatever.

5183. Have you paid any sum into the bank?—I have paid 1,100 l. into the bank; that is to say, when I first came down here, Mr. Gray paid 600 l. on the part of Mr. Hill, into the bank, and I paid 500 l.; but there was an understanding between Mr. Hill and myself about the expenses of this election, and, in order that you might clearly understand it, I have not the slightest objection to place this letter in your hand, which I have no doubt you will hand to his Lordship after you have read it (handing a letter to the learned Counsel). This is a letter from a friend of Mr. Hill's to me.

5184. Who is the writer of this letter?—Mr. Gray.

5185. He occupies towards you simply the position of a friend of Mr. Hill's?—Yes. (A copy of the letter was handed to his Lordship by Mr. Hill.)

5186. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] Have you any objection to Mr. Leigh's seeing it?—Not the slightest. I have no doubt Mr. Hill will give it you himself fully when he is examined.

5187. Will you take that letter back (handing the letter back to the Witness); with reference to the paragraph numbered "1st," has that clause been carried out?—Fully and entirely.

5188. I need scarcely ask you has the "4th," too?—Entirely; this has entirely been carried out.

5189. Did you write a reply to that, or did you see the writer?—I did. I accepted it.

5190. Mr. Justice Willes.] You accepted it in all its particulars?—I did.

5191. Who is Mr. Gray?—He is a friend of my colleague's.

5192. Mr. Henry James.] I suppose I may take him as the representative and the agent in this matter of Mr. Hill?—Exactly.

5193. You have mentioned a sum of 1,100 l. which you paid into the bank?—Yes.

5194. When was that?—That was on the 27th or 28th of October, or a day or two afterwards.

5195. Would you allow me to ask you again; I think you said that Mr. Gray paid in 600 l.?—Mr. Gray paid in 600 l.; but really I do not know what for. Directly he had done so, I gave him a cheque immediately for it.

5196. May I take it, then, that you knew nothing of the repayment of the 800 l.?—Nothing. I have heard that it has been paid. I really do not know more than that.

5197. Mr. Justice Willes.] The 500 l. was paid into the bank by you, and the 600 l. by Mr. Hill?—Yes.

5198. For what?—To the account of the election agent.

5199. Mr.

5199. Mr. Henry James.] That letter is dated the 14th of October, I think?—Yes.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I cannot understand this, unless this was a loan by Mr. Hill to Mr. Eaton.

5200. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] A letter had been written, containing what we have read, upon the 14th of October?—Yes.

5201. The payment by you of 500 l. was upon the 27th or 28th?—Yes, I paid the 500 l. and the 600 l. too.

5202. But did you pay in the first instance into the bank the 600 l., or the 500 l.?—The 500 l.

5203. With the knowledge both in your mind, and that of Mr. Gray, of the contents of the letter; why should Mr. Gray have paid anything into the bank?—I really do not know. I say that immediately I heard he had done so, I gave him a cheque. There was not the least reason in the world why he should have done so.

5204. Had that anything to do with the previous claim that had been made by Mr. Rotherham?—None whatever. On the contrary, it had nothing to do with anything but this simple election.

5205. But, referring to the letter, there could have been no necessity for him to do it?—There was no necessity; none whatever.

5206. Where was Mr. Gray at the time?—He was in Coventry.

5207. I am not saying it to raise a laugh; but you were not, of course, in such a position as to want anybody to assist you; I believe it was just the reverse?—To pay anything for me? No. I do not think so.

5208. That has not occurred to you lately I should think?—No, not for many years, I am happy to say.

5209. And is not likely to?—I hope not.

5210. Was Mr. Gray here?—He was.

5211. And he assisted Mr. Hill in his election, did he not?—He did; he came down for a day or two when Mr. Hill first came down.

5212. When did he repay that to Mr. Gray?—Immediately; the same day, I think. I said it was totally unnecessary, and I gave him a cheque for it immediately. He thought he had better do it; he gave me no reason for doing it.

5213. Did you remind him that the letter (perhaps you will not object to my saying this in public) rendered it perfectly unnecessary that he should have done it?—It was totally unnecessary. I said it was totally unnecessary to do this, and I gave him a cheque immediately.

5214. Did he tell you that he had done it in order that the bank persons might not know what he had written in that letter?—No, I do not think anyone does know the terms of this letter, except Mr. Hill and myself.

5215. And, of course, Mr. Gray?—Yes, I beg your pardon, I mean Mr. Gray, on the part of Mr. Hill.

5216. Was it arranged that it should be kept secret from the bank?—No, certainly not.

5217. Did you know in what way Mr. Gray had paid that money, whether out of his own private resources, or whether it had been paid in cheque, or in what way?—He paid his own cheque, I should think.

5218. Your cheque with which you paid him, I suppose?—I did.

275.

5219. It would be, of course, on your London banker?—It would.

5220. You would not bank here, I suppose?—No.

5221. Was it paid into the bank in the joint names of Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill's account?—I believe it was.

5222. So far as the bank could know, therefore, it would appear to be a mutual and joint payment in the relative proportion of six to five by you and the other gentlemen?—Certainly.

5223. And of course, so far as you know, the bank, to this day, have no knowledge of the contents of that letter?—I do not think they have; indeed I am sure they have not. The letter was purely confidential.

5224. I do not wish to annoy you by asking you again; you never had mentioned to you anything at all about that claim of Mr. Rotherham since?—Never more than that it had been settled and paid.

5225. Do you know that an endeavour was made to find another gentleman to be a colleague of yours before Mr. Hill became a candidate?—No, I do not think there ever was any such endeavour made.

5226. Do you know Mr. Darlington?—Of where?

5227. Of Meriden Hall?—I do not know him.

5228. You never heard of him or anybody being appealed to, to be a candidate, because Mr. Hill would not discharge that sum of 800 l.?—Never.

5229. Who had the power of drawing upon the 1,100 l.?—Mr. Neale, the agent; I should think no one else.

5230. Did you give authority?—To Mr. Neale?

5231. To draw cheques?—Yes, certainly.

5232. As far as you know, of course, the burden of the obligation being upon you; at least, you having paid that money to Mr. Gray, a further sum had to be paid in, and you would be the person to do so?—No.

5233. Have you paid that further sum?—I paid 187 l. the other day, which I was asked for the other day by Mr. Seymour, for the town clerk's expenses.

5234. That would make a sum of 1,287 l.?—Yes, and a few shillings.

5235. Is that all that you have paid?—All at present.

5236. At present?—Yes, there is a balance of the account.

5237. You say that you have had no demand made upon you for any further sum; you have not paid all your returned accounts yet?—I have not.

5238. How is that?—Because I have not been asked for it.

5239. Who has found the money?—I really do not know. When Mr. Seymour applies to me for the balance of my account, I shall pay him, of course.

5240. I understood that the accounts returned showed the amount paid; did you understand that or not?—I understand that those are the accounts that are to be paid.

5241. Has Mr. Seymour rendered you any account?—I saw that account that was returned.

5242. Did you learn who had been paid, and to whom

H. W. Eaton,
Esq., M.P.

18 February
1869.

H.W. Eaton, whom there was any indebtedness?—No, I did not.
Esq., M.P.

18 February 1869. 5243. Nor did you inquire?—No.
5244. Nor did Mr. Seymour tell you?—No, he applied to me the other day for this sum of 187*l*.

5245. There would be a balance of somewhere about 100*l*. still left?—Yes.

5246. May I ask you, did you make no inquiry as to what portion of the 1,400*l*. and odd had been paid and what had not?—I did not.

5247. So that you do understand that there are to be further sums to be paid by you?—I understand that there is a balance of those accounts returned to be paid.

5248. Do you know whether this 1,100*l*. had been entirely withdrawn from the bank?—I do not think it has quite.

5249. Then there will be more than 124*l*. not paid?—I should think there would be.

5250. Did you make any inquiry at all as to what that amount was, or did you leave it to your agent?—I left that entirely to my agent.

5251. Did you learn from your agent that several sums, one of which was 500*l*. odd, he had no vouchers for, or none to produce?—I did not.

5252. Had you no discussion with him upon the subject?—None whatever.

5253. Of course, it was natural that you should leave that to your legal adviser to take the course that he thought right?—Certainly.

5254. Of course you have no time fixed when this settlement of your account is to be made?—None whatever.

5255. It is left to the period when Mr. Seymour chooses to apply to you?—Exactly.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

5256. I suppose the whole of that you have left entirely to Mr. Seymour, your legal agent?—Certainly.

5257. And he will be able to explain what is paid, and what is not paid, and you are prepared to give a cheque for the balance?—Certainly.

5258. Do you intend, or have you promised to give a cheque, or to pay one single farthing more than what appears in the published accounts?—Certainly not.

5259. Mr. Hill stood in March 1868?—He did.

5260. And you learn that there was on that occasion afterwards, a claim made against him by Mr. Rotherham, of 800*l*.?—Yes.

5261. And when they came to you, you referred them to Mr. Hill?—Yes.

5262. Have you learned that that money had been paid by Mr. Hill to Mr. Rotherham?—I have heard that certainly.

5263. And you have had nothing at all to do with it?—Nothing whatever, in any shape or form.

5264. Was that long before Mr. Hill ever intended to stand, or ever stood for Coventry?—It was shortly after the election of March 1868.

5265. And after that money had been paid by Mr. Hill, did you learn that Mr. Hill had declined to stand for Coventry again?—Certainly.

5266. And you had nothing whatever to do with the payment of that money?—Nothing whatever.

5267. With reference to the other arrangement, that you say was made at the time that that bears date?—It was.

5268. Did you learn that at that time Mr. Hill was thinking of standing for one of the divisions of the county of Stafford?—I understood that he had been solicited to stand for his own county.

5269. The arrangement that you had made was embodied in that?—Yes.

5270. I just want to ask you one or two questions; my learned friend asked you something about the ward managers; do you learn that the ward managers are elected by the people in the wards themselves?—I cannot say how they are elected; I know that there are ward managers.

5271. Have you anything to do with the appointment of them?—Nothing whatever.

5272. You had nothing to do with their nomination, or with their appointment?—Nothing whatever in any shape or form.

5273. I believe, as far as you know, it is done by the voters themselves?—I suppose so; I believe so.

5274. You had no voice in the matter, or influence with them, or anything?—None whatever, in any shape or form.

5275. You were asked something about Ashton; have you anything to do in the appointment of secretary, or any of the officers of the Conservative Association?—Certainly not.

5276. That is quite independent of you?—Quite so.

5277. Mr. Henry James.] Would you object to my having a copy of that letter?—I will place it in your own hands, if you like, for a time, and I will give you a copy of my answer to this note. That is what I think you require, and you shall have that note.

5278. Mr. Justice Willes.] When you learned that Mr. Hill had paid the 600*l*. into the bank —?—Mr. Gray, a friend of Mr. Hill, paid it.

5279. But that would be the same as Mr. Hill; he paid it for him?—Yes, he did.

5280. When did you learn that first?—Immediately it had been done; within an hour afterwards.

5281. On the 27th of October?—On the 27th or 28th of October.

5282. Will you let me look at the letter again?—Certainly (handing the letter to his Lordship); that is the original letter. It was the day after I came down that it took place.

5283. Did you, when you heard of it, give the cheque immediately?—I did within an hour, immediately; I had no idea that he was going to do it.

5284. Have you the pass-book of that account?—Yes, certainly; you mean my cheque-book.

5285. I mean the 1,100*l*.?—It is with the agent, he has that; I did not draw cheques.

5286. Mr. Neale was the person; the agent for election expenses?—Yes.

5287. But he was your agent, and I therefore thought you might have the pass-book?—He will have the pass-book.

5288. I am

5288. I am not asking you about your pass-book, that has nothing to do with it; I mean the pass-book as between Neale and the bank.

Mr. Huddleston stated that the pass-book should be produced.

Mr. Justice Willes intimated that he might think it necessary to look at the pass-book, under the special circumstances referred to in the 11th section of the Act of Parliament.

[The Witness withdrew.]

H. W. Eaton,
Esq., M.P.
18 February
1869

ALEXANDER STAVELEY HILL, Esq., a Member of the House of Commons, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

5289. YOU are now one of the Members for this city?—I am.

5290. And I believe the first time you came down here was in the election of March last year?—It was the first time that I came down here as a candidate.

5291. We have had the result of all the polls since then, but we have not gone back; I dare say you have made inquiries as to the polls before that, in the year 1863, when Mr. Morgan Treherne and Mr. Arthur Wellesley Peel contested the city?—No, I do not know those returns.

5292. It appears that the Conservatives were in a majority then; we have heard the result of the March election of 1868, and after that was over?—I was defeated by a majority of about 280.

5293. After it was over was a claim made upon you in respect of it?—About three weeks after the election there was a claim made upon me for a sum of money, which it was alleged had been expended upon that election.

5294. When was it that you settled that claim?—There was a circumstance in one's life which prevented one's being able to attend to it at that time, or it would have been settled at a very much earlier date; but I believe the final settlement of all my Coventry accounts, in fact I am sure that the final settlement of all my Coventry accounts, took place somewhere about the 6th or 7th of July, the real settlement having taken place at same time, about a month earlier, but the cheque would be dated on the final settlement of accounts on the 7th of July 1868. From that time I have entirely discharged myself with regard to Coventry.

5295. Mr. Justice Willes.] I understand that the 800 l. was paid off as early as the 7th of July 1868?—The 7th of July 1868. I find the counterfoil of my cheque-book (I unfortunately have not it in my pocket, but I will bring it for Mr. James, if he wants it) is marked "final settlement of Coventry accounts."

5296. Mr. Gates.] Was that by the payment of the 800 l.?—It was a payment of the balance of all that was due; I do not know the sum.

5297. And after that was any further claim ever made upon you with reference to the election?—Not for one penny. And perhaps I may add here, that at that time I did not know that the matter had ever been mentioned to Mr. Eaton, nor that he was in any way acquainted with the fact that there have been those claims made; in fact, I believe I had not seen or spoken to Mr. Eaton upon the Coventry election from the day that I returned up to that date.

5298. We will pass on from that. I think you did refuse several times to stand again here in the autumn, before you ultimately consented?—I have put the whole correspondence upon the subject together; they are private letters; they are letters passing between Mr. Lynes and myself, and Mr. Eaton and myself, and Mr. Gerard Noel and myself, and Mr. Spofforth, writing on behalf of certain persons and myself, pressing me to stand for Coventry; the first of which is dated some time, I think, in September. The first letter is the 18th of September, and the last, I think, is the 8th of October.

5299. After that last letter of the 8th of October, I think you consented to stand?—I find that the letter which came from Mr. Alderman Lynes (perhaps I may refer his Lordship to that one) is the one in which Mr. Lynes begins: "Mr. Eaton had written to two others in Coventry, that you would stand with him; this prevented a requisition, asking you to stand, as it soon got abroad that you are coming, and it is announced in to-day's 'Coventry Standard,' which I send. The committee met at Dr. Lynes' last night, and were all pleased with the announcement. Mr. Alick Rotherham told me, last week, that we could not do better than have Mr. Hill as Mr. Eaton's colleague. I summoned the chairman and managers of the wards at 10 a.m. to-day, and they are all satisfied at the result of your communications with Mr. Eaton, and will commence the canvass to-morrow." Then Mr. Lynes puts this in turned commas: "I explained at the meeting that the canvass must be worked on the voluntary principle, and that any man who promised a voter money for work performed, or any voter who received money for canvassing, &c., and who afterwards voted, subjected himself to be prosecuted for a misdemeanour." That is the end of the turned commas. "They all understand the law, and said their men would work without any promise of fee or reward." Then he goes on to speak about the Irish Church, and so on.

5300. In the whole of that correspondence is there one word adverting to any claim made upon you with reference to the previous election?—Most certainly not.

5301. Then I think you came down here somewhere towards the end of October?—Somewhere about that time. I believe it was one day in August that I agreed to stand for my own county, West Staffordshire. They pressed me very strongly to stand; but afterwards Mr. Smith Child was brought forward, in connection with Mr. Meynell Ingram, and I made up my mind not to stand for Parliament; and I refused that and three other offers to stand for different constituencies; and I went down to Westmoreland, and determined to keep myself entirely free from all election contests.

5302. About the 8th or 9th of October you came here?—Yes.

5303. Had you made inquiries about the result of the new Registration Bill in the particular constituency?—A letter which you will find returned to Mr. Lynes; in one of those letters had told us that there was an increase in the constituency of something like 3,500, and that the improvement in favour of the Conservative registration was 360.

O

5304. You

A. S. Hill,
Esq., M.P.

A. S. Hill,
Esq., M.P.

18 February
1869.

5304. You having been beaten by a majority of 280 before?—I looked upon it that the majority, in calculating the matter over in my own mind, of 280 might be fairly put down, and 40 struck off on account of its being a losing election, there being 40 or more who had not voted; and the other 40 was certainly out of the unpopularity of my standing upon the vacant seat of Mr. Jackson. If I had gone to the poll the morning I came down there would have been a majority of 600. The people gradually saw that it was not my petition, or that my party had anything to do with it, but still there was some feeling remaining.

5305. You saw, in your own mind, a clear majority, when you came down?—A clear majority of 150 or 160.

5306. Mr. Seymour was the joint agent, I think, of Mr. Eaton and yourself?—Mr. Seymour was appointed the joint agent for Mr. Eaton and myself.

5307. Had you yourself given him any instructions as to the principles upon which the contest was to be carried on?—They were in the words, as nearly as possible, that Mr. Eaton has already given.

5308. With regard to these Leicester voters, we have heard Mr. Eaton say that his own carriage and servants were sent to Leicester?—Yes.

5309. Did you give any instructions there publicly in the room, before that arrangement was made, and before any one was sent over to Leicester?—I did. I understood that the greater number of the Leicester voters were men who, living in Coventry since the last registration, had obtained work in Leicester, as work was slack in Coventry; and we discussed the carriage going in the manner Mr. Eaton has said. It was on a dull November evening, some time just as it was getting dusk; there being some six or seven persons in our sitting-room, and especially a Mr. Henry Eaton, who was going over upon the matter; I believe the words I used, as nearly as I can recollect them, were these: "Now, we shall not want these men; we are told we can win the election well without them, but as they are promised to come, and the carriage is going for them, let them come." I said this very strongly, and I saw the people were absolutely impressed with the words I was saying. I said, "Do not let them be taken up at a public-house, or be put down at a public-house, or call at a public-house, if you can help it, on the way; and, above all, let them be left behind sooner than they should have one single shilling."

5310. What majority did your canvass books show at that time?—I was told on the Sunday night, the nomination being on the Monday and the polling on the Tuesday, that our return showed a majority of 161.

5311. There was no central committee-room, we hear?—No. The room at the "King's Head" is divided into two parts, one being the public room and the other our own private sitting-room. To that public room, of course, persons went who required to be seen on any matters connected with the election; but there was no committee-room, so far as I know, and, in fact, I know that there was not. When Mr. Eaton and I first came down we said that the great expense of the country elections had been all (I believe I may use the word, and I used it then) fuddling at public-houses, and we would not have it, and we never held one single meeting at a public-house; Mr.

Eaton and I never went near a public-house, except those three instances of the outlying parishes, Radford, Willenhall, and Whitley, where we had to go sometimes about eight or nine o'clock in the evening, having no other way of seeing the voters. It would have taken nearly a week to have canvassed them without doing so, and our only opportunity of meeting them was by meeting them at those public-houses which have been mentioned. At two out of those three public-houses, at Radford, Willenhall, and Whitley, there certainly was not a glass, so far as I remember, in the room; and at the other one we adjourned from the little room where we were, in which, if I remember right, there were some five or six men sitting, drinking, and smoking their pipes, simply because the number could not be accommodated in the first room that we went into.

5312. At either of those three public houses did you or your colleague sanction any drinking or treating?—Certainly not; we each of us made a short speech, just a word or two, to each of the voters, who seemed to expect it, and came off. In one instance it lasted about 10 minutes, and in one, I think, a few minutes more.

5313. You heard that woman, yesterday, Mrs. Jane Barton, say that you canvassed her husband, and that he said he could not afford to lose his time. Did you yourself say to her what she said, that you said that she should be seen to, and that she need not put herself about, or words to that effect?—I never, to any person in Coventry, said anything of that sort. I do not pretend to recollect the woman; I have some little sort of dreamy recollection of the woman's face, but I certainly never said anything of that kind, or anything to that effect, to any person in Coventry.

5314. In the course of your canvass, of course you were accompanied from time to time by different people to show you the places?—Yes.

5315. Had either of the persons who so accompanied you on your canvass authority to approach any of the voters improperly?—Most distinctly not.

5316. On the contrary, had you given them any directions at all as to what they were to do?—It was repeated so often, that I think they could scarcely have failed to have heard it. I do not mean to say that I gave directions to each of them.

5317. Were you aware of, or did you at all sanction or approve, any improper or illegal approach of the voters?—I certainly did not.

5318. Nor were you aware of it in any way?—Certainly not.

5319. After the election we know that this petition was presented?—Yes.

5320. Shortly after the petition was presented, was there a statement put forward about your retirement?—The petition was kept a secret from us, so that we did not know that it was going to be presented, and the first intimation I had of it was, in a Monday's "Times," in which I saw, accompanied with a notice, that there was a petition; these words, "We understand that the sitting Members are about to retire." That was the first intimation that I had of the petition.

5321. Was it after that, or was it in any way due to that, that you came down and held a public meeting here?—Most distinctly it was after that, and upon that, and as far as the speech which Mr. James has quoted is concerned, I may say that that I certainly did not intend to suborn anybody to commit perjury or to do anything of the sort. I have the speech as I read it in the "Standard," and I should like it to be handed in to my Lord: It contains those words which Mr. James quoted, but it contains other words before them, which are not in the report which he quoted.

5322. Then it was to show your determination to assert your right?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

5323. As to the speech I read to you, I understand those words were used by you, but with a context you say?—If you will read them to me, I will find them in this paragraph which I read at the time, and which I know is a careful report of my speech.

5324. Let me read to you this passage towards the end of your speech. "Suppose that the elder vilifier of his native town" (that is Mr. Carter), "and the younger one who trod in the slimy trail" (that is Mr. Jackson), "succeeded in bringing down a Commission to inquire into the whole affair, what would probably be the result? Why, that they would probably have Coventry reported against. No doubt they would be glad to see their foul, contemptible, disgraceful jealousy appeased by Coventry being disfranchised."—I think this is much more nearly a correct report of what I said. The whole passage is, "Now I would ask what could be the result, supposing for one moment, which I don't believe, that they could unseat us, what would they gain? (Hear hear). Do you think you would not have in our places two far better men, perhaps only equally Conservative as Mr. Eaton and myself? (cries of 'No, there can't be better,' and cheers). Do you think that you would allow, that Coventry would allow, the seats vacated by Mr. Eaton and myself to be filled by Carter and Jackson, or their nominees? (tremendous cries of 'No, no'); but suppose they were to go further than that, supposing they were to get a further inquiry, and were to succeed in bringing down a commission of inquiry? Why, if Coventry was reported against, they would be glad to see it." Then came the words "Their foul, contemptible, disgraceful jealousy would be appeased by Coventry being disfranchised (prolonged groans). That is what they aim at; that is what they seek; and I ask, with no voice to represent your interests in Parliament, would it not be the last blow for the old city of Coventry? (loud cries of hear hear). One of these things must take place; either Mr. Eaton and I will come out unscathed by the petition, or some other two Conservatives will mount into our seats, or Coventry will cease to return Members to Parliament. These are the three things which may result from this petition; one of them they must have, and I believe, in their mean, contemptible jealousy, they don't care if they have the last." That is the whole passage; it is the speech of a rather angry person I admit.

5325. That says nothing about the "elder vilifier," or the "slimy trail"?—I believe there was something about that.

5326. Can you at all tell us now how those words were left out of that paper; did you correct the proof?—I saw the proof myself, but I did not correct it; I do not remember that I cut those words out, but I should have been very sorry that they should be printed if I had used them.

275.

5327. Mr. Eaton has mentioned that you contemplated at one time being a candidate for a division of your native county?—I did.

5328. When was that intention given up?—I can give you the date if you will let me send for my despatch box, because I have my announcement, which appeared in all the papers, withdrawing from the contest. It was shortly before the end of the circuit, I should think, in all probability, and therefore about the end of the last week in August.

5329. About the 30th of August?—I should think about then, but I have my farewell address.

5330. May I take this as being to some extent the result that you were requested and pressed both by gentlemen of this town, who entertain Conservative views in politics, and also by persons elsewhere, to become a candidate here?—Most certainly.

5331. And for a time you refused?—I did, till the 8th of October.

5332. On the ground that at that time you did not contemplate that your chance was so successful as it turned out to be?—No, that had nothing to do with it; I did not consider the chances.

5333. Speaking as to your probability of success, and as to the money you had spent here, did you not on those grounds decline?—I put forward those grounds to the person to whom that letter was written, who seemed to think that one must give something more than private reasons; but you will find that the private reasons are put as the primary reasons. I am quite willing to be judged entirely by the letter; it represents entirely the case as I put it.

5334. As to those objections, as regards your chances of success, you began to see that they would be better; I suppose, when the registration took place, you found, on inquiry, that you had a good chance of success?—Yes.

5335. And was not, also, another reason that you put forward here removed; namely, the expenditure?—Certainly; you will find, I think, from the letter, that that was so.

5336. Without mentioning the names of third persons, you were put in communication with Mr. Eaton, and the result was, the letter of October the 14th?—I was always, I suppose, almost every day of the week, in communication with the third person to whom you allude at that time, but I had two telegrams to ask me to come down to Coventry, which I did not answer.

5337. The result was that the letter of the 14th of October removed one of the objections you had taken to coming here?—It made me consent to stand.

5338. The terms contained in that letter made you consent to stand?—It was upon that letter that I consented to stand. I never spoke to anybody about it, and therefore the letters exactly represent what took place.

5339. I am not saying it in flattery, and you will perceive that there is a substantial reason for my saying it; probably you will admit or agree that your standing with Mr. Eaton was of some assistance and benefit to him?—I do not know that it was, further than that he had a man to stand with him who, like himself, had already contested the city; I will not say an eloquent, but an experienced gentleman. He might have found a more eloquent and experienced gentleman a great deal.

A. S. Hill,
Esq., M.P.

18 February
1869.

5340. Did you not render to Mr. Eaton assistance during the course of the election, particularly at the public meetings?—I worked as well as I could, both for Mr. Eaton and myself.

5341. And spoke?—My speeches you have referred to.

5342. You did not always, I suppose, refer to "slimy trials," and things of that description?—Not always.

5343. But you stated things as forcibly as you could, both on behalf of Mr. Eaton and yourself?—Mr. Eaton stated his own, I believe; Mr. Eaton stated his views; I never spoke without Mr. Eaton speaking also.

5344. Do you remember the fourth article of the treaty?—I have not read the letter for some time.

5345. You will find what it is (handing a paper to Witness) as to loyalty and truth; it is in Mr. Gray's letter; that was fully carried out, and he assisted you and you assisted him in your contest, to the best of your ability?—Yes; it is not a thing that I could call carrying out, but I hope we were both of us loyal and true to each other.

5346. I dare say when you canvassed you asked a voter to vote for Mr. Eaton rather than for yourself, and Mr. Eaton conversely did the same?—I believe we both did more than that; I believe we said, "We do not care about having the vote if you do not vote for both of us."

5347. I was going to say, working like brothers; perhaps you would not object to my saying, like Siamese twins. You published your election expenses in March 1868?—That has really gone out of my mind, and I have very little recollection about it.

5348. Could you tell me this (I am sure if you can you will tell me): was that sum of 800*l.*, or whatever it was, paid in excess of the published expenses?—I do not think that I ever saw the published expenses; I do not believe that I ever saw them.

5349. Would Mr. Alick Rotherham, as he is termed, or anybody else, know what that 800*l.* that you paid represented?—I do not know. If you ask me what I believe it represented, I can tell you; it is my belief that it went to pay a number of public-house bills, and it was that that made us so strong that we would not have any public-houses open; I believe, myself, that it went mostly, if not all, in public-house bills.

5350. Which would of course be unpublished expenses?—I suppose they were, but that I cannot tell you; it made one determine never to have a public-house opened again, or a shilling spent in that way in the election.

5351. Mr. Justice Willes.] Did you authorise those public-houses being opened?—No; I was not asked for it till three weeks were over, then I was asked, as a man of honour, to pay it, and I paid it. It was a lesson to me which I shall not forget. I had no doubt that the money had been paid, and therefore I repaid it to the gentleman who had paid it.

5352. Mr. Henry James.] Perhaps it is but due to you to say, that your payment of that money, as you have stated to-day (and I assure you I accept it from you), had nothing to do with your coming down to the election on the present occasion?—Not in the least; it was not until I saw that fourth paragraph in the petition that my mind was ever turned to that; then I asked for particulars, and you gave me the names of the directors of the bank, which very much helped me.

5353. Is Mr. Gray a member of the bar?—Nominally so; he has been called to the bar.

5354. He was acting as your friend. Will you give your explanation why Mr. Gray should, on the 27th or 28th of October, pay that sum of 600*l.* into the bank?—Yes, I have no doubt as to what was the reason; Mr. Gray thought that if it appeared that Mr. Eaton was bearing the expenses of this election it would place me in not so good a position, and that, therefore, as even banking matters do ooze out, it would be better to place 500*l.* to Mr. Eaton, and 600*l.* to me; I have no doubt that was the reason, although I cannot say that I absolutely know it.

5355. Mr. Gray found the money himself, and none of it came from you?—None of it came from me; I believe he gave his cheque on the Bank of England for it; but I have since heard that Mr. Eaton recouped him within three hours afterwards.

5356. Then the treaty of the 14th of October was in the first instance a secret one, and this payment was made in that shape to maintain the secrecy of it?—It was as between two gentlemen; it was not to be made public.

5357. Then was not the object of Mr. Gray's payment into the bank to keep those terms secret?—It was with the object that I have told you.

5358. With the object that it might not be known?—With the object that I have told you.

5359. Was it not with the object that the directors and gentlemen of the bank, who were well known in this town, should not know that Mr. Eaton was paying in the whole amount?—I have no doubt about it.

5360. And you did not object to what Mr. Gray had done?—I did not know of it.

5361. But afterwards?—I believe I did not know it till Mr. Eaton gave his cheque, and I am not quite sure whether I ever knew it till afterwards. Mr. Gray was acting for me at the time (he was not afterwards), just that day, and the next day, and then he left.

5362. Did you afterwards take any share at all in looking at the election accounts, or were they submitted to you, as you had not quite so material an interest in them as Mr. Eaton. Did you at all investigate them?—In this November election?

5363. In this November election?—No.

5364. Mr. Seymour did not submit them to you?—No; Mr. Seymour, I think, one day in my chambers, whilst talking about the petition, produced the accounts, and I believe I looked over them, but I was not consulted upon them.

5365. It would not be called to your attention that there were not vouchers to any account?—Vouchers were not there; I knew nothing about vouchers.

5366. You are not certain whether they represent the amount paid, or an amount of indebtedness?—Not at all; I did not ask Mr. Eaton whether he had given a cheque for the balance.

5367. You knew that there were voters both at Leicester, London, Birmingham, and other places, I presume?—I don't think I knew of any London voters, except, I think, I once heard of some man being in London, but I had no clear knowledge of their being any London voters.

5368. But you knew there were out-voters at other places besides Leicester, I presume?—I had had seen in Mr. Jackson's petition that there were out-voters at Birmingham; but I apprehended that as the registration was taking a month, the number of out-voters must be very small.

5369. It was an election upon the new register?—An election upon the new register.

5370. Was Leicester the only place that was brought to your knowledge at all that voters were to be brought from?—I believe it was.

5371. You had in your election, of March 1868, polled the non-resident voters?—I had polled some Birmingham non-resident voters.

5372. Only those?—I only knew those myself, but I know a friend of mine brought them over in his carriage.

5373. May I ask you from whom came the suggestion that the Leicester voters should be polled?—I cannot tell you; I do not think there was ever any question about it; I cannot tell you.

5374. You do not recollect when it was first mentioned to you?—I do not remember any doubt ever being thrown upon the subject. Having been counsel in the Horsham case, and having argued against such votes when the Committee decided that those votes were good, I did not think any more about non-residents.

5375. My learned friend, Mr. Huddleston, said the Horsham case was an old chest of drawers?—I will tell you the exact Horsham case, because I remember it as well as I remember anything. The wife had set up a shop in Brighton; that was the case. It is reported in one of the "Jurists"; the Horsham case is badly reported, but the facts of it were——

Mr. Justice Willes said that it was not necessary to go into this case.

5376. Mr. Henry James (to the Witness).] Was the number of Leicester voters mentioned to you?—About 20.

5377. Did you know who went over to canvass them?—I did not know anything at all about the Leicester voters until what I have told you took place upon the evening of the nomination, when Mr. Henry Eaton went over to meet his father's carriage.

5378. Did you know that a communication had been made to Mr. Burroughs?—I never heard the name.

5379. All that was more in your agent's knowledge?—We had nothing to do with the details of the election, Mr. Eaton and myself, nothing at all.

5380. To whom was left the arrangements, such for instance as dividing the city into wards, and the ward managers?—I suppose it had been divided in that way for any length of time; always.

5381. Did that previously exist?—I believe there was a small alteration this time in consequence of Stoke having been annexed to the Parliamentary borough, but with that exception that division was the same as it had been always.

5382. Who had the election of the ward managers?—That was amongst the voters themselves, I believe, but I do not know.

5383. You did not appoint them, but you were willing to obtain the advantages derived from the services of those ward managers?—Certainly.

275.

5384. When did you open your district committee-rooms?—I never saw a district committee-room until the polling day. I do not think there was any district committee at all; I knew nothing at all about them. I should think the ward managers would be the only persons from whom you would get any information upon the subject.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

5385. You had nothing whatever to do with the appointment of ward managers?—Nothing at all.

5386. As I understand, at the public meetings which you and Mr. Eaton attended, Mr. Eaton always spoke as well as yourself?—Always; I think hespoke quite as well as I did; he spoke more to the purpose very often.

5387. I think you say that you learned that this 800 l. had been expended; I believe at first you resisted the payment?—Yes.

5388. Then afterwards it was put as a question of honour, and you paid it?—I did.

5389. And when you paid that, was there the most remote notion in your mind of ever standing for Coventry again?—I had made up my mind that I never would, under any circumstances, stand for Coventry again at that time.

5390. And you paid the money, and had done with it?—Yes.

5391. Mr. Eaton had nothing at all to do with that?—No.

5392. My learned friend asked you this question; from whom the suggestion came about the Leicester voters. I suppose you could not tell me who spoke to you about any portion of the 3,761 voters?—We were canvassing the whole of the day.

5393. You were canvassing 7,000 voters?—Yes.

5394. But as soon as you heard of the Leicester voters you gave those directions, of which you have told us?—Certainly.

5395. And as far as you know, not one single sixpence, or a halfpenny, was given to those men?—Most certainly. If it was, it was against our express orders.

5396. You had no reason to believe that it was?—I had no reason to believe that it was.

5397. Mr. Henry James.] You say you have the counterfoil of that cheque to fix the date of that payment?—I have; I am quite sure now that it is the 7th of July; I have reason for remembering the day.

5398. Mr. Justice Willes.] You say that you made up your mind not to stand for Coventry again; when did you re-open the subject with yourself, and think of standing for Coventry?—On the 8th of October.

5399. Was that the first letter of the correspondence?—Perhaps your Lordship will allow me to refer to it, so as to feel quite sure (after having referred to the letter); I find a letter from Dr. Synes, of Coventry, to me, dated the 8th of October 1868, in which he says, "We are all very glad to hear that you are willing to try your fortune once again." These letters will show all the dates, and everything; the whole story.

HENRY WILLIAM EATON, Esq., M.P., recalled; and further Examined.

H. W. Eaton, 5400. Mr. Justice Willes.] WHEN did you Esq., M.P. hear of the 800 l. being due, which has been referred to now?—I should think two or three 18 February weeks after the election.
1869.

5401. You do not refer to anything that you have heard in connection with the election of November?—Oh, no; this 800 l. has reference to Mr. Hill's election in March.

5402. Was anybody else brought forward before Mr. Hill consented to stand?—No one.

5403. When were you first in communication with him, or Mr. Gray, as to his standing with you?—I was always pressing Mr. Hill, since his defeat, to stand with me.

5404. There might probably be a desire or expectation that he should stand, but I speak of a communication with him to join forces with you?—It must have been in October.

[The Witness withdrew.

[Adjourned to To-morrow, at Ten o'clock.

Friday, 19th February 1869.

BERRY and Another	-	-	-	-	-	Petitioners.
EATON and HILL	-	-	-	-	-	Respondents.

Mr. Huddleston stated that Mr. James had furnished him with a copy of the Report of the Proceedings on the Petition in respect of the last Coventry Election, and he did not find any mention of a deputation to Mr. Jackson. 19 February 1869.

Mr. ARTHUR SEYMOUR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

5405. YOU are a Solicitor, practising in this city?—I am.

5406. And you were appointed the paid agent of Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes, I was.

5407. I believe there was no other paid professional agent, except yourself?—There was no other professional gentleman engaged.

5408. And no other paid agent?—And no other paid agent.

5409. You, I believe, had the principal management of the election?—I had.

5410. Did you give strict orders to all who were engaged in it that there should be no corrupt practice of any kind whatever?—I did.

5411. Strict orders?—I did.

5412. You had received those instructions from Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—I had, and I endeavoured to carry them out, both in accordance with their orders and my own feelings.

5413. Are you aware of any corrupt practice whatever having been adopted during the election?—I neither know of nor have sanctioned any corrupt practice of any kind.

5414. The working of the election, we learnt last night, was principally done by the electors themselves?—It was carried on through the medium of the ward managers, those ward managers being elected by the Registration Association, and forming a committee of the Registration Association.

5415. Mr. Justice Willes.] That is the Conservative Registration Association?—Yes.

5416. Mr. Huddleston.] Not the Conservative Constitutional Association?—No, it is a local association altogether.

5417. Mr. Justice Willes.] Not any central body, not any London body?—No, it is a local association; a Conservative association.

5418. Mr. Huddleston.] That is in each ward, is it?—There are ward managers appointed for each ward, elected by the association.

5419. And the persons forming the association are voters in each ward?—Yes; I should think that as a rule they all are.

5420. Neither the candidates nor yourself had any voice in the election of these ward managers?—Certainly not.

5421. I promised my learned friend yesterday that you would give the names of the ward managers; have you got them?—They were being copied out when I left.

275.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I should like at the same time the names of the committees. I do not know whether any of those agents were on the committees.

Mr. A. Seymour.

5422. Mr. Huddleston.] Were there any committees?—I do not know of any.

5423. Mr. Justice Willes.] On either side?—On either side.

5424. Mr. Huddleston.] As I understand, the ward managers, with the assistance of volunteers, worked the thing in their own districts?—The ward managers volunteered to canvass and get up the voters in their respective wards, and of course they obtained the assistance of any volunteers they could enlist.

5425. There was no central body?—No, there was not.

5426. Mr. Neale was the agent for election expenses, was not he?—Yes.

5427. He is a gentleman who lives in the neighbourhood of Coventry?—Yes, he is a gentleman farming his own land in the neighbourhood of Coventry.

5428. My Lord wished to have the pass-book, have you got it?—

Mr. Justice Willes.] I do not want it now.

5429. Mr. Huddleston.] There are one or two items which my learned friend drew my attention to, I do not say complained of; one was a sum of 505*l.* in the election accounts, and my learned friend suggested that there were no vouchers for that; what was that 505*l.*, and how came you to put it in a lump in the election accounts?—Until after the election I knew nothing of the election accounts at all, nor of the amount of the expenditure. I knew simply that Mr. Neale had been appointed agent for election expenses, and that Mr. John Blundell, the accountant, in Coventry, was acting as his deputy and clerk. After the petition had been lodged, I immediately applied to Mr. Blundell for an account of the expenditure, and he furnished me with a rough statement. At the time when the accounts had to be rendered in accordance with the Act of Parliament, Mr. Blundell was ill, having rheumatic fever and in a very critical state, and I was not able to have access to him (he has hardly recovered from it since), and I was obliged, in order to save Mr. Neale from any penalty, to make out the account as best I could from the rough statement Mr. which Blundell had furnished me with.

Mr.
A. Seymour.

1869.

5430. That was, to do it within the two months?—Yes, to send it in two months.

5431. You are in a condition to give full explanation of the whole of these sums?—I cannot give you an explanation of them, because I know nothing about the expenditure of them; they were ready-money payments, as I understood, for working the election in the different wards; it is an ordinary item.

5432. Posting, and bills, and committee rooms?—Delivering circulars and addressing cards, and so on; part of that work was done by myself, by my own clerks, and part in the ward.

5433. I will take you to the Leicester case; I believe you have yourself practised in the Registration Court before the revising barrister?—Yes; I have attended the Registration Court for the last three or four years on behalf of the Conservatives.

5434. And frequently there have come before you cases of questions arising out of residence?—They constantly arise; perhaps I may give you a little explanation as to the difficulty we are placed in with regard to the out-voters; similar trades are carried on at Leicester, Coventry, Derby, and Nottingham; at least trades which the weavers of Coventry readily adapt themselves to. Since the distress has been great in Coventry, a great many weavers have been out of employment, and they have gone from Coventry to Leicester, Derby, and Nottingham, and watch-makers have gone to Birmingham for employment; but in many cases leaving either their wives or goods, or something behind them, intending to return. The great question has been in the Registration Courts, as to whether—

Mr. Justice Willes.] I must not go into this; I quite know the practice as to this from the information of a gentleman of great experience, Mr. Dowdeswell; I cannot take evidence as to law.

Mr. Huddleston.] I am not suggesting that for a moment; if at any moment your Lordship thinks no explanation is required, I will stop at once.

Mr. Justice Willes.] With respect to all this, I am perfectly aware of it; I have the clearest opinion upon the 79th section; and I ought to tell you what I think of it as you have raised the point; no amount of practice can alter the law.

Mr. Huddleston.] I am not doing it for the purpose of suggesting any interference with your Lordship's discretion, but to show the state of Mr. Seymour's mind in sanctioning voters coming from Leicester.

Mr. Justice Willes.] The case you have to deal with is the case of voters going away after the 31st of July, being known to have gone away after the 31st of July, and being known to have no right to vote, yet being sent for a great distance to come up to poll.

5435. Mr. Huddleston.] I will put that at once. (To the Witness.) Would you have sanctioned the bringing of any voter from a distance if you had known that he had abandoned his residence in Coventry?—No; there was no means of ascertaining that either.

5436. With reference to the Leicester voters, do you remember at any time seeing a telegram from a person of the name, I think, of Freeman?—No; I do not remember.

5437. A telegram of the 14th of November: "Twenty-five, or more coming; send a register by last train to-night, in care of guard; I will meet him"?—I cannot positively say whether I saw that telegram or not; I might have seen it on the Sunday evening previous to the election.

5438. Did you receive a letter from Mr. Burrows at any time?—I received a letter from Mr. Burrows, of Leicester, on Monday morning.

5439. Do you know what has become of that letter?—I believe I gave it to Mr. Henry Eaton, it having Burrows' address on the top of it; Mr. Henry Eaton went on the Monday to make arrangements at Leicester.

5440. What became of it?—I gave it to Mr. Henry Eaton.

5441. Mr. Justice Willes.] Young Mr. Eaton?—Yes.

5442. Mr. Huddleston.] What were the contents of that letter you had from Burrows; what was the purport of it?—To tell me that there were 20 or 25 Coventry voters residing in Leicester who were anxious to come over and vote for the Conservative candidates, and he wished to know whether any means of conveyance could be provided for them; I believe the letter finished up with "Please telegraph, as there will not be time to write."

5443. You received that on Monday morning?—Yes.

5444. I believe you sent these two telegrams; one is, "We are sending over to-day a friend; will call upon you in the afternoon"?—Yes; that was the first telegram.

5445. And then the next is, "Friend coming by 3.50 train from here"?—Yes; those telegrams were sent from me to Burrows.

5446. The friend mentioned here was Mr. Henry Eaton?—Yes.

5447. You did not send a register by the guard?—No; the register was sent by Mr. Henry Eaton.

5448. Did you give Mr. Henry Eaton Mr. Burrows' letter?—I did.

5449. I believe you knew that Mr. Eaton's carriage was to be at Leicester?—Yes; I understood so, from Mr. Eaton himself.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I do not think Mr. Eaton has mentioned what sort of carriage it was.

Mr. Eaton.] It was an omnibus.

Mr. Huddleston.] Was it an open omnibus?

Mr. Eaton.] An omnibus or a break.

5450. Mr. Huddleston (to the Witness).] Did you give any directions to Mr. Eaton to give to Mr. Burrows, with reference to the conveyance, or refreshment, or the payment of voters?—Yes; I gave—

5451. Mr. James.] By whom were the directions given?—I was going to explain; those instructions were given in Mr. Eaton's and Mr. Hill's private room, in Mr. Eaton's and Mr. Hill's presence.

5452. Mr. Huddleston.] What were they?—That the voters were to be brought over in a van, van, they were not to be provided with any refreshments; they were not to meet at any public-house, and they were told that they would receive nothing for their expenses, or for loss of time; we could simply provide for their conveyance; we did the best for them we could.

5453. Did you tell Mr. Eaton to communicate that to Mr. Burrows?—I asked him to do so.

5454. Henry Eaton went over, we understand, on the Monday; on the Tuesday did you give any directions to any person to meet those voters when they came over?—I did.

5455. Who was it?—Mr. Arthur Seager; I met Mr. Arthur Seager in the King's Head-yard in the morning of the polling-day, and I told him that there were a number of voters coming from Leicester, and that I wanted somebody to go up and meet them; Mr. Seager said he would go, and the voting cards were made out for him, which he took with him.

5456. What directions did you give to Mr. Seager?—I gave him very special instructions indeed to tell the men that they could have no refreshments in Coventry; that they could not be paid for loss of time or expenses, and that they had better get back as quickly as they could.

5457. That gentleman is Mr. Seager, to whom you gave the directions?—It is.

5458. We understand that those men came and polled?—I may also tell you in reference to Mr. Seager, that I also requested Mr. Seager to go round to the different wards to tell the ward managers in the ward-rooms that those voters were expected; and I also gave him a list of the voters in each ward; and I especially instructed him to tell the ward managers that they were not to give those voters any refreshments of any kind, and that they were not to pay them for their loss of time, or for their expenses.

5459. One thing, perhaps, for his Lordship's satisfaction here; those different voters, that came over from Leicester, would belong to different wards, and would vote in different wards?—Yes.

5460. Had you any knowledge whatever of any refreshments, or any money being given to anyone of those voters?—Certainly not.

5461. Or any voter?—Or any voter.

5462. We heard two different accounts given by a man of the name of Clark, and another of the name of Denny, of their having come to your office after the election; I forget what day they said?—It was the Friday; I have a very distinct recollection indeed of the two men coming over, particularly Clark, because his appearance impressed itself on my mind.

5463. You did not know anything of him before?—I had never seen either of them before they came to my office, and represented themselves as being Leicester voters.

5464. Coventry voters from Leicester?—Coventry voters from Leicester; they expressed themselves as being particularly aggrieved that they had not received anything for their expenses, and asked me to pay them; I treated them rather curtly; I believe I told them they had come on a fool's errand, and ought to have known better than to come over, as they must know we could not pay them anything for their loss of time and expenses, and that they had better get back again as quickly as they could. I remember Clark's remarks; He said, "I shall stay until I get something." I told him he might stay as long as he liked, but he certainly would not get anything from me, or anybody else.

5465. You saw both Clark and Denny?—Both Clark and Denny came into my office at the same time.

5466. We heard of a person of the name of Moore who was said to have given some money to a London voter?—I do not know any such man; I never met him during the progress of the election.

5467. Do you know anything of him?—I do not; I never heard of his name until it was mentioned in the case the other day.

5468. Mr. Justice Willes.] Was he a ward manager?—No, certainly not.

5469. Mr. Huddleston.] Until his name was mentioned, had you any knowledge or acquaintance with that man?—Not at all.

5470. Had he any authority from you to pay it, or have you paid it, or sanctioned it, or anything of the sort?—Certainly not.

5471. Or ever heard of it?—Or ever heard of it.

5472. We had a man of the name of Hollins; was Hollins a ward manager?—I know Hollins, but he was not a ward manager.

5473. And he had no authority from you to give anything?—Certainly not.

5474. There was a person of the name of Herbert Jackson; had Herbert Jackson any authority from you to do anything?—No.

5475. He was not a ward manager?—No.

5476. Nor a voter?—No, I do not think Jackson is a voter; I know him by sight, but I do not think I ever spoke to him until the last few days.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

5477. Were you the agent to Mr. Hill in his election of 1868?—I was.

5478. Who was the agent for election expenses then?—Mr. Neale, the same gentleman who was agent for election expenses at the last election.

5479. Mr. Neale, I understand you, is a farmer?—Yes.

5480. Is he a voter?—No.

5481. How far does he live from this city?—I think about four miles; three or four miles.

5482. Did he take any part in the election?—I saw him constantly; he was at all our meetings.

5483. What is the particular qualification of this gentleman who is a farmer, as agent for election expenses?—I do not know; I did not appoint him myself.

5484. Who did?—Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton, I believe, on the recommendation of Mr. Lynes.

5485. Do you know whether he has any peculiar aptitude for the business?—I only know him as a casual acquaintance.

5486. And an agriculturist?—Yes.

5487. Do you know he has a son who is an articled clerk in Mr. Dews's office?—Yes.

5488. You had nothing to do with preparing the accounts of the election of 1868?—I really cannot tell you; I do not think I had; Mr. Blundell was then engaged in a similar capacity for Mr. Neale. I think he prepared the accounts, but I would not positively swear that; I might have assisted him perhaps.

5489. In what way does Mr. Blundell assist

P

Mr.

Mr.
A. Seymour.
19 February
1869.

Mr.
A. Seymour.
19 February
1869.

Mr. Neville?—I can only tell you that from what Mr. Blundell has told me, that he has received money from Mr. Neale, cheques, and that he has paid them away for him for the purposes of the election.

5490. Do you mean during the election?—During the election.

5491. What is Mr. Blundell?—Mr. Blundell is an accountant and registrar of births, deaths, and marriages.

5492. How many wards are there?—There are 11 wards and country parishes. I cannot tell you how many country parishes there are; some 24 I should think.

5493. Were those country parishes in any way grouped, or did they have a separate organization?—They had a separate organization in each parish.

5494. What was the organization in each parish as to conducting the election?—I cannot tell you very much about that, but I received information from gentlemen who conducted the canvass of the voters in the country parishes; they were not appointed by myself; I can hardly tell you how they were appointed, but they had been gentlemen who had assisted us in elections some years past.

5495. Were there committees formed in those parishes?—I think not; not in any of them.

5496. Were there parish managers, or anything of that kind?—There might be a manager in such large parishes as Foleshill.

5497. Have you had any accounts returned to you by those managers?—No.

5498. Who would have them?—Mr. Blundell.

5499. Is Mr. Blundell in Coventry?—Yes.

5500. You spoke of his being unwell; is he about?—He is well enough to come into court, if sent for.

5501. As to the wards within the city; when was it those ward managers were appointed?—The majority of them were elected, at least many of them, some years ago, when the Registration Association was first formed. Changes have taken place from time to time. Old ward managers have retired and new ones have been appointed in their stead, but I cannot give the dates when the appointments were made.

5502. Who appoints them?—They are appointed, I believe, at the annual meeting of the association.

5503. Is that the Registration Association?—The Conservative Registration Association; it is an association which was formed in 1863, I believe, to the best of my recollection.

5504. Is it maintained by subscription?—Yes.

5505. Does Mr. Eaton subscribe to it?—I cannot tell you; yes, I believe he does.

5506. Probably he does, I should think?—Most probably.

5507. With reference to the conduct of the election, had you any chairman of a committee?—No.

5508. There was no committee of any kind except those ward managers?—There was not; the working of the election was conducted by them, they having volunteered their services.

5509. We have heard of the ward manager and the deputy manager; were there two such persons in each ward?—It would depend upon the size of the ward; in the larger wards there would be a deputy.

4510. Did they call people together and assist in the election on the part of Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—I cannot tell you the system adopted; they had meetings amongst themselves.

5511. In what room?—At the "Golden Cross."

5512. Did all the wards meet at the "Golden Cross"?—No; the managers would meet at the "Golden Cross."

5513. The managers of all the wards?—Yes.

5514. Who pays for the room at the "Golden Cross"?—It is charged in the account for election expenses.

5515. How soon did these meetings commence before the election?—That I cannot tell you. I was appointed on the 5th of November, and the canvassing of the electors had then been commenced some little time.

5516. Had the meetings at the "Golden Cross" commenced?—Yes, I know they had; at least I had circulars of meetings; I did not attend them myself.

5517. Were there any rooms at all taken in each ward?—I think there were rooms taken late in the election; and there would be rooms occupied in the evening most likely when the canvassers came to bring in their reports to the ward manager.

5518. When were these rooms taken?—I cannot tell you.

5519. Were they taken when you came on the field on the 5th November?—I cannot tell you.

5520. Who could tell?—The ward managers themselves.

5521. To whose discretion was it left to engage rooms?—To the ward managers.

5522. Who paid for the rooms?—The rooms would be paid for by the ward managers.

5523. And who would pay the ward managers?—Mr. Blundell.

5524. On the part of Messrs. Eaton and Hill?—Yes.

5525. They had discretion given them to take the rooms, and therefore, to that extent conducted the election in their wards?—They had a discretion to this extent; it was quite understood and arranged that we were to have no meetings at public-houses.

5526. You used the term, "The canvassers would bring in their reports;" were there canvassers canvassing for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill who would report to the ward managers?—The work could not possibly be done in the large wards without the assistance of canvassers.

5527. Tell me if it was so; were there canvassers out on behalf of Eaton and Hill assisting in obtaining votes for them?—Certainly.

5528. Did those canvassers receive canvassing books, or registers with the names of the voters?—I should say they would do so, but I do not know that they did.

5529. Would those canvassers return the results of their canvass to the different ward managers?—They must have done so.

5530. After the 5th of November, the results would be brought to some extent under your notice, by the ward managers returning to headquarters?—Yes; the ward managers made a general report to headquarters.

5531. To whom?—Partly to myself, and partly to Mr. John Ratcliffe, who assisted me in taking the returns.

5532. Of

5532. Of course I pay you no compliment when I say you intended these accounts truly to represent the expenses of Messrs. Eaton and Hill at the last election?—Certainly.

5533. How much of the sum of 1,400*l.* which is returned has been paid?—Between 800*l.* and 900*l.*; I cannot tell you the exact amount; I think it is 870*l.*, or something like that. I beg pardon, it is more than that now, because there is 187*l.* which has been paid since.

5534. There was a sum mentioned by Mr. Eaton yesterday, of 187*l.*?—Yes.

5535. That has been paid since these accounts were rendered?—Yes.

5536. The 187*l.* is included in the account?—Yes.

5537. We will take one item of 505*l.* as a test; can you give me any account of how much was paid for hire of rooms for canvassers, for instance, out of that 505*l.*?—I can only give you this information: Mr. Blundell supplied me, in this rough statement which I have already referred to, with the total amount expended in the different wards, and with the amount paid to each chairman; those amounts I cannot, of course, carry in my head.

5538. You can carry them in your hand by giving me the rough accounts?—I have not it.

5539. Where is it?—Mr. Blundell has it.

5540. Where is Mr. Blundell?—

Mr. Huddleston.] I will send for Mr. Blundell.

5541. Mr. James.] Did you return it to Mr. Blundell?—Yes.

5542. Did you have any vouchers from Mr. Blundell beyond those rough accounts?—Yes; I had the vouchers which I handed in to the town clerk.

5543. No others?—No others.

5544. Had you any vouchers given you of the sum of 505*l.*?—No.

5545. Did you ask for any?—I have not asked for any, for the reason I have given you; I could not apply to Mr. Blundell at the time the return had to be made.

5546. You got some return from him at the time the return had to be made, so as to make up the 505*l.*?—Yes.

5547. At that time he was well enough to see you?—Yes.

5548. When you could see him, why did not you ask him for the vouchers?—They were ready-money payments, which I considered would not be vouched.

5549. Were they ready-money payments without receipts; for instance, for the hire of rooms was there no receipt?—There would be receipts for that.

5550. Did you get them?—No.

5551. Did you ask for them?—No.

5552. Why did not you ask for them?—I do not know why I did not; I took the vouchers Mr. Blundell gave me.

5553. Did you know, at the time you were rendering those accounts, that at the previous March election a sum of 800*l.* had been left unpaid, which was subsequently paid?—I heard of it.

5554. Had Mr. Blundell assisted Mr. Neale on the previous occasion, in March 1868?—He had.

5555. You did not make any inquiry what that 800*l.* had been paid for?—It was simply gossip; I heard about it.

5556. You did not inquire from Mr. Blundell?—I did not.

5557. Were you aware that the Statute did require that you should furnish vouchers?—I am aware that the Statute requires that vouchers should be given for payments by the agent for election expenses.

5558. As you know that some of these items, at least, could be vouched, you will not object to my asking an explanation; why did not you seek to obtain such vouchers as you could?—The information I required at that time was simply the amount of the expenditure and the nature of the expenditure. Mr. Blundell handed me the vouchers he had, and I took them with the statement he gave me.

5559. You are required to fulfil the Statute; you knew there were some vouchers you could obtain, why did not you ask for them?—At that time I was not about the duty of fulfilling the Statute; I was merely to satisfy myself, the petition having been lodged, as to the nature of the expenditure.

5560. The time came when you had to fulfil the Statute, that is you had to hand in the vouchers; why, when you came to perform that duty, did not you ask Mr. Blundell for the vouchers which you knew he had?—I did not know he had them.

5561. You say for the hire of the rooms there would be vouchers?—I say I should think there would be vouchers.

5562. Why did not you inquire whether there were?—I had no access to Mr. Blundell at that time; he was in a very critical state.

5563. You could write to him?—I wrote to him to ask him if he could give me the total amount of the expenditure, and whether any other expenses had been incurred. I received a very short note from his wife in reply, giving me two or three other items, and the total amount of the expenditure.

5564. It was upon information obtained in that way you thought you were fulfilling the Statute, by returning those accounts of Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—I did it the best way I could.

5565. You say that you had no knowledge of this person, Mr. John Moore?—I do say so.

5566. You heard his name mentioned three days ago?—Yes.

5567. Have you made any inquiry as to where he lives?—I have not.

5568. Have you inquired whether he is in Leicester or not?—I have not.

5569. You do not know where he is at this moment?—I do not.

5570. Do you know whether there is more than one John Moore in Leicester, or not?—I do not; I know there is another Moore in Coventry.

5571. I may take it that, as the agent of Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, you have been quite quiescent upon that subject?—In what way quiescent?

5572. You have been quite quiescent on the subject of Moore's existence or whereabouts?—Yes, I have; I do not know the man, or anything about him.

5573. Do you know in which ward he lives?—I do not. Will you mention the case in which he was concerned.

Mr.
A. Seymour.
—
19 February
1869.

Mr. A. Seymour. 5574. Tooney?—I think that was in Sponstreet, St. Thomas's.

19 February 1869. 5575. Who is the manager of that ward?—Mr. Dickinson.

5576. And the sub-manager?—Mr. Cox, I think.

5577. We shall see that from the list which you say you will furnish?—Yes.

5578. As to the Leicester out-voters, you said it was impossible to discover whether they had permanently left their abode here, or whether they had only temporarily done so; did you cause any inquiry to be made from Burrows as to the out-voters, whether they were about to return to Coventry or not?—I did not.

5579. All you know about them was, that in their corporeal substance they were at Leicester, and not at Coventry?—Yes.

5580. There you let your inquiry upon that subject drop?—Yes.

5581. You had polled the Leicester voters in 1868, had you not; in March 1868?—I think we had some of them.

5582. You knew nothing at all, except from rumours, what had become of the 800*l.*?—I did not.

5583. What was the day, do you recollect, of the county election; was the nomination on the Thursday?—I think it was the 23rd.

5584. I am speaking of North Warwickshire; the nomination is not at Coventry, it is at Coleshill?—Yes.

5585. Was not the nomination on the Thursday, at Coleshill?—I think it was; yes, it was; the polling was on the Saturday.

5586. The nomination would not be in Coventry?—No.

5587. Coleshill is some miles from Coventry; 14 or 16 miles?—Yes.

5588. In the direction of Birmingham?—Yes.

5589. Your recollection is, that both Denny and Clark waited upon you?—A most distinct recollection.

5590. Did they come into your room together?—Yes.

5591. And urged their claims upon you?—They did.

5592. You, of course, repudiated them; but did they urge them as a matter of right; that they were entitled to that money?—They expressed themselves aggrieved; I do not exactly remember the language they used, but that was the tenor of it.

5593. Did they claim an amount?—No, they did not.

5594. They simply asked for payment for loss of time?—Yes.

5595. They said they should remain in Coventry till they got it?—Clark said that.

5596. Did Denny say anything, do you recollect?—I cannot remember which of them spoke, but I remember that remark of Clark's.

5597. Clark seems to have made more impression upon you?—His features, and that last remark, made an impression upon me.

5598. That it was his intention to remain in Coventry?—Yes.

5599. Who has got the pass-book?—I was told yesterday that Mr. Neale had it.

5600. Where is Mr. Neale; is he on his farm?—Here, sitting behind you.

Mr. Neale handed it to Mr. James.

5601. Before Mr. Hill agreed to come to Coventry, was there any application made to a certain other gentleman of the same view in politics as he to come here?—I cannot tell you that; not to my knowledge.

5602. Did you not hear of an application made to Mr. Dorlaton?—I have the faintest idea that Mr. Dorlaton had been asked to stand, but it was the mere rumour of the streets; nothing more.

5603. Or Mr. Heygate?—I have not heard the name before.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

5604. One question about Mr. Neale; who happened to be the election agent for Mr. Jackson and Mr. Carter?—Mr. Davis.

5605. What was he?—A solicitor in Coventry.

5606. It is not unusual to select a person who is not a voter for the election agent?—I believe not; there is no reason why he should be a voter.

5607. It is often desirable that he should not be a voter. Mr. Neale is a gentleman farming about 400 acres of his own land?—I cannot tell you the amount; he has a farm of his own.

5608. Is there anything in the fact of a man being an agriculturalist to disqualify him for an agent for election expenses?—I do not see that there is.

5609. Or that he happens to have a son in the office of a solicitor in this city. One word about Mr. Blundell. Mr. Blundell gave you, roughly, the particulars of this sum; this 500*l.*?—He did.

5610. Did he satisfy you that he had made those payments to different persons?—He did not satisfy me; he merely gave me the account as the amount he had expended.

5611. He told you how he had expended?—Yes, that he had expended that amount in the different wards, in the ordinary expense of the ward, for working the election in the different wards.

5612. The payment of committee rooms?—Yes.

5613. Mr. James.] Do you mean actually paid, or owing?—Paid; I should think it would be paid.

5614. Mr. Huddleston.] He would give, as I understand you, a sum of money to the ward manager to pay those expenses, which were ready-money expenses?—Yes.

5615. I believe it is always desirable to pay for sending messengers, and the hiring of rooms, and that sort of thing, ready money, so as to avoid bills being sent in?—Yes.

5616. Because they otherwise accumulate and come to a very large sum?—Exactly.

5617. You say you avoided having rooms in public houses?—Those were the instructions.

5618. And the rooms would be paid for; they would be included in the sum you have mentioned?—They would.

Mr. Huddleston.] In Carter and Jackson's accounts, the three first items are without vouchers at all.

Mr. James.] Those speak for themselves.

5619. Mr. Huddleston.] I think you say a portion portion only of the election expenses are paid, but do you know of any other expenses beyond the sum returned, namely, the 1,412l.?—I do not.

5620. Have you sanctioned, or do you propose to sanction, or propose to allow one single sixpence beyond that?—Most certainly not.

5621. If Mr. Blundell had been well at the time you returned the accounts, you would have put down his return to you, which you expected to get from him?—I should have got further particulars from him.

5622. And you would have lodged them?—And I should have lodged them.

5623. The only reason that was not done was on account of Mr. Blundell's ill health?—Yes.

5624. It was rheumatic fever?—It was.

5625. My learned friend asked you whether you knew a person of the name of Moore; you say you do not know anything about that man?—I do not know anything at all about him.

5626. My learned friend asked you whether you had made inquiries with respect to him; you are not conducting the petition?—Jointly, with Mr. Dews, I am.

5627. Do you know from Mr. Dews that he has inquired about him?—

Mr. James.] No.

Mr. Justice Willes.] That will not do. If you intend to call Mr. Dews, call him.

Mr.
A. Seymour.
19 February
1869.

5628. Mr. Huddleston.] So far as you are concerned, you did not apply your mind to that part of the case?—I did not.

5629. My learned friend asked you whether you entered into the particulars of the residence of the Leicester voters; did you ever know of such a thing being done; you have 7,700 voters to consider?—We had information about them on the Monday morning; there certainly was no time to have made the inquiry.

5630. Mr. Henry James (through the Court).] Would that sort of circular in any way come beneath your notice (handing a paper to the Witness)?—I have not seen this before.

5631. But would a circular of that description?—I have not seen a similar circular to this before.

5632. You do not know by whom that would be published, or by whom it would be paid for?—I do not; I can swear quite positively——

5633. You need not use that word?—I can state quite positively that I have not seen a circular of that kind before.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. HENRY EATON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

5634. You are the eldest son of your father, one of the sitting Members for this city?—I am.

5635. Did you come down here in November, before the election?—I did.

5636. I think you had been down here, but went away, and you returned a few days before the election?—I did.

5637. On the Monday, the nomination day, did you have any communication with Mr. Seymour about going to Leicester?—He gave me a letter from Mr. Burrows.

5638. A letter from Mr. Burrows addressed to Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

5639. What have you done with that letter?—I destroyed it with a good many other letters when I got home.

5640. After the election?—After the election.

5641. Will you tell us shortly the contents of it?—"Dear Sir,—15 to 20 Coventry men, who are now at Leicester, are very anxious to record their votes for Eaton and Hill."

5642. Was there anything more in it that you remember?—I cannot exactly remember the exact words.

5643. Was that asking what was to be done?—That was asking what was to be done.

5644. Did Mr. Seymour show you a telegram also or only the letter?—Only the letter, but he sent a telegram in my presence.

5645. Did Mr. Seymour telegraph to Burrows?—He did.

5646. That is the telegram which has been read, "Friend, come by the 4.50 train," or something of that sort?—It is.

5647. Before you went were you present in the room at the "King's Head," when you heard Mr. Hill speak about these voters, and the way in which they were to be brought over?—I was.

5648. Tell us as nearly as you can what he said to you, and what instructions he gave you about the way in which they were to be brought over?—I heard him say, "We do not want them, we have a majority now of 160, but those men are very anxious, let them come over; they can come over in your father's carriage, but on no account let them be paid for their expenses or allowed any refreshment whatever."

5649. Were you to communicate that to Burrows when you got there?—I did so.

5650. You went to Leicester by that train?—I went over to Leicester by that train with my brother.

5651. Did you take that letter as an introduction to Burrows?—I did.

5652. Mr. Justice Willes.] What letter was that?—The letter that Burrows had written to Mr. Seymour.

5653. Mr. Gates.] That was your introduction to Burrows, I suppose?—It was.

5654. You had never seen him before?—Never; I had never been at Leicester in my life.

5655. Did you communicate those instructions to Burrows?—I did.

5656. About the way in which they were to be sent over?—I did.

5657. Did you see your father's coachman there?—I did.

5658. Did you give him any instructions about the way in which he was to bring them over?—I told him he was to bring them over and meet them wherever Mr. Burrows arranged, but on no account to go near a public-house, or give the men any refreshment whatsoever.

5659. Did you introduce Burrows to your coachman so as to make them both aware of your orders?—I did at the hotel at Leicester.

5660. What hotel did you go to?—I think it

Mr.
H. Eaton.

Mr. H. Eaton. was the "White Hart," but I had never been there before.
 19 February 1869. 5661. I suppose you saw your father's coachman there?—I did.
 5662. And Burrows came there too?—He came there after dinner.
 5663. And you gave him those orders in the presence of Burrows?—I did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

5664. I do not understand from you that you canvassed any of those voters?—No.

5665. Had they been already canvassed?—I do not know.

5666. Did you learn how it had been ascertained that a certain number of voters wished to come over; was it Burrows that had seen them?—It was Burrows. I do not think he had seen them before I went to him on the Monday.

5667. Mr. Justice Willes.] What did you say as to the number mentioned in the letter?—I think it was 15 to 20, but I have destroyed the letter.

5668. Was it either 15 or 20, or were the two numbers mentioned?—The two numbers were mentioned.

5669. Mr. Henry James.] Is your memory as to that certain, or are you speaking with doubt upon the subject. I would just remind you that the telegraph names 25 or more coming. I do not know whether that 25 or more came. Is not the telegram of November the 14th, "Sent a register by last train." It is very likely that your memory may not be quite correct on that point?—I think he said 15 to 20 or about that number in his letter.

5670. Did you learn from him in any way how that number had been ascertained?—No, I did not.

5671. I suppose some one must have learned the views of the voters. It was self-evident to you, I suppose, that somebody had seen them?—Yes.

5672. Who was that besides Mr. Burrows?—I don't know at all.

5673. Did you learn that Mr. Burrows had?—No.

5674. You made no inquiry?—No.

5675. That is all you know about it?—Yes.

5676. Your father's carriage seems to have given way under the weight. Whose carriage was it that brought the men over?—I really do not know.

5677. Whose were the horses?—One was my own and two were my father's.

5678. You did not take them all the way to Leicester; you do not ride your horses like that. You changed your horses at Hinckley?—We changed horses at Hinckley.

5679. What horses were those that you took at Hinckley; was there a patriotic friend at Hinckley, or whose horses were they?—I do not know whose horses they were.

5680. You did not know the substituted carriage or horses?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

5681. I suppose you only went over to deliver that message, and you have not inquired who worked it out?—No.

5682. You have paid for nothing in the shape of the hiring of the horses or carriages, have you?—Certainly not.

5683. I believe you took a register over to Burrows and gave it to him?—I did.

5684. A register that was given to you by Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

5685. Mr. Justice Willes.] When did you leave Leicester?—I came back that evening with my brother immediately after.

5686. Did you only leave the coachman to represent you?—Yes.

5687. Did you learn of the break down?—Yes, the next day.

[The Witness withdrew.]

BENJAMIN BURROWS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

B. Burrows. 5688. ARE you manager of Messrs. Wheeler & Co.'s elastic works at Leicester?—I am.

5689. Have you been so for 24 years?—Yes.

5690. You have never been, I believe, a voter for Coventry, though you lived there when you were a boy?—Never.

5691. I believe you are a strong Conservative?—Yes, I am.

5692. I believe you were first introduced to Mr. Seymour as a client?—I was.

5693. On the Sunday previous to the Coventry election did a man named Frederick Ward come to you?—He did.

5694. What did he tell you?—He told me there were from 20 to 25 voters, supporters of Messrs. Eaton and Hill, and he wanted to know how they could be got to Coventry to record their votes.

5695. Did he say that they had had a meeting before?—Yes, they had had a meeting before.

5696. Where?—At the "Talbot."

5697. And when?—On the Saturday I believe.

5698. Did he also tell you that they were going to have another meeting on Monday?—On the Monday night.

5699. Did you tell Ward that you would write over to Mr. Seymour at Coventry?—I did.

5700. And did you write a letter to Mr. Seymour on the Sunday?—I wrote a letter on the Sunday to Mr. Seymour.

5701. Will you tell us, as nearly as you can, what were the contents of that letter?—I believe I addressed that letter to Mr. Seymour as "Dear Sir,—I understand from a person by the name of Frederick Ward, that there are something like 20 to 25 voters, supporters of Messrs. Eaton and Hill; could some arrangements be made for the getting of the voters to Coventry to record their votes," asking him to send me an answer by telegram, as there wouldn't be time for a letter.

5702. Did you receive two telegrams on the following day?—I did.

5703. In the evening of the following day, the Monday, did young Mr. Eaton come to you with with the letter which you had written to Mr. Seymour?—Yes, he did.

5704. Did he bring with him a register?—He did.

5705. Did he say anything to you about the voters?—He asked me whether the voters were going to have a meeting that night, and I told him I believed they were; he asked me where, and I told him where.

5706. Did he give you orders as to their not being paid anything for their loss of time or expenses?—He did.

5707. What did he say?—He said that nothing would be allowed for expenses for the voters, but a conveyance would be provided to carry them from Leicester to Coventry to vote.

5708. Did he say anything about their not meeting in the public-houses in the morning?—Yes; it was to be distinctly understood amongst the men that they were not to meet at any public-house.

5709. After he had met you did you go to the meeting at the “Talbot,” and take the register with you?—I did.

5710. Did you find the men there, and call out their names to see whether they were on the register?—I did.

5711. Did you tell them the instructions that you had received from Mr. Eaton?—I did so.

5712. That they were not to have anything in respect of their loss of time; what did you tell them about that?—Of course inquiries were made amongst the men as to how they were to get from Leicester to Coventry, and who was to pay them for their loss of time, and I said such a thing could not be entertained at all.

5713. Mr. Justice Willes.] Who said that?—I said that.

5714. Mr. Dugdale.] Who inquired as to being paid for loss of time?—I really could not say who made that inquiry.

5715. What answer did you give?—I said that question could not be entertained at all for that to be done, as it would invalidate the election.

5716. Was anything said by you to the effect that the men should be “satisfied” or “made right”?—Not a word.

5717. Nor in your presence?—Nor in my presence.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

5718. You have a son, have you not?—I have.

5719. I will not say as strong as yourself, but is he a strong Conservative too?—Quite so; his Conservative views are as strong as my own.

5720. You have educated him, in fact?—I don't know as to that exactly.

5721. Who paid for the van?—I believe my son paid for the van.

5722. Whose van was it?—That I really do not know.

5723. Was your son with the voters?—No.

5724. Who got the van?—My son and a non-voter.

5725. We understand that the transaction seems to have been that Mr. Eaton's carriage was intended in the first instance to bring those men over, that that carriage broke down, and that the coachman went back?—Yes.

5726. Do you know to whom he applied in order to obtain a van?—They came to my place.

5727. Were you there?—I was not there.

5728. Then all that you know is from hearsay from your son?—Yes, from my son; that is all I know.

5729. Had you anything to do with bringing over the voters in March?—No.

5730. Did you not assist at all?—I did.

5731. You assisted in what?—In sending those voters.

5732. How many were sent?—I really cannot—

5733. I will ask you to answer this question; were they paid?—Not to my knowledge.

5734. You have heard nothing said to you about their being paid or “satisfied” for loss of time; you had something to do with those voters coming over?—Yes.

5735. And you cannot tell me how many came?—I have not the least idea.

5736. Now, I am almost appealing to your honour; to your knowledge, were not those voters satisfied for their loss of time?—Upon my honour I did not know anything of the kind; I didn't know anything about them.

5737. Who had charge of them?—I don't know.

5738. You have no belief?—I have no belief at all in the case.

5739. Did anyone put you in motion on this occasion besides this man Frederick Ward?—No one.

5740. Who is he?—He is a non-voter residing at Leicester, and working there.

5741. Is he a Coventry man?—He is a Coventry man.

5742. I think you said that the day when he first came to you was on the Monday?—On the Sunday.

5743. When you went to the “Talbot” on the Monday, about how many people were there?—I should think from 20 to 25.

5744. Was a man named Freeman there?—Yes.

5745. And Henry Parker?—Yes, Henry Parker was there.

5746. Was a person elected captain of the Leicester voters, to take charge of them?—Not particularly so.

5747. But were there not two captains; was not Freeman elected captain; that they were to obey his orders?—Freeman was.

5748. That is particularly so, is it not?—Freeman was I believe; I believe I gave instructions to Freeman to attend to the Leicester voters.

5749. When was that?—On the Monday night.

5750. At the “Talbot”?—At the “Talbot.”

5751. Did he accept that mission, whatever it might be?—Yes.

5752. Was there anyone present to whom such instructions were given?—No.

5753. Then he had the charge of them all?—He had.

5754. For what purpose?—Well, I do not know for any purpose particularly; I do not know for what purpose particularly, only to see that they came from Leicester to Coventry.

5755. They were starting for that purpose; they would look after that themselves; what was

B. Burrows.

19 February
1869.

B. Burrows. the object of electing a captain?—I have not the least idea.

19 February 1869. 5756. How long did you stop at the "Talbot"?—I should think I would be there about an hour.

5757. Were their names called over?—They were called over.

5758. Can you tell me who it was that spoke about being paid or "satisfied" for loss of time?—No such words were used in my hearing I am sure.

5759. You misunderstand me. You have told us that somebody started the subject; that some of the men there did mention it; who was it that spoke about it?—I really cannot say.

5760. One or more than one?—I cannot answer that question I am sure.

5761. Did they appear quite satisfied when you said that could not be done?—Yes.

5762. Quite?—Quite satisfied.

5763. They were men in a poor condition of life?—They were.

5764. Were they to pay for their own refreshments?—Yes, for anything I know; I did not hear anything about it.

5765. So you represent that those men in a poor condition of life were willing to give up their day's time, and bear their own expenses in the way of refreshments, and that they appeared quite satisfied?—They appeared so to be.

5766. Cheerfully?—Cheerfully and enthusiastically so.

5767. Enthusiastically satisfied?—Enthusiastically satisfied.

5768. Did they become more enthusiastic in their satisfaction when you told them they could not be paid, than they were before?—No.

5769. They were about the same?—Yes.

5770. Then they were always enthusiastically satisfied?—They were enthusiastically satisfied.

5771. Both before you told them that they could not be paid and afterwards?—Before I told them they could not be paid; I believe that was almost one of the first questions they asked of me—

5772. Very likely?—As to how they were to get to Coventry, and how their expenses were to be paid.

5773. Then all the enthusiastic satisfaction came into operation afterwards?—Yes, afterwards.

5774. On account of what you told them?—I do not say on account of what I told them.

5775. What was it caused the enthusiasm and satisfaction after your announcement, which had not existed before?—The men appeared to be filled with enthusiasm at the idea of coming to record their votes for Messrs. Eaton and Hill, for what cause I do not know.

5776. But both the satisfaction and enthusiasm you tell me came into operation after your announcement?—Yes; that would be some time later in the evening, an hour afterwards perhaps.

5777. That question was the first question asked; I quite agree that, an hour after the question had been asked, the enthusiasm and satisfaction commenced, but they had asked the question soon after you went into the room?—They did.

5778. And they were neither enthusiastic nor satisfied till about an hour afterwards?—I did not see any dissatisfaction at all.

5779. But you told me the enthusiasm and satisfaction came into play an hour after they came into the room?—That enthusiastic feeling which was exhibited by the men, I believe, was exhibited after I had tested the men by the register. I said, "I suppose you people are going to support Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill," and unanimously; they answered "Yes." I then said, "I suppose the reasons for which you are making this sacrifice of time, and at such a great inconvenience to yourselves, is in consequence of the effect which the French treaty has had upon you in driving you from your homes;" and there was a shout then that it was so. That was where I observed the enthusiasm to show itself.

5780. Before you touched their tender point on the French treaty, had you told them they were not to be paid for their loss of time?—I did.

5781. That did not render them enthusiastic then?—No; I should not think it would.

5782. Then you brought them round to the French treaty?—There was no bringing round.

5783. Then had nobody canvassed them before?—Not the Leicester voters.

5784. Has any application been made to you from them, for payment for loss of time?—No.

5785. Then the subject has never been mentioned to you?—No, I think not.

5786. Come?—I have stated that it was at the commencement.

5787. But has there been an application since; has it never been mentioned to you since?—Yes.

5788. By whom?—Two or three; I think Denny was one.

5789. When was that?—I think that would be after the election some time.

5790. How soon?—Two or three days.

5791. What did he apply to you for?—If there would be anything for their services.

5792. You told them there were to be none, and they were enthusiastic and satisfied when you told them that; what had become of the enthusiasm and satisfaction?—I have never said, if you will excuse me, that they were enthusiastic when I made that statement.

5793. But they were satisfied?—They appeared to be satisfied.

5794. What did Denny say to you?—He asked me if there would be anything for loss of time, and so on.

5795. Did you remind him of what you had stated?—No; I simply said "No."

5796. Did you remind him that they went to Coventry on the terms that they were not to be paid; that was the contract?—It perhaps did not occur to me to do so.

5797. Had you forgotten it?—I do not know that I had forgotten it.

5798. Did you think of it?—I do not know that I thought of it.

5799. You simply said "No"?—Yes.

5800. Who else applied to you besides Denny?—I do not know of any one else.

5801. Did one or more than one apply?—I think not more than one or two; I do not know the names.

5802. Do you not know who the second was?—I do not.

5803. Was it Clark?—I do not know Clark.

5804. Where did these men come to you?—To our works; the Abbey Mills.

5805. Did they come together?—Together.

5806. Two

5806. Two or three days afterwards?—Yes, two or three days afterwards.

5807. Was it before or after the Friday after the election?—I really could not charge my memory with that.

5808. Did you learn from those two men that they had been to Coventry to get their money?—I did not.

5809. And you have told us now that all that passed was that they asked, if there was to be anything for loss of time, and you said “No,” and they left, and nothing more passed?—Nothing more passed.

5810. Were they enthusiastic or satisfied then?—I do not know.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

5811. My learned friend has been ringing the changes upon enthusiasm and satisfaction. You say you spoke to them about the French Treaty?—I did.

5812. And you learnt that that was the feeling which induced them to go over to vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—It was.

5813. I suppose you find that a great number of the people of Coventry who go over to Leicester, are persons who have been obliged to leave their native town, in consequence of the stress of trade?—I should say we have had hundreds call at our works, of that description.

5814. And there is a strong feeling of that description amongst that class of weavers, is there not?—There is.

5815. You say you pointed out to them, that there was nothing to be allowed?—Nothing to be allowed.

5816. Did you have strict orders not to give anything, or to allow anything?—I had.

5817. Did you know that Freeman had been summoned by the petitioners, and afterwards sent back?—Yes.

5818. Mr. Henry James.] Do you mean that you know it now?—I know it now.

5819. Mr. Huddleston.] On the Tuesday there was the election at Leicester, was there not?—Yes, there was.

5820. And there was a knock out of work then?—Yes, both elections occurred on the same day, I believe, at Coventry and at Leicester.

5821. Mr. Justice Willes.] Did you know anything of Parker?—No.

5822. Had you known him before the man came over?—Never; I had never seen the man before in my life, to my knowledge.

5823. Have you seen him since?—Yes, I have seen Parker since.

5824. Have you seen him to speak to him?—Yes.

5825. Has he ever applied to you for money?—No.

5826. Or had any conversation with you about the expenses?—No, he has not.

5827. Has Freeman ever applied to you about the expenses?—No, not a word.

5828. You mentioned first Denny, as having come.

to you, and then afterwards you said “they,” which makes me think that somebody else besides Denny came to you. How many came to you to know if there was anything to be had?—I believe two.

5829. Can you recollect whether the other was the humpbacked man or not?—I cannot recollect that. To the best of my recollection, I have not seen the humpbacked man.

5830. Mr. Huddleston (through the Court).] You say when the van broke down, they came to your place?—Yes.

5831. Your son was at home?—He was.

5832. And I think you answered, my friend, that your son hired the other vehicle?—He did.

5833. Mr. Justice Willes.] And a non-voter, as I understand?—He is a non-voter.

5834. Was he the non-voter you spoke of, or did you mean somebody else, beside your son?—Frederick Ward.

5835. Mr. Huddleston.] Did Frederick Ward come when the vehicle broke down?—Frederick Ward came back with the coachman and the broken vehicle to my house. I was not at home, and he was referred to my son, as an individual who would perhaps find them one. He knew nothing of the case, he knew nothing of the meeting of the men the night before. In fact the case of the Coventry election had scarce come under his notice at all.

5836. And I believe he found it?—He found a conveyance.

5837. Has he made any claim against anybody for it?—

Mr. James objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Willes overruled the objection.

5838. Mr. Huddleston (to the Witness).] Has he made any application to anybody, to be repaid the expenses of the van?—No, and never intended.

5839. I suppose of course it comes out of your pocket?—

Mr. James objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Willes set aside the objection.

5840. Mr. Huddleston (to the Witness).] I leave out the words, “I suppose” and “of course”; but have you paid for that vehicle?—I have not paid for that vehicle myself.

5841. Are you liable for it?—I do not know that I am liable for it.

5842. Have you made any claim?—I have not.

5843. Mr. Justice Willes.] Who paid for it?—My son paid for it.

5844. What age is he?—Thirty-two years of age, I think.

5845. Is he in business for himself?—Yes.

5846. Has he asked you to repay him?—No. My son is a grocer by trade.

[The Witness withdrew.

NOAH COX, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

5847. You are a voter, I believe, for Coventry?—No; I am not a voter at all.

5848. Do you reside at Leicester?—Yes.

275.

5849. And I think you are an engine driver?—Yes, I am.

5850. Were you with Mr. Burrows on this Monday

B. Burrows.

19 February 1869.

N. Cox.

N. Cox. Monday night—the nomination night—at the “Talbot,” at Leicester?—Yes.
 19 February 1869. 5851. When the other Coventry men were present?—Yes; there was two or three and twenty Coventry men, I should think.

5852. Were you sitting or standing near to Burrows, so as to hear what was said, and to see what was done?—I sat close to him.

5853. Did Burrows speak to the men generally; of course he did not say anything to them separately, but did he say anything to the lot of them?—The men seemed to be enjoying themselves drinking, and paying for it among themselves.

5854. Did he say anything at all about their being prepared to vote?—He asked them if they were voters.

5855. Did you see him read their names out from a book or a register?—Yes.

5856. Did you hear him say anything at all, or hear anyone say anything about making them all right?—No.

5857. Or about their being satisfied, or anything of that sort?—Not a word. I sat close to, and I must have heard if it had been said; but it was not said.

5858. Did you hear one of them ask if they should be paid their expenses?—No.

5859. And, at all events, nothing was said about their being made “all right,” or “satisfied”?—No, I never heard anything.

5860. Mr. Justice Willes.] You are sure that nobody mentioned anything about paying for their loss of time?—No; nothing at all was said, in my hearing, and I sat close to him.

5861. And nothing was said about their not having refreshments?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES KILBEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

J. Kilbey. 5862. To what ward do you belong?—To Bishop-street ward.

5863. I see you are the ward manager, or chairman of that ward?—Yes.

5864. I believe you take a considerable interest in politics, and have always been a Conservative?—I have always been a Conservative, and I take an interest in politics to some extent.

5865. I think, first in order of date, there was something said about a supper at Radford, was it?—Yes.

5866. First of all, how long was that before the election?—To the best of my remembrance, it was on the statute day in Coventry. That would be about the 12th or 13th of October.

5867. That would be nearly a month before the election?—A month and a few days besides.

5868. Was that before Mr. Hill's address had come out?—Yes; I had heard nothing of Mr. Hill's address at that time.

5869. What was this supper?—We considered it a supper for the registration.

5870. What was provided?—It has always been customary in that ward, when the men had prepared their list for the barrister, to have a supper.

5871. They did have a supper upon that occasion?—Yes, they did.

5872. Who provided the viands; the eatables?—I believe the ward men; the men who worked in the ward.

5873. Did you provide anything?—I did not.

5874. Then who paid for the drink?—There was a man went round the room, whose name was Joseph Cooper, with a plate; I saw a man put 2s. upon that plate; he handed it all round the room, and he collected a certain amount of money, but I cannot tell how much.

5875. Amongst the guests present?—Yes.

5876. The drink was paid for amongst yourselves?—Yes.

5877. Had that supper, or the payment of it, anything whatsoever to do with the election, or the election expenses?—Certainly not.

5878. Was it with reference to the coming election that that supper was given?—Not the slightest whatever.
